Federal Program Dependents, Checkout Your OEO

Washington— (NBNS)—Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger announced last week that no more federal funds will be spent on sterilizing minors or other legally incompetent persons until the federal government forms guidelines.

Weinberger, saying that he was "deeply disturbed" by allegations in a $1 million law suit filed by the father of two black girls from Montgomery Ala. who claimed they were sterilized without their consent, ordered the guidelines "to insure that the rights of the individual are always paramount, always observed and always secure."

The HEW Secretary also said that federal funds are to be used for involuntary sterilization only when they will "increase the well being of the individual."

Meanwhile, it was reported recently that 25,000 copies of federal guidelines which might have prevented the sterilization of Minnie Relf, 14, and her mentally retarded sister, Mary Alice, 12, have been found stored in a federal warehouse.

Compiled by Dr. Warren Hern, former chief of program development and project evaluation for the Office of Economic Opportunity's family planning division, under an OEO grant to the American Public Health Association in 1971, the guidelines would have forbidden sterilization of children or "legally incompetent" persons in any program receiving funds from the agency.

Dr. Hern who resigned his post in the poverty agency in 1972 because of what he called the frustrations of "political interference and the completely irresponsible action of OEO in blocking the dissemination of those guidelines."

Said Dr. Hern of the sterilization of the two Alabama girls, "this whole tragic affair may have been avoided" if OEO had adopted the guidelines which he submitted.

The existence of the

guidelines was revealed recently when the American Public Health Association announced that it had, under a grant from OEO, developed sterilization guidelines in 1971, but that the federal antipoverty agency, which arranged the sterilizations of the two black girls and perhaps seven other blacks, had never used them. These guidelines formed the basis for those later devised by Dr. Hern and which now lie unused in a federal warehouse.

The case is being investigated by the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Justice Department, by OEO, and by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), whose Senate subcommittee on health has scheduled public hearings on the matter beginning Tuesday.

Developed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States 53 years ago, the Institute For Organization Management was hosted by the University of Colorado for the 15th year.

Some 47 courses are studied during the eight year program dealing with such areas as contemporary economic issues, environmental dynamics, economic development, community analysis, finance, communication and applied management.

"Communities, business groups and, for that matter, every citizen benefits when their community managers are better equipped to meet the ever increasing community needs," one spokesman said.

The institute offers sequential programs designed to broaden the knowledge as well as the perspectives of participating Chamber executives, and to give them a better understanding of community problems which affect them as managers.

Judge William Parker Dies at Age 53

Judge William Parker

William Wilbert Parker, 53, director of the Contract Compliance Service for the Veterans Administration, died early Sunday morning (July 15) of an apparent heart attack at his home, 6040 Steven's Forest Road in Columbia, Md.

Known widely as "Judge Parker" for his service as a municipal court judge in Waterloo, Iowa, from 1964 until he joined the VA in February 1971 as deputy director of VA's Contract Compliance Service; he became director of the service in May 1972.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson, long familiar with Judge Parker's activities in Iowa, described the VA official as one of the most able, personable and compassionate public servants he had known. He praised Judge Parker's important work at the VA and his many earlier accomplishments in his home state.

As director of VA's Contract Compliance Service, Judge Parker played an important role in monitoring civil rights and equal employment opportunity programs within the VA.

He also was responsible for aiding small and minority business enterprises in securing VA contracts. In the first year under his leadership, the number of these contracts more than doubled, and the total contract amount increased from $10.4-million to $16.8-million.

A broader-than-VA aspect of his duties was auditing the

The Des Moines City council has authorized the City Manager to submit an application to the Iowa Crime Commission for the Community Liaison Program.

This community relations project will provide for a number of police cars occupied by a regular policeman and a Negro youngster to patrol the Model Cities Area due to the continued high crime rate. These young Negroes are hired to acquaint the officer with the crime spots in the area, forestall possible crime and to cool unsavory situations that appear to be developing.

Something needs to be done to disperse the gatherings of unruly crowds who will, at times, molest and or discommode citizens driving in the community. However, I do not believe that simply placing a group of "watches" in itself is a solution to the problem. Daily groups of youngsters gather in the streets and on corners with nothing to do but carry on funny conversations which at times serve as avenues to try petty crimes which eventually lead to serious situations. These youngsters NEED JOBS to keep them occupied as well as to provide income to help themselves and their families.

Appearing before the city council Monday night, I suggested that some method be provided to pay youngsters to clean up the area. Vacant houses, alleys and other places where grass and shrubbery have grown up make a disgraceful sight in the community.

The mayor responded that the Model Cities Group had the responsibility of taking care of this situation but failed. This is an excuse. Other federally funded projects, as well as city projects, have been bungled and yet they continue to receive grants and generally provide for studies by the Crime Prevention Commission which has done very little to reduce overall crime rate in the city.

I am convinced that the city council is insensitive to the needs of this area and excuse lack of interest because a few citizens were given a million dollars to handle without having any experience or with inadequate guide lines to carry out the program and failed to do the job.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear New Iowa Bystander:

I am writing in concern of employment or any assistance you can give.

I am presently in the Men's State Penitentiary at Fort Madison, Iowa. If I can obtain a good job I'll be released in October when I go up for parole.

I contacted you because of the experience I've had in the printing field. I can do dark room work, operate a plates, set type, and do strip work. I am also an expert painter. A lot of my paintings are in Des Moines now, including one of Governor Ray.

I am a black man and I know with this opportunity I can make it. I need a job to be released. Money would not be an issue because I wouldn't want no more than my qualifications called for. I would even work the first week for nothing to prove myself. If you can help me in any way would you please inform me as soon as possible so I can let the Mission Accomplished: Terry and Gail Watson set off to celebrate their 5th anniversary; they had two weeks' time.

They first spent three days and two nights in San Francisco: they stayed at The Jack Parr Hotel; they saw Chinatown, visited The Muir Woods, and South Beach (which houses the biggest attractions), saw The Pinocchio (a night spot). Visited the Japanese Tea Garden, Fisherman's Wharf, rode the cable cars, saw the Red Garter night club, the Wax Museum, The Winery in Maple Valley and "a million other things." They saw Johnny Mathis and Sonny and Cher; and, of course, San Francisco's famous bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Watson

They next went to Hawaii where they stayed at the Hilton Hawaiian Village. Here they took the City Tour, saw the Punch Bowl, where the Vietnam soldiers are buried; took the Pearl Harbor Cruise. Took the Catamaran Cruise. On this cruise they went by a huge sail boat on which they had dinner. They went to Diamond Head where Hawaii 5-0 is filmed. They attended a Hawaiian Lu La, a Hawaiian feast. They saw the Polynesian Cultural Center. They visited the Dole's Pineapple Co. And let's include that they went swimming a great deal. A treat in the ocean!

Next they went to Las Vegas, where they spent two days and two night. Saw Wilson Pickett, and B.B. King. They just missed the Fifth Dimensions, who were enroute to Hawaii then. They spent a lot of time in the casinos and they attended the Circus Circus. They stayed at The Land Mark. And so concluded their vacation.

The three made a safe return. Three? Well, you see the two were celebrating their fifth anniversary and had determined they would try for a second child. The

Viola Neighbors and Della Reese Have a Chat

Mrs. Viola Neighbors and Mrs. Norma Bragg, saving gas, went via Greyhound Bus to Omaha, Nebraska, and by train to Denver, Colorado. Here they visited friends and saw the sights.

They visited City Park, dined out, way out—on top of the Rockies, 32 stories high; went shopping and met Della Reese at a ladies clothing store. Viola, after having seen her on television so many times recognized the celebrity and exclaimed "Della!" To this Della responded warmly and had the girls wait to talk with her. Viola says it was an hour and a half wait "but well worth it!"

Della was appearing at a supper club for one week.

Viola and Norma left Friday night and via train and bus reached Des Moines, after a seven day visit.

The girls were going to accompany the senior citizens but there wasn't room. Viola returns to Denver annually. She formerly lived there.

Viola is on a three month vacation from a Drake Sorority House where she cooks. She also cooks for Tiny Tots a month before beginning vacation.

Round City Hall

By Ken Warren

Public Law 89-754 Statute 1255 (1966) as last amended by Public Law 91-258 (1970) reads as follows: An act to assist comprehensive city demonstration programs for rebuilding slums and blighted areas and for providing the public facilities and services necessary to improve the general welfare of the people who live in those areas, to assist and encourage planned metropolitan development, and for other purposes.

This law is known as the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966. The Congress of the United States stated that it found and declared that improving the quality of urban life is the most critical domestic problem facing the nation. The Congress further stated cities do not have adequate resources to effectively deal with these critical problems so federal grant-in-aid programs are essential to enable cities to plan, develop and conduct programs to improve their physical environment, increase their supply of adequate housing for low and moderate income people, and provide educational and social services vital to health and welfare. Under this law and phraseology that was contained within the finding and declaration of purpose was born the Model City concept, then the Planned Variation program and finally the Community Development Agency.

Keeping all this in mind I would like to bring you some information from a memorandum dated June 2, 1972 to all regional administration offices from Robert L. Moore, Special Assistant of Community Development with the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The comprehensive concept of community development emphasizes both physical and social development of communities. The involvement of citizens who are prospective beneficiaries of the community development activities is a critical element in these efforts. The planning and implementation of community development programs require that provisions be made to provide for extensive opportunities for citizens to effect the local decisions making process.

This statement is intended to provide a common policy and performance standards for citizen participation in all community development programs. Under the structure of this document from which I am quoting, it is further stated that "There Must Be organized citizen participation structures that broadly represents the diverse: economic, age, ethnic and business characteristics of the target areas. The organizational structure should have a relationship with local government which provides for: (1) clear and timely access to key officials in the local decision making process, (2) up to date and timely information on all events of importance to the residents of target areas, (3) a jointly defined set of roles and responsibilities for local government officials and participants in the citizen structures that will maximize opportunities for complimentary relationships to exist.

For the purpose of reviewing the above information and interjecting some personal comments I would like to bring to your attention these facts. Under the present structure the citizen participation groups are (1) The City Council and (2) The Citizens Advisory Board (CAB). The City Council has no minority representation whatever and doesn't seem to be

Elected Head Of National Newspaper Publishers

Washington (NNPA)—Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, editor and publisher of the San Francisco Sun Reporter since 1948, a psychologist, a medical doctor, and civil rights activist, has been elected president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA).

The election took place recently at the 33rd Annual Convention of the association responsive to this segment of the community at all. The CAB is comprised of 3 members from each target area, plus 9 members at large who are selected by the Mayor, making a total of 27 persons. Of this number only EIGHT are black, the Mayor's appointees contain 1 minority namely, a spanish american.

In my opinion this represents TOKENISM and cannot follow the guidelines that have been spelled out as a must for citizen participation. It would seem to be a case of a stacked deck with the city administration being the only dealer. If you are familiar with games of chance, under these stipulations the "House always wins". There is more to this citizen participation angle so I ask you to bear with me and I will reveal a few more precious jewels.

in Houston, Texas. He had served as NNPA vice president since 1971.

Others elected during the convention were: Howard B. Woods, editor-publisher of the St. Louis Sentinel, vice president; Mrs. Lenora Carter, publisher of the Houston Forward Times, re-elected secretary; and Howard H. Murphy,

The newly elected board members are: Earl Davis, Jr., editor-publisher, San Diego Voice & Viewpoint News; Longworth M. Quinn, editor-publisher, Michigan Chronicle; Robert J. Thomas, editor-publisher of the Milwaukee Star-Times; and Garth C. Reeves, Sr., editor-publisher, Miami Times, and immediate past-president of NNPA. There are 15 members of the board, including the officers.

Dr. Goodlett, a longtime activist in civil rights, African development, and world peace, is establishing with the NNPA board an agenda for promoting these efforts through the Black Press, as well as further strengthening the Black Press itself.

The new NNPA head was born in Chipley, Fla., reared in Omaha, and educated at Howard University, the University of California at which he earned a Ph.D. in psychology, and Meharry Medical College. It was after a year of teaching at West Virginia State College that he entered medical school. He has been practicing since 1945.

In Last Place?

Does the United States have the strongest economic growth rate in the world? During the 1960s, our annual rate of economic growth was about 4%; Japan's was 11%. One reason: of ten industrial nations, the U.S. devoted the smallest share of its total output to capital investment. Ever more stringent capital gains taxes will discourage the small investor, backbone of our economy. If Americans are to assume the risks involved in investing, incentives in the form of equitable capital gains taxes must be provided. Z

Diana Ross First Entertainer To Be Invited To Imperial Palace

Tokyo,— For the first time in 2600 years of history of Japan, an American entertainer, Diana Ross, was invited to the Imperial Palace in Tokyo by the Empress of Japan in a special audience.

The songstress, who won an Academy Award Nomination for her first film role in "Lady Sings the Blues", was accompanied by Michael Roshkind, Vice Chairman of the Board of Motown Industries, who was the only other person to receive an invitation by her Imperial Majesty, breaking every precedent for literally thousands of years.

Members of the Imperial Family hosted an elite reception Monday night (July 2) at the most exclusive tea house in Tokyo at Akasaka Chanko for Miss Ross. Roshkind said that Prince Shijo told him that Miss Ross had made such an enormous contribution toward warmer Japanese-American relations through her music and "Lady Sings the Blues", (which has broken every house record in Tokyo) that the Imperial Family decided to attend the historic reception for her.

Those attending the event included more than ten Princes and Princesses and two former Prime Ministers. These included: Prince and Princess Nashimoto, Prince and Princess Fushimi (sister of the Empress), Prince and Princess Shimazu (she is the Emperor's fifth daughter), Princess Chichibu, wife of the Emperor's eldest son, Prince Mikasa (Emperor's third brother), Higashikuni (former Prime Minister of Japan), Prince Higashi Fushimi (Empress' brother) and Prince and Princess Shijo. In addition, the guest list included former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato as well as former Foreign Minister Fukuda, considered by many to be the next Prime Minister and Vice Prime Minister Takeo Miki.

After visiting the Imperial Palace, Miss Ross and Mr. Roshkind paid their respects to the Crown Prince at his private estate in Tokyo. Miss Ross presented two of her Motown albums to the Empress and two more to the Crown Prince stating that "Music is an international language which has brought all people closer together since the beginning of time".

Miss Ross is in Japan on a concert tour, which will also take her to Hong Kong and Australia.

Profit Picture

Fewer individual investors are turning to the stock market. Their reluctance isn't due to lack of faith in our system of private enterprise. Rather, the incentive for profit is becoming less obvious, because the government is creating ever steeper capital gains taxes. In order to keep all Americans investing in our economic growth we need an equitable capital gains tax. Not to help the rich: two-thirds of the people who invest in the market have taxable incomes under $15,000. Z

Apprentice Sheet Metal

Victor Carson started to work this week as a sheet metal apprentice with the firm of Park Sheet Metal, Inc. located in Altoona.

Having first been accepted as an apprentice some two years ago by the Joint Apprenticeship Committee of Sheet Metal Workers Local 45 of Des Moines, Victor found that being accepted can sometimes be only the beginning, for what followed for him was a waiting period that often became very frustrating. Because of a scarcity of work and the poor economic conditions that were prevalent at that time, Victor couldn't be put to work.

Victor Carson

Gradually the picture changed, and as the total volume of construction began to pick up, Victor found himself on the first step of a series of steps designed to take him up to the level of journeyman sheet metal worker.

Because today's sheet metal worker must be highly skilled in order to meet the demands of the industry, the apprentice is given training and experience in all branches of the trade. Without adequate local sheet metal apprentice programs, the industry would be void of such skills. The increased skills and versatility needed today by sheet metal workers requires, as never before, and thorough all-around training provided by apprenticeship as it is conducted under today's modern methods.

During the term of apprenticeship, the apprentice is given instruction on safety practices and techniques as applied to all machinery, materials and substitutes used in the trade during his apprenticeship, both on the job and as part of the related instruction curriculum. Instruction on accident prevention and safe working habits will be coordinated with the actual work performed on the job and the tools and equipment used.

Information on this particular trade is available through the Apprenticeship Information Center, Iowa State Employment Service.

GATEWAY SCORES KNOCKOUT FOR AMATEUR BOXERS

It's been over a year now since amateur boxers in the greater Des Moines area have had an adequate facility for training. For the past few months, such local fight trainers and handlers as John Edwards and Ralph Brier have been donating from their own pockets for a so-called gym for the amateurs. . . Also collecting from various merchants interested enough to give a few pennies here. . . A few dollars there. The lack of proper training facilities for the boxers showed up in the state golden gloves tournament last January. Des Moines didn't produce even one fighter for the nationals in Lowell, Massachusetts but now that's all changed. The gateway opportunity center at 1000 College Avenue has come thru. The old Dowling gym will now be used for amateur boxers as well as the other daily activities that take place there. . . Thanks mainly to Arzania Williams, Gateway Opportunity Director. The boys have not only complete gym facilities but also a shower. . . locker room. . . indoor and outdoor running track and better supervision. This is all attributed to the foresightedness and benevolence of Williams. State AAU Boxing Commissioner Dave Fidler says. "It's a beautiful place for the boys and I'm happy that someone in the community cares enough to donate their facilities."

The gym is available for all amateur boxers in the greater Des Moines area, and as of last weekend some of them already started to move in. Most of the workouts will be held after 5 pm daily. . . and Williams says there's a good possibility that some boxing shows will even be held in the near future.

So thanks to Arzania Williams, local boxers, both AAU and Golden Glovers, will no longer have to worry about rent. . . utilities and leases. It's all free. And perhaps another local champion. . . The likes of a Lamont Lovelady. . . will appear on the local amateur scene, because of proper training quarters, better supervision and cleaner surroundings. It's a knockout of a deal for amateur boxing in Des Moines.

sports retrospect

by Allen Ashby

I have to bring up this deal because I left out these fellows in my last column on way back when. But there were a few high school athletes who should get some sort of mention and who were great in the days when black athletes didn't get too many headlines. First, there was a fellow who came out of Ft. Madison and formed half of a two man high school track team that won the state high school track meet. They went to Iowa U and were tough there too. How many of you remember Harper of Ft. Madison in I think, 1920? Then there were a pair of guys out of Mason City. Cecil Brewton Sr. played on one of their best teams of his day, and went on to Iowa where he was a good track man. He was a star halfback at Mason City and their best sprinter. The other fellow was Joe Lilliard. Joe was one of the first to make the all state high school teams in football and basketball. As I remember it, Joe bounced around from one college to another, and because he was so good, never did decide where he wanted to go, at least while I knew him. Maybe he did go after a while. But he was good enough to become one of the first black players on the roster of the Chicago Cardinals. I would guess that Joe made money from sports for some time. He was good enough in football, basketball and baseball to get paid pretty good for playing any one of them. Today he would probably have to decide whether he wanted to play just one of those sports and then he might have become one of the league players in that one.

Then there was another player back before those fellows. Cecil Stone played for East High in the real early days. Cecil was often called one of the surest tacklers of his day, and was a good ball carrier, but his strong trait was defense. Cecil was a small man, weighing about 140 but he would fly into just about anything wearing a football suit, and might bring it down.

Now I go to one J.W. Clark who was the first black player to start a game for old West High at a time when they were boasting that no black player could make their squad. J. was a pretty good amateur boxer, in fact, if they had Golden Gloves in his time, he would have probably been on the team. Being a good boxer and rough, tough and mean made them put him on the team to keep him from breaking up their players. I heard then that he was challenged a time or two to fisticuffs, but after a couple of bouts discouraged the other guys from carrying the challenges any further. J. went to Iowa U but didn't play football. Wonder where he is now?

If you watched the softball meet at Birdland, you saw a couple of fellows who just won't stop. Catching for C & P is a short, rather fat fellow named Moe Eubanks. Moe has been catching for probably fifteen years, and is rated one of the best in the city. The guy is a pretty good hitter and gets his share of home runs. I might think that he has to hit home runs to get to first base now, although when he was younger and much slimmer, he could run pretty fast. Moe was a fine all round athlete at Tech in spite of his short stature, playing football and basketball. In football he was used on defense, even if he couldn't see over the players to see who had the ball. In basketball he was a guard and he said he played because he was the only fellow who could get the ball into their post man. After he got out of high school he developed into one of the better pool and billiard players around. He won the tournament put on by Willie Wells twice, and won the pool tournament once. But other interests and work made it impossible for Moe to keep on playing pool or billiards, but he never gave up on softball.

Another guy who doesn't seem to give up is Bud Collins who pitched for the Dragons. Do you know that fellow has been pitching softball longer than a lot of his opponents have lived. They say he is 49, so you figure how many years he has been tossing that ball around. I can remember when Bud used to stand out there on the mound and look mean at the hitter, then just bust that fastball past him. I don't guess he can do that too often now, so he has to depend on experience and tricks to get by now, and then sometimes he gets away with it. Bud was another all around athlete in his best days. He played pretty good football and was a standout basketball player in the semipro leagues around here.

Cedar Rapids News

Cedar Rapids citizens Salute Civil Rights Commission Today thirty black citizens signed and sent to the Civil Rights Commission a letter of thanks and commendation for the good work that the commission has done in behalf of the black citizens in the State of Iowa. Special reference was given to Mr. Alvin Hayes Jr., Executive Director of the Commission, whose wisdom, devotion, and courage are rare assets in a leader who holds a difficult position. The black citizens of Cedar Rapids praised the work of Mr. Hayes highly. "He is a good example of what a black leader can be. His opposition can't buy or sell him. They have to deal with him as equal and as a man." This is the kind of representation that we've been talking about and I thought that it was time to let the citizens of Iowa know that we are with him all the way." Keep up the good work Mr. Hayes.

THINKING OUT LOUD

We have some people in the black society believing that the only good school is a white school, or nearly all white school. I wonder if they aren't also saying that the only good people are white people or nearly all white people. Does color really make that much difference?

I keep asking myself this question; How is it that in Africa and in the Bahamas there has always been a white minority that ruled, but in Iowa and many other states the minorities are only allowed to have rights up to 20 per cent.

Have you seen my wife? No, I didn't but she might be down at the Lazy Leopard Lounge. It's really jumping. They have a dancer down there that's really tossin' and turnin'. They say she's teaching the women what it takes to keep their men at home. Hey, fella, wait for me.

What did you say Joe? I said that I would be true to my wife, but there are so many beautiful women in Cedar Rapids, they just won't let me.

WANTED: Two boys 11 to 14 to deliver the bystander papers. Telephone 362-8920.

STATE DEPT. OF INSTRUCTION WILL HEAR LIGONS

The State of Dept. of Public Instruction has invited Charles Ligons of Cedar Rapids to speak at the July 19th meeting at Kirkwood College. At this time Mr. Ligons will attempt to convince the board of the illegality of its recently issued guidelines. He will also attempt to have the guidelines altered to have them conform to the constitution and to the State Code of Iowa. He insists that in the present form they are insulting dehumanizing and imply that minorities, blacks, mexicans, orientals, etc.) are inferior, and should remain in an indefensible position, and condition.

"Whenever we establish or attempt to establish a dual system of laws, rules, regulations, or guidelines, or whatever you choose to call them, in regards to race. The least that should be offered to society should be a policy 50 - 50. But the 80 - 20 policy offered by the state would forever keep the minorities in an indefensible position," says Ligons.

CITIZENS COMMENT:

I was delivering the Bystander yesterday and met Mr. Yancy Dawson. He told me "Man I'd rather have the Bystander paper than a Christmas present."

I would like to meet all of the old timers in Cedar Rapids, perhaps we could have an old timers day. Lawrence Baker used to play in a band with Yancey Dawson, and Bob Collins, the father of Dr. Collins. I know there are some more of you around.
