Santa Came Early To Orlabor This Year

Christmas means many different things to many people, but for the citizens of Orlabor, a small Black Iowa community, Christmas means the fulfillment of a long sought dream.

This Christmas, the 100 residents of Orlabor will celebrate the coming of a water and sewage system-the first such system to exist since the community's founding in 1915.

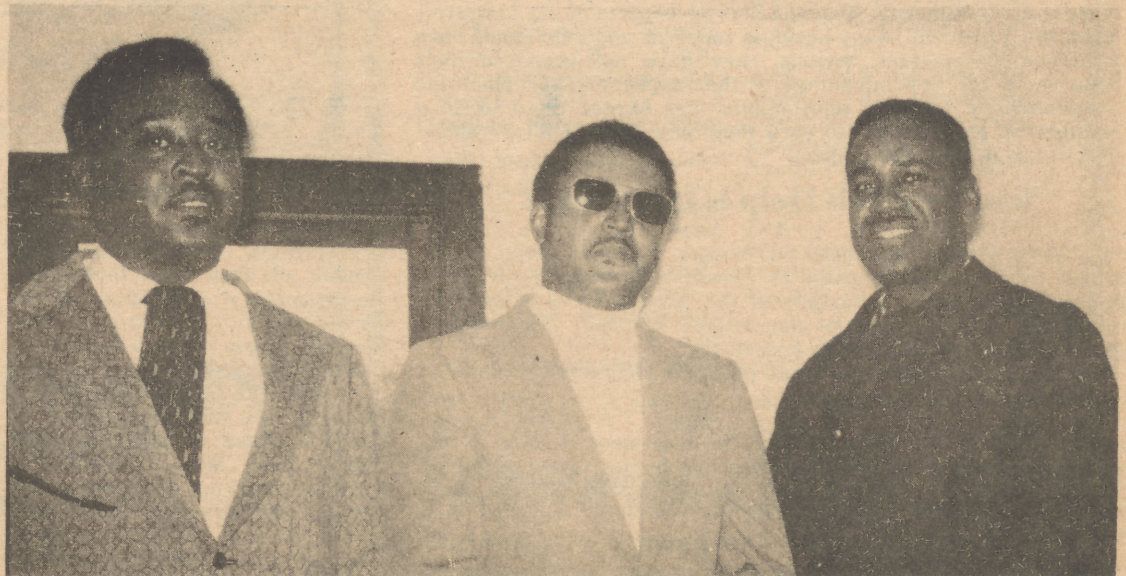

Three Tries

Orlabor's citizens have been seeking a water and sewage system for 25 years. The first attempt in that direction was made by Mr. Isaac Jones, Sr. He was unsuccessful, and life in Orlabor continued, despite the hardships.

In 1967, Isaac Jones, Jr. returned to Orlabor from the service. He was often approached by individuals from the community about the water and sewage problem, and in 1968, he was elected to the town's three-man Board of Trustees along with James Burrell and Leonard Volineer, Sr.

The three Trustees began to work on the problem. They approached John Estes, Jr. and Nolden Gentry, two prominent Black Des Moines men, and soon the project was initiated for the second time.

An application for a grant was turned down by HUD (dept. of Housing and Urban Development), the reason being that the amount requested was too small a sum. The Ankeny City Council was approached also, but to no avail.

They kept the faith

Efforts continued in spite of the letdowns, and the first glimmer of hope became apparent when the Trustees contacted an organization known as the Central Iowa Regional Planning Commission. The Commission turned Orlabor's Trustees on to a specific HUD grant, the Water & Sewage Grant Program No. 122. This is the grant that Orlabor received and it is only the third such grant to be issued to so small a community in the U.S.

Action begets action

The ball was rolling and the presence of action prompted other contributions. The city of Ankeny offered to pay 10% of the necessary costs, thus matching the 90% offered by HUD. The Bishop's Campaign for Human Development granted the citizens of Orlabor $10,000 to finance individual hook-ups to the new water and sewage system. The Inter-Faith Council of the United Council of Churches funded the hook-up for Orlabor's Mt. Zion Baptist Church. The Pioneer Lumber Company of Ankeny donated $1,000 to the cause.

Completion date is set for June 30, 1974, and Isaac Jones, Jr. is a happy man. Not only did he spearhead a drive to provide Black people with a basic need, but he has set in motion a movement and an optimistic attitude not soon to be halted. He has been approached often by people who have plans to settle in Orlabor once the project is completed.

For Isaac Jones, Jr. and the 100 Black citizens of Orlabor, a very special Christmas came on Dec. 15th when formal groundbreaking ceremonies were held for the new system. The merriment and cheer of Dec. 25th will no doubt be the greater because success and self-determination have such a sweet taste. Orlabor looks forward to a prosperous and progressive new year.

Support For Community Programs

With the close of the year comes the semester end of sewing and cooking classes at Bird School. The culminating highlight was a fashion show by sewing students, and refreshments made and served by the cooking class. This occurred Tuesday, December 18th after school with parents, family and friends attending.

These two programs, initiated by Teacher Corps and C.C.R.A.P., have recently gained further support by these organizations: the Elks (Rose Temple), and the Monarchs. The Elks gave a generous donation. After Mr. Humphrey visited the program, the Monarchs chose to donate cooking and sewing books, food products and a generous check. This kind of support is what is needed for a community school such as Lillian Edmunds. The enthusiasm of the children shows that strong backing like this is appreciated.

The four people in charge of cooking and sewing: Mrs. Mary Powell, Mrs. Janice Riddle, Pearl Lowery, and Diane Kaiser, wish to express their deepest thanks for support given by all. We hope to continue this program in January. Special thanks goes also to building principal, Don Brubaker, for his lasting support.

Some Readjustments Should Save Oakridge

By Marvin Johnson

The Des Moines Religious Council has been notified by the FHA that they have a one year moratorium in which to recoup the $200,000 which they are in arrears to the FHA in mortgage payments on Homes of Oakridge, Inc. In the meantime FHA has moved in to take over the management of Homes of Oakridge, Inc.

The question may be asked why a non-profit organization such as Homes of Oakridge, Inc., in glaring contrast to Calvin Manor and Hotel Savery, should be paying taxes at the rate of $96,000 a year, a sum which would easily take them out of the red.

Some tenants claim to have been pressured into moving. Some tenants claim to be in arrears in their rent due to penalties exacted for being late. These people state that they are unable to find the office open after their working hours. Since their office hours are not coincide to the hours at which people get off work, security guards have been used to go about collecting rents, a practice which has been used as a form of intimidation. The renters state that in subsequent checks with the rent office, they find their receipts did not match the office records. Rents are expected to be paid on the first, but persons receiving ADC, pensions and social security do not receive their money on the first of the month. These persons receive their money on the third or later and state that they are penalized by Homes of Oakridge, Inc. management.

We are shocked to learn that the Homes of Oakridge, Inc. are not tax exempt. It is our understanding that due to low budget for construction the Homes of Oakridge, Inc. were to be tax exempt. Why is the Religious Council paying those taxes at the rate of $96,000 per year? It is our further understanding that in return for tax exemption, Homes of Oakridge would be able to provide those social services stipulated by Federal regulations for funding.

On what basis is the Religious Council paying $96,000 per year on taxes on the Homes of Oakridge, Inc.? We wish to bring to your attention that $96,000 per year indicates the reason for the $200,000 default in mortgage payment to FHA.

What does FHA plan for the Homes of Oakridge that requires such precipitous action with insufficient notices of rent raises and evictions to the tenants? Notwithstanding the fact that FHA has given the Religious Council a one-year moratorium. What steps is the Religious Council taking in this matter?

The Community Action Committee of Greater Des Moines is concerned over the current problem surrounding Homes of Oakridge, Inc.

IEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

A Merry Christmas to our friends of the New Iowa Bystander. I appreciate their support during 1973 and hope that 1974 will bring an even better newspaper and better living for all citizens.

Kicking A Man While He's Down

When a fellow gets down, there is a tendency of many people to charge him with wrongdoing at every turn of the way even though some charges are not true.

A glaring example is the unfair publicity which the news media has given President Nixon about his income tax returns.

The attacks have been so severe that many people have been led to forget that Congress and not the President inacts laws governing the Internal Revenue Service. The loopholes in the law are the responsibility of Congress and not the President.

When these same critics hire accountants to prepare income tax returns, they expect them to take every legal advantage in order that they pay no more or no less than the law requires. This is all the Internal Revenue Service expects of any taxpayer, even the President. Many business concerns and individuals have switched accountants because they have not prepared their returns to the best advantage of the taxpayer. They place the responsibility on their accountants and expect them to do a competent job in order to earn their pay. This is all President Nixon has done in this respect.

Wanting Self Help Is Important

A Negro, college professor, Dr. Walter A. Simon, head of the Equal Opportunity Program at Bloomsburg State College in Pennsylvania, wrote an article in the November 1973 issue of Crisis, the official organ of the NAACP entitled, "Dilemma of Black Students at Small State Colleges."

The school is located in a small hamlet tucked into the foothills of the Appalachian mountains.

Among the complaints cited was the loneliness of some of the students coming from less than average homes where they had never lived or studied with white students; that state scholarships are meager except for the few bright students; that they were leary of the student loans required to be paid back after they leave school.

Apparently, these students, like those in many other integrated schools, want a Negro college section within the schools. This the authorities will never do. An excellent example of this was the formation of a black cheering section by a small group of Negro girls at Iowa University to operate at athletic games by themselves and who made it difficult for the one Negro girl who was a member of the regular school section.

Most of the students come from communities where they attended churches, YWCA, YMCA and other such organizations, which for some reason students shy away from today at integrated schools. These organizations were a source of considerable help for Negro students when it was rough for them.

It is apparent that most of these complaining students want a free ride through school. A fellow who has no money should get a job and earn some money to help supplement what is given him to get through school. Many can work during summer vacations and earn money working in the school in various capacities.

The students Dr. Simon talks about could have a better life if they joined in the activities of the school and made an effort to pay a part of their expenses to complete their education. Otherwise they wind up depending on somebody to donate them money.

Orlabor-Black Past, Present and Future

Orlabor was born a coal-mining town in 1915. Today, coal mining exists as a memory in the hearts and minds of Orlabor's citizens, most of whom are older persons living on pensions or social security. The few younger residents work in Ankeny or Des Moines; there is no industry, no jobs to be had in the town.

paper to be included in the story of Iowa's Black history.

Although the population has been dwindling, the advent of the new water and sewage system could bring new citizens to the town. Orlabor has a fascinating past, a progressive present and the ability to provide itself with an independent and strong future. Merry Christmas to Black Orlabor, may it grow and prosper with each new year.

Rev. Henry Simmons

People in Orlabor are involved in farming; that is, they grow much of their own food. The community is zoned as a residential area, so agri-business is not a reality or even a possibility.

Social life centers around the church. Mt. Zion Baptist Church was founded in 1938; up until that time Mrs. Stella Moore recalls meeting in a two room house for services. The church today is very old and in need of repair. Rev. Henry Simmons, pastor of the church, is anxious to have a new one built, but that would cost thousands of dollars, and that kind of money is a dream in Orlabor.

Mrs. Mary Vaughn is the town's oldest citizen. She's been there since 1927, and could provide an oral history of the town that should be captured on

PENAL INSTITUTIONS GOING INTO THE EMPLOYMENT BUSINESS

(C) NMS.) — Getting a job fresh out of prison is considered tough, so to ease the strain on ex-cons, an experimental employment agency has been set up in three states.

Montgomery County, Maryland, Kansas City, Missouri and Hampden County, Massachusetts have received federal funds to set up centers which will work to establish continuing employment programs with local companies.

Funded by a $180,817 grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency (LEAA), this new one-year project will offer job training and placement programs for every inmate in a city jail or county prison.

OPERATED

If you left a 60 watt bulb burning for a year, you'd cost the earth approximately 600 pounds of coal, and spend about $15. Here are some money saving ideas:

- Dusting light bulbs pays...if you have never dusted a bulb or fixture, you'll be getting a third less light than you paid for.
- Make the light fit the task. It makes sense to use lower wattages where bright light isn't vital, but don't skimp when sewing or studying.
- When good bulbs get old and dark, retire them to cellar, attic and garage fixtures where they'll give useful service in their declining days. Replace them with bright young bulbs where you need light.

Iowa Power isn't worried about running out of energy...but we can't see any sense in wasting it either.

When last seen in print, Fred Williams was a candidate for the City Council-at-large. Today Williams is working full-time at the Occupational Upgrading Program as Training Coordinator and is a full-time Drake University student with a political science major.

Williams, a '58 graduate of East High School, spent three years in the Army, from which he was detailed to Fort Knox, Kentucky. He was discharged in 1962. He lived in California about two years and worked for Mayfair Markets, a grocery store chain. He returned to Des Moines in 1966 and worked for City of Des Moines in the Sanitation Department until 1969. At this point he entered the hospital where he had three operations, a perforated appendix which led to other ailments. Upon leaving the hospital he entered the New Careers' Program, working at Goodwill Industries as a supervisor-evaluator and attended Drake University parttime. He remained here approximately two years.

Fred Williams

He next came to the Occupational Program in 1970 and with which he is now involved. He completed two years at Area XI Community College graduating in August of 1973. He is now a junior at Drake University.

Closer questioning revealed that Williams' thinking is involved with serious matters. For one thing he would like to see more people in the community become involved in politics. He feels that everything that affects our life in this City is involved in City government. He not only means registering but carrying through the voting. Voting is very important. In closing he states that many more people vote in presidential elections than in local elections. School Board and City Council Elections are neglected — not enough people of the total community vote in these. It must be that we have an interest in officers in the local community as well as the national scene.

Williams stated that we trust that education is a means to an end and more people should be interested in and participating in the Area Community College, The Urban Center than they are.

Mr. Fred Williams would like to give special thanks to the New Careers' Program and Occupational Upgrading for the level of education that he now has.

Mr. Williams is a young man who has achieved much, all through the channels open to him in his community and he is the first to so credit his success.

Williams thanked the New Iowa Bystander very deeply for the support given him during his candidacy for the City Council.

Mr. Williams would like to see more adults willing to work with the young people of our community. The adults have problems and should realize that the youths have problems, too, and need their support. Youngsters call on him when they have school problems. He gives considerable time to these requests for his time. He attends games and supports youngsters in there trying.

Last and finally Williams wishes to express an especial thanks to his grandparents, who raised him. They are Mr. and Mrs. Marcus McCraven. He values the understanding and faith that they had in him.

Organist-Miss Diane Banks. Pianist-soloist Mr. Michael Frazier and Cleveland Thomas appeared on the program. Mrs. Betty Frazier was accompanist. Each selection was typically self-styled. Mistresses of Ceremonies were Mrs. Judy McClain and Miss Justina Whiteside.

Crowning of the King & Queen was the climax, with Sherri Henderson crowned as Queen and Richard Lloyd as King. Cash awards were given.

The beautifully decorated "Fellowship Hall" had a Christmas setting, with green, red and gold accenting the white covered dining tables. A huge drawing depicting a Black King and Queen which hung on the wall was unique.

The waterfall centerpiece and silver punch service was beautifully displayed on the L-shaped table. Ice cream, cake, nuts and mints were served.

Homemade Super Cleaner

Two tablespoons ammonia mixed in a quart of water works magic on household dirt and grease. The mixture can be kept in a jar or old spray bottle. Use it to clean cupboards, doors, walls, woodwork, kitchen appliances, and bathroom fixtures.

Is it worth it?

Instant rice is long-grained, white rice that has been cooked and dried. It takes less time to fix than regular white rice...but it costs more.

Cooking Tip

Save those nutrients! When boiling vegetables, cook only until tender to have the best flavor, color, texture, and food value. Overcooked vegetables look unattractive, have less flavor, and fewer vitamins.

Butter Substitute

If your recipe calls for one cup butter or margarine for baking cookies you may substitute 7/8 ths cup of vegetable or animal shortening plus 1/2 teaspoon salt.

event was provided by Mr. J. Edmund Hall, and Miss Diane Banks at the electric piano.

A wonderful time was enjoyed by all. Program was sponsored by the senior choir. A special thanks to everyone who participated in any way to help make this effort a success.

A lot of hard work, practice, and cooperation of many people paid off in a delightful presentation Tuesday afternoon at Bird School when children of Units A and B presented their annual Christmas program. The program this year was a combined effort. Emphasis was placed upon both the lighter and also the more serious aspects of the Christmas season. In the music classes which meet twice a week under the direction of Karen Warren, the children learned a variety of songs, from "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas" to "Silent Night."

Art teacher Margaret Nichols helped the children make murals as a background to illustrate some of the songs. Other decorations in the auditorium were made under the supervision of Diane Kaiser and Pearl Lowrey.

A great effort was made to involve the children directly in the preparations for the program. Unit A student, Lisa Forbush dramatized "Frosty, the Snow Man" in a costume made by Mrs. Lawrey. Unit B student, Traci Jones designed and drew the program cover. Several children played rhythm instruments, bells, and autoharps as an interesting accompaniment to some of the numbers. Piano students of Virginia Graham also performed.

All in all it was a rewarding experience with both children and adults having the feeling of a job well done.

A similar program will be presented by Units C and D at Grant School on Friday. Don Brubaker is principal of both schools.

Attitudes & Services-- Your Entertainment Dollar

MOVIES

We don't seem to have the opportunity in the city of Des Moines to see all, or even most of the Black oriented movies that are produced each year. Those that do play here are almost guaranteed to make a good deal of money for the theatre that shows the film.

Most of the time we go to see a movie because we want to go, and we give little or no thought to who we're handing that $2.50 to. The next time you're standing out in front of a theatre waiting to pay to see Black folks up on that screen, think about why the movie is being shown, who's paying to see it (you), and who stands to profit from your entertainment dollar. Nobody Black in this town owns or operates a theatre. Nobody Black in this town runs the projector, takes your tickets, or even sells you popcorn. The outstretched hand is white, and the patron is Black.

Next time there's a Black movie in town, think about all of this. Check this paper to see if the theatre management thought your own Black newspaper worthy of their advertisement. Many films have come and gone, and the Black press has usually been considered irrelevant; not worth bothering with. The general attitude seems to be that you as the Black paying public are going to pay your hard-earned entertainment dollar to see the movie anyway, so why should white owner/management bother with the Black press? The question ought to be - if they can't bother to spend a few dollars with you, why should you spend with them? Think about it - it's your money and your Blackness.

There's a beautiful art book available from ABRAMS, but it's very expensive. The book The Art of Romare Bearden, is aptly noted as the first major work on an Afro-American artist. It contains 51 full color illustrations and it sells for $35.00. To quote the artist, "I work out of a response and need to redefine the image of man in terms of the Negro experience I know best." Bearden's art is a portrait of the Black man - a man whose life must contend with the contradictions of joy, defeat, victory, endurance.

The book would be worth having to be sure; it is unfortunate that most of us cannot afford to spend that amount of money on one book. There is however, a public library system that serves most of us, and part of their job is to provide patrons with materials relevant to the reader. You might ask your local public library to include this book in their collection.

Three D.M. Women End Cruise

Mesdames Bertha Wolder, Ellen Robinson and Doris Wilson went on a cruise to Nassau and Bermuda. Following the cruise, Mrs. Robinson returned home, but Mrs. Wolder and Mrs. Wilson stayed in White Plains, New York, as houseguests of Mrs. Trudy Whitehead and daughter.

Mrs. Whitehead took them sightseeing and shopping in New York and Wayne, New Jersey.

Mrs. Wilson enjoyed a reunion with a friend whom she had not seen for forty years. She was Mrs. Lottie Mae Porter, of Jamaica, New York.

Mrs. Wolder and Mrs. Wilson went to Trenton, New Jersey, where they were the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark. Mrs. Clark had invited the Des Moines women on the cruise, an affair sponsored by The Birthday Girls' Club of Trenton, New Jersey. Mrs. Clark took them sightseeing in Trenton and the Pennsylvania side. They shopped in Peddlers' Village, Pa.

Mrs. Wolder and Mrs. Wilson left Trenton and went to Woodbridge, Va., where they were the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Wilson. Mr. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson. In Woodbridge, they went on tours of the surrounding area of Virginia and Washington, D.C. They even had a day fishing in the Potomac River. In Washington they enjoyed the VIP Tour of the White House and the Capitol. They visited Arlington Cemetery and Howard University Campus, Embassy Row and toured the FBI Headquarters.

While visiting the capitol, they sat in an a Senate Session. Senator Clark, of Iowa, was presiding and Senator Hubert Humphrey was speaking on the energy crisis. They next lunched in the Senators' dining room for senators and their families only. Their host, Mr. H. Robert Wilson, had been given a special invitation for him and his guests by his boss Senator John Tunney, of California.

On board ship, a program of the next day's activities was placed under one's door either the night before or early the next morning.

Round the City

By Ken Warren

In the Spring of the year, the miracle of re-awakening occurs and all the things that fall have died becomes reborn. It is too bad that the miracle does not extend to the black folks in this community. Many Springs have come and gone and yet this rude rekindling has not come to pass. The demise of the forty or more blacks employed at Model Cities who were fired or forced to resign by one method or another, the 235 houses that were supposedly built to alleviate housing shortages for poor blacks that only helped fatten the purses of the white builders because blacks either didn't make enough money or made too much money, the sellout of the Model City concept and black folks in general by a fast talking, traveling, lightning-rod-type salesman who was supposed to be in the employment of these uninformed black folk, the election of a representative of the major part of the black community who won his election on a platform dedicated to the eradication of "nigger felons" and "social beggars," all of whom live in the Model City neighborhood and, last but not least, the new budget for the city over twenty-two million dollars that is totally absent of any mention of social-people-type programs or involvement. All these Springs and more not mentioned here and yet no awakening by my black friends.

I've been around this City since 1946 and have seen many cold winters before the glories of Springs and the reborn of nature and the spirits of mankind, but never have I felt the icy, chilling winter that is now holding a grasp on this community. Will Spring ever come or is this for all practical purpose the death of the poor and the disadvantaged who because of their lack of numbers cannot command a economic or political base?

When a man's pride and dignity is taken away, he is then subjected to becoming a social outcast and beggar, so he can no longer look forward to Spring and he must remain a dead useless object.

Rap Session

By Mike Morrow

Whenever you get two ex-disc jockeys together the direction of the conversation eventually gets around to the old station. Jay Edmund Hall and I got together the other day just to talk over old times since he has opened his new record store at 10th & University.

We talked about the jocks that worked at KYNA, the soul of Des Moines. Pondering what the wacky Wild Child was doing now...he was always complaining about Iowa's cold weather. Then there was the Matador in the morning this city's answer to Wolfman Jack.

Then there was the hard-driving Ed Turner, the Soul Burner. Ed was always working on some little gadget, the way he went for miniature machines you would think he had some Japanese in him.

Now on the week-ends that's when things would roll (smile). Well, there was Youngblood, John Day, and the charmer on Sunday Morning; Jessie Taylor. We called him the old man of the station; in fact, Turner, was the baby of the family at the station of course, there was Hall and myself, then Mike Morris.

The best memory of KYNA was the family atmosphere. I think we were the only station in the city that had such a loose ship, proving that you can still get things done.

Since it is the Christmas season, Hall and I talked about the music at about that time. And strangely enough Isacc Hayes had a dynamite song out as he does today, so did Harold Melvin and the Blue Notes.

And how could you forget the Clean-up Lady. As she was cleaning up your old man Christmas Day was fast approaching.

Iowa Manpower Programs Get $97,000

A $90,918 contract for the hiring and training of 50 Cedar Rapids, Iowa, workers, led the list of Iowa manpower projects for which the U.S. Department of Labor in Kansas City announced funding today.

Neal B. Hadsell, regional head of the Manpower Administration, said that the contract went to Collins Radio Company under the Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program. A joint effort of the Labor Department and the National Alliance of Businessmen, JOBS reimburses employers for their extraordinary expenses in hiring and training workers with little or no previous job experience.

The 50 JOBS enrollees will be trained to fill a variety of positions, with starting pay ranging from $2.97 to $3.85 an hour. Raises will be given according to the company's contract with Local 1362, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which is cooperating in the project.

A $3,896 grant was allocated through the Iowa State Department of Public Instruction, Vocational Education Branch; for a five-month secretarial skills upgrading course at the Kirkwood Community College in Cedar Rapids. Training will be provided for 30 enrollees.

Hadsell also announced 12,170 in additional funding for the Operation Mainstream project operated by Community Opportunities, Inc. in Carroll. It provides jobs for 18 older workers who have suffered chronic unemployment.

the above entitled action is now on file in the Office of the Clerk of the District Court of Iowa in and for Polk County, Iowa, claiming personal judgment against Mary Lou Miller, and judgment in rem against the property hereinafter described in the sum of $16,399.80, with interest at the rate of 8 1/2% per annum, from and after March 1, 1973 on the promissory note of Mary Lou Miller, executed and delivered to the Plaintiff, who is the absolute owner thereof, and said note and mortgage given to secure said note are due and payable by reason of the failure of the Defendant to pay the installments of principal and interest when due. The Petition further asks for foreclosure of said mortgage of even date and the note of November 19, 1970, on the following described real estate, to-wit:

Iowa Women's Political Caucus

"So You Want To Be In Politics," is the general theme of a conference sponsored by the Iowa Women's Political Caucus, January 12-13, at the Hyatt House Hotel, 6215 Fleur Drive, Des Moines.

Ronnie Eldridge, currently president of "MS" Marketing, and Director of "MS" Foundation and of Special Projects, will be the featured speaker at the Saturday night banquet. Ms. Eldridge was formerly Deputy City Administrator of the City of New York and Special Assistant to Mayor John Lindsay. She has served as Special Assistant to Robert Kennedy, Campaign Manager for Bella Abzug, and as New York State Vice-Chairperson to the McGovern campaign. She was recently featured in an "Esquire" article on women in politics.

A full program of twelve workshops, covering such topics as campaign planning, financing, media relations, campaign laws, speech writing, caucuses, lobbying and sex discrimination will be offered on both Saturday and Sunday. The workshops will be conducted by persons with expertise in the areas. Guest speakers include Nicholas Johnson, former Commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission, who will speak on the "Fairness Doctrine"; Douglas Bailey of the Washington, D.C. public relations firm of Bailey & Deardourff, specialists in the political campaigns of women candidates; and Christine Wilson, appointed by Governor

DAVID HAWKINS.

David Hawkins is a journeyman electrician, and probably the first of his race to hold such a position in the State of Iowa. Now almost into his fifth year as an electrician, David has gone through some four years' (8,000 hours) of on-the-job training, combined with a minimum of 576 classroom hours of related instruction to reach the point he is now at.

David presently works for Commonwealth Electric, installing electrical fixtures and hardware in the new Financial Center Building in downtown Des Moines. This building rises 25 stories into the air and will be second in height only to the new 36 story Ruan Building now under construction.

Hourly wage rates of electricians are among the highest in the skilled building trades. As a journeyman electrician, David earns a base pay of $8.85 an hour. Any overtime work is paid at a double time rate, or $17.70 an hour.

When considering the electrical field as a career it is best to keep in mind the disadvantages as well as the Robert D. Ray to chair the State Commission on the Status of Women, who will conduct a short course on Sex Discrimination.

Registration will begin at 8:00 a.m., Saturday, January 12, with the conference convening at 9:30 a.m. The banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. Registration will also be held Sunday, January 13, at 8:00 a.m., with a 12:30 p.m. luncheon honoring Iowa Women in Politics.

advantages of this type work. Electricians risk falls from ladders and scaffolds, cuts from sharp tools, electrical shock, blows from falling objects, and burns from "live" wires. However, safety practice learned during apprenticeship and other types of training have helped to reduce the injury rate for these workers. On the plus side, because most of his work is indoor, the electrician is less exposed to unfavorable weather conditions than most other skilled building trades workers. Also an experienced electrician who has learned all the aspects of the craft through apprenticeship can transfer readily to other types of electrical work. For example, many take jobs as maintenance electricians in factories or in commercial establishments, and others work as electricians in shipbuilding and aircraft manufacturing.

Many journeyman electricians become foremen or superintendents for electrical contractors on construction jobs, and many go into business for themselves.

David states that one of the most satisfying things about being a journeyman is that he now uses his own knowledge and skills gained through apprenticeship in working out technical problems that arise on the job instead of having to turn to someone else for the answer.

The basketball season is with us, but football is a topic of interest among Iowa football fans. And this is not because of the pro playoffs and the bowl games around the first of the year. It is because Iowa University has finally come up with a new football coach. The guy had a great record in high school games and I happen to recall that Paul Brown made the change from high school to college and then to the pro ranks and hasn't done too badly. So maybe this fellow might do it too. From talking to people who are near to the situation, or at least claim to be, I gather that the big problem the new man will have is being his own man. I would guess that has been the main hurdle for the other coaches, and maybe for a lot of them before Evashevski. They do have some good football players at Iowa, and maybe if the critics don't interfere too much, he can get it all together. I have been told several times by both players and people who have had boys on the squad that in spite of the fact that you almost have to have some black players to win, and not because they are black, but because a lot of players are black, that there is a built in resistance to too many black players at the school. Maybe this is just hearsay, but I have been hearing it for some time during the tenure of both Burns and Nagel, and I heard it while the last man was there. And it doesn't always come from black people or just street corner fans. Maybe they will give this new man at least one chance to get his feet on the ground, but I doubt it.

Basketball anyone?

If you haven't been in Siberia or some other out of the way place, you must have known what happened in what was billed as the game of the year at St. Louis. Sparing you the details already in most of the dailies, I will have to say that, having seen the clans on the tube twice, that there was a vast difference in their two appearances. If they had played North Carolina State as they did against Maryland, they would have been run off the court. But they didn't make the same mistakes, and looked as if they will be unbeatable, but you never can tell.

And if you weren't out of the state last Saturday night you would have to know that Drake finally broke the Maury John jinx but if that score had been 57 to 56 when that Iowa State player let fly at the buzzer, and the thing went in, they would maybe have had to carry Howard Stacey off the floor to a hospital.

Wonder just how tough George Foreman really is? He won't have too many opponents to defend his heavyweight title against. Let's see. The guy he beat, Frazier, Mohammed Ali, maybe Ken Norton, and that is about it. As hard as he is said to hit, I think he might get to Ali sometime during a fifteen rounder, and that might be curtains for the mouth. Frazier isn't going to fight any differently than he did last time, and will likely get kayoed again, unless he can get in the first punch. And I just don't think Norton can hold the big guy off long enough to keep from being flattened.

And now back to basketball. The high school title in the city seems to really be up for grabs. East got clobbered last week end, and Tech showed that they are still looking for a good combination. North may surprise some people and come up with more wins than they are supposed to, because I read that they were beginning to stress defense. But nobody is going to run away with the honors and it could go down to the wire. Last week I argued that I didn't think East ought to have been rated among the top schools in the state, and now I have to include Hoover and Lincoln.

Letter to The Editor

RESPONSE TO NOVEMBER 29TH ARTICLE

Dear Mrs. Roberson:
I am writing as a result of seeing a newspaper article in the New Iowa Bystander on November 29, 1973, that you are retiring from a Rehabilitation Center.

It is necessary that I commend you for your fine service, sincerity, efforts, and work among those who so desperately need someone. Thankfully, you were someone who sacrificed yourself for this fine service.

I am sure that this movement which you have expertly created will miss you.

Your work has reminded me of I Corinthians, Chapter 13. May you, therefore, continue to receive His richest blessings for now and for the new year.

Cordially yours,
C. Proctor Wilbekin
Senior Hearing Officer

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

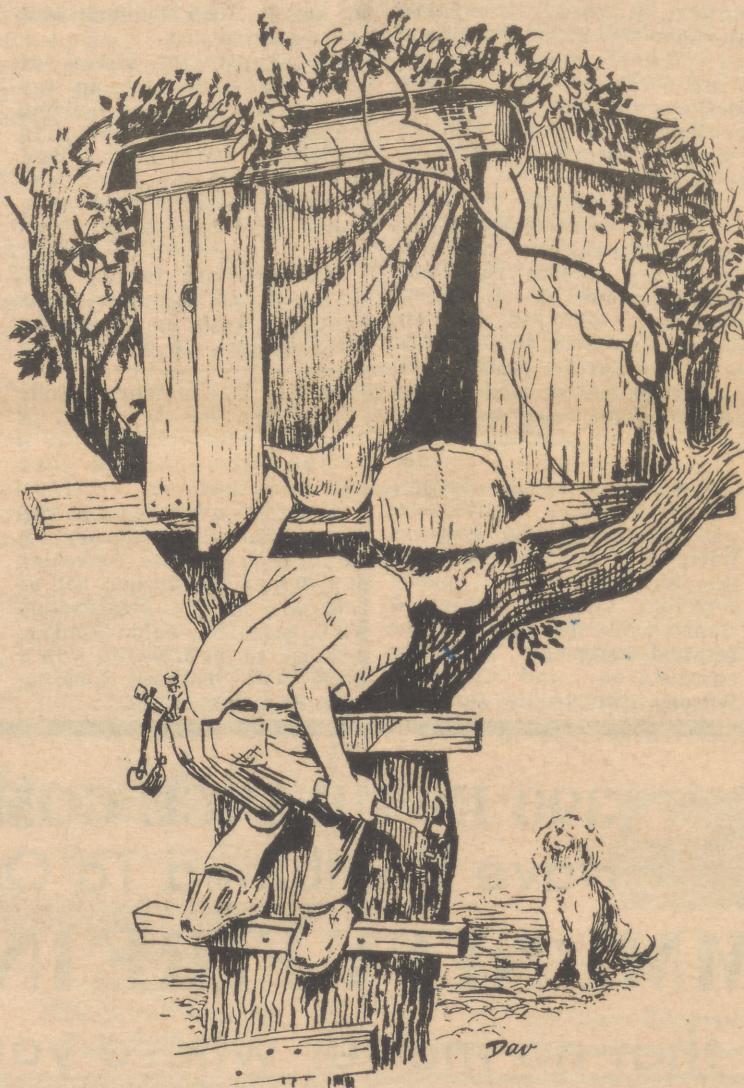

My name is Bryant A. Long and I am an inmate at the Missouri Training Center for Men at Moberly, Missouri. I am asking that you print my request for correspondence. I would like to write to a young lady from 20 to 29 years old who loves sports. I hope that she will be open minded, intelligent and proud of her Blackness.

I am 5'9½", I have black hair and brown eyes. I am 27 years old, and I have 6 months left on the inside.

Thank you,
Bryant A. Long 20694

EDITOR'S NOTE:

We try to print all requests for correspondence from inmates at various institutions around the country. We hope those people who respond to the requests will attempt to determine what kinds of guidelines or rules they must follow when sending letters to men in prisons. Each institution has its own set of rules governing correspondence. Find out what they are so that an inmate is not deprived of your letter on a technicality.
