Des Moines Voters Want "Truth & Consequences"

Pan Africanism

Whenever a group of people adopt a philosophy that is foreign to the other racial members of their society, there is often reluctance from those members to accept or participate in that philosophy.

It has been this way with the western world's concept of their philosophies. So it has been with Pan Africanism, whose beginning probably came when the first African was removed from his or her homeland on the Mother Continent of Africa.

Pan Africanism, simply defined, means that Black people's roots originated in Africa and that there must be support for the African continent. In turn, support from the Mother Land must be forthcoming to African-Black-people worldwide.

Or, as one Pan Africanist commented recently, if Africa becomes strong enough — especially politically, to wield a force throughout the world, "that means more to us (American Africans) because then we'd have so much more to look to for redress."

However, many Black-African-people in Des Moines and in other areas of the United States have questioned, vehemently at times, whether there should be such inter-relationship among African people throughout the world.

"Just what can Africa do for me?" a Des Moines Black man asked. "I'm over here and they (continental Africans) are over there. I am American."

Or, others have said, "Don't call me African. I wasn't born over there. I am an American," Negro, or colored.

Not long ago a young Black woman passing out flyers announcing a Des Moines Pan African meeting, was verbally accosted and then, her attacker exclaimed, "Africa can't do anything for me!"

But the reluctance or rejection may have some justification.

In the centuries that Black people have existed in the United States, there has been massive propaganda against Africa.

Historically, United States news media, its literature (and, in later years, motion pictures and television) have consistently painted a negative picture of the Mother Continent to its United States African children.

But, of course, not all Black people — or African people — have accepted that propaganda or turned away from the concept of Pan Africanism.

One of the ways that Pan Africanism is being realized is through the Sixth Pan African Congress, to be held in Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania, in East Africa, from June 3 to June 13, 1974. Among the purposes of the Congress, the latest in a series of congresses held since 1900, is to expand the communication and unification among African people throughout the world.

"Black people," said Beatrice Waiss of Milwaukee, Wis., Wisconsin State Sixth Pan co-ordinator, "need to realize that 'we came from somewhere.'"

Sister Waiss was one of several Pan African Congress supporters who, with representatives from Iowa, met with Wisconsin and Minnesota Sixth Pan representatives during a Midwest District working session in Des Moines recently in preparation for the 1974 congress.

"Everyone else in the world — except us — talk of an ancestral home, no matter how long they lived somewhere else, such as the Irish-Americans or the Italian-Americans," she said.

Elections have recently taken place in your community; do you know what they were about, who the candidates were, or more important, who won? The election was held to determine who would sit on the Neighborhood Priority Board in your area. Persons elected will be representing you, they'll speak for you at determined times (meetings), and they'll represent you to the Des Moines City Council. Neighborhood Priority Boards are a part of the Planned Variations Program. This program has been assigned the responsibility of improving and otherwise positively affecting six Des Moines communities. Your Neighborhood Priority Board is your organized voice; it is the most effective instrument you have to express your support, opposition, or attitude towards programs that directly affect your community. Any suggestions, rejections, or thoughts you might have relating to your community should be directed to the Board. They will present your feelings to the Planned Variations Board and the City Council. In essence, your local Board can have a very positive effect on life in your area; they can also have a negative effect, depending on how you feel about plans and changes. It is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with the local Board members; it is also your responsibility to actively participate, if not instigate, programs that will better your community. Following is a list of areas and the Board members who serve each area. Meet your representatives, get involved in your life.

Grinnell College News

Grinnell, Ia. — A 53-voice Grinnell College chorus called "Young, Gifted, and Black" will be on tour in Wisconsin and Illinois during the college's mid-semester recess.

Described as "exciting" and "powerful," the choir sings spirituals, hymns, and contemporary works in the black idiom. Musical director is Cecil Lytle, assistant professor of music and outstanding jazz and classical pianist. Student conductor is Milton P. Rolland, a junior from Chicago, Ill.

All of the members of the ensemble are students at Iowa's Grinnell College, one of the country's top liberal-arts colleges. Proceeds from the concerts of the Young, Gifted, and Black group go into the college's Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund.

Accolades for Harris

James Harris, recently elected President of the National Education Association, was honored with a program at Callanan Junior High School on Friday, Oct. 19th. Among the speakers on the program were Governor Ray, Senator Clark, Mayor Olson and Superintendent of Schools Dwight Davis. Besides the "accolades", Harris received the Key To The City. He was given one book end from the teachers at Callanan, who said they hoped he would return to complete the pair. The one word that seemed to best describe the way people felt about Harris was the word integrity. It is an honor for Iowa's Black community to be represented in Washington, D.C. by a man who brings to mind such a positive word when one attempts to describe him. The NEA has a membership exceeding one million educators, and Harris has his work cut out for him. We are all proud of him and we wish him a Presidential term full of positives.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

Drake Law School Settlement

The Negro law students and faculty members of Drake University Law School joined by special representatives from Community Relations Service Office from the Kansas City office and the Secretary of the Des Moines Committee on Human Rights concluded a conference last week dealing with several complaints suggested by the Negro students.

To a great extent, their complaints are economic many of which would be solved easily if the students had funds to pay their own way.

A rather disturbing agreement was a proposed revision of entrance examinations in order to attract more Negro students. The record shows that a great many Negro graduates from law schools are failing to pass bar examinations. And while I do not charge all of these up to the inadequate preparation of all of these students, they must realize that after graduation requirements of the law profession must be met if they expect to succeed as lawyers. However, if Drake is willing to work with these students long enough to develop their intellect in line with that of other students, even though a longer time, such a program does have merit.

The proposal to teach Negro students how to defend Negroes smacks at the suggestion that Negro lawyers defend Negroes only. This is entirely erroneous. Today white lawyers are defending Negroes and Negro lawyers are defending white people which means that if any special preparation is necessary it should be taught the whole law school.

School officials who make special agreements with minority students must recognize that the faculty and students should be apart of the execution of the agreement. They should understand that their success as teachers and students depends largely upon their ability and willingness to be involved in the success of the university program.

Hidden and Open Race Prejudice

A great many people have said that you cannot legislate against prejudice but that it must come from the heart.

Well, theoretically, this may be true. But you can legislate against the mean things prejudices people do.

But I heard the scurrilous letters that had been sent to Hank Aaron from cowards who harbor prejudice and choose the U.S. mails to hide behind them. And I thought of the sinister murder of two white people in the ghetto section of Boston purely out of meanness, hate and prejudice.

There is no excuse for either such conduct and it should be condemned from every corner. At least, we have laws which prohibit this type of conduct and occasionally some of these haters, both black and white, are caught and dealt with. Such conduct hurts our country and drives a wedge between groups and saps the moral strength of the nation.

Pan Africa

"This means that although Black people may have been born in the United States or the Caribbean or elsewhere, because their roots originated in Africa, they are African, then and now," she explained.

"To have a powerful Africa," said Sister Waiss (whose father was an active Marcus Garvey supporter). "means you have some power yourself. Unification of African people worldwide will also be benefiting African people wherever they live."

By uniting African people world-wide, "our everyday life can have meaning," said Sylvia Hill of St. Paul, Minnesota, coordinator for her state.

"That's the thing that people fail to look at in their relationship with Africans in the U.S. and Africans abroad and in the Caribbean," she continued.

United States African people's problem "is really the problem of status," she said. "It's not just a problem of having 40 million (Black African) people with $400 billion dollars (of buying power). It is the problem of status — we can only achieve status through the particular conditions that Black people all around the world find themselves in."

Historically, Black or African people as a race are "written off as inferior," said Kathy Flewellen of St. Paul. "If they (whites) can prove that a Black American is, in effect, inferior, this has the same implication for a Tanzanian because he too, is Black."

Brother Kambon Camara of Minneapolis, Minn., emphasized the importance of a unified Africa world-wide through realizing "the international subjugation of Black people."

To counteract this, he said, "We have to develop unity on a world basis."

Because of the victory by Africans in Guinea-Bissau, the former Portuguese stronghold, a victory (against colonialism and imperialism, as that in the former Portuguese colony) is a victory (against conquering agents who will be therefore impaired from rendering serious consequences on people, say in Tanzania, and vice versa."

Further, said Brother Kambon, this victory and others like it, "means it (imperialism) will have a more difficult time coming down on the brothers (and sisters) in Des Moines, Iowa."

Des Moines and Iowa's organizational co-ordinator for the Sixth Pan African Congress is the Sixth Pan African Support Committee of the Survival Education Association, Inc., 643 Twenty-seventh St.

More information on the Congress is now available through the committee's office located in the Center for Study and Application of Black Theology, 1016 Forest Ave.

Garcia said, "The Commission is pleased to have the expertise that Mr. Tate brings to the agency. Mr. Tate has demonstrated his ability in civil work with the Kansas Commission on Civil Rights. We feel that the administrative reorganization of our agency will enable him to deal with complaints in a timely, objective, and effective manner."

Mr. Tate is 29 years old, married with two children. His salary will be $16,500.

The letter "S" was formed from the Egyptian hieroglyphic "se" meaning a "goose," whose shape was outlined in it.

Ethnics & Welfare

A study of "Ethnic Factors in Child Welfare" as they affect five minority groups — American Indians, Asian Americans, Blacks, Mexican Americans, and Puerto Ricans — has been initiated at the Columbia University School of Social Work.

The study will be "an exploratory research to learn parental, professional, and community experiences and attitudes on how ethnic differences are and can be reflected in social agency services," according to Professor Shirley Jenkins, study director. "The goal is to develop a cross-cultural typology setting for the ways in which ethnicity can be recognized, different needs met, and barriers to services for minority groups let down."

The study is funded by the Office of Child Development of HEW. The initial grant for the current year is $50,000.

The importance of ethnicity is broadly accepted in many areas, including politics, culture, and even humor, but has not been recognized as a key factor in differential delivery of social services, the Columbia professor reports.

Check Out Your Mind

by HABIBA

Last week I mentioned libraries and censorship and you, this week I'd like to get into libraries, citizenship and you.

Beginning on October 25th, all of the 400-plus libraries in Iowa will be a registration point for the Planetary Passport Campaign. By registering at a public library, you place your name among millions of people throughout the world who recognize themselves as "a member of the human family", dedicated to ending divisions among people and declaring allegiance to mankind.

Sometime after having registered, you'll receive an application form for a Planetary Passport. $10.00 buys the passport ($5.00 if you're a Student), and you may consider yourself to be a citizen of this planet; a member of the family of all men, and an advocate of the international community.

It's an infinitely beautiful attitude, one that realizes the absurdity of map lines, language differences, and unnatural barriers.

Register for a Planetary Passport at your public library, announce your membership in the world community.

Take stock in America.

In order to establish the fact that this column will deal with all facets of community life both in Des Moines and other areas of interest within our state, I wish to devote this week's article to a interview I did recently. The subject of this article is one Terrance Shane who is the Executive Director of the Waterloo Housing Authority. Mr. Shane was born in St. Joseph, Missouri and is 28 years of age. He is married to the former Pamela Austin of Waterloo and they have one child, Darla, who is 2 years old. Mr. Shane received his formal education in the form of a Social of Arts Degree from Highland Jr. College, Highland, Kansas, and a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Fort Hays Kansas State University at Fort Hays, Kansas.

Upon completion of his education Mr. Shane worked for the department of Health, Education and Welfare in the Para-Medical field; he also worked for the Chicago Housing Authority in the area of Community Tenement Relations. He was promoted to Assistant Manager of the Central Office Consultant area; his primary duties included setting up social programs, liaison between the city administration and community agencies, the development of city programs relating to housing developments and screening these programs for 18 housing developments encompassing approximately 50,000 housing units.

In 1970, he came to Waterloo at the insistence of the Black leaders of the community to develop a housing program for all the people of that community. He is on the Board of Directors for the Iowa Chapter of the National Association for Housing and Redevelopment Officials (NAARO).

In the process of the interview with Mr. Shane, he related that since his arrival, and through his efforts in behalf of housing, the city's affirmative action plan has been taken more seriously, but it still lacks in the implementation factor. It has penetrated the minds of individuals who in the past had not been exposed to the seriousness of the housing problem and it's many complexities. In answer to my question of how he compared Waterloo to other cities within our state, he replied that it is difficult to make a comparison due to the minority growth factor (10 percent), it creates a uniqueness that is characteristic to Waterloo alone. Because of the income percentage within the minority community it has brought about an awareness on the part of the white establishment to vie for and seriously consider the black economic factor. He said that Waterloo thinks of itself as a model city in dealing with problems that plague large cities and if the problems relating to racial, economic and social problems can be solved, they can be done at a local level. When approached by the community to be the Executive Director, he was charged with the responsibility of implementing the mechanism to provide decent, safe and sanitary housing for all the Waterloo constituents. Under his administration the city has realized the critical housing situation and is both aware and in accordance with the proposed solution to the problem. Due to a possible change in the administration by a city election, there may be some changes in the rate of movement toward this solution. At this time negotiations are under way to provide fifty new housing units on scattered sites at the cost of 1.4 million dollars under the auspices of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the City of Waterloo and the Housing authority.

Besides being involved in all aspects of the housing areas which includes Low Rent, Rehabilitation, and New Construction, Mr. Shane is also involved in many community endeavors such as chaperone and Choir Director of the African Palace Soul Ensemble. This is a group of young people 13 to 22 years of age who travel and give concerts. They recently performed as the personal guests of Reverend Abernathy at the National Meeting of the Southern Christian Leaders Conference. He is on the board of Operation FREE which stands for Freedom and Equality for Everyone Everywhere. Mr. Shane is also an accomplished musician; he is quite well known for his abilities as an organist in both the religious and popular field. I would like you, through this column, to meet and greet one of our blacks who is achieving rather than just being complacent, and after reading this article you can readily see that he could very easily adopt this attitude if he so desired, but fortunately for the good of mankind there are still some dedicated persons around to work toward the accomplishments we desperately need.

Black Writers Meet At Coe

by Charles I. Bryant

Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, hosted the Midwest Black Writer's Conference.

Ethleridge Knight of Indianapolis, Ind., was one of the participants in a four day conference Oct. 10-14. "In a country that alienates people, art, and religion, should be means of bringing people together to a kind of wholeness," Knight said.

Hoyt Fuller, the Editor of Black World magazine, spoke on the subject of the Black critic.

"The Enemies of Black literature are college professors and English teachers," Fuller said. "Black writers need black critics. White critics cannot judge black literature because the white culture was developed from Western culture," he continued. "Understanding in New Black poetry is the topic of the first book written to assist in the development of the black critics."

Mr. Fuller gave guide lines for those poets who are submitting poems to Black World Magazine. The guide lines are as follows: (1) Poem should be honest, (2) based on black experience, (3) how well presented, (4) the feeling of the poetry, (5) the quality, (6) the direction of the poems. If the black writer follows the basic mentioned criteria, he or she should well be on their way to being a published writer.

Mark Johnson is coordinating the program which is being sponsored by M Wendo Coe's Black Literary magazine. The conference is the first of its kind in the Midwest.

LET'S TAKE A LOOK AT THE INNER CITY PARISH, an unusual and active part of our community. I talked with Rev. R. C. Pfaltzgraff, whose roots are in this area. He graduated from Hubbard High School, which he says is not far from the city from Edward Bayles comes from. He graduated in 1948 from Westmar College, Le Mars, Iowa. His father, now deceased, was a minister.

PFALTZGRAFF WAS DRAFTED into the army during World War II, and served in the Air Force for three years. Following discharge he returned to college and graduated in May of 1948, and married the following July. He and his wife went to graduate school. She taught school. He graduated from Evangelical Theological Seminary, Naperville, Illinois. He graduated in 1951 and was then assigned to his first church, a rural church called Iowa City Sharon about 10 miles southwest of Iowa City. He was there until assigned to Waterloo, Calvary in 1957. He was there until he was assigned by Bishop James S. Thomas here to the Inner City Parish of the United Methodist Church in June of 1971.

HIS FAMILY CONSISTS OF 5 children: Tamie, a senior at Westmar College; in elementary education, who will graduate next Spring. She is a Japanese whom they adopted when she was 8 years old, in Japan; Peter 19, an adopted child, who is a sophomore at Westmar; John, 16, an 11th grader at Hoover High School; James 13, a 7th grader; Ann 12, a 6th grader at Woodlawn. She is an adopted Korean.

LAST YEAR THEY HAD TWO AFRICAN students living with them. They have gone to graduate school. They have had two other Africans at the University of Iowa. They are graduate students.

LAST SUNDAY, his nephew, Philip Pfaltzgraff, a teacher at Brody Junior High School, was in charge of Men's Day at Burn's.

Rev. Pfaltzgraff and Rev. Henry Bevel divide the responsibilities of pastoring the three Inner City Parishes: Burn's, Trinity and Gatchell. For example the hours at this time was 9:30 for Trinity; 10:30 at Gatchell and 11:30 for Burn's. When one preaches, the other performs the supporting duties of the service. Rev. Bevel goes to the hospitals Monday, Wednesday and Friday. He goes on the alternate days.

THE TWO PASTORS OPERATE A FREE breakfast

program at Trinity, Cottage Grove Presbyterian; Fort Des Moines Presbyterian and at Boys' Club. The office for the whole pastorage is at Trinity Church and all phones are jumpered into the Trinity Office. They share a secretary there. They have a tutoring program. They have Harold Winston, who directs this work. Winston recruits tutors and lines them up on a 1 to 1 basis. Winston also trains volunteers for the schools. He has them in 5 schools.

MISS PATTI STRINGER IS UNDER ASSIGNMENT by the Board of Missions of the United Methodist Church. She is called a community worker. Mrs. Clarence Dean is the secretary.

THE TWO PASTORS run a transportation program for senior citizens, doing such errands as someone needing to go to Broadlawn to the Clinic. They run an emergency food program. The people in the parish contribute to the communion fund which they use to feed the hungry, many of whom are referred by the Welfare. They work closely with Mrs. Joeanna Cheatom, who refers people. They help her Center at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

REV. HENRY BEVEL is the other pastor working with Rev. Pfaltzgraff in the Inner City Parish. He attended Kentucky State College '56 to '59 when he graduated. Between '59 and '60 he did graduate work at the University of Kentucky, and did his seminary work at the Lexington Theological Seminary 1968-'71. He came to Iowa in '71, and was assigned associate pastor for the Inner City Parish.

BEFORE ENTERING THE MINISTRY, he was teacher and coach at Danville, Kentucky. He was the only Black male in the Danville School System, at the time of his resignation.

REV. BEVEL IS MARRIED TO THE FORMER SHELVEY ANN WILLIAMS, of Glasgow, Kentucky. They have three children: Jerome, 14; Walt, 11; and Roxanna, 2.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, REV. BEVEL is a part time instructor at Drake University. He is teaching a course in Afro American Religion.

HE SAYS OF HIS WORK WITH REV. PFALTZGRAFF that "we are a complete team. There has to be somebody in charge. He is the oldest man and he is in charge. We have total freedom in each of our undertakings. Any problems we try to solve together. We play golf together and play with other players of our churches and others.

Interdenominational Minister's Wives Association Meeting

The Interdenominational Minister's Wives Association met Thursday night at 7 o'clock p.m. October 18th for business of importance, at Bethel A.M.E. Church parsonage.

The meeting was called to order and presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. Myriel Lean Johnson, wife of the pastor of Bethel, Rev. Ivan J. Johnson.

The meeting was well attended and all the members left in good spirits, with a dedicated heart to stay together and work hard in the absence of our president, Mrs. Myrtilla Jefferson. Mrs. Jefferson has been unable to fulfill her duties as president of the association because of the serious illness of her husband, the Reverend Lester Jefferson.

A tasty repast was served by Mrs. Johnson, the hostess. The next meeting is called for the 3rd Thursday of November of 1973, at Mt. Hebron Baptist Church in West Des Moines.

ORCHARD PLACE TO RECEIVE PLAQUE

The Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network has been notified that its production "Orchard Place" will be the recipient of the CHRIS BRONZE PLAQUE AWARD at the 21st Annual Columbus Film Festival Award Banquet, October 25, in Columbus, Ohio.

The documentary depicts the story of four children who live at Orchard Place, a residential-treatment center for emotionally disturbed children. Emmy winning producer-writer John Beyer followed the daily routine of the four children and their interactions with the staff of the Des Moines facility. Often touching the sensitivity of the children, "Orchard Place" relates the very real problems of very real children who cannot deal with reality.

Afro-Baptism

The most Rev. M.J. Dingman of Des Moines performed a most solemn baptism for a Black brother, Uzoamaka Leonard Ohaebosim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linus Ohaebosim who are Nigerian citizens living in Des Moines while Mr. Ohaebosim works on an advanced degree in medicine. The baptism took place at St. Ambrose Cathedral, 6th & High Sts. in Des Moines.

Dr. Ohaebosim appeared in his national costume, generally called an "Agbada". The brown costume was hand-made with a gorgeous embroidery around the chest and neck. The hat he wore was also hand-made. Similarly, Mrs. Ohaebosim wore her own national costume composed of

Mrs. Lela Parker has recently returned home from a visit with relatives in Arkansas, her former home. While in Malvern, Ark. Mrs. Parker was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Mayme Tyler. She received many social courtesies. The greatest thrill of all she said, was attending the church which she helped to build many years ago. She found it more beautiful than she had remembered, with a brand new interior. She said it was also interesting to see the progress that Blacks had made such as successful business establishments, participation in civic affairs and attractively modern homes. Mrs. Parker visited many Arkansas cities, among them, Little Rock and Hot Springs. She found people to be friendly and hospitable, with a desire to make her trip an enjoyable one.

INTRODUCING NEWS IN THE MOTHER TONGUE

For Black people, the mother tongue is the same all over the country. It's the unique way we have of expressing ourselves. That's one of the reasons the National Black Network saw the need for a national Black news service.

What do we call Black news? It's simply news reported by Black people, edited by Black people, and affecting the lives of Black people.

That's the National Black Network—a vital communications link between Black communities everywhere.

It's a bet that when you listen to an NBN station, you'll know where it's coming from. After all, it's carrying your news.

retrospect

by Allen Ashby

You sit there in the Iowa Stadium and try your damndest to find something to write about. What do you write about a team that has lost six straight? Do you pick out the black players? That wouldn't be right because everybody on that ball club gave it all he had. They just didn't get any breaks when they needed them, and the Gophers were just too tough. Maybe they will do all right against Illinois. They have to win at least one game. One writer hit it on the head when he said that they were the victims of suicide scheduling. Who else plays their first three games against the top ranked teams in the country? Can't blame the coach for exploding, but that won't help much, even if it does make him feel better. Maybe the team will get so charged up that they will really tear somebody apart.

Iowa State is getting into just about the same box as Iowa University. I watched the films of their game with K State, and thought they should have put the game away a lot of times. I would guess from where I sit that they don't gamble enough probably because they have a good field goal kicker. Inside the twenty yard line with fourth down and less than a yard, or even a yard, I don't think I would try for three points. That is the professional thinking, that you don't come away from the goal line without some kind of a score, but I can't see why a fellow couldn't take a chance at least one third or maybe half of the time. If you don't make it, your opponents are still backed against their goal line instead of having the ball on their twenty yard line. Maybe they'll let me coach 'em and then they could run me out of town if or when my strategy backfired. As a coach said once, "win a few and they build you a house and name a street after you. Lose too many or the wrong ones, and they burn down the house and chase you down that street."

One thing Drake has proved is the versatility of Ken Furgeson. He has played just about every offensive position in the Bulldog backfield, and hasn't looked bad in any of them, even if they don't beat anybody. If all star teams picked a utility man, Furgeson would be my man. But, one of the three major teams ought to win one pretty soon, don't you think?

Our North High boy said that the North-Tech game was a beautifully officiated game. He said that was because they were playing each other and nobody cared much who won, except the student bodies. He says the same thing happens in basketball. The North-Tech game is always well officiated, but both teams have problems when they play the other schools. Do you suppose he is trying to tell me something? I will have to check out these things for myself before I can say too much about them. Dowling wouldn't let my prediction come true, Lincoln tried, but that Maroon defense was too tough. The Dowling theory is if you don't score, you can't beat them, and if you don't get the ball much, you sure ain't gonna score. That has been their game all season, and it looks like they will make it to the playoffs again. A fellow gave me a rundown on the team, and he says it isn't really as good as last year's club, but how can you tell when they win all of their games. Time was when the East-North game was the game of the year, but now it is just another football game to most of the people but the pupils. There is still a merry scramble for the rest of the spots in the standings.

Did your team win the series? I really didn't have a favorite club, and didn't know who to root for because they both had some brothers on their clubs in key spots. But, no matter, whoever lost would take home more than a lot of us earn in a year, so there couldn't have been too much pressure as far as money was concerned. The biggest pressure point was the pride of the clubs.

SCARY

It was fun being scared when we were young. That is, when we wanted to be scared.

As we grow older, though, being frightened isn't nearly so much fun. About anything.

That's one nice thing about having a regular savings program at Home Federal.

It chases away a lot of fears.
