Saunders Named New Sight-Saving Chairman

Dr. Meredith Saunders, a Des Moines physician, has been appointed Polk County sight-saving chairman for the Iowa Society for the Prevention of Blindness, according to the group's president, William P. Norris of Red Oak.

MEREDITH SAUNDERS

Dr. Saunders will serve as chairman during September, which is sight-saving month. He will serve with Marilyn Maye, well known singer-entertainer, Miss Maye is the Iowa sight-saving chairman.

Beginning next week in The New Iowa Bystander, spokesmen for the two major Presidential candidates, President Richard Nixon and Sen. George McGovern, will tell black voters why they should cast their ballots for their respective candidates.

Blacks Must Develop 'Green Power' Says Sullivan

St. Louis — The Rev. Leon Sullivan turned the 62d annual National Urban League Conference into a foot-stamping hand-clapping, old-time Baptist revival meeting when he told an audience of some 800 that "black power without brain power and green power is no power."

"Blacks can do anything they want to do just as America can do whatever it wants to do," Dr. Sullivan said.

"As long as you kiss a man's foot," Dr. Sullivan said, "he's going to kick when you turn around. But if you came to him on an equal footing, he will help you to do whatever you want to get done."

"Black people drink a half million quarts of milk a year in America and there is not one black man who is a major milk producer. Blacks wear 60 million pairs of shoes a year and there is no major black shoe manufacturer in the nation."

CITE AMBUSH OF CLEAVER'S WIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF. (AP)— Kathleen Cleaver, wife of Black Panther fugitive Eldridge Cleaver, apparently was the target of a "setup ambush" in which someone hoped she and two bodyguards would be shot by police, inspectors said Sunday.

No shots were fired, however, and no one was hurt in the incident Aug. 25, officers said.

KATHLEEN CLEAVER

Police said they received an anonymous call that night saying they could find some stolen clothing at an address in San Francisco's Mission District. Officers reported finding a stack of women's clothing valued at $750 in the basement, stolen from a Palo Alto dress shop, said inspector Ed Hall. As three officers examined the clothing, Mrs. Cleaver and two bodyguards entered the basement, police said. They were ordered to "freeze."

Sullivan, I think we can work it out."

"That $200,000 didn't come from going out in the street begging. It didn't come from welfare. Our church members got together a plan for each of us to save $10 a month for 36 months and when we had $200,000 we put together Progress Plaza."

The Rev. Sullivan said similar plans are going to be initiated in several other states.

The Rev. Sullivan was critical of the government as well as the black community when he said "anytime the Government can control the amount a man makes, the number of rooms a man rents, the number of children a family had, then it is in its power to wipe out that man."

This was a reference to what the Rev. Sullivan apparently believes is the increased conservatism of the federal Government which is improving price and wage controls.

"I'm disturbed by the mood around America to sterilize women who have babies and are unable to care for them. In 20 years it may become legal to sterilize women without their consent and the public may stand behind it."

Confessions To A Computer

WASHINGTON, D.C. (NBNS)— The U.S. Department of Labor has confessed to a computer that it discriminates against black and female employees.

According to statistical data fed into a computer system, a white male joining the Labor Department would be making nearly $4,000 more than a black male and $2,000 more than a white female after five years of service.

These findings were part of a 795-page study concluded in October, 1971, which show that the Labor Department's minority hiring record is worse than that of many of the industries it oversees.

All factors being equal, the study deduced that a white male employee will be making $16,217 in five years; a black male, $12,872; a white female, $14,484, and a black female, $12,008.

The principal reason for the wide range can be traced to race and sex discrimination, according to the Department's own study.

The computer took into account variations in salary that could be based on length of service, age, education, geographical location and organizational unit within the Department.

that there has been no violence or unlawful activity.

Farah employs about 10,000 workers, 95% of whom are Mexican-Americans. About 85% of the work force is female.

The National AFL-CIO has endorsed the strike, and many civic organizations and leading citizens have pledged support.

Farah is one of the largest manufacturers of men's and boys' pants in the country. Many local retailers carry Farah products, and consumers are encouraged not to purchase this brand.

Atlanta's Black Businessmen Unsure Of Situation

ATLANTA, Ga. (NBNS)— The Black Panther Party is becoming increasingly visible here and it's making some local business merchants nervous.

"You name it, they want it," said Ernest Boyce, president of Colonial Food Stores, Inc.

Boyce was referring to face-to-face visits he and other Atlanta business executives have had from members of the Black Panther Party who are soliciting for weekly contributions of funds, food or clothing to carry on work among the city's poor.

Owners of food store and drug store chains, in particular, have been asked to "give in a regular manner so that we can plan the programs around the donations," according to leaflets left with businessmen by Panther delegations.

Many Atlantans have come into contact for the first time with the brash, confident style of Panther Party members and don't quite know what to make of it.

"They plopped down with their hats still on and smokes in their mouths and started telling me about their program," said Fred Brown, an executive with the "Big Apple" supermarket chain.

"When they finished, I asked them how in the world they expected to get anything from anybody acting the way they did," he said.

Neither Brown nor anyone else has charged the Panthers with strong arm tactics but they are being watched by law enforcement officials.

"Everytime they visit a place, they leave the people there with the feeling that they have been threatened, but when you get right down to it, you can't put your finger on an actual threat," said District Attorney Lewis Slaton of the Atlanta Judicial Circuit.

What the Panthers are seeking, however, is hardly threatening.

The solicitations are to raise food and material goods for the "Peoples' Community Survival Programs" which would cover every thing from a free breakfast program for ghetto children to legal aid classes and help in obtaining lawyers.

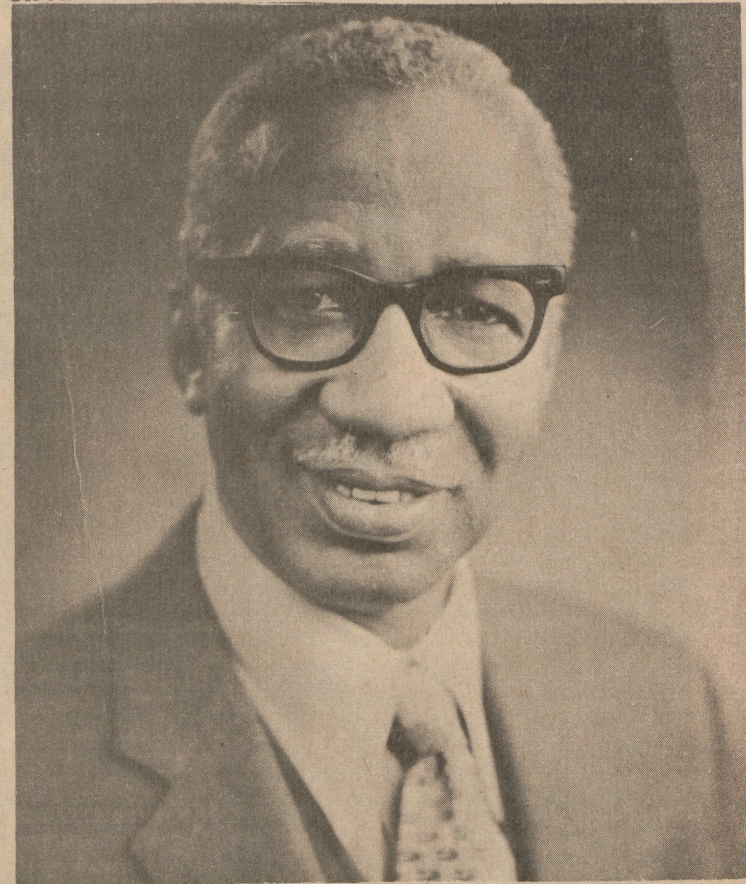

Long range plans call for such facilities as a free medical clinic, a free home repair service, a free bus program for families of inmates to and from prison and free ambulance service.

Food chains such as Colonial, Kroger and Big Apple and drug chains such as Rexall are being asked to contribute cash on a regular weekly basis or free clothing, free food or other articles.

If businessmen refuse to donate, the Panthers will attempt through legal means, to stop customers from patronizing the stores by picketing and passing out leaflets. Chain stores have been called "corporate capitalist bandits" that have been "robbing black customers with high prices" and should therefore be made to contribute goods and services to the community.

Leaflets distributed by Panther Party members have pledged to defend the black community against any racist or reactionary attacks and pointed out several kinds of violent acts many people tend to overlook:

"Violence. . . also vents itself in the form of unemployment or indecent pay, robbery by local merchants, unfit housing for human beings, inadequate clothing, irrelevant educational institutions, hunger and racist railroading by judges and juries. This kind of violence is as bad as the club of a racist policeman."

Moultrie, 57, is an attorney and he is chairman of the District of Columbia Commission on Human Rights, chairman of the Housing and Development Corporation, and a member of the Mayor's Economic Development Committee. A native of Tampa, Florida, Moultrie grew up in Wilmington, N.C. He is a graduate of Lincoln University in Pennsylvania.

An Opinion: Angela's Visit Presents Contrast To Nixon Mission To Moscow

By PAGE TOWNSEND
National Black News Service
WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — No television pictures of her are being beamed, via satellite, to the American people, but another eminent American is following President Nixon on a mission to Moscow.

Black militant Angela Davis presents, in her current visit to the Soviet Union, a vivid symbolic contrast to the President's highly publicized diplomatic journey.

There are, of course, some similarities.

Both events obviously have been elaborately staged. And both have their strong political purposes and public relations overtones.

The President's trip was very "official" and was not supposed to have anything to do with his political ambition to keep Republicanism in the White House for another four years.

Angela Davis's journey, which will take her to various Communist and Socialist countries over a period of one month, is officially a "thank you" gesture for the support she received throughout Communist and non-Communist countries during her trial on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy.

But it is obviously political when, in accepting a jubilee medal issued for the 100th Anniversary of the Birth of V.I. Lenin, she says: "I, an American Communist, will continue to follow Lenin's commands." Or when she lays a wreath at Lenin's tomb with the inscription: "We honor Lenin by fighting against racism."

Miss Davis's Communist beliefs, however, are appropriate for her role as the antithesis of the American establishment.

President Nixon arrived in Moscow, of course, as the embodiment of the American power structure, of the conventional attitudes toward power, politics and prejudice which the great majority of Americans seems to hold so dear.

Miss Davis appeared in Moscow as the representative of that other America. It is definitely not a pro-Communist America, but it is a numerous America of those who are the wrong color, are of the wrong sex, or are the holders of unpopular political views.

For these Americans, Angela Davis transcends her own political views, her sex and her color. She is an appropriate antidote to the Nixon image of America.

Black Virgin Islands Governor Named 1973 Southern Governors Chairman

By NATIONAL BLACK NEWS SERVICE

Evans, chosen unanimously by the 17 governors at the close of the annual conference here, said his selection by his colleagues makes a "maturing" of the South.

"When the Southern Governors elect George Wallace and a Black Republican, then I think we've shown to the world an example of southern unity and progress," said South Carolina's John West, who stepped aside from the chairmanship as a tribute to Wallace.

After Evans selection by the governors, Wallace leaned from his wheel-chair and clasped hands with Evans as the other governors applauded.

The resolution on school busing, adopted over the objections of Evans, is basically a restatement of the resolution adopted two years ago by the Southern Governors at their meeting at Biloxi, Miss.

It says, "the Southern Governors Conference opposes the busing of school children from one neighborhood to another for the purpose of attempting to achieve numerical balancing of the races."

Sammy May Become First Black To Own Part Of Major Hotel On Strip

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — (NBNS) — Sammy Davis, who couldn't even stay in a room in a major resort hotel 25 years ago when he was entertaining here, may become the first black to own part of a hotel on the infamous "strip."

Accompanied by Tropicana owner Deil Gustafson, Davis picked up his state gambling application from the Nevada Gaming Control Board. That's the first step in partial ownership.

Black Principal Awarded $42,000 In Discrimination Case

WASHINGTON, D.C. — One of the highest fee settlements ever awarded an educator for nonrenewal of his contract—$26,000 to the displaced black principal for two years' back pay and $16,000 for attorney fees—has been announced in Northeast Texas.

Houston Bassett of Atlanta, Tex., has been ordered reinstated to a principal's position in the Atlanta Independent School District. Judge William W. Justice of the U.S. District Court in Marshall, Tex., ruled that the school board, in failing to renew Bassett's contract for the 1970-71 school year (and the 1971-72 year), had not adhered to a higher court's decree calling for use of objective and nonracial criteria in determining who would not be reemployed after desegregation.

The National Education Association's DuShane Emergency Fund, established to protect the civil and professional rights of educators, provided financial support in the Bassett suit.

"This is too late in the day," Judge Justice said Aug. 22 in announcing the large awards to the plaintiff, "to contend the those who have borne the crushing indignity of racial discrimination all their lives must shoulder that burden a little longer because the school board must live with a pecuniary setback..."

Judge Justice criticized the school board's lack of good faith in refusing to reinstate Bassett even when ordered to do so by the U.S.

Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. In the summer of 1970, HEW's Office of Civil Rights found Bassett's dismissal discriminatory and ordered him reinstated. About a year later—in August 1971—the principal brought legal action.

Bassett, an educator with over 30 years' experience in his profession including 12 years as a principal, had been offered a contract in February 1969 with a condition attached that when desegregation plans were unfolded, he would become an assistant principal at the previously all-black school. He refused to sign the contract, which he considered a demotion.

The job description for the assistant principalship did not include any supervisory functions. Judge Justice described the duties of the position as "combination bookkeeper, file clerk, and errand boy for the principal."

SSG. DARRYL N. ROLAND, SR., non-commissioned officer in charge of the 2nd Infantry Division's Equal Opportunity and Fair Treatment Office in Korea is concluding a twenty-six day visit Stateside. He has been visiting his wife, the former Kathy Fowler, and three children: Shawn 7, Darryl, Jr. 6, and Tina, 2 year old. Mrs. Roland, in addition to being a housewife and mother, is enrolled in the Des Moines Skill Center.

SSG. ROLAND IS THE SON OF MR. AND MRS. CLINTON A. ROLAND; he is the brother of Mrs. Donna Vaughn, Keith, Kenneth and Rocky Roland.

HIS ASSIGNMENT IN KOREA is a short tour. He has been there six months and in the service 4½ years. A career man, Roland is a teletype repairman supervisor. He learned this skill at Fort Gordon, Georgia. Roland graduated in 1966 from Des Moines Technical High School where he was a track star.

THE GOAL OF HIS OFFICE is to discourage prejudice and discrimination and to promote understanding, tolerance and trust among all military personnel. Otherwise you can say, these guys are here to do a job, that can help you, as a soldier, and all they ask is "Let's Meet Halfway." You can see this quote on the posters that are placed within the areas around the 2nd Division. They wish to foster the other five words that the poster contains: understanding, consideration, concern, respect, and education. These words mean a lot and they are what EOT is all about. Sgt. Roland states "We are trying to promote trust between men of all races. Not only is EOT helping American GIs but they have KATUSA representative, Sgt. J.K. Lee. KATUSA stands for Korean. Any Katusa who feels he is being mistreated or has any other similar problem, is urged to see Sgt. Lee at the EOT office. Roland feels that it is important in instances of racial troubles to get at the cause of the problem, the reason for its occurrence. And then to check back to see that it no longer exists. He seeks this form of solution in his work. Roland was selected for this assignment.

LT. NORRIS CHARLES, A POW who is being released by Hanoi has a sister and brother-in-law living among us. They are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shannon living in Ames, Iowa, and enrolled in school there! MRS. SHANNON AND LT. CHARLES have a brother, Dr. Herbert Charles of Corning, New York. He holds a Ph. D. in chemistry from the University of California, Berkeley, California.

In response to my inquiry as to why the Shannons chose Iowa, she revealed that she and her husband were on the faculty in biology and when her husband decided to reenter school, were involved in the U.S. Department of Agriculture in animal diseases. He is involved in pollution and pesticides. He was encouraged to seek out Iowa State as a possible school in which to pursue his studies. The School has an excellent program in fisheries and wild life biology. Dr. Ross Burkley was instrumental in helping him to establish a project which was later funded through the U. S. Department of Interior and Iowa, and he was given a research assistantship. Mrs. Shannon was given a teaching assistantship in the Department of Zoology in the area of animal behavior.

MRS. SHANNON SHARED THAT Mrs. Charles received letters from her husband through Ted Kennedy, Ramsey Clark and Jane Fonda. Ted Kennedy and Clark phoned her and talked with her. Her husband's letters all indicated that he was treated well, not inhumane in any instance—none whatsoever! He was exercising, played bridge and ping pong and was being fed properly.

BETHEL A.M.E. CHURCH NEWS

The Men of Bethel had a very successful day last Sunday. The morning worship was held at the regular hour of eleven. The all male chorus provided the music. The pastor's message was taken from the first book of Psalms, verse three. The topic was "The Way God Measures Man". The afternoon service was the climax of a most successful "Men's Day" effort. The Reverend Ezra M. Johnson was the guest speaker. Rev. Johnson is from Memphis, Tenn. He spoke on the subject "Let Us Make Man" taken from the very first book of the Bible. Again the male chorus sang accompanied by Miss Diane Banks on the organ and Mrs. Marylee Banks on the piano. The pulpit was graced with the presence of Presiding Wm. H. Burnette Jr., the Rev. Henderson David of St. Paul A.M.E. Church, the Rev. Jones of Kyles A.M.E. Zion, Rev. Louis Grady, associate minister of Bethel. The lovely choir from St. Paul handled the last half of the service of song. Mr. Irvin White was in charge of the day. Mr. L. Cooper Co-Ch. This Sunday is the last service before the annual conference, that is to be held in Decatur, Illinois. Then it will be determined if the present pastor will be reassigned or not.

DANVILLE, VA.—

(NBNS)—The local branch of the NAACP wants the U.S. District Court to set aside its recent desegregation order and draw up new ones. The NAACP said the board should draw up "a more realistic plan for the city schools."

The NAACP charge that the insulation of students in the fourth and lower grades from the desegregation process was without justification and not supported by evidence.

They also charged that the elementary schools were divided into two systems, one on either side of the Dan River. The direct result of this is avoidance of a greater degree of desegregation, the NAACP said.

Kalonji Lumumba Speaks

While rapping with some brothers and sisters the other night about the newly formed Black United Front and the Soulful Blacks one of the Brothers said, "Man I'm not gonna put myself on front street with a handful of brothers and sisters as soon as niggahs get it together I'll be there." My reply to the brother was this

"The only reason there is only a handful is because brothers like you are standing on the sideline saying you would join if the Black Organization had more members." To this the brother replied, "I just don't have time."

When are we going to seize the time? If we do not have respect for each other, if we do not show concern for each other, how are we ever to achieve liberation? It is time that we uncover the truth and start being honest with each other. It is time to stop talking about Black Unity and time to start showing Black Unity.

It is bad enough to watch a so-called subversive (It is also subversive for us to consider ourselves human) organization be wiped out but to watch an organization that is trying to secure the basic democratic and human rights for Black people be repressed into nothingness is the height of indignity.

More than ever it is imperative that we show unity, seize the time and continue to build a better life for our future generations, if there are to be any future generations.

Already the Police Dept. has begun to harass the members of these organizations and historical experience has taught us that following the state of harassment comes the stage of repression. Are we willing to stand by idly and watch another movement repressed into non-existence.

It is bad enough to watch a so-called subversive (It is also subversive for us to consider ourselves human) organization be wiped out but to watch an organization that is trying to secure the basic democratic and human rights

Olympic Report

By Mark Southerland

National Black News Service
It began with a disaster in the 100-meter dash and it ended in humiliation with the 200-meter dash. When it was over the Olympic sprint domination by Black Americans had ended. A Russian named Valeri Borzov became the first man to double in these events in 16 years.

First, the black U.S. track coach gave his star sprinters and world recordholders Rey Robinson and Eddie Hart the wrong starting time for a qualifying heat and they were disqualified. This left only Robert Taylor as a threat to Borzov but Taylor was defeated easily and finished second. Although the hopes for Hart and Robinson were crushed, the U.S. team had another chance in the 200 meters. But here with all three Americans in the final Borzov won with room to spare.

The U.S.'s Duane Bobick favored to win the Olympic heavyweight gold medal and follow in the footsteps of Joe Frazier and George Foreman was beaten soundly in a second round bout by Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba. Bobick, the first top-class white fighter to appear in many years was completely out-fought by the black Stevenson.

The six-foot-five Cuban freely exchanged punches with Bobick, with Stevenson always doing the greater damage. In the third and final round Bobick got Stevenson into a corner and made a few points but it was too late as his eye was severely battered and the referee soon stopped the contest.

Excitement at the Olympics reached a peak during the phenomenal 400-meter hurdle race of John Akii-Bua. The 23-year-old police instructor from Uganda ran a near perfect race while clocking a world record, 0:47.8, the first time ever under 48 seconds.

In winning Uganda's first gold medal, Akii-Bua finished seven yards ahead of favorites Ralph Mann, the 440 yards hurdles world recordholder, and Dave Hemery the 1968 champion. Mann and Hemery finished second and third respectively.

Kipchoge Keino of Kenya proved himself ready to defend his Olympic 1,500 meter crown by out-running the field to capture the 3,000-meter steeple-chase. Keino ran an Olympic record time of 8 minutes, 23.6 seconds to take the gold, while another Kenyan, Ben Jipcho, took the silver.

SPORTS NOW

Hank Aaron has moved ahead of Stan Musial to become the all-time leader in career total bases. In the first game of a double-header against the Phillies on Sept. 2 Aaron blasted two homers for eight total bases.

The second homer, his 28th of the season and the 667th of his career, gave him 6,134 total bases and a tie with Musial. The next day Aaron singled twice to take the lead.

The Association of Tennis Professionals was formed Aug. 31st at Forest Hills, N.Y. by fifty-six of the world's leading tennis players. The Association's spokesman Arthur Ashe said that the players had agreed to the constitution and the by-laws and that more players are expected to join shortly.

Ashe is a member of the board of directors that includes among others, Cliff Drydale of South Africa, Andres Gimeno of Spain and Nikk Pilic of Yugoslavia.

Once again Lee Elder failed in his attempt to win his first major tournament and he did not receive the automatic invitation as the first black in the Masters. Elder was defeated by Lee Trevino on the hole of a sudden-death playoff in the $125,000 Greater Hartford Open golf tournament. Two weeks before in Sutton, Mass., Elder also had a chance to win going into the final round, but he finished three strokes behind Bruce Devlin.

Another young black golfer made a good showing in the Greater Hartford Open. Curtis Sifford whose uncle Charlie has the best record of any black golfer started the final round tied for the lead, but he shot a 72 and finished in a tie for fifth four shots back.

The season's first nationally-televised college football between the University of Tennessee and Georgia Tech will display an increasingly prevalent situation; opposing black quarterbacks. Georgia Tech's Eddie McAshan, the first black ever on the squad, is a senior and he has proved his ability and leadership.

Tennessee's quarterback is Condredge Holloway a 19 year old sophomore in the spotlight. McAshan's triumph over the pressure and Holloway's indifference to it signal progress in opening up the glamour spot in football to everyone.

Sports Then

With Allen Ashby

The crazy finish of the Olympian basketball game between Russia and U.S. reminded me that I haven't really seen it all. In my umpteen years in sports, I thought I had seen just about all that there was to see when it came to pulling out a game. I have been in games when the clock was turned back, but nobody on the floor knew it. They would say there was, say, five minutes to play. Well, you would play for a day and a half, and there would still be two minutes left. And time never ran out until the home team either got ahead or gave it up as hopeless. Then we had a spectator come down out of the stands and tell us that the official score keeper was wrong, that he had kept score and the home team had won by one point instead of losing. The home team manager was inclined to go along with the spectator, and maybe you think that didn't cause some confusion. Especially since we were playing for the gate to be split sixty percent to the winner and forty percent to the loser. Then we had a fellow grab a ball with time actually out and heave the thing the length of the court as the Russians did Saturday. But this guy's basket merely tied the score, and we beat 'em in the overtime. But nothing that I ever saw quite matched the happenings of that olympian ball game. Oh, yes, we had the referee in Ft. Smith, Arkansas take the ball away from our team and give it to the home team because they couldn't get it away from us. When we quoted the book, we were informed that this brother was running this game, and I had better shut unless I wanted a technical foul. Now, do you think any of the things I have described can match that game?

That was just in basketball. We had some dillies pulled on us in football and baseball. In baseball you could do alright until things got close. Then if you batted, anything near the plate was a strike, and you had to beat a throw to first by a mile or be out. If you pitched to their favorite hitter it had to be right in his alley or it was a ball. Chet Brewer told me about the time he was having a rough time with the local umpire. He wound up and went through the motions of throwing his fast ball. The catcher thumped his glove. The Ump yelled "Ball! 2". Then Chet said he showed the ump the ball still in his hand, and was nearly run out of town. But the spectators laughed so much that it broke the tension, and he said they got a bit better deal on balls and strikes from then on.

Then we got it in football. Whenever we lost a game by one touchdown we considered that one a moral win, because we knew that we probably been robbed. This is just one game. We were leading six to nothing and the game was running out. The hometown heaved a pass. Our defensive man knocked the pass down in front of the intended receiver. Interference was the call, and they had the ball on our eight yard line with first and goal. Well, we stopped them for three downs. On the fourth down we held them again. But we were penalized for unnecessary roughness, which consisted of tackling the ball carrier. So we were back to our four yard line. Held 'em again and called offside. Back to the two yard mark. One more time they didn't gain and we were set back to our four yard line. Held 'em again and called offside. Back to the two yard mark. One more time they didn't gain and we were set back to the one yard line for swearing. This at a time when everybody on the field cussed like troopers and it was legal. Unsportsmanlike conduct. Now we were on the half yard mark. Then after another down they got the ball less than a foot from the last mark. Then finally, the nose of the ball was as close to the goal line as it could get without being over. So they finally got over. We blocked the try for point, but they got another one because we were offside. "Who?" "Don't know, but you got in there too fast. You had to be offside." Now, you think this didn't happen? It is the truth if I ever told it, and you wonder why we liked this type of ball. And you think the American basketball team got robbed.

Sometime this fall I shall come out with two all star teams. One will be composed of black players from 1920 to 1940 inclusive. The other will include players from 1941 to 1961. Now, I know that I am sure to leave out somebody you think should have made it, so why dont you send me the names of some of the fellows you think ought to make it. I shall wait about three weeks for your lists, and then I am gone, and let the chips fall where they may.
