National News Briefs

Washington, D.C. — Speaking at the closing banquet of the Third Annual Black Careers in Communications Conference, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, president of PUSH, urged all Black communicators to emphasize Ethnicity, Ethicalness and Excellence while working for newspapers, magazines, radio stations and television stations.

— A total of 1,100 participants attended the Conference. 130 recruiters representing 150 media firms throughout the country were present. Recruiters interviewed and placed about 200 applicants in jobs in Communications.

Washington, D.C. — Representative John Conyers (D-Michigan) today introduced comprehensive legislation that would have the effect of returning the federal grand jury system to its traditional role as guardian of American liberties. Passage of the legislation would strengthen citizen input into the criminal justice system and would provide a check on official misconduct through a provision for independent grand jury inquiry into official misconduct.

Washington, D.C. — A Black military officer who was once blocked from taking a post in Chile because of his race has been named to head the office that helps select military advisors.

Winston-Salem — A people's Free Ambulance Service has begun operation in this city. The free service is sponsored by the Black Panther Party.

Los Angeles — Mayor Thomas Bradley kept his campaign promise and held an Open House for city residents. It was the first such meeting in the history of Los Angeles.

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting has announced an end to direct support of BLACK JOURNAL, and has urged the Black community to let their local educational TV stations know of their desire to continue to see BLACK JOURNAL on the air.

Scheduled to begin July 1, 1974, a "marketplace cooperative" will replace the current free hook-up system available to local public TV stations. Under the proposed "marketplace" system, local stations will determine which programs they'll purchase and televise.

A representative of IEBN (Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network) in Des Moines said that as far as they had been notified, no plans for the new system had been finalized. Local station representatives will be meeting with CPB officials on March 31st to discuss the proposed system.

IEBN explained there is no guarantee that local public television stations will accept the proposal which plans to place virtually all minority programming on the "marketplace". No information is yet available as to the cost of a particular program, and should the proposed system be adopted, it seems likely that demand will have a great deal to do with cost.

Whether or not the new system is accepted and put into action, it would be well worth the effort to let IEBN know of your desire to keep BLACK JOURNAL on the air, regardless of cost. It is the only Black oriented nationally aired program on public television, and it is the best Black oriented program available on any station.

Ada Humburd

Ada Humburd-Making It

The Internal Revenue Service has announced the appointment of Ada Humburd as Supervisor of the Analysis and Computer Services Section at its Des Moines office. Mrs. Humburd began her career with IRS in 1964 as a clerical assistant. She was promoted to the position of Tax Examiner in 1969 and subsequently selected for supervisory assignment through the IRS Management Careers Program. This program identifies, screens, and develops IRS managerial personnel from throughout the nation. After selection, Mrs. Humburd will be given a comprehensive training course covering basic supervisory techniques, labor-management relations, personnel management, and employee counseling methods. This will be followed by on-the-job supervision of her activities by an experienced IRS manager. Mrs. Humburd will supervise a group of 20 tax examiners who are responsible for the receipt and processing of certain delinquent Federal tax accounts. This section forwards information concerning Iowa tax accounts to the IRS computer in Kansas City.

Mrs. Humburd resides at 2512 Woodland Avenue, Des Moines.

Neighborhood Priority Boards To Meet

The Neighborhood Priority Boards of Community Development will be in session on April 5, 6 and 7, for the purpose of planning for the 1974-75 fiscal year. The Model City Board felt a need for input from its immediate neighborhood and is planning an area session on March 29, 1974. Members felt there are concerns which have not been expressed. This session will be informational, explaining some programs which are now operational. Time will be allotted for questions and answers.

A general questionnaire will be provided for evaluation purposes and likewise input for new program needs. General discussion will follow. In addition to your own attendance, we are asking you to contact your clients or patrons and to encourage their participation. Starting time will be seven o'clock in the evening. The location, 1000 College Avenue.

Transportation and babysitting will be provided. For further information call the Site Office number, 244-7261.

Carla McCune

Les Femmes De Moulin Rouge

Ms. Carla McCune, a former student of sociology at the University of Northern Iowa, presently employed by the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, is to be the manager of a new and progressive night spot, The Moulin Rouge. Ms. McCune is to be assisted by Mrs. Osby Mitchell who is said to be well acquainted with personalities of the entertainment community in America and the art of erecting and maintaining the business of operating a night club.

The Moulin Rouge promises to become an oasis for those who enjoy the finest in entertainment and service. Ms. McCune stated that their intentions are not only to bring to Des Moines the top names in jazz, rock, blues, and comedy but will also be the place where the many talented young men and women of Iowa can come to experience the longed for taste of sweetness performing before a grateful audience and a generous host.

The Moulin Rouge is located at 313 Court St. It will make its introduction to the citizens of Des Moines with a Gospel Extravaganza on Easter Sunday, sponsored by a local social club, and again with a jazz festival before the grand opening.

Ms. McCune related that the making of money was not the primary motivation for opening a club of this magnitude but they feel strongly that the lay and professional people of Des Moines want and deserve a place where they can relax and enjoy the very finest of professional entertainment and the most courteous of service.

United Developers Incorporated, a Des Moines based minority developing and construction firm was awarded a $2¼ million contract today by the Low Rent Housing Authority. The contract was awarded for the purpose of developing and constructing a 100 unit scattered site Turnkey III Housing Project in Des Moines.

In an interview with UDI's Executive Director, Ken Warren, it was discovered that this contract is the first of such magnitude to be awarded to a minority firm in this geographic area.

Mr. Warren stated that the award is gratifying in more ways than one. Not only has UDI been awarded the contract, but they successfully competed against two other developing firms in the bidding. He further stated that this is going to play havoc with the contention that there are no qualified minorities in this area. He commented, "It is now up to us to build quality housing units. You can rest assured that our goal will be to accomplish the erection of the best homes available within the dollar amount allocated by the Department of Housing and Urban Development."

Realizing the amount of effort UDI must have invested in obtaining this contract, the Bystander would like to extend its congratulations on behalf of the minority communities in Des Moines.

Unification Church Dinner-What Now?

At the invitation of the Iowa Director of the Unification Church last week, I attended the "1974 Day of Hope Dinner" in honor of Rev. Sun Myung Moon, leader of the religious movement.

The meeting was held at the Fort Des Moines Hotel beginning with a reception followed by a sumptuous dinner with prime rib beef ("mind you") for the meat course.

Later, Rev. Moon was introduced and delivered a lengthy speech in his own language which was passed on to the guests with the aid of an interpreter. A well dressed chorus consisting of members from many nationalities including Negroes, Germans, Koreans and Americans sang beautifully. Among their numbers were, two Negro spirituals which could not have been sang better by an American group.

Dr. Moon's address contained congratulations to Des Moines and the people of Iowa. I heard little that would differ from the average evangelist who expounded the need of all Christians to unite living according to the teachings of the bible. He did not advocate the organization of a new religion.

I talked with a number of his followers all of whom seemed more interested in who I was; they did not talk about their mission or the organization.

A movie of Korean dancers closed the program. Everything about the evening displayed expenditure of a lot of money which was sponsored by Rev. Moon and his organization. I understand he is a millionaire.

It was an enjoyable evening so expressed by most of the guests. I did not attend the lecture the next night. The whole affair was planned by Rev. Moon and for what reason time will tell.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission and Legislation

Last year, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission was bounced around by members of the legislature critising its methods of operation and shaving the appropriation for less than what was asked.

I understand the present legislature has voted the commission subpoena powers granting them the right to compel attendance by respondents; the increase in the appropriation was raised 6%.

Subpoena Powers are necessary in order to have violators of Civil rights laws understand that the commission has a job to do and can only accomplish it by use of the same tools other commissions use to carry out their operations. And while their appropriation was increased it is far too small. Undoubtedly, the small legislative appropriations have prevented the commission from handling the increased load caused by the added responsibility of equal rights for women and thus a large back log of cases has accumulated.

Seldom does one get all that is asked of a legislative body but inch by inch I believe that the commission will be adequately financed as it gained the right to subpoena powers which has been requested for several years.

It will be well to use some of the crime prevention funds which the federal government has doled out to supplement the funds of the commission rather than buy a lot of extras which have done little to detect or prevent crime.

Department Of Justice

The Department of Justice filed a class action suit today challenging the employment practices of the nation's trucking industry with respect to black and Spanish-surnamed persons.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe said that seven major trucking companies were named as principal defendants and 342 other freight carriers were named as members of the defendant class.

Accompanying the suit was a partial consent decree signed by the seven principal defendants and committing them to increase substantially the hiring of blacks and Spanish-surnamed persons.

Mr. Saxbe said the suit and decree were filed in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C.

Also named as defendants in the suit were the International Teamsters and Machinists Unions, Trucking Employers, Inc., and the Teamsters' National Over-the-Road and City Cartage Policy and Negotiating Committee.

The 349 trucking companies involved in the suit employ more than 225,000 workers, including more than 50,000 over-the-road drivers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Recently I was elected committeewoman of the 1st Ward and 1st Precinct in Rock Island, Illinois. For several years now, the Black community has been complaining constantly about being left out of the scheme of things. Make no mistake about it, we have been treated unfairly. We have been neglected, forgotten, and too often just written off. This of course, is criminal; however, what is even more criminal is the fact that we sit idly by and allow it to happen.

In last Tuesday's election, we, the Black folk of this Illinois community had a unique opportunity to become involved in our own destiny. Instead we sat idly by and again let the man dictate his terms and make us accept those terms. Only 7% of the Black community cared enough to go to the polls. If this is the response and support that one elected to any office can expect, then I, for one, want no part of it.

In resigning this post as committeewoman, I leave with one question in my mind; how are all of you, who didn't (and don't) go to the polls, going to answer your children when they ask "what does the future hold for me?"

Respectfully,
Joyce Marshall

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter for a very important reason... it has become necessary for me to be found. I am a twenty-five year old inmate of the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, here at Lucasville, Ohio. I have been in this place for the best part of three years and the time has caused me to lose contact with my many hundreds of Black Brothers and Sisters. So I was hoping that if you would see it in your heart to print this letter in your paper, perhaps my Black People will be able to find me.... For I Am Surely Lost!

Lost

I'm lost' I'm lost' In a prison cell'
One Man alone- I walk thru Hell'
Each day to me means hours of Pain'
But I've not gone crazy, or insane.

I'm lost' I'm lost' The Black Sheep of the clan.
I dwell in loneliness in a God forsaken land.
Black Sisters Help' Oh find me please'
So my mind and body will be at ease.

I'm lost' I'm lost' It's been so long'
Since I've received a letter, or a card from home.
The days go by and the nights pass too.
Please tell me when will I hear from you?

Yes I'm lost. I'm lost. But I'll be found.
There are Millions of Brothers and Sisters around.
And they'll hear my cry from this concrete grave.
Yes I'll be found and my life will be saved ... Please Find Me'

In a 379-mile highway test through Arizona and California, supervised by General Environments Corporation, a Comet and a Capri with standard engines and transmissions delivered the kind of gas mileage you'd like to get. Each car was broken in the equivalent of 6,000 miles and driven by non-professional drivers, never exceeding 50 mph. You yourself might actually average less, or for that matter, more! Apostolic Friendship Temple News

The Church of God in Christ Holiness Apostolic was partaker of a short but stupendous event a few days ago when Evangelist Mary Louise Gregorie and Evangelist Dorothy Marsh conducted a short Revival for us. Two souls were saved and became candidates for water baptism. Just recently our most honorable Bishop and Pastor held baptismal services and five candidates were baptized. Namely, Minister William Nichols, Mrs. E. E. Plumb, Missionary Betty Coates, Rev. Grant Barber and Bro. Grant Barber, Jr. Bishop O. J. Johnson brought us a great baptismal message entitled "The Birth of Baptism". After the ceremony a lovely repast was held in the church dining hall.

WHEN I GOT INTO MY CAR TUESDAY MORNING, a thought came to mind: My nephew, Claude Heard has told me many times that I did not need to drive around town in a dirty car. He runs a car cleaning business and makes me welcome to drop in at any time and be served; they do a beautiful job, too. So I found my way to his shop next door to Mustard's Last Stand. He viewed me with a chuckle and asked what did I want. He saw the muddy car. That car looked as though I lived in mud. Mud was every where. I asked will you please wash this car? Please? He said if you'll come back about noon, I can manage. I returned and was given prompt service and a tall coca cola while I waited.

AS WITH SO MANY BUSINESSMEN, the task is assigned to someone else. Which was fine with me because I always receive good service irrespective of who the worker is. A young lad waited on me. I wrote him a check without his name, as I didn't know his name. It turns out he is my great nephew, Craig Johnson. His mother phoned to speak about the check not having his name on it. That is one way to meet relatives. It turns out that Claude, like the average businessman, employs family as fast as he can. So now I know that his business is Claude Heard and Sons. I know young Rodney and a tinier little boy who waved me a happy good morning this morning. He looked scarcely awake.

Mrs. Hudson was guest of honor at a party given by the Williams and the Honorable James Battles.

Chapter teens and 11 to 13 group members will also attend. Hostesses will be Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence, immediate past president and Mrs. Ruth Correll, president.

BUT I FEEL HAPPIER FOR HAVING MET THE YOUNGSTER and can see I have a responsibility to the younger members of my family. I should know them and feel some concern about them. So I have found something new to do as I go about town. Some of these young people on the streets just may be my own blood relatives. It is a strange discovery, but one for which I am glad.

Entre Nous Meet

The Entre Nous met with Mrs. Grace Wade on March 3. They discussed club business. Mrs. Wade served a most delicious repast.

Future Pianists

Three students from Korinne Jackson's Federated Music Class were included in the Federated Music Festival Saturday, March 23. Each performer was rated by competent judges according to his ability to perform. The top rating is superior, next is excellent. The students and their classifications and ratings are as follows:

Rhonda Carter, Elementary IV Rating Superior; Charlene Harper, Elementary I Rating Superior; Diane Donley, Elementary III Rating Excellent.

This is the third "superior" for Rhonda Carter and earns for her a gold certificate and a luncheon and performance for the Counselors and Board of Directors in May.

Clean-Up Campaign

The Church Women United of the Des Moines Area urge the citizens of the Greater Des Moines Area to join with them in a 'clean up our cities' campaign. A concentrated effort in this direction will be launched the first two weeks of April with a continuing effort thereafter. Beginning in our own yards - our own streets - our own neighborhoods; an individual commitment to a cleaner, litter-free city. There will also be groups working together in vacant lots, business areas etc. It is also recommended, recycling facilities be used to the fullest. God's gift to us is a beautiful world, filled with the natural resources we need. We must not waste what God has given.

"HEALTHLINE" NUMBER

"Get Hooked on HEALTHLINE!" That's the new slogan many people in Des Moines are catching on to. By dialing 282-5235 each week, those who are "Hooked on HEALTHLINE" can hear a new and important health message. A thousand people a week are doing so now and the number increases as more people get the HEALTHLINE habit.

HEALTHLINE may be used 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, since it is completely automated. All you have to do is dial 282-5235 - then listen. A taped message, which is changed every Friday afternoon, is played on the phone about a subject in the health field. As of March 1, HEALTHLINE has received nearly 24,000 calls since it was started back in September of 1973.

The HEALTHLINE phones are located in the offices of the Des Moines-Polk County Health Department in the Argonne Armory Building at E. 1st and Des Moines Streets here in Des Moines. In addition to informing the general public about the existence of the HEALTHLINE service, those in charge of the operation are also seeking new health-oriented subscribers who would like to have their activities more widely publicized. Interested agencies are asked to call 283-4246 for further information.

Remember that number - 282-5235 - and "get hooked on HEALTHLINE!"

Fire Hazard

WASHINGTON, D.C. (March 1974) - The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission will hold public hearings into possible fire hazards associated with the use of aluminum wiring in home electrical systems. The hearings will be held March 27th and 28th at 10:00 a.m. in the Department of Agriculture auditorium, 14th and Independence Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. A second set of public hearings on the same subject will be held April 15th and 16th at 10:00 a.m. in the Los Angeles Convention Center, Los Angeles, California.

The hearings have been called as a result of several reports to the Commission of house fires caused by overheated terminals involving aluminum wiring and a receptacle or switch. Based on reports it has received and on the potential dangers presented by overheated electrical connections, the Commission noted that consumers may be subjected to unreasonable risks of injury associated with aluminum conductors used in home electrical wiring systems.

WOMEN on Wheels

HELPFUL SAFETY HINTS

By Elizabeth Stimley
Plymouth Safety Writer

TRY "GENTLE TOUCH"
Wet weather requires a gentle touch at the wheel.

When streets are slippery, be prepared for a longer stopping distance. Attempting to stop abruptly could result in a dangerous skid. Start stopping sooner than you do on clear pavement, and brake gently.

If your wheels lock and you start to slide, pump the brakes (press your foot on the pedal and release it in a repeating fashion). Should you go into a skid, steer in the direction that the rear of the car is skidding.

Test the road condition by braking firmly and determining the time it takes to stop.

Leave greater following distances in all slippery driving situations. At 20 mph, it takes ten times more distance to stop on ice than on dry pavement.

For Black Students: The New Richard Roundtree!

Not as outgoing and as hip as he seems on the screen, Richard Roundtree was (and is) basically an introvert. In a rare peek behind his "Shaft" facade, in the March issue of Essence, writer Alan Ebert reveals a side of the Roundtree personality seldom seen, and explores the affect stardom has had on the first of the "reel" Black male super-stars.

"Tree", as he is known to friends and associates, describes his former self to Ebert as a "typical Cancer ... self-centered and hardly what anyone would call open. It's only recently that I've begun to level, to even admit to having feelings." Formerly, he could only express anger physically. "I'd hit a wall or break a telephone, rather than face a verbal confrontation; it was easier to run than to talk. It still is."

It may be. But, when "Tree" does talk, he talks straight!

What of his former marriage, Ebert asked? He's recently divorced after five years of marriage and a five year separation, and neither are open to discussion. They are, "nobody's business", says Roundtree. But, of his two daughters, Kelly and Nicole, he says, "they're what I care most about in the world. They are beautiful, inside and out; and I credit my ex-wife for doing one helluva job in raising them." That's straight!

For the straightest answer of all, when asked by Ebert if his approach to women resembled that of John Shaft's, Roundtree emphatically replied, "No way." "John Shaft is like James Bond; he uses women like receptacles. I feel sex without feeling, nothing given and nothing shared, is degrading to men. It's more like war than love-making. I don't know women like those portrayed in 'Shaft'. I know of them, but I don't know them personally." He does concede, however, that it doesn't hurt his box office prowess to be confused with Shaft. "But I hate the image of the Black sex machine, the superspade. I'm not that, and I pity the guy who thinks he is. We have a desperate need for heroes and it's sad that we chose the superstud as the first to idolize. But I think we're coming to the end of that trip." He continues, "maybe we needed that kind of cat; maybe that was all Black men felt they could be, could offer. But no more. The brother is moving out, getting on, becoming stronger. And as he does, he becomes softer, sweeter, less afraid to show his vulnerability. It's causing some changes with sister. She is having to learn to take a back seat (?) to her man, and although she says she wants to do it; I'm not so certain. I wonder if she knows how. I also wonder if she isn't fighting like hell, unconsciously, to retain the position, the power and the control ..."

When "Tree" came to New York in the mid-Sixties, after a couple of years at Southern Illinois University, various odd jobs, and his first taste of up-South discrimination, he was an instant success -- as a cab driver, mechanic, gas station attendant and salesman; but he knew something was missing in his life. After seven years of poverty and struggle, in 1971 "Shaft" came along, and he became an overnight success. How does it feel to be a super-star? "Recognition is cool," he admits. "I dig it; but I don't dig being dug into. Sometimes being famous feels like being owned. But no one - not the public, not my agents, my kids or my woman - owns me."

Hollywood is now home for Roundtree; he rents a simple two-bedroom home in West Los Angeles, where the main attraction is its seclusion. He lives a relatively quiet life: "I'm settling down," he admits reluctantly, "facing up to what needs facing, like me and my relationships. I've this need that I wouldn't admit to before -- a need to be close, really close to another person. It scares me, but I've stopped running."

Deltas Form New Business In Telecommunications

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. has announced the formation of a new nonprofit corporation, DST Telecommunications, Inc., and the support of a full-length movie project as its first venture.

In making the announcement, Delta Sigma Theta President, Mrs. Lillian P. Benbow explained that the sorority's decision to move definitively into the field of telecommunications was an outgrowth of resolutions passed last August in Atlanta at the national convention of the organization. Delta Sigma Theta is a 60-year-old public service sorority composed of 72,000 members in 480 chapters.

The resolutions called for better communications -- particularly through the development of telecommunications technology among Blacks -- and for the elimination of racism and sexism. The convention, which emphasized the theme, "Breaking New Ground," devoted a full day to workshops and symposia on "human and social imperatives for the world of telecommunications."

Mrs. Benbow said actions following the convention included the establishment of a National Commission on the Arts and Letters. Honorary Co-chairwomen of the commission are Lena Horne and Leontyne Price and the Chairwoman is Dr. Jeanne Noble of New York City. Among more than two dozen other commission members are Robert Flack, Novella Nelson, Leslie Uggams, Ellen Holly and Ruby Dee. The commission recommended, and Delta Sigma Theta approved, the support of the filming of a motion picture which would give a positive, well-rounded portrayal of Black life and would help to counteract negative impressions now being spread through public media.

DST Telecommunications, Inc.

has entered into limited contract with Rolling Ventures, Inc., for the production of the movie, to be entitled "Countdown at Kusini". The cast will feature Ruby Dee, Ossie Davis, Al Freeman, Jr., and others. Music will be by Manu Dibango. Script review, casting, and various creative and technical activities are already under way.

Variety In Aid For Students

by Diane Banks

The importance of Black students receiving financial aid for college educational and vocational training is often, if not always, the determining factor in how much training they will receive. Financial aid will determine whether or not black students obtain higher education.

Most financial assistance grants say to students, "Go where I send thee." The school the recipients must attend usually has been established by the giver. Therefore, the student has very little control over the curriculum he will be taking, very little control over the type of social activities the college offers, nor any control over the emotional pressures he will receive while he is enrolled.

To expose students and parents to various scholarships and aids which they may not have been aware of, this column will feature monthly, the different financial aids available exclusively for Black students.

The first of these lists follows:

Wilkie House, Inc. announces the Rayburn Webster Scholarships ranging up to $500 to one or more Black women who rank in the upper 50% of their class and have at least a "C" average. The application deadline is May 1, 1974.

The University of Northern Iowa also announces five (5) four year scholarships for students planning to major in Industrial Arts. Each scholarship award is worth $300 per semester and is generally good for eight semesters. Applications must be postmarked by April 15, 1974.

Hawkeye Lodge No. 160 and Rose Temple No. 33 (Elk's Lodge) will conduct the City Championship Oratorical Contest on Friday, April 19, 1974 -- 8:00 p.m. at Union Baptist Church (McCormick & East University). The winner of the local contest moves on the state contest and has an opportunity to win the $1000 award.

Iowa Broadcasters Association offers two (2) $400 scholarships to help students study for careers in radio-TV journalism. Call any local radio station for application blanks if you are interested.

We urge students who are planning to continue their education to take advantage of these aids.

Warners' Tubbs Inducted Into Film "Hall Of Fame"

HOLLYWOOD - Acknowledged internationally as one of the most skilled and effective press agents in modern film history, Warner Bros. black executive Vincent Tubbs was one of a dozen persons inducted into the nation's first Black Filmmakers Hall of Fame recently.

The Oscar Micheaux Awards ceremonies, sponsored by the Oakland (Calif.) Museum of Art, marked the first time a press agent has been honored alongside star actors and actresses.

Director Gordon Parks, Sr. and Agent Lil Cumber were also inducted into the Hall of Fame's non-performing category for their "contributions to the success of Blacks in films and the opportunities pioneered for others."

Top film stars honored were Ossie Davis, Katherine Dunham, Clarence Muse, Lorenzo Tucker, Beah Richards, William Marshall, Theresa Harris and Juanita Moore. Presenters of the awards included Directors Mark Warren and Maya Angelou; actresses Vonetta McGee, Tamara Dobson and Paula Kelly; actors James A. Watson, Jr. and Bernie Casey and musician Jon Hendriks.

Tubbs became one of the industry's first studio-employed publicists in the early 1960's and the first Black to head a film trade union. Credited with outstanding star-making and behind-the-scenes work for employment and upgrading of minorities in movies, he is presently director of community relations for Warner Bros.

Biofeedback & Self Control

The first Biofeedback Training Clinic in Des Moines recently opened its doors at 4931 Douglas Avenue. Biofeedback is the latest technique of psychophysiological therapy in which a person can be trained to control his internal bodily processes to achieve total relaxation by using a biofeedback machine. Biofeedback may be beneficial to persons who suffer from tension or migraine headaches, have developed peptic ulcers, suffers from anxiety, have difficulty coping with stress and those who suffer from hypertension. According to statistics from the Ebony magazine, May, 1973, hypertension annually kills some 60,000 Americans, 13,500 of whom are Black.

The clinic is directed by Mr. Wardell Diggs. Mr. Diggs holds a B.A. degree in Sociology and Psychology, and a M.A. degree in Counseling and Guidance. His experience in Biofeedback come from working with drug addicts while working at the Mid Iowa Drug Abuse Council. There he used biofeedback training as part of the client's treatment to help them derive an alternative to drugs by alleviating their tension and stress. He received his Biofeedback methodology training at the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kansas.

Mr. Diggs is being assisted by his wife, Dorothy, who works in the capacity of secretary and assistant trainer. She also received Biofeedback methodology training at the Menninger Foundation.

The clinic offers the following services:

Lecture-Demonstrations, Biofeedback Workshops, Individual Training, Sales of Biofeedback Equipment, Instrument Consultation and Follow Up Consultations.

Also, there are tentative plans for a research project which will take place in the very near future. This will involve biofeedback's application to education where special subjects will be trained to be more alert, to lower their anxiety level, and enhance their learning ability.

"...The history of Black Africa will remain suspended in air and cannot be written correctly until African historians dare to connect it with the history of Egypt." Those are the words of the author of The African Origin of Civilization - Myth or Reality, a book for serious readers intent on gaining something more from their reading hours than relaxation.

African Origin is a book determined to examine African history from a point of view unpolluted by Western attitudes. The author claims and documents the fact that Egypt was a Black civilization; and if it was, Cleopatra has yet to be portrayed properly. Using science, mathematics, linguistics and anthropology, he makes his point well. It would be incorrect to attempt to criticize the content of this book since my background does not include any of the studies mentioned above. Instead I will say that the illustrations and photographs seem to support the contention that Egypt originated as Black civilization.

Though not an easy book to read, it is worth your time and effort because it presents the history of Black Africa through Black African eyes. The author, Dr. Cheikh Anta Diop is noted as a writer who has exerted the greatest influence on Black thought in the 20th century.

African Origin was translated into English by Mercer Cook, Professor Emeritus at Howard University.

Will Africa Find Its Own Road To Development?

by Kitoto-K. Kalombo

Most of the african states now have some thirteen years of independence behind them. In the majority of cases the transition from colonial to independent status was achieved without violence, but it was not easy. The algerian war continued until 1962; the apartheid racist regime in South Africa grew tougher, and extended into Zimbabwe under its colonial name of Rhodesia; Zambia and Tanzania are directly and keenly alive to the serious threat of south african expansionism over the whole continent; and indeed, this list of sources and cases of conflict could be substantially extended.

Despite these "roadside" difficulties - which incidentally were not the only ones - newly enfranchised Africa has certainly done better on the economic front than has colonial Africa; but it did not proceed differently. What then, were the paths to development which it took; what have been the results and what are the prospects of a new path to future development?

The two Africas

While Africa was still under colonial domination, with its british, french, spanish and portuguese groups, there were outbreaks "in the cause of independence" in more than forty countries. These countries did not hesitate in defining their attitude to development. This attitude is connected with the world economic system.

Africa set to work to react against the balkanisation resulting from its independence; and the symptoms of this were the Casablanca group (Morocco), the Monrovia group (Liberia) the formation of the O.A.U. (Organization of African Unity) and a whole series of unions, councils. Eventually two roads to development could be discerned. One was the "reformist" and the other the "revolutionary", and though they seem at first sight to be divergent, they lead the same way.

Both the approaches seek to catch up the backwardness which separates the african countries from developed countries. In order to achieve this, the two Africas were obliged to increase their export capacity. As specialists in the international field they were to be obliged to step up their export agricultural and mining products already in production. The counterpart for these sales was, in principle, meant to cover the cost of importing the technology for building up substitute industries. All this, however, was not to be enough to cope with their investment requirements, and it became necessary to make good the gap by recourse to external aid.

These were the similarities between the development patterns of the two Africas; and we must now examine the differences. In the main, these stem from the ideology of the political institutions.

"Reformist" Africa used Western Europe and America as its model and asserted its fidelity to free enterprise, be it foreign or African. "Revolutionary" Africa, on the other hand, took its inspiration from the soviet model and assigned to the State an interventionist role in the economic field.

Thus African despite its two models, will not live in a supposed sectoral "duality" or "plurality", but in a sectoral inequality of productivity - a disarticulation of its economic system which must be ultimately dependent on a single world system, of which it is an integral part.

Will Africa embark with resolution on this road to her development? It would be too early to attempt a reply before the end of the present decade, because of the many changes now in progress through-out the world. Many events have come on top of one another - the enlargement of the E.E.C. (European Economic Community); its overtures to Eastern Europe; the attempts at pacification in South East Asia; the easing of strains between the two super powers; the emergence of China as part of the international community -

Jobs, Justice, Housing Real Goals Black Publisher Tells Press Club

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — Jobs, justice, and fair housing were seen as the real goals of political power by Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association, in an address here last week.

The election of black mayors, members of Congress, and others is not an end in itself, but the beginning of our search for economic justice for all the people, he added.

Dr. Goodlett, a medical doctor and a Ph.D. editor and publisher of the San Francisco Sun-Reporter, was speaking before the prestigious National Press Club here whose podium is usually reserved for visiting heads of state and top American officials. He was given a standing ovation.

His luncheon address, the first to be delivered before the club by a black publisher, was in observance of Black Press Week, marking the 147th anniversary of the founding of Freedom's Journal, the first black newspaper published in the United States. John B. Russwurm and Rev. Samuel E. Cornish launched it on March 16, 1827.

In answer to a question, Dr. Goodlett took a solid position in favor of birth control. He pointed out that it would be much better to have 30 million strong, healthy, well educated blacks than to have 50 million uneducated weaklings in the ghettos.

Regarding equal employment opportunities, the NNPA president pressed for quotas, as a way of measuring progress. "It is the right of every American citizen to have a job or an economic base below which no one will be allowed to fall," he emphasized.

Dr. Goodlett said the Black Press has always been democracy's catalytic agent, and in the future it could prove to be the means of saving the nation.

In closing, he turned to the great abolitionist leader of a century ago, Sojourner Truth. "I have come," she once said to a critical audience during the slave era, "to tell you what time of night it is."

Round The City

By Ken Warren

Ken Warren

The Community Development Agency which has been the perpetrator of the well known game RIP OFF has finally met it's match in a secret outfit by the name of Community Survey Inc. The C.D.A. in it's effort to weed out the inefficient and malcontents (in their opinion) in their agency, fired or caused to resign many of the people who supported the Model City concepts, now they find a group initiated by the power structure dethroning them from their high exalted position. Seems this group is doing a good job of this; first they used C.D.A. money to set the stage for acquiring the C.D.A. functions, then they proceeded to relieve the agency of part of the space they (C.D.A.) lavishly remodeled for the realtor who will one day take it back for his own use. The next step in this game of musical chairs was to take over the very segment of the C.D.A. that helps to make it legal and believe me I use the term legal very loosely. The C.S.I. unit is operating on a study done by a bunch of people who know what is best for poor, disadvantaged, and under privileged folk or at least they say they know and who am I to dispute all these intelligent, knowledgeable professionals. I may have some reservations on professional poverty fighters as most of them either haven't been poor or when they were was so long ago they can't remember when it was. The federal government has stated all activities condoned by the local government must have citizens input but C.S.I. was created by the City Council without giving the Citizens Advisory Board the courtesy of seeing the proposal, adopting it or having any input into it whatsoever. This C.S.I. outfit as far as I can determine has little or no representation from the grass roots folk unless you count the City Council as representing this element. But before you accept this theory remember that your representative from this area usually votes with our other friends and benefactors on the City Council who so ably represents us poor folks. I wonder who in the area elected or condoned this group (C.S.I.) to take up our banner and go to battle for all of the poverty stricken folk? Once again we are confronted with those folks who know what is good for us so don't worry they are like ALLSTATE to us "WE ARE IN GOOD HANDS". Aren't we?!!!!!!

WATERLOO

Elia Jenkins, known to teachers and children throughout the country for her rhythm workshops and singing methods, will visit the Waterloo Community Schools in April as part of a cultural enrichment program in the arts co-sponsored by the Waterloo Schools and the Waterloo Recreation and Arts Center through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, Washington, D.C.

Miss Jenkins, who has evolved her current informal method of introducing children to music over almost twenty years of workshops and demonstrations in schools all across the United States and also at the Orff School in Frohnburg, Germany, is perhaps best known to countless preschoolers for her nine sing-along records and two books. She had her own television program in Chicago in 1964-65 and her publications have had wide acceptance in schools and homes here and abroad. In Waterloo, Miss Jenkins will conduct workshops and demonstrations for vocal teachers, elementary and preschool youngsters as well as giving a concert for parents and children at the Waterloo Recreation and Arts Center's Hope Martin Theatre on Tuesday evening, 9 April from 7:30 - 8:30 pm. Following this concert there will be a reception

New Director For Davenport Human Relations Commission

After a long and exhaustive search, the Davenport Human Relations Commission recommended Jerry E. Smith, Jr., as their choice for the post of executive director. He was confirmed by city council vote on March 6, 1974.

A native of Decatur, Illinois, Smith, 26, received his bachelor's degree and a master's degree in counseling and guidance from Northeast Missouri State in Kirksville. He also has a life-time certificate for secondary school administration from there.

Smith has been employed by the Davenport Public Schools since 1971. He was a counselor at Sudlow for two years and is now a liaison worker for the Title I program, a federally funded program for educationally, disadvantaged students.

Smith was also a part time student advisor/counselor at St. Ambrose College for one and a half years.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT:

He was director of a variety show to raise funds for sickle cell anemia; served on the personnel committee and interim board of Central and Western Neighborhood Development Corporation; is a volunteer probational officer in a Chamber of Commerce program; is also co-chairperson of the education committee of the Davenport Branch of NAACP, and in addition, is now a commissioner on the Davenport Youth Commission.

Smith and his wife Carol, who is an executive field director for the Mississippi Valley Girl Scout Council, live at 3300 East Kimberly Road in Davenport.

He views the Davenport Human Relations Commission as a challenge with promising opportunities to provide assistance on a larger scale to the citizens of Davenport.

Smith sees himself as an initiator, one who initiates and develops the Human Relations Commission programs on a daily basis. He says, he is a "people person" who is gratified if he can help one in anyway.

His motto has always been work hard and be dedicated to those he serves. With this as his guide he feels that the future of the Human Relations Commission is very optimistic.

A prime concern will be the resolving of backlogged cases. Other goals will be to improve citizen's knowledge, interest, and awareness of the Human Relations Commission and its services.

Better community relations and keeping actively abreast of the atmosphere of communities within the City of Davenport will also be goals.

He also feels that a team approach, speaking of his relationship with the commission, will be of great help in working toward improvement in the Human Relations Commission areas of concern.

Mrs. Smith will assume the responsibilities of Executive Director April 1, 1974.

sports

by Allen Ashby

The cage season is history now, except for a few all star games and the professional playoff games. And we have a new national college champ, as I sort of figured we would earlier. The present crop of players at UCLA seemed to have some thing missing in a well oiled machine. When you got behind as much as ten points in the closing minutes of a game against any of the earlier teams, you could forget it. But this club blew so many big leads that as early as the third game, I began to think there was something missing. Couldn't quite put my finger on what it was, but the national sports writers called it the killer instinct. Maybe that is what it was. But in the game against North Carolina State, they really lost the game instead of the wolf pack winning it. When you give up ten point leads and seven point leads in less than two minutes, you have done it. Of course, playing before a frenzied home crowd didn't hurt the North Carolinians either. But if there was ever a point for integration this game was it. In earlier days Dave Thompson and his companion would have probably been wearing UCLA uniforms, and then there would have been no way they could have lost. I was amused by the fuss over whether the defeated Uclans should play their best team in the consolation final. I could understand their feelings about it, and was pretty sure they would wear off before game time, but it made good copy. You play your guts out to get to the final, and this was the one game or match you really wanted. So you blow it by a hair. It does one of two things; either you get so mad that you just wish someone would come along so you could take it out on them, or you just say "To hell with it."

And right then you really don't care about playing for the consolation prize. But over night you get over it, and you go out. You may play like a zombie for a while, but you warm up, if it isn't too late and play your real game.

The final game surprised nobody. One fellow said that when those five black players appeared out there for Marquette, that was it, but I disagree. Of course, from the vantage of my television seat, I thought the officials protected the Southerners a little, maybe it was just my imagination. But the coach was right, he put his team in a hole with two technical fouls, each resulting in five points, and they never got over it.

Then there was the state high school cage meet. I watched East Waterloo play two games, and just couldn't see them as champs. It looked like they played playground ball, each man doing his thing, and a man for man defense, going one on one most of the time. I get a kick when a fellow's man got near another East player, it seemed like he let the guy go, unless it was a pick, then they switched. But they had a group of fine players, and their coach was smart enough, or had had enough experience coaching players of that type that he just let them go it on their own. This is the first time that a team with so many black players made it to the finals, let alone winning the thing. I liked Wier's coaching philosophy. He let a fellow stay in the game with four fouls because the fellow knew he was in trouble, and if you took him out, he might come back tense and right away get too careful or probably make the fifth foul right away. He didn't call for one shot, because he figured they would do that anyway. Said that if you remind them about it, they might get too careful and wait too long to get the ball to the guy who is to take the shot, and maybe never get it off.

But those guys could play one on one with anybody. Tough man for man defense, and could they jump. Never saw so many guys who could jump above the basket as those fellows could. If dunking the ball were not against the rule, these fellows would have scored just too many points by dunks. They could jump well enough to have used the flying layup that Dave Thompson of North Carolina State uses. There were at least four men who could have done just what Thompson uses. The Wahlert coach said that was the first time all season his team had been out rebounded, but that was the first time they had played a team like this one. East Waterloo and tall Hoover would have been some match, but with hind sight, you would have to give the edge to the boys from Black Hawk county. I had said that they couldn't beat a well disciplined ball handling team like Wahlert, but that wasn't the first time I have been wrong, and if I had a hat, I would doff it to the boys from East Waterloo.

"Would higher gasoline and automobile taxes help alleviate the shortages?"

"They probably would help, but they would only be half a solution. You can discourage the use of gasoline by higher taxes, but you cannot create more supply with taxes. The best way to balance supply with demand is to let prices seek their natural level."

DSM Human Rights Commission

The following is a report of the Des Moines Human Rights Commission monthly meeting held March 12, 1974 at 7:00 p.m. in the City of Des Moines City Council Chambers.

Contract Compliance

During the year 1973, under the City's Affirmative Action and Contract Compliance Program, minority contractors received contracts totaling $10,000. While this figure is extremely non-satisfactory to the Commission, it did represent a beginning in the area of minority entrepreneurship. The Commission further reported that through direct negotiations during the months of January-February, 1974, minority contractors have been recipients of contracts which presently total $36,324. This represents a marked increase of close to four times the amount of money that was secured during the total year of 1973.

Other Matters

1. The Commission also supports the proposed legislation to create a Spanish-Speaking study Committee for the State of Iowa.
2. The Commission voted to support the United States Voter Registration Bill, which would in essence facilitate voter registration.
3. In further action, the Commission declined to take a stand in terms of legislation that is being proposed to reinstate capital punishment.
4. The Commission will be holding a number of "Mini" Conferences for local employers within the City of Des Moines. These conferences will be geared primarily to employers who have had cases filed against them but will also include employers who have not been the recipient of allegations of discrimination. The conferences will largely be directed to top level management and will include those individuals who have responsibilities for personnel matters within their respective companies. The conferences will explain the operation of the Des Moines Human Rights Commission and in addition, will be an educational tool geared to problems that the Commission has with employers and the problems that employers have with their employees.

The Commission will be explaining what should be expected when a case has been filed against an employer, problems of probationary reporting, the importance of attaining a conducive atmosphere for the retention of minority employees, discrimination guidelines and other areas of concern that have been brought forward by employers throughout the community. These conferences will be limited to no more than ten companies per session, which will allow for a closer working relationship with the Commission. It is hoped that these "Mini" conferences will begin during the month of April.
