Iowa State Stadium For Trice

Murdered in 1923 While Playing Football Against University of Minnesota

by James B. Morris, Sr.

The new football stadium at Iowa State University is about completed and they are hoping it will be ready for the coming football season.

The Board of Athletics will be naming the stadium in the very near future. The student body has voted to name it the "Jack Trice Stadium" in honor of the outstanding Negro football player who was murdered in a game with the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis in 1923.

Trice came to Iowa State following an outstanding career as a high school player in Ohio. He earned a berth on the Iowa State football squad as a tackle. The school had played a game with St. Louis and Nebraska and each school had demanded Trice be taken out of the game and Iowa State bowed to the demand.

National
News Briefs

New York--Singer Brook Benton has been fined $500 and sentenced to two years probation for failing to file income tax returns for the years 1967 to 1969.

Los Angeles---After a history of discriminating against Blacks, the Motion Picture Projectionists Union has agreed to hire Black cameramen. The decision was made to avoid a court settlement of bias charges made by two Black projectionists.

Memphis---This Tennessee city has been ordered by the Justice Dept. to end discrimination in the employment of Blacks and women in government jobs.

Durham---Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson and Raleigh Mayor Clarence Lightner were awarded honorary degrees last month during commencement exercises at Central College in North Carolina.

Washington, D.C.---Carlton Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association said recently that Army ads appearing in white urban newspapers were an example of blatant racism on the part of the Defense Department. The large ads did not appear in any Black newspaper.

Washington, D.C.---If your paycheck nets less than $60.00 per week after federal, state, and local withholdings are subtracted, your check may not be garnished, according to the U.S. Department of Labor. (See page 2 for more information.)

Apparently Minnesota made no such demand, possibly because prior to 1923 its squad included an outstanding Negro end, Bob Marshall (He married Irene Knott of Great Falls, Montana whom I dated in Great Falls, Montana while living there in 1915 and 1916).

Trice knew that he was being watched and on the spot. This is evident in the note which he penned in his hotel room and was found later.

With Minnesota leading in the third period 14 to 10 its hoard of players rushed the Iowa line which buckled. Trice moved in to break up the play but in the course of it he was knocked to the ground and three players jumped on him while he was lying down, puncturing his lungs and breaking one of his breast bones. His body was removed to Ames in a pullman car where he died in a hospital two days later. Quoting the bible, "Greater love hath no man than this, that man lay down his life for his friends." John 15:13.

Iowa State broke off athletic association with Minnesota and this continued for many years thereafter.

Nile Kennick
Iowa City

The Iowa City Stadium is named for Kennick, an outstanding quarterback on its football team. Following his graduation he entered the Navy as a flyer and was serving in the Pacific area on an air craft carrier. He left on a routine mission but his plane never returned. Neither he nor the plane was ever found. Kennick had brought glory to Iowa football and it is appropriate the stadium bears his name.

The students at Iowa State voted to name the stadium for Jack Trice. No man has ever given more to the football squad at Iowa State than Trice and it should be an honor to name the stadium for him in light of the supreme sacrifice he made for his team.

Petitions are being circulated at Ames in support of naming the stadium after Trice. Other communities including Des Moines are doing the same.

Anyone who desires to support this view may sign one at 400 7th in West Des Moines or at 221 Locust St., Marjorie Smith - 4023 Cottage Grove and other friends of this cause.

Petitions are available at all
Des Moines Inter-City Churches.

Black Demo Delegates Threaten To Withdraw Support

During the 1974 State Democratic Convention, Black delegates demanded the adoption of an amendment to have a Black representative placed on the State Central Committee.

The Democratic State Convention, held in Ames this past weekend, was issued a resolution by the Black Caucus. The Caucus's action came after an amendment had been defeated twice by the delegates to the convention. The proposed amendment to Article VI, Section 9, would place a Black representative at-large on the State Central Committee, to be elected by the Black representatives of the conventions.

The amendment was defeated the first time by a division of the house, ruled on by State Chairman Tom Whitney. This ruling brought about a gathering of the Black delegates toward the front of the convention hall to discuss their next move. From this meeting it was decided the delegates would make another attempt to bring the amendment before the convention.

With a suspension of all procedural rules, the amendment to Article VI, Section 9, was again presented to the convention. This action brought about a roll call vote. The amendment was again defeated by a vote of 1,815.26 to 1,661.08.

The Blacks convened again in an assigned room to determine their next course of action. Out of this came the following resolution, presented by Al Parrish, spokesman for the Black Caucus.

We, the members of the Black Political Caucus, as duly elected delegates to the 1974 Democratic State Convention, wish to call to your attention several of our concerns.

After being informed of the voting results on the Proposed Amendment to the State Democratic Constitution, Article VI, Section 9, we feel we cannot continue to actively participate in the future proceedings of this 1974 State Democratic Convention, nor can we state we will actively continue to support Democratic candidates who have not, and will not, address themselves to issues of paramount concern to us.

Our decision to support this Proposed Amendment was not based upon a desire to receive preferential treatment, but our support is justifiable in light of the past exclusions of Black people from participating in decision-making processes as they relate to the Iowa State Democratic Party.

What happened to all our friends, some of whom are candidates at this moment, who professed to have sympathetic feelings towards the inequities of Blacks? It is blatantly evident to us that the Democratic candidates present during the discussion on the Amendment will be no more responsive to us as elected officials than they were today.

Leaking Confidential Information

The political atmosphere in Washington has brought on a situation which tends to drive decent people from politics caused by leaking information to the press.

Unfortunately, some members of the Judiciary Impeachment Committee of the House have been charged with leaking proceedings to certain newspapers even though what goes on behind closed doors is confidential. Stories are often twisted to parallel the views of the writer rather than what actually happened in the committee room.

This practice makes witnesses wonder whether what they say in private will be leaked out to the public with little means of combating untrue versions of the proceedings.

These leaks are often intended to embarrass someone such as the controversy concerning Secretary of State, Kissinger. They apparently wish to cut the dirt from under his feet, undermining the great diplomatic victories he has accomplished on all fronts. It looks as if some newspapers are in conspiracy with those who would use their position to steal confidential material which has appeared in the same newspapers on almost all occasions. This is stooping pretty low for the informers and newspapers as well.

Juvenile Delinquency Continues To Rise

Human Service Associates, a new public relations concern in Des Moines hired by Polk County reports that juvenile delinquency in Polk county rose 36% in 1973. The report was made by P.J. MacDonald, a social worker of the organization which counsels youths who come before the court.

Informed of this startling information the juvenile court officials appeared surprised and found it difficult to explain.

Recently, a team of out of town officials visited the Crime Correction Center in Des Moines because it has been heralded as a model set up for rehabilitating those convicted of crime.

Parents are responsible for most of this juvenile delinquency, along with television and other distractions which turn the minds of young people from the thoughts that they should be taught and learned. Often there is little effort made to teach youngsters respect for themselves and others, to work and save, to study hard in order to become better acquainted with what lies ahead for them in the future. Of course many disadvantaged youngsters, who see others living in better circumstances often attempt to close the gap by committing petty crimes which lead to greater crimes as they grow older.

In spite of all the new gadgets and other adjuncts in use to solve crimes and to help those who find themselves involved in trouble, crime among the grown ups continues to grow and grow. So it is no wonder that youngsters would find themselves in the same situation.

Garnishment Protection Increased

An employee must now earn more than $60 in disposable earnings in a workweek before his paycheck can be subject to garnishment, the U.S. Department of Labor reports.

This is because the amount of earnings not subject to garnishment increased from $48 to $60 May 1, when the new $2.00 an hour federal minimum wage went into effect.

"Disposable earnings" is the amount remaining after mandatory withholdings for federal, state and local taxes and for Social Security. "Earnings" generally include wages, salaries, commissions, bonuses, and payments made under pension and retirement plans.

Optional withholdings, such as for life and health insurance, union dues, or savings bonds are "disposable earnings" and are not exempt from garnishment.

If an employee's disposable earnings are more than $60 but less than $80 in a workweek, only the amount above $60 is subject to garnishment. If he earns more than $80, no more than 25 percent of disposable earnings over $80 can be garnished.

The earnings of any individual which are pay for personal services are protected, whether or not the individual is covered by the minimum wage law.

The federal wage garnishment law was passed in 1970 as part of the Consumer Credit Protection Act. It limits the amount of pay that can be garnished and protects the employee from being fired because of garnishment for a single indebtedness.

Three instances in which the federal restrictions on garnishment does not apply are: 1) court orders for support of

60 Black Engineers Per Year Under UT Program

A new program which combines financial assistance with career-oriented employment is attracting increasing numbers of blacks to study engineering at the University of Tennessee's Knoxville campus.

The goal is the graduation of 60 black engineers a year.

"Nationally, we need to increase by 15 times the number of minority engineers to bring them in line with population norms," Dr. F.N. Peebles, dean of the UTK College of Engineering, says. "We feel the college has identified an effective approach to do its part."

The approach is UT's Minority Engineering Program which offers qualified black students an education, with scholarship aid, through the cooperative mode of education.

Seventeen students entered the program last fall, and some 50 are expected this September.

Not only do the students have the advantage of scholarship aid from sponsoring organizations of the Minority Engineering Program but also of earning much of their own way by their co-op work experience.

Sponsor comment in response to the program has been enthusiastic.

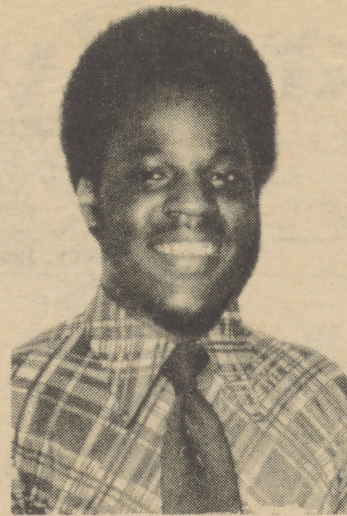

Financial assistance over the five-year study-work period will total approximately $17,550 per student—$5,550 in scholarship money and an average of $12,000 in gross earnings from work experiences.

Incoming freshmen to the Minority Engineering Program have the opportunity to "pre-co-op" during the summer before entering the University. Last year's pre-co-op students held positions ranging from maintenance worker to engineering clerk. Some of the students worked for employers close to their homes, while other chose to take more distant assignments.

Employers (TVA, General Electric, South Central Bell, Union Carbide, Alcoa, U.S. Corps of Engineers and Allen Hoshall, a consulting engineering firm) generally were well-pleased with their student co-op workers, and the feeling was mutual, Peebles says. In all cases, students asked to continue the co-op phase at their initial locations, and management asked that the students be returned to the same assignments in future quarters.

any person; 2) court orders under Chapter XIII of the Bankruptcy Act, and 3) debts owed for federal or state taxes.

Most states have wage garnishment laws of their own. When these laws conflict with the federal provision, the law resulting in smaller garnishment applies.

Upon successful completion of his education he will join the IRS Intelligence Division as a full-time Special Agent. He will be given specialized training used in detection and investigation of Federal Tax Fraud cases.

Dean is a 1973 graduate of Tech High School. He resides with his parents at 1520 Harrison Street in Des Moines.

People Of Color Stricken By Yhtapa

by Habiba

Much is said about Sickle Cell Anemia and the havoc it plays with the lives of Black people afflicted by this terrible disease. But there's another disease that attacks not only Black folks, but all persons of color, and it has some unique characteristics. I'm talking about Yhtapa, a real crippler.

Yhtapa strikes indiscriminately; any person of color may become a victim. Although the disease strikes the very young, it usually doesn't become evident until the victim reaches his or her teen-age years. Even then, though the symptoms may be quite pronounced, the victim may attribute these to something else, a totally unrelated state of ill-health.

Perhaps the most bizarre result of being stricken with Yhtapa is that it does not kill, cripple, maim, or otherwise ill-effect the victim's body. On the contrary, only those who do not have Yhtapa, or those who have received treatment for Yhtapa, ever die. This is one disease that does no direct harm; but if allowed to progress unchecked, may be held indirectly responsible for millions of spiritual deaths.

Many Black people have lived as a result of the disease, many who might have perished had they not been afflicted with the germ. Persons stricken by this horrid disease live on and on, dead of mind, yet sound of body. Had Malcolm X had Yhtapa, he'd be alive today. Had Dr. King had it, he'd still be preaching sermons.

Physicians are powerless as healers in the face of this disease. It is instead a question of "healing thyself". Once you understand Yhtapa is an anagram, a jumbled word, a puzzle to solve, you can cure yourself. Once y-h-t-a-p-a is defined, the victim can begin to recover. And once defined, anyone who thinks Yhtapa is a right-on disease has sure enough been afflicted to the very marrow of their bones.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT if the Proposed Amendment to the State Democratic Constitution, Article VI, Section 9, is not passed, the Black Political Caucus hereby withdraws its support from the State Democratic Party, withdraws its support from state, district, and local Democratic candidates, and will further encourage Iowans to do likewise.

The delegation was given 30 minutes to respond to the Caucus resolution. The Caucus waited in their assigned room for the decision. The decision to adopt the amendment was delivered within 15 minutes. The Black Caucus returned to the hall to resume the business of the convention.

The Black Caucus sees the representation of Jimmy Porter to the State Central Committee as one of many steps to gain more involvement within the State Democratic Party. State Chairman Tom Whitney, believes it was the will of the convention to allow that there be a Black representative.

Jimmy Porter, delegate from Black Hawk county will not be able to vote on issues which come from the codes of Iowa, but he will be able to vote on other issues, as well as have a voice on all issues which come before the State Central Committee. The State Central Committee is the official governing body between state conventions, and determines what issues the Democrats will address themselves to, and control the allocation of money.

A Black delegate will be one of three representing the State of Iowa at the Democratic Convention in Kansas City this summer. Ms. B.J. Furgerson. Another candidate was Representative William Hargraves who was defeated.

Black Self-Reliance Goal Of 6th Pan African Congress

By Hodari Ali

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (NNPA) — The 6th Pan African Congress, the first since 1945, convened here Wednesday, the 19th, in this beautiful East African capital, and will continue until the 27th.

Excitement is running high here as diplomats and delegates from throughout the world check into the hotels for what may be one of the most important meetings of black people in this century. Over 200 black delegates from the United States and Canada are expected.

The sessions are being held at the University of Dar Es Salaam. The theme is: "Where Do We Go From Here?" This is a topic long advanced by President Julius K. Nyerere of this republic and the prime mover of the Congress.

Major agenda items to be discussed at the Congress, through its format of plenary sessions, workshops and special sub-committees, include: 1. Strategies for increasing support for the liberation of southern Africa; 2. economic programs for developing self-reliance and economic cooperation among African states and communities.

3. Prospects and programs for enhancing scientific and technological capabilities; 4. strategic uses of current land and manpower resources; and 5. mechanisms for increasing political unity between African states and black communities throughout the world.

Unlike the previous five Pan African Congresses, the 6th is the first to be held on African soil. Delegates, observers and special guests, primarily from Africa, but also from North and South America, the Caribbean, Pacific Islands, Australia and Europe, are attending this historic Congress.

Dr. C.L.R. James, noted historian at Howard University and an international sponsor of the Congress, explained here the major difference in the goals of this conference, and the 5th, in which he also participated. It was held in 1945 in Manchester, England.

"In 1945" he said, "our top priority was the political independence of the colonial countries. In 1974, political independence is not sufficient. We must have complete economic control of our countries."

In addition to Dr. James, international sponsors of the Congress include Congress of African People Chairman Imamu Baraka, black activist;

Ebony Editor Lerone Bennett; Dr. Chancellor Williams, Howard University historian; author St. Clair Drake; Mrs. W.E.B. DuBois and Mrs. Marcus Garvey.

A significant development concerning the Congress, is that it has received the unanimous endorsement from the Organization of African Unity, the continental body of the 42 free African nations.

Delegates and observers were selected by local steering committees based on their record of work and commitment to the black community. This process was coordinated by Dr. Sylvia Hill, Secretary-General of the North America Region for the 6 PAC, headquartered in St. Paul, Minn.

Rangel Asks Jackson State Probe

Congressman Charles B. Rangel (D-NY), a member of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Civil Rights and Constitutional Rights and chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, today urged the Justice Department to conduct an in-depth probe of the killing of black students by Mississippi State Troopers at Jackson State College in 1970. "This incident," said Rangel, "has never been fully investigated."

The New York Democrat pointed out that the Justice Department undertook an inquiry into the Kent State events under pressure from members of Congress. The Kent State grand jury has indicted National Guardsmen in connection with those shootings. "I hope we can convince the Attorney General that the Jackson State mystery must also be solved and the guilty punished," Rangel continued.

Rangel cited the Scranton Commission report on campus unrest. "According to the report, 'a significant cause of the deaths and injuries at Jackson State College (was) the confidence of white officers that if they fire weapons during a black campus disturbance they would face neither stern departmental discipline nor criminal prosecution.' I hope the troopers were mistaken in their assessment of our system of justice."

Rangel has persistently urged the Subcommittee to review police overreaction to cases of campus disorder. "I am encouraged that Subcommittee Chairman Don Edwards (D-Calif.) recently wrote to Attorney General Saxbe about the Jackson State affair," he stated. "Congress has a duty to insure that the truth about the tragic incident which took the lives of two young black students is uncovered."

He indicated that he would continue to raise his voice on this issue until the government commits itself to a full-scale inquiry. "I am determined that justice be done," Rangel emphasized. "If the law is to have any validity, it must also apply to the presumed protectors of law and order."

New York Boasts Only Free TV Film School

(from the NY Voice)

Benjamin L. Hooks, a member of the Federal Communications Commission, Rev. H. Carl McCall, president of Inner City Broadcasting Corp., and John Jay Iselin, president of WNET/13, addressed the graduating class of the WNET/13 Training School Thursday, June 13 in the Pope Auditorium of Fordham University, Lincoln Center.

Licensed by the New York State Education Department, the WNET/13 Training School is the only television film school in the country that offers professional instruction and apprenticeships free of charge to students. Funding is received from a number of foundations, corporations, and government programs.

Since its inception in 1968, 80 per cent of the Training School graduates have found positions with major television networks in the country and virtually every Black and Hispanic filmmaker in New York has been associated with the program either as a student or an instructor, according to the school.

The WNET/13 Training School was originally organized at the Black Journal Workshop, in response to the Kerner Commission's call for action to alleviate racial discrimination in television employment and programming. Channel 13 is currently seeking funding for a new 64-week period from the Manpower Development and Training Program and other government, foundation, and corporate sources.

Genetics Counseling Workshop

For Sickle Cell

The Sickle Cell Disease Foundation of Greater New York launched what is perhaps the first Workshop Program in the country that will seek to develop a basic interest in the Black Community in genetic counseling. Nurses, Social Workers, Health Educators and other medically related personnel participated in the Pilot Workshop Program which was held during the week of June 17 in New York City at 106 East 16th Street.

"The need for developing an interest in genetic counseling on the part of medically related minority personnel" said Mr. Campbell, "is due to the severe shortage of counselors among Blacks to administer services to those found to have Sickle Cell trait and other hereditary disorders. "Very often when people are screened for sickle cell trait and found to be positive, they do not have the necessary information to understand the nature of their disorder and to discuss it on the family level. This Workshop will help to meet this need."

Fifty selected participants from public and private hospitals, health care and social service agencies comprised the initial Workshop Program. Dr. Robert F. Murray, Chief, Medical Genetics Unit of Howard University, Washington, D.C. and Dr. Kermit Nash, Associate Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at Yale Medical School conducted the Workshop.

Minority Youth Apprenticeship In Alaska

Some 50 Alaskan minority youths will be prepared by union members for apprenticeships in the construction trades in Anchorage and Fairbanks, Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan announced.

The council has contracted to place a minimum of 50 youths—mostly Aleut Indians, Eskimos and blacks—in apprenticeable occupations.

Apprenticeship Outreach prepares minority youths to pass written and oral exams through a concentrated tutoring program determined by the trades in which the examination is to be given and each applicant's needs.

Woodland-Willkie Transportation System

During a meeting held June 10, 1974, the Woodland-Willkie Neighborhood Priority Board discussed the probability of establishing a neighborhood transportation system. The proposed system would service Planned Parenthood patients, CCRAP youth to and from summer activities, child care centers, and Senior Citizens. The neighborhood oriented transportation system could be a much needed supplement to the grossly inadequate M.T.A.

Abanishe/ Freeman Nuptials

Mrs. Ruth H. Freeman and Dr. Ezekiel O. Abanishe were married Sunday, the ninth of June, in an African marriage ritual performed by Rev. Avance Harden, in the Greenwood Park Rose Garden, Forty-eighth Street and Grand Avenue.

The bride and groom and many of the wedding party and guests were attired in African dress. The bride wore a floral plum colored African dress with a pink blouse and matching turban and pink sandals. The groom wore a plum colored long African robe.

The bride had with her four sisters as bridal attendants: Mrs. Peggy Gaines, Ms. Kathy Brown, Ms. Girtha Thomas and Ms. Tracy Ware. The groom was accompanied by his brother, Mr. Joseph Abanishe. In the wedding party was the bride's foster mother, Mrs. Fred Ware, Sr.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Fred Williams. Following the marriage, the group left by cars for the reception at Sugar Hill.

Sugar Hill was beautifully decorated. The young women and men were busy arriving with covered dishes of African foods. Young friends of the couple had organized themselves as a big committee and planned an African wedding feast. A young man took the floor and made a welcoming speech from all the Africans present to those of us who are American born. It was a beautiful gesture. Mr. Fred Williams responded in behalf of us all. Mrs. Connie Smith was responsible for the fruit displays. They were beautiful and so delicious. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Barbara Harris were hostesses.

Among those seen at the gathering were Mrs. Martha Parkey, Miss Patricia Francis, Mrs. Venita Wells, Mrs. Jeannette Bruce, Mrs. Marilyn Burdick, Mrs. Joyce Brown, Mrs. Marri Johnson, Mrs. Doris Tucker, Ms. Judy Butts, Mr. George Adams, Mrs. Loretta Rife, Mr. Morris Johnson, Mrs. Verona Cheatom, Mrs. Alcynta Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Manly and children, Mr. Zack Hamlett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ware, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woods, Mr. Warren Williams, Mr. Wayne Camp, Mrs. Evelyn Holt, Mrs.

Katherine Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Homer McQueen and daughters, Dr. and Mrs. Adego Eferakeya, Rev. J. B. Shelton, of Marshalltown, Rev. and Mrs. Geo. W. Campbell, Waverly.

Rev. and Mrs. Campbell stated that they were Dr. Abanishe's family. They met him at the airport when he first arrived in this country. They stated with warmth that they met the young man as his parents. Africans present were Mrs. Helen Ikpe, of Calabar, Southeastern State of Nigeria. She is presently enrolled in Des Moines Area Community College. She plans in the Fall to enter the University of Iowa for a B.S. in Nursing. James Garnett of Monrovia, Liberia, a Drake student majoring in law. Luke Ade Ajileye, Marshalltown Community College with a major in pre medicine. Linus Ohaebosim, who served as chairman of the reception. David, Williams, from the University of Iowa, who hails from Sierra Leone, West Africa, and who majors in anthropology, Opal Colbert and Dan LaHail, James Akangbe, John Njigban, Samuel Maligi, Chris Kojoe-Borah, and Michael Kamanda-Kovey.

Equally outstanding among the guests was the owner and operator of Sugar Hill, Mr. John Haskins, who was clad as an African Chief. His headdress was that of a Chief. He is one businessman who plays his role with pleasure. His attitude added much to the beautiful spirit which permeated the affair.

CARD OF THANKS

Dr. and Mrs. Ezekiel O. Abanishe wish to thank everyone for the gifts and for all the work and help they gave toward the wedding and reception.

PROBLEMS OF BLACK CHILDREN SUBJECT OF NATIONAL CONFAB

With a goal of planning program alternatives for the growth and development of Black children and youth, the National Council for Black Child Development (NCBCD) is convening its second annual conference in Milwaukee on July 24-28.

According to Thomas C. Taylor, President of NCBCD, conference agenda consists of indepth review and discussion of the critical problems and issues affecting the lives of Black children and their families.

Taylor says the conference will look into three vital areas: new program ideas that Black child advocates can use; values and beliefs needed by the Black community in order to survive, and success case studies and stories at the family, school, neighborhood and government levels.

"At the conference, we will engage in substantive discussion and planning toward improving the conditions which affect the lives of Black children and youth," Taylor said. "In order for us to be effective, we must know and deal with the problems, identify and utilize available community resources, and work cooperatively with other organizations and institutions with similar objectives. This is the thrust of our conference agenda."

Among the specific subject areas to be discussed are: "Supporting Black Children in White Schools"; "Child Development and Day Care Programs: Models for Excellence"; "How Can the Church or Mosque Support the Development of Black Children and Youth?"; "Effective Community Organizing in Support of Black Children and Youth"; "New Models and Methods of Teaching the Teachers of Black Children"; "How Can We Improve on the Ways We Raise Our Children?"; "Recognizing and Helping the Abused Black Child and His Family," and "Transcending Class Differences Among Black Children and Youth."

The National Council for Black Child Development, founded in August 1972, is an umbrella organization of professionals, community organizations, day care and child development centers, and other individuals and groups active in or concerned with the broad area of improving the growth and development of Black children and youth.

Persons and organizations interested in participating in the July conference should contact the National Council for Black Child Development, 490 L'Enfant Plaza East, SW, Suite 3204, Washington, D.C. 20024, or telephone (202) 488-3591.

Poverty or Proverty?

WASHINGTON — Income levels used in federal programs in which being "poor" is an eligibility factor have been raised by from $130 for a nonfarm family of one to $370 for a family of seven, the U.S. Department of Labor announced.

The new income levels reflect the increase in the cost of living since the last criteria were set in July 1973 and will be used immediately.

The revised poverty-level guidelines for nonfarm and farm families will be applied in administering some manpower programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), which provides jobs and training opportunities for the economically disadvantaged, jobless and underemployed persons.

For purpose of manpower program eligibility, a person is considered to be poor or "disadvantaged" if he or she or the family receives welfare payments or if the annual family income in cash does not exceed the new levels.

Income limits for families of more than seven persons may be determined by adding for the nonfarm and farm levels these amounts for each additional person: $740 and $630 for the Continental U.S., $850 and $720 for Hawaii, and $920 and $780 for Alaska.

The levels are used in Federal programs in which being poor is an eligibility factor. The poverty level guidelines are issued by the Office of Economic Opportunity on an annual or needed basis for use by the various Federal agencies that need a criterion in their programs.

Humanizing Law Enforcement

As unpleasant as it may seem, some system of law enforcement is necessary in our contemporary society. Epochs and eras ago, the same need was felt in virtually every existing social order. The method of enforcing laws or codes set down by an particular society differed greatly according to cultures, but nonetheless, some system of maintaining "law & order" has always been employed.

Needless to say, our present system stems from a European method of enforcement. Because the emphasis has traditionally been placed on personal gain, a so-called impersonal force was needed to maintain order.

In African societies however, emphasis was placed upon progress and prosperity as a group, and individuals were not likely to disrupt the process since little could be gained by that kind of action. Law or code enforcement was the responsibility of the group.

Our European inheritance has provided us with an impersonal, dictatorial law enforcement system. And despite the continual abuse Black, Brown, Red, and Yellow people suffer at the hands of this system, none of the communities have made any effort to alter the operations of the perpetrators, except for an occasional, ineffectual shooting.

Somehow it seems that the "shoot the pigs" approach to altering the system is a futile, melodramatic philosophy. Certainly, the man doing the shooting derives some degree of satisfaction from his effort, and his act does call attention to the fact that a man became so tired of abuse that he took action to end the torture. Yet, one cannot kill all law enforcement personnel, and rather than the sporadic attacks of violence, another approach has to be tried.

People scoff at the "work within the system" philosophy, but evidence of use of exactly that method is abundant. Didn't Bobby Seale, one-time scariest Black Panther on the scene, run for the respectable post of mayor in Oakland, California? And the 17 Black members of the U.S. Congress must certainly represent a stab at change through "systematic" means.

In law enforcement, people of color must become part of the system, not as co-oppressors, but as "peace officers" in the true sense of the word. Blacks, Chicanos, Indians, and Asiatics should be making efforts to infiltrate the system and police not only their own communities, but enforcement officers as well.

Too much time has been wasted on rhetoric, too many lives have been wasted because people would rather procrastinate and suffer constant abuse than get constructively involved. As bad as it sounds, Black men especially must become patrolmen, detectives, jailers and chiefs if any justice for third world people is to come about. If you object to becoming a part of a system so despised, you must either weaken or change the system, keeping in mind that there has always been and will always be some kind of institution that exists to enforce laws.

If you can't deal with involving yourself in that which exists now, then design an alternative. Do something that will bear fruit and keep in mind that if you don't do something positive, the negatives to which you are subjected daily will grow and strengthen.

Activities Involving The Young Child

by Mikel Johnson

Child Care '76

Adoption

Approximately 85 persons attended an informational meeting on adoption put on by representatives of the various agencies in the Polk County area who have children available for adoption placement. Those resource agencies participating were: The State Department of Social Services, the Polk County Department of Social Services, Iowa Children and Family Services, The Easter Seal Center, Catholic Social Services, Polk County Mental Retardation Society, Lutheran Social Services and Hillcrest Children's Services.

The target of the informational meeting was the "waiting child," referring to that child who in the past has not been readily adopted because prospective adoptive parents were interested mainly in infants—particularly Caucasian infants, leaving the mixed babies, the older children, the handicapped, and the brother-sister groups with no likely prospects for ever having parents of their own and leaving them their only future being either life in an orphanage or a series of foster homes. Although mixed infants are no longer classified as hard to place, there are many children in these other categories who need placement. And the idea is to interest prospective parents to adopt these types of children.

A portion of the meeting was devoted to the viewing of a slide lecture on the "...the child that waits." Following this, various agency representatives commented on criteria for adoptive homes. It was in this comment period that many of the fallacies surrounding what financial standing a person must have to adopt were dispelled. The most important characteristic of an adoptive parent voiced by all was the ability to love the child or children as the case may be. If a family seems suitable, but they themselves feel that they do not possess the necessary funds to support the child, the State of Iowa does have a subsidy allotment which is available to this child. The subsidy is granted on need and size of family, with special consideration given to adoptions which might involve a handicap, etc. It was pointed out that any brother and sister group automatically qualifies for this program as does any racially mixed child adopted by a Black family.

The evening was concluded with participants being given a chance to meet and question persons who had actually adopted children from the aforementioned groups.

Childhood Lead Paint Poison Control Project

On Thursday afternoon, June 13, the Advisory group of the Childhood Lead Paint Poison Control Program met at the Argonne Armory in the Health Education Conference room to consider final preparations of the Lead Paint Ordinance for submission to the City Council for consideration. Present at the meeting were representatives of various city and county agencies, the Health Department, parents of children afflicted with lead paint poisoning, and interested citizens.

Alternate forms for possible ways to submit the ordinance were considered and the go ahead for submission to the council at the earliest possible date given. Members of the Advisory group will be continuing to solicit support for the ordinance and any person or group interested in pledging their support may do so by contacting Advisory group members or the Polk County Health Department Lead Paint Project at 283-4230. Tom Goldman is chairperson of the Advisory group and the group is staffed by Mary Radcliffe of the Polk County Health Department.

Children's Lobby

Wednesday, June 12, found representatives from many early childhood youth services programs meeting in Iowa City in a day long session with the stated objective of exploring possible ways to establish a state-wide Children's Lobby which would act as an active force in the Iowa State Legislature for issues involving children and their families. The support for such a move has been evident for some time and the group meeting in Iowa City came up with several recommendations for ways in which this body might be organized. These recommendations will be considered in the next few weeks by a Task Force agreed upon on Wednesday.

Also considered by the group was the possibility of the appointment of a Commission on Children and Youth, presented in remarks made by Phil Smith, the Governor's Youth Representative in the Office of Planning and Programming. Such a commission would deal with planning and assessing needs for various early childhood and youth services.

NAACP Branch Membership Funds Session At Convention

NEW YORK.—The Department of Branches will hold a membership and fund raising workshop at the NAACP Annual 65th Convention in New Orleans to involve as many delegates as possible in detailed discussions on ways to increase the NAACP's roles and fulfill the current campaign goal of "100,000 More in '74."

Dr. Eugene T. Reed, president of the New York State Conference, will be the workshop chairman, while Mrs. Edie Hollis, of the Michigan State Conference, will be co-chairman.

Also leading the session will be Gloster B. Current, director of branches, who has the direct responsibility of leading the membership campaign. There will also be several consultants from the national staff and volunteer forces that serve the Association.

Particular areas of discussion will be "membership campaign and components of a successful drive," "the Freedom Fund," "fund raising dinners," "Life Memberships," "enlisting corporations," and "publicity and promotion."

"Y" Camp Registration

Des Moines—1974 has required some Iowa families to adjust their summer vacation plans. Extended travel may need to be curtailed in favor of more close-by opportunities. This is indicated by the record-breaking registration of young boys, ages 8 and up, at the Des Moines YMCA Camp. This camp, located northwest of Boone, Iowa along the Des Moines River, has served youth from Iowa and surrounding states for more than 50 years.

Over 450 boys from Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Texas and Community Development Study On

M.L. King Center Rehabilitation

At its meeting of April 15, 1974, by Roll Call Number 1469, the City Council authorized the Mayor to sign a contract to conduct a feasibility study for the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Human Development.

The Rehabilitation and Site Development Study for the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center was completed by Karl Winkler, Architects. This feasibility study includes interviews with the City Parks Department, the Des Moines Area Community College, and the Polk County Department of Social Services and provides a detailed evaluation of the structural, electrical, and mechanical facilities of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center, located at 1000 College Avenue.

The feasibility study consists of an analysis of the educational building, the existing gymnasium (Kendall Hall), Coolbaugh Hall, and Shaw Hall. The study finds that the educational building and the gymnasium are in basically good condition. However, Coolbaugh Hall and Shaw Hall are determined to be 100% depreciated. Coolbaugh Hall was extensively damaged by a fire in 1973. The study recommends demolition of this building at an estimated cost of $16,390. Because of changing construction requirements for public use buildings, Shaw Hall would require extensive repairs and remodeling. The feasibility study finds that Shaw Hall is also 100% depreciated. The mechanical and electrical equipment in Coolbaugh Hall and Shaw Hall have no value in any long-term renovation program.

The evaluation projects the necessary rehabilitation of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center in three phases. Phase One includes the purchase of the three square blocks which now compromise the Martin Luther King, Jr. complex, and also calls for the removal of Coolbaugh Hall, and the garages between Coolbaugh Hall and Shaw Hall. This phase would remove all paving for driveways, most of the sidewalks and the concrete wall around the play field. Major implementation during this phase would consist of a restoration of the educational building and gymnasium, construction of a new educational building and construction of a Central Plant Services building. A new student plaza would be included in this phase and the existing athletic field would be improved. The new buildings in this phase would be located in such a manner as to create a campus atmosphere around a central plaza. The estimated cost of Phase One would be $4,110,560.

Phase Two includes the anticipation that Shaw Hall will be demolished to make room for a new Health, Welfare and Employment building. The construction of this building will necessitate the acquisition of more land for parking in order to avoid an overcrowded appearance and to maintain a campus atmosphere. Additional walkways and landscaping will be expanded under Phase Two. It is anticipated that the cost of Phase Two would be $798,855.

Under Phase Three, a new Community Services building would be constructed. This building will house Social Services Agencies and additional instructional and classroom facilities. The estimated cost of Phase Three is $2,958,617.

The cost for Phase One, Two and Three, as presented in the feasibility study, is estimated to be $7,868,032 in 1974 costs. Copies of the study are available request.

Missouri have already registered for Y Camp filling two July sessions. Periods left open for registration are: June 22-29, July 21-27, August 11-18, plus Sports Fitness Camp for junior and senior high boys, August 5-11.

One of the few midwest camps with a full program of swimming, boating, athletics, horseback riding, crafts, naturelore, Indian Lore, etc., the Des Moines Y Camp combines these kinds of activities with character building programs along the Trail of Five Fires and at Inspiration Point.

Full information and registration forms will be sent upon request to Camp Office, Des Moines YMCA, 101 Locust, Des Moines, Iowa, phone, 288-0131, ext. 211.

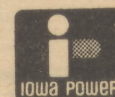

OVEN PEEPING COSTS YOU MONEY

The wise use of your oven and range can mean big energy savings. Here are some suggestions to help you get the most for your money when it comes to cooking.

- Don't be constantly opening your oven to see what's cooking. A lot of valuable heat escapes.
- Plan oven cooking so more than one item can be cooked at the same time.
- Most ovens are well-insulated to retain heat, so if the food is done a few minutes before serving time, go ahead and turn the oven off.
- Use tight lids on cooking utensils.
- Make sure the pan is as large as the burner so you don't lose valuable heat around the sides of the pan.
- Use high heat to bring foods to a fast boil, then reduce the heat to maintain boiling.

Gladys Knight & The Pips

Gladys Knight & the Pips will star in their first prime time network Special, "Midnight Train To Georgia," taped entirely on location in and around Atlanta (Gladys' home town), and at one of the most spectacular theme amusement parks in the world, SIX FLAGS OVER GEORGIA. "Midnight Train To Georgia" will be colorcast on Friday, June 21, at 8:30 PM (7:30 PM Central Time) on the NBC Television Network, Channel 13 in Des Moines.

True marriages, goes the saying, are made in heaven. Well, reflecting on the experience of rare and fine artists, like Gladys Knight & The Pips, it seems that true careers are made there, too. Today, singles by Gladys Knight & The Pips rise like champagne bubbles to the top of the charts. Since their recent signing with The Buddah Group, "Midnight Train To Georgia" was certified as a million-selling single and their first Buddah LP, Imagination, followed suit as a gold album. Given the breathless raves that greet their live performances in the U.S. and in Europe, the future looks bright to the horizon, and yet if ever dues were paid, Gladys Knight & The Pips have paid them.

It began in 1952, at a birthday party for Gladys' older brother Merald. Surrounded by family and friends, Gladys, Merald, and two cousins, William Guest and Edward Patten, decided to pool their talents when it came their turn to provide the entertainment. The four young voices blended with home-grown genuineness, and another cousin, James Wood (a.k.a. Pip) saw a glimmer of the future. With his encouragement they formed a quartet, 'The Pips', and began singing in their hometown, Atlanta, Georgia. Their first big tour was with Jackie Wilson and Sam Cooke, zig-zagging across the South, learning first hand the bitter heritage of segregation and disrespect, notwithstanding their immediate success with audiences, black and white. They stayed in Atlanta just long enough to graduate from high school, and then with the money from a two-week engagement in a local nightclub they took that midnight train to New York City.

Looking back over their career it must be noted that the amount of frustration, agony and loneliness that Gladys Knight & The Pips have endured has shattered the dreams of many other young hopefuls. But an intense spirit, a true musical marriage and real sense of their own worth, despite the more than occasional insults they encountered-like a promoter who ripped off their entire receipts for a brilliant sold-out concert and then openly dared them to protest the theft-have forged them into a group that is as solid emotionally as it is inspired musically. There is a powerful autobiographical reverberation when they sing, in the title song of their debut Buddah album: "I've really got to use a good imagination. To find a good reason to keep on keepin' on / I've got to make the best of / A bad situation..." which, in fact, is exactly what they have done.

Aaron Is Post Office Favorite

Henry Aaron, the Atlanta Braves home run king, today, Thursday, June 13, was named America's No. 1 recipient of fan mail in 1973 by the United States Postal Service.

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen presented Aaron, during a brief ceremony in Washington, D.C., with a plaque which read: "Henry Aaron-America's No. 1 Home Runs-723; Fan Mail (1973) 900,000."

According to a survey conducted by the Postal Service, Aaron received a total of approximately 900,000 fan letters during 1973. The figure was supplied by the Atlanta Braves club.

In its survey, the Postal Service asked professional sports organizations, the three major television networks, motion picture companies, television production companies and fan mail organizations, to submit the approximate amounts of mail their top personalities each received. Some who were invited to participate did not choose to respond.

Aaron proved to be the winner, far and away. Other top letter recipients were television personalities Dinah Shore and Johnny Carson and football stars Joe Namath of the New York Jets and O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills.

The amount of mail each of these personalities received ranged from a high of 60,000 letters to 27,375. Only unsolicited letter mail counts were sought in the Postal Service's survey.

Following is a listing of the top letter recipients and the estimated amount each received last year:

Henry Aaron	900,00
Dinah Shore	60,000
Johnny Carson	52,000
Alan Alda

Check Out Your Mind

by Habiba

Broadside Press has recently published volume three of the Broadside Critics Series. This particular volume, "The Folk Roots of Contemporary Afro-American Poetry", may be especially valuable reading for students taking courses in Black Literature, especially if they must deal with an unqualified instructor.

In "Folk Roots", the author, Bernard W. Bell presents four excellent chapters and a bibliography. Chapter II deals with Folk Art and the Harlem Renaissance; good reading for non-students who are interested in that period of development in Black American literature.

The book is not elementary reading material. If you decide to attempt it, give yourself plenty of time. "Folk Roots" is highly recommended for students who are intent upon gleaming more from the subject than will probably be presented by the class instructor.

by Allen Ashby

The big brawl is over, and Joe Frazier did what he was expected to do, knock the daylight out of Jerry Quarry. All this talk about the new Jerry Quarry was good, and people who wanted to believe the fellow had a chance let the inexperience of some of Quarry's latest opponents fool them. With those fellows like Ron Lyles, Jerry could change styles and box them. But when he got in there with Frazier, he did what any athlete does when the moment of truth comes. In any game or contest that you want to win, you go with your best, whatever that is. That is what Quarry did, and it wasn't enough for the second time. Now I would have to guess that Smokin' Joe will have the same trouble with Mr. Foreman that he had before. His style is to swarm all over his opponents and he isn't going to do any different this time out. Well, sooner or later he is going to run into one of those picnic hams Foreman carries for fists, and that will be that. With Muhammad Ali it will be a little different. Ali is still a big fast thirty one or two year old heavyweight who can hit when he wants to. He has the skills to out box the champion if he gets into the proper condition, and doesn't begin to try to clown around as he sometimes does. It just might be that in Foreman's efforts to catch the former champ, he will start playing, and that is like playing with a rattlesnake. George can hit you in the seat of your pants and knock you out, and if the Ali guy forgets that for one minute, he may find it out. Ali hasn't lost much of his speed or any of his punching power when he wants to use it. He has always been a clean liver, and that is the name of the game. One hears and reads in gossip columns that the champ is enjoying his money too well. People could be wrong, but they like to tell tales out of school, and sometimes they are not always true. Maybe they ain't this time, but we shall see come this fall. Then there will be one more big purse for the winner against a fellow they both are pretty sure to beat. Ali will probably box Frazier nearly to death again or George will land one upside his head, and they will all go home a few hundred thousand bucks richer, and that is what the game is all about.

I wonder what our Lovelady would do if he got out of town for a while and really worked at the business of boxing. When a fellow works at boxing and a job, he finds it hard to really get into the proper shape. After a hard day's work, it is difficult to go to the gym and work as hard as one has to to get ready for a fight. Maybe one of the boxing syndicates could take him over and just see how far he could go. Then the guy might discover just what it is to really be in shape. Too many times athletes think they are ready and they are just about half ready. I remember how I used to tell fellows in the thirties and early forties that they weren't nearly in condition. It was gratifying to get several letters from fellows who admitted that they hadn't known condition until they went into the armed forces. As one fellow put it, "I know that today I would never get tired in a five set tennis match." and that about sums it up for just about all of the guys who wrote me. Did I say, "I told you so?" You bet your life I did.

And with boxing out of the way comes tennis. The season kicks off next week with the Hawkeye Open meet starting June 26. This has been the meet that has overshadowed our own Hilltop meet. That was because so often we were treated as if ours was just another black meet, and it wasn't until last year that people who didn't play in the thing realized that it wasn't. This year the Hawkeye is giving cash prizes, and that may help us in our efforts. Then there is the Missouri Valley Junior meet in the early part of July, and then comes our meet. This is the most tennis people have been exposed to in some time. Usually it was the Hawkeye and then the Hilltop. Usually in the Valley junior meet there are some top notch black youngsters, and a lot of people will get to see that more than one black youngster plays the game. Maybe we will get to see the kid, Juan Farrow of St. Louis. At the meeting of state tennis tournament directors, I really had to battle to keep our meet in the standard (for us) traditional manner, and this time succeeded. But it was like trying to swim upstream. Don't know if we can hold out another year or not. Our tradition includes no tie breakers. The Davis Cup doesn't have 'em, so why should we, and we are not obsolete until the rule book makes it mandatory.

HELPFUL SAFETY TIPS

IF STEERING FAILS

Power steering is like a dishwasher. You can do without either but life is nicer with them.

If you've never driven without power steering, you can't possibly appreciate how much it contributes to easy handling.

But if it quits functioning, you'll learn to love it in a hurry.

Here's a way to find out what it feels like to drive without power steering before it happens.

Drive to a deserted lot. Start the car and drive a few feet, now while the car is still rolling, kill the engine, by turning the key back one notch. Now try and steer. Turning will take a lot more effort but it can be done.

Should you lose power steering while driving, move out of heavy traffic and make a couple of slight turns of the steering wheel to see how much effort it will take.

If you can still handle the car, turn on the four-way flashers to warn other drivers you're having trouble, and head for the nearest repair shop.

Probably nothing drastic has happened. You may be out of power steering fluid or have a bad drive belt.

If you can't handle it, pull off slowly on the shoulder, keeping the wheels straight. Leave on the four-way flashers, and raise the hood. Lock the doors and wait for a policeman.
