The Twain Met in Kansas City, Mo.

June 22, & 23, 1973, at the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, Missouri, minority entrepreneurs of that city and surrounding states gathered to exhibit their trades and services.

This gathering was named according to its intent. That of minority businesses meeting at a particular area for the purpose of exposing themselves to the majority business community.

Jesse J. Bradley, Jr.,
Executive Director
'73 Minority Business Expo

The Minority Business Expo, not only served as a vehical for introduction to the so called majority, but to the minority community at large.

This was the fourth annual exposition and it was the first time that the entire event was opened to the public.

There was no charge for admission to Exhibition Hall, where nearly 170 minority sellers were to display their wares.

That first exposition generated more than $550,000

Former D.M. Attorney says—

J. Nelson Thompson, a native of Des Moines and now a Kansas City, Kansas lawyer took a negative stand against selection of Clarence M. Kelly's to be FBI Director.

Thompson described Kelly "as an intelligent man and a fine administrator" but very insensitive to the problems abundant in the inner city."

From his office in the heart of the Kansas City ghetto, Nelson testified that charges of police brutality against blacks were whitewashed. He said police mistakes caused the 1968 rioting.

in new business for the area's minority suppliers. This amount increased to $868,000 following the 1971 Minority Business Exposition.

A target of $1 million in new business was set for the 1972 Minority Business Exposition. In addition, there was major emphasis before Expo on providing salesmanship training for the minority sellers. The 1972 result was $1,211,696 in new business for area minority suppliers.

The goal of the 1973 Expo to generate $1.5 million in new business for minority businesses.

Some of the Minority Businesses that received signed contracts at the 1973 MBE: 1) Mora Landis Contracting - (Jesse Mora, Jr.), 2) Perfecto's Plumbing and Sewer Service - (Perfecto Torrez), 3) Aladdin Building Services, Inc. - (Ira Glass), 4) J. E. Dunn Construction Co. - (J. E. Dunn), 5) El Adobe

PARTIAL VIEW OF THE MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM DURING THE 1973 MINORITY BUSINESS EXPOSITION.

Sitaka Enterprises

Restuarant - (David Hernandez). These businesses surpassed the previous goal that was set at $1.5 million dollars and as of twelve o'clock noon on June 23rd, they had received contracts totaling $1,501,140.28...

The minority people of America can't afford artificial boundaries, typographical lines have no meaningful significance in our struggle toward economic development. Any thinking being will learn that it can not maintain a lofty spiritual, moral, political or healthful stance without economic stability.

Exhibits that take place in places like Watts, California,

Chicago, Illinois, Atlanta Georgia, New York City, New York, or Kansas City, Missouri, should and does have a possitive results beyond the thankful good fortune experienced by a few. These expositions serve to open the minds eye of many and kindle the fires of impatience with their lack of productive involvement. The term economics doesn't relate to dollars and cents only. Every molecule that makes up the universe must have economics according to its need in order to exist in harmony with its counterpart. This should tell us something Des Moines.

Journalism Scholarship

A check for $6,540, representing the second installment in a $50,000 journalism scholarship program sponsored by R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., was presented to the National Newspaper

Alton Lang - Representing the SBA offices of Des Moines, Iowa.

Publishers Association at the organization's 33rd annual convention last week (Friday, June 22).

The money is earmarked for second year grants to five students selected last year and for initial scholarships for five additional students to be selected later this summer. During the next six years Reynolds Industries will provide a total of 20 four-year scholarships for Black students to study journalism.

The check was presented by Marshall Bass, corporate manager of personnel development for Reynolds Industries, who said the company and NNPA had designed the program to help increase the number of college-trained Black media personnel.

"We are extremely pleased with the first-year students in this scholarship program," Bass said. "And, we believe that this program will make a significant contribution to the needs of Black journalism and help strengthen the already influential Black media in this country."

Continuing for two more years, five Reynolds journalism scholarship winners will be announced each year until a total of twenty have been selected to receive the four-year scholarships. The total cost of the seven-year program will exceed $50,000.

Federal taxes apply to gambling laws

Des Moines, Iowa — There is some confusion in the minds of Iowans regarding federal taxes due as a result of the new Iowa gambling law.

The new Iowa law legalizes certain games of skill, games of chance, raffles and bingo games where such events result in profits for the organizers, owners and or operators and are restricted to four major categories:

(1) Fairs (State, County, District or Agricultural Societies)

(2) Amusement Parks

(3) Civic Celebrations (Carnivals, bazaars, centennials or celebrations sponsored by any bona fide civic group, service club, or merchants' group)

(4) Qualified Organizations ("qualified" means dedicating net receipts of games to awarding of prizes to contestants or participants and to educational, civic, public, charitable, patriotic, or religious uses in this state)

Bookmaking, the numbers game, and the policy racket, which are taxable under federal law are not allowed under the new Iowa law, Herbert B. Mosher, District Director of Internal Revenue for Iowa, stated today. Mr. Mosher stated that the term "wager" under federal taxation laws, means —

(1) any wager with respect to a sports event or a contest placed with a person engaged in the business of accepting such wagers,

(2) any wager placed in a wagering pool with respect to a sports event or contest, if such pool is conducted for profit, and

(3) any wager placed in a lottery conducted for profit. The term "lottery" includes the numbers game, policy, and similar types of wagering. The term does not include—

(1) any game of a type in which usually

(a) the wagers are placed,

(b) the winners are determined, and

(c) the distribution of prizes or other property is made, in the presence of all persons placing wagers in such game, and

(2) any drawing conducted by an organization exempt from tax under sections 501 and 521, if no part of the net proceeds derived from such drawing inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

Iowa School Report

Sixty percent of the elementary and 62 percent of the secondary teachers hired in Iowa during 1972 were beginning teachers with no experience. Approximately two-thirds of the new personnel hired had received their degrees at Iowa institutions.

These were among the facts learned in a Teacher Supply and Demand Study, recently completed by Dr. Orrin Nearhoof, director, Teacher Education and Certification, in the Department of Public Instruction, and Dr. Trevor G. Howe, professor of education at Iowa State University and former DPI staffer. For the past two years, they have carried out a joint study of teacher vacancies, teacher supply and demand.

They said 430 of Iowa's 452 school districts responded to a questionnaire, representing a 95 percent return.

Drs. Nearhoof and Howe discovered that the most drastic reduction in vacancies has occurred at the elementary level, with 721 fewer vacancies in the spring of 1972 than one year earlier. There were only 63 fewer secondary school vacancies in the corresponding period.

The two educators pointed out that from contract time (April) until September, approximately 25 percent more vacancies resulted at the elementary level and 41 percent additional secondary vacancies. Over all levels, about one-third of the vacancies develop during the summer months.

Approximately two-thirds of the new personnel hired had received their degrees at Iowa institutions, although

Letter to The Editor

J.B. Morris, Sr. Speaks Out

Suggests Giving Civil Rights Commission Definite Guidelines

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that controversy has arisen in the Legislature with reference to the operation of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

I fully agree that the Civil Rights Commission is required to conduct its operations according to the law. And while some of its cases have been reversed by the Supreme Court, this happens also to many commission boards, corporations and individuals.

Securing evidence in civil rights cases is often a difficult task. Even though many business concerns advertise "An Equal Opportunity Employer," some have not carried out the policy in hiring and promotion which, at times, is difficult to prove.

In the decision by the U.S. Supreme Court when it held that exclusion of Negroes from jury duty was unconstitutional, the court had no written record of racial exclusion. But the evidence did show that 50 per cent of the population of the judicial district consisted of Negroes and that none had been called for jury duty 38 states outside of Iowa had granted degrees to the new personnel in the study.

Total distribution by sex was 40 percent men and 60 percent women. At the secondary level, the distribution was 54 percent men and 46 percent women. The elementary level included only 14 percent men and 86 percent women.

recognized that justice to all people was a law of our government and individuals should not be penalized for securing it. Only those with prejudiced views (who) are challenged for them oppose the civil rights program.

Give the Civil Rights Commission reasonable tools to work with, including definite guidelines. If it exceeds its authority let the courts be the judge if it is complying with the law and not the Legislature by making its work difficult. —

Mrs. James Hunter Returns from Lagos, Nigeria

On May 11, Mrs. James Hunter accompanied by her sister, Mrs. M. Bagby, arrived in Lagos, Nigeria, Africa, after plans that began in January, 1973. A day was spent in Paris on both their arrival and departure trips. It was a never to be forgotten day in Paris. It was here that they paid a $35.00 taxi bill. It was quite a beginning to their vacation. A startling beginning!

They reached Lagos about 5:00 p.m., just in time for the dinner hour. About the drive from the airport, Mrs. Hunter says "It was most enlightening. I have never seen so many people in my life." "Lagos, you recall from the year Book she sent you, is composed of a number of islands. It is most beautiful and very thickly populated!"

At the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Kola Bankola, servants greeted us, bowing completely to the floor. They felt this welcome, the warmth and real interest felt and displayed.

Dinner was steaks, tossed salad, mashed potatoes, and always a huge dish of Nigerian cooked rice with a sauce or gravy and an enormous peach cobbler. Everyone sits down at the dinner hour of 7:30. Everything is set before the man of the house, and he in turn serves everyone. Everyone remains at table until the dinner is over. (Irrespective of what is on television. This is the dinner hour!)

Following dinner, there was a constant stream of Nigerians coming in to welcome us. We had been expected since January! The friends continued coming until bedtime.

On Saturday we had a chance to go downtown. We were naturally amazed at the beautiful department stores and the street merchants. You can sometimes get a bigger bargain outside. The department store sometimes has a complete grocery department. They are very much up to date. It is one of the fastest growing countries in the world.

On Sunday being Mothers' Day, we participated. I had to give the Mothers' Day Prayer. It was Ikova Baptist Church.

Their choir is composed of all ages, a gospel choir. They invited me to work with them in their choir, to help them achieve a little more inspiration. Each Saturday about 5 o'clock, they sent for me to help work with the choir. They have some of the most beautiful songs in the world. They simply stand and sing. They sing in the British style - I attempted to gospelize their style.

We were invited to bring the choir and me up to the First Baptist Church on the corner of Yakubu Gowon and Joseph Streets. (Let's pause on this: Mrs. Hunter pronounces African terms exactly as would an African. She pronounces each word as would a native! Give her six months in Africa, and she would no longer be a Mid-Westerner from Iowa, I do believe.)

I cut our interview somewhat because she

MRS. CONNELL RETURNS HOME

The Civic Breakfast Club met with Mrs. Meleda Beck Monday, June 17th. After a lovely breakfast was served, Bible study followed. Money was also paid into the banking fund. Mrs. Cattie Lucas was a guest. Mrs. Meleda Beck is the President.

wishes to save the best for her appearance at Maple Street Baptist Church, July 1, at 5:00 o'clock. I could have sat and written for an entire week. I am still hungry for more about Africa.

Mrs. Hunter says she brings with her their outlook on life, religion and politics. She is a missionary in reverse to the usual American missionary. She will change our minds about many things. She is as though she has lived in Africa, an adopted country. She truly feels and speaks as though it is her mother land. She says she wanted to be one of them and she still does. From what I have seen and heard in the short while spent with her, she is. She is a true Nigerian. Her enthusiasm is contagious. I feel myself taking on her attitudes. They are real and for me!

One Black That Doesn't Believe in Giving Up!

Last year on January 12, 1972, plans were submitted to Senator Harold Hughes for a new type of program to be started in the Des Moines area. These plans were for a Drug Abuse Center that would have three other added wings, (one for Alcohol problemed people, one for work releasees for men and women from surrounding institutions such as Rockwell City, Anamosa, and Fort Madison. The plans were sent to Senator Harold Hughes because of his involvement with a Special Sub-Committee on alcoholism and drugs.

Senator Hughes kept in close contact and also suggested other people and organizations to contact on this type of program. After five months of writing all over the United States and sleepless nights, one day a brown envelope came in the mail and it was marked Special Delivery! After opening it up, it was an application kit for Drug Abuse Services Projects. Thinking that he was on his way in accomplishing his set goal, he was very content at the thought of finally doing something to help others to not make the same mistake he had made in the past. After reading everything over, he found that this application had to be filled out in the order what every penny was going to be spent on; building materials, employees, furniture, equipment, and office supplies, etc. At this particular time it was highly impossible for this to be done. Also in all the letters written in a five month period, he one day received a letter stating that a program, such as the one he had in mind, was already being discussed at the local and state level. This hurt, but was it true? Prior to the last letter stating that, he was asked to send a copy of his proposal. Maybe, he should have kept his idea for such a unique program to himself???

See, this man was confined to the Men's Reformatory at Anamosa. He was serving concurrent five year sentences for drugs. During his time there he found himself wanting to help others from making the same mistake he made, so that they wouldn't be where he was presently.

This man is now out of the institution and is a para-professional counselor through the college of Osteopathic Medicine, and is working under the supervision of Dr. Fitz.

This program was discussed with Dr. Fitz and Dr. Malhado, whom these men are referred to as masters in their field, after talking with them, it was decided to give it another try. So now that he is no longer locked up and has the opportunity to seek and explore things himself. He keeping the faith and is going to give it another hell of a go!

Senator Hughes told this man, "Thank you for giving me this opportunity to be of assistance. If I can be of further assistance, please let me know." Well Senator get ready because here he comes. He's not going to give up!

At this time, I'd like to say "This man is making a hell of a go at trying to make something out himself as well as our town, and I hope he keeps on pushin!" His name is "Baron E. Lewis"! Baron refers to the changes he is going through as "Strangulation by red tape", but I don't believe he's going to let himself get strangled. Good Luck! From all of us, Baron.

In NEA Presidential Race

In NEA Presidential Race

Jim Harris, well-known Des Moines artist and a human relations teacher at Callanon Junior High School will be the leading candidate for the presidency of the National Education Association, the nation's largest teacher organization. The NEA convention scheduled for July 2-6 in Portland, Oregon, promises to be a stormy meeting and predicted to be the most crucial meeting in the 1.3 million member group's 116 year history.

Harris will be running for vice president - president elect against Mrs. Antonia Cortese, a school social worker in Rome, N.Y. and George Gumeson, a teacher at Cabrillo College in Apton, California.

Harris differs from his two opponents in that he favors keeping NEA an independent, autonomous organization free from the influence of unions. His opponents favor merger with the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) which is affiliated with AFL-CIO.

This difference regarding union ties promises to be the nucleus of a big battle which may threaten the unity of NEA.

If Harris is elected, the job of reorganization and conciliation will rest squarely upon him.

Onlookers point to Harris as the front-runner because he favors a merger and he has in his favor the strong campaign machinery created by Pat Ferrone, pupil services coordinator at Goodrell Junior High School and a member of Drake University College of Education staff.

Blacks In Professional And Technical Occupations

How many times have you heard some say "boy your people have made great strides over the years". Here are figures compared with 1910, when the NAACP was first started up until the year 1970.

The penetration of black people into the professions is one of the success stories of Negro life. At the same time it shows how far away is the goal of full equality.

In none of these cases were the percentage of Negro to white professionals equal to the percentage of blacks in the population. It is significant that only in the lower paid professions like school teachers and trained nurses was the proportion of blacks in the profession anywhere near close to the proportion of blacks in the population. Black physicians are less than 1/50 of white physicians, and black engineers only one nintieth of white engineers. So there is a long way still to go.

The music composed and performed by Herbie Hancock during the past few years has, among other things, been referred to as being "spiritual." And Hancock has stated that the spirituality of the music has come from his close association with the members of his band.

But now the noted pianist has added another element to that cosmic feeling found in his music, and recently described via a new album on Columbia Records, "Sextant." Hancock is involved in Nichiren Shoshu Buddhism.

"That is one of the many Buddhist sects," Hancock explained, "and in this one the emphasis is placed on chanting the words, 'nam myoho renge kyo.' Nam means devotion, 'myoho' refers to the mystic law, 'rengé' denotes cause and effect, and 'kyo' means sound or energy, frequency or vibration.

Des Moines Youth in Leadership Workshop

Des Moines youth attending the community development workshop were (left to right) Kevin Carroll, 15, 2800 Fluor Drive; Valeria Edwards, 15, 1546 10th Place; Jerry Clark, 18, 1602 Walker; Kim McCracken, 15, 3310 Iola Ave.; and Steve Whitney, 15, 913 West 25th.

"I have become much more conscious of my own value." Fifteen Des Moines young people found themselves part of a unique experience last week at the Iowa 4-H Camping Center. They attended a six-day leadership workshop for community development.

Having a leadership workshop is not unique. What made it new was the fact that it was geared to helping minority groups develop leadership skills. This year all the participants were black.

The idea originated with Willis Bright, program advisor in the Iowa State University Dean of Students Office; and Maurice Kramer, assistant State 4-H leader at ISU. Black youth were chosen for the 1973 workshop for several reasons, says Bright.

Although only 1.5 per cent of Iowans are black, they are plagued by many of the same social problems that affect similar groups in large urban areas — poor housing, health care, and educational services. Very often, members of minority communities have not had training in methods to get problems solved. Said one camper, "I have some leadership skills but don't know how to gain access to groups in my community who have the power to make decisions."

One of the staff members — from Waterloo — said, "I feel that the way to get some of the community problems solved is to get youth involved."

Five Cities Participate

So that's where the camp began. Thirty-four boys and girls — from Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Des Moines, Fort Dodge, and Waterloo — arrived with specific community problems in mind. These 15-18 year-olds were interested in learning how to do something about concerns ranging from bussing to inadequate recreation facilities.

During the week there were sessions on defining problems, working in groups, speaking, using audio-visual techniques, finding solutions, and how to use community resources effectively.

Sense of Community

Another major part of the workshop, says Kramer, was to help each camper experience a sense of community. The youth were divided into groups. Each group lived in a cabin and had special responsibilities for running the camp and presenting programs. One boy said, "We were surprised at how much freedom we had in deciding how the camp would run. Of course that meant that we also had the responsibility of making it work."

A daily community meeting let campers express opinions and make changes in the camp routine — one of their first very practical experiences in problem solving. "We just stayed until we worked out a solution."

Time for fun was definitely on the schedule — all the way from calisthenics (at 7:15 a.m.) to free time. The state 4-H recreation specialist made campers believers in the art of having fun. Most of them never dreamed they'd be square dancing!

The most important part of the week, agree Kramer and Bright, was Friday. City officials and agency representatives from the youths' own communities came to hear about the problems they'd been working on.

The panel listened to the groups present their problems and possible solutions. Then the adults responded to the proposals from the perspective they would have from their positions in the community.

What Next?

By Friday, most youths agreed, "We feel like a group and hope to go back home and help the people there to work together. We also have become a lot more sensitive to problems in other cities."

Hopefully, says Kramer, participants will be assigned to work in a community agency. Under the supervision of a staff member, they'll work on what they discussed at camp. By fall, the co-directors of the workshop will follow up to see what has been accomplished.

While they would like to see the particular problem solved, Kramer and Bright, feel most of the youths will have become more effective in recognizing community needs and knowing the channels to use to get things done.

This year's campers were recruited by the extension 4-H and youth leader in each of the participating cities and selected by application and interview.

Full time camp staff for the week were Gary Swartzendraber, 4-H and Youth Leader, Davenport; Mel McNeal, East Side Community Center, Davenport; Howard Roberts, Davenport; Odessa Turner, Kirkwood Community College, Cedar Rapids; Robert Jones, 4-H and Youth Leader, Des Moines; Diane Webster, YWCA, Des Moines; John Robinson, 4-H and Youth Leader, Waterloo; Claudette Wright and Jo Ann Flowers, both students at Iowa State University, Ames.

The Congress finally did something that they should have done a long time ago. That is curtailing all the funds being used for the bombing in Cambodia. Nixon doesn't have a significant case for the bombing. The country is not in alliance with us; also the Commander and Chief should know by now that the people are sick of having more P.O.W.'s.

We were finally able to get most of our men out of Vietnam but now to add to our problems King Nixon wants to continue chasing that demon called Communism.

Congress got Enough Courage

But it was the time to grab Nixon by his shirt-tail and tell him, "Boy, you better stop."

Although there is a question as to how long this Congressional enactment will last is still in doubt but just the principle of the matter has been brought out into focus. That principle being: that the Congress has the power to start a war not the President.

In a sense the Congress is with the law giving the King the finger ... which is a bit belated it's still timely.

Another thing that has always bothered me about the POW's from Vietnam is the lack of black faces (there were some here and there). If anyone looks at the statistics there were significantly more black in combat than white. But when it comes to statistics on returning Black Vets one wonders where they all are.

Social Security

Health, Education
Welfare

QUESTION: My younger brother's social security benefit was stopped when he was adopted. I heard this provision of the law was changed. He is still under age 18. Can his benefits be reinstated?

ANSWER: Your brother can be reentitled to social security benefits effective with October 1972, if he still meets all other requirements, except for adoption.

QUESTION: I plan to apply for Medicare when I am 65. Can you tell me what this will cost?

ANSWER: The current monthly premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare is $5.80 a month. This will be increased to $6.30 a month in July. In addition to this premium the patient must pay the initial $60 of medical expense in a calendar year. Medicare then pays 80 percent of the reasonable charge after the $60 deductible. There is no monthly charge for hospital insurance under Medicare. The patient must pay the first $72 when admitted to the hospital.

QUESTION: My father died following surgery and 2 weeks' stay in the hospital. Can I collect from Medicare on his doctor bills?

ANSWER: Medicare payment can be made to any person who pays the doctor bills for a deceased individual. If the bills are paid from estate funds, the legal representative of the estate would file the claim. In the case of death, the bill must be paid before any Medicare payment can be made.

QUESTION: Will Medicare for the disabled be the same as Medicare for people who are 65?

ANSWER: Yes, the difference is in the requirement for entitlement. The disabled must have been receiving disability payments for 24 consecutive months either under Social Security or the Railroad Act. There is a special provision for persons needing kidney transplantation or hemodialyses. For additional information on Medicare for the disabled call your local Social Security office.

QUESTION: How long must a person be disabled before social security disability benefits can be paid?

ANSWER: A disability benefit can now be paid after a person has been disabled 5 full months instead of 6 months as was the case before recent changes in the social security law.

In 1966 the idea of creating the Model City concept was born by the United States Congress, it was known as the Demonstration and Metropolitan Development Act. The city of Des Moines was notified in November 1967 that it had been selected along with 151 other cities to participate in this endeavor. Des Moines initially was granted the sum of $167,000 as planning monies from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. This grant was for the purpose of showing the federal government how the city was going to deal with the many complex problems such as unemployment, decaying ghettos, health and welfare services within the model neighborhood.

To accomplish this tremendous feat a group was formed to be known as the Model Cities Neighborhood Organization with the task of implementing these proposed changes. These particular residents were a cross section of the 16,000 persons both black and white residing in the model city area. The population break-down from a racial standpoint of this area was 62 percent white and 38 percent black, I am relating the above information to combat the rumor that all of the monies spent in this area was for black people. This organization was the birth of what was to be known as Citizen Participation which was the most important segment of the plan that was designed in order to secure the grant for the actual model cities monies ($2,065,000) for the first action year.

This group was following the guidelines of the model city concept which stated the requirement of, "widespread citizen participation" in the program. This was to be done by two methods; (1) constructive involvement of citizens in both the city and the model neighborhood; and (2) introducing the views of area residents in the policy-making and the opportunity for them to effectively be involved in the planning and execution. This was done by reating a group of 35 to 40 people known as block captains and by involving the total area residents thru surveys conducted by these block captains.

At this point I wish to pin a rose on these block captains who worked under tremendous odds to bring about the system by which the city of Des Moines has had a measure of success and prosperity thru the vast amounts of federal dollars it received. Since the City of Des Moines, its mayor and council were legally and financially involved in the Model City Planning, this automatically involved all citizens of the city in this process.

Altho the power structure was recognized as the legal head of Model Cities, there would not have been federal approval for the City of Des Moines without the overall participation by the Model City residents. In all communications which I have read, it is very plainly pointed out that citizen-participation was a must. Due to the amount of space that is needed to explain and explore the citizen participation involvement, I shall begin this area in my next article.

The thought I'd like to leave you with is that you, as a citizen of Des Moines, created the atmosphere for the creation of a Model Cities Program that, according to the federal government, was second to none. Which brings about a question that deserves critical examination; "was all the effort worth the toil, confusion and frustration the model neighborhood residents have had to endure?"

HEW News

Proposed Medicare and Medicaid regulations to implement 1972 social security amendments on rules for payment of assigned supplementary medical insurance benefits, and on claims for practitioners' services provided under a State medical assistance plan were announced today by HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

Under the amendments, such Medicare and Medicaid payments are prohibited to anyone other than the physician or other person who furnished the services with two exceptions. One exception permits payment to the employer of the physician or other person who furnished the service, if the doctor or other person is required to turn over his fees for the service to the employer.

The second exception permits payment to the facility in which the service is provided, if there is a contractual arrangement between the facility and the person furnishing the service under which the facility bills for the service.

The proposed regulation recognizes that the intent of the 1972 amendments was not to bar direct payment to a foundation, association, plan, or contractor which provides and administers health care through an organized health care delivery system.

The proposal also defines "facility" as being a hospital or other institution which furnishes health care services to inpatients, and provides that a "health care delivery system" includes — but is not limited to — an organized medical group clinic and a group practice prepayment plan.

Interested parties have 30 days from June 27, 1973, the date of publication of the proposed regulations in the Federal Register, to submit comments.

Grand Chairman of Grand Officers Addresses - Mrs. Helen Johnson - Marshalltown, Grand Chairman of Finance - Mrs. Mildred Graves - Des Moines, Grand Chairman of Scholarship - Mrs. Mary J. Majors - Keokuk, District Lecturers - No. 2. Mrs. Iver Jeane Bailey - Marshalltown, No. 3 Mrs. Clemmie Hightower - Clinton, No. 4 Mrs. Betty Gar - Ottumwa.

After installation of elected and appointed Grand Officers was held Electa Grand Chapter closed to convene at the 65th Annual Communication in Fort Madison, Iowa as guests of Fidelity Chapter No. 30, in June 1974.

Last winter the McCauleys heated their home electrically for $44¹⁷ a month.*

Mr. and Mrs. Dean McCauley live in Van Meter, Iowa. Their home has 1078 sq. ft. with a full basement, both heated with an electric furnace. We asked them to tell us about their electric heat. Here's what they said:

"The best part of electric heat is the cleanliness and dependability. Our old system was very dirty and even an electronic air cleaner didn't help much. Our new electric furnace certainly makes housework much easier.

"I've kept records on my heating costs for a number of years and based on previous expenses, the cost of our first year of electric heating was very satisfactory.

"I think, 'complete satisfaction' would describe our first year's electric heating experience."

When you consider the cost of a heating system, consider the value. Electric heating is cleaner, quieter and more flexible than any other system. It's the only system that will be as modern years from now as it is today.

Curious? Mail in the coupon! Let us provide you with an individually prepared estimate of the electric heating cost based on your house plans.

No obligation. Just the plain facts... then you decide which is best.

*PLEASE READ THIS AD CAREFULLY:

The keys to saving money and enjoying total electric home comfort are properly sized equipment and well-insulated homes. The ad states the size of the house and the average bill for the five coldest months. If your bills are markedly higher, first carefully figure your complete heated area in square feet. (Please remember if you heat your basement, count this area too.) Next, check your insulation. You can do this yourself or have it done by a competent insulation contractor.

Another important point. The average dollar amount shown above is only the heat portion of the electric bill. Each of these customers pays for electricity to run all the rest of his appliances. This portion varies considerably among customers and is not very relevant in specific comparisons.

I would like to know more about electric heating. I understand there is no obligation.

No Lettuce, Thank You!

In an effort to support Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers (UFW) in their struggle for justice and more human working conditions, the Social Action Department of the Diocese of Davenport has designed a small business-size card to be used when dining out.

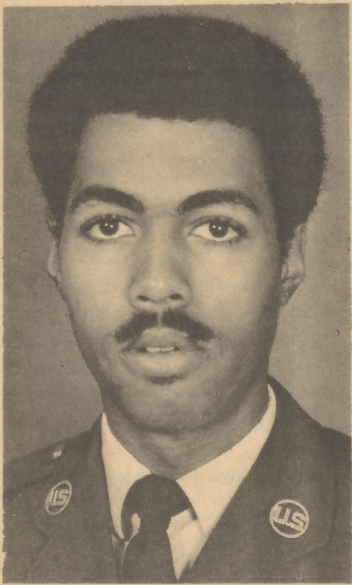

The card reads as follows: "I love lettuce, but I know that it has to be picked by a human being, and until the working conditions of that human being are improved, I'm giving up lettuce. I support Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers. Their lettuce package bears this union Label (copy of label). If yours does, bring me a ... serving. Won't you give this to your chef or manager?"

The idea for the card grew out of the frustrations of staff members who found that most waitresses and restaurant operators didn't understand the issue when they were questioned about union lettuce.

Anyone in the Davenport Diocese and the Quad City area may obtain a free supply of cards by contacting Betty Anderson, Social Action Department, 2706 Gaines Street, Davenport, Iowa 52804; phone, 319-324-1387.

Those from other areas may obtain a few sample cards on request. Permission is granted to anyone who wishes to re-print.

Copies have been sent to Cesar Chavez and other

Mayor's Hung Up

(NBNS) — The Watergate scandal has dominated newspaper headlines across the country. It now threatens to place high on the agenda of the 41st annual convention of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, which began last week in San Francisco.

Two resolutions on Watergate will be considered by the 774 mayors and other city officials who are attending the conference and a vote on these and 54 other resolutions dealing with urban problems came up Wednesday.

One resolution, offered by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, does not mention Watergate specifically, but it refers to "seriously weakened" confidence of the American people in "their institutions and offices of national government" and to "the erosion of public

BLACK COLLEGES AS RESEARCH BRAINTRUSTS

As a result of the first TACTICS sponsored "Black Colleges and Community Development" conference held June 7 and 8 in Atlanta, Georgia, representatives from 33 of the nation's predominantly Black Colleges met with federal, state and local leaders to determine how best to organize their resources to assist in the identification and resolution of community problems; thus fostering community development.

Mr. Clifford Graves, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Community Planning and Management, Department of HUD suggested that the colleges strengthen their organization in such a fashion as to impact more upon their local governmental decision-making process. This course was prescribed because of the changed nature of policy formulation that both general and special revenue-sharing will cause.

A most impressive panel composed of The Honorable Julian Bond; Sister Emma Darnell, City of Atlanta Intergovernmental Programs Officer and Mayor Algernon J. Cooper, Jr., Prichard, Alabama addressed the policy issues in need of analysis by elected and non-elected city and state officials, and the role that the colleges can and should play in this process. Both Sister Darnell and Mr. William Ellison of the Young Great Society of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania were quite emphatic in pointing up the need for the colleges to relate more closely to the "people" in order to assume a more active and responsible role as technicians in the community development process.

Sheet Metal Apprentice

Luther Fulbright

Luther Fulbright was put to work this year as a sheet metal apprentice with the Waldinger Corporation here in Des Moines. In view of the fact that he was actually accepted as an apprentice by the Sheet Metal Workers Union over two years ago but didn't get to start work until this year is indicative of this young man's persistence in wanting to learn a skilled trade.

Luther is employed by a firm that does both fabrication and installation of heating, refrigeration, and air-conditioning equipment. As an apprentice Luther can expect to undergo 8,000 hours (4 years) of on-the-job training, in addition to a minimum of 144 classroom hours of instruction each year of his apprenticeship.

In a typical apprenticeship program for sheet metal workers, he will learn how to do welding, soldering, and seaming; air-conditioning, heating, and ventilating work; residential installations such as roofing gutters, and downspouts; and architectural and industrial sheet-metal work. In addition, he learns general work processes such as cutting, forming, folding, grooving metal material, bending edges, and punching and drilling holes.

Sheet metal workers in construction may advance to foreman, superintendent of large projects, or go into business as sheet metal contractors. Experienced workers in this trade have more job mobility than many other building trades workers because they can transfer their skills to nonconstruction industries.

V. A. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q — My husband died of service-connected disabilities while in military service. Am I eligible for Veterans Administration assistance to take correspondence courses or on-the-job training?

A — Yes. Public Law 92-540 (October 24, 1972) extended these benefits to wives and widows of veterans whose permanent total disabilities or deaths were service-connected.

Q — I still carry my World War II "V"-prefixed National Service Life Insurance. Can I get additional coverage?

A — Yes. Public Law 92-188, enacted in December 1971, allows veterans with these policies to use their insurance dividends to buy additional paid-up life insurance protection.

Q — The Veterans Administration guaranteed $7,500 of my home loan based on my World War II service. Since VA now guarantees more, do I have more entitlement coming?

A — Yes. The maximum guaranty benefit now is $12,500. You have an additional $5,000 available which may be used for the guaranty of another home loan.

Hearing from the guy Tevis Jaco last week reminded me that there were a lot of fellows in the thirties and twenties who could play games and did not think so. Such a fellow was this guy. He was rather a student of football and baseball. His criticisms were valid and carried weight because most of us knew that he read everything he could get on those two games, and could discuss game strategy and individual players with just about anybody who would do so. For instance, when he called a fellow that most of us thought wasn't so good a pretty good ball carrier, he caused us to take a second look at the man to see what we had been missing. And, sure enough, Tevis was right.

He had a brother, Alexander, who was good enough to make the East High varsity when I was in high school, but we were operating under what we called a quota for black players. One black was fine, two was good, because that meant that they could be roommates on overnight trips, and there were a lot of them, since just about any trip of over a hundred miles involved train rides and a stay in a hotel. But more than two was bad, because that would upset the delicate balance of the team, and as our coach put it, "cause dissention", but that was never proved because the man wouldn't let more than two of us on the team at the same time, even if it cost him ball games, and it did.

But Tevis was an athlete in his own right. I don't know if he ever did pitch outside of the old Sunday School league, but he was tough in that. His forte was control. His curve wasn't more a wrinkle, and his fast ball certainly never blew past anyone. But he studied hitters, and knew just about what every hitter in that league could hit. For instance, if you had trouble with a high ball on the inside, that is where you got it nine times out of ten. I would guess that he could throw a ball just about where he wanted to almost every time, and I can't recall that he ever walked any, or at least, not very many batters. You had to swing at the ball or be called out on strikes. He would stand out there on the mound, looking over the batter, position of his feet, how he held his bat, and anything else he could think that might help him. Then he would raise his arms above his head, and I would chuckle because he didn't seem to wind up, but in spite of my chuckles, he won more close games like shutouts and 2-1, or 2-3 than just about any pitcher in the league.

Even when one club loaded up with a bunch of out of town players, Tevis beat them the second time he faced them, and they wondered why they couldn't hit the ball very far. It will be good to see him again, and talk over old times like the fact that he was probably one of the first real professional window washers in the city who could really do it, and today just about every window washer you see now uses the style he had, even if they don't know where they got it.

There is a little fat man you see now walking round town, and you would never believe that he was one of the best athletes in Iowa, and was a star at Drake. He was a star of one of the better East High teams in the late twenties and his team lost only to North as I remember. They swamped the other city schools, and our hero was one of the big scorers. He was easily all state material later, and was one of the good basketball players on one of the very good cage teams that East had in those days when they still considered, at least for East High a minor sport.

Then the fellow ran any distance from the hundred to and including the four forty, and was just about unbeatable in them all. At relay meets they didn't care if they were four miles behind, just give the little fellow the baton and get out of his way, and he would come chugging home by just any number of yards. Then he went to Drake, and graduated, and was one of the leaders in the old Sunday School basketball league. He was one of the first fellows to imitate the traveling black teams that came through here in the thirties, and was the spark plug of the unbeatable Union Baptist club.

At Drake the guy was a good football player, and called the plays for the Bulldogs, even though he wasn't listed as quarterback. But, in spite of his lack of size, he was a good defensive player, and was a pretty good linebacker. I used to laugh to see him bring down fellows who outweighed him by from twenty to fifty pounds, and they didn't drag him, either. Then he had short time with our Bulldog and Ankeny teams, and was a fine ball player there. But in spite of his ability as an athlete in rough games, Walter Thompson didn't care about fighting. He was quick with his hands, and strong as most men his size, but he just didn't care about settling things with his fists. But he never backed up from a brawl if it came to that, and I remember that he beat a fellow, or at least kept the fellow from climbing on him by one well tossed punch.

Then later, Walt kept the team of Black Barons, a baseball club on the road for years, in fact, being just about the only person taking a black team out of here, and I was sorry to see him finally call it quits.

Young Black Receives Mayor Appointment

Ralph Cody, a former investigator for the Human Rights Commission of Cedar Rapids, was appointed to the position of Executive Director. He will be replacing the Rev. William Cotton a Methodist Minister who is leaving to return to the ministry. Cotton reports stated, "Another investigator will be needed to take Cody's place. It is a good opportunity for some young talented black man or woman."

The Black society in Cedar Rapids will be looking expectantly at Mr. Cody. This talented young man will be expected to make prejudice and the racist game a dangerous and costly game to play in Cedar Rapids.

Lets give him all of the help that we can Let's be reasonable, and remember, that he can do only so much! Discrimination effects whites and other races also. So lets not overburden him with unnecessary or unreasonable complaints and make his job any more difficult than it is. It is a thankless job and few men ever master it without becoming bitter and frustrated in the end. So, Good Luck, Mr. Cody. Our prayers are with you always.

Wanted — Black Leaders

A visiting dignitary from Chicago stopped a young man in the City Council Chambers at 9:00 o'clock a.m. on Wednesday morning and asked, "Where can I find your black leaders." The City Council was just preparing to disburse in the Cedar Rapids area about two million dollars (Federal Revenue Sharing Funds). None of this money would be used to benefit the black areas, which needed attention the most. But it would be used to develop and improve the richer section of the town. It was supposed that the leaders in the black areas would react violently to this disposition, yet there was no complaint, and the proceedings moved on.

You see the gentleman said, "If the black men in your community don't get together, and decide what they need, and what has to be done and submit a plan for consideration to the council. They won't ever be helped, and they will always be neglected."

Where are our Black Leaders, lets get together. Now!

AFRICAN REPORT

Port Moresby — (NBNS) — New Guinea's western highlands tribesmen have offered to return to cannibalism in order to boost tourism.

The tribesmen — who told committee members that they were prepared to eat human flesh at the Mount Hagen Show in August — contended they didn't want to kill any of their enemies and would instead make do with a body from the local hospitals' morgue.

The government politely, but firmly, turned down the offer.

Supplies Needed in Drought
Dakar, Senegal — (NBNS) — More than 150,000 tons of emergency supplies are needed in the drought-stricken West African area for the millions of tribesmen who are threatened with starvation.

The government has already received promises for half that amount and only 53,000 tons have actually been received. Unions Urge S. Africa Boycott

Geneva — (NBNS) — Trade unions' representatives from close to 200 non-Communist and Communist nations have called for a boycott of South Africa goods in an effort to end the apartheid system of government in that country.

The labor leaders approved a resolution urging governments to "sever political, cultural, commercial and diplomatic relations" with South Africa, which was part of a recommendation from the U.N. Special Committee on Apartheid.

The resolution also called for mandatory United Nations sanctions against South Africa and demanded that "all measures with" the power of the unions be utilized in support of action against apartheid.

S. Africa Gives Into Some Mixed Race Demands

Johannesburg, South Africa — (NBNS) — South Africa has given in to demands from the 1,600 mixed-race student body at the University of the Western Cape near Cape Town that more mixed-race academic staff be appointed.

Thousands of students were expelled after numerous protests over white domination of the campus.

Zambia Offers Compensation For Deaths

Lusaka, Zambia — (NBNS) — The Zambian government has offered to pay the families of the two Canadian girl tourists who were shot dead along the Zambia-Rhodesian frontier last month.

President Kaunda, who wrote the parents telling them of his country's offer to pay them compensation, said the guards acted "in accordance with his duty in the tense warlike conditions which have existed along the Zamezi River for many months."

"I am asking my government officials to discuss with the Canadian high commission in Zambia the question of ex gratia payment to you" he said.

"I hope that you will accept this gesture as a further expression of my deep sympathy and that of the Zambian nation."
