Grave Robberies Are Big No Fault Business In California

Because California has so many citizens involved in satanic cults, it is no surprise that grave robbing is a lucrative business. What satanic ceremony would be complete without at least one human skull adorning the ceremonial chambers? Of course, human skulls are a rare commodity, so one must turn to a wickedly enterprising capitalist who will supply any demand, no matter how evil.

A disgusting business you say? Perhaps, but quite profitable - just about profitable enough at up to $50.00 per skull to eliminate ethical thoughts from even the most moral character. The cause of immorality is furthered by the knowledge that the grave robber can gather many skulls to sell at a huge profit by visiting his local Indian burial ground, an area not terribly well protected by law enforcement folks. Once again it seems that the capitalist system is attacking America's minority peoples, we are no longer safe resting in peace.

In the last session of Congress, heavy lobbying by many, but particularly by the Nixon Administration, prevented passage of No-Fault Insurance legislation. But supporters of such legislation are preparing to fight again for the passage of this important automobile legislation. Their success depends as much on you as anyone, they need your support.

The bill would require that every state pass a No-Fault bill during its next legislative session. A state that did not act upon this matter would find themselves automatically provided with a federal version of this kind of legislation, which they would be forced to adhere to. The specifications of the federal bill are as follows:

1. The state in question must provide unlimited medical rehabilitation expenses,
2. Three-year income loss coverage up to $1,000 per month.
3. elimination of fault in property damage cases, and
4. limited pain and suffering compensation so that those who suffer only minor pain and injuries are not over-paid.

Under No-Fault legislation, accident victims are paid for their injuries and economic losses by their own insurance company, no matter who was at fault. Unfortunately, No-Fault Insurance does not usually mean lower premiums; it does however, mean that a consumer's premiums would not necessarily rise should they be involved in an accident. Statistics show that the present system of auto insurance returns only 50 cents of each premium dollars, and more than 50 per cent of the people involved in accidents receive no compensation because they were "at fault".

This legislation is definitely worth supporting; write to your state and federal congressman. SPEAK OUT!!

Mrs. Josie Grav Bain

Mrs. Bain Honored

Mrs. Josie Gray Bain, Superintendent of Area D. in the Los Angeles Unified School District and credited with being one of the highest black women administrators in the country, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, on Saturday, May 12, 1973, at Drake University's 92nd Commencement.

Mrs. Bain with her husband, Rev. John C. Bain, resided in Des Moines 1938-1943, when he served as pastor at Burn's United Methodist Church, 811 Crocker Street.

At the time Mrs. Bain first came to Des Moines, she had two years of college work which she had completed at Tennessee State College at Nashville. She was a housewife and began school here on a parttime basis, receiving her bachelor's degree in 1940. Rev. Bain was working on his Masters' Degree. From here Rev. Bain entered the services as a chaplain and Mrs. Bain and their son moved to Los Angeles to live with her brother.

Mrs. Bain worked as a receptionist in a personnel office and moved up to employee relations counselor. She worked with 1100 people and held this position until Rev. Bain returned from the service. Upon his return he was assigned to a church in Springfield, Mo. They remained there for 15 years, when he was assigned to a Los Angeles church.

A year later Mrs. Bain became a primary teacher, the start of her career in the Los Angeles school system. She served 3½ years as a teacher, moving on to become a training teacher, and a demonstration teacher. She was next a principal for about 9½ years prior to having been an administrative coordinator. Six and one half years ago she was assigned superintendent of the Elementary Area South. Was in that position for about 3½ years.

The school system started a reorganization process. This resulted in four zones—each had two assistant superintendents. She was an assistant superintendent in the zone structure. She became an area superintendent in the zone structure. She became an area superintendent when they changed from zone to area. She remained in this position for the past three years. She is presently there and handles the elementary and secondary schools. Under her supervision she has 34 elementary schools, 11 junior high and 4 senior highs, making a total of 45 schools.

She reminded me that it is a well known fact that school systems everywhere have had financial troubles. Each system has had to determine what areas to cut. In Los Angeles they cut back on many features. In order to keep music alive, professional teachers from the community volunteered teaching hours. A concert was planned in which the students could appear. There were no funds for an auditorium. With considerable ingenuity and effort this was overcome. This concert attracted enough people to fill the auditorium to standing room only—well over 4,000 people attended.

Mrs. Bain happily reported that music is being restored this year and additional music teachers at the elementary level. This is the result of many efforts on the part of volunteer teachers, interested parents, and an interested community—the combined undertaking in keeping alive the fine arts.

Innovative Programs is a brand new idea: A display opening May 22 which will show the innovative projects going on in Area D. It will be an entirely different approach to learning. Senior high brick masonry classes is something new. Some of these youngsters will have jobs awaiting them when they leave high school. Some gifted children have designed a car, put it together and it runs, and runs 6 miles an hour.

Another new idea is prompted by the children being bussed, requiring travel for some 45 minutes to an hour. Through cassettes a lesson can be given concerning the scenery along the way; for example they pass through a cottonwood tree area; they can learn the uses of the trees. They can reply to the lessons coming over the cassettes—on tapes after they arrive home. The same sort of lessons may be made of store window displays seen along the route driven. The students may reply on tapes. Their parents may make their comments on the same tapes. With reference to the window displays, a lesson may be made regarding the polyester items; thus the child must do research say on polyester; what's in it; which objects in the home uses polyester. She declared that in this way the ride home is composed of real instruction time.

Beginning with a coffee after the 11:00 a.m. service at the church for the Bains, there followed many affairs throughout the community for their entertainment.

RED CROSS HAS FIRST AID COURSE

May, 1973, Des Moines — a Red Cross Multi-Media First Aid Course will be given on Saturday, May 26, at Des Moines Technical High School from 8:00 am to 4:00 pm.

This week we sit down and hear about the Jack Parker Family. Mrs. Parker is the former Willa Mae Tunley. She and Jack are rearing a beautiful brood of five children: Robert (Bob), Cyndy, Debbie, Darla and Jackie. It is a church-oriented family. They live at 1229 15th Street. The children live in the house — not the Street!

Willa is employed and at the same time pursuing a university degree. She finds herself in school with two of her own children.

I coaxed her to record the following: "I guess you would say, 'We are a Drake University Family'. I work as a Clinic Assistant in the Reading and Study Skills Clinic at Drake, and am now a Junior in Elementary Education. This semester completes my clinical work as a candidate to become a reading clinician, concentrating on the child with reading disabilities. Having previously been an Art major at the Art Institute of Art in Chicago, I hope to be able to use this training to become a creative teacher and help children with learning disabilities as well as to derive self fulfillment from helping others. The degree of B.S.E. in elementary education is sought with pride and humbleness, because I know and have previously known some of the hardships and sacrifices one must make to rear a family, work everyday, and take classes day and night, but with the help of God, I hope to reach my goal.

My husband, Jack, has been very instrumental in the family success. He has been the chief cook and bottle washer, because time in our home is somewhat a precious item. We don't have too much of it. He acts as chauffeur to our 12, 13, and 15 year old children. He also assists with the preparing of meals. In fact he is quite gifted in the art of culinary, having been a cook in the U.S. Army during WW II. It takes each and everyone in the family to keep up our busy, sometimes hectic schedules.

Music is our middle name. Debbie and Darla play in the Irving band and stage band; Debbie, who will be going to North High this next term, plays in the Des Moines Drum and Bugle Corps, and Jackie plays Bassoon in the Byron-Rice Elementary Band. All five play piano. Cyndy, who formerly played in the North High band, probably will play with the Drake marching band next fall. The St. Paul New Life Ensemble is an integral part of the girls' lives, and they enjoy it very much. Sometimes the children sing and or play for amusement.

We will give special attention to Bob, since being the oldest he has a big background deserving of special mention. Bob apparently has enjoyed his association with the members of The Sunday Social, a group he helped organize. They have had some difficult times because of the constant need to change musicians for one reason or another. Many young men aren't able to stay with groups for too long because of schooling, or they were hired temporarily. Forming and retaining a "tight" group takes more than meets the eye. It means long hours of hard work and much perseverance. Some are able to stand up under the ordeal of becoming a rock musician, or a musician of any sort, because it means many hours of drilling and going over songs. They added choreography and uniforms. The choreography demanded expert musicianship as well as split second timing. Playing in clubs is very demanding; it means late hours and early rising to plan new material for the next night. Being on the road means loss of sleep and rest, loading and unloading equipment, as well as setting up with very limited time in which to do it. Many times it may mean that following you on stage is another program coming on and your equipment must be off.

Bob plays and maintains a Hammond B-2 organ with a Leslie speaker, and plays a flute, arranges music, etc. Prior to his taking a semester off to travel with the band, he carried a regular full-time schedule of classes at Drake and maintained a high grade point average. However, this proved to be a real challenge. He has re-enrolled for the coming semester, fall of 1973, and will again carry a full schedule of classes. He is an instrumental major, planning to graduate with a Bachelor of Music Education degree, which will prepare him to teach music as a band director. With his re-enrollment it is hopeful that he will be able to devote his undivided attention to his quest for a B.M.E. degree.

Bob's sister, Cyndy, is now a freshman at Drake, beginning the past January. She graduated at the age of 17, and has now completed 1 semester of course work. However, she is going to go through the graduation ceremony this month so she can officially graduate from North High School. She is a recreation major with a minor in Health. This is a relatively new major, and is rapidly becoming a popular field. It is being offered at Drake in lieu of the usual Physical Education major. With this field one can be more diversified in job choices.

Editor's Note:

Today, the whole of America and most of the world are concerned with the Watergate investigations. No matter where you are, if you engage in general conversation, the topic is bound to come up.

The attitude of many is, "a half-dozen in one hand and six in the other" or "there is nothing new under the sun", at least when it comes to skullduggery. It is that attitude that caused me to reflect upon a book I had read. The book, None Dare Call It Conspiracy, was written by Gary Allen. Mr. Allen writes that as far back as 1814, there has been a group of super-rich men (whom he calls the Insiders), involved in the power game. What constitutes power in this game is complete control of the world's wealth. Their methods have no holds barred. Mr. Allen writes that these men have seized control of most of the world's money through a central banking system. They finance presidents, kings, and dictators. They create crises in governments in order to lend them money, and their indebtedness allows for a degree of control. These men also aid in the creation of war between two nations, and in turn finance both sides so as to insure themselves a winner. A number of these Insiders mentioned in Mr. Allen's book are very prominent in national and international affairs today. In view of the many revelations and accusations being written and televised daily, one has to at least consider the reasons behind the cynicism expressed by many people. I would like to read (and possibly print) your thoughts on the subject. Write.

ASSOCIATE PRODUCER OF BLACK OMNIBUS ON SPEAKING TOUR

Los Angeles, Calif...Leroy Robinson, associate producer and head writer of the nationally syndicated television series, Black Omnibus, is scheduled for a national speaking tour beginning with the Mass Media Department of Atlanta's all black Clark College on May 21st.

Thirty-nine year old Robinson, who gained fame in his early career as a jazz critic, was also former editor of Elegant, Soul Illustrated and contributing writer of Jazz & Pop, Billboard, L.A. Times and Show Magazine.

The topics he will lecture on will include subjects surrounding the business, financial and creative ends of show business as well as the many formulas he has used to develop himself into a good and complete writer. Along with this he will pinpoint the many facets writers have to devise in order to become craftsmen in their fields.

Also an accomplished screenwriter, Robinson has just completed the script to the legendary folk classic, Stagolee, for Chocolate Chip Productions, in which he is a partner with Joe R. Hartsfield. That film will roll in Georgia in August. Chocolate Chip's first film, "The House On Skull Mountain" is now in production in Atlanta.

"Shaft In Africa"

A record number of initial bookings for a Shaft film has been set for "Shaft In Africa," which will be launched in 146 key theatre openings on June 27, it was announced today by Bill Madden, M G M vice-president in charge of sales.

This exceeds the previous high of 114 opening playdates set last year by "Shaft's Big Score," second in the popular series.

Madden pointed out that the increase in bookings for the new film was due largely to a greater demand for it by theatres in suburban areas.

"Shaft In Africa," starring Richard Roundtree, was directed by John Guillermin on location in Africa for producer Roger Lewis. Stirling Silliphant did the screenplay.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

by Habiba

Quite a bit is in a name in most african societies, where children are not considered to be really "born" until they have been given a name that suits them individually. In this country, children are often named before they are born. Names like James or Susan are commonly given and are in no way descriptive of the individual child. Such names do not relate to the birth or the personality of the child; you could say that we give our children labels or tags, but we do not give them an identity of their own.

The birth of a child in African societies is looked upon as a happy occurrence and a blessed event for both the parents and the community as a whole. It seems only right then that this special child be given a name that is individual and relevant to its immediate surroundings. A child born during a rainstorm might be given a name that reflects that fact. Both male and female children who are firstborn are often called "first-born", or Mosi in Swahili speaking communities. childrens' names may also reflect disasters or unhappy times, which, although unpleasant, still provide the child with a name of relevance and identity.

Nothing but good could come of adopting this practice and applying it to births in our communities. Certainly it would be a unifying factor, uniting us not only with ourselves in America, but with our people in Africa as well.

"Be gentle with unhappy people; the happy ones can stand a blow." (Ferdinand Raimund)

MINISTER'S WIVES OFFICERS INSTALLED

Installation services was held Sunday May 20th, 7:30 p.m. at Bethel A.M.E. Church for the Interdenominational Minister's Wives Association. A beautiful program fashioned by Mrs. J. L. Ingram acting as chairman was presented, with Mrs. Sheryl James doing a magnificent job as Mistress of Ceremonies.

The evening was a very outstanding and beautiful one, with all wives attired in evening gowns escorted by husbands dressed in immaculate fashion that was complimentary to the occasion.

Service opened with soul-stirring music sung by the Morning Star Baptist church. The Rev. Wm. Heath gave the scripture, followed by the Rev. Wm. Scott offering prayer. The "Occasion" was brilliantly spoken by Mrs. Avance Hardin. Mrs. Charles Peguese gave the welcome. Mrs. Wm. Heath responded to the welcome.

The Morning Star Choir again inspired us with a message in song, followed by congregational singing. The host pastor, Rev. Ivan J. Johnson delivered the installation sermon. Invitation to Christian discipleship was extended by Rev. Alex Crawford. Offering was accepted by Rev. Lester Jefferson and Rev. Henry I. Thomas. Installation ceremonies was carried out by Rev. George Parrish. Mrs. Ivan J. Johnson, vice-president, introduced the president Mrs. Lester Jefferson for final remarks. Mrs. Jefferson made it very clear that the Minister's wives to aid in bringing about a closer working relationship with all ministers and churches in Des Moines and help with the building of God's kingdom. It has no desire for personal greatness, but its aim is rather do great things through much prayer and faith in our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. And leave a lasting memory of love and goodness through the years to come.

Following the Benediction, everybody retired to the fellowship hall to partake of a beautiful and tasty repast, prepared by the Social committee, Mrs. Wm. Scott, chairman.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Round City Hall

By Ken Warren

In my previous article I related some of the details surrounding the visits to Dayton, Ohio and Boston, Massachusetts in regards to their solution to some of the problems of Police Departments. The basic concept for these trips was to gather information and methods to improve police relations in the black community and the improvement of police effectiveness in general. In my discussions with Chief Nichols I found out that we only have three black policemen actively working in the community. We have approximately five other blacks in supporting roles such as dispatchers, jailers and other police related duties. For a city of this size it seems rather odd that a situation of this sort is allowed to continue thus from an ethnic standpoint creating a void with the representation as far as the black community is concerned. Another factor that seems to stand out is the lack of representation in the policy making echelon of the police administration. The previous excuse for this lack was that the blacks were not qualified to advance to a higher grade. From my own knowledge I happen to know that at least one of our black policemen has his degree from Drake University plus at least 15 years experience in police enforcement. It is time now that we see some positive steps taken by the administration to correct the inequities that have prevailed thus far. Even though the elevating of this particular person would in essence be tokenism at least it would be a positive step or should we say a crack in the lily white shield that has excluded black policemen in this city for so long. Most cities of our size have recognized that changes had to be made in order to have a effective law enforcement agency that is interested in the total population and the solving or at least attempting to solve the ethnic problems. For the information of the readers of this column, there are many persons from your community who are working for and demanding better relations and performance from the police and other administrative departments of this city. I wish to publicly serve notice to the administration it is time to do that well known thing or get off the pot. The concerned members of this community are no longer going to be contented with half stepping by any agency within the city administrative groups. We are going to demand the services we pay taxes for and are guaranteed under the constitution of these United States. We are no longer willing to accept second class citizenship because we as an economic group must as everyone else pay first class prices. It is your duty as members of this country to stand up for your equal rights and this is a NOW world, yesterday is dead and tomorrow is not guaranteed so do your thing TODAY.

With Allen Ashby

A fellow read my stuff last week and wanted to know more about the clubs that I mentioned. This is for him. In the middle twenties and possibly the early thirties there were a lot of clubs made up of young boys and boys not so young. This was probably because there wasn't much else to do, no television, not much radio and few cars, so you were more into groups. The clubs had programs which were largely social, giving parties and such. Parties then consisted of eating, drinking soft drinks, dancing and maybe some card playing, mostly whist. But a few of the clubs had athletic teams, and one such club was called the Dashing Eagles. They were boys of from fourteen to maybe eighteen, but they were all just about in the same age group; the Eagles were tough in football and baseball. They were especially tough in baseball because they happened to have a young fellow by the name of Chet Brewer pitching for them. Their colors were black and gold, and they awarded letters and monograms like schools, depending on how many games one played in. They had stripes for the years of service, one for each year, and the team captain wore a star on his sweater. Their leader and president was a little guy named George Spaulding. Wherver George is, if he is still alive, I bet he made it big, because he was a natural leader. He was a quarterback for the football team and shortstop on the baseball club. The guy was so well respected and liked and was such a leader, that if he yelled "Jump!" the team asked how far and how high without question. Some of the fellows who are still around or alive as I remember them are Stanley Proctor, Reagger Webb, Fred McCracken, Gink Fowler, Kendall McGuire, Chet Wheeler, Chet Brewer was the last club leader, and they just seemed to fade away when he left.

There were two other clubs of older fellows in that era that I recall. The first, was called the Syndicate, and the only way I can remember them was because I played in a basketball game against them. About the only guy that I know who is still around is Speck Howard. Speck was a forward on the team and along with a fellow named DeWitt Hunter made a lot of points for those days. Then there was that club called the Beaux Esprite. What does that mean? I don't know. But they were just about all high school or college fellows, and they put on a program that consisted of the thing that was popular then, debates and discussions of deep subjects. They came up with a football team and awarded sweaters and letters to the team members. Their colors were blue and gold, and you had to earn one of them to wear it. They had the big game of the year, 1924, against the Dashing Eagles. The game was talked about for weeks, and created a lot of emotion on both sides. I wasn't playing with either team, and decided to cast my lot with the Eagles because they were the underdogs. The game was played in what used to be the West High stadium at the corner of twenty first and High streets. The place was a natural amphitheater, and I bet there were a thousand people to see that game. There were two referees, probably a first then. Well, between the referees cheating for first one side and the other, the game ended in a scoreless tie, and I don't think the arguments died down for five years. Both sides spiked up for the contest, the Sprites getting all the high school and a couple of athletes from Drake and the Eagles drafting Jesse Frazier and me. In spite of the better known stars of the older team the Eagles were better organized and had played more games, so they were able to battle their older rivals to a standstill. But it was fun, and we had lots of it before TV and cars came along to keep us from getting together.

We promise to keep it burning.

We promise to keep that quiet, efficient blue flame burning at your house.

We're looking hard for new gas supplies—where we've found them before, and in some far away places like the north slope of Alaska and the Arctic

Islands. And, in 1972, we tapped a new source of supply by bringing gas in from Montana. Our search for new reserves is costing a lot of money, but it's worth it. Gas is still the least expensive source of energy you can use in your home. And it will continue to be as long as we can foresee.

So if your gas water heater is going to need replacing one of these days, replace it with a new gas water heater. And if you'd like to update your gas dryer, go ahead and do it.
