Iowa Farmer Leaves Estate to Black Race

A Madison County Iowa farmer, who lives near Cummings, has left his entire estate to the Negro race according to will filed in the county court house.

JOSEPH M.
DOGAN

The Central National Bank of Des Moines has been made executor of his estate. His estate said to amount to more than $350,000 which will be put in trust and the income distributed by the trustees.

Mr. Dogan had never met a Negro. However, in deciding upon the disposition of his estate he felt that he should do this because the race had never had a fair chance in this country.

Law and Order

Two Alabama deputy sheriffs were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of shaking down out-of-state motorists in a false arrest scheme.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said a five-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Birmingham, Alabama, against Cleburne County Deputy Sheriffs James L. Eason and Thomas J. Dodson.

The deputies were charged with conspiring to violate the constitutional rights of two motorists, depriving them of their right to property, and falsely arresting them.

The indictment said they obtained $200 from George Satchell, of Hampton, Virginia, on August 18, 1972, and $100 from Glen Thomas, of Palestine, Arkansas, a week later by threatening to jail them and charge them with an offense.

Satchell was driving through Alabama with his wife and son when he was stopped on U.S. 78 near Fruithurst. Thomas was driving with his nephew when he was stopped on the same highway near Hefflin.

The maximum penalty upon conviction of the conspiracy count is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The maximum penalty on each of the other counts is one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

NAVY'S BLUE ANGELS COMING TO DES MOINES

The Navy's precision Flight Demonstration Team, the famed Blue Angels, will be performing in Des Moines, Saturday, July 14. The show will be flown over the Iowa National Guard base at Camp Dodge, 5 miles north of Des Moines on highway No. 401. Included on the program will be the Navy's precision parachute jumping team from San Diego, California.

The airshow, sponsored by the Navy League of the United States, Des Moines Council, will begin at 1:30 p.m. and finish at approximately 3:30 p.m.

James Harris, an art and human relations teacher at Callahan Junior High School on Friday won the presidency of the National Education Association. He was the second Iowan in five years to win this spot. George D. Fischer was elected to this position in 1968. Harris won over two opponents to become president-elect of NEA.

James Harris

Mr. Harris attended the public schools here, graduating from East High School. He received his BFA degree from Drake University and also his Masters of Science Degree.

He taught in the public schools here directing his assignments to art and Negro history. At present he is a teacher at Callahan Junior High School.

He will serve as Vice President of the NEA prior to his assuming the presidency and will reside in Washington, D.C. during his term.

Summarizing his winning campaign stand, Harris stated that most teachers believe strongly that organization control should stem from grass roots through the delegate assembly and the presidency, and remove the officers when they are not doing the job.

Teachers object to an organization that has professional leaders at the top to administrations that perpetuate themselves and, in effect, become the real policy makers of the body, he said. He said the association must become more effective in getting new legislation for education.

It also must attempt to get the federal government to pay a third of the cost of education, rather than the seven percent now being paid from federal funds, he said.

Harris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo E. Harris. Mr. Harris, who died in 1962, operated a grocery store on East Des Moines. He discontinued the grocery business and went into real estate. This venture was very successful. Mrs. Harris was a lunch room manager for the Des Moines public school system. She retired from this position in June of 1969, from her assignment at Warren Harding Junior High School.

Early Competition

Harris learned competitive organization early, having grown up with four sisters and a brother. One sister, Mrs. Sadye Jones is an elementary school teacher here; another, Mrs. Patricia Harris is employed in the Department of Agriculture; a third sister, Mrs. Doloris Danforth is secretary of St. Paul A.M.E. Church; a fourth sister, Mrs. Nancy Robinson is a hospital employee in Silver Springs, Maryland. His brother, Edward C. Harris, is a psychiatric social worker with the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Mrs. Harris is the former Jacquelyn Mease, and a kindergarten teacher here. The couple has two sons, James, Jr. 22, and Jerry 18.

Iowa Civil Rights Commission; Purpose and How It Operates

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission is a state agency which was established in 1965 by the Iowa State Legislature. The legal authority for its being can be found in Chapter 601A of the Iowa Code, 1973 (as amended). The Commission is governed by a seven-member Board who has delegated the authority and responsibility for its action to its director, Alvin Hayes, Jr., a black lawyer from South Sioux City, Nebraska.

The Commission has two major statutory responsibilities: (1) to receive, investigate, and pass upon complaints which allege unfair or discriminatory practices in the areas of housing, employment, and public accommodations; and (2) to plan and implement programs or projects designed to eliminate racial, religious, cultural, and intergroup tensions. There are seven Commissioners (or Board Members) which include one female and two minority group members.

Not only is the director of the agency responsible under the Iowa Civil Rights Act, but must also comply with the Title VII, Equal Employment Opportunity

Act of 1972 which was enacted by Congress under Public Law 92-261. The major thrust of the work by this agency is to stop discrimination on the basis of race, color, creed, national origin, religion, sex, age, and physical or mental disability. In addition to himself as the executive director, he has attempted to fulfill these requirements with a limited staff of eleven; they are: a compliance officer, research and information officer, employment project director, staff attorney, an affirmative action program administrator, two field investigators, and four clerks. At its best, an impossible task.

CASELOAD

When Mr. Hayes took office in 1969, he found that approximately 250 cases had been filed during the calendar year 1969-1970. During the period December 1971 to November 1972, 526 cases were filed - almost a 100 percent increase. In addition, since the Iowa Civil Rights Commission serves as a deferral agency for the federal government, that is, complaints filed with the federal government must first be handled by the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, many other complaints are acted upon at the state level; and the Iowa Civil Rights Commission also handles complaints for local Human Rights Commissions when requested to do so.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

Speaking before the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the mayor of Boston, Mass. said, "No mayor, no city council, no governor and no state legislature — no matter how progressive or liberal — will support local programs that favor blacks and the disadvantaged, unless constant pressure is applied by local political organizations."

Look around the streets, the city hall, the Polk County court house, the utilities and some of the big government sponsored projects in Des Moines and one must conclude the mayor's advice is not being heeded.

The great liberal United States Senator from Massachusetts, Edward Kennedy, in the past has been a speaker at the Annual Convention of the NAACP but last week instead he found himself crossing hands with Gov. Wallace of Alabama against who heretofore, has leveled serious criticism for his unlawful and irresponsible acts and speeches on the race question. How some politicians can wallow in the mud together, and sell their birthright!

Roy Wilkins admonished young people that integration is the only way. He warned that even though some separatists found pleasure in black dormitories feeling that they should go their own way separately, after their graduation and in quest for jobs, in big corporations like IBM, would not hire them on the basis of Negro History alone but what they knew about science, arithmetic, and other basic subjects required to be hired and advanced.

on any day of the week you will find black people as thick as fleas on a dog's back. They are not picketing or boycotting or in any way disrupting business. They are spending their hard earned cash purchasing items of need. Without them these stores would be hard pressed to remain open. So it would seem that we have a need for each other. But it also seems that you have an edge. You have in your possession the dollars that they are all vying for and you have the choice to spend those dollars with all or none. The article printed in the R&T Thursday, July 12, regarding the Avon Company is a case in point. If the black news media in this area is not worthy of consideration when these concerned spend their advertising dollars then we should be more discriminate with ours.

"Eye That Cycle"

Governor Robert Ray today signed a proclamation declaring the week of July 23rd as "Eye That Cycle Week" throughout Iowa. The Governor's proclamation is an important part of continuing "Eye That Cycle" program being sponsored by the AAA Motor Club of Iowa. The primary goal of the program is to reduce the number of auto-cycle accidents through a mutual understanding of the two different types of motor vehicles.

HONORED VICE PRESIDENT

Charles T. Williams (left), vice president of Schenley Distillers Co. and a member of the board of trustees of ICBO (Interracial Council for Business Opportunity), accepts a coveted ICBO Distinguished Service Award from Leonard Howard, chairman of ICBO's national executive committee and president of Howard & Kagen. Mr. Williams' citation noted that he "has been a constant and unfailing source of strength and information over the years" and "was instrumental in securing funds from Schenley for the initial funding and opening of the Los Angeles ICBO office and to fund the operations of the national office."

Polk County Cancer Society News

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, 5702 Kingman Avenue, has been named coordinator for the Uterine Cancer Survey as announced by Stephen W. Roberts, chairman of the American Cancer Society, Polk County Chapter.

"Let no woman be overlooked" is the theme of a four-year nationwide drive by the society. It is a uterine cancer control program with one goal: A pap test by 1976 for every woman 20 years or older to whom the test is applicable and for younger women at risk.

Similar task forces are being organized in each of the society's divisions.

Mrs. Harrison said approximately 13,000 American women die of uterine cancer each year and 75 per cent of these fatalities result from cervical cancer, which is almost 100 per cent curable when diagnosed early and treated promptly. The pap test, simple, quick and painless, provides the method of early detection. Despite the effectiveness of the pap test, only 53 per cent of women over 20 have had it.

Mrs. Harrison said the society will be contacting 1,000 women in Polk County asking them for information prevalent among these groups. Also for women's clubs and organizations, neighborhood and open showing of the society's public education films on uterine cancer. Emphasis will be on person-to-person, house-to-house education activities as well as education programs on women employees.

Summer Breakfast Program

Funds to support a summer breakfast program in four Des Moines schools have been provided by Greater Opportunities, Inc., according to Jeanette Jennings, the antipoverty agency's executive director.

The breakfast program, which will replace the school term's hot lunch program, will be located in Dunlap Elementary School, Nash Elementary School, Casady Elementary School, and North High.

The breakfasts are free for any child enrolled in summer school at these four schools, feeding more than 200 youngsters each day.

Maxine Robinson, Title I Coordinator for the Des Moines public schools, is coordinating the program.

Butcher, Banker . . .

Everyone from the butcher to the banker tries to increase their assets and many invest in the stock market. As a result, some 30,000,000 Americans (two-thirds with taxable incomes under $15,000) invest, and help our economy expand. To make it worth the while of individual investors who take the risk, the capital gains tax must continue to tax long term investments fairly. Z

Avon Pact With Operation PUSH

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) — Avon Products, Inc., signed a $59 - million agreement Wednesday with Operation PUSH to stimulate economic opportunities for nonwhites.

"Avon has something that we don't have, and that's production power; and we have something that they don't have, and that's consumer power," said the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, PUSH president, at the signing.

The agreement says Avon will increase employment of blacks and other nonwhites by at least 15 per cent, maintain at least $4 million in deposit certificates in minority-owned banks, and increase advertising in minority-owned media.

Editor's Note:

During the brief periods I have worked with the New Iowa Bystander I have had the good fortune of hearing the true sentiments of many business men. Quotes from three giants in the community were:

"We or I" don't need to advertise in your paper because the black people in the area receive the Register and Tribune anyway. There have been other like statements made to me that are just as ridiculous from Safeway, Super Valu, Cohen Food King and Roadside Stores. When you drive by or to these places of business

WRITING THIS COLUMN IN SUMMER is far different from writing it in winter. For example, I stopped by Ruby Spencer's domicile and found her snapping a "mess" of green beans from her garden. (How guilty I felt: she's a woman who works out of the home, keeps a beautiful house and a garden.) Nearby on the stove rested a plate of fresh fried fish. My brows flew up as I thought — "And she fishes!!" I asked if this was her first catch this summer. She laughs and says no, she's been a number of times. She continued that "these are croppies — not very big! I've caught great big croppies, wall-eyes and carp. She's been fishing about ten times this year! Saturday, she caught channel cat. Jack interrupted to say, "there's a limit on channel cat. You're supposed to catch just five! She'd caught only three so he was out of the conversation from then on. Ruby went on to say that Martha Taylor, her sister-in-law had gone fishing with them on Saturday. She's a nervous fisherman, moves around a lot. Well she moved once too often on Saturday, and in the new place caught a great big fish — it broke her line and nearly scared her to death! Can't you see Martha all shook up. She's so cool ordinarily, it would have been worth seeing her lose her cool!

The Daughters of Isis chartered a bus for the Omaha Races in Nebraska. There were 47 in the party — three of these were men. Richard Henderson drove. It was his second trip with a chartered bus. Henderson is better known as a bowler!

Ollie Sanders is Commandress of the group and was on hand to officiate.

Doris Jackson is always chairman of a Day at the Races. This was about the group's fifth trip.

Ella Mae Burk was fearful of mentioning the winners — there were several big winners. (Sounds good? Very!!!)

It had been raining, so the group went out a couple of races, but in the main, remained in the air conditioned arena and watched the monitors.

Needless to say Saturday's Trip is not about to be the last. A Day at the Races is very popular. There were about 100 chartered buses beside that of the Daughters of Isis.

A comment about Brandie:

Mikel had just come in from gardening, and taken her favorite spot before the television, totally relaxed. Brandie had just been taken from her bed and repeatedly went near her mother saying "Kitty, kitty, kitty?" Well, Stubble, the cat was no where to be seen. Mikel noted her repeating, "Kitty, Kitty, Kitty" and wondering, followed her eyes to her forearm on which strolled a daddy long legs, slowly mounting her arms, very catlike. Naturally, Mikel went into a frenzy, getting rid of the daddy long legs. Brandie was a bundle of laughter watching her mother's performance.

Mrs. Procter states that "mostly we played". You see Lou has five brothers, two sisters, a grandfather 80 and grandmother 72 all living at home. So "to play" was the thing. (Don't forget to add their three sons.)

Civil Rights

complaints are written charges which allege discriminatory practices which are forbidden by the Iowa Civil Rights Act. The steps to follow are:

1. The complaint form (triplicate) must contain the name and address of both the complainant (the complaining party) and the respondent (the employer or owner)

The basis of, or, the type of discrimination: race, etc;
A brief statement of the discriminatory act;

The date of the incident; and a statement as to what other action has been taken by the complainant (lawsuit filed, etc).

2. The complaint may be filed in person or mailed into the office; it may also be filed by one person for another person; by the Commission itself; by the attorney general; or by any person or organization that has any employee or member who refuses to comply with the Iowa law.

3. Complaints must be filed within 90 days after the discriminatory act, and must be notarized - three copies.

4. Complaints are then scheduled for investigation without charge to the complaining party - all investigations are confidential.

IN MEMORY OF EVERETT SINGLETON

Today as I ponder on things that have passed.
I draw a deep sigh with tears falling fast.

Not questioning the father in what he does.

Because I know that god is love.

He looks tenderly on his children here,

Worn and wandering in despaired.

He whispers gently my child come home!

You have earned your crown & your pure white Robe.

COMPLIANCE PROCEDURES

After the initial steps discussed above are successfully completed, a preliminary finding is made. Findings fall into three categories: no probable cause; probable cause, or no jurisdiction. If the finding is "no probable cause," the complaint is dismissed. After a finding of "probable cause," a conciliation procedure is commenced. If conciliation fails, upon the recommendation of the Commissioners, the case goes up for a public hearing. There have been 24 public hearings since Mr. Hayes took office in 1969.

PUBLIC HEARING

Based upon its findings of fact and law during the hearing, the Commission may either order the complaint dismissed, or that the respondent must now cease and desist from discrimination; or may take other appropriate affirmative action to remedy the situation as deemed necessary.

APPEAL PROCEDURES

If the respondent or the complainant is not satisfied with the Commissioner's findings, an appeal of the decision can be filed with the District Court at the appellant's expense.

A court order to halt discrimination is tantamount to contempt of court if the violator does not comply; and carries with it the subjection to imprisonment or fine until compliance.

EDUCATION and INFORMATION

In addition to its extensive complaint processing activities, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission is also called upon by statute to conduct programs of education designed to eliminate the various types of intergroup tensions when based on discriminatory practices; as well as to issue such publications and reports as will tend to promote good will among the various groups in our society.

During the fiscal year 1972-73, the Commission conducted a great number of conferences and programs to help persons understand the concept of equal opportunity and affirmative action. Special attention was given to practices which are not intended to be discriminatory but the affect are, in fact, disparate. That is, differences are made between groups based on one or more of the above areas.

In addition, the Director and the Public Information Officer are called upon to give speeches, hold press conferences, participate in and develop materials for panels and seminars, conduct training and educational programs for civil rights, and act as a consultant and referral agency regarding civil rights laws.

A more positive thrust is being planned for the future, geared toward stopping discrimination before it occurs. These programs require coordinative and cooperative effort between the Commission and employers or landlords. They will provide for free and open discussion of problems of mutual concern on a non-adversarial basis.

Triple Taxation

The person who invests in our economy by purchasing stocks plays more than his share of tax. First, if a corporation of which he is part owner earns money, those earnings are taxed at 48%. If he is paid a dividend, he also pays tax on the dividend at ordinary income rates. Third, if he sells his stock and realizes a capital gain, the gain is taxed at up to 35%. And because two-thirds of the U.S. investors have taxable incomes of less than $15,000 annually, it follows that a still higher tax on capital gains would be penalizing the working man, not the rich. QUESTION: My doctor has ordered me to quit work right away because of a severe heart ailment. I'm 63. Should I apply for monthly social security retirement or disability payments?

ANSWER: You may apply for both benefits at the same time. If you're eligible, you can begin getting reduced retirement payments immediately. If you are also found to be intitled to disability benefits, social security will substitute the higher disability payments after your 5-month waiting period is over.

QUESTION: After 30 years of marriage, I was divorced, and I never got any support payments from my ex-husband. Now he is starting to get social security checks, and my friends tell me that I can't get a divorced wife's payment because he didn't support me. Is this still true?

ANSWER: No. The support requirement has been eliminated. A divorced wife can get payments at 62 or over if her former husband is getting benefits and if they were married 20 years or longer.

QUESTION: I'll be 65 next May, and I plan to retire then. I'll earn nearly $6,000 next year before I retire. After I retire, can I earn $2,100 for the rest of the year and still get all my social security payments?

ANSWER: No. Since you'll have already exceeded $2,100 in yearly earnings when you retire, you can only get benefits for months in which you neither earn over $175 nor do substantial work in self-employment.

QUESTION: I'm debating whether to retire soon or wait until next year when I'm 65. If I retire early, I understand I'll get smaller payments. How can I find out how much I'll get whenever I retire?

ANSWER: You should call, write, or visit any social security office. They give you a pamphlet that explains how to estimate the amount of your monthly payment.

Green Say's "Not Guilty"

Picket signs condemned Green as being part of a "ripoff."

Inside the Coliseum, was a predominately Black audience.

In his dressing room, an almost sad Green intimated, "They're saying we don't work with Black promoters and that's not true."

"We just left Philadelphia last Friday and we worked with Georgie Woods and Jimmy Bishop. In Chicago, we worked with Pervis Spann and Rodney Jones and in Atlanta, we work with Henry Wynn. And they're all Black."

"I just don't understand what they're talking about," Green said.

Reminded that the issue involved his being promoted in Houston by an all-white organization, Green quipped, "There's nothing going on really, it's just a fact that these people came up with a deal to play Dallas and Houston."

"It was a good deal and I took it."

Green said when he came to Houston in years past, he was promoted in Houston and Marshall indicated that was not a truthful statement.

"There are at least three promoters who have been trying to get him inked for months," Marshall said, intimated he would be willing to supply Forward Times with the names of these Houston businessmen. "And all they could get was a rebuff from Green. That, even after the Blacks offered him a better deal than Concerts West and KILT."

A former farmboy who grew up in Arkansas in a family of 12, Green indicated he felt it unfair that he was called part of a "ripoff."

"I've been ripped off a few times myself," he said, "and I know the feeling."

Breadbasket argued outside the Coliseum that Black entertainers must have their memories jogged every once in a while to shock them back into reality.

"We're talking about community economic development," Marshall declared. "When all the money in the community is leaving as a direct result of these kinds of things (Whites promoting acts made popular by Blacks), then it's time someone spoke out."

The Saturday night picketing represented the second time in recent years Breadbasket has gone to bat for Black promoters. The first instance was when a White company brought in the Jackson 5.

Since that successful picketing, the Jackson 5 in Houston has always involved a Black promoter.

"Agencies like Concerts West don't waste their time with Black acts or artists until they hit the big time," Marshall said, "and they always manage to out cut Black promoters because the entertainers are willing to go along with the game."

"It is the firm feeling of SCLS Operation Breadbasket that Al Green ought to be welcome in the Black community as long as he remembers where he came from."

"But," Marshall qualified, "when he forgets us, we cannot remember him."

Marshall said the picketing effort was a success because not only was the memory of Green jogged, but also, something other than Green's being White-backed in Houston was bought startlingly to the eyes of those Blacks entering the Coliseum.

"The people were awakened to the fact that the concessions where they were selling cups of beer for 85 cents were run by Whites," Marshall said, looking at the long lines in front of the Coliseum windows manned by all White ticket salespeople.

"Because we opened these eyes, Blacks in Houston are a little wiser about the power of their dollars."

"Now, it's up to them as to what they do with the information."

"I didn't know sentiment against me was that strong," Green said in his dressing room as he sipped champagne. "I've tried to do a lot of things for my people like donating the proceeds from a concert in Memphis to a community health center."

Visibly shaken by the pickets, Green, intimated he would like to return to Houston simply because he likes the city and the people in it.

And, he said, next time, he is going to try to see that the promoter is Black.

"I'm willing to get with anyone and work out a deal," Green said. "I don't like this business about being picketed because I'm kind of sensitive when it comes to my image."

"When I was out there on the stage, I figured some people were going to be throwing rotten eggs at me. That's why all the policemen were up front."

Marshall indicated no violence was ever planned and whatever envisioned was a figment of Green's security man's imagination.

"Our purpose was to demonstrate against a trend of successful Black entertainers — the getting of White backers," Marshall reminded. "We did just that."

The Fight Game, Not A Game sports retrospect.

Lamont Lovelady

Des Moines' middleweight Art Hernandez (46-19-3), at one time a top contender for the world's middleweight championship . . . seems to be on the downgrade. . . while recently turned pro, tiger Lamont Lovelady of Des Moines, appears headed for high rewards in the fight game.

Last Tuesday Hernandez lost to Tony Licata of New Orleans in the Louisiana City and looked bad doing it.

Art was much too heavy . . . 172½ as compared to Licata's 162. Also ring observers report the local fighter was very slow. . . sluggish and at times even appeared to be too tired to go the full 10 rounds. The bout was stopped in the 8th after Hernandez was knocked down twice by his opponent. Art has come a long way . . . battling along the trail in one of the more competitive divisions . . . and gaining worldwide attention as a top contender for the crown in fighting such great names as Emile Griffith and Nino Benvenuti of Italy.

But times have changed for the old pro . . . He must train harder, now more than ever, and at times Art doesn't seem too anxious to do this. Also it seems as if he's running out of steam, as they say . . . on the other hand, Des Moines can take great pride in the efforts of Lamont Lovelady in the ring. Here is a man with unusual talent and the ability to strike hard with either hand. He especially has a devastating left hook.

Lovelady's pro record is now 4 and 0 . . . he looks quite impressive . . . and isn't afraid of anyone in the squared arena. But besides all the fancy footwork . . . the bobbing and weaving and the Ko. punches, it's going to take a heapful of discipline to lead the tiger to the confines of the world middleweight championship.

Lovelady is eager and sincere, but he also enjoys a good time . . . as don't we all. Those in the know all agree . . . Lovelady can be a champ . . . wants to be a champ . . . but in the meantime, the climb to the top is hard and sometimes very lonely. A man has to be alert . . . live clean . . . and above all, keep his guard up.

by Allen Ashby

Just about everyone I talk to who is interested in baseball wants to know if Hank Arron will break Babe Ruth's home run mark this year. I am no baseball expert, but my personal guess would be that whether he does or not depends on what he does during the month of July. If he can get up to twenty five homers by the end of this month, one would have to give him a chance at it. But, honestly, I really think that he will more than likely end the year about two or three short of the mark, and have to go after it next year. Then there is a lot of static about Willie Mays who some think ought to retire while he is a little head of things. I read and listen to people who say that his reflexes aren't as fast as they were a few years ago. Granting that one's reflexes do slow some, the depreciation is a lot less than you think. Actually, so say some people who ought to know, what fails first is the ability to focus one's eyes on a fast moving object as quickly as he once did. So he would not be able to pick up the spin on the pitched ball as quickly. And since the batter can't see the ball as fast, it follows that he can't begin to swing his bat until he knows what is happening. So he wouldn't be able to get the bat around as fast.

This happens in boxing also. A veteran boxer has to get hit a few times before he can begin to pick up the timing and speed of his opponent's punches. So if the guy is really punching for keeps the first time out, you may see a one punch kayo such as happened to Wolcott in the second fight with Rocky Marciano, and probably to Sonny Liston in his second fight with Mohamed Ali. These experts who tell me this say that a person's reflexes are ninety percent as good at fifty as they were at twenty, and probably seventy five percent as good at even sixty or seventy as long as the old man doesn't get too tired. You can argue against this all you want to, and maybe you can come up with some statistics of your own, but this is my story, and because I am no longer young, I have to go with it. And, speaking of boxing, if you saw the boxing match on television last Saturday, you saw a fine looking prospect who knew most of the tricks as he defeated a fellow named Hernandez for the American featherweight crown. The kid stayed in close, threw his punches from close range, and in close arcs, and not like his opponent who was constantly swinging from left field. But our man stayed in there and there was no doubt as to the winner.

If the weather treats us nice, we may get our twenty fifth Hilltop Open tennis meet under way in a couple of weeks. For a while it was touch and go because we weren't sure that we would have some tennis courts to play on. But now we know we will, or at least it seems pretty certain, we can figure on the thing. A couple of fellows who have two legs on the Bill Ashby doubles trophies have said they were coming out of retirement, if fellows who aren't thirty five can be said to have retired, and take the things home with them. But they will find their way blocked by a lot of younger and strong fellows who would like to have their names on the mugs too, so they may have just a little trouble. Another thing we are trying this time is a junior mixed doubles meet that ought to go over pretty well, and may help strengthen the regular mixed doubles draw. Because we are expecting a big field due to the fact that there was no Hawkeye meet, we are taking a couple of extra days to get the thing going, and we hope we need them. We will miss one of our staunchest supporters in Everett Singleton. The fellow used to come around and lend us his moral support, and we shall be wishing he were there. This was the year he was to join the Hilltop club, and I think he would have made a strong member, because he never went into anything half heartedly.

While I was at the park last Sunday, I was struck by the number of big well built youngsters who weren't even eighteen yet and who are said to be going out for football. One kid in particular, about six feet, and said he weighed one eighty, certainly has the physical tools to be whatever he wants to be in the game. He said he wanted to play quarterback, and I was told that he is smart to do it. Now, if he will only work hard enough, for that is the key to whatever you do in football, no matter what people tell you.

The Henry Manuels Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Jimmy Monroe, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Manuel, 1431 Fremont, celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary in a great big way. Without any prior planning they were joined by family members and a big day resulted.

Still another guest arrived on this same day. He was David Campbell, their son-in-law, who is stationed in Virginia.

Now that everyone had arrived the Manuels could celebrate. Mrs. Manuel had brought her husband, Henry, home from the VA Hospital for the occasion. Surprise visits by family members mushroomed the affair into a big, happy gathering.

Mrs. Monroe's husband, W. J., is retired from the service and is attending the University of Illinois. He is an electronics teacher. He will graduate in about a year.

Announcing the Commission's action, CSC Chairman Robert E. Hampton said:

"This is another in a continuing series of changes designed to make standards more realistic and to remove all procedural barriers which might inhibit equal employment opportunity in Government."

FOREST AVENUE COGIC CHURCH NEWS

Members and friends of the Forest Avenue Church joined in celebrating the pastor's wife's birthday on July 2 at their home. The occasion was very enjoyable. Approximately 50 persons were in attendance.

The young genius drummer, Stevie Carter, and his pals gave a spectacular fourth of July performance on the Bill Riley Talent Show in Gowrie, Iowa. The group was accompanied by the members of the Forest Avenue Church. The saints were entertained most of the day by the festivities and social events in Gowrie.

The Sunday morning message was delivered by Bishop A. B. Carter. The bishop's sermon was very inspirational. His text was found in Isaiah 9:16, and the subject was "My Prince."

We were very happy to have Elder Bradley, from Kansas City, Missouri, as our Sunday evening guest speaker.

The public is cordially invited to attend the District Unity Conference, which is

To the above named defendants:
You and each of you are hereby notified that the Petition of the Plaintiffs in the above entitled cause is now on file in the Office of the Clerk of the District Court of Polk County, Iowa, claiming that the Plaintiffs are the absolute and unqualified owners in fee simple of the following described property to-wit: Lot 18, Block 23 in 2d Plat of CLIFTON HEIGHTS, now in and forming a part of the City of Des Moines, Iowa and that the plaintiffs are credibly informed and believe that the defendants make or may make some claim adverse to the title of the plaintiffs in said property and that the said unknown claimants to said premises claim or may claim some interest in or to the said real estate as the plaintiffs are informed and believe, but that the plaintiffs have no knowledge or information and do not know how said interest as may be claimed by said unknown claimants was or may be derived or claimed to have been derived or the method of obtaining the same and the plaintiffs aver therein that the names and mailing addresses of the unknown persons are unknown to plaintiffs and that plaintiffs have sought diligently to learn the same and the plaintiffs in said petition set out certain circumstances which cloud the title of plaintiffs to said real estate and you are referred to said Petition for a more particular statement thereof. HAVE YOU REGISTERED TO VOTE YET?

In a few months the voters will go to the polls again in Cedar Rapids. Here are some points to remember.

1. You must register in order to vote.
2. Only registered voters are counted when ever important decisions are being made.
3. Men have fought and suffered horribly and died to give you the right to vote.
4. Votes are bought and sold, so they must be worth something.
5. If you vote yes and your wife votes no, you've just cancelled each other. Try to convince all of your family to vote the same way.
6. Vote early there are many tricks used to keep the working man from voting. The long line trick will work most of the time. Because the working man is tired after a hard days work and would rather not vote than to stand in a long line.

7. Men who have never had a job or know what it is like to raise a family generally have a lot of academic credentials. Look for men with good common sense. Credentials have gotten us in the mess we are in.

8. Vote anyway right or wrong, because you are not even counted unless you vote. So register to vote right now.

Meteorologists Compile "Cloud Atlas of China" Peking, June 25, 1973 (Hsinhua) — Members of the Research Institute of the Central Meteorological Bureau Recently compiled a "Cloud Atlas of China" that will soon be off the Press.

The Book contains 110 colored pictures of cloud formations and weather phenomena with concise explanations. The meteorological workers travelled all over China to take representative photos. The verified experience of folk weathermen and scientific explanation have been incorporated in this book.

Based on the common characteristics of their formation and changes, clouds are classified according to the height of the cloud base, shapes, structures and causes, and illustrated with typical cloud formations. This will help meteorological workers identify various clouds and grasp the laws of weather changes, and provide a basis for weather forecasting based on such data. End item.

Peking, — nearly every one of China's 50,000 people's Communes has a clinic, because Health Departments at all levels have made great efforts in carrying out Chairman Mao's instruction "In medical and health work, put the stress on the rural areas."

Concentration on building commune clinics has been marked since the beginning of the great proletarian cultural revolution. The rural areas now account for more than half of China's professional medical workers and medical appropriations.

With the help and guidance of mobile medical teams and City Medical workers who go to work in the countryside from time to time and huge quantities of medical equipment and drugs supplied by the State, the commune clinics in China are steadily improving their service to the peasant masses.

Before liberation, there were virtually no hospitals in China's countryside, which is inhabited by 80 per cent of the population. The laboring people could not afford medical treatment. But now patients can see a doctor in their own brigades or communes. Difficult cases are referred to county hospitals.
