Civil Rights Commission Has New Executive Director

NNPA Asks For $6,500,000

Washington, D.C. (NNPA) — The National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA), through its executive director, Sherman Briscoe, asked the Corporation for Public Broadcasting last week for an annual allotment of $6,500,000 for Black Journal, Soul, black-oriented colleges, civil rights, and service organizations.

The request represents 10 times the amount now being allotted to black programming by CPB out of its $65 million budget.

Briscoe was among a half dozen speakers who testified before CPB in behalf of more black programming. Among the others were: Rev. Jesse Jackson, president of PUSH (People United to Save Humanity); Tony Brown, dean of Howard University's school of communications and producer of Black Journal; and James D. Williams, communications director of the National Urban League.

Reverend Jackson pressed for across-the-board improvement in the relationship of public broadcasting with the black community. This includes programming, employment and upgrading of blacks, and other facets of station operations.

Dean Brown accused CPB of failing to meet its commitment to the black community and of being insensitive to its program needs. He cited how Black Journal has attempted to meet these needs, only to be penalized by CPB fund reductions. He vigorously demanded a restoration of cut funds and an expansion of his budget.

Williams reviewed the longtime support of the Urban League of increased black programming on both public and commercial media. He urged the allocation of more funds for Black Journal, Soul, and other productions.

Briscoe told CPB directors that NNPA member publishers think it is appalling that they would allot a mere $650,000-a-year to black programming out of its $65 million budget. Then he asked for $6,500,000 to be allocated to Black Journal, Soul, black-oriented colleges to promote higher education for black students, and to civil rights organizations, and service groups to present programs which clarify their own objectives and translate the black experience for the television audience.

Last week for the first time in its history, the CPB directors opened their meeting to the public for its views and comments. About 40 organizations responded either with verbal comments or written statements.

Annual Conference

The Iowa Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (IACLD) will hold its third annual conference at the Hotel Fort Des Moines Friday, November 30 and Saturday, December 1.

The program on Friday will feature workshops during the day and a banquet and address in the evening. The Saturday program will also feature workshop sessions and will be highlighted by a luncheon address.

The Friday evening banquet address will be made by Alice Cary Thompson, Ph.D. She is Professor of Psychology at California State University, Los Angeles. The Saturday luncheon address will be presented by Sylvia Richardson, M.D. Dr. Richardson is Associate Clinical Professor of Pediatrics in the College of Medicine at the University of Cincinnati.

Mrs. John W. Carr, of 2819-48th Street in Des Moines, is registration chairman for the conference. She may be contacted for further information and for registration materials at 277-4266. Mrs. Carr is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Joint County School System of Polk and Story Counties.

JOSEPH L. TATE

Joseph L. Tate, the new Executive Director of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, appeared at a press conference Nov. 14th with an optimistic attitude towards the progress he expects the Commission to make in the very near future.

Mr. Tate brings to the Iowa Civil Rights Commission the ability to deal with administrative procedures and policies and the ability to systematically dispose of the backlog of cases on hand, said to be the Commission's most critical problem. He stated that his number one priority is the recruiting of competent staff members, capable of implementing affirmative action programs. The replacement of some of the previous staff members was a move to insure Mr. Tate of his right to select people he feels to be compatible with the new direction of the commission. He expects the case backlog to be completed within six month's time, barring no unforeseen complications.

The city of Des Moines along with the state of Iowa, welcomes Mr. Tate and his family. We hope they'll find their lives to be pleasant and fruitful.

Wes Chapman

By Dec. 1, 1973, the Dept. of Intercultural Affairs along with the Des Moines School Board hope to have a newly established Advisory Committee to Intercultural Affairs operational.

According to Mr. Wesley Chapman, Coordinator of Intercultural Affairs for the Des Moines School District, the committee will advise and consult with the department as to all alternatives to its present practices which would constructively contribute to the further development of the Voluntary Transfer Program and integrated education in the Des Moines School District.

In 1968, a similar committee was appointed, but the Equal Education Opportunity Committee became bogged down with affairs concerning only the central city. The newly appointed committee hopes to avoid this, and members will be representative of the whole city; that is, they will be concerned on a district-wide basis.

Organizations to be represented on the committee include, the Chamber of Commerce, Iowa Civil Rights Commission, Community Concerns, A.F.T., American Indian Center, Spanish-Speaking Center, Metro Transit Authority, Inter-City Student Council and the Minority Contractors' Assoc.

Representatives from each school participating in the Voluntary Transfer program will be on the committee as well.

Mr. Chapman feels optimistic about the committee. Desegregation is often an emotional question, and input from the total community appears to be the most valid approach.

The committee was approved by the Des Moines School Board on Nov. 6, 1973.

IEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

Criticism of Small Business Administration

The General Accounting Office in a sampling of three cities reports that a majority of the loans made to minorities by the Small Business Administration were failures.

The statement says: of the 443 minority owned firms included in its sample, GAO classified 27 per cent as failures, about 25 per cent as probable failures, about 31 per cent as probable successes and about 17 per cent as indeterminable.

This is no surprise to those who have been acquainted with the manner in which the SBA works. Undoubtedly, the system has merit and has done much good.

One difficulty is that a majority of these businesses do not have sufficient capital to sustain themselves during the early period of their undertaking. They have been expected to make money the day the business is opened. This is too much to expect.

Again often loans are made to people who have little knowledge of how to run the business they are undertaking. And while volunteers are available to advise them, those I have observed seem unable to contribute much to the solution of this problem.

Of course, like in Des Moines, white as well as minority businesses have fallen flat in some instances. But this is no reason why strict business practices rather than charitable sentimentality should not prevail in the operation of the system.

We All Dress About The Same

People who believe in separatism often get a big play in news media when they champion anything that adds to it. Recently a syndicated article appeared in the press arguing that blacks needed soul clothes.

Sure, young people, black and white, are wearing clothes that appear ridiculous and seem to like it. On the other hand, blacks and whites wear the same accepted clothes and styles at work or at formal parties.

Demond Wilson (stage name Lamont Sanford), of Sanford & Son, remarked on the Johnny Carson show that as a boy growing up in New York City, he never thought the time would come when he would be wearing clothes made by Brooks Brothers, the famous tailors in downtown New York City who have made clothes for the rich and prosperous over the years. I doubt that Ed Podolack, former Iowa football star and now a member of the Kansas City Chiefs football team, who comes from ordinary status, ever dreamed that he would be wearing Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes and advertising them on television. It only shows that we finally join the company of those who do well at their undertaking whether as an ordinary laborer or mechanic or professional man.

Iowa Exhibition At Art Center

An exhibition comprised of works from private and corporate collections throughout the state will open at the Art Center on November 13.

This exhibition will not include works by artists associated with the state but will concentrate on those areas in which the Art Center itself collects, viz., European and American paintings and sculptures of the past two centuries, prints from all periods, and the traditional arts of so-called primitive cultures.

Works have been collected from more than 50 collections by Director James Demetron with works coming from Ames, Burlington, Cedar Falls, Cedar Rapids, Council Bluffs, Davenport, Dubuque, Des Moines, Iowa City, Marshalltown, Sioux City and West Des Moines.

The exhibition is partially funded by a grant from the Iowa Arts Council.

A gallery talk on the exhibition will be given on Friday afternoon, November 16 by Peggy Patrick.

"Iowa Collects" continues through Christmas Day.

Graves To Receive Degree

Baltimore, Md. — Earl G. Graves, a 1958 graduate of Morgan State College and publisher of Black Enterprise magazine, will receive the honorary Doctor of Laws degree in ceremonies during the Annual Founders' Day Convocation at Morgan State College on Monday, November 12.

The 38-year old Black publisher heads more than five corporations, including Earl Graves, Limited, and the Earl G. Graves Publishing Company, Inc., which publishes the Black Enterprise Magazine, a how-to-succeed magazine designed to help Black businessmen and women.

Gateway Aspirant

KEN WARREN: One of Des Moines' most active and widely known personalities will be making his bid to serve our community in a way that we can't refuse. Ken is a candidate for the GATEWAY OPPORTUNITY CENTER BOARD. Mr. Warren brings to this board an impressive background related to people-oriented programs.

Ken has been a resident of Des Moines for 10 years, has been a volunteer worker for Head Start and Woodland Center, Coordinator of Expanded Use of School Facilities, Job Developer for Occupational Upgrading, Treasurer and Executive Board member of Des Moines Minority Contractors' Assoc., Secretary of Midwest Region VII Minority Contractors' Assoc., Board member for New Horizon Program, and Reporter for the New Iowa Bystander.

When asked his reasons for seeking the Board post, Ken replied, "I am vitally interested in community affairs, and if elected, I will work for more involvement of Gateway Center in the social areas of our community including involvement of our youth."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am an inmate here at the London, Ohio Correctional Institution in London, Ohio. I would like for you to place my name and address in your Editorial section. I am seeking Black brothers or sisters to correspond with. I don't get mail from the outside and I am very lonely without some kind of word from the outside. I prefer females from 30 to 50 years, mature and ladylike in all respects, or males.

Thank-you

YOU CAN DO IT TOO

New York, ... "The House of Gemini", a new black greeting card firm, announced that the F.W. Woolworth Co., in a continuing program of assisting minority-owned businesses, has agreed to merchandise greeting cards produced by the firm.

John Sawyer, Woolworth's Greeting Card Buyer, said that the cards will be featured in an initial 200 stores throughout the country and will be available for national distribution in February 1974. The cards will retail at 35 cents to 50 cents each with a package of ten cards priced at 89 cents.

"The House of Gemini" is a New York-based firm whose president, Jill Gomez Knight, is the major designer, assisted in her efforts by her husband Harper, executive vice president of the company.

Southern Elections, U.S. Compliance

Rep. Julian Bond, Chairman of the Board of the Southern Elections Fund, Inc., today announced that SEF has joined the National Organizations Drive to Restore U.S. Compliance with United Nations Sanctions against Rhodesia.

Rep. Bond stated, "Just as SEF cannot — in this country — sit idly by and thus participate in the disenfranchisement of the poor, black and other minorities, neither can it stand silently aside while our government provides economic support for the suppression of the rights of the 95 percent of Rhodesia's population which is African."

SEP therefore endorses and supports the following statement:

We call on Congress to restore U.S. sanctions against Rhodesia to renew our country's adherence to international law and our United Nations treaty obligations

We call for the restoration of sanctions because of our support for majority rule in Rhodesia. Since 1971 imports from Rhodesia in violation of sanctions have given economic and political aid to an illegal regime which is based on the disenfranchisement of the 95 percent African majority and discriminatory social and economic laws parallel to apartheid in South Africa.

Advocates of imports from Rhodesia have argued that these contribute to national defense by lessening imports of chrome ore from the Soviet Union. But these Soviet imports have actually remained at the same level. And the U.S. stockpile of chrome ore is so much in excess of projected needs that the administration has submitted legislation to sell off the unneeded reserves.

The breaking sanctions

"Before The Bar/ Behind The Bars"

On Dec. 7, 8 & 9, 1973, the National Conference of Black Lawyers will hold their annual meeting in Chicago, Illinois. This year's theme will be "Before the Bar/ Behind the Bars", and will address itself to the special role of members of the Black Bar. Additional information may be acquired by calling the National Office at (212) 866-3501.

against Rhodesia is threatening U.S. jobs. The U.S. Ferroalloys Association announced in May that 19 ferrochrome plants in the U.S. are endangered by the surge in imports from Rhodesia and South Africa, where production costs are cut because of conditions of forced labor and special subsidies

FOR THESE REASONS WE SUPPORT THE BI-PARTISAN GROUP OF 31 SENATORS AND 109 REPRESENTATIVES CO-SPONSORING BILLS S. 1868 (Senate) And H.R. 8005 (House of Representatives) TO AMEND THE UNITED NATIONS PARTICIPATION ACT OF 1945 TO RESTORE SANCTIONS AGAINST RHODESIA.

"We also call upon other concerned individuals and organizations to join in support of this important action that serves to promote the cause of human rights and human decency," urged Bond.

TV HEALTH SERIES FOR ADULTS ANNOUNCED

A major new prime time TV series on health designed for an adult audience is being developed by the Children's Television Workshop, creators of "Sesame Street," and will premiere on the nation's 240 public broadcasting stations beginning in the fall of 1974.

Joan Ganz Cooney, president of the Workshop, said today (11/13) that a total of 26 original, hour-long programs will be created for the series' first experimental season, providing practical health information in an entertaining and instructional form.

She described the series — which is budgeted through its first season at $7 million for research, development and production phases — as "the most ambitious attempt yet to use television on a regular basis to convey health information."

The program is expected to be shown during early evening viewing hours and may be repeated once or twice during the same week at different times to reach the widest possible audience. Special community level followup projects and nationwide distribution of program-related printed materials will supplement the weekly video message, Mrs. Cooney said today in a briefing at the National Association of Educational Broadcasters' annual meeting in New Orleans.

New Child Support Law

WASHINGTON, D.C. (C), NMS, 1973) — Fathers who traditionally fail to support their children but earn incomes to spend elsewhere will soon have state and federal authorities to contend with.

Current federal proposals would make it mandatory that the government take the responsibility for forcing absent fathers contribute to the support of their children, if the children are eligible for welfare checks.

The measure would put the federal government's resources, legal and otherwise, to work to attain that end.

One such measure would require welfare recipients to assign their support rights to the federal government, which would in turn collect. Another would provide criminal sanctions, including a $1,000 fine, one year in prison, or a penalty of up to 50 percent of support payments owed, for failure to make regular and timely support payments.

And another would create a $75 million fund for the support of children who have been deserted by fathers. The government would treat welfare payments to families as a debt owed by the father and would collect, charging 8 percent interest.

Health, Education and Welfare secretary Casper W. Weinberger is against the proposals and recommended instead that the congress strengthen incentives to state governments to crack down on fathers who refuse to contribute to their children's support.

By withholding federal aid to states without, who fail to crackdown, "they (states) will get interested very quickly," Weinberger said.

A number of Congressmen agree with federal enforcement because local authorities are reluctant to enforce child support laws since it is politically unpopular.

The federal government could process complaints against deserting fathers, utilizing its resources of the Internal Revenue Service. Whenever an absent parent had social security or federal tax withheld, "revenue" would have a direct line to his paycheck.

MISSISSIPPI BOYCOTT SUIT POSES PROBLEMS FOR NAACP

Jackson, Miss. — After nearly four months, the record-long trial of a $3.5 million damage suit against the NAACP that grew out of a boycott against merchants in a small Mississippi community appears just past the halfway mark. The judge, graciously accommodating to the complainants, has set aside the rest of the year on the court calendar for trial of the case.

The prolonging of the trial could be financially disastrous for the NAACP and represents a strategic triumph for the enemies of the civil rights organization. The suit recalls earlier efforts by southern states, most notably Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Virginia, Texas and, again Mississippi, to cripple the NAACP in that region.

If complainants win, the NAACP would be faced with either paying the assessed damages or meeting the astronomical costs of appeal. Neither alternative is encouraging.

The cost of the transcripts covering the daily trial over a six-month period could be upwards of $50,000, NAACP lawyers estimate.

Witnesses must also be paid for their time and travel expenses. By all indications, the attorneys for the complainants seemed bent on calling to the stand as adverse witnesses all 149 of the people who are also being sued. These people allegedly, were involved in the boycott and theoretically are supposed to be friends of the Association.

All of these persons live outside Hinds County, where the case is being tried, and must therefore journey sixty or more miles to Jackson to appear in court. Often, many of them spend two or more days waiting to be called and then another day on the witness stand.

Under Mississippi law, the NAACP would also be required to post bond equivalent to two and one-half times the judgment plus pay court costs.

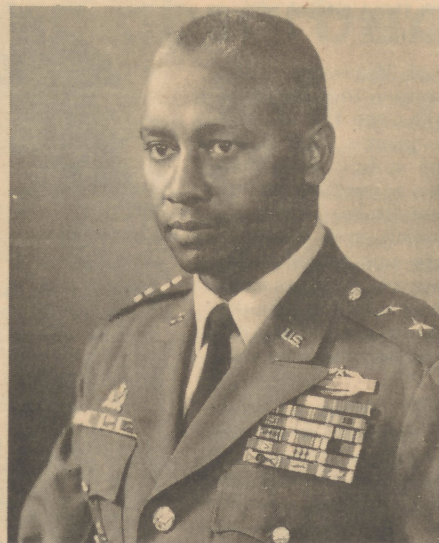

Attorney fees and time have also been costly. The NAACP is represented by two attorneys, one of whom is Associate Counsel for the NAACP in the National Office. He is remaining in Jackson for the duration of the trial.

The other is Attorney Jack Young of Jackson.

Alix Sanders, staff attorney for the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under the Law, represents the individual defendants.

The boycott at issue began on April 1, 1966, in Port Gibson, a small town southwest of Jackson in Claiborne County. It was called by local NAACP leaders after merchants and governmental officials, who were all white, ignored the list of grievances that the then politically impotent blacks had submitted.

During the initial three years, several merchants relented to the pressure and hired a few black workers. But the boycott never really took full effect until after April 18, 1969, when the local police fatally shot a black boy and the state police riddled

MILITARY DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
Major Davison

Major General Frederic E. Davison, the U.S. Army's ranking black general officer will assume command of the U.S. Army Military District of Washington November 12, 1973. Assumption of command ceremonies are open to the public and will be held at 9:30 a.m. on the Parade Ground at Fort McNair, Washington, D.C.

General Davison, 56, was born in Washington, DC and is a graduate of Howard University. He is the first black general officer to command an Army division and the first black to command the Military District of Washington.

the First Baptist Church, where the protesters were holding a mass meeting.

From then on the boycott was almost 100 per cent successful and it was enforced against even the stores that had hired black clerks. Allegedly, several white stores went out of business permanently as a consequence.

MINNESOTA INAUGURATES ETHNIC STUDIES

The state of Minnesota is the first in the nation to inaugurate an in-depth study of the nationality groups that have made up the state's population since 1850, according to an announcement by the Minnesota Historical Society in St. Paul.

The society announced today the beginning of the Minnesota Ethnic History Project, funded by matching grants from the Bush Foundation and the state legislature.

The project's staff which is under the supervision of the society's publications and research division, is headed by Dr. Carlton C. Qualey, research fellow at the society and emeritus professor of history, Carleton College. Dr. Qualey is a recognized scholar and author of several works in the field of immigration studies.

The Minnesota Ethnic History Project is expected to run at least two years. Its goals are to produce an interpretive and factual history of the ethnic elements, both foreign-born and native-born, in the population of Minnesota since 1850. "For the first time in Minnesota, in fact in any state, there will be provided solid information as to the numbers, activities, influence, contributions, and survival of all the elements that have made up the people of Minnesota," Dr. Qualey said.

He noted that the project will need widespread co-operation, especially from those who possess letters, diaries, journals, reminiscences, or other material bearing on the subject. All inquiries and information should be directed to Dr. Qualey at the Minnesota Ethnic History Project, Minnesota Historical Society, 690 Cedar Street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, or telephone 296-5662.

RECOLLECTIONS — Mrs. Mae Murray listens intently as I.C. "Mr. Mac" McAllister brings the past to life. Both members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Fort Worth, Tex., they are participating in an oral history program of the city's public library.

Compiling History Of Blacks In Texas

Fort Worth, Tex. — With cassette tapes and help from ACTION'S Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), the Fort Worth Public Library is slowly building a history of blacks in Texas from the Depression era to the present.

The results — a living chronicle of remembered hardship compounded by discrimination, of political observations and comparisons to life today — are being transcribed and entered into the library's archives.

These beginning records of blacks, the only source of local black history available in the library, are developing within a larger oral history program sponsored by the library with federal funds. Through the larger program, the library is attempting to broadly document events and effects of the Depression upon Fort Worth's general population with information gained from personal interviews.

"We have discovered we have a sad lack of any sort of documented material on black history," said Mrs. Patricia Chadwell, head of the library's Southwest genealogy department. "In fact, prior to the 1950's, even the newspapers reported only black crime."

Working to uncover nearly forgotten difficulties and accomplishments of the city's black people, three RSVP volunteers, all over 60, are using tape recorders to interview friends and contemporaries throughout the area. And, at the same time, three other RSVP volunteers are part of ACTION's national Retired Senior Volunteer Program, operated locally by the Tarrant County Community Council.

RSVP offers retired men and women age 60 and over an opportunity to develop a recognized role in the community and a meaningful life in retirement through significant volunteer service.

In Fort Worth, RSVP interviewers first contribute their own reminiscences, then question others.

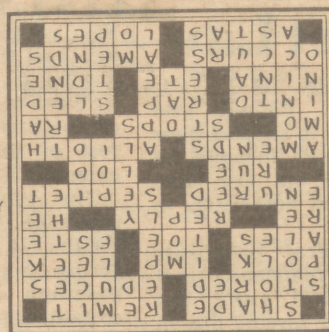

"I think our program is unique," Mrs. Chadwell said. "We are using amateur historians to collect material which is vital to understanding Fort Worth today. We hope to create a new resource and stimulate interest in unearthing more material."

"Our program will snowball," she said, "as soon as people become aware of what we are doing. In the meantime, we need more volunteers to interview our older citizens, and more older citizens willing to share their memories."

TIPS ON TUBS

Making an old fiber glass bathtub or shower stall look like new can be as easy as polishing furniture.

Start by removing built up dirt and grime with any popular liquid detergent-full strength from the bottle -- rubbing with a sponge. Non-abrasive scouring pads made of nylon, saran or polyethylene can be used sparingly for hard-to-remove stains.

As a last resort, turpentine or paint thinner should remove persistent spots. Be sure to follow safety directions on the container and use these volatile materials only in well ventilated areas away from open flame.

Never use metal scouring pads or abrasive powders. They will remove the protective coating on fiber glass fixtures.

Once the surface is thoroughly clean, the original luster of fiber glass can be restored with a light application of automobile wax, liquid or paste. Since a waxed surface can be slippery when wet, do not wax areas used for standing.

To maintain the luster of a new or restored fiber glass bathtub, never use anything stronger than a mild liquid detergent for regular cleaning.

Stanley statewide program starts

Dave Stanley (Republican, Muscatine), candidate for U.S. Senator, has begun a statewide "Tell Your Candidate", door-to-door program. Stanley will visit 2,000 Iowa homes to ask Iowans for their opinions on national issues.

Stanley announced, "I'll personally talk with a cross-section of Iowans to ask you what problems you want your next Senator to work on. I'll knock on doors in all 99 counties, urban and rural."

"I've already made 'Tell Your Candidate' visits to more than 100 homes in four counties, and the response is great", Stanley said. "Many people are surprised and pleased when a Senate candidate comes to their door and asks their opinions."

Stanley explained, "We're doing these door-to-door visits a year before the election because this is no last-minute publicity gimmick. I need to know what Iowans are concerned about and share your concerns. Your comments will help me focus on the problems which are most important to most Iowans, and will help me represent you, if you give me the privilege of working for you in the Senate".

Stanley added, "Our campaign is open and frank. I'll listen to you and level with you. The most honest way to campaign is old fashioned, face-to-face discussion. You can ask me questions, get straight answers, and know you're hearing Dave Stanley personally and not some speechwriter."

"Our person-to-person contact will continue after the election," Stanley said. As an Iowa legislator Stanley has developed a plan of regular public reports, open meetings and door-to-door visits to keep in touch with the people of his district.

Wayne Embry At Simpson

Indianola, Ia. — Wayne Embry, ex-professional basketball player and vice-president and general manager of the Milwaukee Bucks, will speak on "Mercenaries in Pro Basketball" at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13, in the Brenton Student Center at Simpson College.

Embry, the first black man ever to be named to the top managerial position of a major league professional team in any sport, became the Bucks' general manager last year after 11 years of playing pro basketball.

The program, sponsored by Simpson's College Activities Board, is open free to the public.

Hughes to give Jewish medal

Sunday evening, 8:00 p.m. at the Hotel Fort Des Moines, Senator Harold E. Hughes will be honored by the Israel Bond Organization. Mr. Harry Pomerantz, Chairman of the local Israel Bond Campaign, will present to Senator Hughes a medallion on behalf of the Israel Bond Organization and the Prime Minister of Israel, Golda

Meir.

As noted the medallion is "presented to the Honorable Harold E. Hughes United States Senator from Iowa in appreciation of his sympathetic understanding of the struggle of the people of Israel for survival and peace" and "for service in the cause of Israel's development".

Also on the program will be Rabbi Jay B. Goldberg of Temple B'nai Jeshurun and Reverend James Lenhart of Plymouth Church.

There will be an informal reception for the Senator following the program and opportunities for those who wish to purchase Israel Bonds.

The public is cordially invited.

Quote Of The Week

Unemployment VS. Investing

Capital gains (the profit made from investments) create jobs. It now takes over $25,000 of capital to create a single new job. With an average of

1.4 million workers entering the labor force each year, industry needs investors. Unless capital gains tax laws are equitable (and people are taxed fairly for taking risks with their long-term investments) the small stockholder will lose his incentive to invest, and industry will lose job-creating funds. Z

Athena absorbed

James M. Hoak, president of Heritage Communications, Inc., announced today that Heritage has acquired the minority interest of Athena Cablevision Corporation in Hawkeye Cablevision, Inc. Hawkeye Cablevision is the holder of the cable television franchises for Des Moines, West Des Moines, Clive, Windsor Heights, Ankeny, and Urbandale, Iowa. Operations have begun in Urbandale, and construction is underway in the remaining cities.

Control of Athena was sold recently by Gulf & Western Industries, Inc., to Tele-Communications, Inc., Denver, Colorado, and this change in control was apparently responsible for Athena's decision to forego their participation in Hawkeye Cablevision.

Hoak said, "The people at TCI who now run Athena told us that they were unable to continue in Des Moines because of the many other financial commitments that Athena has."

"With the current tight markets for financing, our industry is undergoing a severe change, and apparently the TCI management felt that their participation in Des Moines was no longer attractive to them. We very much regret Athena's decision because we had developed a good working relationship, but the new owners seem to have set Athena on a new course," Hoak said.

Prior to terminating their relationship with Hawkeye Cablevision, Athena engineers had completed the design and construction work requested by the Des Moines City Council. Decisions as to system lay-out, equipment, and contractors have been made, and construction is proceeding in an orderly manner.

Hoak also announced today that Heritage is negotiating to purchase the minority interest of Cox Cable Communications Inc., in Hawkeye Cablevision. Cox is considering selling their interest for essentially the same reasons as Athena—the unsettled status of the money markets and their commitments elsewhere. If this transaction is completed, Heritage Communications will own 100 per cent of Hawkeye Cablevision.

Hoak said: "We can understand the decisions by our partners to devote their resources to other areas, and while we appreciate their past, invaluable assistance and regret their loss for the future, we are anxious, able, and willing to complete this project."

New manager at Dial office

David D. Mott will assume management of the Dial Finance office located at 1648 Twenty-second Street, effective immediately, according to Richard S. Levitt, president.

Mott has been with Dial since 1971 and is being promoted from assistant manager of one of the company's offices. He and his wife, Trudy, have one child.

Dial, a consumer finance company with total receivables outstanding in excess of $335 million, operates 442 offices, with six offices in the Des Moines area.

Round the City

By Ken Warren

The election of the City Councilmen a few days ago redemonstrated the total sickness of our community. The returning to the council of a man who actively campaigned on degrading certain segments of the city constituency by referring to them as "nigger felons" reaffirms the lack of sensitivity and respect by the power structure of this city. Then they elected a gentleman who by his own admission feels he doesn't need the meager salary paid for his position. It makes me shudder to think of this person who has to be receptive to the plight of the poor people who comprise the largest segment of our city. This should demonstrate to the Black People of Des Moines that you are not regarded as important to the scheme or structure of this community. And if you are ever going to have representation in your local government, you are going to have to wage a bitter fight to secure this God given right.

The total breakdown in responsive government has seeped from the highest echelon down to the lowest levels of the present administration. The present official structures seem to care less whether the citizens have input into the decisions that effect their lives. The Black People of this city can no longer afford the luxury of complacency if they are to truly share in the growing economic structure of our community. For you who have not dealt with the word "complacency" it means self-satisfaction accompanied by unawareness of actual dangers or deficiencies. For once, take a long look into the mirrors of your being and determine where you are and also where you are going. Is your picture window job really as secure as you think? Have you seen some of your friends or associates ripped off in their employment and economic status? Have you condoned these rip-offs either intentionally or unintentionally by doing or saying nothing?

If when you answer the above questions there is an element of doubt or misgivings, then it's time to re-group and get it together, your s---, that is. If you are waiting for a modern day Moses to come and lead our people out of the wilderness, forget it because now you have to do it yourself. Will you join the struggle and be one of the Moses we need rather than day-dreaming about the day when we will all be GIVEN freedom. One last thing, please start today, don't wait until tomorrow! OK?

BLACK UNIONISTS URGE SUPPORT FOR ISRAEL

Leading black trade unionists from across the country have issued an appeal for the support of the State of Israel.

"We appeal to our government to provide Israel with whatever support it requires to defend itself in this hour of need," declared a statement published in The New York Times. This statement also called on "black Americans and all people of good will throughout the world to stand with Israel in its struggle to live and be free."

The statement, which was signed by 74 prominent black unionists, was sponsored by the A. Philip Randolph Institute. Among those signing the statement were A. Philip Randolph, the pioneer black trade union leader, and Frederick O'Neal, President of the Associated Actors and Artists, both of whom serve as vice presidents of the AFL-CIO.

The statement praises the "courage and determination of the Israeli people."

"The Israeli people have looked into the abyss of annihilation and has vowed never to permit itself to be destroyed. Mankind must never forget — never — the crime committed three decades ago when six million Jews were gassed and burned in Hitler's crematoria."

"As black Americans we have a special responsibility to recall this crime, for we have a special intimacy with the scourge of racism. We have no doubt whatsoever that the defeat of Israel in battle would mean the destruction of Israel as a state and the annihilation of its population. This must not happen."

In urging the United States to provide aid to Israel, the black unionists denounced "the irresponsible actions of the Soviet Union — which has armed, trained and is now inciting the Arab states."

In asking the Arab states to end their hostilities, the black unionists declared: "The Arab people will gain nothing from the continuation of this conflict but more death, suffering and deprivation. This tragedy will only end when the Arab states agree to sit down with Israel and negotiate a peace. When this happens, it will be a joyous day, not only for Jew and Arab, but for all mankind."

"It will also be a joyous day for blacks, whose fate is inseparably linked with the fate of Jews, as it is with the fate of all oppressed minorities. We have learned in our struggle for dignity and equality that no minority is safe if any minority is threatened, that democracy is not the special privilege of some people, but the inalienable right of all people."

Senator Clark reports

During this past year, our government has experienced unprecedented scandal — scandal that has thrown some of our most precious and fundamental principles of democracy into question and has triggered a massive loss of credibility in our political officials.

These kinds of things often seem less significant to us than more tangible crises like inflation, war in the Mid-East and fuel shortages, but they are no less critical.

If our government cannot inspire the confidence of its own people, then it cannot possibly bring inflation under control, nor can it have any hope of maintaining the international stature necessary to bring about world peace, or stability in the fuel situation.

The ultimate effect of these traumatic events on this country cannot yet be measured. There certainly must be a thorough review of our entire political system and there undoubtedly will be new laws — particularly in the area of campaign financing.

But the real answer lies essentially in the quality of our leadership. Few times in our history has this country experienced such a compelling need for firm and open leadership as now.

The majority of our officials have been stunned by the revelations of corruption within our government, and rightly so. Most have performed their duties in an honest and straightforward manner. Unfortunately, however, the few who have not have tainted all political officials.

Those of us who serve in elective office can argue that we are being unfairly accused, but that is of little avail unless it is accompanied by concrete action.

Confidence in government is a fragile item. It takes a long time to build, but it can be destroyed relatively quickly.

America cannot afford that. We need the strength of our people to back us up when we act, on both domestic and international fronts.

The only way we can get that strength is by trusting the people and giving them totally frank and honest government.

Biomedical Research

In the not-too-distant future, it is entirely possible that another George Washington Carver or a Charles R. Drew will emerge from the teeming congested streets of an American inner city ghetto — or from the Spartan surroundings of an Indian reservation — or from a community of drab adobe huts in the Southwest.

Fifty years ago, the possibility of the development of a brilliant biomedical researcher coming from an underprivileged and substandard living environment was rather remote.

However, today, the premise that an American Black, an American Indian, a Mexican-American, or any individual from any of the other so-called ethnic minority groups may rise to eventually conquer a dread disease is now a reality.

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has played a prominent role in conducting a federal effort to elevate the educational and health status of our ethnic minority population.

Most recently, the first federally-supported grant program designed specifically for biomedical research and research manpower development capability in predominantly ethnic minority student-enrolled institutions was launched. It is known as the Minority Biomedical Support (MBS) program.

The basic thrust of the MBS program, administered by the Division of Research Resources of the National Institutes of Health, is to strengthen the capabilities for biomedical research in those institutions having little or no activity in that area.

At Hampton Institute, Virginia, working under the MBS program, Carley Crain wrote his first scientific paper and presented it recently at a meeting of the National Institute of Science in Philadelphia. Crain comes from a large Black family in Wicomico, Virginia. He is the only member of the family to attend college. According to Dr. Robert D. Bonner, MBS program director, he shows remarkable potential for biomedical research.

John Lee Bradley is a full-blooded Cherokee Indian. His father works at a gas station and his mother is a nurse on an Indian reservation at Cherokee, North Carolina. Bradley had a junior college degree and has been employed by the National Park Service. He was urged to come to Southeastern State College in Durant, Oklahoma to continue his research development with assistance from the MBS program. The participation in the program has changed his life. He will graduate in May 1974 and continue on to medical school.

Currently, the MBS program involves 45 Black institutions, one predominantly American Indian college, one Hawaiian, two Puerto Rican, seven predominantly Mexican-American schools, and one college with large Black, Oriental, and Mexican-American enrollments.

The success of the new program was clearly apparent in April 1973 when over 300 scientists and undergraduates from participating schools convened in New Orleans for the First Annual Xavier University-Minority Biomedical Support Symposium. The participants represented 42 colleges from 18 states.

This gives heartening evidence that the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare is making progress in its concerted effort to open the biomedical research doors for the nation's ethnic minority population.

Questions and Answers

Q — I am on active duty with the Army and I plan to study law under the "Excess Leave Program." How do I apply so that I can receive Veterans Administration benefits?

A — Submit to the nearest Veterans Administration office VA Form 22-1990, Veterans' Application for Program of Education or Training, together with a certification of service and entry into the excess leave program signed by your commanding officer.

SCARY

It was fun being scared when we were young. That is, when we wanted to be scared.

As we grow older, though, being frightened isn't nearly so much fun. About anything.

That's one nice thing about having a regular savings program at Home Federal.

It chases away a lot of fears.

GUYANA BECOMING SELF-SUFFICIENT — Dr. Oliver M. R. Harper, right, Minister of Health of the Republic of Guyana, told a media luncheon group recently in Washington at the National Press Club that his country aims to achieve a large measure of self-sufficiency within the next few years. In addition to increased food production, Guyana expects to have a textile mill soon. ISEA Energy Crisis Statement

By Dr. Robert Creighton
ISEA President

Because of the seriousness and far reaching impact of the energy shortage we have asked Governor Ray to designate an "Energy Crisis Awareness Day" and to request that all Iowa schools, colleges and universities devote an entire day so designated to this issue. We have suggested to the Governor that the school "energy crisis awareness day" should be held sometime between now and December 11, 1973. On energy crisis awareness day we feel that all class activities at all grade levels should be devoted to the energy crisis. If the Governor takes this action we feel the school response would help students and their parents better understand the seriousness of this problem. This could result in the kind of energy conservation needed to get us through the winter. In the long run, we believe the solution to the energy shortage will require a change in life style to reduce the amount of individual energy consumption. Hopefully an energy crisis awareness day could be the first step needed to bring about this needed change in life style.

Governor Ray has already called for an educational campaign to inform people about the energy crisis. We support him and hope he will agree with us that an energy crisis awareness day is the best way of accomplishing this goal.

I would also like to take this opportunity to outline the ISEA position on possible school closings this winter. Some educators have suggested the possibility of closing school from December 14 to January 14. At this time ISEA is opposed to any action that would lengthen the school year beyond the date written into teaching contracts and approved by school boards. We believe running the school year into the summer would create havoc for students, school employees, parents of students and many youth related organizations whose activities coincide with the closing of school. Also, because many Iowa schools lack air conditioning we believe little education would take place if June temperatures turned out to be as hot as they sometimes are.

Some have suggested that it might be good to extend the school year in an effort to cut down on the number of families who normally take early summer vacations. We reject this view. We feel that education is the most important activity taking place in our communities and do not feel that students should be victimized by the anticipated energy crisis.

If it becomes obvious that it will be necessary for schools to cut down on their energy use, we believe that extending the school day and operating on a four-day week would be a better solution than closing school for a month during the winter. The school day could be extended. For example, classes could run from 8:10 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. This extension of 80 minutes could provide students with roughly the same amount of in-school education they now receive during a normal five-day week.

We believe the four-day schedule, plus other energy saving measures could cut school energy consumption by more than 20 percent a week. This amount of cutback should be sufficient if other segments of our communities follow this example.

Women:

Win Thanksgiving Dinner!

Irving Jr. High CCRAP is sponsoring a free program for women, called Women's World, on Monday, November 19, 6:30-9:00 p.m. at Irving School. Women attending will see a variety of timely displays, a fashion show, and have the chance to win doorprizes.

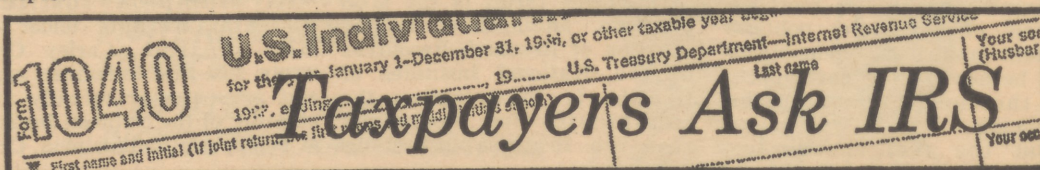

Displays will be set up in the Irving cafeteria from 6:30-8:00 p.m. Displays will include remodeled clothes, sewing tips, holiday foods, Christmas gifts & decorations to make, nutrition hints, and safety for women. Displays are being prepared by Polk Co. Nutrition Aides, the Area Extension office, Des Moines Police Community Relations Dept., Model City Library, and Irving CCRAP Homemaking staff.

The fashion show will be held in the Irving School auditorium at 8:00 p.m. It will feature people from the neighborhood wearing clothes they have made, remade, or chosen for themselves.

After the fashion show there will be a drawing for door prizes. Top door prize is a $25.00 gift certificate for groceries. Registration for the drawings will be in the Irving cafeteria anytime before 8:00 p.m.

Community Cultural & Recreational Activities Program (CCRAP) is a community education project jointly funded by Community Development and the Des Moines Public Schools. Lawrence Robinson is CCRAP coordinator at Irving. Donna Rusk & Justina Whiteside are the homemaking outreach staff for Irving CCRAP.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My daughter was married in August. Can I still claim her as a dependent for 1973?

A. Yes, under the following circumstances: 1) if she does not file a joint return with her husband for 1973; 2) if you furnish more than one-half of her total support for 1973; and 3) if she has gross income of less than $750 for the year. The $750 rule doesn't apply if she is under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student during some part of each of five months of 1973.

Q. Next January, I plan to give my nephew a new car as a wedding gift. The car is valued at more than $3,000, and I know I'll have to file a federal gift tax return. If I make the gift in January, will I have a whole year before I have to file a return?

A. No. A federal gift tax return (Form 709) is due by the 15th day of the second month following the close of the calendar quarter in which a gift is made. Thus, in the case of a gift made in January, February or March of 1974, a return is due by May 15, 1974.

Q. Are there any limits on how much interest I can deduct on a loan to purchase investment property?

A. Yes, but the limitation generally would not affect the average taxpayer. For tax years beginning after 1971, there is a limit of $25,000 ($12,500 for married persons filing separate returns) on the deduction of interest paid on a loan to purchase or carry property held for investment. For more details, see IRS Publication 550, "Tax Information on Investment Income and Expenses." It's available free from your nearest Internal Revenue office.

Q. I'm a building contractor. I gave my teen-age son a summer job as a laborer. Can I deduct the wages I paid him as a business expense?

A. Reasonable wages paid by a father to his minor child for personal services actually rendered as a bona fide employee in the course of a trade or business are deductible as a business expense. Wages paid to a child under 21 employed by a parent are subject to income tax withholding but not social security or federal unemployment taxes.

Attitudes & Services-Your Entertainment Dollar

Members of the Bystander staff have, and will be visiting various restaurants and night clubs in the Des Moines area to evaluate not only their services but their attitude toward Afro-Americans and other so-called minority customers as well. The results of these visits will constitute a series of articles, each dealing with a particular place of business.

We'll cover everything from cafeterias to fairly expensive restaurants; from small clubs to elaborate supper clubs. We feel that it is important for the community to spend their entertainment dollar as conscientiously as they spend their grocery or medical dollar.

BISHOP'S BUFFET DOWNTOWN DES MOINES

We found the employees in the cafeteria line to be polite and friendly. The food was tasty and attractive, the dining area was clean, and the overall atmosphere was pleasant. Only when we had made our way to a table and were in the process of eating did we become disappointed. Not only were we subjected to a loud disagreement between two BISHOP'S employees, but the waitress who moved through our section of the dining room refilling coffee cups managed to "overlook" our existence twice. Only upon asking were our cups refilled, and we noticed that the other diners (white) did not need to ask for this service; it was granted as courtesy, something we were denied.

The cashier, whom one must pay in order to leave, was barely polite. We saw no Afro-American or Spanish-speaking employees. Despite the tasty food, we're not anxious to return.

Rich Man's Game?

Many people think F. Scott Fitzgerald's phrase "the rich are different from you and me," is especially true when it comes to the stock market. But the rich aren't the only investors. A 1970 survey shows that among the 30 million U.S. investors over two-thirds had adjusted gross incomes under $15,000. It follows that if the capital gains tax is increased, all of us would feel the pinch. No wonder an increased capital gains tax is one "reform" the average man doesn't want. Z

Department of Justice

The Department of Justice urged the nation's cities and towns today to promptly eliminate any local ordinances which allow segregated housing to exist—a violation of federal law.

Assistant Attorney General J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the Civil Rights Division, made the request in letters sent to the National Municipal League and the Conference of Mayors of the National League of Cities.

Mr. Pottinger cited a recent court decision that struck down a provision in the town charter of Lantana, Florida, that authorized the establishment of separate neighborhoods for whites, blacks, and foreigners.

"Even though such provisions are unlawful and void, they may well have a chilling effect on the exercise of equal housing opportunity by persons not familiar with the provisions of the civil rights law," Mr. Pottinger wrote in his letter. "Accordingly, we think it is important that such provisions be promptly eliminated wherever they exist..."

Mr. Pottinger said the Justice Department has made no survey to determine the extent, if any, to which municipal laws retain unlawful housing provisions, but "We think the problem is real rather than academic."

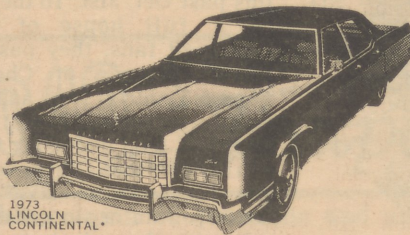

He asked the municipal

Thursday, November 15, 1973 organizations to inform their members of the Lantana case so that municipalities will review their ordinances and eliminate any provisions that might impinge on a person's right to equal housing.

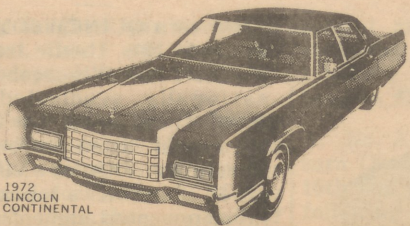

In the Lantana case, the 1931 town charter authorized the town council to establish racially segregated areas. Although the policy was never enacted, the town voted to retain the provision in a referendum on March 14, 1972.

On May 24, 1973, the Justice Department filed a civil suit charging that the segregation provision violated the Fair Housing Act of 1968.

Eminently respected
regardless of vintage.

Year after year, Continentals have retained their preeminence among American luxury cars. We believe that in 1973 the Continentals will deliver the most outstanding performance on the American road, just as they did in 1972 in riding and handling tests against the other luxury car. We have a fine selection of previously owned Lincoln Continentals, Mark IIIs and Mark IVs in stock at this time—previously owned and proudly cared for, thus offering remarkable purchase values. Ownership of a previously owned Continental carries esteem and prestige often denied new cars of lesser stature. A number of our selections are equipped with a full range of luxury and convenience features. Air conditioning, full power and leather-with-vinyl upholstery are common among them. So before you settle for a lesser car—new or previously owned—consider the eminent good sense a Continental makes.

JOSEPH L. TATE NAMED IOWA CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION DIRECTOR ON LAST FRIDAY I MET our new Director of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission. Mr. Tate is a native of St. Louis, Missouri, being born there Jan. 25, 1944. He lived there 5 weeks when the family moved to Centralia, Illinois. There he attended elementary school and completed high school.

IN HIGH SCHOOL, he participated in various clubs, Latin and Spanish; he participated in band and orchestra, football and track and some basketball. He went to Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. He initially began as a premedical student. He was in the Air Force ROTC, played football and basketball, and was secretary - treasurer in the YM and YWCA on campus. He served in the tutoring program in Kinlock, a Black suburb of St. Louis. At the University he was dormitory counselor. He was a member of Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity. Member of the Arnold Air Society and was pledged commander. He went to Kansas University and was involved in football and involved with Kappa Alpha Psi Social Fraternity. Was Scroll Club President and served the Kappa Alpha Psi as Vice Polemarch and later Polemarch for more than one term, in fact until he left. He was fraternity representative to the interfraternity Council and with it a member and chairman of the Social Committee. Was a member of the President's Council of the interfraternity Council. He was the first participant in Rush Week.

HE PARTICIPATED IN VARIOUS organizations either in a leadership role or quasi leadership role. He has worked with problems of discrimination and worked hard to eliminate these and they had quite positive contacts with the Dean of Men, Mr. Anderson, and one of his assistants, Mr. Jay Strayer. He was a participant in the Arnold Air Society, an organization for especially exemplary cadets. He served in various roles with them.

MR. TATE BECAME A FIELD REPRESENTATIVE with the Kansas Commission on Civil Rights in February of 1968 and, was promoted to Field Supervisor in June of 1971. During his tenure with the Commission he worked in the following areas: case investigation, conciliation, job placement, voluntary compliance and education. He was the designated agent for the Kansas Public Employees Retirement System for the agency and handled all Notary functions for the agency.

IN THE PROFESSIONAL AREA of investigation, he was able to obtain relief for the aggrieved individual and resolve formal cases which would have resulted in a finding of No Probable Cause - one case in which the complainant was hired immediately by the Respondent and three (3) cases in which the Complainants received cash settlements. A card of appreciation is attached from the latter three (3) Complainants. He was the investigator who developed the first case in 1968 to my knowledge in which the Commission obtained a "back pay" settlement from a national firm. The settlement entailed $1,100.00.

IN THE AREA OF CONCILIATION, he began in September of 1968 on several cases which were filed in Iowa, Kansas. He has been involved in several cases in which monetary settlements have been made in the area of "back pay". He has achieved settlements of cases in the area of employment and in the area of Public Accommodations and in the area of housing.

JOSEPH TATE HAS ALWAYS HELD A VESTED interest in Women's Rights groups from the point of interest and assistance wherever it was deemed necessary by the groups. He worked with the Topeka Indian Center and other native American individuals in programs that they felt to be beneficial. He also worked with the American G.I. Forum which is an organization for all servicemen and funded by Mexican Americans. He is a member of Topeka No. 1 Chapter.

MR. TATE IS THE son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tate, of Centralia, Ill. Mr. Tate is retired from the Illinois Central Railroad. His mother is a retired school teacher from the St. Louis School System and the Centralia School System. His parents have been active in the NAACP and in civil rights within their communities.

HE IS MARRIED TO THE FORMER Lorraine Anderson of Wichita, Kansas. The couple has two children: Jeff, 11, and Sheila, 10, and are expecting an addition to the family the latter part of this month.

MR. TATE PROMISES to be an exceptional Civil Rights Director in that he first of all becomes an interested and dedicated citizen and moves out with all of us to face and to solve our programs. He becomes thoroughly involved and this love of involvement has been a part of his character from earliest childhood. His parents rather tailored him for his role.

They led the way by their closeness to the NAACP activities. He was tailored for the role of director.

Three Purpose Club

On Nov. 7th at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Wallace the Three Purpose Club and guests enjoyed the evening with an auction, "Pig in the Poke". After the auction a very tasty repast was served.

The club's next meeting will be at the home of Grace Wade.

L.T. Club Meets

Mrs. Mary Parker was hostess to the L.T. Club on Oct. 17th. Mrs. Emma Cason was welcomed as a new member. The dining area was decorated with Halloween colors. Mrs. Mary Hawkins was a guest of the club. On Sat., Oct. 27th, the members entertained their husbands and friends with a Fun Night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Humphrey. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Mildred Bayles on Nov. 28th.

YMCA Offers Yoga Class

A special introductory course in Yoga will be offered at the YMCA starting Tuesday, November 20. Classes will meet weekly on Tuesdays at 9:45 AM for a 5 week course. For further information contact YMCA Physical Department, 288-0131 ext. 270.

Parliamentary Law & Culture Club Meets

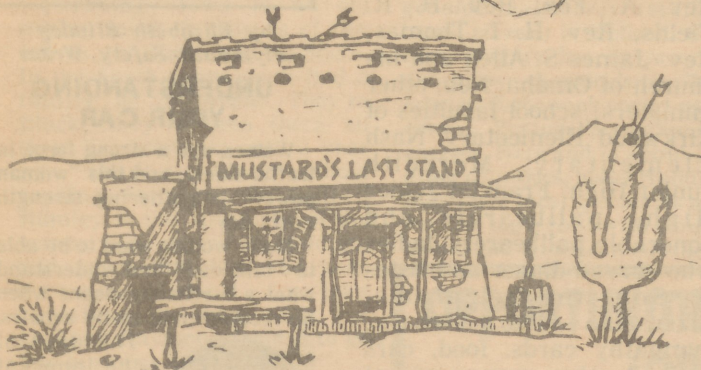

The Parliamentary Law & Culture Club met Friday, Nov. 9th at the home of Felice Rhodes. Plans for the club's annual Doll show, Dec. 9th at the Willkie House were completed. The program for the evening was presented by Bessie Campbell, Chairman of the Arts & Crafts section. Articles made by club members were displayed and a "How To Make" discussion followed. The next club meeting will be a Christmas dinner party at the home of Pauline Humphrey. Hostesses for the meeting were Felice Rhodes, Georgia Jones and Mrs. Oradell Henry. The club voted to sponsor a newly organized young adult club called Sojourner Truth. Roberta Frazier is adviser, Karen Robinson, president, and Jauquetta Davis, secretary.

Partners for Progress

The American standard of living doesn't just happen. It depends on a partnership of growth between hundreds of thousands of companies producing goods and services worth nearly two trillion dollars a year... and millions of stockholders, many of them with taxable incomes of less than $15,000 a year. The purchase of stocks by these individual investors gives industry the dollar-power it needs to grow. Equitable capital gains tax laws (taxing people fairly for the growth of their long-term investments) gives stockholders the incentive to keep investing... and industry the funds to keep growing. Z

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. I've heard that term insurance is worthless after it expires. Why buy it?

A. So that you can fill needs that will expire after a short term, or to acquire the full protection now, converting the coverage to permanent as soon as you can. If you have young children you may need more dollar protection than a straight life basis would provide. Probably your earnings will increase before the policy expires. Then under most such policies you can convert to a cash value policy without a further physical exam or other evidence of insurability at the premium for your attained age.

Q. What other "term needs" might I have?

A. Money for the mortgage on your home, the installments on your car or refrigerator, the payments on a personal loan or completing an investment program.

WOMEN on Wheels

HELPFUL SAFETY TIPS

by Elizabeth Stimley
Plymouth Safety Writer

UNDERSTANDING YOUR CAR

Women are a strong force in traffic safety, and this "woman power" is gathering strength every day.

Many women want to be able to "talk car" and understand what a mechanic means when he recommends costly repairs.

The days of the innocent gal motorist who places her trust in any mechanic to take care of her car are numbered.

It's enlightening to see many new car dealers across the country making a strong contribution to this new interest by women. At a dealership, I attended a course for "women only" in auto mechanics.

The course was structured to give us a good working knowledge of what makes a car go, some symptoms that warn of an impending failure, how to maintain the vehicle and how to tell when certain repairs are necessary.

Basically, we learned what makes a car tick, or more importantly, stop ticking. Not only did we learn a lot, we had fun too. I'd recommend a course like this to any woman.

The Second Baptist Church had their regular Sunday morning services with pastor Rev. W. J. Laster in charge. In the afternoon the B.T.U. met, in the evening Rev. Albert Sparks delivered the message. On Sunday, Nov. 11th, the Magnolia Art Club met in the home of Mrs. Annie Tolliver. Mrs. Mollie Rudd was hostess. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Hattie Carter on Nov. 30th.

Mrs. W. V. Windsor visited with Mrs. Shirley Boom in Paducah, Kentucky. She also visited Mr. & Mrs. Charles Williams in Charleston, Mo., and stopped in Sedalia, Mo.

Mrs. Hattie Carter went to Excelsior Springs, Mo. for two weeks to see her daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Bratton. She also visited her granddaughter and saw some old friends. In Kansas City she visited her son, Donald Carter. She returned home Sunday, Nov. 4th.

Mr. & Mrs. Wendell Carter had a birthday party for their daughter Nicole who was 4 years old. Her grandmother and cousins attended the party, as did many of her friends. Linda Tomlinson baked the birthday cake in the shape of a doll.

Pershing's First Lady

Bert and customer, Collectors' Extravaganza, Vet's Auditorium.

Pershing, Iowa is an old mining town. It consists of two camps, the North and the South. In the South camp you'll find a family of 20 people. They're Black, they've been there all their lives, and up until a year ago, they got along without running water or gas. Berthell Rumley is the 'first lady' of the camp. She raised 12 children, and when that feat had been accomplished to her satisfaction, she and her husband Raymond decided to go into business.

Bert's Trash & Treasures is the name of Bert's game. She buys and sells collector's items; everything from ivory dice, yellowed with age, to wooden baby cradles and old jewelry. Bert knows which of her items are trash and which are treasures. That's quite a bit of knowledge to have gathered in 12 years, but it must be worth having since people who collect come from all over the country to visit Bert's shop. At the recent Collectors' Extravaganza held at Veteran's Auditorium on Nov. 9th, 10th and 11th, Bert had a booth doing fantastic business. This was her sixth year at the Extravaganza, just one of many shows she attends each year.

Bert and her husband have three sons living in Des Moines, William, Richard and Thomas Rumley. Their four daughters all live in Pershing. Bert is a fascinating lady; check her out if you're near Pershing!

Nov. 6th was election day, and for the first time in many a year, Ottumwa will have an (almost) new city council. The only returning member will be Paul Heckard, councilman of public works. On Jan. 1st, the new Mayor will be Hugh Stufflebeam. He will be joined by Jerry Parker, Wayne Silcock and R. H. Ehmke.

College Air Now Available. The Ottumwa Heights College Foundation's annual drive got off to a good start with a $1,000 pledge already received. The donor wishes to remain unknown at this time. The Kick-off dinner on Wed. night included such speakers as the Ottumwa Board of Trustees and Pres. Richard Ackley.

Mrs. Mack Baugh visited her daughter, Ruth and family in Des Moines on Friday. She had a lovely visit.

The Black Chorus of the University of Illinois returned to the Quad-Cities for their second appearance on Nov. 11th. They were sponsored by the Senior Choir of Progressive Baptist Church. Rev. E.L. Wiseman, pastor.

The concert was held at the Augustana College Centennial Hall at 3:00 pm. The chorus then left for a performance at Morning Star Baptist Church in Peoria, Ill. The program was dedicated to Mrs. Josephine Howard who passed on during the morning service. Mrs. Howard was a member of the Senior Choir of Progressive Church.

Mr. Emmett M. Scott of 809 Sylvan Ave. in Davenport died Saturday at University Hospital in Iowa City. Services were held on Wed., Nov. 14th at Progressive Baptist Church in Davenport.

Incentives for Investing

Does favorable tax treatment on capital gains benefit you? Even if you don't invest in the stock market, the answer is yes. Equitable capital gains taxes encourage individual investors to funnel money to industry. With these dollars invested in private enterprise, companies build plants and buy machinery, equipment and computers. This means more jobs, goods and services—and a higher standard of living for all of us. If incentives are reduced, fewer people will invest... and expansion will halt. In our economy, it takes money to make jobs. Z

Iowa Educational TV's Heart Disease Broadcast

Des Moines — The Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (KDIN, Des Moines and KIIN, Iowa City) has scheduled a special one and one-half hour program on "Heart Disease: The 20th Century Epidemic," to be aired on Monday, November 19 from 7:00 to 8:30 P.M. The announcement was made today by Dr. Dale A. Harding of Eagle Grove, Program Chairman for the Iowa Heart Association. The State Heart group is cooperating with IEBN in this most important health education program.

The first major health problem, the Heart Disease segment will explore what is known about heart disease: the research being done to determine causes; and the ways to reduce the risk of having a heart attack. Some of the specific areas to be covered during the program area: Congenital Heart Disease (heart defects that an individual is born with); Rheumatic Fever, largely a disease of children and young adults which may lead to destruction of the heart valves (usually on the left side of the heart); and Atherosclerosis, hardening of the arteries. This disease is responsible for most heart attacks that occur in the United States.

Prevention, treatment and follow-up care will be spotlighted during the program, with medical experts taking part in the discussion on Heart Disease. All Iowans are urged to view this extremely important health education program. For further information, contact your local Heart Association.

retrospect

by Allen Ashby

I bet there are three coaches in Iowa who will be glad when this football season is over. Iowa State could have just as well had a three and two mark in the Big Eight instead of zip and five. The Cyclones have been in just about every game with a chance of winning but probably the Nebraska and Oklahoma games. And they had a good shot at making those games closer than they were. They could still put it all together and stage a big upset in one of their two remaining battles, and don't bet they don't do it. They have a good bunch of freshman who will help them look forward to next year, and with a few good bounces from the football can become awfully tough.

Iowa University has had its ups and downs, mostly downs. They really had a chance to win only one game, and have been way out in left field in most of the others. What the trouble is, nobody knows. It seems that when you embark on a losing streak, it doesn't take much for the whole team to come expecting to lose, and at the first bad break or the slightest mistake, it is here we go again. How you overcome that I never heard, and I bet the Iowa coach wishes he knew too. Can you look forward to next year? Maybe the coach won't be there, although he should be given as much of a chance as his two predecessors had, five years. Unless the size of football squads are cut down, I don't think there is a coach who can make the Hawks into contenders. Maybe win more than they lose, but not contenders. They just can't get the players.

Drake started out with high hopes, and ran into a rash of injuries that set them back, although they would have maybe lost more than they won anyway. They are traveling with the big boys now, and have to have the fellows to take along. Maybe the team they had last year might have done better in this competition, but that team is gone, so they have to make do.

Black Colleges

Tennessee State keeps rolling along. Last week they set down Central of Ohio 45 to 0. Grambling seems to have gotten back on track and nailed Norfolk State 32 to 6. The rest of them did as follows: Lincoln U

21. N.E. Missouri 0., Albany State 20, Savannah State 11., Alcorn 30, Prairie View 0. Bethune Cookman 30, Ky. State 10, Fisk 27 Ft. Valley 12., Jackson State 47, Morris Brown 7, Morehouse 19, Miles 16, North Carolina A&T 27, Delaward State 12, Shaw 7, Winston Salem 7, Tuskegee 20, Hampton 6, Virginia Union 20, Livingston 7, Bishop 20, Arkansas AM&N 7. This was the first black college game I ever saw, and that was Thanksgiving day, 1935. That score was lopsided, too. Langston 14, Texas Southern 7.

Locals

I was surprised at the results of the 4A playoff results. I thought the East Waterloo - Davenport game would be really close. Maybe if it had been played in Waterloo, the results might have been just the opposite. The home field does make a difference. Had to feel sorry for Southeast Polk. The guys were playing in their first big game and probably in front of the largest crowd most of them had ever been before. So they likely went out there scared to death. I don't believe they are that bad of a ball club, but the pressure of the game and the fact that they had read about Dowling all season just got to them and they over tried, and that can be as bad as not trying enough.

Looking at college games, I see a lot of good backs who are fast. But they go out to the corner so fast that they can't make their cut when they need to, and thus are nailed or run outside. There are very few backs that I have seen on the tube this year who can slide along the line and then bust into a hole. Those guys make the all star teams and become instant stars in the pros. Now you name them. Maybe Franco Harris was one. O.J. Simpson could do it in college, but he had to learn all over in the pros. Now he is one of the best at busting into an opening. I like Harris better because he is big enough to run over you if he can't run away from you.

Reed Winner Of Whitney Young Memorial Award

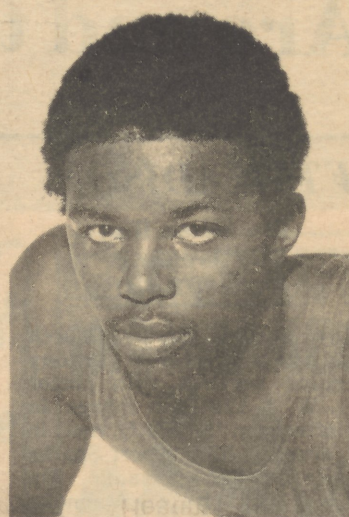

Willis Reed, captain of the world champion New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association, will be the recipient of the New York Urban League's 1973 Whitney M. Young, Jr. National Memorial Award.

Livingston L. Wingate, executive director of the New York Urban League, who made the announcement stated that, the award would be presented to Reed during the half-time of the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Football Classic. The classic features the teams of Grambling and Morgan State Colleges at Yankee Stadium, New York City on September 22nd at 3:00 P.M. Incidentally, Reed is a graduate of Grambling College.

Wingate said that, the selection of the awardee is based on the individual's representation of the spirit dedication to ideals that are similar to those of the late Mr. Young — among which was the constant struggle to obtain equal opportunity for all Americans.

The award is symbolized by a plaque and a medallion. The inscription reads: FOR ACHIEVEMENT IN THE BETTERMENT OF BROTHERHOOD AND MANKIND THROUGH EQUALITY.

Gary Wilcots

Bulldog Wrestler

Gary Wilcots, a freshman at Drake University, will represent Drake in the Oklahoma Invitational on November 23 and 24. The Bulldog Wrestling Team hopes to have an encore year to last season's outstanding performance when they defeated three nationally ranked teams (Northwestern, New Mexico and Oregon) plus strong teams from Army and Arizona State.

Dr. Lonnie Timmerman, head coach, has indicated that Gary has looked very good in pre-season workouts. Gary will also be representing Drake in the Iowa State Invitational and the Southland Championships at L.S.U., Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Drake will be defending the team title while in the Southland Championships. By January 1 of the 1973-74 season, Gary will have faced some of the best wrestlers in the nation.

The home meet schedule is:

January 8 — Iowa, January 11 — Nebraska, January 16 — Bradley, February 23 — Notre Dame, March 5 — Iowa State, March 8,9 — NCAA Regional. All meets begin at 7:30 P.M.

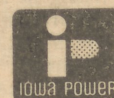

Thanks to you it's working

SOME LIKE IT HOT...

Others Save On Heating Costs

- To keep expenses low, don't overheat — 70 degrees is a good thermostat setting in daytime. It's easy to put on a sweater, but every extra degree above 70 adds 3% to your bill.
- 93,000,000 miles away, the sun is still going strong. When you can, especially in winter, open the blinds and let the sun shine in.
- Iowa Power isn't worried about running out of energy ... but we can't see any sense in wasting it either.

Stacey recruits Ken Harris

Ken Harris, a 6-foot-7 forward from Cincinnati, was Drake's No. 1 freshman recruit this year. He was recruited personally by Head Coach Howard Stacey.

In high school, Harris was the team's leading scorer three years in a row. Averaging 23 points and 18 rebounds per game as a senior, he led the team to the city tournament with a 15-3 record, but it was upset in the semi-finals.

Harris was selected for the city all-star team and was an All-State MVP. He was chosen for the second team of both the AP and UPI All-American teams.

The 18-year-old freshman picked Drake over UCLA and Minnesota because he said he felt he had a better chance to play here. "I feel I'll get a fair shake from Coach Stacey," he said. "I believe in him."

Harris is familiar with Stacey's run and shoot offense, and sees no problem adjusting to it. "I just have to be patient and mature," he said.

With only three seniors on the team, Harris said he feels that it may take some time for the team to learn to play together well. He looks to Craig Davis and Buzz Thomas to provide the necessary leadership and experience.

Harris is looking forward to playing in the Missouri Valley Conference. "I don't regret coming to Drake," he said. "We're not that big, but we've got some leapers. We're real quick; Ron Caldwell may be the quickest guard in the Valley."

Currently majoring in political science, Harris intends to go to law school after obtaining his bachelor's degree.

Known as the "black Clark Gable" by some of his lady friends, Harris is now gaining a new nickname. Some of the girls on campus are beginning to call him Louis McKay, referring to his similarity to Billy Dee Williams, the man who played the role of Billie Holiday's lover in the movie, "Lady Sings the Blues."
