New Art Medallion Honors Joe Louis

The International Numismatic Agency, 96 Prince Street, New York City, New York 10012, publisher of art, commemorative and historic medallions, announces the issue of a new art medallion honoring America's great champion, Joe Louis. The new medallion has been authorized by Mr. Louis and bears his endorsement.

The medallion is being minted by Medallic Art Company of New York City in the large 2 1/2" (64 mm.) size reserved for prestigious occasions. It will be struck in high relief with full sculptural detail in two editions, Solid Bronze and Pure Silver.

The eminent design team of Paul Calle, Member of the Society of Illustrators, and Joseph Di Lorenzo, Member of the National Sculpture Society, were selected to create and sculpt the new medallion. Calle is responsible for the art work on many of America's most popular postage stamps, including the "First Man on the Moon" and General Douglas MacArthur commemorative stamps. Di Lorenzo is one of America's major medallists and bas-relief sculptors.

Irony In Attitudes

"It is a great irony," Dr. Robert G. Weisbord says, "that black Americans have lost their desire to return to their African homeland in the same period they adopted African dress and began studying African languages."

In his recently released book "Ebony Kinship," the University of Rhode Island professor traces the "Back-to-Africa" movement to revolutionary days.

"Prior to the American Revolution, Newport, R.I., had the dubious distinction of becoming America's chief slave trade port," he wrote. "Two years after the Constitution was drafted in Philadelphia, a contingent of free blacks from Newport made preliminary inquiries about resettlement in West Africa ... In 1795 the Newport Afro-Americans dispatched a representative to the new colony of English blacks in Sierra Leone, to observe conditions firsthand. Land was proffered by Governor Zachary Macaulay but the offer was not accepted."

Dr. Weisbord, a professor of political science, began teaching an Afro-American history course at the University in 1966 - making it the first course on the topic in a New England state university. He became interested in the field as a social worker in New York City's black communities.

"We ate lunch at the Harlem YMCA and the best collection of Afro-American literature was across the street. I would go over after lunch and read parts of it."

Subsequently, he made two trips to Africa.

Other authorities in the field accept him as a colleague despite his non-African origins. As for his students, both black and white, he noted that those who do object, "would object to many Afro-Americans, too. Some prefer being taught by blacks of a certain kind," he said. "If the black is not sufficiently radical, they will not accept him either."

In his study of the African-Afro-American relationship, Dr. Weisbord depended heavily on the archives and back files of several Afro-American newspapers. The Back-to-Africa movement has, at various times, supplied those papers with material (quoting advocates ranging from Bishop Nat Turner of the African Methodist Episcopal Church to Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi), editorials (usually for emigration, but sometimes against when fund raising swindles were uncovered) and advertisements seeking either rich sponsors or at least emigrants with ready cash.

"Back-to-Africanists could not call upon black millionaires for assistance," Dr. Weisbord observed. "Money to finance transportation to Africa and to enable black emigrants to establish themselves there has always been in short supply. Naturally, blacks who have earned reasonably good incomes have also been the most reluctant to relinquish the bird in the American hand for the two in the African bush."

The Back-to-Africa movement, he continued, has had its strongest resurgences during the Afro-Americans' darkest times. Conversely, it almost died during the Reconstruction era and has again all but disappeared with the civil rights legislation of the 1960s.

The last strong efforts were sponsored by Marcus Garvey, who bargained with several African nations for land grants. Most colonies failed when emigrants found conditions harder than those they left behind.

"I don't think it will ever rise again," Dr. Weisbord commented, "unless there is a real holocaust, a race war in which a large number of blacks are killed." Today, those blacks who move to Africa usually do so individually, with an eye to helping establish the emerging independent nations.

Recently returned from a trip to the Caribbean, where he has begun a study of the Afro-American fear that birth control will lead to racial genocide, Dr. Weisbord admitted that he has not had the opportunity to examine the newest African styles popular in the black community.

His book, however, views the Afro haircut, the dashikis and the courses in Swahili as a "healthy development."

"Although it is disputed whether these are true African styles - Afros are seen in only a few African communities, and Swahili is the language of east Africa whereas most Afro-Americans have west African origins - they are a sign of repudiation of white values," he said. "If people are told that they are without a past, ugly and stupid, they will internalize these things until it becomes a frustration."

With recognition and pride in a past, he concluded, they become a people willing to work and able to achieve.

Anti-Imperialist Conference

Angela Davis and Professor Harold Rogers have recently returned from a three country tour of Africa and were welcomed back to the United States by the Steering Committee of the National Anti-Imperialist Conference in Solidarity with African Liberation.

The committee's staff, headquartered in Chicago, Illinois, is organizing a national conference on October 19, 20, and 21, 1973 at Dunbar Vocational High School located at 30th and Martin Luther King, Jr. Drive.

During their tour Miss Davis and Professor Rogers were guests of the political parties of the Republic of Guinea, the Republic of Tanzania and the People's Republic of the Congo. During their stay they met with many heads of southern African

HEW News

HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service has proposed a regulation requiring States to inform Medicaid providers and recipients of the criminal, anti-fraud provisions of a new law affecting the medical assistance program.

Medical assistance, generally referred to as Medicaid, is a grant-in-aid program in which the Federal and State (and sometimes local) governments share in the costs of medical care for persons with low income. It is authorized by the Social Security Act.

The proposed regulation, published today in the Federal Register, is entitled "Fraud in the Medical Assistance Program."

Public Law 92-603 (Social Security Amendments of 1972) imposes penalties of $10,000 or imprisonment for up to one year, or both, for anyone soliciting, offering, or accepting kickbacks, bribes, or rebates; for anyone concealing or withholding information affecting a person's right to any benefit or payment with the intent to defraud; or for anyone converting benefits or payments to improper use.

Brown Named to ACLU Board of Directors

Ronald H. Brown, newly appointed director of the National Urban League's Washington Bureau, has been named to the National Board of Directors of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), a national legal assistance group concerned with the administration of justice and abuses to civil liberties. Mr. Brown was among 10 persons appointed to the board for a first term; seven others were reappointed to the board of some 80 members.

A graduate of the St. John's University School of Law, Mr. Brown served as general counsel to the National Urban League prior to becoming Director of the Washington Bureau on September 1. Before serving as general counsel, he initiated and directed several programs dealing with the administration of justice and consumerism. He was a founder and first chairman of the National Alliance for Shaping Safer Cities, a 70-member organization of labor, religious, civic and civil rights groups seeking increased citizen involvement and public understanding of the criminal justice problems of urban areas.

liberation movements and Guinea-Bissau. On their arrival at New York's Kennedy Airport, Miss Davis said that she and Professor Rogers went to Africa to express solidarity of Afro-Americans with the freedom fight in Africa. She said, "We were happy to find that most of the liberation representatives and their movements are going to fully participate in supporting the National Anti-Imperialist Conference in Chicago."

The return of Miss Davis and Professor Rogers signaled a stepping-up of activities to build toward a massive conference turnout in October which will lay the basis of a strong, national, on-going movement in solidarity with African liberation.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

In the September 20th issue of Jet Magazine there appeared an article "White Universities Begin Retreat from Liberalism". It pointed out that the University of Wisconsin announced before classes began that the Afro-American Center and the American ("Indian") Center no longer have a place at the university. It also stated that the University of Illinois had cut back its Afro-American program by merging the academic and cultural programs into one operation.

In further proof it said, "Paul Ginsberg, dean of students at Wisconsin, said the decision to close the centers was the result of a tight budget. In other words, when academic butchers start trimming away programs, minority students are likely to be cut away like excess fat."

I have never favored these Afro houses. They were established during the hectic days of the 1960's when a few students put pressure on university officials and they acceded to their demands without regard to their value. I have felt that if these students wanted separate facilities they should have gone to purely separate Negro schools.

Generally these houses are located in some old facility with few of the modern conveniences of life, thus subjecting students to the inadequate living conditions that many grew up with prior to entering these universities. Then too many existed with contributions from altruistic friends thus carrying on an attitude of begging someone to carry their own load. Generally the sponsors of these houses provide a place to get away from the formal and modern facilities and to carry on conduct in many instances that might cause others to question.

It is rather interesting that the fathers and grandfathers of these students fought for years to wipe out separate and segregated facilities and yet some of their offsprings are begging to revert to it.

When these students graduate from these colleges, in most instances they will be employed in industries and institutions where they will be in constant association with white personnel. Integrated associations go a long way to help students know how to get along with each other. These houses are fads of the 1960's and will fade out as time goes on.

NAACP To Honor Three Deceased Members

The Des Moines Branch of the NAACP held its first meeting since summer vacation at Wilkie House Tuesday evening. Marjorie Smith, who attended the National Convention, reported on activities. Robert Wright, chairman of the membership committee, reported that a special effort would be made to secure the quota of 500 members by the October meeting.

A program honoring three recently deceased members, Mrs. Clara Bayles, Mrs. A. A. Alexander and Mrs. Bessye Greene, will be held as a feature of the membership meeting.

BRINE AND DANDY

Be ready for a new world of taste adventure when you add your favorite spirits to marinades for roasts and barbecues.

Build up flavors with mixed cocktails—Martinis for broiling chicken, a Bourbon Sour mixture for barbecued butterflied lamb leg, for instance. Or take advantage of the easy yet distinctive sweet-sour accents of liqueurs in marinades for Oriental specialties.

There is more to these savory mixtures than just the barbecue main course. In the early days of our country, spirit marinades were used in preserving fruits and vegetables.

We still use spirits in preserved or canned fruits and vegetables. You can transform ordinary cooked or canned vegetables into glamorous appetizers.

Lets Face Reality

Rev. Harry D. Pierson
Ottumwa, Iowa

In this day and age, the increase of drugs and dope is ruining the lives of Millions of Black Americans in our Communities. The "Pusher" is a person of importance in our Black neighborhoods, "good Christian law abiding citizens stand by and let the pushers and the suppliers come in to our neighborhoods and hook our Black children on dope and drugs. The "good" people in the community knows "who supplies the action." The "good people in our neighborhood knows who is selling guns to crazed dope and drug addicts, but are afraid of reprisal from their own sons and daughters who are either pushing it, or is hooked on it. Lets face reality and not put the whole blame on the Federal Narcotics agents. The "good" people of our race condone the actions of the drug, dope, and suppliers and the gun running in our neighborhood. If they didn't there would be information of the right house in which to raid. I lost a Brother a few weeks ago in the Alton, East St. Louis area. It is wide open with drugs, dope and gun running. My Brother was gunned down by crazed addicts in Alton Illinois. We cannot blame law enforcement too much for being cautious because there are alot of crazed drug and dope addicts that are armed and ready to kill. In facing the reality of the fact that many of our children are hooked on drugs and dope without our parents knowing it, or caring. Apathy and total unconcern is the reason for so much drug traffic in the Black Community. The Black citizens who sincerely care for their children, their community, and most of all; our pride as a race must stand up and be counted. Enough lives have been lost in this war on drugs and dope not to mention the guns that float freely in our Black communities.

Not to mention the ruined lives, permanent brain damages, funerals and expenses in which of us can't afford. My family is still paying for my Brothers funeral.

The actions taken by the Federal agents may have been wrong, but we should be able to learn something from this. Let us make sure that they don't raid the wrong house the next time by pointing out the right house. Let us stand up and be counted as real Men and Women in our Communities and prevent our children from becoming drug and dope addicts. Let us face the reality of the damage that it is causing us and the price that we are paying. Our youth, our cream of the crop of our race is being destroyed by "that friendly little old drug pusher," and our youth is killing up each other with that gun that is floating around in our communities. Realities of truth

Conyers Announces Hearings

Judiciary subcommittee chairman John Conyers, Jr. (D-Michigan) today announced hearings on constitutional amendments which would limit the term of office of the President of the United States to a single 6-year term. The first hearing on this proposed legislation was held on Wednesday, September 26, 1973 at 10:00 a.m. in 2237 Rayburn House Office Building. The subcommittee will hear testimony from Theodore C. Sorensen, lawyer, author, and former special counsel to President Kennedy and Congressional sponsors of the amendments.

The validity of limiting the term of office of the President to a single 6-year term is not a new idea, but has been vigorously debated in the Constitutional Convention and up to the present time. Over 160 resolutions have been offered in the Congress to change the Presidential term from four years to six years. The majority of these proposals, if enacted, would have made the President ineligible for reelection. The primary purpose of a single 6-year term is to insulate the Presidency from political campaigns for an additional term which would divert the energy and concerns of the Nation's chief executive hurt, but yet we must face the fact that we are in the midst of a battle that we as Black people are losing daily. Even as you read this article, someones son or daughter is experimenting with dope or drugs. Someones Son or Daughter has access to a gun in which to rob or kill to receive the substance that will give them those far out hours in false paradise. If we told the Federal agents the truth, the actual location or address of our "friendly drug and Dope pushers, they would not make mistakes such as the one we read in last weeks Iowa Bystander. Jesus said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." When we face reality, we are facing truth. Now it is up to you to accept it and join in today to rid our communities of the destructive forces that is destroying us.

HUD News

Dr. Gloria E.A. Toote, HUD's Assistant Secretary for Equal Opportunity, pledged Wednesday to members of the National Newspaper Publishers Association to make equality in housing, employment and business a reality for all minorities, women and the poor.

Launching the first of a series of briefings to acquaint civic,

Civil Service Commission

The U.S. Civil Service Commission announced today that it has completed an on-site review and has taken action to revoke 38 of the 64 Schedule C authorities in the Office of Economic Opportunity. Schedule C is a category of positions excepted from the career service because the duties are policy determining or involve a confidential relationship between the incumbent and the agency head or his key officials.

The Commission has ordered the termination of 12 Schedule C employees and has revoked the agency's authority to fill 26 Schedule C positions not now occupied, most of which were recently vacated. Revocation of these 38 will leave OEO with 26 Schedule C positions. In addition, the Commission advised the Director of OEO that within 90 days it will further review eight of these 26 positions to determine whether recently assigned Schedule C duties are actually being performed.

OEO's use of Schedule C position authorities has been a matter of concern to the Commission for several months. Because it recognized that OEO faced unique problems during a period of administrative turmoil when the future of the agency was in doubt, and while the legality of certain administrative actions was under challenge in the courts and before congressional appropriations committees, the Commission refrained from taking action that in any way might have operated to hamper OEO's efforts to cope with the complex problems the agency faced. Later it became apparent, however, that a number of the corrections needed to overcome serious irregularities had failed to materialize.

At that point, culminating a series of discussions that had been held with OEO officials, the Commission called for correction of all misassignments of Schedule C employees. While some corrective actions resulted, the Commission's information indicated that a number of the agency's Schedule C authorities were still being used improperly and that required actions would not have been taken by the deadline the Commission had set.

On August 30, the Commission directed the termination of all Schedule C employees who were misassigned or not performing the Schedule C duties described in their official position description. It also advised OEO that upon the termination of each such employee, the Schedule C authority for the positions would be revoked. In addition, the Commission immediately revoked all authorities for Schedule C positions then vacant. It followed this with an on-site review beginning September 5 to interview remaining Schedule C employees and their supervisors to verify actual duties, so the Commission could make a final determination in each case.

business and community leaders throughout the Nation with the responsibilities of her office, Dr. Toote told the publishers in the opening remarks:

"In the past you have been neglected. I assure you this will not be an omission of my office."

She asked the publishers for their cooperation in bringing to the attention of Americans the programs and policies for equal opportunities in housing, employment and business.

"There is no question that there is a housing problem," Dr. Toote said. "We still dehumanize too many Americans in the structures we build."

Besides improvements in housing, minorities also must have socio-economic advice, she said. "Where HUD money is spent, poor people will be helped," she vowed.

She told the publishers she has a "broad mandate" under the 1968 Civil Rights Law that created her office, the 1964 Civil Rights law and Presidential executive orders — to acquire for blacks, women, Chicanos, Puerto Ricans, and poor people, of whatever race, creed or color, the right to decent housing and the right to live and work where they choose. Her mandate, said Dr. Toote, is buttressed by equal opportunity machinery of other Federal agencies.

The HUD official vowed to extend equal opportunity to Indians. "If we allow any percentile of the American population to be degraded or ignored, it creeps like a germ affecting the total population," she said.

Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, publisher of the San Francisco Sun Reporter and NNPA president, told Dr. Toote "this is the first time I've seen a woman take the legislative mandate of her office so seriously."

Goodlett said the "sickness of America, racism, has denied minorities adequate shelter." He called the government the prime "perpetrator," and said the "legacy of HUD is bleak."

Protecting Children's Eyes

Keep your eyes on your child's eyes. Many children suffer from eye disorders and neither they nor their parents are aware of the problem.

That is why parents should have their children's eyes checked by an eye doctor before they reach school age. Most eye doctors have special eye charts with pictures instead of letters for young children. And parents should not wait until their child is old enough to read before taking him or her for an eye examination: Impaired vision can keep your child from learning quickly and well.

Many parents, even when they know their child has an eye problem, tend to ignore it—they seem to believe the child will outgrow it. Faulty vision should not be ignored because the eyes are a very delicate part of the body and they can easily become impaired for life if a disorder is not corrected at an early age. Experts at The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S. say that valuable time can be lost while waiting, and the older the child, the more difficult the correction.

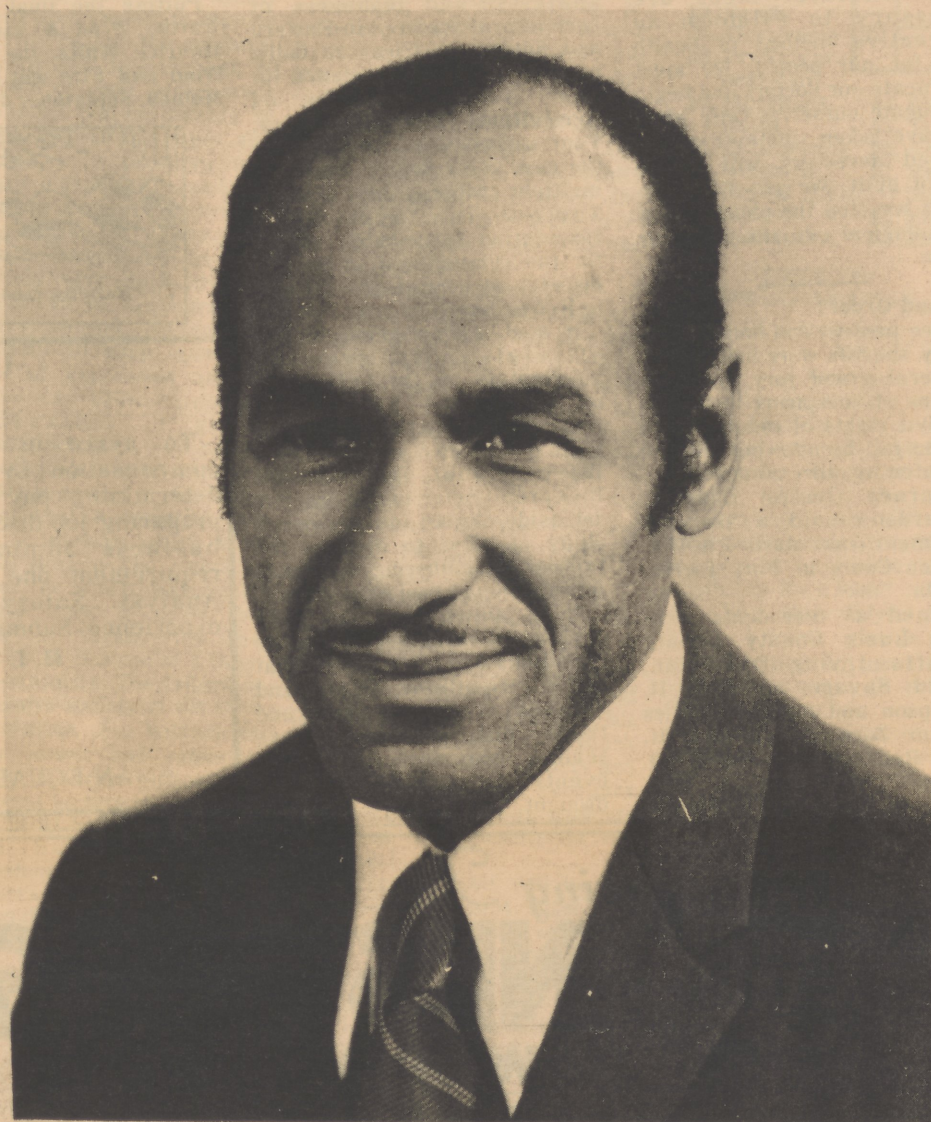

According to an Equitable spokesman, doctors have found that a toddler as young as 12 months can wear glasses if they are made a part of his or her dressing routine. And even a child of four can do eye exercises that are made to correct "cross-eye" or "lazy-eye."

Now is a good time to have an eye doctor check your child's vision. Remember, your child's good health begins with you.

Charles Ligons

For City Council

The man who defeated forced busing in Cedar Rapids

CHARLES LIGONS

The leadership of Cedar Rapids must be composed of honorable men who shall insist that the rights of men be held sacred.

Whether male or female, rich or poor, black or white, we all must have the same rights.

Born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and long time resident of Omaha, Nebraska.

Son of Bishop L.R. Ligons of Columbus, Ohio.

Served in World War II, U.S. Navy, also in the California National Guard, and is the father of Lt. Daryl Lee Ligons who was killed in South Viet Nam.

After discharge, returned to various colleges; City College, Harbor College, The University of California in Berkeley, and the Pacific School of Religion in Oakland.

Known to be an advocat and implementor of Peoples Rights.

Became known in this city when he defended his views against the Dept. of Public Instruction and the Cedar Rapids School Board which desired to implement a forced busing policy.

His contention is that the State guidelines regarding busing are racially insulting, deprives all citizens of the right of self determination as well as being unconstitutional according to the laws of the Federal Government (Civil Rights Statute 1964) and the State Code of Iowa (Article 15).

Through education and experience he has brought people together and taken away some of the innate barriers which are now present in our community.

Constructive innovation can be a descriptive way of describing Mr. Ligons who is a fair and just candidate for the position of Superintendent of Public Safety.

In a meeting Sept. 25, 1973, C.E. Ligons a Cedar Rapids Candidate for City Council charged the Bechtel Corp with contributing to the negligent an inefficient way that the affirmative action program submitted to the Federal Government is being enforced.

Bechtel is the principal Contractor for the Duane Arnold Center being built at Pella, Iowa, at a cost over one hundred fifty million dollars.

Federal regulations insist that an affirmative action program be by any such organization receiving Federal help or assistance with severe penalties to any and all Contractors failing or refusing to comply with this order. Some contractors have been cancelled in many cases of record.

The City Government and the Construction industry are the two most difficult places to integrate in all of the United States. The most intense efforts of Black Organizations have done little to desegregate the extremely segregated conditions of the Construction Industry. Voting strength alone gives the Black candidate little or no chance of being elected to City Government.

My special reason for doing my own negotiating with offending Contractors is that the Civil Rights leaders often chose to represent us, are inexperienced investigators, having little or no personal work history and generally use their office as a stepping stone to other opportunities. Consequently the investigator becomes a defender for the offender, and the case is closed.

In my meeting with the Director of Bechtel Corp. They assured me that they had no knowledge of the racial oppression practiced in Pella. I questioned the validity of those statements in view of the overall facts of their positions. 1. They have hired over 15,000 men from all over the United States, and from areas where the majority of the citizens are Black. But yet of the more than 15,000 men hired only 25 or less were Black.

It was Bechtels duty (as prime Contractor who contracted with Sub Contractors, and with unions) to see that the affirmative action requirements were being executed.

2. The affirmative Action Program calls for seeking out minoritys, advertising in Black newspapers and public gatherings. None of these things were being done. The Black man at Pella was being systematically appraised by the men who were placed over him. With no regard to his seniority status.

Mr. Rosetta promised to investigate these charges and said that any Black man who can meet the qualifications will be given a job by Bechtel as jobs become available.

I am saying to Mr. Rosetta and to all other contractors in Iowa the Federal Affirmative Action Program requires more then just hiring qualified applicants. It specifically status (train them). (Apprenticeship Schools) look for them, and until you do this you haven't complied with the requirements of the Affirmative Action Program.

The Black man in Iowa has a right to complain. They are being cheated out of job opportunities, etc., that are theirs and it is their right by law to complain.

I am hoping that in our future meeting we may be able to negotiate a workable remedy to discontinue unjust, oppressive practices.

Africa's Food Prospects

South of the Sahara, a severe drought has a death grip on a 2,000-mile band stretching over nearly a dozen countries in West and Central Africa. The situation adds new urgency to efforts to meet the long-range need for increased food production throughout Africa. Several new Foundation actions are aimed at this objective.

The International Institute of Tropical Agriculture in Nigeria promotes agricultural modernization through research designed to produce better quality tropical food crops in greater quantities. A two-year supplement of $200,000 will enable IITA to continue to provide research and training opportunities for West African agricultural scientists from other institutions.

A $300,000 two-year supplement to the University of Ibadan in Nigeria will help develop the Faculty of Agriculture's postgraduate training and research in agronomy, agricultural biology, and agricultural economics.

of our ignorance. We must do away with the rhetoric and start to take positive action. We must take whatever steps are necessary to establish an alternative method of health care for our people. We must re-educate our doctors and begin to educate ourselves. Only when we have taken whatever action deemed necessary will we be free of guilt. We are all killers unless we stop the physical and psychological assaults upon our people.

Law and Order?

Three present and four former deputy sheriffs were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring to violate the civil rights of inmates of a Florida jail by allowing them to be beaten by other inmates.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said a six-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Fort Pierce, Florida.

Named as defendants were Saint Lucie County Deputy Sheriffs Irving Opperman, Harold Savage, and Don H. Thompson and former deputies William Zorn, Robert Barrett, John Buetler, and Robert O. Webber.

Trainees from IITA, near Ibadan, combine practical work at the institute with academic training at the university.

In East Africa, Tanzania is beginning an ambitious ten-year program to develop its own research and training capacity for improving the production of maize and food legumes. The country is receiving support from IITA and the International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center in Mexico. The Foundation has just made $181,000 available to provide advisors, consultants, and training fellowships for Tanzanians.

Links among scientists, policy analysts, and managers of agricultural research in Eastern and Southern Africa are being promoted by the Association for the Advancement of Agricultural Sciences in Africa. Four seminars will be held over the next two years. The first, on multiple cropping, took place in Zambia in August. The Foundation contributed $60,000 for the seminars; a second, an insect pest control, will be held in Kenya later this year.

It also is important that the officials, have accurate information on the availability of food. The Foundation, cooperating with the Rockefeller Foundation and the International Development Research Center in Canada, has set aside $25,000 for a one-year study of ways to improve the process for gathering worldwide information of food production.

It is anticipated that more accurate information on weather conditions and other factors that affect worldwide supply and demand, including price and trade policies, could ease serious consequences of such events as Africa's prolonged drought.

Round the City

By Ken Warren

We are said to live in a country that is the paragon of Democracy yet the most basic concepts under which our government was formed are flagrantly disregarded. Because of the difficulties of creating a living, working governmental mechanism that gives the democratic theories meaning, the effectiveness of this system has been greatly diminished. The search for satisfactory public policies is a trial and error process, it is important in a democracy that the channels of communication and discussion be kept open. There must be ample opportunity for all segments of a society to debate alternative courses of action before a decision of policy is established. Any group no matter how small, that has a possible solution to a social problem must be allowed to present it's ideas for consideration. Without a free market place of ideas a democratic society runs the risk of arriving at public policies

Inside America is a view of this country through Black African eyes. One of the most interesting aspects of this book is the comparison the author makes between our society or culture and his. Fred Kwesi Hayford is Ghanaian; he spent four years in the U.S. as a diplomat from his country, and in those four years he had an opportunity to observe our way of life. Perhaps 'observe' is more suitable; he spent four years being accepted, rejected and puzzled by Americans, both Black and White. Inside America is an outspoken observation of the lifestyle we take for granted, it is a questioning of our values and a confirmation of the existence of racism, with a few unusual twists. Mr. Hayford elicited two distinct reactions from Whites; curiosity and reserved courtesy when he dressed in African garb, and outright hostility and cruelty when he wore so-called American clothing. His comments about those experiences are as enlightening as his explanation of the attitudes that many Africans have towards Black Americans. Mr. Hayford, if given a choice, would rather live in the South. What does he find wrong with northern American life as a Black man? And why do marriages between Ghanaian men and Black American women seem to fail? He'll tell you in Inside America. Don't read this book to confirm all of your attitudes, read it gain an insight into yourself. Mr. Hayford said he had to write this book, and if the man felt the need to expend all of that effort to make a point, don't you think you should expend a little effort to find out why?

based upon insufficient and inadequate understanding of the information available.

Since man is supposed to be both a reasoning and moral being; he has an innate dignity and worth; he has the potential for growth and achievement. It is the role of good government to help man put his talents to good use, realize his hopes and aspirations, to preserve and enjoy his individuality and yet create a atmosphere where he can join with others in cooperative social actions that respect his rights and advance the welfare of all. Since truth is an elusive concept, government has a duty to keep open the channels of expression and to see to it that proper consideration is given contrasting points of view before public policies are determined.

As Democracy has to recognize that a majority can become a tyranny which may ruthlessly destroy the rights of minorities, or which may try to perpetuate itself in power by denying to minorities the opportunity to become at a later date the majority. The failure of a democratic society is the lack of the creation of a balance of majority power and minority rights. It is very difficult to assure these factors because the majority must have the power to govern but it can be accomplished if that majority remembers the minority has certain rights that they must respect. The constitutional bill of rights declares that certain rights are fundamental to our nation's way of life, and thus beyond the power of any majority to alter or suppress.

In Des Moines the governing factions seem to have forgotten in their free wheeling and dealing that these facts are not supposed but an actual fact of law. And as a governmental body they can and will be held accountable for any and all infractions thereof. Moreso it is the duty of every citizen to demand adherence to these basic principles under which our country was established. If you fail to do so you are defeating and cheating yourself in the pursuit of the protection of your guaranteed heritage. It is said I am a radical trying to create dissention, if in the process of informing and demanding equality it is considered an act of radicalism, then I thank God that I am a radical and hope more of you will become the same.

OF SHOES

PRE-TEEN SIZES

At ages 7 to 11 girls move from a child's size 4 into a woman's size 5½. "A child's foot is still growing rapidly during the early adolescent years," says Charles Smith, Kinney's expert on children's shoes. "Suddenly the foot is forced into a woman's shoe that is really ill-fitting and improperly styled for the pre-teen."

Mr. Smith offers these important factors to keep in mind when helping a pre-teen with her shoe choices:

1. Adult heels are too high and look strange on a young girl's feet.

2. The upper materials of pre-teen shoes are not as soft as those of a woman's shoe which would support the growing pre-teen foot improperly.

3. The soles of a pre-teen shoe are thicker for more support.

sports retrospect

by Allen Ashby

Got my first look at Iowa State last week. They didn't have enough opposition to tell much about them. Stanley looked good at quarter, the pass catchers caught anything that came close to them, and the runners were tough. The defense looked as if it might be hard to get by, but I would have to wait until the Cyclones play someone who can give them tussel before I get on their band wagon.

Don't know what to think about Iowa. UCLA had something to prove after the Nebraska game, and was higher than a kite. They might have been tough for anybody that particular day. But the Hawkeyes! Fumbles interceptions, and generally sloppy play really cost them. I have to believe they are better than they have shown so far. Don't know what they will do at Penn State. The Lions will no doubt be remembering the scare they had last year, and won't be caught napping. So, it looks like a long afternoon for the Hawkeyes. Maybe next week, when they get Arizona. And when they get down with teams like the last half of the schedule, they might come up with a good mark yet.

I keep hearing mumblings about Drake. My pool hall coaches say that the Bulldogs aren't being used as well as they should be. That they need a new quarterback. Maybe they do, but I happen to think that, so long as the coaches call most of the plays, it doesn't really matter much who plays quarterback. I know you read that the quarterback is the leader, and takes his team down the field. Well, maybe some veteran signal callers do that, but how much leadership does it take to repeat what was sent in from the bench, and every time you get into a tight spot, you go over to the bench and get some instructions. As I see it, the best thing the fellow does is pass, and I don't know why someone else in the backfield can't throw the ball.

High Schools.

I would have to say that most of our local high schools are about even, with any one of them beating another on any given day. Now, I wonder if Dowling fits into that class. The Dowling supporters say they are above the pack, but this year they will probably have to prove it. One had to feel sorry for Tech last Friday or Saturday night. But how do you keep from piling up a score. You take out the first team, and the second team feels they have something to prove, and they go all out. You clear the bench, and fellows who figure this is maybe their last chance to get to play have to show off before the folks, and they play their hearts out. By this time the other team is tired and battered, and anybody could run through them. So you pile up a big score. North finally put it together, and did the Rough Riders in after folks thought they had lost. That guy threw a ball seven miles, and that was the ball game. The Polar Bears had a pretty good defense all night, especially in the second half, and they needed it. Do you know, I still think this year's city title may be up for grabs.

East came through, and they may be getting better than I thought they were. All I can say is if Dowling is the cream of the crop, there is gonna be one helluva scuffle for second place.

Black Schools.

Grambling took Morgan State into camp in what was in my opinion, the feature black school game of the week. Here are some of the other scores. Alcorn 10. North Carolina Cent. 8. Bethune Cookman 26. Morris Brown 0. Bluefield State 7. West Va. Tech 0. Hampton Inst. 10. Shaw O. Jackson State 26. Miss. Valley 22. Morehouse 17. Savannah St. 13. Tennessee State 23. Texas Southern 20. Tuskegee 22. J. C. Smith 19. Virginia Union 35. Winston Salem 7. Langston 26. Cameron State 0.

Joe Sparks, & The Oaks

Regardless of how the Iowa Oaks do in the American Association Championship Series this week, they and Manager Joe Sparks deserve a strong vote of thanks for the job they did all summer in giving Des Moines the finest professional baseball it has had in 25 years. It was back in 1948 that the old Des Moines Bruins last produced a championship team for this city. Four years ago the Oaks — who were then the property of Charley Finely and the Oakland A's — got off to a great start, and by mid-summer were leading their division by 8 games. Then Mr. Finely pulled the rug out by taking such super-stars as Vida Blue, Gene Tennace and Joe Rudi up to the parent club, after which the Oaks went into a quick collapse and were soon 8 games out of first place. The White Sox have shuffled a lot of players back and forth this summer, too — as a matter of fact, four Oaks were in the starting lineup Monday night when the Sox whipped the Texas Rangers 14 to 0. The fact that the Oaks have been able to play superb baseball, while at the same time helping their parent club, is a tribute in part to the White Sox farm system — but mainly it is the result of a tremendous job of managing by Joe Sparks. Joe has been a winner wherever he has been. He knows how to deal with young athletes, both as players and as men, and he is able to get them to produce at 100 percent of their abilities. For the first time in years, Des Moines has a real team and not just a taxi squad for the big league club. Our congratulations to Joe Sparks and the Oaks for giving Des Moines winning baseball again.

CHART CLIMBERS

Poet Nikki Giovanni and Donny Hathaway have reason to be all smiles. Hathaway's exciting Ateo album, "Extension of a Man", is high on all record charts in the music trade press. Miss Giovanni, who wrote the liner notes for Donny's hit album, has her own lp on the charts. Entitled "Like A Ripple on a Pond", on her own NikTom label, it is distributed by Atlantic Records. Peking, (Hsinhua Correspondent) to pacify the strong discontent of the Arab people following Brezhnev's visit to the United States, the Soviet to the Middle East on Cajolery Missions and set in motion it's propaganda machine, pouring out repeated claims that it is the "Real Friend" of the Arab people, that it "stands on the side of the Arab people" and has not "betrayed the interests of the people". But lies cannot stand the test of facts. The Arab people have seen through the true features of this sham friend, Soviet Revisionism, in the course of their protracted struggle.

The Arab people have not forgotten how the Soviet Revisionist Leading Clique had sworn by Heaven that it "Would help the Arab people firmly counter the aggressors" during the June 5, 1967 war in the Middle East, while actually selling them out on a large scale. In an article on the sixth anniversary of "The war on June 5th", "Le Journal D'Egypt" said that three days before Israel launched the aggressive war, the Soviet Ambassador in Cairo, on behalf of the Soviet and U.S. Governments, delivered to Gamal Abdel Nasser, then President of Egypt, a message saying that the Soviet Union and the United States "would join their forces against anyone who launched aggression and would flatly stop his attack". However, the Soviet Union did nothing after Israel started a surprise attack against Arab countries. According to press reports, five hours after the war broke out, the Soviet Revisionist Leading Clique told the United States through the "Hot Line" not to are fully aware what kind of stuff is the "disinterested assistance" of the Soviet Revisionists. The arms supplied by the Soviet Revisionist are not only costly but also attached with many restrictions. For example, they did not provide offensive weapons and prohibited their use for recovering lost territories. According to the Egyptian Paper "Al Ahram", Brezhnev flatly turned down the request of some Arab leaders for the purchase of a certain type of Soviet Aircraft. Moreover he admonished: "I don't want to hear anymore about this Aircraft you are asking for with persistence. Don't bring up the matter again." The weekly "Arab World" reported that the Soviet Revisionist Leading Clique openly threatened the Arab countries not to "resort to a Military solution" in countering the Israeli Aggression lest it might lead to a "confrontation" between the Americans and the Soviets touch off a "World War" and "Lead to the liquidation of progressive (Arab) regimes." In these circumstances, the weapons sold so dear by Soviet Revisionism to Arab countries have virtually become scrapheaps. Six years have elapsed but the consequences of Israeli aggression remain unchanged. The Israel aggressors not only continue to occupy vast Arab territories and refuse to restore to the Palestinian people their national right to return to their homeland. Moreover they are swollen with arrogance and have repeatedly encroached upon neighboring Arab countries. The Lebanese Paper "Al Hayatt" said, "This so-called (Soviet) friendship and these aids and assistance whose value and importance have been exaggerated are among the most important elements and factors which have brought to the Arab World numerous sufferings and miseries, contempt and humiliation the loss of territory and dignity."

City Taxes May Go Up

Ottumwa taxpayers may be faced with a three to four mill increase in taxes to meet the eighteenth month period beginning Jan. 1, 1974 and ending June 30, 1975, according to Finance Councilman, Virgil Johnson.

Total expenditures projected for the period are $8,711,596. (eight million seven hundred eleven thousand five hundred ninety six dollars). However this is preliminary estimate and it could be less, according to Johnson.

The approved budget for 1973, was 15,623,662 and the millage for the 12 month period was 48.707 mills.

The Councilman said under provisions of the home rule law, all cities and towns must change operations to the fiscal year basis beginning July 1, 1975. Ottumwa officials have been operating on a Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 budget so the city is required to establish a budget for the next eighteen months to comply with the law.

The councilman said the increase in taxes is due mainly to higher wages and increased operational cost. Also operation of the sanitary land fill in cooperation with Wappello county will begin next year.

After Jan. 1, 1974 the city must provide ambulance service because it will no longer be provided by the funeral home Johnson stated.

Another factor involved in the increased budget is operation of the city bus system the Councilman added. "In view of the increasing costs, I think the millage asking is reasonable," said Johnson.

Arrest Follow

Ottumwa police solved three break-ins with the arrest of two juvenile boys, Wednesday. The break-ins were at young Transfer on Gateway Drive. The Benton St. Vocational Building of Ottumwa High School this week and earlier break-ins at a building occupied by Ottumwa Boat-a-Rama.

The youths were referred to the Juvenile Bureau of the Ottumwa Police Department.

More than $6,000 worth of drugs seized here on Tuesday, Sept. 12th, by the drug enforcement division of the Ottumwa Police Department. Assisted by state agents and U.S. Postal inspectors. Arrested on a charge of possession of a controlled substance was John Victor Jones 25, of 314 S. Darris St., Ottumwa.

Jones was arraigned on Tues. before Magistrate Charles Kiple and was released on $2,500 bond pending preliminary hearing.

BLACKS ABROAD

There are approximately 40,000 Black Americans living abroad. According to the 1970 census, the U.S. Armed Forces were responsible for most of the 40,000. Only 2,378 of the federal employees abroad were classified as civilians. The total count includes the families of federal employees. Almost as many people, 2,281 to be exact, were said to be crewman aboard merchant vessels. A total of 6,034 people are doing a variety of things unconnected with the U.S. government. Seven countries were used for this census. The Americas, Africa, Canada, Mexico, Europe, the U.S.S.R. and Asia. Depending on your attitude, it is either wonderful or terrible that only a handful of Black Americans, numbering well under 10,000, are living in countries other than this one. It is said that travel broadens the scope, and if travel can do all of that, how much more can one gain by living abroad?

Last winter the Clymers heated their home electrically for $214⁴³.*

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Clymer live near Colfax, Iowa. Their home has 1,568 square feet on two floors, heated with electric baseboard units. We asked them to tell us about their electric heat. Here's what they said:

"When I originally talked to Iowa Power about electric heat, I was prepared not to be convinced because I thought it would be too high. But after I investigated it further, I came away convinced.

"It's very clean and so even and quiet that you are not even aware that any heating system is working.

"We like the idea of having a thermostat in every room and wouldn't have it any other way now that we know what it's like.

"We like our electric heat and are glad we made the decision that we did. It's just like summer... all winter long."

When you consider the cost of a heating system, consider the value. Electric heating is cleaner, quieter and more flexible than any other system. It's the only system that will be as modern years from now as it is today.

Curious? Mail in the coupon! Let us provide you with an individually prepared estimate of the electric heating cost based on your house plans.

No obligation. Just the plain facts... then you decide which is best.

*PLEASE READ THIS AD CAREFULLY:

The keys to saving money and enjoying total electric home comfort are properly sized equipment and well-insulated homes. The ad states the size of the house and the yearly heating bill. If your bills are markedly higher, first, carefully figure your complete heated area in square feet. (Please remember if you heat your basement, count this area too.) Next, check your insulation. You can do this yourself or have it done by a competent insulation contractor.

Another important point. The dollar amount shown above is only the heat portion of the electric bill. Each of these customers pays for electricity to run all the rest of his appliances. This portion varies considerably among customers and is not very relevant in specific comparisons.

I would like to know more about electric heating. I understand there is no obligation.
