Miss Black American Boycotts 72-73 Pageant

Stevie Carter Wins At State Fair

As first place prize, Stevie received a $100.00 Savings Bond. He is the son of Bishop A.B. Carter Sr.

Stevie has appeared on KRNT-TV and KDIN-TV several times. He has traveled with Bill Riley to various county fairs in Iowa. He has also traveled to different states to give performances.

Sponsors Fail to Make Arrangement for Travel; Renegs on Guarantee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(NBNS)—The outgoing Miss Black America, Joyce Warner, was absent from the 1972-73 pageant in Los Angeles (August 26) in protest against mistreatment by promoters who "are selfishly using the pageant for their own benefit."

Miss Warner, a 21-year-old psychology student at Florida A&M University here, said she was never given the trips to Haiti and the Catskill Mountains or the $600 scholarship promised her.

She said she stopped appearing as Miss Black America in February because pageant officials repeatedly failed to make complete travel arrangements for her.

"I have been stranded as far away from home as Cleveland, Ohio," she said, where "I was left with no return ticket home."

She said she had been guaranteed $5,000 in personal appearances but made only $2,000 up to the time she quit in February.

Miss Warner also said she and other contestants last year sold subscriptions to the Miss Black America magazine and some persons who paid had never received the magazine.

"I had to discontinue my work for the pageant because I felt that I would be hurting black people rather than helping them by continuing to support the pageant, which I feel is not operating in their best interests."

Miss Warner said she hoped to put pressure on pageant director J. Morris Anderson of Philadelphia and other pageant officials to live up to their commitments to the contestants.

"It is not the idea of the pageant that I am against or wish to see destroyed," she said. "I am for anything if it is geared toward getting our people together or if it is a sincere effort to help black people."

"But it is hard for me to turn my back on the fact that thousands of girls each year, across the country, are being used by people who claim to be black and who see in being black a means of getting ahead."

"It's been a long decision, to remain silent and let those people go on doing what they're doing, feeling there is nothing I could do about it."

"Then I said, 'this is how they get it over, by my remaining silent.' But we have to deal in the truth."

Olympics; Rhodesia Out

MUNICH, West Germany (NBNS)—Rhodesia has been sent home packing from the Olympic Games.

In a stunning show of solidarity on the part of African nations and their friends among black athletes in the United States and other countries, the International Olympic Committee voted to banish the white supremacist nation from the games.

The 36 to 31 vote was hailed by hundreds of athletes in Olympic Village and resulted in a further loss of face to the fading prestige of International Olympic Committee President Avery Brundage who declared only a few days earlier:

"Rhodesia (is) invited. Rhodesia will participate. Most of the African teams, at least the important African teams, are here I believe, and I believe they will stay."

Then, one by one, the African teams, the important African teams, delivered their ultimatums:

"It's them or us," said Abraham Ordia of Nigeria, speaking for the Supreme Council for Africa's sports.

Nation's pledging to withdraw from the Olympics if the outlaw nation of Rhodesia was not barred from participating included

Kenya, Ethiopia, Uganda, Tanzania, Liberia, Zambia, Sierra Leone, Ghana, The Sudan, Mali and Upper Volta, all from the continent of Africa.

In addition several other countries including Egypt, Pakistan, Jamaica and athletes from Barbados, Trinidad and the Bahamas were considering joining the boycott.

Eighteen of the 21 black track and field athletes on the U.S. team issued a united statement of support which read in part:

"In the light of the Rhodesian acceptance, into the Games, the United States Black athletes now in Olympic Park believe it imperative to take a stand concerning the issue. We denounce Rhodesia's participation and if they are allowed to compete, we will take a united stand with our African brothers."

Implied was a withdrawal of American black athletes from the games which, with a wholesale walkout by African athletes, would virtually destroy the glamorous track and field events.

At issue were the political policies of Rhodesia which declared a break with the British Commonwealth in defiance of working out an agreement for eventual self-rule for its black population which is in the overwhelming majority. It, like South Africa, which was banished from the Olympics during the last meeting, practices apartheid or rigid segregation of the races.

The Rhodesian athletes, which include seven blacks among its 44 member delegation, was barred on a technicality. At issue was whether the Rhodesians had complied with last year's Luxemborg agreement on proof of their status as British subjects.

Until the vote, the International Olympic Committee had maintained that African nations last year approved its decision to let Rhodesia compete under her old name of Southern Rhodesia, with two conditions: 1) that Rhodesia compete under the British flag, as she did in 1964, and 2) and that "God Save the Queen" be played following any Rhodesian medal victories.

The Committee had apparently under-rated the rising consciousness among both African and American black athletes and the intensity of the support for the boycott called by the Organization of African Unity surprised many observers.

Fauntroy responded to charges made by the National Institutes of Health Task Force Against Racial Discrimination, a group representing many of the 3,300 members of minorities among the 13,000 employees of the 300-acre NIH complex in suburban Bethesda, Maryland.

In a stinging letter to Browne, Nader suggested he quit since he has not represented "the legitimate rights of minority employees, the traveling public and consumer." Nader charged that there was "not even a single black or other member of the minority communities" among the 114 employees earning more than $25,000 basic salary.

PANTHERS ASK FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

ATLANTA, Ga. (NBNS)—Black Panther spokesman Kouson Oliver said that local food store chains have been asked "in a very nice way for some money to support our food program because our people are the ones who support them."

Fred Brown of the Big Apple chain claimed the Panther request wasn't all that friendly. Big Apple, Kroger and Colonial food stores have turned down the requests.

BLACK SEEKS SENATE SEAT

MOBILE, Ala. (NBNS)—John LeFlore, a veteran civil rights activist, has been chosen by the National Democratic Party of Alabama to oppose incumbent Sen. John Sparkman, and Republican Winton M. Blount, in the November election to choose a U.S. Senator. LeFlore, a postal service employee, is the first black to seek the U.S. Senate from Alabama since Reconstruction.

WILL THE REAL REPUBLICAN PARTY COME FORWARD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (NBNS)—Two observers of the same political party have interpreted its attitudes towards blacks in precisely opposite ways.

"The (Republican) Party is racist, both at the national level and in the state executive committee," said Nathaniel Abraham, a black Columbia, South Carolina, publisher who is rejoining the Democratic Party after a brief stint as a Republican.

Not so says Dr. Aris T. Allen, 61, the first black chairman of a state Republican delegation. "The Nixon Administration has been most favorable to blacks, although its image has not been related to the facts," said Dr. Allen, who headed the 52-member Maryland delegation to the GOP Convention.

FBI NABS CHICAGO EX-ALDERMAN

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (NBNS)—Ex-Alderman Fred Hubbard of Chicago is in the custody of FBI agents on charges of embezzling $110,592 from a federally funded agency. His wife, Arnette Hubbard, an attorney, believes a trial will prove him innocent.

Hubbard, who left vacant a seat on the Chicago City Council with his disappearance in May, 1971, was arrested on a tip in a five-card draw poker game in suburban Gardens, California, where poker playing is legal. He is believed to have amassed large gambling debts prior to disappearing from his $25,000 a year job with the Chicago Plan, an agency set up to find work for blacks in construction.

Algeria Returns $1 Million Seized From Hijackers

By James F. Southerland
National Black News Service
WASHINGTON

(NBNS)—The Algerian Government has turned over to Delta Air Lines the $1 million ransom taken from a group of black militant hijackers on Aug. 1.

The Algerians, responding to U.S. pressure, returned the money despite the plea of Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver that the hijackers be allowed to keep the funds for revolutionary purposes.

Previously the Algerian Government had returned $500,000 seized from hijackers who diverted a U.S. airliner to the North African country in June.

The $1 million ransom was paid to five U.S. black militants who, with their three children, took over a Delta DC-8 over Florida and diverted it to Algeria. The money was seized by the Algerian Government when the plane landed in Algiers and the militants were taken into custody pending a decision on whether to grant them political asylum.

The Algerian Government is reported to be sharply split on whether to continue to give asylum to American black militants. Police occupied the Panther villa for two days recently while making a thorough search of the premises.

Kathleen Cleaver, wife of the exiled Panther leader, said in San Francisco that her husband had received death threats in Algeria and was anxious to return to the United States. She did not give any details on the threats.

Mrs. Cleaver said her husband would be happy to return to face a felony charge in Alameda County, Calif., but does not want to go to prison as a parole violator. Cleaver left the United States while free on bond on a charge of carrying a weapon and violation of parole for earlier convictions, including robbery and rape.

IRS NAMES FIRST BLACK DISTRICT DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON—(NBNS)—William D. Waters, a 48-year-old black career Internal Revenue Service official, has been given responsibility for the collection of nearly $5 billion in Federal personal and corporate income taxes.

Waters, a native of Camden, N.J., has been named the first black District Director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, covering the entire state of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Last year the Baltimore district collected $4.7 billion from 1.9 million individual and corporate taxpayers.

Waters joined the Internal Revenue Service in 1948 as a revenue agent. He served in Camden, Philadelphia, Washington, Albany, N.Y., and Milwaukee before being chosen in 1966 for the IRS Executive Development Course.

The Executive Development program is designed to give specialized management training to promising career employees of the Internal Revenue Service. After completing the course, Waters was assigned as assistant director in Milwaukee. He became director in Baltimore in 1970 and has now been promoted to the directorship.

Waters received BS and MS degrees in accounting from Temple University.

PAY RAISE VIEWED POLITICAL

WASHINGTON, D.C. (NBNS)—President Nixon has signed a $180-million-a-year pay raise for half-a-million federal blue-collar workers, a move that should earn him the endorsement of the 320,000 member American Federation of Government Employees. Nixon vetoed a less costly bill last January.

World Church Council Votes Stock Sale To Protest African Racism

UTRECHT. The Netherlands — (NBNS) — The World Council of Churches has voted to withdraw its investment funds from companies doing business in white-minority controlled countries in southern Africa.

The church body urged its member dominations throughout the world to sell their stock in companies operating in South Africa, Rhodesia, Namibia (South West Africa), Angola, Mozambique and Bissau (Portuguese Guinea).

The vote in the policy-making central committee was 100 to four, with six abstentions. The opponents included the American Lutheran Church and among those abstaining were the Church of England and the Church of Scotland.

The central committee urged its 250 Protestant and Orthodox member churches, representing 350 million Christians, "to use all their influence, including stockholder action and disinvestment, to press corporations to withdraw investments from and cease trading with these countries."

The stocks involved in the World Council action total an estimated $3.5 million in 22 different companies.

A spokesman identified the following U.S. companies as among those with investments in South Africa or Angola.

Chrysler Corporation, General Electric Company, Polaroid Corporation, Ford Motor Company, Monsanto Company, Squibb Beech-nut, Inc., Merck & Co., Atlantic Richfield Company, Johnson and Johnson, International Business Machines Corporation, Texaco, Inc., Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company, Upjohn Company and Gulf Oil Corporation.

A spokesman for the Council for Christian Social Action of the United Church of Christ in New York said the Insurance Company of North America, Control Data Corporation, R.C.A. Corporation and Xerox Corporation also were listed in the World Council of Churches stock portfolio on Dec. 31, 1971.

The initial impact of these 22 issues on the New York Stock Exchange was reported to be negligible. Thirteen of the stocks rose in price, eight declined and one remained unchanged on the day the council's action was announced.

Eugene R. Karrer, Ford Motor Company group director, said he was "disappointed" by the church council's decision. "While we believe in the sincerity of the council's position, we are just as sincere in our belief, based on years of experience, that the presence of Ford in South Africa is a positive force in favor of the goals which the council supports," he said.

The council's finance unit objected to the decision to liquidate the council's investment in the offending companies. It said the council and member churches should continue to hold stock in the companies as the "most effective strategy of investment in order to bring maximum pressure on the minority regimes in southern Africa."

Black members of the central committee strongly supported the majority position. They declared it was "naive" to think that the white-minority governments in these countries would permit foreign companies to undertake racial reforms.

Council officials said that "hundreds of millions of dollars" are invested by the member churches. They had no precise estimates, however, of the sums invested in companies involved in southern African activities.

CLUBBING SICKLE CELL ANEMIA—What may be the most expensive bat in baseball, and the most unusual check ever written in Pittsburgh, is held by Pittsburgh Pirates' first baseman Willie Stargell. The bat, imprinted with a $5,000 check for the Black Athletes Foundation's fight against sickle cell anemia, was presented to Stargell, president of the athletes group, by the PPG Industries Foundation at PPG Industries night Friday (Aug. 1) at Three Rivers Stadium.

Nixon Deserves Re-Election, Black GOPers Say

MIAMI BEACH, FLORIDA — (NBNS) — Three black officials, representing the Administration, labelled Senator George McGovern's civil rights record "anti-black" and called on the nation's black voters to vote for the President this November.

Presidential Assistant Robert J. Brown, GOP Assistant Chairman Ed Sexton, and Nixon-black-vote-leader Paul R. Jones also cited the "significant" gains by the Administration over the last three and a half years.

"Sen. McGovern has the louisiest civil rights record of anyone who has been a candidate for the Presidency this year," Sexton commented.

"A number of blacks were disenchanted" with the results of the Democratic National Convention, Jones said, and have "taken a good look" at the Administration's record.

PRESIDENT AMIN PERMITS UGANDAN ASIANS TO REMAIN

KAMPALA, Uganda — (NBNS) — Reversing his previous policy statement, President Idi Amin has granted permission for approximately 23,000 Asians holding Ugandan citizenship to remain in Uganda if they can provide proof of their citizenship.

Following a condemnation from Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere who described the initial expulsion order as "racist", President Amin reiterated his order for Asians with British passports to leave the country within 90 days. But he said he would permit Asians claiming Ugandan citizenship to remain if it could be proved they did not obtain such citizenship illegally or if they do not hold dual nationality.

ZAIRE CHARGED WITH BRUTALITY BY REFUGEES

LAGOS, Nigeria — (NBNS) — Accusations of imprisonment, starvation and torture were being levelled at Zaire, the former Belgian Congo, by a group of refugees arriving in Lagos this week. Over 300 Nigerians and hundreds of other West Africans have been deported from Zaire in what was officially described as a crackdown on illegal residents and foreigners without work permits.

The latest refugees had been detained a year without explanation in a prison in a suburb of Kinshasa, the capital of Zaire. They describe torture, overcrowding and poorly ventilated jails in Kinshasa where some Nigerians and other West Africans are said to have died.

Foreign diplomats familiar with conditions in Zaire say that foreign businessmen are probably being expelled as the government seeks scapegoats for their economic woes of unemployment and inflation.

SOUTH AFRICAN CONSOLIDATION PLAN REJECTED

CAPE TOWN — (NBNS) — Paramount Chief Kaiser Matanzima of the Transkei, following a visit to the United States, called for Rhodesia will participate. Africa. The plan was rejected by the South African government and described as "ill-judged and to have been inspired from outside — from persons in circles here and abroad much more interested in the downfall of the government than in the progress of the Bantu nations."

Michael Botha,

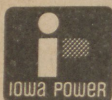

government minister of the Bantu administration, declared his view that Bantustan leaders should not pursue "illusions", that equal partition of South Africa between whites and blacks would work. Matanzima had asked for grants of more land from the South African government to consolidate the black nation plan which he hoped would lead to a confederation of black states in southern Africa.

FOREIGN CULTURE SEEN AS THREAT TO GHANA

ACCRA, Ghana — (NBNS) — Speaking to an audience in eastern Ghana, Colonel Ignatius Acheampong, head of state, strongly criticized false standards developing in the country, including the appearance of the Afro culture of black Americans. In an appeal to Ghanaian students to rid the country of colonial influences and foreign cultures, he urged them to concentrate on solving the many problems of Ghana, which gained its independence from Britain in 1957.

Dr. Ada Dunner's invitation on last weekend, August 20, to accompany her on a three-day visit in Estes Park, Colorado, was accepted with the greatest enthusiasm! We're to leave Monday morning at 4:00 o'clock, I said "fine"! That hour turned out to be a thunderstorm. We packed amidst raindrops and headed West. We streaked through Nebraska reaching our destination at 6:15 mountain time! 5:00 o'clock here!

With us were two siamese kittens, Melissa and Moses, who will be a year old next month. For the most part, they were quiet passengers. They were delighted, of course, when set free in our cottage in Colorado! They traveled in their own carrier!

In Colorado, as we headed toward Loveland, we encountered another thunderstorm, big raindrops and huge hailstones! We sailed through them to our destination. By then it ended!

Having unpacked the car, our thoughts turned to groceries! We rushed to Morehead's Super Market just as Mr. Morehead was locking the door. My hostess hurried from the car and knocking on the door, asked if we might enter. He obliged. Mr. and Mrs. Morehead greeted us warmly. This was Dr. Dunner's 26th year at Estes Park. She normally spends a month there!

The next day found us driving to Bear Lake, then mountain climbing to Dream and Nymph Lakes. In order to miss the rains and possible storms, one comes out of the mountains by one o'clock. This we did.

Friday morning, the time of our departure arrived. Again we were to leave at 4:00 o'clock. We started out. But within the first 15 minutes of our descent, we realized that a white pick-up truck was following us. We pulled off the road for them to pass, and they did but later pulled off for us to pass and resumed following us, very closely and blinking their lights. In horror we turned in at The Palisades Motel, where we are known. I went to the office door and knocked. The office is the residence of the proprietor and his wife. She answered my knock and opened the door. The truck, by then, had followed us in and the driver was talking with Dr. Dunner, asking if we were having trouble, was there something wrong? She was, of course, furious ordering him to leave! Mr. Glen Floyd, the proprietor, entered the scene, hoping to get the license number, but the trucker backed out in a hurry and fled. The proprietor followed us to town. Somewhat calmed, we continued our journey without further difficulty! Thankful for friends! With our minds made up that there will be no more early morning hour travel! Better to be moving about when there are others about in large numbers!

Was sorry that the Iowa State Fair was ended. Had meant to attend once more this year. The more one sees, the more one wants to see. One becomes accustomed to the crowds, and the din and noise. It is all State Fair and what goes with it!

TRACK STAR COOLING IT—U.S. Olympic track team star Rod Milburn stops by an Indian tea vendor to get a hot drink as he strolls through the Olympic Village in Munich, Germany, in cool and rainy weather that followed a recent heat wave.

MIAMI BEACH, Florida—(NBNS)—Black delegates to the Republican National Convention overwhelmingly called for the re-election of President Nixon "because of what he's done for the black community during the past four years."

Joined by spokesmen of the Administration, the delegates joined the near unanimous re-nomination of the President.

They predicted that President Nixon would receive a "substantial" share of the black vote this fall.

"We will more than double the 8 to 10 per cent he got the last time," said Robert J. Brown, a special assistant to Nixon.

"I don't agree with everything the President has done," said GOP Black Vote Director Paul Jones, "and most blacks don't either. But I'm happy with an Administration that practices what it preaches and doesn't just give us rhetoric."

Jones cited the appointment of the first black admiral, the first black member of the influential Federal Communications Commission and the first black to the Military Court of Appeals.

"He has appointed more black generals, more black ambassadors and more blacks to supergrade levels in the government than any other President," he said.

Black Republicans also cited other "facts of the President's increased commitment to the black people, including:

• Increased aid to black colleges. Under the Nixon Administration, this has been raised to $601 million from $300 million.

• Assistance to minority business increased by $508 million.

• Nine sub-cabinet appointments compared to three in the Johnson Administration.

• 150 supergrade appointments, compared to 63 previously.

• A gain of $245 million in minority bank deposits.

• An increase from $75 million to $602 million in the civil rights enforcement effort.

• Another increase of more than $22 million in the budget for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission budget.

They also charged that blacks at the recent Democratic National Convention were not there to address themselves to the needs of the blacks, but to feather their own nests.

Candidates Reject Quotas

NEW YORK—(NBNS)—Both the Democratic and Republican candidates for President have told the American Jewish Committee that they oppose the use of "quotas" as a means of redressing past racial discrimination in employment, education and governmental appointments.

Hoffman in his queries to the candidates had urged them to "reject categorically the use of quotas and proportional representation" as measures to bring about equal opportunity for members of minority groups. President Nixon, in his reply, expressed his support of "affirmative efforts to ensure that all Americans have an equal chance to compete for employment opportunities and to do so on the basis of individual ability." But he said such effort "must not be allowed to be applied in such a fashion as to result in the imposition of quotas."

Senator McGovern said he believes "it is both necessary and possible to open the doors that have long been shut to minority group members without violating basic principles of nondiscrimination and without abandoning the merit system."

Drug Abuse Program Part Of Scouting

SCOUTING TODAY IS A LOT MORE THAN YOU THINK. Drug Abuse Program Part of Scouting.

Mid-Iowa Council Scout Executive, Wayne Taylor states that "Scouting Today is a Lot More Than You Think." Scouting is being updated and a part of this more relevant program is REACH a Drug Abuse program.

Taylor stated that the Mid-Iowa Council was one of four councils in American selected to introduce the program in 1971. It is now being conducted by Councils across America because of the positive results of the trial program.

The Reach plan is designed to inform the parents as well as the boys on the many abuses of drugs. It also works to get the youth and parents talking together about drugs.

The young people themselves helped to develop the REACH program and are involved in the presentations. The end result is to get the Scouts, their friends, and parents to take an individual positive stand against drug abuse.

Goals of the program urges the Scouts to "REACH" for the real highs instead of going for a poor substitute like drugs. "REACH" for real friends and stand by them. "REACH" for warm and open relations with parents, other members of the family and friends. "REACH" an understanding with himself by taking an open stand against drugs and to "REACH" others by telling them about Operation REACH. These goals are printed on small cards and the Scouts are asked to give a card to their friends along with a REACH pin.

Scouting Today Is indeed a Lot More Than You Think!

Is Today's Navy A Mecca For Blacks?

A group of Iowa educators and media representatives recently visited the Naval Training facilities at San Diego, Calif. Among those on the trip were: Pat Bassett, Washington, Iowa; Tom Kenner, Cedar Rapids; Louise Cribbs, Davenport; Carl Williams, Des Moines; Jesus Antonio Prieto, Des Moines; Frank Fair, Des Moines; Steve Harold Carson, Des Moines; Walter B. Steven, Fort Dodge; Peggy Maria Spates, Waterloo; Vera Roseburr, Waterloo; Barry Norris, Cedar Rapids; Virginia Coleman, Nicholson, Davenport; Cecile Cooper, Davenport.

Through a series of speakers (mainly officers) it was made clear that the Navy is changing its emphasis from 'Gung-Ho' military to a professional - individual centered program. Basic training has been cut to afford more time for the recruit's education. It was evident that Admiral Zumwalt has made his presence felt throughout the Navy chain of command. The recruit entering the Navy is now given an opportunity to express his feelings more openly than ever before. He is offered classes in group dynamics. Surprisingly the new recruit is also offered courses in remedial reading.

The reactions of Black enlisted personnel were of special concern. Many Blacks expressed outright frustration and dislike for even 'Today's' Navy. Others thought it was good as any other job. Some were definitely pro Navy. In general we found the same variety of reactions to Navy life as to any other field where Black people are involved. One Sister from New York remarked, "The Navy is what you make it."

She went on, "Yes, racism exists in the Navy as it exists in every American institution. But the Navy has something to offer and I'm getting mine while I'm here." There was no uniform reaction by Blacks among either enlisted personnel or officers. One Black non-commissioned officer said, "No one asked me what's wrong with the Navy and there are plenty of things wrong. I'm personally in favor of military budget cuts, there's too much fat especially in

Editorial

The recent political conventions in Miami Beach pointed out several differences in the two major parties in this country. There are, for one thing, too few blacks involved in the Republican Party. And at the same time, the GOP remains overwhelmingly the conservative party.

More than 95 per cent of the blacks belong to the Democratic Party and traditionally vote Democratic in every Presidential election. In a way, that's the way it should be because it has been the Democratic Party that has increased the opportunities of black participation at conventions and at the same time worked hard to improve the lot of black Americans.

The Democratic Party since Franklin Roosevelt has always been a haven for black people and our concerns and needs. This year it was the Democrats who opened up their convention and as a result 15 per cent of their convention delegates were black.

It has been the Democratic Party that has projected the civil rights issues in America. It has been the Democratic Party that has been in the forefront of civil rights legislation during the past decade.

But, as we make a case for black support of the Democratic Party, we need to remember that blacks make up less than 5 per cent of the GOP—and that needs to change.

The area of high ranking personnel. I think Admiral Zumwalt is the best thing that ever happened to the Navy. He's an honest cat who knows what needs to be done and he's getting it done. On the most sincere comment was by a young Black enlisted seaman from Virginia who said, "Sea duty is a dog, I can't wait to get home."

Detroit Relative Visits Mrs. Ritchey

William Lumpkin of Detroit, Mich., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Mary Ritchey, 1154 Fourteenth Street.

For it will only make up a significant portion of the Republican Party can we ever hope to make a dent in the conservative wall built around the GOP. We can only change the party from within and that clearly was the message of the few black progressives who attended the recent Republican convention.

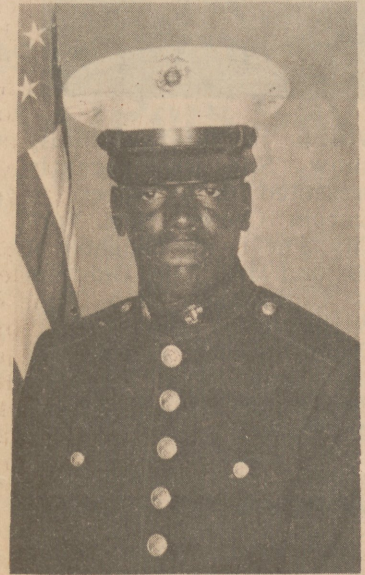

That convention didn't have enough black delegates and it had far fewer young blacks. We need to get our people involved again in the party of Lincoln.

At the same time, the GOP needs to take a close look at itself and, once and for all, determine whether it will remain the conservative-dominated, anti-black, racist party which it is today or become a party of the people—all the people, including black Americans.

The job is two-fold: we must become in greater numbers involved in the Republican Party and the GOP must open up its doors and make us feel we are welcomed into their party.

Unfortunately, the recent Republican convention did little to convince black voters they would be welcomed into the party of the President. That must be changed, or we are indeed in more serious trouble than we ever imagined we were.

Live Or Just Be

by Clifford Pack

As one passes through life, there are many ups and downs. If you are one of the lucky ones, through the crooks and turns of life, there's a straight-away. Even though you know it's only a passing thing, you enjoy it. It's like that very special sunset, that you swore you'd never see another like. It's like the first time you said hello and the time before you said good-bye. Does one slip back into the curves or do the curves of life come and get one. I know life is something you must get out and get, but how does one pick his road if he has never traveled before.

Thanking You

by Clifford Pack

Once I was hungry and did not know how to eat

Once I wanted to run but did not even know how to walk

Once I wanted to be like someone else, anyone just not me - but who am I?

I wished upon a star once and the wish came true

You touched me! Thank You

Following the decree of death by public execution, many Nigerians find themselves torn between their aversion to the taking of human life and their conviction that armed robbery must be stopped.

With the end of the civil war of the 1960s, unemployment and uncollected caches of weapons have led to an outbreak of armed robberies which brought forth a public outcry and resulted in the death degree. In a country where the overall crime rate is far below that of more developed nations, 170 public executions have been carried out since the decree was handed down in 1970.

WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES DOUBLES AFRICAN LIBERATION FUND

The World Council of Churches has rejected criticism of its special fund for support of southern African liberation movements and voted to double its financial support to $1 million a year.

The council, which represents 250 Protestant and Orthodox denominations throughout the world has been criticized because some of the funds reportedly were used by liberation fighters to buy guns for use against Portuguese colonial governments.

U. N. SECRETARY ACCUSED OF INTERFERENCE

BANGUI, Central African Republic — (NBNS) — Secretary General Waldheim's message to General Bokassa, president of the Central African Republic, protesting the beating of convicted robbers, touched off an indignant reply that Waldheim was "interfering" in the nation's internal affairs.

General Bokassa's reply to the U. N. Secretary General was stressed as a personal attack and not one directed at the United Nations. Mr. Waldheim's role, the General said, was to solve the problems of peace in the world and not to interfere in the internal affairs of the Central African Republic.

Sports Then

With Allen Ashby

The baseball season is just heating up good and now we have the football season upon us. And there are some changes in the rules and procedures that are supposed to make for more scoring. And there will be no ties in our high school games. Some difference from our days, then the ball was just a little rounder, bigger through the middle. It was made primarily for kicking whereas the ball of today is made for passing, there were very few men who could get their hands even halfway around that old ball, when you wanted to pass you gripped the thing near the end and let fly. There were some fellows who could throw the ball as far as these passers throw the modern one. I recall a fellow, Garland Haynes, who had hands like elephant ears, who could throw that big ball seventy five yards. His friends used to win several malted milks and occasionally some real money because few people would believe he could throw the thing that far. Some of his admirers claimed that Haynes could throw the ball the length of the field, and none of us really doubted that he might do it. We dropkicked, ie, dropping the ball on the ground and kicking it on the rise. This was done instead of place kicking so much.

I sat out at the Drake stadium and witnessed what was to be the third longest dropkick in football history. The fellow, Jack Pence, of Coe College, warmed up by booting one for about forty-nine yards. Then he took on the blockbuster, fifty-nine yards. That helped beat a good Drake team 12 to 6. At that time the feat didn't really register as it did in later years when people began comparing long kicks. And, do you know that ball traveled about seventy yards in the air. If the goal posts had been ten yards back, it wouldn't have made any difference. That older brother of mine, Lucius, was dead from fifty yards in on place kicks. Very seldom missed and some times would boot one a bit further. I wonder if a dropkick would be effective today? It would seem that it might. But with this little ball, you probably wouldn't get the accuracy of the place kickers. But maybe some guy will try it just for kicks. Then, the new sideline rule among the pros can't help but remind me of the way we used to have to play the sidelines. The ball was put in play wherever the runner was tackled, no matter if it was one inch from the sideline. When the ball was centered on a spot that close to the sideline, that made the center eligible for a pass. Some teams used to have the guy go downfield just as far as they needed to gain a first down and turn around. The passer would throw the ball down that sideline about waist high like a pitcher throwing a fastball. Sometimes the fellow would catch the thing in his stomach and you could hear him grunt clear across the field. We had a variety of sideline plays. But you must remember that this was all before Television or game movies. You could work a play on several teams or several times a season. Now it isn't any good for more than about twice during a schedule. But now with the ball moved in almost to the middle of the field, it gives the offense more room to do what they want to, and makes it tougher for the defense to cover on passes. Maybe they are conspiring against the defense in several games. They have outlawed the zone defense in pro basketball, and now they are talking about outlawing it in pass defense in football.

And, no matter what they say, I refuse to believe that the game is rougher than it was when we played. Sure, the players are bigger and faster in most cases, but we didn't have nearly the protection that the players have today. Our helmets were little more than leather caps, and you could sure get your block knocked off when an opponent hit you upside the dome. No face masks or mouth pieces. If you got swatted in the mouth, you simply spit out your teeth and waited for your turn to knock out some for the other guy. Rules about piling on weren't too strict, and if you went down, you had better get small if you hoped to survive. Brother Lucius used to keep a mouth full of snuff, and when people piled onto him, he would look up and spit at the sky. Folks would get up mighty fast. We all had our little survival tactics. For instance, a straightarm was often nothing more than a hard left or right jab with a fist on the end. And in those days of no face masks, you can imagine what that sometimes did to a fellow's face. Then, of course the foot in football meant something. When a punter was about to have his punt blocked, he would aim the ball at the blocker's face and let fly. You'd be surprised how many times they had to call time out for the player who blocked a punt.

PULPWOOD WORKERS FIGHT RACISM

LAUREL, Miss. (NBNS)—In a move to put democracy in and racism out of the Gulfcoast Pulpwood Association, its members have replaced a racist president with an interracial group of three blacks and three whites.

The G.P.A., which won a strike against the South's giant paper industry last fall, has rejected James Simmons of Forest Home, Alabama, who members charged repeatedly said that blacks were not smart enough to hold leadership roles.

The 80 percent black association elected Fred Walters, President; Webb Davis, Vice-President; Mrs. Clozelle Ryans, Secretary; Marjorie Walters, Asst. Secretary; Grover Sanders, Treasurer, and Ullis Clark, Asst. Treasurer.

Florida Governor Refuses To Reinstate Racist Sheriff

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (NBNS)—Florida Gov. Reuben Askew has refused to reinstate Lake County Sheriff Willis V. McCall, despite the acquittal of the racist lawman on charges of beating a black prisoner to death.

The governor's press secretary, Don Pride, said Askew will continue McCall's suspension pending a State Senate inquiry into charges of malfeasance and misfeasance of office.

"Evidence in a suspension action is different from that (presented) in court," Pride said.

Gov. Askew, a progressive voice in the South, suspended the 63-year-old sheriff after he was indicted for second degree murder in the death of Tommy J. Vickers of Miami. The 37-year-old prisoner, in jail on a minor traffic offense, died of acute peritonitis from a blow to the abdomen. The prosecution in McCall's trial said this was caused by a kick in the stomach from McCall's Western-style boot.

McCall admitted that he gave Vickers what he called several judo "pops," but denied that he had kicked him in a scuffle in the jail cell. He also denied that he ever ordered Vickers punished, placed on a diet of peas and carrots, or had him put in a six-by-six foot punishment cell.

An all-white jury acquitted the sheriff after deliberating for one hour and 15 minutes. The trial was transferred from Lake to adjoining Marion County because McCall is a candidate for reelection in an office he has held for 28 years.

The current case is the first in which McCall has been indicted, although he has been involved in the death of several black prisoners during his controversial career. He is expected to be renominated in the Democratic primary Sept. 12 and win reelection in November.

His removal from his present term of office is contingent on the approval of the Florida State Senate which meets to organize immediately following the November election. Consideration of his case could be delayed, however, until the regular session of the Florida Legislature next Spring.

OFFICIALDOM GETTING YOUNGER EVERY DAY

NLI—The new 18-to-21-year-old vote has shown definite results in recent city elections across the country. The new mayor in Newcomerstown, Ohio is 19-year-old Ron Hooker, a college junior who will be presiding over city council meetings and directing the police, fire, and street departments.

Nineteen-year-old Dale Noordam of Mullan, Idaho, wanted to run for mayor, but when he was told he was too young, he ran for city councilman. He's now the youngest elected official in the state.

In Pawtucket, R.I., Maureen Massier, 18, won a seat on the local school committee. She came in first of six candidates who were competing for three committee seats.

The newly elected officials are eager to begin work in January, when they will take office. Says Noordam, "mixing younger opinions with older experience will be a good deal."

BATHTUB PULLS HIT AND RUN

San Francisco, Calif. (NLI)—Exhibit "A" is a banged-up white bathtub. That's all police have as evidence in a "hit-and-run" case here.

The tub fell off a truck piled high with other bathtubs. It smacked a couple of traffic lights and put all the traffic signals at a busy intersection out of commission.

Will you join Senator Gaylord Nelson in support of 3,000 Chicano factory workers striking for the same rights and justice enjoyed by millions of other Americans?

In today's electronic world, words quickly become symbols.

To many of us, "Mexican-American" or "Chicano" instinctively trigger thoughts of the lettuce boycott and the oppressed conditions of farm workers.

Unfortunately, Mexican-American problems and exploitation are not confined to farms.

Along the border in Texas and New Mexico 3,000 skilled factory workers are entering their third month of a strike against the Farah Manufacturing Company.

Farah is one of America's largest manufacturers of men's and boys' pants. Farah built and operates eight plants in areas of consistent low employment and notorious exploitation of apparel workers.

When Farah workers attempted to form a union with the support of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, Farah's response was right out of the old school of social injustice. Fire them.

On May 3rd, to protest this action, the workers walked out.

Farah responded with guards on patrol with unmuzzled police dogs.

Farah lawyers won extraordinary cooperation from local officials. An order was granted that required pickets to remain fifty feet apart.

THERE HAS BEEN NO VIOLENCE AND NO DISORDER.

Yet over 700 pickets have been arrested for ostensibly violating this order. Some were raided and arrested in their homes in the middle of the night.

The alleged violations are a misdemeanor, with a normal bail of $25, $400 per person is the actual bail imposed on each worker arrested!

THE BISHOP OF EL PASO WRITES:

In a letter to Antonio Sanchez, the local manager of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Bishop S. M. Metzger wrote:

"When you tell me that your cause is good I believe it. The Church has to defend demands of social justice, i.e. the dignity of man, the dignity of labor and the right of the worker to a living wage. Any obstacles that may be set up to prevent the worker from receiving a living wage are unjust."

Senator Gaylord Nelson has said: "This is no ordinary labor-management conflict; the issues in this strike are basic to our democratic process." At Farah the issues are not only decent wages and working conditions.

The issues are human decency: the rights of American citizens, the continuing struggle of Mexican-Americans to overcome the prejudice and repression that keep them vulnerable to exploitation.

In a speech on June 1st, Senator Edward M. Kennedy said:

"I am proud to join you in this fight . . . protecting the basic needs of the workingman, championing the thousands of Mexican-American workers now on strike against the flagrant unfair labor practices and the outright harassment, brutality and exploitation practiced by the Farah Company."

If you try to join a union, you're fired; if you picket within fifty feet of the man in front of you, you're arrested; if you're a Mexican-American in the Southwest today, you know the flesh and blood meaning of words like "harassment", "intimidation", "brutality".

DON'T BUY FARAH PANTS

We believe that the conduct of this company represents a rare example of deprivation of the rights of the workers. Against this discrimination, they are defenseless to fight alone. The way you can help is by contributing to the support of the deprived families, and by refusing to purchase Farah products until the evidence indicates that justice prevails.

CAN YOUR ORGANIZATION SEND $100 A MONTH TO SUPPORT A CHICANO FAMILY WITH NO WAGE COMING IN?

Workers earning minimum wages have no bank accounts to fall back on. In Texas and New Mexico there are no unemployment benefits for striking workers.

They need money for basic necessities: food, medicine, rent.

For $100 a month your church, temple, union local, your social, political or business organization can meet the emergency financial need of one family.

You can make a tangible contribution to winning this fight. You can help move the condition of Mexican-Americans forward one step.

Families will receive all the money you contribute; nothing will be deducted for administrative or any other costs.
