McGovern : Blacks can't afford to stay at home

By PAUL H. WYCHE, JR., National Black News Service

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — Senator George McGovern doesn't believe black voters can afford to stay at home on November 7 on the grounds that they don't see any real choice between the Presidential candidates.

He discussed the campaign and it issues with a group of newsmen in a telephone interview this (last) week, including Moses Newson, Afro-American; Pamela Haynes, Philadelphia Tribune; Paul H. Wyche, Jr., National Black News Service; Ethel Payne, Sengstacke Publications; Bryant Rollins, Amsterdam News; Howard Woods, St. Louis Sentinel; Roger Turner, Atlanta Daily World; Simeon Booker, Johnson Publications; and two black reporters from radio networks.

Touching on a broad range of subjects during the 22-minute interview, McGovern said there was no doubt that the Democratic ticket would receive the overwhelming support of black voters this November.

"The alternative to change in this Administration is four more years of the very policies that have hit black citizens harder than anyone else," he said. "The disastrously mistaken economic policies of this Administration have resulted in very high unemployment, especially among black people."

McGovern reminded the black journalists that the Vietnam War "has hit black people harder than anyone else — the higher percentage of our young blacks fighting in this war than there are others."

Criticize Nixon Domestic Program

McGovern was also sharply critical of the President's program domestically, including his appointments to the Supreme Court.

"There's no question that the President's appointments to the Supreme Court have set back the cause of civil displayed shocking disregard toward the hideous problem of narcotics and crime attributed to narcotics and drug abuse.

Drug abuse 'shocking' says Woodard

Woodard proposed to develop an aggressive, comprehensive approach to Polk County's drug problem — aggressive along the lines of law enforcement, and comprehensive along the lines of addict rehabilitation.

"When elected, I promise to keep all suspected drug pushers under surveillance until evidence can be obtained for their arrest."

"I'm 100 percent for an area-narcotics squad. It's part of the answer, and we should use it to our advantage."

"The future for the drug addict in Polk County is secure — deadly secure," Jack Woodard, Republican candidate for Polk County sheriff, said at a press conference this week.

Woodard said the present sheriff's administration has good."

On rehabilitation of drug addicts, Woodard proposed "An 'open door' policy will activate the addict to feel free to walk up to any county officer on the street, or go directly to the sheriff's office, ask for and receive help — not a bad time."

"We urgently need to set up the procedure and facilities to take the addict off the street and determine whether the crime he was involved in was brought about or caused by his addiction, or whether his involvement with drugs at that time is a by-product of his criminal way of life. Then it can be decided whether the person should be treated medically or handled through our penal system."

He also proposed a long-term drug-rehabilitation program, and "I pledge to search for the answers and cooperate with the people spearheading programs like the Mid-Iowa Drug Abuse Council (MIDAC)," said Woodard.

FCC needs strong stand on jobs, says Hooks

WASHINGTON — (NBNS) — The first black member of the Federal Communications Commission, Commissioner Benjamin L. Hooks, has indicated he intends to try to convince the agency to take a stronger stand on minority employment throughout the broadcast industry.

Commissioner Hooks, appointed in July, has dissented to the decision which renewed the licenses of 13 broadcast stations in Omaha, Nebraska. The licenses of these stations had been challenged by the Black Identity Education Association.

The Association charged the stations with discriminatory hiring practices against members of minority groups and said that they failed to present programs of interest to black audiences.

He urged tenants to report rent increases which they consider illegal. The IRS

The FCC, voted to renew the station's licenses by a 5-2 vote. The dissenting votes were cast by Commissioners Hook and Nicholas Johnson. An aide to Hooks said that when the Commissioner's statement comes out it will say that Hooks believed that the case raised substantial questions about whether the stations were complying with FCC rules governing equal opportunity.

The aide also said that Commissioner Hooks believed that more attention should be paid to complaints of this type as they are coming in ever-increasing numbers.

FCC Chairman Dean Burch said, in the Omaha case, that annual reports on the number of minority group employees a station has now provide the statistics to judge whether the station is complying with federal regulations.

All residential rental units under controls are covered by Rent Watch. This generally includes all units

Hooks believes that hearings ought to be held to determine just what the situation is at the various stations. He said this would reveal information that one just can't get from statistics.

On the question of discrimination against programs of interest for black audiences the FCC can't do anything. It is against Federal law for the government to interfere with a station's programming, Burch said. This, he contended, would amount to government censorship.

The Federal Communications Commission will not set racial quotas because they do more harm than good, Chairman Dean Burch has told a group in Phoenix.

Speaking before the CBS local affiliate Burch said quotas "are inherently discriminatory" and that "they begin as floors and inevitably end as ceilings."

Polk sickle cell election

Dr. Joseph Song was elected chairman of the Sickle Cell education and Detection Program's Advisory Committee at the organizational meeting held this past week at the Des Moines-Polk County Health Department.

Other persons elected to head-up sub-committees were Ms. Rose Johnson and Ms. Vera Morrow, Community Education; Dr. Norman White, School Education; Jack Schoop, Screening; and Dr. Charles Herron, chairman of the Follow-up sub-committee. Sixty persons representing some thirty-five organizations and agencies were in attendance.

The city-county health department will administer, co-ordinate and implement this city-wide sickle cell education and detection program with the cooperation of the schools. Mrs. Lucy Schliekelman will serve as the project coordinator. The Health Department through the schools will offer voluntary sickle cell screening services to an estimated 3,700 school-age youth.

Sickle Cell is an inherited defect of the red blood cells, which can be passed on from parents to children.

This condition of the red blood cells affects about 1 in 10 blacks and some whites. Most affected persons are black, but some are white of Mediterranean origin. Sickness of the blood has also been reported in American Indians and in inhabitants of South India, the Middle East and the Caribbean countries.

It is a universal problem, especially in persons with ancestors from malaria-ridden countries. Though the incidence is lower among whites, the presence of Sickle Cell is significant enough that whites from these areas should be tested for their own benefit.

IRS watchdogging rent increases

Des Moines, Iowa - IRS investigators in Iowa are participating in a National Rent Watch to protect recipients of increased Social Security payments from having their rents illegally raised.

"This month, 28 million Social Security recipients received a 20 percent increase in their payments," Herbert B. Mosher, IRS District Director for Iowa, said. We are urging landlords not to raise rents unless they are certain such increases are legal.

Landlords must not raise rents beyond a maximum 2.5 percent a year increase. Tenants should also receive a detailed 30 day notice.

The Cost of Living Council has given the IRS new administrative sanction powers to protect tenants from illegal rent increases. The IRS can order landlords violating regulations to restore overpayments to tenants, roll back rents to legal limits and impose penalties of double the overcharged rent.

filming, and they include Chevys, Chandlers, Marmons, Packards, DeSotos, Essexes and Cadillac V8s, all with running boards, disc wheels and spare tires exposed in fender wells or hung onto the rear of the car. Some are coupes and roadsters with rumble seats, all in perfect running condition. Clubs and Song Carefully Picked Allen created on Stage 4 at Paramount Studios a lavish midtown Manhattan club and on Stage 19 a typical ante-bellum Southern supper club named Club Plantation.

Diana Ross sings many of Billie Holiday's most enduring songs in "Lady Sings the Blues," including "Lover Man," "Don't Explain," "I Cried for You," "All of Me," "Strang Fruit," "My Man" and "God Bless the Child."

In the search for the look of America in the depression days of the 1930s, more than a dozen location sites in and around Los Angeles were explored by director Sidney J. Furie. Familiar areas used for filming included Echo Park, a convent in Alhambra, California, several mansions and estate grounds in Pasadena, a downtown Los Angeles burlesque house, a near-deserted Union Station, and a popular radio station studio of the era.

Prison scenes were filmed at California's Lincoln Heights jail, a long-abandoned institution where Billie had undergone painful rehabilitation for her emotional and physical breakdowns.

Hair Styles Big Challenge

Hair stylist Cherie Huffman, a 14-year veteran of stage and film assignments, faced an especially difficult assignment. She had to turn back the calendar of black hairstyles. The black actors and extras were reluctant to trim their sideburns and beards or to clip their bushy Afro hairstyle. Miss Huffman authenticated the hairstyles of the 1930s with the use of straightening combs and chemicals used four decades ago, and utilized heated straightening combs, pullers, curlers and waving irons to duplicate as nearly as possible an era past.

Special care was made to create a dazzling, yet nostalgic, wardrobe for Diana. Costume designer Norma Koch dressed the actors, and Diana's gowns were designed by Ray Aghayan and Bob Mackie, and were executed by Elizabeth Courtney. Diana has 43 costume changes in "Lady Sings the Blues," her outfits ranging from castoff tattered teenagers' sweaters to elaborate stage gowns.

The result is a film drama that does not echo an era. It captures it.

CABLE TV FOR DES MOINES What's It All About?

On November 7, Des Moines voters have the opportunity to vote for a cable TV system for Des Moines. What's it all about? Here are some important questions and answers.

Q. What is Cable TV?

A. It brings TV into your home with a special cable that eliminates ghosts, weak pictures, snow and interference from auto ignition and other sources.

Q. My reception of local stations is good now, so what could Cable TV do for me?

A. It will give you an even better picture from the 4 local stations — plus many additional channels of programs to choose from — a total of at least 18 channels immediately.

Q. What's on these extra channels?

A. You'll see special high school and college sportscasts and activities, 24-hour news and weather, movies, special closed-circuit coverage of local civic issues, educational programs, channels from Minneapolis/St. Paul and Kansas City, and many other events and programs not available to you now.

Q. If I vote for Cable TV will it raise my taxes?

A. Absolutely not. Cable TV is a private service much like your telephone, and the Cable TV company provides the system at its own expense.

Q. Who is the Cable TV company?

A. The Des Moines City Council chose Athena Cable-vision Corp. of Iowa to be on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Q. Who is Athena?

A. An experienced company with Cable TV franchises in many parts of the country. It holds the patent on the home channel selector which is used by all other cable TV companies.

Q. What advantages does Athena offer?

A. Only Athena's proposal provides for Cable TV construction in three parts of the city AT THE SAME TIME. This means everyone in Des Moines will receive equal treatment.

Q. If Des Moines votes for Cable TV do I have to take the service?

A. No. The decision is yours. You may sign up for Cable TV any time you wish or ignore it completely. Your "yes" vote merely assures you that Cable TV will be available if you want it at any time.

Q. What would Cable TV cost me if I did sign up?

A. Installation is free the first 2 months after service is available. Thereafter there would be a maximum installation charge of $15 to run the cable into your house and connect it to your set. Then there is a monthly charge of $6 for the service. This monthly charge is less than your telephone.

Q. What if I sign up for Cable TV and later want to discontinue it?

A. You are free to do this at any time, and there is no charge for disconnecting your set.

Q. How long will it take to get Cable TV after the franchise is voted?

A. Athena promises a maximum of two years and probably only 14-16 months. ALL PARTS OF THE CITY will have Cable TV available in the shortest time possible.

Q. How can I be sure this will happen?

A. Athena will post a $100,000 Faithful Performance Bond to guarantee its construction timetable if the franchise is voted.

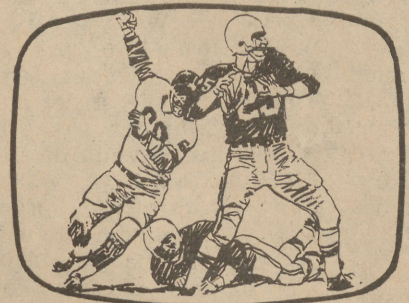

Q. Why are we voting on Cable TV? What's the purpose?

A. In order to have Cable TV available, Des Moines residents must vote to grant a franchise for the service. This permits the CableTV company to install the system throughout the city for your use if you want it.

Q. How do I vote for the best Cable TV?

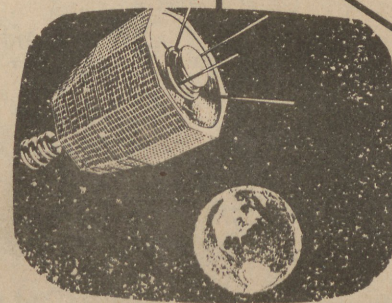

A. To vote for the Athena franchise, vote "Yes" to adopt City Ordinance No. 8430. You will be voting for a larger system that will give you better service and programming in the shortest time.

Painstaking research went into the production of Paramount Pictures' "Lady Sings the Blues" to re-create as faithfully as possible the 1930s era when blues great Billie Holiday left her legendary mark on the world of jazz.

Under the guidance of producer Jay Weston, dozens of key personnel spent over a year before filming began inspecting location sites, talking with people who had known Billie, and studying photographs of that decade to ensure a totally authentic look in the sets and backgrounds. Diana Ross spent nine months listening to Billie's recordings, absorbing their meaning, knowing that those songs were a key to the emotional vibrations sweeping through Billie's soul. Diana recorded the songs for the soundtrack in her own unique style, but she was backed by musicians who had once played with Billie.

Sets Meticulously Planned

Production designer Carl Anderson turned a studio metropolitan street into a Harlem slum, meticulously studying faded photographs of the 1930s so that all aspects of "Lady Sings the Blues" would ring of truth. The block-long set included authentic storefront reproductions of the era, in front of which children in the street played stickball rights, civil justice in this country," he said. "The President has done little or nothing to strengthen programs in the cities in the way of better housing, nutrition, schools. He's vetoed programs to provide day care centers to strengthen our schools."

At the same time, he told the reporters that he did not favor a "quota" system, but rather thought minorities and women could achieve fair representation through his system, espoused at the recent Democratic National Convention where 15 per cent of the participants were black.

He also charged that the Administration is attacking the quota system and trying to "make that into a kind of a scare issue, they do nothing at all to provide more job opportunities for either whites or blacks."

He suggested that one means of doing that would be to take creative "initiatives" to insure that blacks and Mexican-Americans and women are put into private industry.

McGovern also suggested that the federal government should be the employer of last resort with the tremendous unemployment problem throughout the nation.

Say Public Apathetic About Corruption

The South Dakotan expressed surprise and dismay that the general public had apparently adopted a "Who Cares?" attitude about the "widespread scandal and corruption in the Nixon Administration."

"I think it's clear corruption...all those things represent a corruption on a scale we've never seen before in the history of this country," he said.

The Democratic Presidential nominee also pledged to eliminate what he called the biggest problem facing black America today — unemployment.

"I sometimes think maybe the drug problem is a close second, but even the despair that leads people to drugs is an outgrowth sometimes of unemployment. So I would make as Domestic Priority Number One, the provision of a decent job for every person who's able to work."

WITHDRAWAL OF U.S. BUSINESSES FROM SOUTH AFRICA: "I think as a practical matter, about all the Government could do would be to make clear that we're not going to provide any special tax concessions to industries of that kind, nor would we provide any protection for them."

In summing up his chances for election this November, McGovern predicted:

"I think we have plenty of time left to turn the electorate around and win the election despite what the polls now say." Those polls say McGovern is trailing by 28 points nationwide, but at the same time, they point out he has a 4-1 lead in the black community which apparently is the Senator's stronghold.

Tuesday night. Following the services hospitality was shown to Reverend Battles at the Holiday Inn.

The Saturday night musical was undecipherable. Missionary Green, of Iowa Jurisdiction No. 1, was on the program. Various choirs and groups sang, and there were surprising selections presented. One of the high lights of the program was a selection by the State Choir under the direction of Brother Luther Glanton.

Bishop Carter preached a very outstanding message Sunday morning. All members and guests present enjoyed the sermon. The subject was "Obey And See A Flame of Fire", and the text was found in I Kings 18:38 & 39.

On the 21st of October the Boy's Club will be reorganized. If you want to be on the planning stage please attend.

On civic night during the State Convocation we were honored to have as the speaker, assistant to the Mayor, Mr. Terry Smith.

A new singing group called the Phase III is in the process of being organized. The group will consist of children and teenagers between the ages of 8-16. Sponsors of the group are: Deacon Lawrence Brandon and Deacon James Carter.

Our bus will be en route to our National Convocation in Memphis, Tenn., which will convene November 7-17. If you desire to reserve a seat please contact Elder Elmer Carter (Phone No. 243-7429).

The Unity Conference, scheduled this Saturday, Oct. 14, at the Black Theology Center, 1016 Forest Ave., has been canceled.

The conference was originally scheduled to acquaint the entire Black community with the purpose, philosophy and function of the Des Moines Black United Front.

The philosophy of the Front, part of a growing movement throughout the country, includes fighting "oppression and repression in Des Moines and throughout Iowa," and building "the broadest possible United Front and formulate a series of policies which will insure the fullest mobilization of Black People as well as the Unity of all the forces that can be united."

The conference will be re-scheduled at a later date.

Rhodesia may be easing apartheid

By National Black News Service

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia — (NBNS) — Recent remarks by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith suggest that he may seek to ease what he termed the "petty apartheid" policies of that country to guard against racial hostilities by its majority Black population and to resolve the question of Rhodesia's independence from Britain, which broke away from colonial rule seven years ago.

Earlier this year, Rhodesian Blacks overwhelmingly rejected independence settlement proposals offered during the British Peace Commission study of the proposals.

CHATTING CHAMPIONS—Former tennis champion Althea Gibson (left) and current great Evonne Goolagong compare notes during the press reception in New York City at which Miss Goolagong was presented the Dewar's Cup, awarded by the makers of Dewar's "White Label" Scotch Whisky for an outstanding contribution to tennis. Miss Gibson was both British and U.S. women's champion in 1957 and 1958. Miss Goolagong, the 21-year-old from Australia, won the British title at Wimbledon last year and was runner-up this year.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente became the 11th player in history to collect 3,000 hits when he rapped a leadoff double in the fourth inning, thereby igniting the winning rally in the Pirates 5-0 victory over the New York Mets. Clemente's milestone hit came before a hometown crowd because he was held out of the Philadelphia game after his 2,999th hit. The 38-year old all-star has a lifetime average of .318 and holds four batting titles but he is best known for his all around ability, which includes 11 straight Golden Glove awards and excellent base-running. To Clemente, who plans to play four or five more years, this was a special day as he said, "I give this hit to the fans of Pittsburgh and to the people of Puerto Rico."

While Roberto Clemente was collecting his 3,000th hit, St. Louis Cardinal Lou Brock was picking up his 2,000th. Brock climaxed his three-hit day with a single in the 15th inning.

While the NBA's Milwaukee Bucks and Atlanta Hawks were fighting for the rights to Julius Erving, formerly of the ABA's Virginia Squires, U. S. District Court Judge Edward R. Nesther substantiated Virginia's original claim to Erving. Shortly after NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy, who contends that the rights to Erving belong to Milwaukee, had fined Atlanta a second $25,000 for using Erving in an exhibition. Judge Nesther issued an injunction preventing either NBA team from signing Erving.

Polk ADC photo ID available

Beginning this week, ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) recipients from Polk County will be able to obtain photo-identification cards from their County Department of Social Services.

This special project, sponsored by the Iowa State Department of Social Services, is designed as a convenience for its clients and hopefully will reduce the number of state warrants which are stolen and cashed each month. By providing this means of identification, the Department feels that businessmen who have become increasingly hesitant in the cashing of assistance checks will be offered a degree of security in honoring the warrants of the ADC clients who present their cards.

The cards in no way identify the bearer as a public assistance recipient. They bear the picture, name, social security number and signature of the client and are enclosed in a plastic sheath which cannot be opened without destroying the card itself. Every effort has been made to make the card as counterfeit-proof as possible.

While ADC recipients are not required to obtain a card, it is hoped the convenience and protection which it will afford will result in a high participation rate. And while the client will have to go to the County Office to secure it, special equipment has been purchased so that the whole process should take no more than ten minutes. The cards are made available at no cost to the client.

Similar projects are already in operation in Chicago, Milwaukee and other metropolitan areas where they have proved to be remarkably successful.

Sports Then

With Allen Ashby

Elbert Hall made several all star teams, and was one of a long line of fine kickers for East. J.W. Clarke was the first black player to make the varsity of the old West High at a time when they had a boast that no black player could make the team. Another fellow, Earl Newcombe, was good enough to make the team, but they already had two fair ends, and they wouldn't let him play. James Allen was a rugged tackle at North, and made the All-City team and some all state teams. George Bourland was a regular on a rather weak East team, but was a standout in the line, in spite of the games they lost. Teams beat East, but they couldn't beat George. I think Bus Davis was the first black player at East to win four football letters, and in times like today he probably would have been captain.

Paul Thomas and the Tillman boys were fine guards, and should have rated all-star selection. Curt Tillman was an All-City center, and played in all of the games. Both Al Thomas and Walt Thompson could call plays for anybody, they were that smart and leaders. Thompson called plays for Drake when he played for the Bulldogs.

The Johnson boys and Sharp were hardy, rugged runners who could run over or through you and didn't care which. Scotty Rowland was a tricky runner and a fine defensive player. Ike Miller at fullback was one of the best blockers ever to come out of North, and Jess Hill was one of the hardest runners East ever saw before Chuck McQuerry. He could throw a football into the next county, and they often had him throw the thing as far as he could, and once in a while someone got down field and caught one.

So there you have it, and now I shall begin thinking about the other half of the squad. Because the teams went to two platoons, it will be hard to come up with much, but I shall probably spick a squad, and let you put them where you will.

I guess I have stalled around long enough. This is the week I promised to come up with an all-star team of black football players from the local high schools who played between 1920 and 1940. You will recall that I did ask for help, but just one fellow sent in a name and he got the fellow's first name and dates he played wrong. Nice try, fellow. Well, here is the first one, and if you read this list don't think or say "Why didn't he include so and so. He was better than that other guy." Remember, I asked for help. I have picked a squad of players, so I could get in as many as possible, and then, maybe some good players may miss it. The ends are Leonard Anderson, East, 1920-21; Lawrence Redrick, East High, 1930's; Bob Webb, North, 1928; Archie Lucas, North, 1930's; Tackles, J.W. Clarke West High, 1922-23; Elbert Hall, East, 1930; James Allen, North High, 1928; George Bourland, East 1923-24.

Guards Bus Davis, East, 1923, 24, 25, 26; Paul Thomas, East, 1930; Art Tillman, East, 1930's; Lowell Tillman, East, 1930's; Center, Curt Tillman, East, 1930's. Since there were no black quarter backs, I have placed Walter Thompson and Al Thomas of East at that position.

Then the halfbacks would be Orlando Johnson, North;

Leland Johnson, North; Al Sharp, East, and Scotty Rowland of North. Aside from Thompson, who played in the late twenties, all the rest of the backs played in the thirties. At fullback we have Ike Miller of North, 1930's and the late Jesse Hill of the thirties.

Some of these guys you probably never heard of. Leonard Anderson has often been called one of the greatest pair of ends in all East High history. Bob Webb was a rough strong player at North, and both he and Redrick made the first All-State teams at a time when there were only eleven players on it.

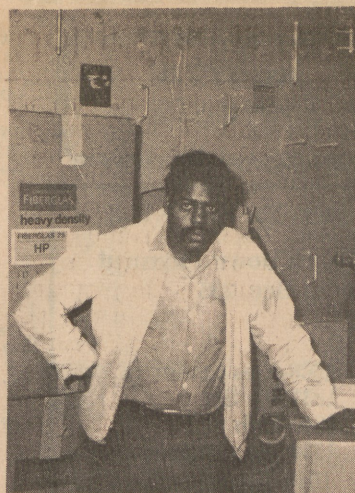

Heard from two guys out of my past, and they both rate a column. Maybe they'll get one some day. Got a card from George Bourland who was the light heavyweight and heavyweight boxing champion of Iowa while he was still in high school, and playing football for East. Then Chet Brewer, whom I insist is one of the great black baseball pitchers of all times, tried to contact me, but I was watching Iowa U. take it on the chin from Purdue. Maybe Chet will be back through here after the World's Series. You know he is a scout for the Pirates, and will be at the series if they make it into the thing.

Dave Hampton, the former Green Bay Packer speedster appears to have found a home with the Atlanta Falcons. Hampton became known as a premier kick returner with Packers but he never reached his potential as a running back in Green Bay. Now that he is in Atlanta, his image is changing and if his latest performance is any indication, he will be one of the league's best runners. In the Falcon's 31-3 rout of the heavily favored Los Angeles Rams, Hampton set a team record of 161 yards and ran for a 56-yard touchdown.
