Cancer Deaths Among Blacks Rising Fast

By Paul H. Wyche, Jr.
National Black
News Service

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — Cancer deaths among blacks in America has risen an alarming 32 per cent between 1949 and 1967, according to a report prepared by researchers at Howard University.

"This is an astounding change for such a short period of only 18 years," the Howard researchers said.

From 1949 to 1967, the study said, cancer death rates for non-whites rose by 32 per cent — from 138 to 182 per 100,000 population. For whites, the rates rose from 149 to 154 per 100,000, an increase of 3 per cent.

The cancer mortality rate for nonwhites was 8 per cent lower than for whites in 1949, but in 1967 it was 18 per cent higher.

"There have been other references to the rapid increase of certain cancers in U. S. blacks," the doctors said, "but the magnitude and the implications of this alarming rate of black cancer mortality has not been highlighted before."

The Howard researchers, who prepared the paper for a joint meeting of the American Padium Society, the James Ewing Society, and the Society of Head and Neck Surgeons, said the figures are age-adjusted mortality rates for all cancers, obtained from federal figures. Of the nonwhites, they said, 91 per cent are blacks.

The Howard doctors said greater exposure to cancer causing substances in the environment of blacks "must be suspected as the main cause for the faster increase of the black cancer mortality."

Although they did not guess what the substances might be, they did say: "A thorough analysis of these findings appears essential to stem the rise of black cancer deaths."

Figures compiled by the American Cancer Society showed that in 1967 the death rate from cancer for blacks was about 20 per cent higher than for whites in the United States.

The principal cancer increase, the survey showed, was among black men, mainly in cancer of the prostate and cancer of the esophagus.

Among the cancer sites for which black death rates were higher were: BLACKS twice as high; uterus, blacks 2.5 times as high; prostate, 2 times as high; pharynx, 1.5 times as high, and liver, 1.5 times as high.

Results from the Third National Cancer Survey, conducted by the National Cancer Institute, were much the same as the Howard study.

The study last year covered the state of Iowa as well as the urban areas of Detroit, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Birmingham, Dallas - Fort Worth, Denver, San Francisco - Oakland, and Minneapolis - St. Paul.

Bobby Seale For Mayor

OAKLAND, CALIF. — (NBNS) — Making good on his pledge to work within the system, Black Panther Party Chairman Bobby Seale kicked off a campaign for Mayor of Oakland will a call for community control of police and a ceiling on rents.

NEW YORK — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has withdrawn from involvement with the National Black Political Convention "because of a difference in ideology as to how to win equality for the Negro minority in the United States."

Announcement of the NAACP decision was made here today, May 16, by Roy Wilkins, the Association's executive director, in a five-page letter dispatched May 3. Mr. Wilkins today released the text of his letter to the NBPC's three co-chairmen, Congressman Charles C. Diggs, Jr., (D-Mich.), Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, and Imamu Amiri Baraka, poet - playwright and community leader in the City of Newark.

The letter was sent to the co-chairmen three days prior to the follow-up meeting of the convention in Greensboro, N.C., on May 6. At that gathering the National Black Political Agenda, to most of which the NAACP took strong exception, was ratified.

Mr. Wilkins singled out for special condemnation the anti-Israel and anti-busing resolutions which came out of the convention. His letter termed the anti-Israel resolution a "one-sided condemnation." He stated that on the school busing issue the NAACP reaffirms "our commitment to quality integrated schooling" and he characterized opposition to busing for that purpose as "either self-seeking, misguided or hysterical."

Tell of Letter

The full text of the letter follows:

I write this to you in your capacity as a Co-Chairman of the recent National Black Political Convention, as the date (May 6) approaches for another interim meeting of the Steering Committee charged with preparations for the National Black Assembly meeting scheduled for later this month. ...

1. The Morsell memorandum of March 10, 1972, to the NAACP's Black Political Convention delegates set forth the basis on which the NAACP might be able to support or endorse the National Political Agenda to be adopted by the Convention. That memorandum said that the draft preamble to the Black Political Agenda was at odds with the NAACP's basic principles. It declared that, "If the agenda adopted by the Convention turns out to be consistent with the draft preamble, the agenda also will be impossible for the NAACP to endorse." What we warned against has happened.

2. The overwhelming bulk of the several thousand black Americans who gathered at Gary were motivated by a profound desire to reach a common ground of concerns, propositions and strategies upon which meaningful political action could be based....

3. The NAACP believes that the true spirit of Gary has been badly served by the documents that have emerged from it. Even though it is still technically true that the policy positions, "resolutions," assertions and strategy alternatives associated with the Gary meeting remain tentative, it is quite clear from the follow-up deliberations of the Steering Committee that no thoroughgoing modifications in tone, language or meaning can be expected.

Accepts Some Goals

4. There are, of course, some objectives cited in the Gary documents with which the NAACP is in entire agreement. They are, as a matter of act, goals which have long been integral to NAACP policies and programs. Among them are:

- an adequate guaranteed annual income for U.S. families.
- an end to capital punishment.
- an end to U.S. involvement in the Indo-withholding of tax money from agencies and institutions that discriminate.

China war.

strengthening the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission.

civilian review boards to deal with charges of police brutality.

increased economic aid to the black African nations.

an end to the traffic in narcotics, and adequate treatment programs for addicts.

an end to discriminatory practices by labor unions.

support of the U. N. Genocide Treaty.

national health insurance program.

assistance to returning veterans.

integrated quality education.

to cite only a few. Regrettably, the Gary meetings did not address themselves to intensified and realistic commitment to goals such as these, upon which there is genuine consensus in the black community....

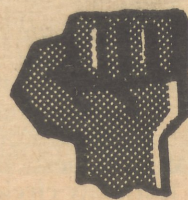

Platform Unchanged

5. The "National Black Political Agenda," which was developed at Gary from preliminary drafts by the Platform Committee, retains the draft preamble to which the NAACP initially took exception....

To Stand Trial

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U. S. Supreme Court denied a hearing to Illinois State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan of Chicago and 13 others which means they must stand trial for a 1969 Black Panther raid that killed Fred Hampton.

Hanrahan, Assistant State's Attorney Richard Jlovec and 12 Chicago policemen were indicted by a Grand Jury and charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

WASHINGTON—(NBNS)—The men who make their living in political campaigns, the professional political consultants, are mystified by the overwhelming black vote for Senator Hubert Humphrey.

Attuned to the forces of change in politics and American society they are astonished that black voters in state after state are giving their support to an old established political name, "shopworn" he is called in some circles, instead of the "now" candidates—Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm or Senator George McGovern.

The mystery of the black vote was the subject of examination by the American Association of Political Consultants at its annual spring seminar in the nation's capital.

The answer to the question troubling the political consultants proved relatively simple. According to the several panels of knowledgeable black politicians and political scientists, the reasons for strong black preferences for Senator Humphrey are obvious:

1. Blacks have a high regard for the vote which they have won through so much effort and want their votes to count—therefore, they give their support to candidates they think have a chance of winning and of doing something about the problems black Americans face.

Therefore, they vote for Senator Humphrey who has a lifelong record of concern for civil rights and for black economic opportunities, however much they may admire the bold candidacy of a Shirley Chisholm or the anti-establishment views of a George McGovern.

2. Registered black voters tend to be established, cautious, conservative men and women, the representatives of a black establishment which precedes the civil rights movement and the nationalist trend of recent years.

3. Young blacks are so alienated by the political system that they are not registered and are not represented in the primary votes which are the current focus of national political attention.

The validity of these propositions have not been tested, the political consultants acknowledge. They realize that they have only begun to understand that the black community is not a monolithic, bloc vote which can be predicted with ease by the political experts.

For the first time, the political professionals are beginning to study seriously the political concerns of black Americans.

Texas Black Woman To Congress

Senator Barbara Jordan

HOUSTON, TEXAS—(NBNS) — Texas State Senator Barbara Jordan is the overwhelming favorite to swamp her Republican opponent this November 7 and join Shirley Chisholm in Washington's most exclusive of clubs—black women members in Congress.

Ms. Jordan, 36, who has achieved a series of "Firsts" in Texas politics if about to claim another as the first black as well as the first black woman to ever represent Texas in the United States House of Representatives.

Ms. Jordan's legislative and educational background is as impressive as the votes that the electorate in Houston's new 18th Congressional District gave her earlier this month when she clobbered four male Democrats by accruing 80.4 percent of the vote.

The certainty of her victory this fall is evidenced by the fact that 60,000 Democrats voted in the Democratic primary while the Republican contest in the new district drew a scant 2,000 votes.

The new Congresswoman will bring the causes she championed in the Texas State Senate to the floor of the House of Representatives with equal fervor, Ms. Jordan told the National Black News Service in an exclusive interview just after her triumph at the polls.

Those issues are adequate health care, high-quality and equal educational opportunities, improvement of working conditions for men and women, human rights legislation and programs to improve the quality of life in America's cities.

"The new 18th Congressional District is the urban core carved out of the heart of Houston. All of the ills of the city are telescoped in this district," Ms. Jordan said.

"There is a high percentage of poor and black unemployment is 10 per cent for the Houston area.

"Health care is a very crucial issue in the district and I would like to do some work in that area to achieve national health insurance and neighborhood health care centers.

"I am very much in favor of a national day care program and count welfare reform on the list of reforms," said the woman named in the January, 1971, issue of Harpers Bazaar

Magazine as one of the "100 Women in Touch With Our Time."

A Magna Cum Laude graduate of Texas Southern University in 1956 and the Boston University School of Law in 1959, Ms. Jordan is a practicing attorney. Her political career began in the Texas Senate in 1966 where she became the first black woman Senator in Texas, the first black since 1883 to serve in the Texas Senate, the first black to preside over the Texas Senate and the first black to preside over a State Senate in the United States.

Named by former President Johnson to the Commission on Income Maintenance Programs, Ms. Jordan sees income maintenance "as a way out of poverty."

"The government has the resources to do what it wants to do if it wants to do it, including providing an adequate standard of living. I don't buy the argument that to do so would bankrupt the government," she said.

"Tax reform certainly is one way to free more federal funds for social welfare programs," Ms. Jordan said in criticizing the proposed $2,400 a year minimum guaranteed income measure pending in Congress which she said was a measure "designed to hold people in poverty."

In case anyone has any doubts, Ms. Jordan plans to become an active member of the Congressional Black Caucus which seems assured to grow at least one member

A STORY ON EARL E. HUTCHINSON was a command performance in that his colleagues, friends and associates asked "Why don't you write about Earl Hutchinson? He's always doing lots of things in the community!" So here is Earl Hutchinson!

HUTCH LEFT HIGH SCHOOL IN 1952. Spent 3½ years in the army. Following this, married his wife, the former Rose Jefferson. The couple has six children: Edward 19, David 17, Gary 16, Michael 15, Richard 13 and Kathy 9.

HE FOUND EMPLOYMENT AT THE WAKONDA CLUB: next he turned to construction and then janitorial service. He spent a short time with GSA and in 1965 entered his present position of supply clerk of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division, Department of the Treasury, located in the Federal Building.

AMONG HIS DUTIES IS TO DISBURSE Federal Savings Bonds and materials concerning savings bonds. Plugging bonds as "a good, long range investment, Hutchinson displayed ready enthusiasm. He began "For example, say a person bought an $18.75 bond; this can be held and it will continue to draw interest; or it can be cashed at the end of five years when it will have reached maturity; that is its worth of $25.00!" I challenged the bond interest as opposed to outside interest rates. This was a mistake. Hutch replied that "Beginning with the word 'guarantee' the U. S. Savings Bond's interest is guaranteed and will not fluctuate!"

FOR THE PAST FIFTEEN YEARS, Hutchinson has been a Little League baseball coach. His five sons were always on someone else's team, were good players and responsible for his teams being beat! For example, his youngest son, Richard 13, pitches for the Dodgers. Hutch coaches the Giants. Richard and his teammates have beaten the Giants for the past three years! It gets to be really irritating at times. He takes great pride in beating his old man's team. But says Hutch, we leave the ball games at the park!

DURING THE EDUCATIONAL CHARRETTE, involving planning of the replacements for Bird, Grant and Nash - Kirkwood, he became caught up in this civic work. He worked on the Steering Committee to plan The Charrette. During the Charrette, he was discussion leader for the Bird - Grant educational program.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT NEXT CAPTURED his interest. He was elected to the Neighborhood Priority Board for the Woodland Willkie Area. He was elected chairman of the Priority Board and from that Board elected to the Central Advisory Board. This brings Hutch up to February 18, 1972, when the Central Advisory Board has completed its last sessions held February 11, 12 and 13, and finds it organizing the conclusions reached at that time, preparatory to next steps determined upon.

NOW TO MRS. HUTCHINSON! After entering their youngest child, the couple's daughter, into school, Mrs. Hutchinson went through MDTA for six months. Upon completion of this, she began work at Northwest Bell Telephone Company in CTI. Not long ago she was promoted from an A to a B CLERK.

WITHOUT REFERENCE TO WOMEN'S LIB, Hutch described with pride his wife's participation in outside work, her involvement with people, her self confidence. Her home and family are her main concerns in life and she brings her enthusiasm into the home. He describes her as being one of the beautiful people. Adds that she accomplishes this naturally!

All in all I can see why Hutch's friends find him to be the successful person he is. And shall we add that behind every successful man is that certain type of woman. The type he declares Mrs. Hutch to be! (Thanks again, Hutch!)

MET KENNETH R. COLLINS, a junior at Simpson College, where he majors in sociology. Collins enjoys two grants, an Iowa tuition grant and a law enforcement grant. He was recently awarded The Governor's Grant. Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Harris.

Young-Holt Unlimited Visits Des Moines

When the Ramsey Lewis group broke up a few years back, two excellent musicians, who helped Lewis grab a Grammy award, found themselves looking for a direction.

Actually the direction was pre-supposed. They has already made it in the jazz world, and the obvious decision was to bring their music to the pop field.

Eldee Young and Red Holt put together Young - Holt Unlimited and surrounded themselves with other competent musicians. Now, with four or five albums under their belts, they have been recognized, but in a rather shallow attitude. "Soulful Strut" has characterized them as a light jazzy group with soul intonations.

Actually the group is a more well-rounded group of people trying to present their interpretations of feelings through the medium of jazzy soul music, at times a bit pop, but usually musically more interpretative than the shallow pop field.

NAACP

Additionally, in instance after instance, the Agenda speels out its separatist and nationalist intent by specific calls for black control of all the economic, social and political agencies, undertakings and institutions presently to be found in the black communities and neighborhoods. At almost no point does the Agenda also demand an equitable black share of control in institutions and agencies now controlled and dominated by whites....

6. Specific reference must be made to two propositions of the Gary Convention which we not only find repugnant to our basic principles but which we must vigorously and unqualifiedly oppose. I am speaking here of the anti - Israel and the anti - busing statements, and our objection to them is not reduced by the half - hearted and awkward revisions which they have undergone subsequent to the Gary meetings. We believe that they should have been eliminated in toto.

On Israel: We have not only consistently supported Israel's right to exist in peace as a nation, but we have applauded her democratic achievements in the struggle to maintain justice for her racially nations in Black Africa....

On Busing: We reaffirm our commitments to quality integrated schooling as essential to an integrated society and, above all, to the equal education for white and black children which the Constitution and all morality require. We vigorously support busing as a necessary means to achieve much school integration and we believe opposition to it is either self-seeking, misguided or hysterical. We must reject a statement of policy which gives half-hearted or meaningless endorsement to busing while in fact calling for abandonment of the fight against segregation.

For all these reasons, the National Associations for the Advancement of Colored People cannot join in the National Black Assembly or in any continuing activity or program sponsored, led or dominated by the structure which was responsible for the staging of the Black Political Convention, for the agenda under which it proceeded, or for the findings and resolutions issued by the Convention.

Our action is taken primarily because of a difference in ideology as to how to win equality for the Negro minority in the United States

This goal is far from being achieved, despite the progress that has been made. We do not believe, from a purely pragmatic standpoint, that an isolated black population of 11 per cent can survive and progress in a nation where the overwhelmingly white population is 89 per cent.

NAACP strategy, accordingly, will continue, regardless of setbacks, to be one of the pressing, on all fronts, in every field of endeavor, and by every productive method for the freedom of the individual to win equality under the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. Needless to say, we continue to welcome the cooperation of all who share our commitment.

Threaten Black School

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — The Internal Revenue Service has told the Palmer Memorial Institute of Sedalia, N.C., that its tax-exempt status may be revoked because the school does not admit non-blacks.

Tax men said they have surveyed 4,045 private schools and found that 3,902 have conformed to the non-discrimination requirements.

During press conference, Sen. George McGovern listens intently as Mrs. Coretta Scott King, widow of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., endorses him.

LOS ANGELES — (NBNS) — Asserting that Sen. George McGovern would "bring an end to the era of division in our nation and usher in a new era of reconciliation," Mrs. Coretta King endorsed the South Dakotan in his bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Mrs. King, widow of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., chose California to make her announcement, a show-down state where the winner will capture 271 delegates to the Democratic Convention

Preventing Garden Accidents

With warm weather finally here, many of us begin working in our gardens. This is a wonderful time of year for us but one which can be filled with gardening dangers.

The factors which cause most gardening accidents are: carelessness, hurrying and overwork. Following are accidents that occur most frequently and how to avoid them:

Falls - Always pick up after yourself. Store your tools in a wheelbarrow, cart or grocery carton. This also saves time wasted in looking for mislaid tools. Never carry loads so bulky that you can't see ahead. Also, watch for holes in the ground, even shallow ones.

Strains - To avoid straining muscles or connective tissue, bend your legs as you reach down for a load. This will put part of the strain on the leg muscles when you lift instead of putting all of it on the abdominal and back muscles. Wheel a load to avoid the strain. If you use a wheelbarrow, position the bulk of the load directly over the wheel to save your arms. And on a soft surface, pull don't push the wheelbarrow.

Power tools - Read the instruction booklet. If electric, it should be grounded and if an extension cord is needed, but a heavy-duty one intended for outdoor use. Never wear loose-fitting, flapping clothes that can get caught in the machinery.

Pest Controls - Even the least dangerous pesticides can irritate skin or sinuses. If squirted in the eye, wash it with a gentle stream of plain water for several minutes and then consult a doctor. Keep all sprays or dusts in their original labeled containers out of the reach of children. Read labels carefully before using pesticides. Keep a set of spoons that you can use for measuring pesticides only. When spraying or dusting wear gloves and even goggles. Any clothing worn should be washed afterward.

Dellums Exposes Report

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — While the Senate battled furiously over whether Senator Mike Gravel

(D-Alaska) could put a secret 1969 report on Vietnam in the Congressional Record, Rep. Ron V. Dellums spread it on the record without asking anyone.

Dellums inserted the document in the Congressional Record under the routine unanimous consent procedures of the House of Representatives. The question of whether the report could be put in the Record forced the Senate into a rare secret session and aroused bitter controversy without coming to a conclusion.

Planning to travel through Ohio this summer? If so, good news is in store.

Standard Oil Company will again operate its fleet of courtesy cars along Ohio's major interstate highways. Car drivers will offer assistance to stranded motorists free of charge.

The cars are equipped with emergency supplies of gasoline, water, oil and compressed air as well as tire jacks, first aid kits and fire extinguishers.

Last year, the courtesy cars helped more than 7,500 motorists who had tire problems, overheated engines and dry gasoline tanks.

Hertz Rent-A-Car Corporation is reportedly "trying harder" to be Number 1 in race relations in addition to the car rental business. The firm recently opened its first Black-operated Rent-A-Car franchise in Chicago.

A group of hotel executives from Ghana and Nigeria is reportedly studying, in New York City, the psychology of the American tourist who visits Africa on vacation or safari.

The group hopes to learn more about what to expect from the American tourist — a comparatively new phenomenon — in order to improve service in general.

Last year, approximately 150,000 Americans including a substantial number of Blacks toured Ghana alone. This figure represents an increase of at least 10 per cent from the previous year.

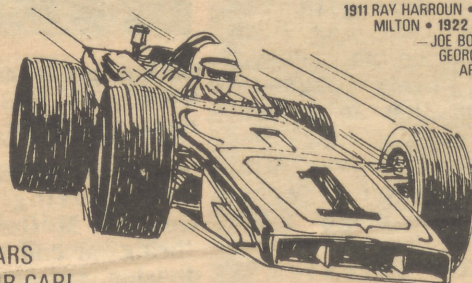

Recently, a Black purchased a prominent Houston, Texas hotel. In the 1950's, the same man states that he was not even permitted to park his taxi on the same side of the street where the hotel stood.

Now, as the new owner, he plans to spend approximately $500,000 remodeling the 10-story, 150-room William Penn Hotel which should be a comfortable haven for any traveler to the Houston area.

Sports Then

With Allen Ashby

Just about everybody who has anything to do with tennis is wanting to help black kids get interested in tennis. They have this program, the brainchild of Arthur Ash, in which the game is handled like a little league baseball or football setup. The kids are given the equipment and sent out to play. Those who like the game will ask for instructions, it is hoped, and they will get to keep the equipment. Anyhow, it is to be a series of team matches with four people to a team, and I hope they have fun. Chet Williamson says, "What couldn't we have done with a setup like that." And he is right. When we came along there weren't too many black tennis players. There wasn't more than one playing in any of the meets around here. There were two that you could play in; the city meet, and the state meet if it was held in Des Moines.

But the guy who led the way for Chet, Bill Ashby and me was Charles Howard. Charley wasn't the greatest tennis player I ever saw, but he would get in these meets and lecture to me, telling me to get in even if I didn't have a chance to beat anybody, because some day there would come along a black player who would be good enough to compete with the best. And Charley insisted that we dress properly, be clean shaven and well groomed. He argued that appearance was half the battle in getting into these meets. So, I got in and along came Chet and Bill. We nearly always played the top seeded players in the first round or each other. For three years I played the state singles champion in the opening round of the state meet. But we got in, and battled as best we could. When the playground meet was added to our list that we could enter, Bill and Chet just about always met each other in the early rounds or not later than the semi final round, but I don't think they ever met in the final round.

Our big trouble was finding time to play and getting to meet good players. When we showed up at public tennis courts, the better players just didn't have time to play us, and the dubs wanted no part of us, so we had to play each other most of the time. Given the competition that kids can get now, one of us might have done a lot better than we did. I recall one state meet in which Bill and I were entered in the men's doubles. Our opponents were a couple of guys from Texas, and they refused to play us. So Bill and I were defaulted. Well, that just about started a civil war, and it never happened again. I have never seen so many mad white people because of that deal. Chet and Ted Martin drew a couple of kids from Oklahoma in the state junior doubles, but the kids played them after they got over their shock at seeing them.

But things got better after that with the advent of our Hilltop club. Then, when tennis sunk to a new low in Des Moines, we were asked to make our club have an open meet so everybody could play. Intergration in reverse. The thing got bigger and bigger, with the help of the University of Iowa tennis coach who wanted to use our meet as a proving ground for his juniors. And they have been doing that for twenty five years. We have seen a lot of kids get their start in our Hilltop meet and go on to national ranking. It wouldn't surprise me if one of them didn't turn out to be Mark Morrow who cut his teeth on our meet.

GOT LOTS OF TIME NOW.—This picture was taken between the first and second games of the National Basketball Association playoffs, but now Walt Frazier has plenty of time to spend with his lion cubs. This cub belongs to Frazier the Lion, famed Lion Country Safari Lion. Walt Frazier and the New York Knicks lost the N.B.A. championship to the Los Angeles Lakers in five games.—(UPI Photo).

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WILLE! — Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants takes a piece of his birthday cake that was presented to him by the Phillies prior to last Saturday's game. Willie was 41 years old — (UPI Photo).

DO I REALLY WANT TO SIGN.—There seems to be some doubt in Vida Blue's mind as the 1971 Most Valuable Player wrinkles his nose as he fakes his contract signing in the office of Joe Cronin, president of the American League. Blue ended his hold-out by signing for $63-thousand.

on the scene.... African Liberation Now

Group after group of fully-armed women fighters moving up to the battlefield: such is the scene in the liberated areas of Mozambique, where heroic women are fighting in the thick of battle for national liberation and for national independence. Boldly they advance. Ammunition and food supplies on their heads, overcoming, all difficulties and hardships as they travel through tortuous transport lines. Guerrilla units of young women, full of vigour and vitality, and with a deep hatred for the Portuguese colonialists, they train hard to equip themselves to wipe out the enemy.

In the liberated areas, organized groups of women also work, pick in one hand and rifle in the other, developing production to support the frontline fighters. Alert and on guard, they work in their posts constructing and defending the liberated areas.

Tempered in protracted struggle, the Mozambique women undertake heroic exploits in the struggle for national independence.

They Want Liberation, They Are Determined To Fight.

The Mozambique labouring women suffered brutal enslavement and oppression under the rule of the Portuguese colonialists. Many of them have been uprooted from their homes and forced at the point of bayonet to go to the so called "strategic villages" to produce rice for the Portuguese colonial troops. Colonial troops also force them to line up as a cover behind which they hide when guerrillas attack the enemy posts. Every woman in the "strategic villages", domination. Guerrilla Rita Mulumbua said, "the enemy at the Muidumbe Post forced my 12-year-old cousin and me to grow rice for him in a 'strategic hamlet'. Unfortunately, my cousin failed to harvest the 15 bags demanded; she was beaten up and her father was taken away to serve eight months in forced labour as 'compensation' for the inadequate output."

Her anger increasing as she talked, Rita gave us more examples of the infamy of the Portuguese colonialists: "The enemy didn't spare some neighbours of mine. They took away the man, violated his wife, and threw their one-year-old baby into the wood nearby. We have not been able to find out what eventually happened to the humiliated woman."

Women fighter Rita is firmly convinced, "the only way to liberation for the suffering Mozambique women is by taking up arms and fighting like their men for national independence and for the expulsion of the Portuguese colonialists from our country."

The women of Mozambique have awakened in their struggle against Portuguese colonialists' ruthless oppression. They have found the bright way leading to national independence and their own emancipation. Inspired by the armed struggle of the Mozambique people, the first armed contingent of patriotic women came into being early in 1967. Since then, the number in this special contingent has grown from one or two dozen to several hundred. In their units they study politics, military affairs, reading and writing. These ordinary country women once enslaved and despised have become regardless of age health, is forced to produce 15 bags of rice every year from an allocated piece of land. Those who fail to do so are ruthlessly beaten, some even tortured to death.

During our visit, many Mozambique women indignantly denouncing the towering crimes of the Portuguese colonialists, related to us their miserable experiences under colonial staunch fighters.

Arriving at a training camp of the patriotic armed forces, we saw a column of women guerrillas marching past in well disciplined order. Fully armed and singing revolutionary songs, they marched off high morale to carry out a mission.

Fighting On Transportation Front.

We visited a women's detachment which has made a great contribution to the fight for liberation. Last July with flying colours, it accomplished its task of transporting ammunition to the front and was commended by the defense department of the armed forces.

We found that this detachment was made up of young women all eager to go into action. When they learned that ammunition was urgently needed at the front, they asked to be given the arduous mission of transporting it. The youngest of them 12-year-old Malya, did not want to be left behind and sought permission to go with the others. Her comrades told her she was too young for the task. She refused to stay behind saying "I joined the guerrillas to fight. It is true that I am young, but I'm a fighter, am I not?"

The women's detachment had to travel several hundred kilometres, each one carrying her battle gear, bedding and provisions, in addition to 30 kilogrammes of ammunition on her head. Passing through dense forests and climbing mountains they marched over ten hours a day. This was a severe test for the women fighters.

On their way they arrived at the foot of a high mountain, difficult to climb. The detachment leader talked the matter over with her comrades. The women fighters decided, "the mountain would be climbed even if it were higher. We are determined to get the ammunition to the front line fighters in time!" The stronger ones carried their load of ammunition to the top of the mountain, then went back to help the younger and weaker comrades - in - arms. The detachment leader kindly inquired from Malya if she needed any help. Without hesitation she replied, "It's a pity I'm so young. Otherwise, I could help the others!" The courage of this staunch young fighter was a deep inspiration to her comrades - in - arms who all praised her saying, "She is young, but she has great determination."

As the detachment neared the front, enemy shells came whizzing close by them, some falling and exploding quite near. Fearless, they continued to march forward. Malya, the courageous young girl fighter, was always near the head of the column.

One night, as they were crossing the blockade line near an enemy stronghold, the enemy strafed them. They decided to push on towards their goal. Leaving several fighters behind to engage the enemy, the main force went on at the double. Those left behind subsequently got safely through the blockade line.

The women's detachment reached their destination after marching for 6 days. The battle was at its height and they lost no time in carrying the ammunition to the advance position, thus providing powerful support to their comrades.

Remember Malcolm Part II

By Glenn T. McKinney

It is very convenient to briefly trace the turbulent life of Malcolm through the sundry names he was known by, from neo - slave to Black Muslim revolutionary.

Malcom Little was born
May 19, 1925, in Omaha, Nebraska.

His father, a baptist minister and a dedicated organizer for Marcus Garvey's U.N.I.A., was later murdered in East Lansing, Michigan, by the Ku Klux Klan. His mother, swelled with pride, tried with all her power to keep the family united after her husband's death. Welfare, courts, and other whites undermined her efforts, which led to a nervous breakdown and incarceration in a state mental hospital.

Malcolm and his brothers and sisters were sent to live with various relatives. His adolescence was spent in detention homes and reformatories which characterizes modern - day slavery.

When school no longer sufficed his growth to manhood, he left to go East.
He was given the country name, "homeboy" by a brother named, Shorty, who also came from Lansing. It didn't take Malcolm long to get hip to street life.

Malcolm became "Red" once he became a veteran of the streets, pimping, hustling and pushing. The name
"Red" stood for his hair that had been processed. He described it later as an outward example of his degradation.

The next pseudo-nym for Malcolm is Satan. His life style in the concrete jungle ended with a prison term for a crime against property to insure his survival. He earned the name Satan for his blasphemy against God and the Bible.

While in prison, some of Malcolm's brothers and sisters sent word to "stop eating the filthy pig." It was the beginning of one of the most amazing transitions a man had ever gone through.
Later they introduced him to Elijah Muhammad's Muslim movement which proclaimed the white man "the devil."

Malcolm obtained from all unhealthy tendencies, became self - educated and when he got out attained the heights of No. 2 man in the Muslim movement. This is when he dropped the slave name Little and adopted the X.

When the movement became narrow and sectarian, Malcolm was ousted from the organization. This was all he needed to become one of the most truth - searing orators of this century.

Later on a trip abroad to Africa, students dubbed him Onowale. In the Yoruba language this means "the son who has come home."

Malcolm had arrived when converted to orthodox Islam, he finally attained the status of Muslim Black

Tighter Controls For Welfare Mothers?

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — The Senate Finance Committee has further tightened state welfare rules for low-income mothers with children under 6, and decided to prevent HEW from blocking its tough requirements.

The committee, which is continuing to work on a massive Social Security and welfare bill, has indicated its intent to get states to tighten eligibility rules and procedures so that more money will be left for those really needing welfare assistance.

Some 1.8 million mothers—who have children under school age and therefore can't work—would be affected by the new rules, if both Houses of Congress approve them.

The major provisions approved by the committee would forbid further use of the "declaration method" of filing for welfare benefits, which does away with routine investigations and gives benefits solely on an applicant's declaration of need.

Under this method, there are spot checks to catch cheating, but the committee bill would require investigations of each applicant with a few added requirements, including a redetermination of eligibility every six months, with loss of benefits for refusal to let a caseworker into the house.

The Senate committee would also repeal existing law giving HEW general authority to issue regulations on how states shall administer welfare, and specify that regulations could be issued only where Congress expressly provides for them on specific subjects.

States would be subject to a loss of 1 percentage point of its federal matching payment for each percentage point by which cheaters and other ineligible exceed 3 per cent of its total recipients.

The national ratio is 5 per cent, so states could stand to lose substantially, if they don't start tightening their requirements and enforcement.

At the urging of the National Organization of Women (NOW), a women's liberation group, the committee said it would allow wives to use the Internal Revenue Service to track down runaway fathers who refuse to make child support payments.

Although the new provisions were made under the welfare reform bill, it would apply to all mothers, not only those on welfare.

Mothers could seek help from IRS in locating the vanished father, and whenever taxes were withheld from his salary, the IRS would be obliged to tell the mother where he could be found. She then could ask the court to issue an order requiring him to make the support payments. If he refused, the mothers could attach the salaries of husbands. An attachment is an automatic claim on a salary ordered by the court.

The committee-approved bill would also instruct HEW to establish regional laboratories where blood typing could be done to establish paternity in cases where the male claims he is not the father.

It would also permit statewide programs requiring work or training as a condition of welfare eligibility, and require that half of the HEW welfare demonstration grant to any state be used for projects to determine ways to reduce the number of welfare clients.

The committee is expected to continue work on the new welfare reform bill for another three weeks.
