Why Blacks Should Support Nixon

By Stanley W. Scott
Assistant to the Director of Communications
For the Executive Branch
The White House

(In this continuing series of articles prepared exclusively for the National Black News Service, Stanley Scott, a White House Aide, tells why black voters should cast their ballots for Richard Nixon.)

George McGovern stated in 1964 "The time has come to stand up and be counted on this issue (civil rights). Either you are for civil rights or you are against it." However, when one looks at the record, Senator McGovern was absent on the votes leading to the passage of the first Civil Rights Act.

In 1959, the Rooney Amendment was attached to the Justice Department Appropriations Bill. The Amendment was designed to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission. Senator McGovern was absent for the vote... and in fact he did not take a stand for the Record.

When the Civil Rights Act of 1960 came up for final

House approval, Senator McGovern was not only absent, but again refused to take a stand for the Record.

Part of a School Construction bill known as the Powell Amendment which required that facilities built under that Act be open to all students regardless of race, color, creed, national origin or religion, came before Congress in 1960. Senator McGovern, this time, was not absent. He just simply voted against it.

In the fight to win the 1964 Civil Rights Act, we find that Mr. McGovern joined 22 other Senators in supporting a last-ditch effort to emasculate the voting rights provisions of the Act.

It's also odd that Senator McGovern has waited until this election year to add minorities to his Senate Office staff. Could it be that he has just suddenly discovered that Black Americans exist?

Why Blacks Should Not Support Nixon

(In this continuing series of articles prepared exclusively for the National Black News Service, Congressman Walter Fauntroy, Delegate from the District of Columbia, tells why black voters should not vote for President Nixon.)

After hearing time and again Nixon and his team of political propagandists praising his record of accomplishments with issues of particular concern to America's Black and minority group of citizens, a look from another point of view is in order.

The following is a series of "canned statements" which are made each day by one or another of Mr. Nixon's campaign spokesmen. Following each of these is another point of view the public is entitled to hear.

"Nixon has made possible more loans to Black business than any other President before him. Increasing numbers of Blacks are moving into the Republican camp."

REALITY: Nixon's Black Capitalism program has

John Grubb Also Clear

Elmer Smith, Regional Administrator for HUD, in letters to Des Moines Mayor Richard Olson and Iowa's Assistant Attorney General

Bennett Cullison, Jr., has made it clear that there is no conflict of interest involved in home builder John Grubb's homes for the Des Moines Housing Corp. nor was there evidence of collusion between Grubb and Nolden Gentry, prominent Des Moines attorney.

All operations of the Des Moines housing corporation were suspended until charges could be investigated. That suspension has now been lifted by Smith's letter. The HUD review was based on alleged bidding irregularities and conflicts of interest by Gentry and Grubb. Smith's letter read in part "our independent investigation discloses that he (Gentry) is an Attorney of High repute. In light of the facts as we have them, we cannot concur either with the analysis of or the conclusion reached by your Law Clerk...

Moreover, there was a complete and full disclosure of his relationship to the respective parties." The letter further stated: "For the purpose of making the record clear, you are advised the we (HUD) neither agree nor concur with all the points raised by the city (of Des Moines) in its twenty-one page legal opinion, a brief submitted to us in this matter."

McGovern Leads Nixon 4-1 In Black Communities Says Poll

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — Democrats have passed the half-way mark in their drive to sign up 8 million new Democratic voters — mostly blacks — in time for the November 7th Presidential election.

The tactic, which was highly successful in 1960 when President John Kennedy was elected, has been especially fruitful in Baltimore, Philadelphia, Detroit and to a lesser degree, New York City.

Admitting the registration drive was aimed primarily at the black communities where McGovern enjoys a comfortable 4-1 lead over the President in polls, Ann Wexler, director of the effort, said the South Dakota Senator was channeling nearly all of his money into efforts in the black community.

Ms. Wexler claimed that the effort will result in "more black registrations than ever before in the history of American politics."

"Most of our money has gone into black communities directly," she told newsmen at a Capitol press conference. Only half of the nation's 14 million eligible black citizens are registered to vote this November, according to Ms. Wexler.

"We've had really outstanding success in most areas, especially in the larger states," she said. "In Northern California we've added over a quarter of a million new Democrats to the rolls at a rate of between 12,000 and 15,000 per week."

She also claimed that registration in Maryland is particularly heavy, especially in Baltimore where the registration is running 2-1 Democratic. Since last May, she said, more than 8,000 people have registered since the drive began.

She, however, could give no exact breakdown of how many new black voters were among the 4 million new registrants.

Bobby G. Seale

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — The Justice Department has decided to drop its case against Black Panther leader Bobby G. Seale rather than reveal how it wiretapped his Chicago jail cell.

Acting through U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson in Chicago, the Federal government told the Seventh U.S. Court of Appeals that it preferred to drop contempt of court charges against Seale rather than reveal the wiretapping logs.

The contempt charges, made by U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman during the notorious "Chicago Seven" conspiracy trial in 1969-70, were the last ones pending against Seale.

The Panther was freed on bond in May 1971 after two trials and 21 months in prison. That same month a Connecticut judge dismissed murder and kidnap charges against him, ruling that it would be impossible to go through with a new trial in view of the failure of the first jury to reach a verdict in the killing of another Black Panther.

Seale was one of the original defendants in the "Chicago Seven" case which grew out of the antiwar demonstrations at the 1968 Democratic National Convention. His case was separated from the other seven defendants and the conspiracy charge against him was dropped following the acquittal of the other seven on that charge. Five of the seven were convicted, however, of crossing state lines for the purpose of inciting riots.

Seale, the other seven and two lawyers, were all convicted for contempt of court as a result of the trials. The U.S. Court of Appeals has reversed these convictions and ordered new trials.

In his trial before Judge Hoffman, Seale sought to serve as his own attorney. When this was refused, he called the judge a "racist, fascist pig" and created a series of disruptions in the court. At one point Judge Hoffman ordered him bound and gagged in the courtroom.

Seale, in the meantime, has announced that he will run for mayor of Oakland, California, in the city's municipal elections next year.

She's A Marine Captain

Capt. Smith feels that it's no harder for a woman to get ahead in the Corps than to do the same in the business world. The basic problems are similar, she says.

"Some men don't think women should function in an area of responsibility. I know this is ridiculous and so does almost everybody else. It's the few with this prejudice who make things difficult for the woman with brains and ability."

Single, Capt. Smith leads a bachelor girl's life in Alexandria, Va. She has her own apartment, strictly non-government issue, where she designs and makes much of her own clothing. Her outside activities include dates to the theater, cultural events, and parties. And then there is always judoka. Capt. Smith is a qualified first degree "brown belt" and working hard to get her "black belt."

"I should have had my black belt by now, but I've been rather busy and I am particular about who my instructors are," says Capt. Smith.

United Front To Hold Unity Conf

The Des Moines Black United Front will hold a unity conference Saturday, Oct. 14, at the Black Theology Center, 1016 Forest Ave., to acquaint the entire Black community with the purpose of the Front as it exists in Des Moines and with the problems facing Black people that the Front will attack.

The conference will begin with registration from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. with a $2 registration fee. Morning activities will include reports from each chairman of the Front's committees.

The committees are: Economics, Politics, Propaganda, Culture, Education, Military and Prisoners' Rights.

Following a noon luncheon, which is free, afternoon activities include entertainment by the Soulful Blacks, among others later in the afternoon and evening. The United Front in Des Moines is part of a growing United Front movement throughout the country to "formulate a series of policies which will insure the fullest mobilization of Black people as well as the unity of all the forces that can be united," in accordance with the Front's philosophy.

The philosophy of the Front, which will fight oppression and repression in Des Moines and throughout Iowa, also is that "fighting repression/oppression means that we share a common interest, an interest which form the basis of unity. The United Front's work must center on developing the forces among Black People."

Pro Nixon

Mr. McGovern has not been a supporter of the fight for Civil Rights. . . if anything, he can only be called a detractor. While the Senator points with pride towards his work in the field of hunger, . . . he in fact is not even close to batting a 1000 per cent. Mr. McGovern talks about having the "will" to solve our housing problems. . . when ultimately he will not even take his own advice. And finally he states his legislative record in the field of education is "unparalleled". . . I fail to find any parallel at all. Mr. McGovern your lack of credibility is showing.

I would like to turn for a moment to Mr. Shriver. From the moment he stepped from his yacht at Hyannis Port and was informed that he was to be Senator McGovern's running mate. . . he has been out traveling the country telling the people how much he cares about our race problems; how much he cares about our poverty; how much he cares about our hunger and above all our fight for equality.

There is something very puzzling about this kind of campaign rhetoric. The more I listen, the more insulted I become. Mr. Shriver's "commitment to equality" . . . to say the least, . . . must be questioned.

I read with interest several weeks ago a feature story on the Shriver family. Mr. McGovern's running mate comes from a family of slave holders in Maryland, whose success in America came from the labor of its indentured servants.

The Washington Post stated that life for the Shriver's in the 18th Century slave state of Maryland " . . . was a life of luxury. . . " If one reads further into the story, we are told that in the family home " . . . the huge kitchen (has) a series of bells that were used to summon the slaves. . . " And we find hanging proudly on the walls " . . . a handbill printed in 1809 by David Shriver, offering the handsome reward of $30 for a runaway slave. . . "

Several weeks ago in Louisiana, Mr. Shriver noted that he had been raised with "an understanding of Southern qualities." He further boasted that of eight forebears of military age during the Civil War, six had served on Dixie's side. . . the other two stayed home. " . . . but none of them fought on the other side. . . "

It sounds to me as though Mr. Shriver is talking out of both sides of his mouth. On the one hand he tells a group in the Deep South that he is proud that none of his family saw fit to fight against slavery. . . he even goes so far as to invoke the names of those "great Americans", Robert E. Lee and Jeb Stuart. On the other hand, several weeks later we hear Mr. Shriver stating that Mr. Nixon is not doing very much for the Blacks and that he " . . . is an insult to anyone who proudly calls themselves a Southerner. . . "

For some reason I find myself very much confused. For one thing I am Black and very proud of my heritage and for another I am a Southerner. I was raised in Atlanta, Georgia. My family heritage goes back through the centuries when my great, great, grandparents were held in bondage.

One cannot help but wonder how Mr. Shriver who approves so highly of the slave holdings of his ancestors, which today, helped make his aristocratic life so comfortable, can in one state brag about this fact. . . while in another, where a group of Blacks are gathered, profess his concern for our problems by attempting to embellish Senator George McGovern's non-record of achievement in the area of Civil Rights.

If Mr. Shriver is so concerned with the needs of our people then why is it that when he managed the Merchandise Mart in Chicago for his father-in-law, the late Joseph Kennedy Blacks in that area mounted protest against the giant company because Mr. Shriver refused to establish a policy of hiring Blacks above the janitorial level?

Against Nixon

"We obtained your name and address from public records."

The implications of this questionnaire are obvious. It represents an insidious attempt to compromise Black businessmen.

"Nixon is the first President to ask for governmental funds to fight Sickle Cell Anemia."

REALITY: Nixon giveth and taketh away. In August, 1972, Nixon vetoed a $1.8 billion Health, Education and Welfare appropriation bill. The bill included a $15 million appropriation for the treatment and prevention of Sickle Cell Anemia.

"Nixon is spending $371 million to combat drug addiction this year."

REALITY: Nixon has failed dismally in his attempt to stem the spread of drug addiction. The Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs estimates that there are well over 350,000 heroin addicts in this country.

The Administration's efforts to halt the illicit, international drug traffic have been timid and ineffective.

"Nixon opened up jobs through Federal Manpower Programs for 1.2 million Blacks and minority members last year alone."

REALITY: The national unemployment rate in August 1972 was 5.6 percent and the unemployment rate for Black citizens was 9.7 percent. One of Nixon's first acts as President was to cut the Job Corps Program by a full 50 percent.

He refused to spend $4 million in needed manpower funds and his Fiscal Year 73 budget calls for a decrease of over $60 million. In 1972, Nixon refused to increase Neighborhood Youth Corps funds over those allotted in 1971, yet the general unemployment rate for Black teenagers hovers at 19 percent and is as high as 38 percent in poverty areas.

In 1970, Nixon first vetoed and then pressured by the rising unemployment rate, subsequently signed the Emergency Employment Act, which has since created 145,000 jobs.

"Nixon is making free or reduced priced lunches available to 8 million children."

REALITY: Some 23,000 needy schools do not have school lunch programs because they lack the facilities. These school districts are unable to meet the 25 percent local matching requirement for construction of such facilities.

In 1971, OMB, despite Congressional mandate, held up the distribution of funds for the summer lunch program. This program provides children who are eligible to receive free lunches during the school year with lunches as part of an ongoing summer recreation program.

The School Breakfast Program only reaches 520,000 of the 8 million needy children enrolled in our schools.

"Nixon has budgeted $602 million for civil rights enforcement."

REALITY: What has this money done? Housing discrimination continues to run rampant. Nixon has vigorously opposed full enforcement of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act.

He has failed to support Equal Employment Opportunity Commission the right to cease and desist orders. He has failed to coordinate the work of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance. Minorities are grossly underrepresented in Federal jobs. What has all this money done?

"Nixon asked for $2.5 billion to raise the quality of education in disadvantaged schools."

REALITY: Nixon has vetoed three education appropriation bills since he's been in office. His 1972 budget for elementary and secondary education was $50 million less than the 1971 budget. He has refused to deal with the educational needs of our children. Property taxes are an inadequate revenue source for our schools. Yet the government continues to pay less than 10 percent of the cost of education. In 1971, 42 states spent considerably less than the national average per pupil expenditure and these states contain nearly 60 percent of all non-white pupils in the country.

Social Security Benefits Have Drawbacks

The House Ways and Means Committee has announced that an estimated 180,000 persons receiving both social security benefits and welfare aid will be dropped from the welfare rolls and some 1.3 million others will have their aid reduced as the result of the new 20 per cent increase in benefits that went into effect this month.

Letter To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR

In the Sept. 7th issue of the New Bystander Julian Bond is quoted, giving his views on Vice-president, Agnew's statement that black leaders of the United States could learn a lot from African leaders.

While Mr. Bond may be absolutely correct it seems that he left the main point untouched namely the fallacy of trying to compare the two groups of leaders.

Excepting occasional physical similarity there is no common ground. If our news media may be dependent on at all, African leaders are heads of states. In some cases they are monarchs. Their will must be done or there is a severe penalty.

No one (black or white) in the United States has such power.

Such well-known leaders as Ray Wilkins, Bobby Seale, Joseph Jackson, Dr. Abernathy, Jesse Jackson (and hundreds more) may say what they please but they have no power to enforce anything.

On the other hand these leaders may be ignored, denounced, followed, rejected - just as public sentiment may dictate. No penalty is legally inflicted.

There are too many and too wide gaps between these two groups to make comparison practical. Louise Glass, 1613 Allison Ave., Des Moines, Iowa 50314

ARTISTS ARE TAKING OVER on the local scene! First there was a Black Expo mounted at the traveling library of the Historical Building. I noted the works of Jo Spriggs, Tim Lovejoy, Luther Payne, Ken Whitney, James Harris, Herman Wadsworth, Eddie Eaves, Darryl Green, William Spriggs, Mbenzi, Thomas Hudson, Bobby Rushing, LeRoy Mitchell and Robert Hudson; Tiny tots included Deondra Trumbo, Eric Ray, Vernon Masse, Rita Hall, Marka McKay, and Michele McKay.

On October 1 at the YWCA, 717 Grand Avenue, there was a Black Arts Expo, exhibiting paintings, sketches, African artifacts, jewelry, etc. There were readings by local black poets and African music by Fajilawa, a combo from Iowa City. This was an exciting event. It was exotic and provided a most beautiful setting. It was well attended. Refreshments were provided.

FROM THE YWCA I WENT TO THE DRAMA WORKSHOP'S JAZZ program. It was marvelous affair and the listeners overflowed the building. It was exciting seeing and hearing the name groups which appear throughout Des Moines' nite entertainment circuit. Among those heard were Speck Redd, Des Moines' Big Band, a greeting from Joanna Jackson in Winnipeg, Canada; the Afro Ensemble, Scott Smith, Mudcat Grant, Rose Marie, Stu Calhoun, Jo Carney, Van Nixon, and Jay Edmond Hall.

ON THE NIGHT OF THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, I joined Mrs. Evelyn Loggins' cross country-bound party made up of herself and her secretary, Ellen Terrill, her two sons, Charles and Floyd, Jr. and granddaughter, Tanya, my daughter-in-law, one of her Board members, Mrs. Mikel Johnson and her daughter, Branda, all in her station wagon. The goal of the trip was to attend the Day Care and Child Development Council of America meetings in Washington D.C. We were quite cozy as we traveled along.

THE VERY YOUNG, THE TWO BOYS AND YOUNG TANYA RODE IN THE BACK bedded down, just like camping! Suddenly Charles let go a shout: "We lost something. A bag fell!" Our travel bags strapped into a carrier atop the wagon were suddenly a cause for concern! We pulled to the shoulder of the road. Two persons walked back as we slowly guided the car back. We gathered the lost articles, and resumed our travel eastward.

INTERSPERSED WITH ATTENDING MEETINGS, we visited a few points of interest, including the Smithsonian Institution. The days went by rapidly. We were like one big family atop the Holiday Inn. Soon we were on the trip back. We enjoyed retracing our route, going through the tunnels, one in Wheeling, West Virginia and on the Allegany Turn Pike!

WE SPED ALONG THE HIGHWAYS and in Rensselaer, Indiana, Charles again shouted "The bags are falling! We're losing something." From his position in the back, he had caught sight of a loose strap, which meant our bags would come tumbling down. We pulled off the highway to check. Sure enough a bag was missing. Ellen and Mikel walked back a ways. The bag wasn't to be seen this time. A highway patrolman checked with us regarding our problem. He went back to check without success. We completed our trip without further excitement, arriving satisfied with a delightful vacation.

A Call For Volunteers

There are 430,000 people in the state of Iowa on Social Security. 60,000 of whom are receiving food stamps. Simple mathematics adds up to the fact that 370,000 Iowans on Social Security are not on the food stamp program. Project Find is seeking these people out.

Project Find needs volunteers to call on these elderly. What's in it for them? An increase in buying power enabling them to purchase the nutritional foods they need. What's in it for you? A whole lot of personal satisfaction. Show the elderly you care. Call the Red Cross Project Find Department today, 243-6834. Do it now while you're thinking about it!

Visits 'ToGood' And His Family

Mrs. Evelyn Ritchie spent the weekend with her brother "ToGood" and family; also her grandchildren and their mother, Mrs. Geraldine Ritchie, in St. Joseph Mo. She said that her brother "ToGood" has recovered from the motorcycle accident earlier this year in which Mr. ToGood lost his leg. He greeted Mrs. Ritchie at the bus station.

Mrs. Ritchie says that she met many fine people even brought home some fresh greenbeans and barbecue ribs. Mrs. Ritchie says when she did finally look out of the window about 20 or 25 miles from St. Joseph, there was brother passing the bus.

Electa Council Elects Officers

On Sunday, October 1, Electa Administrative Council had a breakfast at Birdland Park Shelter House. After the breakfast, the election of officers was held. Mrs. Lula Mackay Dies: Afro Woman's Editor

DIES — Mrs. Lula Mackay
AFRO woman's editor died

Mrs. Mackay was the widow of Clifford W. Mackay, former AFRO editor and city bureau chief, whom she married in August, 1965. He died in March, 1971.

Mrs. Mackay attended Howe Junior College and Tennessee State A and I in Nashville. She later took courses at Morgan State College.

She belonged to numerous civic social and professional organizations. She was a member of the St. James Episcopal Church.

She did not have any children. Funeral services were incomplete at AFRO press time.

Originally, Mrs. Mackay had been a teacher but resigned that position to come to the AFRO. After a brief stint as a stenographer she became a reporter.

In 1939, 10 years after coming to the AFRO, she was promoted to women's editor. She covered the police beat, civil rights stories and the courts, among other things, on her way up. Her first byline column was "From the Row," that covered the entertainment world, and at another point in her career took a jibe at marriage in a column entitled "Lipstick."

For a time she wrote an editorial page column, "Thinking It Over."

Her best known column, the one she wrote on a twice-weekly basis, one for all 13 AFRO editions and the other for the Friday Baltimore City AFRO, was "Gadabouting."

Mrs. Mackay also did a weekly "Family Fare" column on homemaking and fashion news.

On Oct. 1, 1967, friends and co-workers of Mrs. Mackay honored her at a testimonial at Baltimore's Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel.

"It is for her integrity, for her love of humanity and for her ever present willingness to lend a helping hand to an organization or to an individual that the appreciative group salutes Lula Jones Mackay this evening," the program said on that occasion.

Does 'Soul Food' Cause Health Problems

New York, September 21: According to Dr. Elijah Saunders, chief of cardiology at Provident Hospital, Baltimore, writing in the just published October McCall's, "soul food" may be a contributing factor in the high incidence of essential hypertension among black Americans.

Known to be hereditary and thought to be influenced by psychological factors, essential hypertension accounts for 90 percent of all hypertension cases. The standard treatment involves weight reduction, antihypertension drugs and the drastic reduction of salt intake, since salt helps retain fluid, aggravating the disease.

Says Dr. Saunders, "I would like to suggest that an excessive amount of sodium in the diet cannot only aggravate existing hypertension, but may actually precipitate it". His theory is based on a body of research which shows that hypertension increases in societies with high salt-content diets such as the Japanese and Alaskan Eskimo groups as well that in which Dr Saunders is particularly interested, black Americans. Soul food which originated in the south but is popular among blacks throughout the country has an extremely high sodium content, heavy with spices, sauces and smoked meat.

"Surveys have found the incidence of hypertension among black Americans to be two to three times that of the general population," says the doctor. "Many persons feel that the emotional and psychological stress under which blacks live in this country is responsible and this may be part of it. However, since the genetic factor is dominant in the development of hypertension, it might possibly be a combination of a hereditary predisposition and a diet excessively high in salt."

As a preventative measure, Dr. Saunders strongly recommends that anyone with a family history of hypertension maintain a low sodium diet, emphasizing the particular need of salt control for blacks, and adding that the American Heart Association believes that moderate salt restriction should be practiced universally to help promote good health and decrease the staggeringly high illness and death rates from hypertension.

Third New African Convicted Of Murder In Mississippi

BY NATIONAL BLACK NEWS SERVICE

JACKSON, Mississippi — (NBNS) — A third member of the Republic of New Africa has been convicted of first degree murder in the slaying of Police Lieutenant Louis Skinner, head of the city's intelligence unit.

Skinner led a group of Jackson policemen on an early morning raid on the Government Residence of the New Republic in August of 1971.

According to testimony at the trial of Brother Karim, the prosecution alleged that Skinner had been shot with a single bullet after police fired tear gas canisters into the residence.

Later, police said, a barrage of gun fire came from the house.

The chairman of the New Republic called Karim's conviction a "Symbol of Mississippi justice."

"The conviction... comes at a moment when the murderers of Chaney, Schwerner and Goodman (three civil rights workers) have been released from jail after a mere handful of months and at a moment when the killer of Veron Dahmer has been on a 'governor's approved leave' from prison for a year," said Brother Imari.

"At this moment of our rebuff at Meridian it is difficult for those who believe in real justice to understand that the old Mississippi justice is at an end, but it is," he continued.

The group will raffle off some of the tickets. There will be a 1st prize of a portable T.V. and second prize will be a portable radio.

Imari and seven other New Republic residents were originally charged with murder in the incident, but one woman was freed when the state dropped charges against her. An RNA spokesman said the organization expected the conviction of two more citizens of the Republic shortly.

Sioux City Council Confused Over HUD Funding Delays

Sioux City — The City Council Tuesday received a report of a federal discrimination investigation, but learned that it wasn't that investigation after all that has been holding up $4 million of federal funds which the city needs to keep its urban renewal programs going.

The main findings of the investigation were that there is "racial concentration" in Sioux City housing; that there are no minority employees in key city departments, but that the city is not guilty of discriminatory practices in red-tagging condemned houses.

The council was told by Guy Birch, director of the Omaha area office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), that it wasn't the discrimination complaint that held up the urban renewal funds, but rather the fact that the city hasn't yet filed the affirmative action program that it has been preparing for the last few months.

Kevin Beauvais, administrative assistant to the city manager, who has been coordinating the affirmative action program, said after Tuesday's meeting that he will expedite the matter and try to submit it to the council this weekend for approval at Monday's council meeting. This could lead to release of the urban renewal funds in a week to 10 days, Birch said.

Birch was one of several officials from HUD's Omaha area and Kansas City regional offices who came to Sioux City to deliver the long awaited discrimination report at a special meeting of the City Council.

City Council members criticized HUD's handling of the investigation and said they had been told previously by HUD officials that the discrimination complaint lodged against the city by Alvin Hayes, Jr., executive director of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, was holding up urban renewal funding and that the affirmative action program was not.

As a result, Councilman George Cole said, the city had put the affirmative action program on the "back burner" because it didn't think there was a big rush. The city has a letter dated in late August in which Miss Marjorie Lennox, equal opportunity specialist in HUD's area office, said the affirmative action program isn't holding up the funds. Birch said in effect that the city misunderstood the meaning of Miss Lennox's letter.

An affirmative action program required by federal law of all employers, both private and public, is a program of nondiscriminatory hiring, including recruitment of minority members for employment.

Although Birch said Hayes' complaint was not holding up any funds, he said the only way the city can dispose of the complaint is by signing a "conciliation agreement" under which the city would "voluntarily" comply with specified procedures for assuring nondiscriminatory practices.

Birch had a copy of a proposed conciliation agreement, terms of which he said are negotiable. Mayor Paul Berger said city officials want to look at the document to see if they can agree with it.

The proposal includes a city promise to actively promote open housing in the city as well as an affirmative action section.

The housing language would, among other things, require the city to direct minority members displaced by public projects into non-minority neighborhoods, to seek from realtors, rental agencies, mortgage institutions and the like letters of intent to comply with equal opportunity requirements, to list those who submit such letters and those who refuse to, and to refuse to do any business with those who do not submit compliance letters.

Birch said the agreement is designed to provide guidelines under which the city could attempt to rectify conditions found in the HUD discrimination investigation. The city could sign it without admitting any violations, he said. Birch said a conciliation agreement must be agreed to not only by the city and HUD but also by the complainant who initiated the investigation, in this case, Hayes. The conciliation terms proposed by HUD already have been approved by Hayes, he said.

Hayes, a former Sioux Cityan, was present at Tuesday's meeting, but did not participate in the discussion.

Hayes also has sat in on some of the sessions in which officials have been drafting the city's affirmative action program and reportedly also agrees with that proposal as it now stands.

Other HUD officials who accompanied Birch to Sioux City Tuesday were Perry Hooks of Kansas City, assistant regional administrator for equal opportunity; Jesse Milan, director of compliance with the Kansas City office, and Damion LaCroix, equal opportunity officer with the Omaha office.

Irrked at Delays

Hayes' complaint alleged that the city has discriminated in housing condemnation action by condemning minority housing in the Hamilton urban renewal area and not condemning housing belonging to whites. The HUD investigation found no such discrimination.

The CBS television network announced the signing of retired Gale Sayers for the post of analyst in this seasons' NFL games. Sayers had been voted pro football's greatest halfback of the first fifty years but his career was cut short by knee injuries.

Duane Thomas appears ready to join the San Diego Chargers and continue his career as one of football's best runners if and when he receives a $300,000 contract. A San Diego lawyer has offered to get Thomas' salary of $20,000 yearly raised to $100,000 a year for three years. George Powell, a businessman and a friend of Thomas', said Duane would sign such a contract but a policy of the Chargers is not to renegotiate contracts of traded players. The Charger's Harland Svare said he has told Thomas that only club owner Eugene Klein discusses contract changes. Thomas, though, has twice failed to keep appointments with Klein.

The quest to become the first black quarterback in pro football may have ended for Karl Douglas. James Harris and John Walton. Each has spent several years trying to gain a starting berth but all have now been cut from their teams. Douglas spent two years on the Baltimore Colts' taxi squad but when he was picked up by the Buffalo Bills who cut him shortly afterward. Harris started a few games for the Bills three years ago but Dennis Shaw now has a firm grip on the Bills' quarterback job and he recently received his out-right release. Walton has failed to stick with any club and he was cut by the Los Angeles Rams this preseason when the Rams acquired Pete Beathard.

One of the oldest and most obscure football records was broken by Jack Tatum of the Oakland Raiders in their game against the Green Bay Packers. Tatum, a safety, picked up a MacArthur Lane fumble four yards deep in the end zone and carried it 104 yards for the touchdown. This feat surpassed the 1923

98-yard fumble recovery of George Halas, founder and owner of the Chicago Bears.

Larry Brown has broken in less than four years the Redskins' rushing record that took Don Bosseler eight years to set. On his eighth carry against the St. Louis Cardinals, Brown gained 28 yards to surpass the record of 3,112 career yards. In the first two games this year Brown has gained 105 and 148 yards respectively, giving him 3,214 for his career.

Grambling College, the black college football powerhouse, is making appearances all over the country. Grambling, which has produced many NFL stars, has already played in Yankee Stadium and the Los Angeles Coliseum this year. Although they are off to their worst start in 18 years, losing two edging Morgan State in the opener. Grambling will continue to appear in places like Washington, D.C.'s RFK Stadium and Honolulu, Hawaii.

Bob Foster was extended longer than expected before he threw a right to Chris Finnegan's head to retain his light-heavyweight title. Foster, who now resides in Albuquerque, New Mexico, called Finnegan, "The toughest light-heavyweight I've fought since I've been the champ." The bout went into the fourteenth round before the hard punches that are Foster's trademark knocked out Finnegan. Earlier, Foster was landing lefts and rights to the head but Finnegan countered with punches to the body. As the pattern persisted, Foster became visibly angered when in the tenth round after the champion had knocked Finnegan down for an eight count, the perky Briton came back to drive him into the ropes. But by retaining his claim as king of the light-heavyweights Foster may have earned himself a twelve-round bout with Muhammad Ali. Ali's legal adviser Robert Arum said that plans were near completion for the November bout in either Las Vegas or Detroit.

The trade that sent Joe Morgan of Houston to the Cincinnati Reds for Lee May in an eight-player deal has the Reds completely satisfied. The Reds, who have clinched a playoff spot against the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be relying on Morgan an MVP candidate, to lead the way. Morgan, who has stolen 56 bases this year says he has been saving his strength for basestealing in the playoffs. Combined with his unexpectedly fine fielding and his consistent hitting, his potential on the base paths makes him Cincinnati's most formidable weapon.

As often happens with championship teams, the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA have some discontented players. Wilt Chamberlain and Happy Hariston are both holding out in order to renegotiate their contracts. Hariston has now begun to participate in practices but Chamberlain says he is interested in joining the San Diego team and may jump leagues. San Diego authorities said Chamberlain is looking for contract loopholes and may sit out the last year of his Los Angeles contract if necessary.

The latest event in the case of Julius Erving consists of the heaviest fine ever levied by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy. After the league ruled that the Milwaukee Bucks own the rights to Erving, the Atlanta Hawks played in two exhibition games thereby incurring Kennedy's wrath.
