Lead Poison

Control: A Must

Eating lead paint can cause brain damage, kidney damage, or death.

The Lead Poisoning Control Program of the Des Moines - Polk County Health Department, which has been working in other prime service areas in Des Moines, has arrived in Model Cities. A top priority of the program is to find children who may be in danger of permanent brain damage or even death from lead poisoning before they develop the obvious symptoms.

A child who eats only the amount of lead that may be found in a fingernail sized lead paint chip once a day for three months can have a serious health problem. The first symptoms a child may have can be easily passed over by the parents. The crankiness, belly-ache, constipation, or diarrhea that a lead poisoned child may have can be thought by a parent to be a small problem that will go away in a day or two. By the time the child goes into convulsions it may be too late to prevent permanent brain damage. The child may even die.

The Lead Poisoning Control Program provides free blood tests to children in the danger ages of one to six. The tests will show how much lead a child has in his or her body and help a doctor to decide whether or not the child needs treatment. If a child is found to have a high level of lead in the blood, the child is referred to the parent's normal source of health care. Then an investigator is sent out to find the source of the child's lead.

The most likely source of lead poisoning in children is lead paint that is flaking and chipping. Often the paint has a sweet taste and once a child tries it he will come back for more. Most often the dangerous paint is in or on houses built before 1950, but children have also been poisoned by eating the paint on cribs and toys. It has only been in the past few years that the Federal Government banned the use of lead paint in children's toys.

Prevention and Safety Measures For Flood and Sewage Backflow

"These preventive measures should be followed if your property was flooded during the recent heavy snow and rain," said Dr. Julius S. Conner, city - county health director.

1. To prevent tetanus (lock jaw) check with your physician or usual source of medical care if you have received cuts, skin breaks, etc. "Typhoid shots are not recommended by the health department at his time," Dr. Conner said.

2. Drinking water contaminated by flood water may carry disease producing germs which cause dysentery and other water-borne diseases. Public water supplies should be used whenever possible. All drinking water from wells that may have been contaminated by flood water should be boiled for at least two minutes.

3. To make flooded well safe:

a. Pump the well and drain the piping to remove all dirty water.

b. Disinfect the well with a chlorine compound such as two cups of clorox, Hi-Lex or similar laundry bleach. This may be poured directly into the well. The chlorine should be left in the well and piping system for at least 24 hours before pumping it out.

c. Pump well until no odor or taste of chlorine is left in the water then call your health department to test the purity of water.

4. Safeguard contaminated and spoiled food. All canned foods, meats and vegetables stored in flooded basements should be treated as follows:

a. Throw away food in containers showing signs of leakage.

b. Destroy the contents of corked bottles and screw-top glass containers if they have been covered by flood water.

c. Carefully wash all sealed can food containers with soap and hot water (remove labels and mark for identification). Sterilize outside of can by immersing in water and boiling 15 minutes or immerse in chlorine solution for 15 minutes. Prepare chlorine solution by adding two large tablespoons of clorox, Hi-Lex or similar chlorine laundry bleach to each gallon of water.

d. Destroy all root and garden vegetables or foods in cardboard or similar containers in contact with flood waters unless they will be thoroughly cooked before eating.

Dr. Conner said when the flood water has gone down in the basement, scrub the walls and floors with soap and water, then rinse walls and floors with a chlorine solution as previously described.

For more information call the health department, at 283-4997.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Proctor have recently returned from a tour and cruise in the Caribbean in observance of their 43rd anniversary. The tour began by air to Miami, Florida, after which they boarded the T.S.S. Mardi Gras cruise ship for the ports of San Juan, Puerto Rico, St. Croix and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, and Nassau of the Bahamian British West Indies.

In Puerto Rico they toured Old San Juan.

When docking at St. Croix, they were met by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wilbekin, as well as Miss Beryl Wilbekin. The Civic Association of St. Croix and the island administrator, Mr. Stanley Farrelly, greeted and warmly welcomed Mardi Gras guests.

The group toured the islands, visiting relatives: Mr. & Mrs. B. Benjamin of Estate Princess, Mr. and Mrs. Thorvald McGregor of Estate Judith's Fancy, and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilbekin of Richmond Estate, the mother of Mr. Wilbekin. They toured the environs of St. Croix seeing the open-air airport, St. Croix by the Sea Hotel, downtown Fredricksted and Christiansted, Old Danish sugar cane mills, vegetations of the island—hibiscus, coconut, bananas, mahogany, avocado, mango, poinsettias, giant philodendrons, crotons, African tulip, sugar cane, and papaya. They also noted wild mangoose in the interior.

A pre-luncheon gathering was held at the home of Miss Beryl Wilbekin and her mother. A large family luncheon was later held at the Holger Dansk Hotel at seaside with approximately 25 relatives. They completed their tour with seeing properties of Mr. Wilbekin at Estate Rattan, Estate La Grange, and downtown.

The three Wilbekins' flew to St. Thomas to meet the Proctors' the following day. The group was guest at the Governor's Mansion, visiting Mr. Wilbekin's cousin, the Hon. Melvin Evans, M.D., the governor of the Virgin Islands, as well as his office staff and legal counsel, Mr. James A. Bough, Esquire.

They toured the shopping area, and the famous Drake's Seat where Sir Francis kept a weather eye on his fleet. They noted the panoramic view of the capital City, Charlotte Amalie, saw the adjacent British Islands, stopped at the Frederick Evangelical Lutheran Church for prayer, saw old Fort Christian with its old cannons, and were guests at lunch with Mr. & Mrs. Luther Benjamin and the Wilbekins' at Mountain Bay Beach. Mr. Benjamin, a contractor, is the president of the Republican Party of the Virgin Islands.

The tourists then sailed to Nassau in the Bahamas.

The superb services of the boat included fine dining and dancing, and ended in Miami with a return flight back to Des Moines.

Three Purpose Club Meets

The Three Purpose Club met April 18, at the home of Mrs. Helen Martin. The evening's program was held on the subject "Show and Tell". Each member told of some event in her life.

The outstanding story was that of Mrs. Lenore Johnson whose hobby is collecting news items, especially those of the Three Purpose Club. She thrilled her listeners with the history of The Three Purpose Club in clippings. Forgotten events came to life such as anniversary celebrations, Christmas parties, history of club member's children, and annual shows held at the former Jewish Community Center. To hear of the early years in the lives of their children was exciting; some of the children have made marked achievements.

The next club meeting will be May 2, at the home of Mrs. Vera Morrow.

The 880 relay with Torianno Kirby and Richard Carroll on the right for north.

Black Participation In Sports Increasing

by Venise Berry

On March 17th, 1973 the Boys track season officially got under way with the State Federation Indoor track meet at Graceland College.

The meet which gives you a pretty good idea of what the season holds included all the Des Moines and West Des Moines High Schools, except East who didn't participate.

Black participation in track boys and girls is really increasing and this year pretty much all schools are represented.

Tech leads the list in boys track with: Mike Anderson, a sophomore who is out for sprints and the long jump, Rich Clayton shotput and the discus, Rick received third place in the Graceland meet. Curt Forrester, shotput and discus, Norman Grant with the 100 and 220 relays, he was a great asset to the Tech team in the tie for the class AA title that Tech holds with Mason City as he anchored the 440 and 880 races and then went on to take the 100 dash.

Richard Loyd Hurdles and Sprint Relays, William Searcy Relays, Ron Sharp 440 run and relays, Paul Simmons relays and sprints, Nate Butts also a sophomore, relays, Robert Weathers, Sprints and Relays, Kevin Cooper Shuttle Hurdle Relays, Lonel Foster, shotput and Discus, Bryan May Shuttle Relays.

Randy Western, Shuttle Hurdle Relays and Sprints, Marshall Coleman Weights, shots and discus, Mike Reed Relays, Craig Colton Middle Distance and Clyde Carter, 440 yd. run.

The girls who aren't suite together yet include: Mozella Jenkins Pauline Cavil, Dianne Reed, Teresa Lewis, and Yvonne McGreagor.

The Coaches for the boys is Mr. Charles Silvey who has been Senior coach for 21 years. Then the two assistant coaches are: Mr. Don Graves, he's been assistant coach for twelve years and is a graduate of Tech. Mr. Gary Cameron is the other assistant coach.

For the Girls the coaches are Mr. Gary Jotsky and Mr. Steve Carson.

Under the direction of Mrs. Lynn Quinn for the girls and for the boys Mr. Ken Whitney, North High would probably be next. The North High line up begins with: Torianno Kirby in the 880 and 440 relays, the high jump, and the 100 yd. dash. John Kirby Hurdles, Morris Wright 880 and 440 relays.

George Pope 440 and 880 relays, Greg Rochon, long jump, Clarence Dameron Sprinter, Carlton Bruce Distance, and Meko Edwards distance, then Greg Fields long jump.

"The team should be pretty good, we have some fast runners. Our relays should be super bad and I think we'll even break a few records," commented an asset to the North team Torianno Kirby.

The girls who are not decided on what they are going to run are: Penny Brown, Ruth Ann Scott, Gale Hoffman, Devida Davis, Cristine Williams, Rosita Dunkin, Gwenn Ziegler, Roxanne Brown, Donna Lavax and Porsha Deering.

Penny Brown from the girls team also commented "I hope we do win something. Were really not settling down as much as we should. But I feel we will give the other teams quite a bit of competition.

East and Dowling probably tying for third place also promises a very interesting season. Mr. Bill Charles is the coach of the East team for the boys and the girls are coached by Mr. Steve Koeach.

Deryl Smith, sprinter and long jump, Karen Thomas 240 dash and sprints, Veronica Clark undecided, Kathy Johnson Hurdles, Anita Reed 100 yd. dash and Kimberly Lee broad jump.

For the male half of it there is: Ben Johnson 880 and 440 relays Anthony Johnson one forth mile medley, and the 880 relay, Derrick Jones 220 yard dash and the 880 and 440 relays, Phil Green also in the 880 and 440 relays and the medley, Leroy Kaiser 440 relay and hurdles, Mark Balance 100 yd. dash and 440 relays, Tony Williams 440 and 880 and 100 yd. relays.

Dowling High schools line up begins with: Herbert Brown 440 and 880 relays and the 100 and 200 dashes. "Our team is going to be good this year. At the Drake relays we hope to take a few first and second places maybe a few thirds."

Ricky Stone also in the 440 and 880 relays including the 220 dash. Then doing the same is a Junior Leonard Bradley. Larry Graves a sophomore is doing the 220, Thomas Moore is doing the hurdles and would also like to increase his speed for football, Jim and Mike Boston, brothers, Jim is running the varsity 220 and Mike a sophomore is trying Hurdles.

For the girls a sprint relay team will consist of Stacy Humphrey, Teresa Williams, Mary Williams, and Mickey Bolden, Renae Lamar, shot-put with Martha Florence running distance. Dowling's coaches are: Mr. and Mrs. Al Dimarco.

Stephanie Michael 440 shuttles and long jump, Fae Brown 440 Hurdles and high jump, Georgian Jefferson dashes and shuttles, Gayleen Narcisse short distance and shuttles, Carla Riddley short distances, Dorothy Claytor shot put, softball, and 220 relay.

Sheila Drayton 880 and 440 relay, and Pam Spencer 440 and short distance. Mr. David Chorg is coach and the boys include: Dan Spriggs Relays, Larry Jones Discus and Arthur Lee Hurdler.

Valley and Hoover only include three apiece but it has increased since last year. For Hoover there is Teddy Jefferson who will be doing the 880 and 440 runs with the 220 yd. dash.

"We were second in the state last year and third the year before, I think with a lot of hard work and practice we can make it to either of these spots again maybe even higher," commented Teddy Jefferson in this third year on Hoovers team.

Kieth Taylor 440 relay and the 220 dash with Pam Jackson in the 100 dash and long jump, maybe the 880 relay. The coaches for Hoover are Robert Jankovitz for the girls and Mr. Robert Wells for the boys.

With Mr. George McVicker for the boys and Mr. Don Barns for the girls Senior Jerry Harris will sprint, Dennis Garrat, a discus thrower and Tony Taylor a sprinter and hurdler.

Although Lincoln High School doesn't have any Black participating in track this year there's always the future. The coaches for Lincoln are: for the girls Mr. Phillip Martin and for the boys Mr. Robert VanderLinden.

Drake Relays, April 27th, 28th and 29th will also show the competition of different schools over the state of Iowa. Since all of the schools show a tremendous amount of spirit and skill it should prove a very exciting Relays.

Torianno Kirby of North in the running broad jump.

A look at sports in retrospect

With Allen Ashby

By the time you read this, the fellows in short pants at the Drake Relays will be chasing each other around the track and may have already set some records. A far cry to the days when the infield and the field north of the stadium was dotted with tents that were the headquarters of the teams. They had a section for each division. Then there was a main tent that was the Relays headquarters. Big Brother Lucius used to put on his Sunday best and stroll around the infield, greeting athletes from the various colleges. I don't know how he knew all of the best ones, but he seemed to have time for only the stars. Maybe he was putting on a front for his kid brother, and if he did, it was a good one. You could smell oil of wintergreen and liniment, rubbing alcohol along with various ointments for blocks. Now the infield wouldn't begin to hold all of the teams, not even in one division.

Most of the teams stayed at the various hotels, and they had to reserve rooms ahead if they wanted any. There was always a list of the teams and the hotels where they were staying, so one could find them. The late Everett Wadsworth and I used to make a yearly practice of interviewing the black athletes in the hotels. I was always mad at the fact that we saw such stars as Jimmy Lavelle of UCLA, Ralph Metcalf, Jesse Owens, and the like eating breakfast in their rooms. As I look back, it may have been that they wanted it that way, because I do recall Metcalf and two of his relay mates discussing strategy when we went to see him. But I thought it was the good old American custom of Jim Crowing blacks, and I never could be made to think any different. I do know that one year Michigan came to the biggest hotel in town, and we heard that when Willis Ward and a couple of other black runners were supposed to eat in their rooms that they raised more hell than the alligator did when the pond went dry. So they ate with the team and it was a long time before the Wolverines came back to Drake. That story may have been just that, a story, but it was told to Everett and me by a fellow who was in a position to know, and we believed it then. But, do you know, I never thought of having any autographs from all the famous athletes I met at the meet, and there were so many, one could fill a column with just names if I could remember all of them. But the ones that impressed me the most were guys like Marquette's Eddie Burke the high jumper, Mal Whitfield of Ohio State, the middle distance runner, Jesse Owens, Big Archie Harris of Indiana, the weight man who won the discuss one year. And of course, I couldn't ever forget Mack Robinson, older brother of the late great Jackie. Mack was a world class athlete in his own right, having finished second in the two hundred meters at Berlin and run on the winning eight hundred meter relay team there. Mack got permission from his coach to stay with Chet Williamson and me at Chet's house. Chet's mother was a great cook, and we were just informal enough to have a great time with the fellow. Before the meal was over, he was scrambling with Chet and me for food like one of the family, and he was a pretty good scrambler, too. Those other fellows all had that informality about them that let you think you had known them all your life. I remember I saw Jesse Owens about twenty years after his relay wins here. Do you know how we greeted each other. "Hi, Jesse.", Hi, Ashby, shook hands and got to talking about the fellows in the meet. Jess was trying to get one of the college long jumpers to get up in the air on his jumps. He yelled at him, and when the fellow didn't make it, Jesse took it to heart, and yelled at the guy "Fellow, You jumped on the ground! You have to get up there!" Robinson was there at that same meet. He said he had gained about thirty pounds, but he didn't look it. I never got a chance to say much to him that day, and I haven't seen him since. But I bet he would remember both Chet Williamson and me instantly.

As Charlton Heston's boss in a police investigating unit, Brock Peters wants a share in everything that goes through his department, even death benefits paid in the year 2022, the setting of MGM's "Soylent Green."

Destroying Myths

Whatever spare time busy actor Brock Peters has is spent as president of the Free Southern Theatre and vice president of the Dance Theatre of Harlem.

New York born and based, Brock currently stars with Charlton Heston, Leigh Taylor-Young and Edward G. Robinson in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's futuristic suspense film "Soylent Green."

"The Free Southern Theatre is a company that tours throughout the South playing to mostly sharecropping audiences both black and white," Brock states.

"It's supported by foundations. They do such plays as 'Waiting for Godot,' 'Of Mice and Men' and 'Slave Ship.' Best of all, it's as the name implies, 'free.'"

Under his other hat as VP of the Dance Theatre of Harlem, Brock says that organization has explored three myths concerning ballet:

One, that a ballet dancer can't be proficient in less than ten years. Two, that a strong and competent ballet company can't be formed in that space of time and, lastly, that black people's bodies are not suited to ballet.

"In the space of four years, the company has toured Europe and America several times," Brock says.

"To rave reviews," he adds.

"The Dance Theatre is both the touring company and a school where ethnic, modern and jazz dancing are taught, as well. Children from eight years on up can learn music theory and take any kind of music lesson they choose," Brock says.

The Theatre was founded and is headed by Arthur Mitchell. It also has a drama department headed by Paul Mann.

"It was a direct result of Martin Luther King's assassination," Brock states.

"He came over to my house and we talked into the night. He said he wanted to DO something and not too long after that he left the New York City Ballet Company to found the Harlem Dance Theatre."

Brock Peters is justly proud of the Theatre's achievements.

"We've been approached by several small countries who want us to establish such Theatres abroad. It's flattering but if we are to expand, I'd rather do it in America," the actor says.

BEEP! BEEP!

Next time you're at a golf course or ball field—or next time a doctor or plumber visits your home—don't be surprised if you hear an electronic beep coming from a box the size of a pack of cigarettes.

The beeper, known in fancy language as the HICAP Digital Paging System, is getting word to a man on the move that he has a telephone call. The way it works is that a miniature electronic computer at a paging terminal alerts salesmen, executives, tradesmen and others to call their homes or offices.

Paul Robeson Honored

National Black News Service
New York — (NBNS) — Blacks from all walks of life paid tribute to Paul Robeson at a massive and moving "cultural celebration" of the Black actor - singer's 75th birthday. Robeson, in ill health at his home in Philadelphia was unable to come to the event held in New York's Carnegie Hall, but sent a tape recorded message.

"I want you to know that I am the same Paul," Mr. Robeson said in his message, "dedicated as ever to the world wide cause of humanity for freedom, peace and brotherhood."

A gifted singer and linguist Robeson achieved world wide acclaim for his singing. His deep, rich, bass voice thrilled audience after audience. An actor, Robeson was on stage and screen in many roles, most notably the Emperor Jones and Othello. As a linguist, Robeson spoke many of the world's languages and had a special interest in african languages.

Robeson had a total commitment to the struggles of Black and other oppressed people of the world. Many of his non performing hours were spent in efforts to assist these struggles. Because of his involvement with labor unions, civil rights organizations, and anti colonial movements, Robeson was prevented from performing in many places in the U.S.

He was denied a U.S. passport from 1950 to 1958 for his refusal to sign a non communist affidavit. Robeson felt that it infringed on his first amendment and human rights.

Speaking at the celebration, Mrs. Martin Luther King noted that Robeson had been "buried alive" for activities. Comparing him to her husband she said that even earlier than Dr. King, Robeson "Had tapped the same wells of latent militancy" among Black people.

Jazz artist Dizzy Gillespie called Robeson his "personal hero," and Gary, Ind. Mayor Richard Hatcher called Robeson "our own Black prince and prophet."

Also paying tribute to Robeson were artists Harry Belafonte, Odetta, Leon Bibb, and Sidney Poitier. "Before him, no Black man or woman had been portrayed in American movies as anything but a racist stereotype" Poitier said.

Members of the audience rose up to pay tribute to Robeson in brief statements. "I'm not interested in his politics" said Drl Leon E. Thompson, Director of educational activities for the New York Philharmonic, "as a Black musician, I want to honor him as an artist and a great man, and we want our children to know him for that."

Another member of the audience confessing ignorance of Robeson until his 75th birthday "got into the news," stated, "I'm here to repair a great gap in my education."

A mixed media "theatrical biography" presenting Robeson's career in recordings, slides, and movies, was received warmly and enthusiastically by the audience.

Robeson's tape recorded message reflected a continuing commitment and greatly moved the audience. "My heart is till with the continuing struggles of my own people ... not only for equal rights, but an equal share," Robeson said. He saluted "the colonial liberation movements of Africa, Latin America, and Asia."

Reciting in a strong spoken voice the words of the song he made famous Robeson said "But I keeps laughing instead of crying I must keep fighting until I'm dying And Ol' Man River, he just keeps rolling along!"

Mrs. Lawson Fights For Elderly Project

BESSIE LAWSON

Bessie Lawson, 1291 DeWolf Street, was once an employee of the State of Iowa. One day in 1957, she was walking up the steps of the Statehouse to pick up her paycheck for working in the state lab building when she tripped over a wire and fell. She sustained a permanent spinal injury and from that point on, was unable to It was then in her life she began her fight for the elderly and disabled.

Bessie, now 71, is still fighting. Now she says she's found a program that is just what she's been fighting for an is in short, "a dream come true."

Bessie is referring to the Des Moines Community Development Program's Emergency Repair Grants to the Elderly Project. The project is aimed at making available grants of up to $1,000 to elderly homeowners in the six Community Development Prime Service areas who meet certain income requirements and wish to make emergency repairs on their homes. Such repairs might include repairing leaky roofs, replacing furnaces or rewiring a home.

Bessie has taken advantage of the program herself.

"My heater blew up and Community Development replaced it. They installed a new bathtub and toilet and replastered by basement," she said.

"I first found out about the program when I attended one of the Logan Board meetings. After I found out I was eligible to receive the grant, it took only about a month for the work to be completed."

VOICES OF SOUL

Will appear in Concert Performance, Benefit Show, Sunday 2:00 P.M., April 29, 1973.

To provide funds for the purchase of choir robes, music, etc., in an effort to perpetuate the group.

She adds, "I'm very happy with the work. Everyone was so nice, especially Mr. Frank Evans, the contractor. He's wonderful and very kind to the elderly and handicapped."

Bessie says she has been fighting for the needs of the elderly and handicapped every since poverty programs began.

"I've been to Denver, Washington D.C. and even appeared before a Congressional hearing. I've fought for higher Social Security payments, lower costs for food stamps and to see that Medicare and Medicaid are not taken from the elderly."

Bessie says she also communicated with the late President Lyndon Johnson for many years seeking his help and advice. "He sent me a get - well card when I once went into the hospital for surgery," she said.

Bessie gets frequent calls from other people in the Logan Area who are taking advantage of the Emergency Repair Grant Project. "I have to assure them it's a grant and they will never have to pay it back" she said, "People can hardly believe it."

"I appreciate being connected with Community Development and the Logan area," she said, "and with Mrs. Robinson, (the Logan Area Coordinator) and her staff. They really understand the needs of Senior Citizens."

"I hope they continue to keep Community Development going," she said, "The elderly really appreciate this program and other Community Development Programs. The elderly benefit more from Community Development than any other program I know of."

U.S. Aid To Uganda Cut Off

By Louise R. Wyche
National Black News Service

Washington — (NBNS) — The United States has announced that it is cutting off all aid to the black nation of Uganda. The decision by the State Department means that Uganda will lose $1.6 million in aid for various programs.

About all members of the 30 - man staff of the U.S. Agency for International Development who are assigned in Uganda have been recalled out of the country by June 30. Some of them have already left, U.S. officials said.

Most of the programs that AID participated in the East African nation were agricultural and educational in nature. Relations between the U.S. and Uganda have become increasingly strained in recent months. The U.S. alleges that this is the result of statements made by Uganda's President Idi Amin, in which he was critical of U.S. foreign policy.

The U.S. Ambassador to Uganda Thomas P. Melady was recalled several months ago for "consultations" after the Ugandan President charged the United States with aggression in Vietnam. The State Department had called the comment "entirely unacceptable."

But just a week ago, Amin, in an obvious peace offer to President Nixon, praised Nixon as "one of the most brilliant leaders in the Western world" for his efforts in ending the war in Vietnam. But at the same time he had some words of advice for the President.

"I offer the advice that you should not again get involved militarily in Vietnam to assist the solution of the problems between North and South," Amin said in his message.

But the State Department said Melady was still here and he had "no further plans to travel."

In commenting on the aid cutoff, the State Department said that "the atmosphere in the country was not conducive to constructive work."

Norway and Canada have already ended similar aid programs in Uganda and Great Britain is phasing out its assistance to the all - black nation of Uganda.

Amin, however, insisted calmly that the aid cutoff would have no affect on the progress of his nation. His reaction was rather calm in sharp contrast of the past.

"Maybe the Americans think I will go and kneel before them, but I'm not going to do that," the Ugandan president said.

At the same time, Uganda radio said:

"The withdrawal of American aid, to keep in step with Britain, smacks of political arm-twisting. It proves beyond doubt that aid is given by some countries with heavy strings attached.

"By asserting herself and taking measure to control her economy, Uganda has displeased many," it said.

The nation of 10 million people has received $45 million in United States assistance since its independence in 1962, $30 million of this was in the form of outright grants.

Uganda has increased its supply of foreign reserves at the rate of $3.5 million a month as a result of cotton and coffee exports. As of January, Uganda held $52 million in reserves.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Sponsors Scholarship Drive

The Iowa Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, comprised predominately of Black college women and graduates, in cooperation with Spence, Ewing & Associates, a minority personnel and management consulting firm, is developing an annual fund raising drive for academic and vocational scholarships for minorities throughout the State of Iowa.

This idea was developed as an alternative to the Miss Black Iowa Beauty Pageant which had restricted the recipients to females based on their physical appearance rather than encompassing their academic abilities or financial need.

To implement this goal, advertising space in an Equal Employment Opportunities Directory will be made available to companies throughout the State of Iowa to publicize their interest in the minority community. This directory will be distributed free to all colleges and universities within the State of Iowa and specifically made available to minority students and selected Black colleges and universities throughout the southeastern part of the United States.

This publication will provide an avenue whereby corporations will be able to display their willingness to give equal employment opportunities to all members of the Iowa community and to also demonstrate a concrete example of Affirmative Action strides being taken by Iowa corporations.

The distribution will make minorities aware of the type of industries that are existing in the State of Iowa and subsequently acquaint them with the types of opportunities and challenges that are available to them by seeking employment in this area.

The funds derived from this publication will be expended for financial assistance to minorities for higher education goals such as Bachelors Degree, Masters, or Ph.D.

Because of concern and need for skilled persons, whether it be in the service or trade areas, we think it would be significant that funds also be made available to those who deem it advisable to pursue training in the industrial and-or skilled categories.

United Delta, Five Charged With Bias

Washing — (NBNS) — United and Delta Air Lines and five labor unions have been accused of discrimination against blacks and women in their employment practices.

In the suit filed against United, the largest domestic carrier, the Justice Department said the airline maintained a system of transfers and promotions and used standardized test for hiring, promotion and transfers that are discriminatory.

In asking the court to order United and the unions to stop discriminatory practices, Justice also asked the court to "compensate black and women employees and applicants for any economic losses they may have suffered as a result."

As of last December, the government said, United has only 3,500 blacks and 15,000 women among its 49,393 personnel throughout the country.

United traditionally assigns whites and males to jobs which generally offer better training and promotion opportunity jobs, to transfer to which blacks and women have been assigned, the suit contends. It also contends that whites and males are traditionally given better paying nonsupervisory and supervisory jobs than blacks and women.

Mr. Batey's responsibilities will include developing policy statements for the University's affirmative action program, designing and implementing systems to measure the effectiveness of the program, identifying job categories where there are relatively few or no minority groups or women, conducting inquiries into any discrimination complaints, and chairing the University's Affirmative Action Advisory Council, according to Dr. Glen R. Driscoll UT president, to whom Mr. Batey will report.

Mr. Batey received the bachelor of arts degree from the University of Colorado (Boulder) and then earned a teacher's certificate for secondary education from the same institution. He will complete requirements for the master of science degree in education at Drake University next month. In 1970, he participated in an Urban Affairs Institute held at American University (Washington, D.C.) and sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.

At Drake University, Mr. Batey currently serves as special assistant for equal opportunity programs for the Office of the President and also as coordinator of urban affairs for Drake's University College. He also has served as coordinator of Drake University's Urban Affairs Center, as a civil rights specialist for Region VIII of the Office for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, based in Denver, Colo.; and, as a minority group specialist for the Office of the Executive Director of the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment. Nixon Reverses Stand, Releases School Aid Funds

Washington — (NBNS) — The Nixon Administration, folding in the wake of heavy pressure and a threatened law suit, announced last week that it will release $507 million in impact aid funds to thousands of school districts located near federal installations and disaster aid funds to those districts ravaged by Hurricane Agnes last June.

The funds, which had been impounded because of a dispute with Congress over federal spending ceilings, would go to 4,650 school districts, which will receive about $415 million in impact aid and another $68 million will be targeted to school districts hit by the tropical storm. In addition, $24 million will be earmarked for school construction funds.

Impact aid, which was enacted in 1950 to reimburse localities for tax revenues that are lost as a result of federal installations being located in their areas, has been referred to as a "graveyard" by President Nixon.

However, the aid, which is one of the most popular federal aid programs, had received wide spread support since 380 of the 435 Congressional districts receive it.

The $415 million figure is less than the $592.5 million allocated last year and less than the $635 million authorized by Congress for this year. Additionally, the monies will be divided differently than Mr. Nixon had initially proposed.

This year, the President proposed to fully fund impact aid programs in impact "A" areas (here federal employees live and work on federal installations and in impact "B" areas (where persons work on federal property but live on private property).

However, according to an announcement by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, impact "A" areas will have their funds cut in half, supposedly to allow funding for areas such as Washington, where there is a heavy concentration of federal employees and installations. Mr. Nixon had opposed this measure, but Congress had voted for it.

Rather than full funding to both impact areas, HEW said all areas would be funded at 54 per cent of their original share to keep the spending under Administration budget restraints. Initially, the impact "A" areas were to receive $205.2 million. Now, however, they will receive only $11.5 million.

Dr. H. David Fish, director of special projects for the San Diego (Calif.) Unified School District, said the release of impact aid this late in the school year "is going to create more legal problems than you can realize," since this is the end of the budget year for many school districts.

More than 50 school districts in the San Diego area, Dr. Fish said recently, had combined forces to consider filing a suit forcing the release of the impounded

Congress Can Stop Nixon, Rep. Jordan Says

Washington — (NBNS) — Rep. Barbara Jordan (D-Tex.) charged this week that President Nixon is violating the Constitution, but said Congress can stop him "if we are willing to exercise the power, the strength, and the courage."

Speaking at a luncheon of the Women's National Democratic Club, she said, "when the President of the United States makes war, refuses to expend appropriated funds, eliminates programs authorized by the Congress, he acts in violation of the Constitution, and he acts illegally."

The Congresswoman added that the battle now taking place here "is not between the Congress and the President," as has been suggested, but that "the confrontation is between the Republic and the President — the Republic, with a citizenry demanding an environment which is healthy, a supply of energy which is adequate and safe, social reforms which are sensible.

The Children's Easter Program was held at 3:00 pm at the Bethel AME Church.

The Easter Breakfast sponsored by Bethel AME Church was held at the Little House of Fine Foods on Easter Day, because of water in the dining area. The Breakfast was well attended.

The Children's program of the Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church was held following the regular morning service.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Officer and little son, better known as Chip, spent Easter Day with Mrs. Officer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Majors. Christopher and Carla returned to Moline with their parents after spending the week with their grandparents.

"The confrontation," she charged, "is with a single executive, who apparently wants a concentration of power in the office of the presidency."

The Texas Congresswoman emphasized that the duty of addressing social, environmental, and economic problems in this country belongs to Congress, a body which she said "is comprised of political men, who respond, hopefully, to the body politic. Can change occur if the people of this country demand that their elected representatives fulfill their Constitutional role? I say yes, it can," Ms. Jordan declared.

Ms. Jordan, who was especially critical of President Nixon's cuts in federal social service programs, said he is undermining the strategy and intent of these programs of the Great Society and is threatening the country with "darkness."

"The Great Society of the 60s had as its underlying rationale the ultimate fulfillment of America's promises to attend and enhance the productivity of individual citizens.

"The programs which emanated from the Office of Economic Opportunity, the mainstay of the war on poverty, were not designed to simply throw money at problems," Rep. Jordan said. "We in the Congress and you, the American people, understand that the problems of poverty have their genesis in social, economic, and historical factors."
