Betty Shabazz, the widow of Malcolm X

To Speak At Simpson

INDIANOLA, IA. — Mrs. Betty Shabazz, widow of black leader Malcolm X, will be the featured speaker for Black Awareness Week Apr. 18 through 21 at Simpson College.

Mrs. Shabazz, a mother of six daughters who now is working on her masters degree in health administration, will speak on "The Role of the Black Woman" at 8 p.m. Friday, Apr. 19, in Camp Lounge of the Brenton Student Center. Mrs. Shabazz currently is working with community day care centers and black educational programs throughout the U.S.

There is no admission charge for the lecture, but donations will be accepted for the Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund.

Sponsored by the Organization for Black Unity, the Simpson black student organization, other activities scheduled for Black Awareness Week include:

Thursday, Apr. 18 — Lecture on "Life in the Ghetto" by Piri Thomas of New York City, a native of New York's Spanish Harlem who also is appearing for the Humanistic Symposium sponsored by Simpson's College Activities Board, 8 p.m., Smith Lounge of the student center.

Saturday, Apr. 20 — Panel discussion on "The Role of the Black Man and Woman on a Small College Campus" by members of the black student organization, 6 to 8 p.m., Camp Lounge of the Brenton Student Center. A dance with music by Sons-of-Slum from Chicago, 9 p.m., Smith Lounge of the Brenton Student Center.

All events are open to the public.

Black Awareness Week is being held in conjunction with the Iowa Intercollegiate Black Alliance Caravan, an organization of black students on seven college campuses in Iowa. Members of the Caravan and their guests meet for cultural and social activities on different campuses several times during the school year. Members of the Caravan include students at the University of Dubuque, the University of Northern Iowa, and Wartburg. Graceland, Cornell, Iowa Wesleyan and Simpson Colleges.

D. M. Woman Files Suit Against Deputy

Mrs. Ida Blackwell

As told to the Iowa Bystander by Mrs. Ida Blackwell, 654 W. 25th St., Des Moines.

On April 3, 1974 at 1:30 pm in the Polk County Court House on the fourth floor, one deputy sheriff, Chris Spidle, did strike Mrs. Blackwell knocking her to the floor. Mrs. Blackwell's son, Lloyd Henry Blackwell was on trial at the time for assault with intent to commit murder.

Mrs. Blackwell states that her son was in the hall in front of the courtroom. She was told by the deputy that neither she nor her friends could speak with Lloyd. Mrs. Blackwell then asked why not, since they had already been speaking with him. Deputy Spidle said it was an order from "the head man". Mrs. Blackwell then approached her lawyer regarding this. When her older son, Jerry Berry came in he was told of the restrictive order. He asked Deputy Spidle why this order had been given. Deputy Spidle is reported to have said "I said you are not going to talk to him and he isn't going to talk to you." At this time the prisoner, Lloyd Blackwell told his brother to go and let it alone. Spidle is said to have pushed the prisoner down in a chair and pointed a finger in his face. This action caused Mr. Berry to tell the deputy to keep his hands off his brother. At that time Mrs. Blackwell returned to the area to see what was happening. As she approached, she saw Deputy Spidle shove her son Lloyd against the wall. She told him to stop, at which time the deputy is said to have hit her, knocking her to the floor. At this point her family became upset and an altercation took place.

Employ Your Own

Summer is fast approaching, and that means warm weather, short tempers and multitudes of Black youth with too much time on their hands. "Summer employment programs" sponsored by various governmental agencies are designed to employ young people during the hot summer months. The idea is excellent; the application not as effective as it should be. Such small numbers of kids actually manage to get jobs that the programs inevitably fail in their quest to provide meaningful, profitable activity.

In other areas of the country,

The altercation in question is said to have taken place between sheriff's deputies and members of Lloyd Blackwell's family while Lloyd was in custody. The disturbance was quieted and no charges were filed following the incident.

Mrs. Blackwell feels that her son did not get a fair verdict from the jury. It was an all-white panel and Mrs. Blackwell feels that the County Attorney, Ray Fenton, is a racially biased individual.

Charges have been filed against Deputy Spidle. Mrs. Blackwell's attorney is Harlan Lemon.

Black communities have taken the situation into their own hands. They've sought a solution to the problem of young people with an abundance of energy and little or nothing upon which to expend it. Des Moines parents and neighborhood people might consider following the example of other cities. Organize the community, block by block and set aside a certain amount of money contributed by local citizens and other interested persons. Hire young people to clean up, repair, and maintain each block. Not only do the kids have the opportunity to be outdoors and get paid for it, but the local citizens end up with a clean, uncluttered neighborhood.

It has worked in other areas, why not in Des Moines? All it takes are parents, young people, and organization. Involving local businessmen provides additional money. The end result is a clean, attractive community and a working corps of young people paid for their efforts to improve their environment. It's a viable solution to the problem of unemployed Black kids.

Land Available In Polk County

Polk County has a lengthy list of properties available for purchase. Most of the parcels soon to be offered for sale have been acquired through unpaid overdue taxes. Persons interested in bidding for this land should contact the county real estate office at Third St. & Court Ave. The next auction will be held April 18th at 9:00 am at the courthouse.

National News Briefs

Washington, D.C. — Circulation of Black newspapers is up 6% or from 4,099,511 a year ago to 4,369,858 now. Figures come from a survey of 213 Black papers. With a total population of over 25 million, Black people still do not regard their newspapers as an important part of their reading.

Chicago — John H. Johnson, publisher of Jet Magazine has been elected to the Greyhound Corporation's Board of Directors.

Washington, D.C. — Mary Louise Smith, former National Republican Committeewoman for Iowa has been appointed Co-Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Trenton — The New Jersey Assembly unanimously chose S. Howard Woodson to be Assembly Speaker. It is believed that Rep. Woodson is the first Black to achieve a major leadership position in any U.S. state legislature.

New York — According to estimates, the state of Mississippi has more Blacks registered to vote than does New York City with a population of well over 1 million. Urban Blacks are supposed to be more politically astute than their rural Southern brothers and sisters, but registration statistics tell a different story.

New York — Miss Dorothy Height, President of the National Council of Negro Women announced plans for the unveiling of a monument of Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune. The monument will be the first to be erected in honor of a Black woman in Washington, D.C.

Atlanta — Hank Aaron hit his 715th home run April 8th in the fourth inning of the game. He broke the homerun record set by Babe Ruth.

Harrisburg — Governor Milton J. Shapp declared April 4th as Martin Luther King Registration Day for the state of Pennsylvania. He urged Blacks to register to vote in the name of the dream of Martin Luther King, Jr.

Department Of Justice

The Department of Justice filed a civil suit today charging the operators of a trailer park in Wakefield, Kansas, with refusing to rent to black persons.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe said the housing discrimination suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Topeka against Ray D. and Wilma Gaston, owners and operators of a 37-unit trailer park, the R & W Trailer Park.

The suit charged that the Gastons pursued a policy and practice of racial discrimination by refusing to rent trailers or lots to black persons.

The suit asked for a court order enjoining the owners from violating the Fair Housing Act of 1968 and requiring them to correct the effects of their past discriminatory policies and practices.

VIEWS and REVIEWS by James B. Morris

Going Along With The Rabble

Feature writers of articles appearing in many newspapers often goof in passing judgment on a fellow based on local information rather than basing them on national situations to get even with a person or those responsible for his position. This was well illustrated in the article, "Wants Nation to Do More for Black Veterans", by William Rasberry which appeared in the Des Moines Tribune April 8, 1974.

Living in Washington, where Negroes constitute more than 90% of the population, he bases his conclusion on what happens there rather than on the whole country.

I am not acquainted with the situation there but I do know that many minorities in this area are taking advantage of the job training, loan education programs and other benefits offered by the Veterans Administration. I do know that the local Veterans Administration Office has sent representatives through minority areas seeking out disabled veterans so that they may learn about the benefits they are entitled to and urging them to come to the office and take process of them. And the New Iowa Bystander has carried articles explaining these benefits to veterans. To the best of my knowledge there is little unemployment among veterans who are eligible for veterans benefits.

Mr. Rasberry also speaks of the large number of Negro veterans discharged with "less than honorable discharges" after they left the service and that this has been an obstruction in their efforts to secure veterans benefits or civilians jobs. The Defense Department and not the Veterans Administration issues discharges to veterans, thus the Veterans Administration should not be charged with them. To my personal knowledge the local Veterans Administration has helped several men who were hooked with these undesirable discharges and with some success.

I am a veteran myself of World War I and have been in pretty close touch with the Veterans Administration over the years and my observation is that every effort is being made to assist local minorities in securing all the benefits that the Veterans Administration offers.

Hank Aaron, The Athlete-Gentlemen

Hank Aaron has made history by passing the late Babe Ruth's record in a Cincinnati game for home runs and later passing that record in Atlanta, Georgia. The fans in both places gave him a tremendous ovation.

Baseball Commissioner Kuhns did not attend the crowning act. It was a pretty shabby in view of the fact that he ordered the Atlanta manager to play Aaron in the third game in Cincinnati.

In all of this Aaron has been a level headed athlete, taking his honors without boastful statements and appreciating the fine support that the public has given him.

Both achievements are commendable and the public, including Babe Ruth's widow so expressed it.

A.I.M. Spring Conference

(American Indian movement)

National A.I.M. Leaders make themselves known to Des Moines and the State of Iowa on April 15th and 16th in a Spring Conference. National A.I.M. Leaders and their legal staff will arrive in the City on the morning of April 15th at the Des Moines Municipal Airport. Their purpose is to shake up old "dirt" (Business). The Honorable Mayor, Richard Olson, will be presenting an A.I.M. National Representative the key to the city, which will be history for the City of Des Moines.

Chief Counsel to A.I.M. Ramon Rabideaux, will address the State Senate and House at 11:00 A.M. April 15th. Again, this will be history - the first time an American Indian has spoken to State Lawmakers in Iowa. This historical event should be attended by all of the business sector and church clergy to hear first hand information from a professional attorney, he himself a lawyer (reference to Ramon Rabideaux).

Harvey Major, President, and Hal Silk, Vice-President of local A.I.M. leaders and give their best ear to Indian needs and problems. In this way new "dirt" can be hardened to support Indians in society to keep their dignity and preserve their rights as the first Americans to inhabit this country. If key officials are interested in the first Americans then there will be no need for confrontation. Three problem areas for Indian Needs:

1. Alcoholism program for Indians
2. Employment with prestige.

Congressional Black Caucus Plans

Mobilization To Refund O.E.O.

Congressman Charles B. Rangel (D-N.Y.), Chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus today announced plans for an extensive mobilization to continue funding for community action programs within the Office of Economic Opportunity for three more years. "Most Americans are aware of the fact that the Nixon Administration has dismantled the Office of Economic Opportunity. However, many citizens do not realize that many programs formerly administered by OEO will be terminated unless new funding is forthcoming. Black and poor people in particular will be hard hit by the loss of services and 185,000 jobs administered by Community Action Agencies. The Congressional Black Caucus is determined that these programs and jobs be continued," Rangel stated.

President Nixon under his concept of "New Federalism" decided to abolish the Office of Economic Opportunity and requested no funding for O.E.O. in fiscal year 1974. The President transferred a number of programs to other Executive agencies. However, in what amounted to an item veto, Mr. Nixon proposed no funding for the following programs: Community Action Programs, State Economic Opportunity Offices, Training and Technical Assistance, National Summer Youth Sports Program, Senior Opportunities and Services, and Emergency Food & Medical Services.

"Most of these programs would have died last year if the Congress, urged by the Caucus, had not seen fit to authorize the spending of over $300 million for their continuation despite the President's objection. However, on June 30, 1974 the funding authority for the Economic Opportunity Act expires. Unless Congress enacts new legislation supporting these programs before June 30th they will come to an end. If local communities or states pick up the funding for some of these programs, it certainly will not be in amounts equaling previous years," Chairman Rangel stated. "In addition, the termination of federal funding will mean that State and Local governments will have to pick up the administrative costs of many non-O.E.O. programs administered by Community Action Agencies."

Congressman Augustus Hawkins (D-Cal.) has

3. Housing.

4. Curb discrimination against Indians.

Because no funds the Indian community pleads for immediate donations to help feed and sleep Indians and Leaders while they are in the city for two days. Donations should be sent to Des Moines Local A.I.M. Chapter: John Henss, CPA, 2904 Hillsdale Dr., West Des Moines, Iowa, 50265. Phone Number - Business Ph: 280-2211, Home Ph: 276-6643.

introduced a bill (H.R. 12464), The Economic Opportunity Amendments of 1974, to extend program and funding authority for the Economic Opportunity Act to June 30, 1977. The bill authorizes funding for O.E.O. programs at the combined level of the 1972 authorization, which was $1.4 billion. H.R. 12464 is co-sponsored by Congressmen Carl Perkins and Alphonzo Bell.

Governors George Wallace (Ala.) and Dolph Briscoe (Texas) along with the Urban League, Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, Coalition for Human Needs, Common Cause, AFL-CIO, and the League of Women Voters have endorsed the continuation of O.E.O. funding. This legislation is expected to reach the House floor in early May.

PONY EXPRESS RIDE APRIL 13

More than 1500 mounted Iowa horsemen, all members of the Pony Express Riders of Iowa, Inc., will ride into Easter Seals' Camp Sunnyside during the Saturday Afternoon hours, April 13. The event will climax a two-day reenactment of the Old West throughout the state.

Using the motto "We Ride That Crippled Children Can Walk", men, women and children will come to Sunnyside collecting and carrying funds to provide services for handicapped children and adults through the programs of the Easter Seal Society of Iowa.

This year an estimated 7,500 Iowans will have participated in pre-ride benefits and the ride itself. Fourteen separate routes (rides) and several "Spur" routes will be covered by relays of riders proceeding from the four Iowa borders to converge on the camp.

NAACP Assistant Dies

New York — Warren W. Howard, special assistant for program to the executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, died at 2:00 a.m. Thursday, March 28, at Roosevelt Hospital. He had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage at his desk during the mid-afternoon of the preceding day. He was 49 years of age.

Dr. John A. Morsell, assistant executive director of the NAACP, said: "Warren Howard was a valued employee, a warm and congenial colleague, and an asset to the Association. He will be sorely missed."

Mr. Howard joined the national staff of the NAACP in 1968 with the responsibility of planning and developing social service and other programs to combat discrimination and provide opportunities in education, housing, employment and consumer relations. He had successfully guided the establishment of a number of NAACP - sponsored day care centers across the nation, an adoption program for black children in Georgia, several senior citizen's centers, an ex-offenders readjustment program, and was in the process of developing a national medical program.

Previously, Mr. Howard had served as an administrator with the New York City Department of Social Services. He also had been consultant to the National Head Start Program, Queens College Children's and Parent's Center, and to a number of Anti-Poverty Action groups.

A native of New York, he held masters degrees in both sociology and social work from City College of New York and Columbia University, respectively. He was chairman of the Neighborhood Social Action Committee of the Association of Bronx Community Organizations, the borough where he lived. His memberships included the Academy of Certified Social Workers, National Association of Social Workers and the New York State Welfare Council.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Martha Howard, and a teenage son, Warren, Jr.

Hearings On Soft Drink Bottles Scheduled

WASHINGTON, D.C. (March 74) — Fact-finding hearings to investigate the safety of glass containers for pressurized products, particularly bottles used for carbonated soft drink beverages, will be held April 17 and 18 by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The public is invited to attend the hearings which will be held in the Department of Commerce Auditorium, 14th and E Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Numerous reports of serious glass bottle related injuries have been compiled by the National Commission on Product Safety, the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS), and from consumer complaints. NEISS estimates that 111,000 persons sought hospital emergency room treatment last year for injuries associated with glass containers. Almost half involved carbonated soft drink bottles. In-depth accident studies suggest that many of the injuries resulted from exploding bottles.

In a notice to be published in the Federal Register, the Commission stated that the hearings will help to determine whether mandatory safety regulations should be issued for glass containers used for pressurized products, notably soft drinks but also including sparkling wines, champagne and aerosol products.

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. Should my children be insured?

A. You've got a big investment in their upbringing, haven't you? Mostly though, you can save a lot of money for your son or daughter later on. A $10,000 policy for life coverage for an infant under six months costs approximately $100 a year. To buy the same policy for him or her when he or she is 21 would cost about $155 a year—and of course the policy would already have a big accrued cash value by then.

Q. Not many children are covered by insurance are they?

A. Two thirds of all youngsters under 15 are covered by life insurance.

Q. Must I name contingent beneficiaries?

A. There's no "must," but emphatically you should. If, for instance, only your wife is named and you both die in a common accident (on one recent Labor Day weekend 100 couples died in auto accidents), it may be difficult or impossible to determine who survived. In the absence of a policy provision or state legislation covering this situation, a lawsuit to determine the person to whom payment should be made may be necessary. Someone you did not want to receive the proceeds might be the ultimate payee.

Monthly Self-Examination Saves Lives

By Consumer Reports

Thousands of women's lives could be saved each year if they would examine their breasts once a month for lumps. But fear, neglect and misinformation prevent many women from detecting breast cancer early, before it has advanced beyond the breast to attack vital organs, says Consumer Reports.

The dangerous failure of women to examine their own breasts monthly is compounded by the even more irresponsible failure of many physicians to examine the breasts of their patients, says the magazine published by Consumers Union.

Annual breast examinations by a physician are essential to women 35 or older, the age when breast cancer begins to take an alarming toll.

Although scientists have developed sophisticated methods of detection that can discover diffuse cancers before they come together to form a lump, the report emphasizes that in most cases monthly self-examination remains a woman's best protection against early death from breast cancer.

Getting to know her breasts' normal structure is the first step. Next, a woman should make a once-a-month check about one week after her menstrual period begins when hormone levels are low and breast tissue is unlikely to be swollen and tender.

Standing before a mirror, a woman should look for changes in the size and shape of her breasts; any lifting or sinking of her nipples or dimpling and puckering in the skin.

She should then lie down, placing one hand behind her head. With the opposite hand pressing lightly in a spiral motion, she should feel all parts of her breast for a new lump. This procedure should be repeated sitting up, the article says.

Although early detection of lumps is critical in preventing fatalities, it's important to remember that most lumps are not malignant, the magazine notes. Benign cystic disease is the most common cause of a lump in women aged 30 to 50.

"... early diagnosis rests in your hands," concludes the report. "Use them once a year to dial a doctor or screening center for a checkup. Use them once a month to examine your breasts."

WOMEN on Wheels

HELPFUL SAFETY HINTS

By Elizabeth Stimley

TEEN SAFETY

Suddenly your teenager wants to learn to drive. What should you do? As a parent you want your child to become a good driver, always safety conscious—so your first step is to see that he or she is taught properly.

Even if you are an excellent driver, you should not be the instructor.

The odds are too great that you will pass on your bad habits as well as your good ones to the beginner.

If your child is enrolled in a driver education program, wait until he has participated in several sessions before you go out on the road with him. You can give your teenager supplemental practice behind the wheel.

Have the car in top working order. Your first trip should be short, not exceeding half an hour. Plan ahead, and have a definite route in mind. Be patient. Remember your youngster is nervous, too.

Resist changing any driving method taught your child at school. If you disagree, you can always talk to the instructor.

Act as a lookout for the driver, pointing out potential tie-ups or hazards—but don't nag.

As the driver becomes more accustomed to your presence and the car, schedule a variety of driving situations, including freeway driving, one-way streets, shopping areas, and two-lane highways.

The oldest known measurement is the 20.5" cubit, representing, roughly the distance between a man's elbow and his middle finger.

The units of measuring we use today can be seen on the rulers, yardsticks, tape measures and metre sticks made by Lufkin.

The abbreviation "lb." comes from the Roman libra, the equivalent of about 768 grains of wheat.

I FOUND A LONG LOST FRIEND when I visited Riverview Manor the other day. He was Charles Langford. He became ill last November and has been there since.

WE REMINISCENCED ABOUT THE LIFE HE LED AS A MUSICIAN. We recalled people like Jimmy Claybrooks, better known as Gus Claybrooks. Remember him, charming fellow. Gus played the trumpet and could play any instrument. He sang as well. At one time all of the combined high school orchestras were placed together and Gus invited to direct them. He did just that. At another time Gus had assembled a 17 piece band, kept it for about a year. His health failed and we soon lost him.

LANGFORD FIRST PLAYED DRUMS, THEN PIANO. He explained it is difficult to carry around drums; but you can always find a piano. He has played with Rufus Spates. He played with him off and on for about fifteen years. He played some with Orville Cox and Richard Fox, who was originally out of Dallas. He played the piano with Fox in Houston and in Mexico, this side of Taxco. He played in L.A.'s "Club Alabam" with Orville Cox.

FROM THERE HE WENT TO THE FLAME CLUB IN MILWAUKEE. He was still with Orville Cox. He went to Shady Beach in Clear Lake, Iowa, with Charles Watkins. He recalled having played with the Mills Brothers at the Hi Lo Club in Battle Creek, Michigan. The Mills Brothers were on the show. The m.c. was Ralph Cooper.

ANOTHER FRIEND JOINED US. YOU CANNOT GUESS WHO? Wilbur Anderson. He says just tell everyone that you saw "the great W.J." So now I've told everyone. He adds that he is still living, breathing, kicking and stomping. He is, too.

J. B. Johnson's church, Allen Chapel A.M.E. Church, April 2-4. Also accompanying the ladies was Mrs. Eaves' daughter, Goldie Ann.

WORLD WIDE TRAVEL CLUB

The W.W.T.C. met for a pre-Easter breakfast meeting on April 6, at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, 564 S.E. 28th St. Court. Each member modeled a hat that had been made from various and sundry household items. Prizes for the most unique ones were won by Delores Bailey, Bertha Wolder and Mrs. Thomas. An Easter egg hunt was also held, the "eggs" being gifts, that had been hidden by the Easter Bunny. After the meeting, a most enjoyable afternoon was spent in recreation. Mrs. Felice Rhodes is President.

Pearl Lowery

Change Of Pace

Pearl Lowery and Diane Kaiser recently wrote an article concerning visual arts and language arts. The program they describe in the article was initiated in two classrooms at Bird School (Edmunds I).

The article, "A Change of Pace" told of the pleasant experiences students, parents teachers and administrators enjoyed while participating in the program. The article will be published in an art education magazine, Arts & Activities.

This was the first article written by the two. They are now in the process of finishing a second article dealing with Pre-Schools and the Pre-School Child.

Pearl and Diane are quite interested in teaching procedures and materials used in education today. Last March they participated in a discussion panel at Iowa State University designed to examine individualized education.

Ms. Lowery is teaching at Bird School and studying at Drake University. She will graduate in May with a Masters degree in Science Education and Curriculum Instruction.

James Earl Jones:

Forced To Relate With Pain

James Earl Jones

NEW YORK, NY — To hear James Earl Jones speak as eloquently as he does today, one would hardly believe he suffered from an extremely serious speech defect during his adolescence. In the April issue of Essence magazine, the talented and versatile actor relates his struggle with this impediment and how he finally overcame it to go on to a long and noteworthy career in the theater.

Born into a theatrical family, his father, Robert Earl Jones, originated the role of Joe Mott in Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh", the younger Jones was not raised onstage but brought up as a farm boy. "I was born on a cotton and tobacco farm in Mississippi, and moved to Michigan when I was five," recalls the 42-year-old actor. "When you're born in Mississippi, you come into a world that is generally hostile. And, if you're a child, it's doubly hostile. It was painful to accept the truth and even more painful to speak it, so I became a stutterer ... mainly due to not being able to tell anyone all the negative things I felt." So painful was his life, that with the exception of an occasional talk with his only childhood friend, and the farm animals, Jones did not talk at all from ages 8-14. He grew up insecure and lonely; but in high school realized the need to communicate and discovered an outlet through reading his poetry aloud. He went from totally nonverbal and noncommunicative to an outgoing forensic debater; once he learned how to communicate, nothing could stop him. It was in college that Jones first turned to the theater to exercise his now-famous vocal skills, and he liked it. In 1955, he came to New York City to undergo two years of theatrical training at the American Theater and won his first role in "A Wedding in Japan". Later, he found himself in the legendary cast of Jean Genet's "The Blacks" with such well known stars as Cicely Tyson, Godfrey Cambridge, Roscoe Lee Browne, Robert Hooks, Raymond St. Jacques and Billy Dee Williams, to name a few. He now has more than 60 credits in American and abroad.

James Earl Jones has deftly demonstrated that he is skillful enough to play any type character, and in the future he is looking forward to retiring to his newly acquired country estate, only to return to Hollywood when he finds opportunities to relate to those most needed to be reached. His single, self-imposed limitation is to play only dramatic roles. "I am committed," he declares, "to the communication of pain."

Non-Credit Classes At DMACC

Des Moines Area Community College has released the spring schedule of evening non-credit classes for adults. Most classes begin April 16 on the Ankeny campus.

Three courses will be offered under the adult education division. They are: Lawn and Garden Planning and Care, Origami (Japanese paper folding), and Reading for Speed and Comprehension. Fees for the respective courses are $5, $6.50 and $10. All will be completed in June.

Short courses will be offered in the general areas of Business & Management, Health, Office Education and Trade & Industrial. Short courses are designed to upgrade work skills of those already employed or help the person who wants to return to the working world.

Business and Management courses are: Introduction to Computer Operations, and three dealing with systems — a basic 360 Cobol, and advanced 360 Bal and 360 Cobol.

In the area of Health, one of the courses, Basic Principles of Fluid and Electrolyte Balance will be offered at the Methodist School of Nursing, Des Moines; the CPR Instructor's Workshop will be held on the campus, while two courses, Emergency Care and Procedures for School and Industrial Nurses, and Nurse Aide/Orderly Training will be conducted at the Urban Center, 920 Washington St., Des Moines.

All nine office education courses will be on the Ankeny campus. They cover bookkeeping, business machines, shorthand and typewriting (beginning through advance) English, and Personal Psychology and Human Relations for the Office. A Personal Development Workshop is also scheduled.

Trade and Industrial offerings cover electricity, hydraulics, the metric system, residential planning and design, FCC licensing, and the national electrical code. For more information or to pre-register, call 964-0651, ext. 700.

Black Dolls For Easter

It's Easter — and time for new children's outfits and new children's toys.

Dolls have always been a favorite Easter gift for both boys and girls and this year many children will be receiving some very special Easter dolls — black dolls.

Ethnic dolls, such as those from Shindana Toys, permit parents to teach their children what the spirit of East is all about — love. For black children black dolls teach children to learn to love themselves. For other children, they teach how to love those who are different from themselves.

This year there are dolls to collect, dolls that talk, dolls to hug and hold, rag dolls, and plush dolls.

Shindana's Kim is the perfect Easter doll for any little girl — and the perfect addition to any doll collection. Kim stands over 15 inches tall and is dressed in a bright, spring formal of yellow seersucker, with a matching hat. Her dress is accented with ragland sleeves with a yellow ribbon and two rows of ruffles trimmed in white lace. In her smart Gibson girl coiffure, Kim is the perfect picture of springtime.

For little boys, Easter is just the right time to receive the new Rodney Allen Rippy Talking doll. Rodney is the soft, cuddly namesake of America's newest child star, who has giggled his way into America's heart by telling people to "take life a little easier." He is sure to delight kids of all ages as they pull his magic ring to hear him say 10 different phrases in the real Rodney's own voice.

WHAT AM I GOING TO DO ABOUT MY HAIR?

Hair! What to do about it and how and when? Why is it always such a problem? "Should I cut it or not?" you ask yourself staring glumly into the mirror. "Should I shampoo it tonight or can I put it off 'til tomorrow?"

To cut or not to cut! Some of the new shorter styles you see in all the magazines really do look great--so shiny and bouncy, so soft and casual. Stop right there! This is where you come face to face with one inescapable fact: Whether it's long or short or even a happy medium, keeping hair clean, shiny and beautiful can be a problem. Just think of all the abuse your hair takes--curling, coloring, teasing, the heat of dryers and electric rollers. Even just day-to-day living, sun, sea, wind and general weathering take their toll unless you give it special care. And special care means extra steps that make the whole shampooing routine a tedious, time-consuming chore.

But now, at last, there's an easy way! New Wash & Comb shampoo from Noxell, the makers of Noxzema and Cover Girl Makeup, has everything you need to keep hair beautiful in one gentle, loving formula. This unique shampoo discovery is completely different from any other shampoo you've ever tried. It not only cleanses your hair with a rich fragrant lather and rinses out easily and thoroughly, it does much, much more! It actually leaves hair shiny clean, silky soft and...extremely well behaved.

With Wash & Comb you can forget all those other bottles and jars--the conditioners, rinses, body-builders and shinemakers. Forget all those extra steps that usually follow shampooing and rinsing--the pat-dry, pour-on, work-in, wait three minutes, rinse off. This new non-greasy conditioning shampoo does it all.

It gives hair more body, more shine than it normally has. Makes it soft, supple and easy to style, too--just right for today's easy-care hair-styles. And all with just one bottle. Lather up, rinse out... and comb. It's that easy! Wash & Comb is really going to simplify your life--and even save you some money!

There's more, too--even while wet, your hair will be easier to comb because Wash & Comb also helps to keep hair from tangling. George Fioto, Chief of Noxell's Research and Development Laboratories, explains that a strand of hair, although it looks smooth and uniform to the naked eye, actually has frayed ends and tiny scales along the shaft. During ordinary shampooing, these little rough scales catch onto each other and tangle. Until now you needed conditioners and creme rinses to overcome the tangles. But Wash & Comb smoothes down the frayed rough spots so the hairs don't snag and tangle. No need for extra steps.

Wash & Comb is the perfect shampoo for all kinds of hair. It's even gentle enough for children's fine hair. So all girls, big and little, can have soft, shiny, tangle-free hair the easy, one-step way!

In 16th century Ireland, a boy's right arm was not baptized, so he could strike harder blows with it!

THE TRADITIONAL AND GRACEFUL WAYS of the peoples of West Africa is one of the keenest images gathered on an Air Afrique Akwaaba (Welcome) Tour to seven nations in that fascinating part of the world. Both two and three week programs are available.

Air Afrique Akwaaba Tour Means Welcome To W. Africa

"Akwaaba" is welcome in the languages of West Africa, and an appropriate title for a new Air Afrique tour program covering seven of that area's most fascinating nations.

Focusing on the culture and traditions of West African peoples, the program includes meetings with local historians and lecturers as well as sight-seeing and excursions.

Basically a two-week tour with an optional week's extension, the Akwaaba itinerary includes Senegal, Sierra Leone, Ghana, Dahomey and Togo. Those taking a third week also visit Ivory Coast and Liberia.

After landing in Dakar on Air Afrique's non-stop flight from New York, participants spend two days exploring the great port city and enjoying its beachfront resorts. The highlight here is the island of Goree, the major way station in the slave trade to the New World.

From Dakar, the program moves to Sierra Leone's capital of Freetown, then to Ghana for a seven-day stay in this new nation that is also an ancient kingdom. The chief attractions are Accra, the capital; Volta

Lake, the largest man-made lake in the world, and the Ashanti country.

Dahomey, another ancient kingdom, follows, including a visit to the remarkable lake fishing village of Ganvie built on stilts. The final stop on the two-week program is Lome, capital of Togo.

For those on the three-week program, Lome is followed by a visit to Abidjan, the modern capital of Ivory Coast on the edge of a magnificent lagoon. There's a visit to a game reserve and interior villages. Then to Monrovia, the capital of Liberia, a nation founded by former American slaves.

The Akwaaba tour includes air fare, accommodations in the best hotels of West Africa, two meals daily in cities and all meals when touring, sightseeing and ground transportation, services of a tour escort, transfers and taxes.

Frequent departures are available on Saturdays through April 1975.

For further information on the Akwaaba West African tour, see your travel agent or write Air Afrique, Box DC-8, New York, N.Y. 10011.

Tornado cautions urged by Woods

Wayne E. Woods, Urbandale Chief of Police and Civil Defense Director, said that in view of the weather problems parts of our country experienced last week, it is extremely important to pass on a warning.

National Severe Storms Forecasting Center in Kansas City have forecast the tornado belt to be across Iowa this year. Allen Pierson, whose office is in Kansas City, Missouri, issues tornado forecasts warnings and watches for the entire country, warned that the tornado belt seems to be moving north this spring. This is contrary to the past several years trend when the southern states have caught the brunt of the tornadoes.

Most tornadoes occur on warm, sultry afternoons between the hours of 4 and 6 p.m., but the weather bureau warned that tornadoes have occurred at all hours of the day or night.

The storm's usual path is from southwest to northeast and on the average, the funnel touches the ground for about 10 minutes, leaving a path an eighth of a mile wide and 2 to 5 miles long. The storm's average forward speed is about 30 miles an hour.

As in the past several years, the National Severe Storms Forecasting Center will be issuing its "tornado warnings" again this year.

A tornado watch is issued when atmospheric conditions are such that tornadoes can be expected to form. A watch may cover an area as large as 100 by 300 miles — more than half the state of Iowa — and simply give notice to residents that they should be on the lookout for storms and that they should take the possibility of tornadoes into account in their daily planning.

Tornado Warning

A tornado warning, on the other hand, calls for immediate action. It is a warning that a tornado funnel actually has been sighted in a given area or may have been indicated on the Weather Service radar.

Despite all the electronic gadgetry that has been introduced into weather forecasting in the last few years, the human eye remains the only reliable tool for detecting tornadoes, Pierson's office says.

The Weather Service makes the following recommendations for safety during tornadoes:

1. The only really safe place is underground, in a "cyclone cellar" or similar cave.

2. If you are caught in the open country, move at right angles to the tornado's path. Do not try to outrun a tornado. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest ditch or ravine.

Inside Shelter

3. If you are in a city or town, seek shelter inside, if possible in a reinforced building. Stay away from windows. If your home has a basement, statistically the southwest corner is the safest. If you have enough time, turn off gas and electricity; open doors and windows to the north and east equalize pressure. If you have no basement, seek shelter in a ditch outside or under a strong table or desk inside.

4. In school: Assemble in an inside hallway if the school is of reinforced construction; stay away from windows. A roadside ditch may offer the best protection for those caught in a small, rural school.

5. In a factory: Workers should assemble in whatever section of the plant offers the most protection.

Planning ahead is still the best way of avoiding death or injury in a tornado, the Weather Service emphasizes.

If you live in a mobile home, a house without a basement or some other kind of dwelling that doesn't provide security, build a shelter ahead of time, or at least know where you can go if a tornado warning is sounded.

Weller Method

After all, farm families have had "cyclone cellars" to go to since the earliest days and there is no reason a trailer court shouldn't have some similar place of refuge.

Modern electronics have given Iowa families another tool for detecting approaching tornadoes: The Weller method employing an ordinary home TV set.

Under this method a properly turned TV set can pick up the electronic signal of a tornado within a range of 15-20 miles, thus providing precious minutes of warning for a family to seek shelter.

To use the method, which was devised by Newton Weller, West Des Moines electronics expert and inventor, turn the set's channel selector to channel 13 and let it warm up. Then, by means of the brightness knob, darken the screen until it is nearly black. Then turn to channel 2 and leave it there.

If a storm is within range of the set, it will pick up lightning flashes as horizontal streaks or flashes of light.

A tornado within range of the set will cause the screen to turn a brilliant, steady white. The light will become more intense as the tornado approaches.

Urbandale has two civil defense sirens which will be activated. These sirens will be sounded for a five minute steady blast.

This siren warning would only be activated when a tornado has actually been sighted in the area or detected by radar.

Taxpayers Ask

Q. I just purchased a new car for my personal use. Are there any tax deductions I can take on my 1973 return as a result of this purchase?

A. Yes. If you itemize, one big deduction is the sales tax on the car. This deduction is especially advantageous because unlike the case with most purchases, you can add the actual sales tax of the car to the amount shown in the sales tax tables. In addition, if you borrowed money or financed the purchase of the car, you may deduct the interest you pay. The other charges you may pay in connection with the purchase of a car, for example, tag fees, etc., are not deductible.

Use of your car may also give rise to a large number of income tax deductions. Some of these include deductions for: gasoline tax; travel expenses for a trip to a doctor, dentist, hospital, etc., or in connection with a charitable contribution or to take your child to nursery school, if your wife works and you otherwise qualify for a child care deduction; and expenses arising from the business use of your car.

Q. My son turned 20 this year. Does this mean that I can no longer claim him as a dependent?

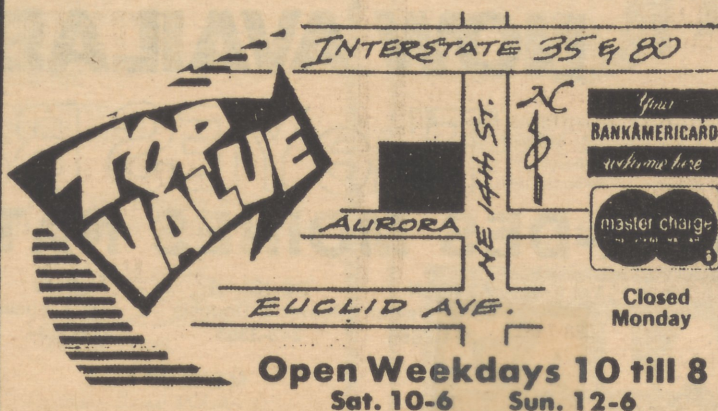

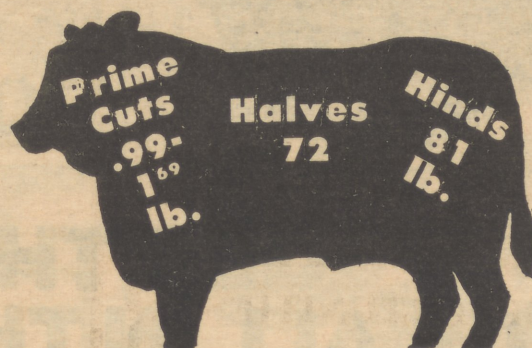

A. In general, if the person you seek to claim as a dependent made less than $750 in 1973 and you furnished over half the person's support, you may claim him as a dependent, regardless of age. However, the dependent's age is an important factor, if your son has $750 or more in income. In this case, if he is 19 or over and not a full-time student, you may not claim him as a dependent.

Q. Can I have tax withheld on my pension?

A. Yes. You may elect to have income tax withheld from the taxable portion of pensions and annuities paid over a period of more than one year by filling out a Form W-4P and submitting it to the payer. The amount to be withheld must be at least $5 per month and the net annuity payment received may not be less than $10. Forms W-4P are available at IRS offices.

The Good Fight is not a premature autobiography of a Black boxer, but it is about a Black fighter. The Good Fight, The Full Story is Shirley Chisholm's second book about her political life.

The Good Fight deals with her infamous 1972 Presidential campaign. In this Bantam paperback, Ms. Chisholm speaks of politics, not as we know them, but as she experienced them in her campaign bid. She tells of the ups and downs involved in being the first Black female candidate for the Presidency. Not only does she provide a look at American politics from the "inside", but she provides a viewpoint heretofore unwritten; that of a double "negative" - a Black woman in a white man's land.

"I ran for the Presidency, despite hopeless odds, to demonstrate sheer will and refusal to accept the status quo", says Chisholm. The story of hopeless odds and sheer will is available for $1.50. Buy it, read it, share it.

Towards The Year 2000

Through sight and sound the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (Channel 11, Des Moines; Channel 12, Iowa City; Channel 32, Waterloo; Channel 24, Mason City; will broadcast a new series which journeys into the future. TOWARDS THE YEAR 2000 will be televised Sundays at 9 p.m. beginning April 14.

TOWARDS THE YEAR 2000 uses the television set as an electronic crystal ball to provide a fascinating look at the future... to give viewers an intimate insight into tomorrow's world, in which they will grow old and their children grow up. TOWARDS THE YEAR 2000 examines in detail the problems we will face at the beginning of the century less than three decades away - and the possible solutions available to mankind.

Each episode is totally devoted to a thorough coverage of one of the 26 topics which make up this important series. Visually, the series makes extensive use of actuality footage filmed at various locations. Equally extensive is the number of distinguished experts and personalities, one or more of whom adds his special knowledge to the particular topic being examined.

Former Kenyan Vice-President Has Role In "The Wilby Conspiracy"

Kenya's first Foreign Minister and a former Vice President, Joseph Murumbi, will make his debut as a motion picture actor in "The Wilby Conspiracy," now being filmed in Kenya with Sidney Poitier, Michael Caine and Nicol Williamson starred.

A close friend and long time political associate of President

Jomo Kenyatta, Murumbi will portray a village elder who is hounded by South African security police. The former Vice President is familiar with political harassment, a memory of the days when Kenya was ruled by the British and he and Kenyatta were political prisoners.

A few of the topics include: Genetics, Geopolitics, Communications, Art, Air Pollution, Medicine, Fashion, Penology and Space.

Commander Pete Conrad, Arnold Toynbee, Marshall McLuhan, John Kenneth Galbraith, Ralph Nader among others will appear on the series.

TOWARDS THE YEAR 2000 premieres April 14 at 9 p.m. with "Sweetening the Air: Air Pollution."

"Woman"

"Woman" the program that looks at women's issues from both sides, will move to a new, more convenient time on the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (Channel 11, Des Moines; Channel 12, Iowa City; Channel 24, Mason City; Channel 32, Waterloo) beginning on Thursday, April 25, with a 6:00 p.m. telecast.

The weekly half-hour program is produced and hosted by Sandra Elkin. It examines issues related to women who are working at home and women out in the labor force.

Topic for the April 25th program is "Career Options for Women". Additional topics for the Thursday night telecasts include "Anti-Woman's Liberation", "Why Women are Dissatisfied with their Obstetricians," "A Conversation with Betty Friedan," and "Sex Bias in Education."

Each program in the "Woman" series is taped and goes on the air unedited. Guests of both sexes are invited to appear, provided they speak relevantly. However, producer host Elkin comments "If there's a bright, articulate woman available, she's going to be on."

Round The City

By Ken Warren

For quite some time I have been reluctant to write this article concerning our Police Department. Strange as it may seem, I am somewhat a supporter of this entity. My main reason for this support is that I realize no matter how emotionally the issue may be presented, we must have law and order or the results are utter chaos. But it seems Wendell Nichols and Company are goofing again so this writer is obligated to point out these discrepancies.

One of the items that has reached my ears is that in their overly zealous attempt to crack down on their favorite source of income which is traffic violations, they are arresting persons who have paid their tickets, and due to a lag in the computer being fed the proper information, these items are not available in time to the local fuzz so certain persons have been jailed. If I am right this act constitutes false arrest, doesn't it Wendell?

Then there is the problem of Mr. Robert Davis, who because of his previous involvement with our local Police Administration, may be on the Des Moines Enemy List, could this be true Chiefie? What about the recent burglaries at a local center of which because of my involvement, I personally called the Police Administrative Offices prior to these acts and asked that the building be scrutinized closely for a time. I am aware that the police are not door shakers or a protection service, but since we do pay taxes, this entity is an employee of the citizens of this community. This request was made because this building has been somewhat unused and not fully occupied, and with its easy accessibility due to faulty doors and broken windows which couldn't be rectified immediately, we felt this was a reasonable request; but I forgot this was in the so called ghetto and we don't get or deserve the same police protection as other areas or am I wrong again Wendell? Maybe you are not guilty or a party to these actions Chief Nichols, but have you passed the concepts of equal justice on to your underlings properly? In our discussions in your office (of which in all fairness to you to a degree you have tried to live up to), I must say I have become a supporter of your ideas but if the present trend continues, I will be forced to withdraw that support.

Also on the matter of the promotion of a new black Lt., is he really being utilized to his and the Police Department's best advantage, or is he another token for our benefit? One more question, why aren't the police more involved in Community activities, especially in the black segment of this community? Also, what happened to the Advisory Group from the black community you were going to establish, forgotten so soon?

Chiefie, if I seem to be unusually harsh, forgive me; just doing some thinking out loud, but I sure hope you hear me because the old service adage applies everywhere. The one I mean is "SHAPE UP".

Hayes Johnsons & Rev. Williamson In Quandry

by marri johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Johnson returned home from work recently and found the western edge of their yard bare where formerly there had been a thickly grown honey suckle hedge and a fence bordering the western edge of their yard. They inquired of a gentleman who had a man working with a bulldozer making way to erect a building for his business. He informed them that his building had to be erected on their property line and so their honeysuckle hedge and the fence had to go. They had been unearthed and removed from the property. Sometime later on still another day, they returned home to find he had had earth bulldozed from across the land on which he is building and placed in a four foot border into the Johnson's yard past their lot line. He said that had to be placed there because his building must be built on their lot line.

When I last chatted with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson they had consulted an attorney to find out what was this all about. They have had many experiences with real estate but never any events of this kind.

The Bystander decided to check as to how Rev. Tommie Williamson was making out with the situation where another bulldozer had partially demolished his building. Like the Johnsons he has engaged an attorney and is waiting.

HOME BUYER

CLINIC

By William J. McAuliffe, Jr.
Executive Vice President
American Land Title Association

HEIR SPLITTING

A familiar land title problem that emerges in home buying is the undisclosed heir of a former owner who files a claim against the real estate concerned. The reasons for this type of challenge vary but the result always points to one possibility: claim and potential loss for the homeowner.

An illustration is found in a recent case where records as to heirs of a former owner proved faulty and previously undisclosed heirs were found to have an apparently valid interest in the real estate. In addition, these previously undisclosed heirs filed a lawsuit seeking sale of the property to pay their claims.

A subsequent investigation proved the claims of the heirs were indeed valid and the title company purchased their interests on behalf of the insured.

Further, it was necessary for the title company to pay additional expenses for legal proceedings to perfect title to the property against claims by possible additional unknown parties.

Instances including the foregoing are a timely reminder that it is a good idea to investigate the protection of a title search and owner's title insurance before you purchase a home. Learning these and other pertinent facts will help you prepare for home ownership, which is the largest investment most of us ever make.

For free information on what you should know in buying a home, write American Land Title Association, Box 566, Washington, D.C.

The Pacem in Terris Peace and Freedom Award dinner honoring Senator Harold Hughes raised $1,000 for charitable causes, it was announced today by Andrew Edelen, Catholic Interracial Council President. One-fourth has been sent to the Eastside Walk-In Medical Clinic, and a similar amount has been sent to aid people in West-Central Africa facing starvation from severe and prolonged draught. One-half of the funds are being forwarded to Senator Harold Hughes to be used for the charity of his choice.

The CIC has presented the award for the past ten years to individuals who, by their lives, have exhibited the principles and values found in Pope John XXIII's encyclical, Pacem in Terris (Peace on Earth).

Two Consistories in the Orient of Iowa have united in an effort to pay tribute to a distinguished Prince Hall Mason of over fifty five years service. Robert S. Taylor, Deputy of the Orient of Iowa, is long overdue such acknowledgement and we of the committee sincerely hope you will plan to be part of the occasion. Tickets are available by calling Mr. John Buckner at 324-7294 or by writing to him at 2020 E. 13th St., Davenport, Ia. 52803. The deadline for all tickets and reservations has been set for April which will allow the committee to establish its final count. Hope you will be able to join us, and by your presence help make this a memorable evening for illustrious Taylor.

Black Scientist Appointed Director of RCA Technology Research Branch

RESEARCH DIRECTOR — Joseph H. Scott, Jr., standing, has just been appointed director of Integrated Circuit Technology at RCA Laboratories in Princeton, N.J. He is watching Dr. Alfred C. Ipri perform test measurements on an integrated circuit he (Scott) helped to develop.

PRINCETON, N.J. (NNPA) — Joseph H. Scott, Jr., a scientist who holds 14 patents, has been appointed director of Integrated Circuit Technology here at RCA Laboratories, Gerald B. Herzog, staff vice president, announced this week.

Scott, a Lincoln University graduate who has done advanced work in chemistry and electrical engineering at Howard, joined RCA in 1959.

Five years ago he was named head of the Integrated Circuit Technology and Applications Research Group in which he was involved in developing improved solid state circuits such as are used in television sets, radios, and electric watches.

In his new post, Scott directs research aimed at making solid state circuits even smaller and more reliable through a chemical process.

Scott was presented an RCA Laboratories Outstanding Achievement Award in 1967, and two years later became the first RCA scientist to receive two Outstanding Achievement Awards in a single year for work on separate research teams. Last year he was given RCA's highest technical honor, the David Sarnoff Award.

In addition to his 14 patents, the new director has written more than a score of technical papers. He is a member of Sigma XI and the Electrochemical Society as well as being a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineering.

Scott is a native of Atlantic City and presently resides in the city of Princeton with his wife Evelyn and his 13-year-old son, Joseph, III.

sports

by Allen Ashby

This week we shall start our stuff with a couple of unusual sports notes. Now, I know that the whole world is interested in what Hank Aaron did last Tuesday, but this is a story that wasn't covered nationally and everybody doesn't know about it. First there is the story of Michelle Ramsey, fourteen years old and a member of the Grandview Gymnastics club. This club isn't connected with the college, but is just a bunch of young people who are interested in gymnastics and like to follow it. Miss Ramsey is one of the very few blacks that I know of in this sport. I have seen a couple of fellows on college teams, but I never heard of a girl before. She has competed in meets in Wisconsin and in invitation meets in places like Davenport and such. Last week she participated in the AAU regional meet in Waterloo and finished second in the all around class, which will send her to the national meet. As I gathered the story, I was given the impression that the girls team would stay together, even though they go to high school, and compete as the club that they are now. Do you think that Grand View College has some designs on them for the future? I have to thank Margaret Ramsey for this story, and I never would have gotten it without her.

Then last week a fellow was telling me about a bowling meet between his club and Milwaukee. He put it this way: "We entertained them royally, gave them a really good time, kicked their britches and sent them home. Now I understand that this Road Runners club is an organization of bowling clubs in seven states. Don't know all of them, so I can't get off by mentioning just part of them. But they have meets between the cities, and they have a big meet for all of them. Last year the Des Moines club went to St. Louis and won just about everything but the bowling alleys. I don't know who the officers or who the main people in the local organization are, but I have asked just about everybody who throws a bowling ball. They seem to be determined to keep it a secret, and why, I don't know. I do know that George Brewer and Carl Taylor are mixed up in it in some way. Maybe they will pull the cover off and give me a lead on the outfit, and let me know when they are going to bowl again and who and where.

Whether you are a follower of baseball or not, you can't help but be aware of the fuss about Hank Aaron and his record tying and breaking home runs. As they were making all the speeches and presenting all of the awards, I thought what if he doesn't hit one tonight? Because that was what the capacity crowd came out to see. I can remember when they used to come out to see Babe Ruth hit a homer, and boo him if he didn't do it. I don't think that would have happened to Aaron because he had all season to get his homer. Just about every fellow who writes a column has had his say about Hank being ordered to play in at least two of the games in Cincinnati, and some have agreed with the commissioner of baseball and some didn't. I hadn't thought much about it, because I always thought the manager made up his lineup. What would the commissioner have done if Hank had been sick? Would he have accepted that as an excuse, or ordered him to drop dead to prove he was sick? Then some of the folks thought the guy wasn't really trying in that last game there. But any time you walk up to the plate, you just can't help but want to hit that ball. Good hitters who guess can be fooled while they are looking for one sort of pitch if they get another. Remember when Gil Hodges, who hit over forty homers in the regular season went hitless in nineteen or maybe it was seventeen times at bat in a World's Series? Do you think he wasn't trying? So what makes anyone think that Big Hank wasn't trying because he looked at two third strikes? In the middle of the season, it would have gone unnoticed, but because the man was supposed to swing at every ball that came within a foot of the plate, he had to be sulking.

Now so much for that. Haven't heard if Iowa U is going to have a spring game or not. But both the Cyclones and Hawks are pretty apt to have black quarterbacks when the season opens next fall if they can cut the grades. Then when you figure that Drake will likely have a fellow named Jonas Sears calling signals for them, it has to be a first in state history. The three major ball clubs piloted by black quarterbacks. Looks like somebody really wants to win, and doesn't care who he does it with, and you can say that in triplicate. Can't wait until next fall to see how the clubs do.

Diabetes: In The Top 10

NEW YORK (ED) — Nearly four million Americans have diabetes — one of this country's top ten killers. But only half of these people are aware that they are diabetic. If left unchecked, diabetes may lead to heart disease and blindness.

Diabetes is a condition in which the body cannot convert carbohydrates into energy because of malfunctioning of a body substance called insulin.

Who are the most likely candidates? Information supplied by The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States indicates that although anyone may become a diabetic, certain people are more prone than others. Women are more likely to develop diabetes than men — in fact, two out of every three diabetics are women. Heredity plays a strong role in diabetes. Studies show that diabetics' relatives are five times as susceptible as other people. People who are overweight run a greater risk of becoming diabetic. And diabetes usually develops after the age of forty.

What are the symptoms to watch for? The most common signs are excessive hunger or thirst, increased urination and easy tiring. Other danger signals include vision problems, intense itching, pain in fingers and toes, slow healing of cuts and bruises, and drowsiness.

There's only one reliable way to determine whether you are — or may become — diabetic. Consult your doctor and take a test for diabetes. It is easy to detect and if diagnosed early, can be easily controlled. Have regular check-ups. Remember, your good health begins with you.

Adams In Wrong Event, Starts Anyway

DES MOINES — Kingsley Adams would rather flop than pop, but the results don't bear out his own beliefs.

He's a national champion in his second favorite event, just another performer in his 'fun' event.

Kingsley Adams comes out of the University of Colorado and will make a bid for the Drake Relays long jump title at 2:30 p.m., Friday, April 26, but he may have an eye on the high jump pit at the same time.

"My performance (in the high jump) is terrible," he has said, "I do the flop and it's really lousy, but it's fun going up and everybody sees you. I enjoy it more."

Adams is a 6-10 high jumper. No sensation. But, in the long jump he has a long record of success. He's a two-time Big Eight indoor title holder, going 25-7½ this winter for the crown. He topped that weeks later in winning the NCAA indoor championship.

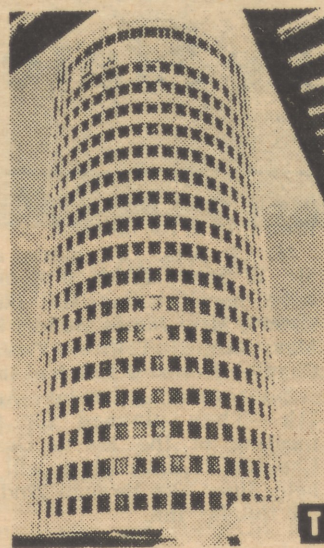

Adams is from Ghana and no stranger to the Drake long jump runway. He finished fifth here last year. He also has a 51-1½ triple jump best to go with the NCAA winning jump of 25-3¼ in the long jump.

Pittsburgh's Bill Rea, who won at Drake in 1973 with a wind-aided 26-4¾, will be back to take Adams and a stellar field on again. Rea ranked sixth in the nation last year, was second in the NCAA outdoor championships and right behind Adams in the indoor meet in Detroit last month.

Other standouts already in the long jump field at Drake are Charlton Ehizuelen, Illinois' Big Ten champion with a best of 25-9½; J. O. Amoah, another Ghanaian operating out of Eastern New Mexico (25-2½); Danny Seay of Kansas (25-4) and Tommie Haynes of Middle Tennessee State. Haynes is one of the nation's finest triple jumpers, but has gone 25-0¾ in the long jump. He finished third in the triple jump at Drake in 1973.

CAPTIVATING KENYA

Camera safaris to the wild-life preserves of the African nation of Kenya are made with speed, comfort and economy, and the inhabitants of this progressive land see to it that you enjoy every minute. The animals run wild, but the country is sufficiently civilized to have two terrific lodges near Nairobi, both operated by Hilton International. One, the Taita Hills Game Lodge, offers resort facilities, a swimming pool, landscaped gardens. The Salt Lick Lodge is built exclusively for animal viewing and is a quartet of towers roofed in tropical thatch. Both illustrate the lure of Kenya's animal magnetism.

There are lots of great things about this new Flynn plastic gallon jug.

Actually our new plastic gallon jug is the next best thing to the cow herself for keeping Flynn Milk fresh. The re-sealable screw on cap insures complete freshness. The built-in handle makes it easy to carry and easy to pour from. The plastic is translucent so you can always see how much milk is left. Of course, we wouldn't be so excited about the container if we weren't so sure about what we put inside it. It costs no more than milk in waxed cartons. And you pay no deposit. Available now at your store. For home delivery call 243-6211.
