Little bear on the Growl

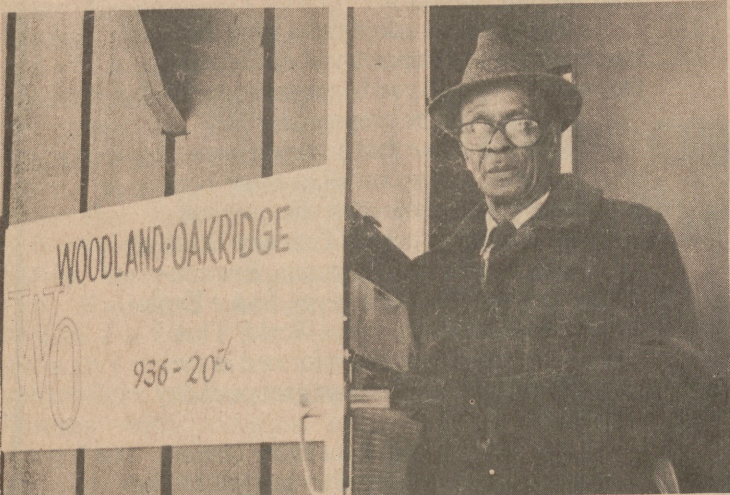

Albert Garrison (R) president of A. Garrison, Inc. and General Manager of Little Bear Manufacturing receives a new order from Caterpillar Tractor Co. Executive Robert I. Arnett.

Little Bear Manufacturing at 101 E. Sheridan signed contracts with Caterpillar Tractor Co. this week to provide approximately $100,000 worth of wooden pallets to that firm. Caterpillar has been in the van guard of major world corporations that actively seek minority businesses to contract with. Robert Arnett of Caterpillar said, "Our company has a definite policy when it comes to doing all we can to help minority businesses. We feel that it not only is good business now, but for future generations as well."

Al Garrison of Little Bear stated, "We're currently providing only a small portion of Caterpillar's need for pallets but as we grow we hope to capture more of the market. The market we serve is highly competitive but as more companies become aware of the outstanding work we do, we'll grow tremendously."

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (R.S.V.P.) is for adults 60 years of age and over. Its purpose is to provide opportunity for volunteer community work which will make for a meaningful life in retirement. A deeper involvement of older citizens in community activities will provide a sense of usefulness and accomplishment that comes from doing productive work and helping others.

Recruitment of volunteers is going on at the present time.

A rather slight man is Ernest Davis, 67, of 1339 E. 12, an R.S.V.P. volunteer who really enjoys his job. Seeing that Senior Citizens get where they have to go is Mr. Davis' volunteer job. He drives them to the doctor, hospital, and Senior Citizen's meetings.

Mr. Davis receives his calls for transportation at the Woodland-Oakridge Opportunity Center and by the grapevine from one older citizen to another.

When asked how he felt about all this volunteer work he said, "It's my life - I'm an older citizen myself, and if I weren't doing this, I'd be sitting at home in my own four walls getting to be a withered up old man. This job makes life interesting

A good future for black theater

Washington — (NBNS) — Black theater is swiftly winging its way across the country and actor Robert Hooks contends, "This is not a passing phase. Black theater is here to stay."

The 35-year-old veteran of Broadway and television stardom says, "Black theater to me represents black culture.

It provides a needed outlet for black expression. What has been happening up to now, before the black theater movement, is that another kind of culture has been forced on black people. It didn't have much to do with our culture as black people in America."

A few weeks ago, Hooks showed off a sample of the kind of "revolutionary" production that he considers relevant to black audiences.

In 1970, Hooks announced plans to open a D.C. Repertory Company that would do for Washington blacks what he helped do for blacks in New York as co-founder of the New York Ensemble.

Says Hooks, "The reason I came to Washington was to cultivate a black theater-going audience. Black theater also provides an outlet for talents that have gone untapped. My greatest challenge is to bring black theater to black people."

"Coda" is the story of a black family's conflicts and frustrations that are aggravated by differing attitudes held by three generations that make up the family structure. The time is 1969, in a Harlem tenement, and centers around a son returning from Vietnam. Unlike his father, he is bitter and militant, questioning and unaccepting.

Hooks talked about the problems that black theater groups are facing. High on the list of handicaps is "money."

He confides that in his own situation, most of the money comes from white backers.

Hooks leaned easily back in a chair, exclaiming that the Last Colony Theater was a place that was real — "a place you can see, something you can touch."

Even so, groups like his are finding that blacks are reluctant to put their money into cultural institutions. "Money is green," Hooks said emphatically, "But I would like to see more support from black sources. Unfortunately, they consider this a gamble."

Casually dressed in jeans and turtle neck sweater, "Bobby" Hooks indicated that he had always been involved in some form of community effort. Now it is at "a higher level."

Hook's enthusiasm for the lasting effect of the black theater movement is undaunted by the problems he has encountered. He stands firm in his belief that plays that are produced are written by blacks out of their own experiences. "For the most part, this is done without censorship."

He explains, "As far as objectionable four-letter words black writers are getting away from those. Even when they are used, they're not used for shock value, but, to make a point."

The articulate Hooks has no problem talking about what he envisions black theater to be, and speaks of the theater as a place "where blacks can assemble and congregate to share equally the enlightenment and the entertainment from that place that we call black theater."

Hooks does not limit his judgments to any segment of the acting world.

City council ignores citizens request for economic development

AN INTERPRETATIVE report
by Carl Williams

Once again the forces of deviousness have reared their heads in our city. The imbalance of empathy for problems of the poor among Des Moines City Council members has come forth in their decision to drop the Economic Development Corporation in favor of the Iowa Regional Transit Corp. It's obvious that mass transit is a must for our cities of the future. But there are more alternatives to mass transit than there are for the solution of human problems based on the economic stability of the whole community.

Several councilmen have made it clear that they have no faith in Black and poor businessmen and their ability to help bring stability to an errant economy in their communities. Indeed they have similarly indicted other Blacks as in the case of the Model City's Youth Council in their efforts to obtain the $39,171.00 they received in 2 years of strenuous effort. Case in point: two white youngsters in their first approach to the Council asked and immediately got $50,000 for a recreational facility. That's not to say whites shouldn't get funds. It is to say there's a gross lack of empathy with or a plot against the desires of the largest minority in Des Moines. One Reality is that cities must grow or die! It is on the definition of that growth that the City Council and the Black community differs sharply.

Every Black person in Des Moines will admit either publicly or privately that he wants to share in the labor of building this city and in the fruits of that labor if afforded the chance. For example when Model Cities was instituted, the citizens of that area came forth with great enthusiasm. Much of that same enthusiasm was transferred to the community development concept. When the citizens presented their plan for spending 5.8 million in 1973 to the City Council they included provisions for some self determination in the form of an Economic Development Corp. Instead they got back a few of the really pertinent programs they planned and a lot of those redesigned to keep them in debt.

With the advent of revenue sharing and the resultant power to be accorded, local governmental units it is critical that bodies like the City Council put aside their individual egos long enough to get a real sampling of community opinion. The great trap in representative government is that political officials become susceptible and often succumb to the glory of the office itself. And those officials must make a ferocious choice between self and selfishness. Too many fail by becoming selfish.

Black Drake students to have show

Linda McKeever, a Drake Law School student from Grand Rapids, Michigan, will be the mistress of ceremonies for the event sponsored by Bodin Van Dorn and Charisma. Fashions from the two clothing stores will be modeled. Fashions designed by Drake University junior Joseph Williams of Kansas City, Missouri, will also be modeled.

Program coordinator Karen Perkins, a junior in the College of Education from Davenport, said the proceeds from "A Touch of Soul in Fashion" will benefit the efforts of D/BAAS.

Tickets for "A Touch of Soul in Fashion" are $1.00 in advance and $1.25 at the door.

Marguerite Cothorn retires

Robert A. Mabie, Executive Director of United Way of Greater Des Moines, has announced the retirement of Marguerite Cothorn, Associate Director for Planning of United Way of Greater Des Moines.

Mrs. Cothorn has served as associate director since 1965 and has been in the social work field for 40 years. She was graduated from Roosevelt High School and Drake University where she received her master's degree. Mrs. Cothorn received her Master of Social Work degree in 1954 from the University of Iowa.

Following her graduation from Drake, she served as a probation officer for Polk County Juvenile Court.

Mrs. Cothorn was the first Black from Des Moines to be elected to the National Honor Society and Music Honor Society and is reported to be the first Black in the United States to be employed as an executive of a Planning Division (formerly the Council of Social Agencies).

Some of her civic appointments have included membership in Des Moines Interracial Commission 1930-1933; Mayor's Commission on Human Relations, Rockford, Illinois 1945-1952; Delegate 1960 to White Conference on Children and Youth; Iowa Commission on Aging 1960-1962; Delegate 1961 White House Conference on Aging; Des Moines Special Housing Committee 1961; Mayor's Housing Action Committee, Des Moines 1962 and currently a member of the Advisory Council, State Commission on Aging.

Mrs. Cothorn is a member of the National Conference of Social Work, National Association of Social Workers and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

She plans to remain in the city.

Some prisoners collecting "rights"

Recent actions in two southern states may soon result in improvement in the living conditions for prisoners in those states.

In a study made at the request of the state of Alabama, an investigating team from the Medical Association of Alabama found that the medical treatment of prisoners in Alabama's penal system is "grossly inadequate."

The medical report up held in most particulars the findings of United States District Judge Frank M. Johnson, Jr., who ruled last October that the state was violating the constitutional rights of prisoners by denying them adequate medical treatment.

In Florida a Federal judge has ordered an extensive set of rights to be enacted for inmates involved in jailhouse disciplinary hearings.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Scott's judgement supported the contentions of a 31-year old Black inmate who said he was illegally placed in isolation.

John A. Sands of Miami, serving the sixth year of a 15-year robbery sentence, claimed he spent 27 days in solitary confinement after being "convicted" by a prison disciplinary board at a hearing in which he was not permitted to participate.

Sands wrote a habeas corpus petition declaring that this solitary confinement also cost him 127 days of good behavior time which could possibly earn him an early release.

In a 55-page opinion, Judge Scott restrained State Corrections Director Louie L. Wainwright and other prison officials from taking away Sands' good behavior time.

He also ordered other rights be enacted that would allow inmates a fair hearing, including:

* Inmates must be permitted to hire lawyers or have other inmates or members of the prison staff represent them.

* Disciplinary committees be established without regard to race, creed, color, religious beliefs, or national origin.

Another civil rights agency doomed

Washington — (NBNS) — Yet another agency dealing with the problems of black people is slated to bite the dust according to a reliable news source here.

The Community Relations Service (CRS) of the Justice Department, an agency created under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to mediate racial disputes will not be refunded, according to the New York Times.

The Service, headed by Ben Holman, a black former news reporter, has some 300 employees, most of whom would be reassigned to other offices within the Justice Department.

Other employees would be placed in other government agencies or be dropped.

The Nixon Administration plans to announce its actions on January 29, and meetings are in progress to plan the dismantling procedure for the service which has operated on a $6 million yearly budget.

Some supporters of the service condemn the prospective action saying that there now exists no other agency within the government which is in touch with the life of this country's inner city black communities.

Others feel that the agency is serving purpose and may even have been used as a "spy" and surveillance operation for the Justice Department.

When it was first put into operation, the service worked in many tense situations in the South involving civil rights confrontations. Perhaps its most publicized case of mediation involved the role of getting Sheriff Jim Clark of Selma, Alabama to withdraw his firm stance on not allowing a court house demonstrations led by the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King in 1965.

Revenue sharing funds may be discriminatory

Washington — (NBNS)

— Despite allegations by civil rights groups of possible discrimination in allocating federal revenue sharing monies on the local level, the Treasury Department this week sent $2.5 billion more to some 38,500 state and local governments.

The funds were the second of two installments covering last year. The first installment, which was mailed last month, totaled $2.65 billion. The $5 billion for 1972 represents about 3.5 per cent of state, county, and city budgets.

When the first monies were mailed, the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, representing more than 100 civil rights groups, said that the hurriedly-issued regulations on use of the funds did not guarantee "that all persons will be able to participate without discrimination in the programs and activities subsidized."

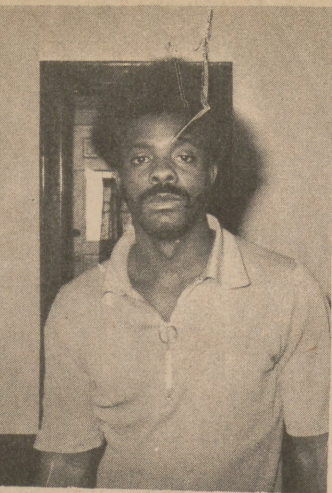

An LCCR spokesman, William Taylor, said, "we're all disturbed that an additional payment is going out without appropriate assurances of non-discrimination. We've lost a whole year, in effect."

According to rules issued by the Department, "no person...shall, on the grounds of race, color, religion, national origin or sex, be excluded from participation in, or denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity funded in whole or in part" with federal revenue sharing monies.

The LCCR, however, maintains the Treasury regulations should outline the specific obligations of state and local governments under the law and provide means by which the federal government can "detect and remedy noncompliance."

Gary Russian: 4th year apprentice

Gary Russian

Gary L. Russian is a fourth year carpenter apprentice with Ringland, Johnson, Crowley, Construction Company here in Des Moines. As a fourth year apprentice, this means that Gary has only a short while to go before he is through with the training phase of his apprenticeship, and is classified as a journeyman carpenter.

After being introduced to the apprenticeship program by members of the Apprenticeship Information Center, Gary's next decision was choosing a particular trade to go into. He has come a long way since those early days as an apprentice, and very shortly he will wear the badge of a journeyman carpenter, a master of his chosen trade.

Flu spreads across U.S.

ATLANTA — The National Center for Disease Control this week added Virginia, Ohio, and Georgia to its growing list of states reporting cases of influenza. To date, at least 18 states have reported flu outbreaks, mostly the new A-England virus which is also known as the London Flu. The Center said there is no specific vaccine for the London Flu but noted that the vaccine now in use for the Type B and Hong Kong Flu offers some protection. It also said California has been the hardest hit, reporting 18 flu deaths in the San Francisco Bay area in the past two weeks — all of the victims were adults and most of them elderly.

Be prepared for life.

Did you know that when we asked boys across the country what they thought was most fun about Scouting they said hiking and camping outdoors?

But when we asked them what they thought was most important about Scouting, they said "...to help you be prepared for life?"

To help you be prepared for life. Did you know that Scouting has a drug prevention program all its own? That Scouting has one of the most effective anti-pollution programs going? That new Scouting merit badges include Computers, Environmental Science, Atomic Energy, Space Exploration and Citizenship in the World? That more Scout troops are being formed in the nation's inner cities than boys groups of any other kind?

Did you know that for every boy in Scouting today, there's another boy who'd like to be, but can't? And that the reason most of them can't is because no adult in the neighborhood thinks Scouting's worth the time?

If you don't think Scouting's worth your time, you don't know enough about Scouting.

Even if you can spare just one hour a week, you can get involved in Scouting. Find out more. Write: Be Prepared, BSA, North Brunswick, New Jersey 08902.

I PAID A VISIT TO THE FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION to meet Harold L. Stovall, a controller, who in turn introduced his superior officer, Chief Paul Bailey. I was given a tour of the offices and was overwhelmingly impressed with the agency's functions. I found it to be the most efficiently organized and run of any I have seen. Air traffic is backed by a very reliable body. All questions are given priority and records kept of these contacts. I was amazed at the freshness of its information. It is in contact with the Washington office at all times and knows the weather conditions of the country, not just areas, of the total country! And can give weather conditions three days in advance! Even so, each inquiry is run through and an answer obtained. The office is thoroughly equipped with the machinery necessary to function in this way. The agency is mainly equipment and a skilled staff to handle the equipment.

CHIEF PAUL BAILEY was congenial and he and Mr. Stovall appear to have an excellent relationship, a man to man working team. Chief Bailey prior to coming here was Chief at Chadron, Nebraska. He and Stovall arrived at this station about two weeks apart. Bailey has been with Federal Aviation Administration about fifteen years.

HAROLD L. STOVALL is a native of Arkansas, but his father moved the family to Galveston, Texas, so early, he calls Galveston home. He is a product of Texas Southern University with a pause in education for service in Korea. He reentered Texas Southern, met and married the former Shirli Lafons of Houston, Texas.

STOVALL WAITED TABLES IN PRIVATE CLUBS and at the same time worked for the Harris County Juvenile Probation Office. Upon graduation, he left the Harris County position for the Post Office. He worked at the Post Office from '60 to '68. He then left Houston, moving to Kansas City, Mo., where he worked at the Missouri State Employment Office. Within three months he was promoted to supervisor and then returned to the Postal Department. He remained here working mornings with the School System and evenings in the Post Office. Here he learned of the Federal Aviation Administration examination for controllers. Came to Des Moines with Aviation in August 1970. With extensive training in Kansas City, Olathe, Kansas and on to the Federal Aviation Academy where he graduated in August 1971 and then he was moved from Kansas City, Missouri, to Scotts Bluff, Nebraska. He remained there from August '71 to August '72, learning the finer points of controller and was transferred to Des Moines, August '72 with a promotion.

DUTIES: As an air traffic control specialist, the job consists of aviation weather, pilot briefing, teletype, radio air-ground communication, and weather radar. Aviation weather consists of facsimile machines which carry maps from Washington, D.C. to all part of the aviation industry. We take their charts, color them to illustrate different types of fronts and display in the area of the office where people walking in and concerned in aviation weather have this information before them.

PILOT BRIEFING is usually done over the phone or in person. We have very few walk-in briefs. Pilots phone from points such as Newton, Ames or Boone for weather concerning their flight from departure point to destination.

TELETYPE DUTIES consist of flight plan handling, messages about airplanes departing or proposing to depart and also hourly weather for Des Moines and Lamoni and other messages received or acknowledged.

THE IN-FLIGHT POSITION consists of air-ground communications with departing aircraft, in-bound aircraft or over flights, weather radar information is disseminated to their aircrafts upon request and the hourly weather broadcasts.

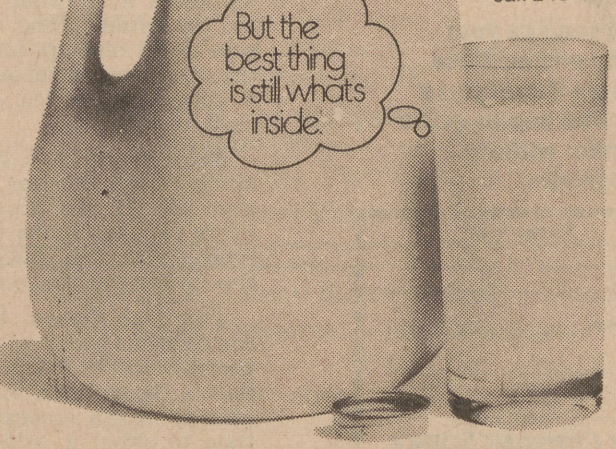

THE STOVALL FAMILY: Mr. and Mrs. Stovall have three daughters: Sondra Kaye 17, Michelle 16, and Danielle 2. Sondra is an East High School junior; Michelle is a freshman at Amos Hiatt Junior High School. Mrs. Stovall is employed at Blue Cross-Blue Shield Insurance Co. The family resides at 1331 McCormick, the former Matthew Johnson home. They are members of Bethel A.M.E. Church.

J. EDMUND HALL IS SURFACING in still another area. His six-member orchestra plays a concert Saturday night, January 20, at Grinnell College Student Union. His orchestra, named Bad Mother Funk, was heard most recently at The Terrace Room, Hotel Savery, December 23.

DIRECTOR EVELY LOGGINS, EXECUTIVE DAY CARE CENTER, holiday celebrations far over-run those of the ordinary one of us. She attended Governor Robert Ray's Ball, and is now heading for that of President Milhous Nixon's inaugural ball in the Capital City! And, after that on Saturday, January 20th, 12 o'clock midnite till 4:00 o'clock a.m. the Celebrity Breakfast Party in salute to Sammy Davis, Jr., Vickie Carr, Lionel Hampton, Jim Brown, Rodger Williams and their colleagues.

FOREST AVE. COGIC CHURCH NEWS

We were highly honored to have Elder I. Battles of Cleveland, Ohio and Waterloo, Iowa and Evangelist R. Smith of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma as our special guest on last Tuesday Night Service. Also Elder L. Johnson of Fort Dodge was in attendance.

On last Sunday Stevie Carter, an 8 year old genius drummer, and his pals presented a tremendous performance for the saints. The selections from the choir were also immensely enjoyed. Our own gospel soloist, Sister C. Brandon, lifted our souls even higher as she sang under the inspiration of God. Bishop Carter's superb message was the highlight of the day. The subject was "Think For Yourself" and the text was found in I Peter 2:21. The Forest Ave. Mission Center has been a shining light for over seven years in the community. The Center serves three free meals daily, provides several bus trips for the kids, teaches children and adult art classes and gives many other services. There's no other Center like ours that we know of in the United States.

Our motto-Faithfulness is the beauty of life and gives you influence with man and favor with God.

Bishop A. B. Carter, Sr. along with his congregation extend to you a warm and cordial welcome to join us in worship services Sunday morning at 11:30 a.m. and Sunday evening at 8:00 p.m.

TIPS ON CAR CARE

Worn Shocks May Create a Real Shock For You

One of the most taken-for-granted parts of the automobile, yet a very important factor in safe driving, are the shock absorbers.

It's a well-established fact that worn shock absorbers can cause automobile accidents. Despite this knowledge, many motorists drive cars with shocks worn to the danger point. It is estimated that 40% of the cars on the road today need new shocks.

Road control at all speeds is affected by the condition of the shocks. At low speed a sure sign of worn parts is the rocking motion of a car when you hit the brakes. The nose goes down and up, and if the car doesn't level out in a couple of cycles, you need new shocks.

Another test is to jump on the front bumper and then off. If the dip-rise cycle repeats more than twice, you can bet the shocks are too far gone.

The real danger from worn shocks comes at high speed, however. Weak ones reduce the driver's chance of making an emergency turn to avoid a collision, or other type of mishap. It is even possible to lose control of the car going over a bumpy section if the rear shocks are badly worn, ac-ording to B.F. Goodrich car care specialists.

It's a good idea if your car has run up 25,000 miles on a set of shocks to have them replaced. You should at least have them checked by an expert.

Other signs of shock problems include excessive wear at certain spots on the tires, a swaying or veering motion when you corner your car and a floating sensation when you pick up speed.

Besides reducing the control you have over your car, worn shocks also can lead to damage of front-end components and to unwanted repair bills. The impact normally absorbed by good shocks is transferred to these components, resulting ultimately in wheel misalignment, steering and suspension system problems and worn tires.

Worn shocks are not that easy to detect unless you look for the specific warning signs listed above.

Members and friends are all invited to the Bethel A.M.E. Church on the fourth Sunday, January 28, to worship service at 3:00 p.m. Rev. Baur of Kewanee, Ill. with his congregation and choir will be there for the service.

Friends in the city were saddened to learn of the death of Mr. E. T. Hicks in Burlington, Ia. on Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Funeral service was held on Saturday, Jan. 13, at 9:00 a.m. at the St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church.

On Sunday, Feb. 4, the Rev. Terry Hoesteadt of the First Christian Church will hold service at 11:00 a.m. in the Bethel A.M.E. Church. On that Sunday Rev. Eugene Johnson of Bethel A.M.E. Church will hold service at 11:00 a.m. in the Congregational Church.

Mrs. Cheryl Thomas was one of the twelve representatives that met in YWCA reading room on Thursday, Jan. 11, to discuss the needs of the youths of the city.

The group at that time felt that there was a general lack of knowledge on how to get assistance for the needs. The next meeting planned is Jan. 23rd.

Interdenominational Minister's Association meeting

The ministers of the Interdenominational Minister's Association and their families met at St. Paul A.M.E. Church last Tuesday night. The wives prepared dishes and a sumptuous repast was served. Mrs. Henderson Davis was coordinator for the dinner and with the splendid cooperation of the minister's wives, there was plenty of food for everybody.

Dr. Henderson Davis,

president of the Association, chaired the meeting. There were many topics of discussion, all were pertaining to bettering the condition of our community. We pray that all ministers will work toward goals that would accomplish the good that is desired, and meet the challenge that has been thrown out to us.

We were grateful for the attendance of so many of the ministers and their wives, also we were happy to have the children be with us.

The meeting was graced with the presence of several African students who is being sponsored by St. Paul A.M.E. Church, in education.

Dinner was served at 6:00 with adjournment a little before 7:30.

Looking forward to more of this kind of fellowship in the very near future.

U.S. wants courts to stop forced integration

Washington — (NBNS)

The Justice Department and the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. are currently involved in an imbroglio over whether or not the Government should resume its now seldom-used practice of threatening educational institutions with loss of federal monies for failure to desegregate.

Judge John H. Pratt of the Federal District Court found last Nov. 16 that many state and local schools were not meeting the terms of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Previously, Judge Pratt noted, hearings on compliance — coupled with the possibility of losing federal funds — had averaged about 100-a-year. By March 1970, however, the number of hearings had decreased significantly.

As the result of his findings in a case brought by the defense fund in October 1970, Judge Pratt requested that the fund suggest a court decree to remedy the situation and ordered it to "confer with defendants (the Government) on the wording and substance" of the proposed decree.

The proposed order, which was filed last Dec. 11, called for resuming the hearings in 10 states with court supervision for three years. The action would commence in 60 to 120 days if accepted. (The 10 states in which colleges would be affected are Maryland, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, Arkansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Louisiana, and Pennsylvania.)

(Also affected would be about 155 elementary and secondary schools in 16 states — all of the aforementioned states except Pennsylvania in addition to Kentucky, Missouri, South Carolina, Tennessee, Delaware, Texas, and West Virginia.)

In the past, according to one lawyer familiar with the case, the fact that hearings would be held encouraged many schools to comply with desegregation orders.

Somebody asked me the other day how we got started in bowling. I am not sure, but this is the way all of these bowling leagues and teams got started as I can put it together. When I was in high school, most of the pin setters in the two main alleys were blacks of various ages. But, if you were caught bowling on one of the alleys, it meant your job. So most of us didn't do much bowling. Of course, when the boss was gone and we were sure he would not be back for a while, a few of the most daring ones would try out the pins. A couple of them got pretty good. I didn't work at the business of pin setting long enough to do any good at the game. This lasted until I think, just after World War II. Black people weren't allowed to bowl at any of the places downtown. But, a fellow named Bonnie Hearndon got friendly with the owner of the Eastside bowling lanes. I would guess, and this is strictly a guess, that the fellow wanted to create some Sunday night business. So he got Hearndon interested in organizing a league to play on Sunday nights. The thing had great success at once. But there were a few of us radicals who didn't like the idea of having to bowl at certain times and at one place. We argued that we wanted to be able to walk into a place, take off our coats and bowl as long or as little as we wanted to, without being bound by any certain number of games or any time. We had no quarrel with those who wanted to take advantage of the thin, and they seemed to be having so much fun doing it that we began to wonder if we could be wrong in our attitude. But pride and stubbornness prevailed and we never did get into that Eastside league. But, today a lot of the people who bowled in that league are among the best bowlers in town, black or white. They stayed with the game, and when the downtown places finally opened up, they were ready to step in and do it right. I am not sure how many black leagues there are, or how many bowlers are in all of the other leagues in town, but I bet it is a lot more than people playing other games such as golf or tennis. And if you look at the scores in the bowling column the daily papers, you will find as many black bowlers with top scores as you will find whites, according to the proportion of people bowling. There is a way of learning how many bowlers are in the white leagues around town. There is an all black team in the top leagues, the classic league, but I think there could be fielded a team of other fellows who would give that bunch a run for their money, and if they were just a little hot might beat them.

But bowling is a lot of fun, and there has been at least one champion in the city meet. I think there has been either Velma McCune or Gretchen Jacob who won the city tournament, and I can't think of the name of the fellow who won the men's title one year. If I was wrong about either of those aforementioned ladies, I am sure to hear about it. And all of this started because some fellow wanted to "Let us bowl on Sunday nights." And people of all ages from eight to eighty can do it, and set your own pace.

When I was talking about Golden Gloves champs the other week I have since been reminded that there was one fellow who was the champion in his division so long that he had to retire undefeated in Iowa matches. The guy never did win the big one, partly because he didn't have the competition here to get him ready for it. So when he got to the finals, he was usually beaten because he wasn't used to sharp competition. But he was the best we had around here for about four years. His name is Donald Avant, and he still wears the gong of jackets he won as a flyweight Golden Glover.

That's show biz

The most exciting gift for Sammy Davis recently came straight from the White House, compliments of President Nixon. The gift is something that Sammy had admired out loud when he was a passenger aboard the Presidential Jet, Air Force One, on "that one occasion when the White House supplied Sammy with a jet trip (at the taxpayers expense) back to Las Vegas from the Nixon dinner table in Washington.

The thing that caught Sammy's eye was the super-style flight jacket worn by the President's personal pilot. Davis was so impressed that he wished out loud that he had one just like it.

Well, lo and behold, several months after that wish, a package from the White House arrived at Sammy's house, containing a duplicate of the Air Force One Flight Jacket, specially tailored to Sam's special size.

The jacket puts Sammy one up on Spiro Agnew's pal, Frank Sinatra, who doesn't have an official flight jacket from Agnew's pilot. As a matter of fact, Agnew's pilot doesn't have an "official" flight jacket. In appreciation, Sammy sent a case of Teacher's Highland Cream Scotch to the President's personal pilot.
