The Prospect Of Gerald Ford

Ford Addresses

National Urban League

(Following are excerpts from then Vice-President Gerald Ford's Address to the National Urban League in San Francisco on July 29, 1974.)

...At the time of my confirmation hearings I felt the thrust of the change that has occurred when a civil rights leader was heard to say, "You can put all the Black and Brown folks Jerry Ford knows in the trunk of a Pinto and still have room for the GOP Elephant." That of course was an exaggeration, but I understood the thrust of his comment and the reason for his anxieties. And when such men of stature as Clarence Mitchell, Roy Wilkins, Vernon Jordan and Jesse Jackson spoke out against my confirmation, I thoroughly realized the impact of both the change and expectations on the part of minorities. Let me assure you that during my confirmation hearings minorities put me on notice of their concerns.

Although not what you might like it to be, my civil rights record is anything but negative and it is a long, long way from standing in the doorway of a schoolhouse in defiance of a Federal Court Order in an attempt to deny Black children a quality education. Therefore I am proud of my record in this area. In addition, I can say that since I became your Vice President I have sincerely tried to be Vice President of all of the people.

My first White House Luncheon was with Top Black Presidential Appointees. Immediately following that, I met with a group of National Civil Rights Leaders headed by Roy Wilkins, the Dean of the Civil Rights Movement. One of my first public appearances was before a group of 700 Black Republicans from throughout the country who attended the Lincoln Day Dinner sponsored by the Capitol City Republican Club in the Nation's Capitol. I have also spoken before The National Association of Black Manufacturers, The Links, Inc. and The National Council of Negro Women. Also I have toured The Opportunities Industrialization Centers in Philadelphia with the Rev. Leon Sullivan.

I cite these facts not in self serving fashion, but to illustrate that my door is open to all. I want you to know, too, that I have instructed my staff to use the full authority vested in the Vice-President's office, little though it is, in an attempt to be as cooperative and as helpful as possible to all Americans-Black, Brown, and white alike.

Recently I observed that "This Nation has raised the last generation of American citizens that will see some of its members denied opportunity to find and hold decent jobs and have productive careers through no fault of their own." I am convinced that my prediction is correct.

Ladies and gentlemen, the nature of our struggle has changed.

Publisher Ida Lewis interviews President Gerald Ford for exclusive ENCORE newsmagazine story. Ford was Vice-President at the time the interview was given. (encore photo)

(Editor's Note: The following article is a portion of a story published in the July 1974 issue of ENCORE, the nation's Black newsmagazine.)

Because we anticipated the possibility of Gerald Ford's move to the Presidency, we withheld publication of the article until such time that it could be deemed most relevant. That time has arrived, and we thank ENCORE and its publisher, Ms. Ida Lewis, for providing us with the material and accompanying photograph.)

"We've got to find a way to get quality education across the United States," President Gerald R. Ford stated bluntly in an exclusive interview with Ida Lewis, Publisher of ENCORE, the Monthly Newsmagazine, in the July issue.

"If we do that," the President continued in the discussion which is creating much comment in both Black and White communities, "I think we will improve the economic environment and economic opportunities for Blacks and other minorities."

The President pointed out that those who have suffered because of a lack of quality education have to be helped by "backup programs. And there aren't many of those programs going at the present time."

Questions and Answers

In answer to questions from Ms. Lewis, the President revealed his belief that the Federal Government should be a leader in "making sure that minority groups have a completely fair opportunity for advancement, as well as for first employment."

Ford Requests Meeting With Black Caucus

Charles Rangel, Chairman, Congressional Black Caucus.

President Gerald Ford has requested a meeting with members of the Congressional Black Caucus, to take place within two weeks.

Ford called Caucus Chairman Charles Rangel to request the meeting with the 16 member group. Rangel stated that he interprets Ford's invitation as an indication of the President's intention to open up his administration to those who represent people whose interests were ignored by the Nixon Administration.

Bayard Rustin Looks At Gerald Ford From A Black Perspective

by Bayard Rustin

We are faced with the issue of how we respond to and what we can expect from the new president, Gerald Ford.

In terms of his relations with Black people, Mr. Ford has constructed a congressional record that is at best mediocre. Although he supported most of the major civil rights bills adopted during the early part of the 1960's, he did so only after having led conservative efforts to weaken the legislation. More disturbing is the leadership Mr. Ford assumed in the struggle to limit busing as a desegregation tool. Mr. Ford has not only worked in the halls of Congress to curb busing, he has himself made busing a principal Republican issue during the current congressional campaign, falling easily into a pattern established by George Wallace and later refined by Richard Nixon.

A more important consideration than his exploitation of the busing issue, however, will be Mr. Ford's response to the social and economic problems of poor and working people. Many experts believe that unemployment, already intolerably high, may exceed six percent by the year's end. How will Mr. Ford respond to this crisis? And what of other essential social programs - national health insurance, educational programs, housing aid, and the like - under a Ford Administration?

Mr. Ford's previous congressional record is hardly encouraging in this area. He has opposed almost every important social innovation proposed during his congressional tenure, staking out a conservative, at times almost reactionary attitude towards domestic policy.

If what I have written thus far appears overly-gloomy, it is for a reason. And that is that I do not believe that Black people can expect anything of substance in terms of economic gains from policies laid down by Gerald Ford. There is nothing in his voting record, in his conduct as House Republican leader, or in his expressions of political philosophy that suggest anything except the imposition of orthodox conservative policies which have historically been disastrous for Black people.

On the other hand, Mr. Ford has already voiced what appear to be sincere feelings that he should serve all the people. One

IEWS and REVIEWS

The New President

A new President has been sworn in and judging from his initial reception from congress, the press and most of the people at least it appears that there is hope that President Ford will rally the people together again.

President Ford's announcement that he was the president of all the people, that he would consult all groups to get their views, (he promptly agreed to meet with the Black Caucus which produced results in that many were seen among the audience of the house chambers) a departure from what Mr. Nixon did.

President Ford is not the type who knows all the answers. Apparently he is a good listener and his chances of doing what is best for the country seem bright. His announcement that the present foreign policy would be continued and that inflation was the number one problem which had to be solved was good news to the ears of most people in this country.

Closing out the Nixon Administration

President Nixon's admission that he had made mistakes in connection with the Watergate fiasco came too late and only after being forced to admit it. He has resigned and that does help some, but a frank admission when the affair first came to his attention would have saved the country many months of turmoil and possibly his hide.

I supported Mr. Nixon as I did the Republican ticket every time he ran. And in this trouble situation I felt that he was entitled to a presumption of innocence until the hearings determined the facts. His resignation spared some agony.

The plight of others concerned in the Watergate affair makes one ponder the suggestion that Mr. Nixon too should suffer some punishment other than being forced out by his own admission. In any event, whatever action is taken it should be done promptly so as to close the Watergate affair and permit the country to proceed with trying to solve some of the problems that have bugged us for several years.

Poor Medical Assistance

Austin Scott of the Washington Post Staff, writing in the Des Moines Tribune August 13th, paints a miserable picture of hospital facilities in the back woods of Mississippi. He writes of maternity and accident cases being turned away from the hospital because the patients had no insurance of medicare and that the facilities in Mound Bayou, the all Negro town in Mississippi, were inadequate to care for the needs of the people in the area.

This has been a sore spot for years in these areas and while the Equal Opportunity Program had eased the situation some, it too expired in 1973.

I have heard of Mound Bayou, Mississippi ever since I could read. Isaiah T. Montgomery, its head made considerable progress for many years but modern facilities in larger cities have drained them of the strength in the community.

One sad statement of Scott included the following, "Physically, the town of Mound Bayou is little more than a wide spot on Highway 61 between Clarksdale and Greenville. Its 2,100 persons and 14 churches, however, constitute the largest and oldest all-black town in the nation."

Admittedly, these churches not only serve the local community but also the surrounding farm areas. However, there is little excuse for 14 churches in a community which apparently spent money to maintain the churches and little to maintain the medical facilities for the people.

Gerald Ford--

A Mixed Blessing?

BY Habiba

America has a new President, a man, who, upon becoming the 38th Chief Executive of the United States sets two interesting precedents.

Gerald Ford was elected to neither of the two highest offices in the land, but was appointed Vice-President and was "promoted" to the Presidency. He is the first man to serve as President who bears this distinction.

For the superstitious among us, this may be interpreted as a good omen, an indication that the winds of change may be blowing in the direction of Black, Brown and Red folks. Serious students of the U.S. political system will reject the uniqueness of the situation as an indication of the beginning of sensitivity to the needs of America's oppressed peoples, and will wait as they have waited for years, watchful, and not particularly optimistic.

The nation's new President has also distinguished himself by openly considering the appointment of a Black Vice-President. Congressional leaders who met with President Ford late last week reported at least two Black candidates as potential V.P.'s; those mentioned were Senator Edward Brooke and Representative Shirley Chisholm. Again, the superstitious might interpret this "revolutionary" public consideration as a sign of changing times, while the historically supported pessimists will reserve the right to celebrate if and when a Black political figure actually occupies the coveted White House office.

These are politically strange times. As Ford ponders a Black Vice-President, Nixon retreats to San Clemente to lick his wounds; this once-proud man who overestimated his immunity to mortality, and underestimated the watchfulness and keenness of an anonymous Black security guard.

In Texas, the Ku Klux Klan endorses a Black candidate seeking political office, and in Georgia, Lester Maddox volunteers to pay the Klan if they will withdraw their endorsement of his gubernatorial bid.

In Mississippi, Black Mayor Charles Evers supports George Wallace as a Kennedy running mate on the Democratic Presidential ticket, while in Washington, Black Congresswomen prove that being Black and female is a formula for astute, intelligent, and responsible governing.

It is a time of confusion, a time when "politics make strange bedfellows" has never been so apt an observation, and it is a time to understand that despite the unusual turn of political events, and despite the discussion of a Black Vice-President, America today is still a product of her history, a vainglorious and bloody past, not easily altered by the words of a new and untried President. It is still a time for guarded optimism, indeed a time to reflect upon the past as we step angrily and sometimes wearily into the future. Black America must remain cautious.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

At present the law provides that a person convicted of a crime can be punished with a jail term. When the person has served his time, the jail record remains and follows the person the rest of his life, which is unfair.

In other words, they never finish paying, even though they may wish to go straight. They are handicapped — socially and economically. Society won't let them forget and rise above their past as long as the jail record is pinned on them.

Often they were the victim of circumstances in the first offense and are victimized into more crime if they can't get a job because of their jail record.

It's a vicious cycle which you can help break. I'm sure the intent of the law is not to punish the person forever. So won't you please introduce and support legislation to have this changed. It will greatly reduce the crime rate. This is a vital and just cause. Do what is in your power to change this situation. Thank you.

President Ford

Minorities and women are not standing on the outside trying to get Civil Rights laws on the books. The laws are on the books and significant numbers are now on the inside helping to enforce them. Their numbers are certain to increase in the immediate and distant future. Minorities are no longer marching and staging sit-ins to gain access to the lunch counter and other public accommodations. The thrust in the 70's is to own some of those lunch counters and other business enterprises. That's as it should be.

By the middle of the next decade, 1985, much of the current national leadership in government and business will have left the scene. By the year 2000 we all will be gone — at least to pasture.

In the meantime, new and different domestic and international policies will have been developed and implemented. Old laws will be re-written or discarded. The missions of old departments and agencies redefined and new ones developed — unprofitable industries discarded and new ones organized.

There are new books to be written, new medicines to be discovered, cities to be planned, bridges to be built, buildings to construct, poems to be written, pictures to paint, songs to sing and truths to reveal — none of which exist today. There is nothing new about this. We renew America every twenty-five to fifty years. However, this time America's minorities and women, for the first time in our history, will be full and equal participants in the endeavor.

I take this opportunity — this forum to renew the pledge I made on the day I was first admitted to the bar — to dedicate my life and energy to the role of law and equal justice for all Americans.

does not know what Mr. Ford means when he promises to serve all the people — whether such a pledge will be translated into more humane policies, or whether it will result in merely symbolic gestures, such as meeting periodically with representatives of minority groups.

But even if the result is only symbolic, it will have been an improvement over the performances of Nixon and Agnew, both of whom went out of their way to isolate themselves from all those who did not belong to their basic, conservative constituency.

There is also the possibility that Mr. Ford, like others before him, may move from his basic conservatism once he realizes the depths of the responsibilities of the office. One does not anticipate his being transformed overnight. But one should also not rule out the possibility that, at least in one or two areas, Mr. Ford will break from his conservative past to attempt some initiatives for social change.

There will be a meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 p.m. at the home of James Holloway. The neighborhood has been having environmental control problems with Mid-Town Used Cars No. 2. This business, since Sept. 1973, has created a health and public safety hazard. The cars they work on, stock cars, are parked on the sidewalks. Junk cars are located on the lot, cars are washed without proper drainage which causes water to backup. The city doesn't see any violation of city codes, so the residents on Cook Street have decided to take the business to court to resolve the problem. Ernestine Boykin, Public Relations Director for the Sioux City Black Caucus will assist them. Thursday evening's meeting will be with the Assistant City Attorney.

An electric heat pump is like a furnace and air conditioner rolled into one. In the summer, it operates like an electric air conditioner. In the winter, it automatically reverses itself and pumps warm air into your home.

And the interesting thing about a heat pump is that except for a few of the coldest days of the year, it furnishes more energy in the form of heat, than is put into it in the form of electric power. That's because it removes the heat from outside air and pumps it inside your house.

Mr. Kindred Visits

Mr. Matthew Kindred of Los Angeles, Calif., left Des Moines Friday, Aug. 2nd after spending almost a month visiting. He met with old friends and relatives.

Mr. Kindred, a former Des Moines resident, left the city about twenty years ago. Mrs. Kindred passed away about two years ago.

Many courtesies were extended him on his visit. Mr. and Mrs. Mack Carson took him for a tour of the city, which was new to him after twenty years absence. He had worked for the Carbon Coal Co., and was anxious to meet some of the crew, but unfortunately, most had passed away. Mr. Kindred, now 85, flew to Des Moines and home to Los Angeles. He was the house guest of Mrs. Corene Adams.

Mrs. Phyllis Mann entertained the family with a bus sight seeing tour of Raleigh which included many places of interest such as the Governor Moorhead School for the Blind where Mrs. Mann had taught for many years; and the residence of Mr.

Clarence Lightner, Mayor of Raleigh, one of the more recently elected black mayors of the South; his Funeral Home and private cemetery and last but not least, the Meadowbrook Country Club, the only black owned and operated country club with 18 hole golf course in the United States.

Upon the arrival at the San Souci village, the Longs had arranged a picnic for their guests which was most delightful with swimming in the beautiful pool adjoining the club house.

The evening festivities concluded with a beautiful dancing party in the club house where friends and family enjoyed the hospitality of their hosts.

On Sunday morning the family attended services at St. Paul A.M.E. Church of Raleigh and listened to a sermon by its pastor, Reverend N. Gaylord which was most inspiring.

Marvin Gaye, Live

MARVIN GAYE

It had been four long years and more since the last official Marvin Gaye concert appearance. He had been on stage briefly in 1972 for the PUSH Expo concerts in Chicago named for Save the Children — one of the songs on his landmark album What's Going On — as a performer singing in a benefit setting with a troupe of other artists. Featured, yes. Not on his own.

Here in Oakland, on a blustery Friday night earlier this year, it was the real thing: his first concert since the hits What's Going On, Mercy, Mercy Me (The Ecology), Inner City Blues, the albums, the underrated soundtrack Trouble Man, the new music the new Marvin Gaye had realized in the recording studio.

Then came the gigantic hit single Let's Get It On and its remarkable album. On the street Let's Get It On, Come Get To This, You Sure Love To Ball and Distant Lover — airplay representatives of the whole — confirmed to his fans and perhaps to Marvin the new musical direction he had begun with What's Going On.

He had changed, his audience had changed, his music had changed, the world had changed. Perhaps it was time to perform again.

Oakland was his return, and characteristically it was a surprise return.

Marvin Gaye's return gig in Oakland was announced only days prior to the date. A handful of writers in the Bay Area were able to get tickets.

Only that afternoon in the huge, empty auditorium were all of the show's elements brought together, Marvin in funky tennis clothes, surprisingly assured as last minute adjustments were made in the complexities of staging — craziness. Thirty-three musicians, two conductors, advisors, lighting and sound technicians, stage hands, photographers, recording people, and assistants who needed decisions right now crowded the stage.

With all of the significant details, each as important as the last, it all rested on him. His anxiety was not apparent. The world had changed.

Showtime. He was totally in charge from his entrance in faded, studded denims and outrageous silver army boots with enormous platforms, the familiar red lumberjack cap in place. In charge because he felt good, natural, and because fourteen thousand people filling the home of the Golden State Warriors were willing charges.

They roared as he walked on stage and took the microphone, they cheered at every introduction to a familiar song, their front ranks rushed the stage whenever he danced, and they went into hysterics when he lofted his cap out into the darkness.

If a small number there disliked Marvin Gaye, they were completely overwhelmed by those who love him.

San Francisco Chronicle (John L. Wasserman): "The actual performance at a concert like this, the niceties of voice, phrasing, pitch and all that, is fairly immaterial. All were fine but that's not the name of the song. Marvin Gaye's return was not a concert, it was an event; a gathering of black pride and star-gazers. Some look to the comet Kohoutek; some don't."

Gaye's latest album, Marvin Gaye Live is available and a necessity — you must buy it, it is fantastic.

selling for $4.50. Famous Black Entertainers spotlights eighteen prominent stars. A chapter devoted to each includes advice to young Blacks who have in mind a career as an entertainer, as well as some biographical information on the stars. The book is easy to read, captivating, and includes photographs of the entertainers. Those interviewed include Cecily Tyson, Melvin Van Peebles, and Alvin Ailey.

It is an excellent book to give to a not-so-enthusiastic reader who will find the subject worth examining and may even convince the reluctant one that books aren't so bad after all.

Students' Who's Who Honors Kathy Johnson

Kathy Johnson

Kathy Anita Johnson, a June 1974 graduate of East High School was recently notified that she is to be featured in the Eighth Annual Edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the books. Less than 3% of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition.

Kathy is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, 2811 Boston Ave., Des Moines. She was active in East High activities, was co-editor of the East High Scroll, a member of the Color Guard, Afro Club, Pep Club, and graduated in the top 3% of her class. She received the Superintendent's Award for outstanding achievement in Journalism, and received a $2,650 scholarship to Boston University.

In addition to having her biography published in the book, Kathy will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers".

Kathy will be attending Boston University and plans to major in Journalism.

Black Teenager To Attend Youth Conference In Russia

Black Women Organized for Action, an organization of more than 300 Black women in the San Francisco-Bay Area, accepted an invitation to send one of its representatives to the Third Annual America-Soviet Young People's Conference to be held in Bratsk, Siberia, August 9th through 25th, 1974. The conference is for young people 19 to 30 years of age. In 1973 the Conference was held in the United States as a reciprocal conference to the one held in the Soviet Union in 1972.

BWOA's representative to the conference is Carletta Jackson, a 19-year old youth who is majoring in political science at San Francisco State University. She indicated her great interest in the political structure of the government of the United States as well as other government systems throughout the world. According to Ms. Jackson, "Neither capitalism or socialism are absolutely wrong. I feel that one should be able to learn from the other, thus creating a combination of methods and ideas which hopefully will result in a strong understanding between the two to bring about a combination of peace between these two great nations, which in turn can enable other nations to survive in peace."

As a delegate from the San Francisco-Bay Area, Ms. Jackson would like to learn as much as possible about the politics of other countries, and in turn help others to understand the politics of the United States. She has been extremely active in her community since junior high school where she became involved in student body government. She sat on the student body cabinet as assistant to the president and started her active participation in offices of leadership. She became involved in the City-Wide Youth Council (sponsored by the Mayor's office) in order to investigate summer job opportunities for youth in the Ingleside area of San Francisco.

After graduating from Aptos with the outstanding achievement medal, she attended Lowell High School where she became active in Forensics and was also Intermediate debater and placed second in oral interaction.

Test Your Abilities--- Free

A test to evaluate skills for high school completion and adult basic education will be sent this fall to every household in the eleven county area served by the Des Moines Area Community College as reported by officials of the institution.

The test will be included as a special feature of the fall announcement of adult education courses which will be mailed about September 1 to every household within the district. The test is designed to give adults a free appraisal of their reading, math, and English abilities, and their readiness to pass the High School Equivalency (GED) tests.

Adults may take the test at home and mail it to the Area College for evaluation and recommendations for study if needed. The 1970 Census Report reveals that approximately 105,000 adults over age 25 in the Des Moines Community College district have not completed high school.

This home evaluation program is unique. It is believed by College officials to be the first time such a program has been offered in the nation. It is part of a general effort by the Des Moines Area Community College to encourage adults to improve their basic skills and complete high school through the Adult Basic Education Program.

Special classes in basic education and High School Equivalency will be offered this fall in Boone, Perry, Ames, Winterset, Des Moines, Newton, and other communities where there is interest.

The classes are offered by the Des Moines Area Community College in cooperation with local school districts and other community agencies. Adults may attend without charge. The Adult Basic Education Program is supported by federal funds through the Iowa Department of Public Instruction.

Public School Registration

New student registration for school-age youngsters in the Des Moines Public School District (K-12) will be on Thursday and Friday, August 22 and 23 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at each school.

This two-day registration period is for students who have recently moved to the Des Moines School District and for those students who have moved from one school attendance area to another within the District during the summer.

For kindergarten enrollment a child must be five years of age on or before September 15. Children who were eligible for kindergarten and were registered last spring do not need to register again.

All seventh and tenth grade students will take part in Orientation Programs at their individual schools on Thursday, August 29, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Students who will be out of the city on August 29th are urged to contact their school.

Assistant Superintendent, Robert Denny urges parents to call their local schools for information concerning building schedules. Parents new to the city and uncertain of attendance areas may call 284-7714 for assistance.

The first day of school is Tuesday, September 3. Hot lunches will be served the first day. Starting times for school sessions are: Elementary - 8:50 a.m.; Junior High - 8:45 a.m. and Senior High - 8:15 a.m., except Des Moines Tech, whose classes begin at 8:00 a.m.

Extensive plans and preparations are being made to accommodate the 41,000 students in the Des Moines Public Schools for the 1974-75 school year.

You are hereby notified that the petition of the plaintiff in the above entitled cause of action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the State of Iowa, in and for Polk County, asking judgment against the defendants named in the caption hereto, and against the mortgaged property hereinafter described, for:

(1) The sum of $7,845.77 with interest at 6% from July 1, 1974, being the amount due plus interest upon the promissory note in the principal sum of $7,400.00, dated October 3, 1967, which note was made and executed by the defendants, Dennis R. Bigham and Rita Rose Bigham payable to this plaintiff, which note this plaintiff has declared due and payable forthwith because of the default of the defendants in failing to make payment of monthly sums of principal and interest due. The said sum includes delinquent interest and advancements to and including July 1, 1974 and represents the total sum due after allowing defendants all just credits; also asking for judgment for any further or future advancements Plaintiff may be required to make for continuing abstract of title or for any other purpose authorized by the terms of said note and mortgage and by Iowa law.

(2) Also asking judgment for costs including statutory attorney fees.

(3) Also asking as against the defendants above named a decree of foreclosure of the mortgage made and given by the defendants, Dennis R. Bigham and Rita Rose Bigham, which mortgage is dated October 3, 1967, recorded in Book 3888, Page 297, of the office of the Recorder of Polk County, Iowa, said mortgage being given to secure the above mentioned note and other sums claimed, which mortgage covers the following described real estate, to-wit:

Lot 16 in Block 27 in Plat One of Auburn Heights, now included in and forming a part of the City of Des Moines, Iowa.

(4) Plaintiff waives any deficiency judgment and asks that the period of redemption be reduced to six months.

Plaintiff also asks for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the mortgaged premises and to collect the rents, issues and profits arising or which may be had therefrom and to apply them as by court directed. No money judgment is asked except against such persons who executed said note and mortgage.

For further particulars see the petition now on file.

You are also hereby notified to

by Allen Ashby

At last we got the junior division of our Hilltop tennis meet over on Saturday, just one half hour ahead of the rain. One guy who would have had to default if we had been on our original schedule grabbed two trophies. Rodger Knapp, who is the best junior player in the state and just about as ornery, won both the sixteen and eighteen year crowns. He had a bit of a tussel in the eighteen year class, going three sets with Jim Baher, and then dusting Mark Paulson of Clarinda in straight sets. Baher and his regular doubles partner, Mark Veenstra won the eighteen doubles. They beat a pair, from Clarinda, Paulson and Gaylord Ott. A pair from Keokuk, Dan Dingle and Dave Logan, who won the boys twelve singles, lost out in their bid for the fourteen doubles, losing to Steve Silverman, winner of the boys fourteen singles and Charles Hull. In the girls 16 singles, Shelly Stetson talked too much and lost to Barbara Jeffery, and Julie Sandler took Sue Zuckert into camp in the 14 singles. Sandler and Zuckert teamed up to beat a pair of twelve year old midgets Julie Smith and Amy Seamon and win the fourteen doubles. Say, maybe they weren't midgets after all, but they still got beat. Cindy Clason did in Cindy Erhardt to take the girls eighteen honors, and Kay Rick of Grundy Center dusted Sue Kelly for the twelve year honors. In the junior mixed doubles big Tom Romf paired with Julie Mathews at the last minute and ran away with the trophies in that division.

The thing that always impresses me at these junior meets is the way the parents follow their kids around, and lend them encouragement. They sat in the stands Saturday as if they were at Forest Hills and roundly applauded good shots, making the kid sometimes play better than he would have. Of course, a lot of black parents don't have the jobs that will let them do this, but I wonder how many of them would do it if they could. Maybe more than I suspect. One can't accuse the Morrows of not showing interest, because Harold is there every time either Mark or Reggie play, and this is probably what keeps them interested in the game. On the whole, it was the usual successful meet and the biggest one we ever had.

Elder To Aid Fellow Black Businesses

Lee Elder of Washington, D.C., who will become the first Black golfer to play in the Masters Golf Tournament, announced today that he would attempt, via his talents on the golf course and "any future endorsements I may achieve, to utilize the talents and professional services of minority businessmen wherever possible."

"Although I have not yet achieved the economic bracket of other Black athletes, I feel there are many businessmen in the field of clothing, design, travel, printing and public relations, who, from whatever success I may have, can perhaps share in that success by my utilizing their professional services."

Elder announced he has contracted with Warren Jackson and his consultant organization, Circulation Expert, Ltd. of Hartsdale, New York, to handle the communications aspects of his growing organization and has retained Ken Radcliffe and Associates (graphic designers) to develop a corporate logo for his firm.

Elder, who earned some $370,000 in seven years on the PGA tour, is also President of Lee Elder Enterprises located at 1701 Taylor Avenue in Washington, D.C.

Iowan Is CSU Grid Star

FORT COLLINS, COLO. — The 1974 Colorado State University football team "is much-improved," according to Coach Sark Arslanian, and one of the reasons is Kim Jones of Waterloo, Iowa.

A 6-4, 238-pound running back, Jones led the Rams in rushing last autumn with 537 yards in 125 carries and seven touchdowns. He was also the team's top point producer (42) and caught 11 passes for 55 yards.

"Kim has a lot of ability," said Arslanian, who rebuilt the Ram football program from a 1-10 record in 1972 to a 5-6 mark last season in his first year at CSU. "He has outstanding speed and size for a running back. He could develop into the Western Athletic Conference's finest."

Nicknamed Train by his teammates, Jones set a CSU single-game record against Texas-El Paso in 1973 with 229 yards rushing. He scored twice in the 76-24 Ram victory and had the team's longest run from scrimmage in 1973 with a 78-yard effort.

A 1971 graduate of Waterloo Columbus High School, Jones led the 1971 CSU freshman team in rushing with 274 yards in 57 carries for four touchdowns. He sat out the 1972 season before becoming a regular in 1973.

Jones is the son of Mrs. Kuzie Fox, 207 Lafayette, Waterloo, Iowa.

Martin Luther King Center

DES MOINES — The Most Reverend Maurice J. Dingman, Bishop of Des Moines Diocese announced today the sale of the old Dowling High School, 1000 College Avenue to Kingsway Ministries, Inc. The agreement includes the total property with all its buildings. The total complex was sold for $300,000.00 on a contract of sale.

Bishop Dingman, representing the Dowling Corporation and Pastor D.L. Browning, President of Kingsway Ministries, Inc. and Pastor of Kingsway Cathedral, 19th & Crocker Avenue signed the contract Thursday, August 8th, 1974.

The facilities will serve religious, educational and social needs. The social service agencies now in operation at the site will continue. Kingsway Ministries will utilize much of the buildings for their educational programs. However, the Child Development Care Center will also remain on the premises and continue its operation. Religious services will broaden both the educational and service areas.

Bishop Dingman and the Dowling Board expressed gratitude to Mr. Lee Ferguson, Chairman of the Community Concerns, Inc. and its Board for its coordination of the various agencies under one facility. For having assumed the responsibility to find a location for social agencies to be housed, the Community Concerns, Inc. deserves recognition. It has served the Des Moines Community these past two years by serving the social agencies at 1000 College Avenue.
