'Black Summit Conference Needed,' Jesse Says

DETROIT—Black civil rights leaders worked closer together 10 years ago than they do today, Rev. Jesse Jackson says, and he believes a summit conference of "about 10" black leaders would help solve the dilemma.

Addressing a press conference shortly before his appearance before the 63rd annual convention of the NAACP, Jackson said the summit conference of black leaders would be helpful in formulating solutions to many of the problems blacks face in 1972.

"We've got to move immediately to the necessary meeting," Jackson told the newsmen covering the convention. He maintained the conference of 10 black leaders would be far more effective than "3,000 black people at an uncontrollable convention."

Observers close to Jackson said the director of the People United to Save Humanity (PUSH) was referring to the March convention in Gary, Indiana of the National Black Political Convention, which among other things, condemned busing as a tool to achieve racial desegregation and was highly critical of Israeli "expansionism."

"The big five (leaders of civil rights organization) decided on a march on Washington and to confront the Labor Department, and the nation listened and could not play one against the other," Jackson said.

"Then, to some extent we had more unity. Now we must move off each other's backs without threatening individual existence."

Unless blacks unite, said Jackson who is supporting the Democratic nominee, President Nixon would be assured re-election.

"If President Nixon gets 20 per cent of the black vote he's going to be unbeatable. If he only gets 5 per cent, he's in trouble."

Jackson said the meeting should include black leaders like Roy Wilkins, of the NAACP; Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr.; Roy Innis, of the Congress of Racial

Urban League Gets Million To Help Job Trainees

WASHINGTON—(NBNS)—The National Urban League has been awarded two contracts totaling close to $1 million to assist the Department of Transportation in improving job opportunities for minority groups.

In an announcement late last week, Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said one contract, for $564,000 was awarded to the league to provide support for trainees enrolled in on-the-job highway construction programs. Trainees in this program learn construction skills through Federal Highway Administration.

In the second contract, the Urban League will be undertaking an indepth study of 25 aviation cities and the job skills required at each of them. DOT will attempt to then match the available employment skill of minority groups with these. This grant totals $435,000.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE SCHOLARSHIP WINNER - Don Pedro De Silva, right, of Providence, R.I., receive the Internal Revenue Service Scholarship Award from Providence District Director John J. O'Brien. De Silva is graduating from a local high school and was selected by a panel made up of representatives from Internal Revenue Service and the Providence School Department and will major in accounting at Northeastern University. The Internal Revenue Service Scholarship provides up to $5000 per year to a deserving, disadvantaged high school senior. It provides for reimbursement for tuition, matriculation fees, travel to and from college and employment as a cooperative work study student while attending college.

Black Mother Testifies: About Drug-Crazed Son

MIAMI—Choking tears, Mrs. Prescole Beneby told a congressional committee here how her son Alvin, strung out on heroin, strangled his baby sister while she beat helplessly on a locked bedroom door.

"I was in my bedroom and one of the children, they called for me and said: 'Mom, he has Beverly.' And then I heard the screaming."

"I went toward the bedroom and it was locked. I tried to get in but I could not and there he was strangling my little baby girl...I could hear her voice screaming until she could not say anything else...Later on, she was dead."

Mrs. Beneby, mother of six children at the time of the tragic episode, testified along with two other parents before the Select Committee on Crime of the U.S. House of Representatives. The committee, headed by Chairman Claude Pepper (D-Fla.), was in Miami to gather evidence to bring to Washington in order to get the Federal Government to release funds to assist school systems around the country to check narcotics addicts and drug abusers and find help for them.

Mrs. Beneby, a black woman, was representative of the parents who have gone to schools, police and courts in a futile effort to find treatment for their children who have acquired drug habits.

"Where my son is now," Mrs. Beneby said, choking back tears, "this is the place I tried to get him. But I seem to have failed to get help. My daughter, she had to be killed before he got the help he needed."

Alvin, now 19, became a heroin addict while a student at Miami - Jackson Senior High School which, like most high schools in Miami, are known to students as illegal drug stores where students buy and sell a wide range of drugs and narcotics.

Alvin is now a patient at South Florida State Hospital, an institution where Mrs. Beneby attempted to place him prior the night he came home, locked the door and committed an unplanned and unconscious act of murder.

From Miami, the Crime Committee will leave for hearings in Chicago, San Francisco and other cities during the fall. New York City hearings were held in June.

1st Ballot Victory No Surprise

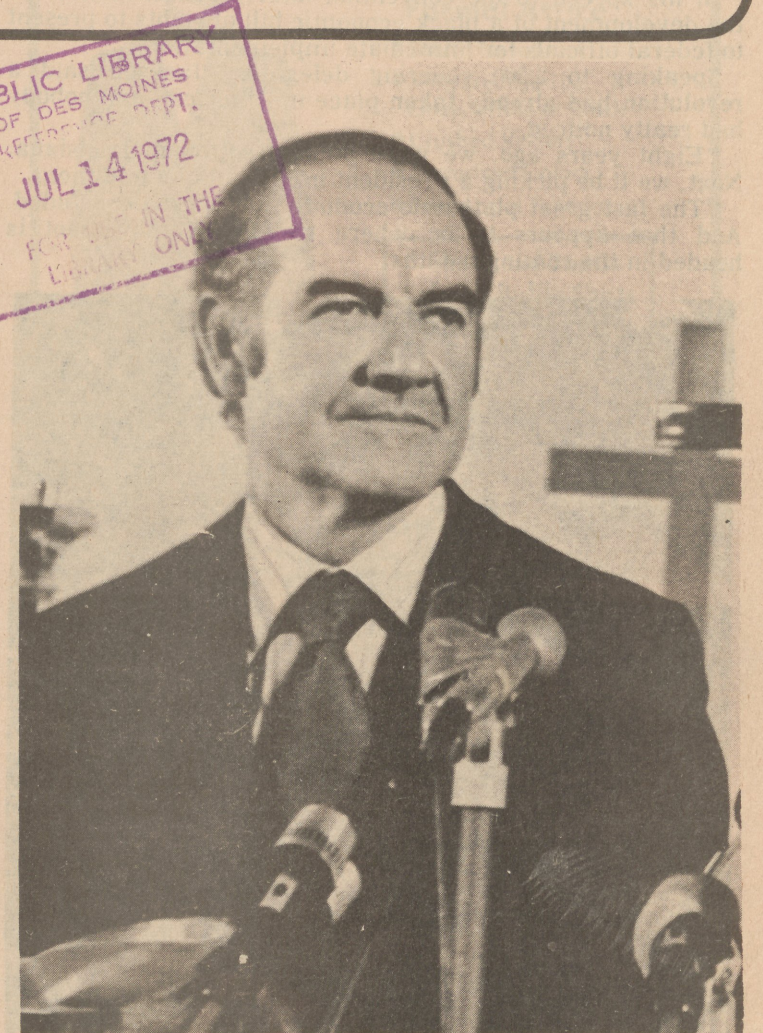

George McGovern, Democratic Senator from South Dakota, is the Democrats 1972 presidential candidate. In the Democratic party's most open and reformed minded convention there was little chance of McGovern's not being chosen on the first ballot. Some outstanding Black leaders asked Black delegates to vote for Shirley Chisolm on the first ballot. But Black delegates many of whom were committed to McGovern after primaries, threw their weight behind McGovern! Many key Blacks had endorsed McGovern prior to the Convention among them: Rev. Jesse Jackson of Chicago and head of PUSH, and Mrs. Coretta Scott King, widow of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

One of the highlights of this open convention came earlier in the week as Rev. Jesse Jackson spoke to the delegates and visitors at Miami's Convention Center. Jackson shared his philosophy of economic empowerment for the masses of Americans. He stated that the American system should be altered radically so that new methods of wealth - sharing and power sharing can take place.

Rev. Jackson heads the special Chicago delegation to the Convention that has in previous years been led by Mayor Daley.

Representative Chisolm congratulated the delegates after the McGovern nomination was assured. "You the delegates have made history tonight," Mrs. Chisolm was referring to the fact that she was the first Black Woman in the United States history to be nominated for President. She also pledged her support to McGovern for the coming campaign. Percy Sutton, Alderman from New York City, who placed Shirley Chisolm's name into nomination indicated that Chisolm's nomination would have great implications in years to come. "Shirley's great struggle will mean ever so much to viable Black Presidential candidates in the future," Those were remarks made by Mrs. Coretta King.

McGovern himself rode to the nomination on procedural reforms of his own devising which are merely a facade for a deep - seated social and economic ferment now dominating the McGovern controlled Democratic Party.

It is a movement comparable to the New Deal of 40 years ago bringing forward little known personalities, some of them feared for what seems to extreme views. The older members of the party can only listen in frozen apprehension to the reverend Jesse Jackson, a disciple of Martin Luther King, whose voice now replaces that of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

Jackson's voice is that of revolution in order to achieve racial adjustment and to change that of the basic economic realments, wealth - sharing and power - sharing that would alter radically the nature of the American system.

Blacks Win Demands In East St. Louis After Occupation Of City Hall

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL.—This city's first black mayor, confronted with the occupation of city hall by 50 black men, has met some of their demands and gotten commitments for 173 jobs in the city.

The agreement, reached last Wednesday, ended a six-day occupation of the building, which for the most part, stopped all city business from being conducted in city hall.

At one time during the demonstration, more than 200 persons had occupied the premises as the mayor, James E. Williams, asked for federal and state assistance to provide an emergency appropriation of $5.5 million for a public works program.

"I would feel disappointed if these people did not come to my rescue," Williams, a Democrat, said during the waning days of the occupation. "And I don't want to be rescued with guns and nightsticks."

"They can come to the rescue with jobs for these young people who so desperately need them."

Earlier, demonstration officials maintained they would not leave the building until federal and state officials agreed to fund the $5.5 million program.

East St. Louis has been plagued with a series of demonstrations since the city has a high unemployment rate of over 30 per cent.

Three years ago, the federal government put a freeze on federal highway funds in the area for alleged discrimination in hiring, principally against East St. Louis blacks.

Several years later, the freeze was lifted under a plan which provided for the hiring of one black trainee for every four journeymen by road contractors.

Under the plan, Williams and the demonstrators originally worked out, more than 560 persons would be given work on building demolition, street cleaning, beautification and bolstering the city's police and fire departments.

African Report:

SLAYING CONTINUES IN BURUNDI

KAMPALA, Uganda—Relief to Burundi has been stopped by international aid organizations who believe tribal warfare here has left more than 100,000 dead. The organizations claimed their continued aid to the nation would be tantamount to condoning the slaughter of the majority tribe, the Hutu, which has been going on for a number of months now.

Although the Hutu outnumber President Michel Micombero's tall Tutsi tribesmen, almost 6-1, the slaughter has continued. The legacy of 400 years of feudal rule by the Tutsi aristocracy in which the Hutu were kept in a state of serfdom, is the overwhelming factor.

Since Burundi gained its independence from Britain 10 years ago, there have been three Hutu revolts in which they have been killed by the thousands in sweeping government reprisals.

Sources close to the situation report that it was only by the intervention of (the Congo's) Zaire's President Mobutu-Sese-Seko, who sent in troops at Burundi's request, that the regime was saved from overthrow.

UGANDA PRESIDENT ORDERS STEPPED-UP SECURITY

KAMPALA, Uganda—President Michel Micombero, shortly before flying to Cairo for talks with Egyptian, Syrian and Libyan leaders, ordered national troops to arrest any minister or officers who made trouble while he was away. He said any "trouble-makers" should be held in detention until his return.

The Ugandan leader said he would have flown to Cairo straight from the recent Rabbat Summit of African heads of State but as recalled by his foreign minister who alerted him of potential trouble at home.

President Micombero, who spoke at Entebbe airport shortly before flying to Cairo, did not elaborate on the nature of the trouble for which he was recalled but he did admit that "certain persons" had recently fled the country because of an aborted plot against his government.

In a related development, the wife of the deposed President of Uganda, Mrs. Mari Obote, has now joined her husband, Dr. Milton Oboto, in the Tanzanian capital of Dar-es-Salaam.

Mrs. Oboto, along with deposed president's three children, had remained in Uganda since her husband was ousted in 1971 while he was attending the Prime Minister Conference in Singapore.

Reliable sources in Tanzania said Mrs. Oboto had made two previous attempts to join her husband but was repeatedly turned back by the Government.

Relations between Tanzania and Uganda have become strained in the wake of Obote's flight where he was given political asylum by Dr. Julius Nyerere, the Tanzanian head of State.

NOTES ON THE BLACK EXPERIENCE

The Black Experience is reading a news account of a murder and a rape with no thought for the victim, but rather, sending up a fervent prayer that the perpetrator is not black.

But as quickly as Jackson offered his recommendation, NAACP leader Wilkins said he wouldn't have time to discuss the matter with Jackson until August when he returns.

"I don't plan to talk to him until this convention is over," Wilkins told a reporter. "Then I'm going to Europe for three weeks. I'll be back in August. Perhaps at that time Reverend Jackson can formalize his suggestion."

"After all, you don't make a suggestion that someone call a conference in a press conference of your own at the seat of his convention," Wilkins added.

In his speech to the convention later, Jackson called for the development of a black economic bill of rights to present to federal officials for immediate implementation.

Speaking to 2,300 cheering delegates, Jackson said a revolution had already taken place in America—and nobody had really noticed.

"Eight years ago, we were picking cotton in Louisiana. Next, we'll be picking a President in Miami," he told them.

"The last great plateau is economic," Jackson concluded. And that appears to be where the PUSH movement is headed in the coming months.

Angela Hails 'People's Victory'

NEW YORK—(NBNS)—Black heroine Angela Davis, continuing her crusade against the penal system, has hailed the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing the death penalty as "a people's victory."

Speaking at a Madison Square Gardens rally to thank supporters of her successful defense against murder-kidnap conspiracy charges in California, Angela equated her acquittal and the Supreme Court decision as "unmistakable defeats for the rulers of this country."

"Just a few hours ago," she told the crowd, "I heard we just had another people's victory because the Supreme Court denounced the death penalty."

Both decisions, she said, result from the pressure exerted by aroused public opinion, building a "mass movement" on behalf of the oppressed in American society.

An avowed Communist, Angela continues to outrage conventional thinking. One result is that she fears for her life and spoke at the rally from behind an enclosed bullet-proof booth. Although she is now free to walk the streets, she does so in the company of several bodyguards.

The Madison Square Garden rally was organized as "An Evening With Angela Davis" and featured Ossie Davis and a roster of other entertainment stars. The rally raised money to help pay for the costs of her defense in the California trial.

Meanwhile, she continues to receive attention throughout the world. The Nikitsky Botanical Garden in the Crimea, in the Soviet Union, named a new variety of rose for her.

At home her first scheduled television appearance was cancelled when the producers insisted on pairing her with conservative writer William Buckley or another National Review editor, William Rusher.

Angela refused to appear on the Dick Cavett Show under these conditions because she considered the mandatory appearance of someone else a "restrictive precedent."

News Briefs:

NEW YORK—Black journalists have taken the lead in opposing a U.S. Supreme Court ruling which would deny newspaper reporters the right to refuse to reveal confidential sources before grand juries investigating criminal cases.

Black Perspective, a group representing most of New York's black journalists, said its 150 members would resist the ruling.

"As black reporters, we wish to reaffirm our intent not to be used as involuntary agents of the Justice Department or any other police agency," the group said. "We will not allow information or sources given to us in confidence to be 'shopped' by legal 'fishing expeditions' armed with subpoenas."

Black Perspective said the court decision opens the way for official intelligence gathering agencies to make the black reporter a "spy" in the black community.

Several other news groups, including the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the Newspaper Reporters Association, have criticized the Supreme Court decision, but none of these have urged their members to defy the ruling.

GRANT RECOGNIZERS 'RESEGREGATION' DANGER
BOCA RATON—A national foundation has given Florida Atlantic University researchers $550,000 to study the problem of school "resegregation."

The study will seek to discover the factors which cause parents to comply with or resist school and residential integration. It is prompted by the fact that white parents frequently withdraw their children from desegregated public schools and move to other areas, returning the communities to patterns of racial segregation.

CAUCUS HAILS BAN ON DEATH SENTENCES
WASHINGTON—The Congressional Black Caucus has hailed the U.S. Supreme Court ban on most death sentences as "humane and historic."

The 13 Caucus members said the decision is of particular importance to blacks, since nearly 58 percent of the 600 persons under death sentences are non-white. The Caucus said the death penalty should be eliminated on all counts, either by further court rulings or congressional action.

BLACK TAKES FCC SEAT
WASHINGTON—Benjamin Hooks, 47, has been sworn in as the first black member of the powerful Federal Communications Commission.

The Memphis jurist, banker and minister, as a member of the six-man commission, will regulate radio, television and other interstate communications media throughout the country. His salary will be $37,000 a year.

LOUISIANA REPEALS 'JIM CROW' LAWS
BATON ROUGE—The last of Louisiana's Jim Crow laws have been wiped from the books in the current session of the State Legislature.

Rep. Dorothy Taylor, a black member from New Orleans, led the fight to eliminate this vestige of the legal system which required segregation of blacks and whites. None of the laws has been enforced for several years, however, following congressional and court action barring discrimination.

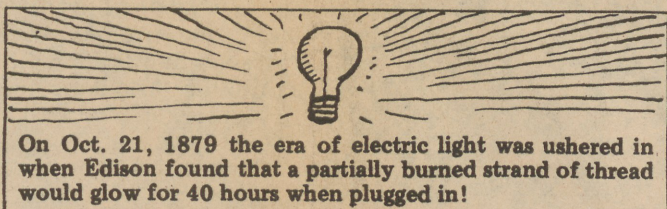

Mrs. Taylor said she believes the formal repeal of the offensive statutes "is in the best interest of all citizens. It will bring about a better relationship between the races."

Among the laws repealed were those barring interracial marriage and requiring segregation at social and sporting events.

BLACKS TO SHARE IN SCHOLARSHIP FUND
WASHINGTON—A Federal judge has knocked out the racial restrictions which would have prevented blacks from sharing in a $3 million scholarship fund at the University of North Carolina.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker ruled that the fund established by John W. Turrentine for "white boys and girls who reside in Alamance County (N.C.) could be continued as a scholarship fund but must be used for needy students regardless of race.

Turrentine, who died in 1966 at age 86, was a prominent Washington chemist who made a fortune during World War I when he invented a potash extraction process. His 11 nieces and nephews, who were killed $5,000 each, has sought to have the scholarship fund divided among themselves, on the grounds that the racial restrictions made the trust arrangement invalid.

On Oct. 21, 1879 the era of electric light was ushered in when Edison found that a partially burned strand of thread would glow for 40 hours when plugged in!

MARY CHURCH TERRELL CLUB no. 2 met on Sunday at the home of its president, Mrs. Dorothy Holmes, 6224 63rd Street. The meeting was the closing session of the year. The club will resume meeting in the fall. It was a gala affair in that the year's effort on the part of club members who had lived up to the theme of a "New You" for the entire year were rewarded with prizes. The entire membership had taken upon themselves to become a New You along these lines: wearing and styling wigs; wearing mod clothing; and losing weight; and wearing the beautiful new makeup for black women. The prizes were well worth the year-long effort! They were jewelry, fragrances or note paper! First prize was for weight loss and was won by Mrs. Dorothy Hammett, Mrs. Mildred Brown and Mrs. Catherine Williams with honorable mention for weight loss to Mrs. Leola Davis. Second prize for wearing mod clothing went to Mrs. Jeanette Bethel; Mrs. Mildred Graves won for wearing and styling wigs; Mrs. Mabel Spencer won in the category for makeup in the beautiful black women's makeup.

AS ONE OF THEIR TWO GUESTS, I felt rewarded for just being there. In reality everyone was awarded a prize in that the hostess served a brunch which was a feast! The other guest was Mrs. Earline King Riley, of Gary, Indiana.

THE SELF IMPROVEMENT YEAR-LONG THEME is to be commended. What great aim or goal could a group of women have than one of self improvement. And placing this in competition gives each greater drive! Membership in Mary's Church Terrell Club no. 2 is worth the year long competition! The club is a very fine one and a very old one.

THANKS TO THE GENEROSITY OF MRS. MARY BRUBAKER, I shared the occasion of her meeting the houseguests of Mrs. Wm. S. Herbster, of 908 45th Street. Her guests were a Kenya chief and his wife and daughter. They were Mr. and Mrs. R. Mutuku Kiva and their daughter, Mrs. Monica Lombé. Mrs. Lombé lived with the Herbsters while attending Des Moines Technical High School here. She is now pursuing a B.A. degree in business administration. Her husband is pursuing his Ph.D. in education. Mr. Kiva says he serves as a teacher because the need for a teacher is great. He says of Mrs. Kiva that she is a leader in Christian Women's fellowship and is a church elder in the African Inland Church in Kenya.

MARY PARKER, VERY MUCH ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL, spoke last Sunday at Maple Street Baptist Church, Bethel A.M.E. Church and at Union Baptist Church. Mary seeks to be the State Representative. She hopes that everyone will vote for her!

THE YOUTH COUNCIL PLACING MARY E. MOORE AT PARIS FOODLAND IS A REAL smart move! Foodland reaches out to us all and the need remains for us all to go there! Everyone should do some part of their shopping at Williams Market! Go there! See you there!

AKA's To Replace Miss Black Iowa Pageant

The Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority announced that they will abandon the Miss Black Iowa Beauty Pageant. There are two basic reasons for the decision, the first being limited reaction to the initial announcement. The second is the exploration by the sorority of how scholarships and other forms of educational assistance could be made available to a broader segment of the community than is reached by a beauty pageant.

On the advice of their consultants, Spence, Ewing and Associates, the sorority and the firm will develop a structure for the annual scholarship drive to be announced in the immediate future.

Barbara Gentry, president of Alpha Kappa Alpha, hopes that the community will respond favorably to the development and the implementation of this annual effort, which she believes to be a more relevant contribution to the overall Black community.

James Gunn: Carpenters Apprentice

JAMES H. GUNN

Building trades craftsmen make up the largest group of skilled workers in the Nation's labor force. About 3 of every 10 skilled workers is so employed. The more than two dozen skilled building trades vary greatly in size. Several major trades: carpenter, painter, plumber, pipefitter, bricklayer, operating engineer, construction electrician - each had more than a hundred thousand workers. Carpenters alone numbered more than 900,000 or nearly a third of all building craftsmen.

James H. Gunn is a second year carpenter apprentice employed by the contracting firm of Arthur Neumann and Brothers, Incorporated. He is also a member of Carpenters Local Union no. 106 here in Des Moines.

The building trades consist primarily of journeymen (craftsmen) who generally must have a high level of skill and a sound knowledge of assembly and construction operations. Their work may be grouped into three broad classifications, structural, finishing, and mechanical. However, some craftsmen, for example, carpenters, may do finishing as well as structural work. As an apprentice carpenter, James is in a good position to learn the ins and outs of both.

Most training authorities, including the national joint labor-management apprenticeship committee for the carpentry trade, recommend the completion of a four year apprenticeship program as the best way to learn carpentry. A substantial number of workers in this trade have acquired some carpentry skills informally or by taking correspondence or trade school courses.

The apprenticeship program usually consists of 8,000 hours (4 years) of on-the-job training, in addition to a minimum of 144 hours of related classroom instruction each year. During the apprenticeship period, the apprentice learns elementary structural design and becomes familiar with the common systems of frame and form construction, and to use, care for, and handle safely the tools, machines, equipment, and materials used in the trade. He also learns, among other things, how to build forms for holding concrete, framing, outside and inside finishing work, how to fit hardware, how to hand doors and set windows, and how to lay out work.

Young Parks' First Film About Dope Pusher

Gordon Parks, Jr. follows in his Dad's footsteps in his first movie, "Super Fly". He scores big.

This film, in color, about a cocaine pusher in Harlem and directed by Parks Junior, is a taut drama about life in the drug ghetto of Central Harlem, the will to succeed, the incredible successes and the inevitable crisis - crosses and double - crosses that such an existence can bring about.

There's sex and, oh, brother, one scene that will have everyone talking about "Super Fly", a Warner Brothers release due to premiere next month.

There's police corruption and an ending that also will have them screaming about "Super Fly".

There's action and some fine still photography by Gordon Junior.

And there's a soul musical score written and performed by Curtis Mayfield who also appears in "Super Fly" and is heard throughout in the background. And dig his "Pusher Man" from his latest album, "Super Fly" based on the film, available on Buddah Records.

Then there's Ron O'Neal, who heads the cast of "Super Fly", in his first starring role, a young award-winning off-Broadway stage actor who will in time become known as one of the most important black actors in America. His performance as the cocaine pusher in "Super Fly" will surely boost his climb up the ladder to success.

"Super Fly", filmed mainly in Harlem, was produced by Sig Shore, himself a native of America's Black Capital, and financed by a corporation headed by two black dentists called Con-Ed, Inc. It is their first film. The screen play was written by Phillip Fenty, a former advertising copywriter.

The cast also stars Carl Lee, Sheila Frazier, Julius W. Harris and Charles McGregor. Featured players include, Nate Adams, Polly Niles, Yvonne DeLaine, Henry Shapiro, "D.C." and Jim Richardson and the special guest appearance of The Curtis Mayfield Experience.

"Super Fly" deals with a big-time dealer in cocaine. He longs to escape the dope racket, but all his loving girlfriend can do to help is provide solace when his despair grows too great. There's a white girl friend also for the bigtime pusher and a good friend who is skilled through police corruption. At the critical point where the pusher can make his break away, his black girl friend becomes the essential element that enables him to do so. Together, they leave the black ghetto to try to do something with the freedom they have gained.

And it's how the pusher makes his breakaway from life that he has lived that makes "Super Fly" the super film it is and one that will be talked about.

Based on merit and need, the scholarship will be awarded annually to a minority group member. Recipients will also be eligible for Special Support Services funds provided through the University.

Commenting on the awarding of the scholarship, Prof. Malcolm S. MacLean Jr., director of the U of I School of Journalism, said: "One of the primary concerns of our new journalism program has been the development of an awareness and sensitivity to the problems and redesign of the mass media. The John H. Sengstacke Scholarship is an integral part of our program, as the need for trained minority personnel in the industry is very acute in 1972."

"We are particularly pleased that Joyceann Phillips, a student from Waterloo, has received this first annual award. Joyceann successfully participated in two of our Urban High School Workshops and we are a proud member in our new program."

Sengstacke commented: "It is very encouraging to witness this award, not in a personal sense, but in a more general sense for the mass media industry. I am pleased to see The University of Iowa School of Journalism take this initiative and display the foresight it carries with it."

"Indeed, there is a shortage of qualified minority candidates currently available. Yet this award to Miss Phillips and the recent efforts by the National Newspaper Publishers Association and the National Newspaper Foundation show that some sincere efforts are being made to correct this deficiency."

Sengstacke founded the Negro Newspaper Publishers Association, now known as the National Newspaper Publishers Association, in 1940 and served four terms as its president. Besides publishing the Chicago Daily Defender, his company also publishes the Courier in Pittsburgh, the Tri-State Defender in Memphis and the Chronicle in Detroit. He served on presidential advisory committees under Presidents Harry S. Truman, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Black Oriented TV

Doyle Dugans says he's the only black he knows of in CATV in Michigan. He has to be the hardest working. For the last seven months he has leased Channel 3 from Flint Cable TV and put out eight hours a week of programming relating specifically to the Flint black community. He does a one-hour show interviewing the black man (and woman) in the street about issues of concern to blacks. He calls his show: "Imani Kusudi Kuumba," Swahili words which mean "faith, creativity and purpose." He also does a one-hour feature show. For the past five weeks, it has been devoted to the rites of passage from elementary school to junior high of black girls.

Dugans is his own staff and crew, although part of his plan is to make Channel 3 a training school for blacks interested in learning cable operation. His first "apprentice" has been with him for four months. Someday he hopes to buy his own equipment; right now he borrows what he needs from Flint Cable TV. Response to his channel has been enthusiastic and positive; praise has come from both blacks and whites. Flint Cable TV's manager, Don Curley, has furnished both encouragement and help, because he, like the rest of Flint, is excited about Channel 3. Flint Cable has over 15,000 subscribers. About 4,200 of them are black. Dugans feels that he has in Channel 3 a perfect outlet for the black community to get involved in itself, without worries of outside interference or sponsorship.

He hopes to expand programming and then begin distributing his shows to other cable systems statewide and eventually nationwide. Some of his hopes are close to reality. By July 1, he hopes to inaugurate a 15-minute black newscast, and then to add a half-hour show for the black woman, which he tentatively calls "Black Talk." He envisions a half-hour black religion program and a weekly bandstand - type dance program for black teenagers someday soon. He would also like to tape Sunday morning black church services and then show them on Sunday evenings.

Tapscott Supporters In Bike Tour

Two Des Moines area youths bicycled seven miles into Des Moines Sunday, completing a 780 mile, 23 county tour they pedaled in support of State Senator John Tapscott's campaign for Governor.

The two, dressed in road gear and apparently tired and happy, were cousins Mark Steele, 16, of 4411 64th Street, and James Higdon, 18, of 1435 Center.

Kambui Yero Speaks

WHERE THERE IS REPRESSION— THERE WILL BE REBELLION. This historical fact has been proven over and over again; and no force on earth can stop it. It seems more than obvious that even Iowa isn't exempt from this social law as shown in the rebellion at Anamosa last month. You see those creative men who have been incarcerated enslaved for Disrupting Property Relations do justly protest their inhumane treatment by authorities who look upon them as mentally defective creatures who must be corralled, controlled and readjusted; for it is not the fault of the system; but totally the fault of the prisoner - that he commits an economic crime. People must be educated now concerning the real causes of economic crimes. We must realize that even crimes of passion are the psycho social effects of an economic order that was decadent a hundred years ago. All crime can be traced to objective Socio-economic conditions— socially productive or counterproductive activity. In all cases, it is determined by the economic system, the method of economic organization. "The People of the State ... vs. John Doe" is tenuous as the clearly political frame - ups. It is like stating "The People vs. The People. Man against himself. Official definitions of crime are simply attempts by the establishment to suppress the forces of progress. Prisoners Are Victims Of Social Injustice - I repeat! Prisoners Are Victims Of Social Injustice. Most people realize the crime is simply the result of a grossly disproportionate distribution of wealth and privilege, a reflection of the present state of property relations. Truly, my friends, Monopoly capital is the real enemy. It crushes the life force of all the people. It must be completely destroyed, as quickly as possible, utterly, totally, relentlessly, ruthlessly, destroyed. The prisoners at Anamosa can no longer be fooled by unfilled promises of reform and so - called civilized treatment by those who advance the theory that prisoners are mentally defective without the merest suggestion that the system is at fault. It follows (also) that the dominant theoretical assumption among social and behavioral scientists in the United States today is that the Social Order is functionally Stable and fundamentally Just. This is a very basic premise because it means that the theory must assume the moral depravity of the prisoner. There can be no other logical explanation for his incarceration. It is precisely this alleged depravity that legitimizes custody. Because of the aforementioned, the Prisoners (with their total understanding that they indeed are victims of social injustice) are rising like a mighty storm against the barbaric rule which they labor under— and no force on this earth can stop them. Governor Ray's comments concerning the prison rebellion shows lack of insight, concern and just downright blatant ignorance. As can be seen in most politicians he is functioning under the illusion that what he stands for is "just" (even though his interests differ from the interests of the People) and the rights of prisoners is of no meaning or consequences. His entire program shows consistent anti-people stances with the major "thrust" being supportive of those few who control Iowa, i.e. Big Business. I am positive that prisoners at Anamosa will continue their just fight against such anti-people authorities, whose genocidal programs are certainly a reflection of the general rule against the masses of people in the United States by those in control. It is time that Prisoners say Enough To Repression. Enough To The Fascist Rule Of Those In Control, and plans should definitely be afoot to move more decisively against such dehumanizing activities in a concrete fashion. The Prisoners struggle is also the Peoples' struggle and the masses of poor and oppressed people are definitely in solidarity with those Prisoners who are defying all difficulties and standing up against repression. March on Prisoners in your just fight— there is no doubt in my mind, that victory will be yours. Dare To Struggle - Dare To Win!

When I started this corner, I said that I would confine myself to remarks about sports in the past tense. Well, since then I have received a few challenges that leave me wondering. First, I get a talk by a fellow on how black athletes are given the rough treatment by officials, especially if most of the ball club happens to be black. Then a white boy pays for my lunch to tell me how he has been harrassed by white people because he played with a nearly all black high school team. Said he was the victim of just too many nameless phone calls and received many letters, telling him that he should quit that team of so and sos and join a white team. The boy was a fine player, and his effectiveness diminished at least twenty percent, according to him. But he didn't quit. And he said that not one of his harrassers identified themselves.

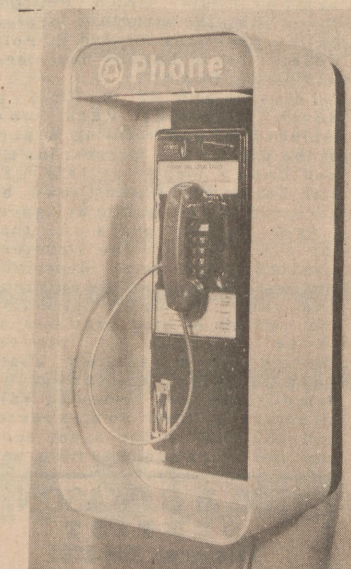

I had a telephone call from a proud mother whose son had just won what had to be the most important tennis match of his career. She wanted me to give him some space. I thought that the daily paper would do so, and they did, but I couldn't ignore him. Didn't get to say nearly as much as I wanted to because I was behind the day for getting the news in, but I got in a little. Then this little league tennis setup should have some attention, as well as our own Hilltop meet coming up soon.
