Black Economic Progress: Fact or Fantasy?

by Habiba

The question of Black economic progress in the U.S. is a highly debatable subject. Some say Blacks are steadily climbing the economic ladder, rapidly populating the so-called middle class. Others say Blacks are no better off than they were 20 years ago, that the few who have "made it" are highly visible, but are not the norm. Emotional argument on the matter rarely convinces anyone to change their attitude.

The Credit Game

A couple of facts may help to unravel the mystery. First of all, in terms of purchasing power, Blacks have more of that than they had 20 years ago. But what is important to recognize is that all people have more of that kind of economic power, simply because cash is being replaced by the use of credit. Depending upon how much interest you're willing to pay, anyone can acquire the credit necessary to buy a television, stereo system, or freezer. In terms of being ahead of the game, or in terms of economic progress as opposed to whites, Blacks haven't got any more to spend than they ever had; they just have more ways to spend it.

Employment & Earnings

If you tend to disagree with that analysis, thinking of the "middle income" Black families you're personally familiar with, try this on for size. According to John Kenneth Galbraith, one of the nation's leading economists, white males hold 96% of all jobs paying $15,000 or more per year. That means that all people of color, along with white females, must compete for the remaining 4% of such jobs. As long as the percentage of jobs available to women and people of color doesn't increase, no significant progress is made in terms of earnings.

Twenty years ago, a Black family with an income of $4,000 was doing pretty well. Today, that same family needs to earn at least $10,000 annually to live as they did then. Remember that although income levels have risen, the cost of living has risen as well. Remember too that living costs are the same for Blacks as whites, while there remains a 56% discrepancy in white vs. Black earnings. Blacks are still making less; $7,270 in 1973 as compared to $12,600 for whites in the same year.

White males have access to 96% of all jobs paying $15,000 or better.

Blacks, white women, and all non-Black minorities compete for 4% of all jobs paying $15,000 or more.

The Employment Pie: Inequitable & Unjust

The Quota System

It can be said that more Blacks are acquiring well-paying positions due to 'equal opportunity employment' practices. However, non-Black minorities as well as white females, who comprise more than 38% of the labor force, are looking for a piece of the action as well. Blacks, who represent 10% of the total population, have no business competing with so many others for jobs within so small an area. All oppressed people should unite in efforts to expand their area of competition beyond the ridiculously low, "unofficial" quota of 4%.

The Myth

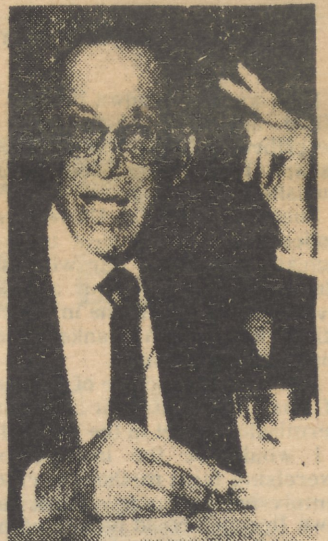

The Black middle class will remain a figment of someone's overactive imagination as long as Blacks earn an average of $5,000 per year less than whites, and as long as the 96% white male preserve is not challenged. Until 4 divided by 10 becomes a whole number, the Black middle class will remain but a fraction of the total. Keep in mind that no one attempts to fool white America into believing they are all millionaires by noting that 200,000 millionaires in the U.S. are white. Black folks need to re-examine the employment situation and reject hand-picked tokens as valid representatives of Black economic progress.

Speck Redd Dies

Ernest (Speck) Redd, long-time Des Moines musician, died Thursday, August 29, 1974 of a kidney ailment.

Just a few months ago, a number of friends and associates held a benefit for Speck; proceeds went towards expenses he incurred on the kidney dialysis machine.

Redd, who died at the age of 60, had spent the last 27 years of his life facing death from kidney failure.

Speck Redd

An accomplished musician and a dedicated teacher, Speck Redd will be missed most for his involvement with people; he was loved by many and loved many in return.

Proposes New Food

Stamp Regulations:

Washington — Under a proposed regulation announced today by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an individual who wants to retain eligibility for food stamp program benefits would have to accept a job which requires joining a bonafide labor organization recognized by the National Labor Relations Act. The regulation would not require the recipient to join a company union.

In order to participate in the food stamp program all recipients, with certain exceptions, must register for and accept employment. Current regulations, however, permit a recipient to refuse a job in which he is required to join, resign from, or refrain from joining any legitimate labor organization.

IEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

More Progress Needed

I sat in the airport at San Francisco last Friday observing the goings and comings of every imaginable type of person. Some wore conventional clothes, others appeared like tramps.

Two things struck me in that practically one out of fifteen persons going and coming was a Japanese - some families with children, some appeared like businessmen and some just as the average American.

Some Japanese were employed as clerks and ticket sellers and other white collar jobs.

The few Negroes employed were carrying bags and doing porter work. Not that there is anything wrong with any work that produces an honest living, but with the far flung education facilities and opportunities in California, it seemed that someone ought to have the desire to fill a job of the kind which involves promotions. One bright spot was the appearance of a Negro stewardess among the crew of five on the returning plane from Sacramento one of whom was a girl from Davenport.

Controls Only Will Work

Inflation is bugging most people today in spite of the fact that most of them make more money than ever before. Drop in at any of the fine dining or amusement places; watch television, the crowds attending sports functions more than ever before.

There are numerous views of how to control a continued rise in the prices of everything we use. Large and small businesses are boosting prices everyday. They say the cost of producing everything we use is going up because the transportation, the middleman, cost of labor continue to go up and he must make that adjustment in order to stay in business.

Former President Nixon did not believe in controls. His program of Phase I II and III (voluntary) did not work. President Ford is opposed to controls, so far. I don't think voluntary programs can get us out of the dilemma.

We must have controls with teeth. Otherwise, every fellow continues to raise his prices and blame the other fellow for it.

Police Officers Should Use Care

Last week downtown Holiday Inn was robbed. Two people were killed and two others shot and wounded. The robber was described as Negro who got $200.00, but lost $140.00 in his plan to escape. I hope he is found and tried, given a fair prompt trial and punished accordingly for his terrible crime.

Tuesday, I was at University Avenue and 22nd Street when a police car moving west in the traffic sounded his alarm and quickly stopped a car with Illinois license carrying about six Negro passengers. Four additional police cars appeared within five minutes. Everyone in the car was ordered out and searched: all clothing, trash, blankets and packages in the car. Apparently they found nothing.

A composite picture of the proposed robber was handed to each of the occupants for comparison. Finally they were given permission to get in the car and drive away.

I would be the last person to criticize a policeman for exercising legal methods to catch criminals but I don't agree that simply because a few black people driving a car with an out of town license should be herded and searched in the street without any real indications they were involved in crime.

Here, a bad part of it is that college students are coming to Des Moines daily from out of the state. Police officers should be careful and not use their authority to embarrass students or anyone else for that matter simply because they happen to be the color of the guy who committed the Holiday Inn affair.

This program was tried in San Francisco a few months ago but was stopped by the courts because it was entirely illegal.

Rangel Optimistic After Caucus Meeting With Ford

Congressman Charles B. Rangel (D-NY), Chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus today expressed "a feeling of optimism" following the meeting of the 16 members of the Black Caucus with President Ford.

The New York Congressman stated that President Ford had responded positively to the presentation made by the Congressional Black Caucus members during their 45 minute meeting in the Cabinet Room. "More importantly," Rangel said, "the President declared his interest in institutionalizing the process of communication between his Administration and the Congressional Black Caucus through the establishment of an on-going liaison relationship to follow-up on the concerns expressed by the Caucus members."

"President Ford told us," Rangel said, "that his Administration will include Blacks and other minorities at all levels, including the White House; that his door will be open to the members of the Congressional Black Caucus individually and collectively and that he hopes to receive our input prior to making the hard decisions which lie ahead involving cutting the Federal budget to fight inflation."

The Caucus, Rangel said, had been particularly concerned that the President's inflation fighting program would have a particularly adverse affect on the nation's poor. "We presently have a depression level unemployment rate in the Black community of more than 9% and among Black youth it is estimated at more than 30%. If we fight inflation even greater unemployment may result. The President assured us, however, that he intends to make certain that the nation's poor do not carry the brunt of his Administration's anti-inflation efforts. To this end, in response to a Caucus recommendation he promised to seriously consider the implementation of a public service employment program to meet the already critical level of unemployment in minority communities."

"After this meeting," Rangel said, "I and the members of the Congressional Black Caucus feel that we have established the basis for an ongoing working relationship with President Ford and the Ford Administration which we hope will be substantially different than what was possible with the previous Administration. The proof of the President's sincerity must come in the form of specific actions. We have left with him papers prepared by the members of the Congressional Black Caucus addressing areas of concern which time did not permit us to discuss. The President promised to study our proposals and set up a mechanism for a response in each of the areas identified by members of the Caucus," Rangel concluded.

Dear Consumer

Privacy & Credit

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director Office of Consumer Affairs, Department of Health, Education & Welfare

Each year, over 100 million credit reports are issued on consumers and, as a result, an estimated 1.3 million Americans are denied charge accounts, loans, check cashing privileges, insurance and sometimes employment.

Hardly anyone will dispute the need for credit reports: They are important to banks, merchants and credit card companies that must determine the financial reliability of their customers.

But to be effective, credit reports must give accurate, up-to-date and relevant facts. Sometimes, unfortunately, the information in these reports is not accurate or current. As a result many consumers can't get credit or insurance. Some have even lost their jobs.

To protect consumers, President Nixon in 1970 signed into law the Fair Credit Reporting Act. But major problems still exist for the consumer. President Nixon explained in a radio speech Feb. 23: "What was once a minor problem affecting only a small number of people has now become a national problem that could potentially affect every American with a charge account, a service or personnel record, a credit card...a mortgage or an appliance or automobile bought on time."

Because of this growing problem, the President established the new Domestic Council Committee on the Right of Privacy. This cabinet-level committee is examining not only the problem of consumer credit but also how government and business collect, store and use personal information.

In addition, the committee is

working with government agencies and Congress on new regulations and legislation to insure that all information collected by both government and business is subject to adequate safeguards. Specifically, the committee is examining:

- How the Federal Government collects information on people and how that information is protected.

- Procedures that would permit citizens to inspect and correct information held by public or private organizations.

- Regulations of the use and dissemination of mailing lists.

- Ways that the government and business can safeguard personal information against imp. per change or disclosure.

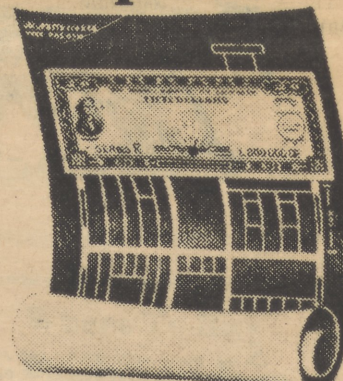

As a member of this important committee, I intend to make sure that the consumer's voice is heard.

If you think your privacy rights have been violated and can send me a detailed case history of your problem, I shall be glad to submit your case to the committee for review. Address your case history to me at the White House, Washington, D.C. 20506.

If you have specific complaints about being denied credit or insurance on the basis of inaccurate information in a credit report, you may want to contact the Division of Special Statutes, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580.

Health Aides Needed

There is urgent need for homemaker-home health aides in Des Moines, it was announced today by Mrs. Frances Shambaugh, Director of Home Care-Homemaker Services, Inc.

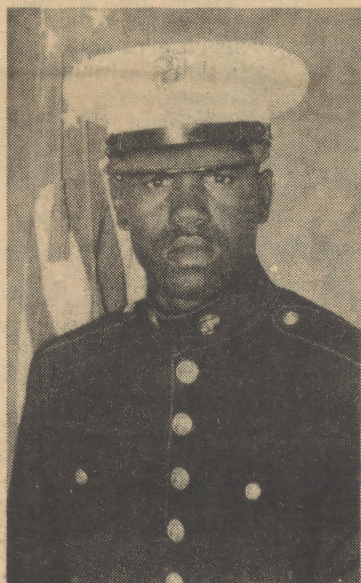

Pointing out that there is opportunity for good pay and advancement in homemaker-home health aide service, Mrs. Shambaugh said there are no age restrictions although preference will be given to women over 25 years of age.

"The woman who has raised her own family or helped her aged parents or relatives in time of illness or stress often makes the best homemaker-home health aide. A friendly, understanding personality, good judgment and good health are more important for the work than years of formal schooling", Mrs. Shambaugh said.

She explained that interested applicants will be given a fifty hour training course beginning September 16, 1974 through September 27, 1974. A homemaker-home health aide's duties, she said, include caring for children and handicapped, ill or elderly persons; planning and preparing nutritious meals; marketing; light housekeeping and carrying out the instructions of a physician or nurse.

Interested persons should write or call Home Care-Homemaker Services, Inc., 602 East First St., Des Moines at 283-4977.

Outstanding Black Women

Bettye Latimer is an avid spokeswoman for quality education and the rights of parents and children; she is also the first Black woman to be elected to a local school board in the state of Wisconsin. In a recent city-wide election in Madison, she out balloted 13 white male opponents in a city where only two percent of the population is Black.

In addition to her new post, Mrs. Latimer is also an educational consultant for Wisconsin's Department of Public Instruction, and has previously taught in Massachusetts, Florida, and with the University of Wisconsin Extension. Profiled in the September issue of Essence magazine, Bettye says about her recent election, "My main focus during my three-year term as a school board member will be work for participation by the people actually affected by education decisions. And, as a Black woman, I feel that I must do my part to make the board more responsive to the people in the community."

Lead Paint

Ordinance Approved

The City Council August 26 gave 6-1 approval to the third and final reading of the proposed Lead Paint Ordinance for Des Moines, regulating the use and sale of lead-based paint and imposing the duty for its removal from surfaces accessible to children.

"Previously we highly recommended lead abatement by landlords, especially in homes with peeling paint where small children were living, but now we have the authority to see that such detoxification is carried out," Frederick Collins, senior housing technician for the city, stated.

Landlords in general have been most cooperative said Garry Ratliff, R.S., sanitarian for lead investigation with the

Des Moines-Polk County Health Department. "We in Lead Poisoning Control hope for a decrease in the number of repeat lead-positive youngsters. When children are reexposed to lead dangers incidences of brain damage and death are greatly increased."

"Why my hamburgers taste better than your hamburgers."

—AN IMMODEST OPINION BY CHEF FLEM JONES

It's not me. It's my Open Pit® barbecue sauce.

Open Pit gives hamburgers an outdoor taste that helps you forget you can't afford steak.

Here's how you can make 'em at home — like mine.

Mix a pound and a half of ground beef with a cup of bread crumbs and ¼ cup of Open Pit barbecue sauce (add a little water if the mixture seems dry).

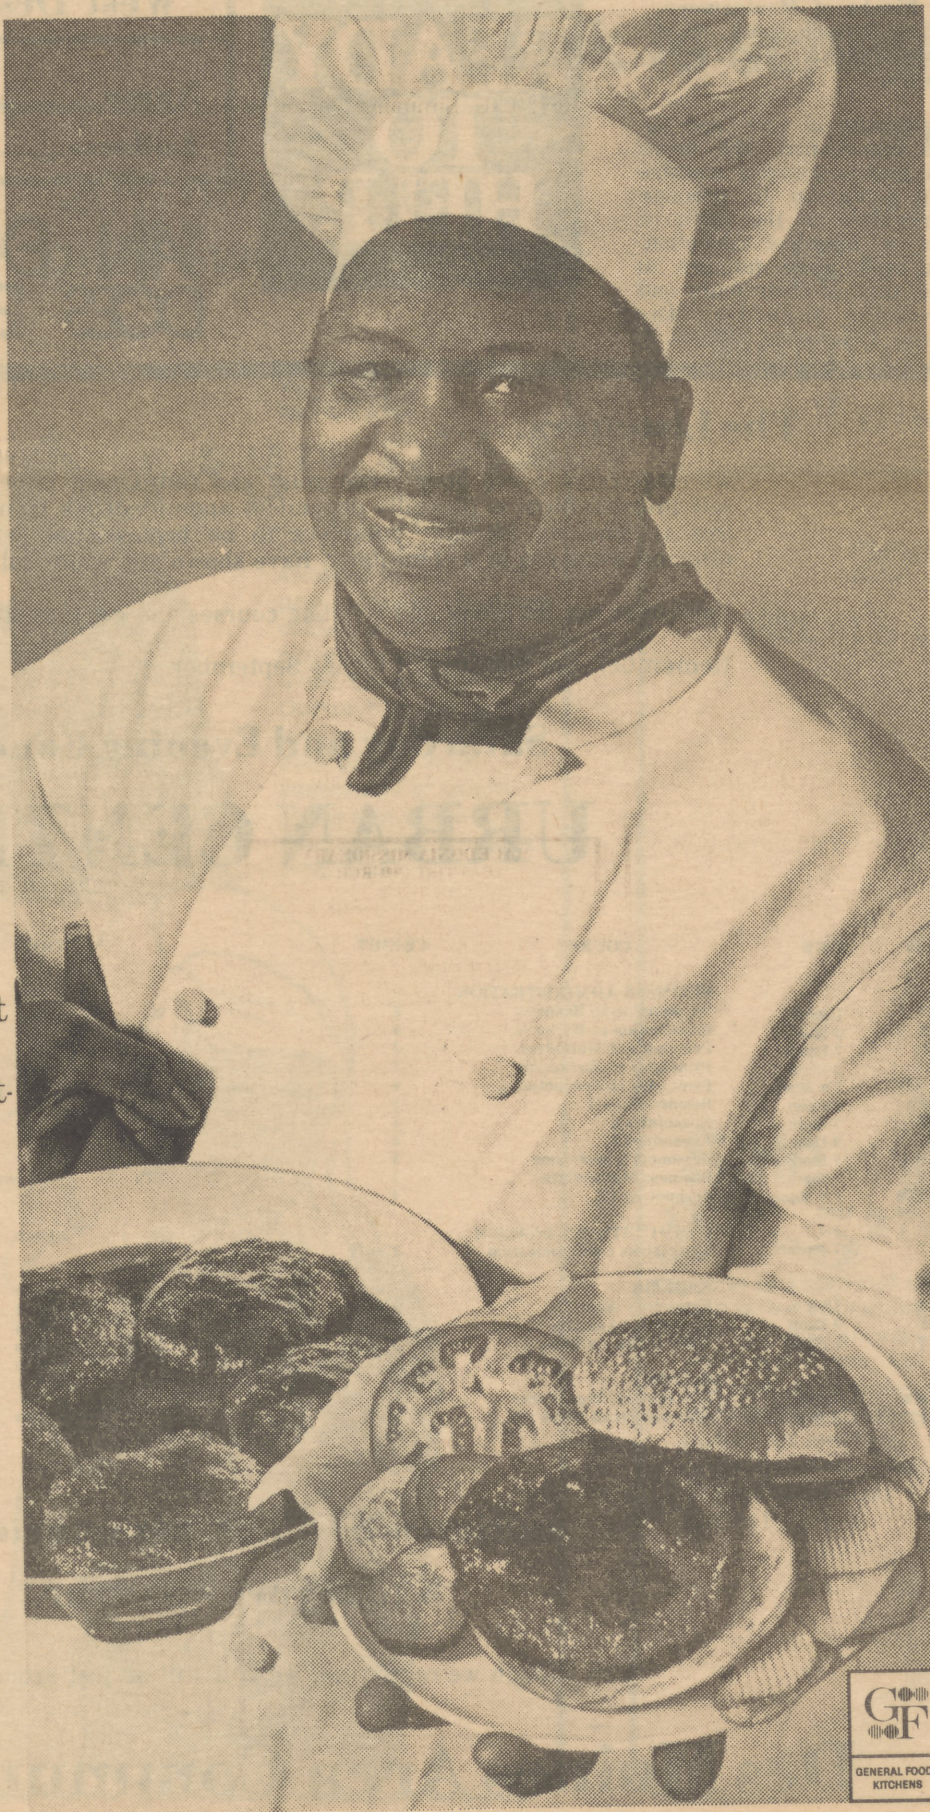

Then salt and pepper the beef to your taste and shape it into patties. About six of them should do it.

Next, panbroil the patties in a greased skillet. Or cook them under a broiler in an aluminum foil-lined pan. Turn them once to brown both sides.

Add ¼ cup water to ¾ cup of Open Pit and pour it over the patties.

Keep cooking them till they're done the way you like them, basting with Open Pit barbecue sauce from the pan.

Why Open Pit barbecue sauce? Because Open Pit gives hamburgers a great outdoor taste. The kind of taste that makes hamburgers a treat all by themselves.

Incidentally, you can use Open Pit as a marinade, too. You get a choice of four flavors. Original Flavor—that's what I use. Original Flavor with Minced Onions. Hickory Smoke Flavor. And Hot 'n Spicy.

You want to make hamburgers that taste like my hamburgers? You've just gotta use Open Pit.

P.S. I put a slice of tomato, pickles and lettuce on my hamburgers. And a few potato chips on the side.

Open Pit®

The name itself says outdoor flavor.

Effects Of Brown Vs. Board of Education Examined On PBS Special Of The Week

With her attorney Fred Gray, Mrs. Rosa Parks sits in the empty courthouse in Montgomery, Alabama where she was found guilty of breaking a city ordinance by refusing to give up her seat on a bus. She talks of her action which, in 1955 resulted in a year-long boycott of the buses by the Blacks of Montgomery, during the PBS SPECIAL OF THE WEEK, "Deep South, Deep North", Monday, Sept. 2nd at 7:00 pm on Channel 11 & 12 over the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network.

Twenty years ago, on May 17, 1954, the U.S. Supreme Court, under Chief Justice Earl Warren handed down a landmark decision. In Brown vs. Board of Education the Court overturned the concept of "separate but equal" and ruled that schools should desegregate "with all deliberate speed," thus, in principle, ending generations of school segregation. Monday, Sept. 2 at 7:00 p.m. on Channel 11 & 12, "Deep South, Deep North" presents a British reporter's perspective on the effects of mandatory school desegregation in the United States. The program airs nationally over the Public Broadcasting Service.

A co-production of public television station KOCE-TV Huntington Beach, California and the BBC, "Deep South, Deep North" is not about events, but about a process. It concerns itself with "ordinary" people; shunning spokesmen, civic leaders and politicians. It is a study of individuals, places and situations, in the black-belt counties of Alabama and in the ghetto and suburbs of Detroit.

There are several ironies revealed in the course of social history traced in "Deep South, Deep North." In the deep south of Little Rock, Arkansas, Ernest Green, one of nine students escorted into Central High School by Federal troops at President Eisenhower's order, stands today on the steps of the now successfully integrated school and recalls the scene of 1957.

In Topeka, Kansas, Mrs. Linda Smith recounts her feelings as a nine-year-old when, as Linda Brown, the NAACP named her and others in a series of cases. By alphabetical accident, Linda gave her name to a chapter of American history in Brown vs. Board of Education. Yet the all-black school which Linda Brown attended, going by an all white school on her way, is still 80 percent black today.

Now, twenty years later, in the deep north, a court action is being brought by the NAACP, known as Bradley vs. Milliken. Ronald Bradley is a nine-year-old black boy; William Milliken is the governor of Michigan. The issue is the same: school desegregation.

During the filming of "Deep South, Deep North" the Supreme Court reviewed two lower court decisions which had found the state of Michigan guilty of both "de jure" and "de facto" segregation. The lower courts had proposed a massive busing program to promote desegregation in the spirit of Brown vs. Board of Education. Black and white families in Detroit talk of their fears and aspirations regarding the Supreme Court-case. Whites in suburban Warren say that if school busing is imposed, they will boycott; similarly, a large proportion of the black population of inner-city Detroit are opposed to busing their children to suburban schools. The rigidity of their attitudes indicate that the North ironically may face greater problems than the South ever faced.

In a final irony, the most significant event in the course of the controversy occurred long after the filming of "Deep South, Deep North." On Thursday, July 25, 1974, the Supreme Court resolved the legal aspects of the controversy in an historic 5-4 decision. The court ruled that Ronald Bradley will remain, as thousands of other black children, in the public school system of Detroit's inner-city.

"Deep South, Deep North" is a production of KOCE-TV and the BBC. Producer director: Tim Slessor. Associate director: Dave Fanning. Reporter/narrator: Jeremy James. The program is transmitted nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service.

Black Press Group Comes Face To Face With Middle East Problem-Refugees

By Howard B. Woods
Editor-Publisher,
St. Louis Sentinel

(Editor's note: This is the 2nd in a series of four articles by representatives of the Black Press who visited the Middle East on a study tour during the recent easing of the Arab-Israeli crisis. In the group were Mrs. Marjorie B. Parham, Cincinnati Herald; Robert A. Sengstacke, Chicago Defender; Charles E. Belle, Los Angeles Sentinel and San Francisco Sun-Reporter.)

DAMASCUS, Syria (NNPA) — Abdul, a dust covered farmer, and his equally dust covered family — a wife, 10 children, and grandparents over 80 — were smiling broadly when we visited their tent, because they were anticipating their return home.

But most Palestinian refugees are not smiling, because no plans have yet been made for millions of them to return to their native villages. Some have been camping in the desert for nearly 30 years. And this is the crux of the Middle East problem, we were told about over and over again.

However, Abdul and his family, who were among 25,000 encamped just outside this Biblical city where Paul had his conversion, are preparing to return to their homeland as a result of the negotiated agreement between Syria and Israel following the shuttle diplomacy of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Abdul had walked over 60 miles with his eight-month pregnant wife, and other members of his family after hostilities broke out last October.

They spent last winter in the tattered tents where we visited them. Sometimes there were as much as four feet of snow on the ground. The United Nations under its Relief and World Agency (UNRWA) supplies these people only 7c per person, per day. Individual governments provide meagre supplemental help. Fortunately, soon they will be home again.

But what of the other 3.5 million Palestinians who still live in tent cities or temporary shelters in Jordan or Lebanon or are roaming throughout the Arab World. Some have been nomads since 1946.

So fierce is their determination to return home to what was once Palestine that they refuse more permanent quarters. There are second and even third generations of refugees in these camps. Some were driven from camps in the Six Day War of 1966 to settle in new shelters.

Basil Agl, an articulate spokesman for the Palestinian Liberation Movement, told us quite pointedly that the Middle East matter cannot be solved until a full resolution is made of the refugee question. Immaculately dressed and precise of speech, Agl echoed the sentiments of every one with whom we spoke on this issue.

"There must be peace with justice," is the way it is put. It sounds much like Black Americans adding that all important word to those who speak of "law and order."

Seated in a conference room in Cairo, Egypt, Agl defended the violent acts of Palestinian guerillas. "We have an obligation," he said, "to keep reminding world public opinion of the 'persecution' of the Arab people."

Agl prefaced this remark by conceding that acts of strikes against Israelis outside occupied territories, skyjacking et al were not the best way to resolve the Palestinian problem.

This refugee camp on the outskirts of Damascus, Syria is an area where many farm families have lived since the 1967 war when Israel occupied the Golan Heights and they were forced to move by the soldiers.

A recent decision to give the Palestinian Liberation Movement equal voice in Arab-Israeli discussions was perhaps, the singular most effective step in the resolution of the problem.

The problem is rooted in emotion, history and international politics. As one Palestinian explained to us and it was to be repeated many times during this tour, "We want to establish two points: (1) to liberate Palestine physically, and (2) to liberate the Jews by establishing a secular state where Arabs and Jews can live side by side as equals."

On this whole Middle East question, the world will soon be confronted with another bargaining "weapon," we were told. It is the abundance of phosphates produced in Jordan.

Phosphate is tightly linked to the stomach of man, Aldnan Abuader, an official, said. "And when the time comes we intend to use it as the oil is being used."

We were repeatedly told that as the world population grows, so will the need for phosphate as fertilizer.

Jordan, is but one of the pivotal Arab states that feels keenly that it was bypassed in the Kissinger talks with Syria and Egypt. President Nixon's visit here afterward is viewed as a palative to ease the feelings of the Jordanians.

Nixon's visit was preceded by a tour of songstress Pearl Bailey, who has been named by the President as the Ambassadors of Love. Miss Bailey's appearance was an immense success with a special honor extended by the Prime Minister and a glittering reception given at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Thomas Pickering. Pickering, a former aide of Secretary Kissinger, is acutely aware of Jordan's role in the Middle East situation.

Before You Go...

A good many workers are being lured to Alaska by stories of high paying jobs on the oil pipeline, only to find no work and great hardship when they get there.

Today, about one out of every eight Alaskans is unemployed and these residents have been promised and are getting first crack at jobs on the pipeline. We are informed that there are enough unemployed Alaskans to do most all the work needed on the project.

Anyone having special skills who think they might be needed on the pipeline, should check with the nearest office of the public employment service, which will have information on any job openings in Alaska.

No one seeking work should go to Alaska without a job commitment in writing from an employer before leaving home.

Alaska is a grand and beautiful state, but it is no place to be a stranger and stranded without a job. In the state as a whole, the cost of living is about 35 percent higher than in the rest of the country. A hamburger, for instance, costs two dollars or more and a milkshake about $1.60. Costs are even higher in Fairbanks, where, for example, it costs about $150 a month more for a one-bedroom apartment, if you can find one, than for a two-bedroom apartment in Anchorage, if you can find one, there. The one-bedroom apartment in Fairbanks, if available, rents for about $375 a month. In addition, it gets extremely cold. In the winter months, upcoming, the temperature will normally drop to 60 degrees below zero along the pipeline.

The concerts will be part of a week-long celebration leading up to the world's heavyweight championship fight between world champion George Foreman and challenger/former champion Muhammad Ali. The fight will be held at 20 du Mai Stadium (capacity: 100,000) in Kinshasa, capital of Zaire.

Levine and Masekela also said that the entire group of Black stars will depart for Zaire in mid-September on specially chartered jets, with a huge kickoff party scheduled for New York, followed by a special reception in Zaire.

In addition, negotiations are almost completed with a major production company to film the concert activities for a forthcoming theatrical feature to be released internationally.

Levine and Masekela revealed that a series of albums will be produced and will be distributed by at least two major record companies.

New Voices On

"Black

Awareness"

"Black Awareness", a KSO-FM radio program airing Sunday nights at 10:30, will add new personalities and introduce a new format this week.

J. Edmund Hall, disc jockey, musician, and owner of Hall's Music & Fine Gifts will join "Black Awareness" as co-host. He will also assume the duties of public affairs director for the show.

Formerly with KYNA radio, Hall is enthusiastic about the new format, and feels listeners will find it controversial, relevant, and entertaining.

Hostess for the weekly broadcast is Vel Turner, who recently celebrated her first anniversary with the show.

Kalonji Lumumba (known to many as Clive De Patten), will be a special guest on this week's show. He'll be addressing himself to the need for Black people to organize around issues effecting all Blacks. Police brutality, economic oppression, political empowerment, Black unity, and other topics will be discussed. He will do a weekly commentary entitled "Objective Perspective."

The O'Jays were in Los Angeles after completing a highly successful national tour that culminated in a triumphant week headlining at the famed Los Angeles Greek Theatre.

"Captioned News"

Central Iowa's deaf and hearing impaired citizens will soon be able to understand a daily national news program. By special arrangement with the American Broadcasting Company and its affiliate stations in Central Iowa, The Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (IEBN) will begin televising, on an experimental basis, "The Captioned ABC Evening News" with Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner on Monday, September 2, 1974 at 10:00 p.m. on KDIN, Channel 11.

The captioned broadcasts use the sound and picture of the regular ABC Evening News broadcast earlier in the day, except that printed captions have been added to communicate the sound portion of the program for those who are hearing impaired. IEBN's sister public television station, WGBH-Boston, video tapes the ABC Evening News then captions the program by placing summarized word groups on the television screen with the aid of a computer.

Wine Glass Guide

How large should a wine glass be? One size wine glass is enough, say experts. The Wine Growers of California have indicated their preference for an all-purpose, tulip-shaped glass that holds about nine ounces. It's appropriate for any type of wine, say the experts.

Wine may be served in any glass, even a tumbler — but somehow it seems to taste much better in a stemmed glass. This is more than the beauty of that glass on your table; it's also because a stem keeps your hand from warming the wine.

In search for wine glasses, first of all look for a large size — so that the glass may be poured only about half-full. A slight tulip shape, with the top of the glass a little narrower than the widest part of the bowl, helps to hold the wine's aroma and bouquet in the empty space above the wine.

The next thing to look for is absolute clarity—no colored glass, and preferably no etched pattern. This is to let you enjoy the clarity and color of the wine itself, another part of its full enjoyment.

For a free chart showing sizes and shapes of traditional wine glasses, and information on types of wine and their good food partners, send a postcard to Wine, Box 88, San Francisco, Calif. 94103.

FLIGHT FACTS

Did you know that:

Flying isn't just for the young. Although the largest number is in the 25-29 year old bracket, nearly 20 percent of the private pilots qualified for their licenses after age 40. About 15,000 private pilots are over 60 years old.

Flying isn't just for the rich. Sixty percent of today's private pilots earn less than $20,000 a year.

The cost of learning to fly is about equivalent to a winter's skiing or country club dues, according to Piper Aircraft Corp.

A small Piper single engine airplane travels two to three times the speed of the family automobile and at 14 to 18 miles per gallon.

Around 30,000 women now hold private pilot licenses.

It takes a minimum of 40 hours—20 with instructor and 20 solo—to qualify for a private pilot's license.

Small airplanes are used more for business purposes than for personal recreation.

Approximately the same number of people travel by small airplane each year as ride the commercially scheduled airlines.

NNPA Head Urges President Ford To Appoint Black Cabinet Member

SAN FRANCISCO (NNPA) — Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association — the Black Press of America — urged President Gerald M. Ford in a mailgram last Friday to appoint a black to his Cabinet. He also pledged his support to President Ford. The full text of the mailgram follows:

Mr. President: Despite the nightmare of Watergate, we fervently hope that your Administration will strongly affirm your inaugural statement that our Great Republic is a government of laws and not of men; and 25 million blacks in America, more numerous than the population of 157 nations of the world, will witness in deeds your commitment to be the President of all the people.

In this the 11th post-Lincoln Emancipation year, the National Newspaper Publishers Association — the Black Press of America, pledges its support to you and your Administration in your every effort to give substantive meaning to this solemn promise which will surely lead black Americans out of the nadir of "benign neglect" into the sunlight of full participation in the decision making processes at the highest levels in the Executive Branch of the Federal Government.

To achieve these laudable aims, the Black Press of America urges the appointment of blacks to the following important policy making positions: Member of the Cabinet, Counselor to the President, Assistant to the President, and member of the personnel placement section of the White House.

Racism is the most deadly disease threatening domestic peace, tranquillity and cooperation. No inspiring agenda for the observance of the Bicentennial of the birth of our nation or the projection of goals to be pursued in the third century of our nationhood can be achieved without the inspiring example to our people and especially our youth that your Administration is wise enough, honest enough and courageous enough to put the national commitment to eradicate racism as an agenda item second to none.

Surely a nation inspired through Presidential mandate which led to visitations to the moon can find the will again under Presidential inspiration to achieve a victory over racism, humanity's greatest scourge.

Sincerely, Carlton B. Goodlett, Ph. D., M.D., President NNPA

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF INTENT TO APPLY FOR A FEDERAL MANPOWER TRAINING GRANT

This is to give notice that the Central Iowa Regional Association of Local Governments (CIRALG) intends to apply for a grant from the U.S. Department of Labor to administer a job placement program. The area to be served by the program will be the following census tracts within the City of Des Moines 12, 13, 14, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33 and 34. The program will be called the Public Service Employment Program. The amount of the grant request is $82,900.00 for the eight (8) month period from August 19, 1974 through June 30, 1975.

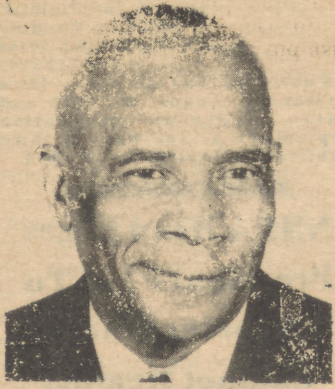

The enabling legislation is the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) of 1973, which was signed by the President and thereby became law on December 31, 1973. As a sort of climax to our already busy tennis season, the Hilltop Club held a tournament for the fellows who like to play at Goode Park. The thing was a double elimination deal, and the fellows really went after it. The tennis wouldn't produce raves, but every guy gave it all he had, and there were some tough matches and sometimes some sensational shots. Well, after everybody got taken out one way or another, it came down to Steve Holmes and Harold Winston in the finals. Winston looked like the winner in the first set, but Steve never did give up, and after catching up in the second set, he went on to win the final set, winning by scores of 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. I thought that Harold ran out of gas in the final set, and that may have been the difference. But the most impressive thing about the thing was the way the fellows kept saying that it was great to have the meet. It was sort of an experiment to see how it would go over, and it just might be worth trying another year, and maybe we will get more people and can have more divisions. Doubles were planned, but in spite of the fact that there were enough players to make up enough teams, they never did get together, and the doubles had to be cancelled. It just might be that a clinic is in order for those interested so they can improve their games, and there may be a lot more people in our Hilltop Open than we have had in some time.

While we are on the subject of tennis, a fellow asked me if I thought Arthur Ashe is at the end of his rope, since he hadn't won a meet all summer, or at least we didn't think so. I don't believe he can really be out of it, because I don't think he isn't that old, but I rather think he doesn't concentrate on the game enough. Players, when interviewed and asked about Ashe say that if he practiced, nobody would beat him very often. But people already know about his outside interests and how much time they take away from his tennis. I watched him in a doubles match the other night, and he made the mistakes that all players who don't practice much do. Just couldn't get going because he didn't pay enough attention to details like getting down on low shots, and failing to get into the net on volleys. When he did, he put them away. But I was pleased to see him show some emotion on a bad call, and leap over the net to show the official where the ball lit.

Football, anyone?

With the local gridiron season just around the corner, we ought to take a look at the high schools and see what we come up with. I probably won't make it around to all of the schools before they start knocking heads, so I won't try to come up with anything in the way of predictions. I did ask Jock Johnson what sort of a team they would have at East, and he said it should be pretty good. He also said they had about five Black players that I suppose he meant had a chance to play. I have already seen the fellows at Tech working out, and they have high hopes for the year. Haven't seen any of the others yet, and unless some of you get the idea that I am interested only in west side teams, I must remind you that I was born on the East side and went to East High. My next stop is probably North, and I want to see if they can improve on their mark of last year. But, who is going to beat Dowling? This may be the year the string of the Maroons is broken. I thought it might be last year, but they got out of their only really tough game, and East is laying for them this year. If they can do that, it wouldn't matter if they didn't win another game, their season will be a success. This time I expect to see a few of the games, and can get a first hand look at things.

Then there is Drake and the other two schools. At present Iowa State looks like the team to go see, but I am curious as to what Iowa U comes up with. I don't believe they can beat anybody on their schedule, but it will be interesting to see what they do with teams like Ohio State, Michigan and such.

THE ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Secondary school athletic directors work with students in the classroom and in the gyms and on athletic fields. They are deeply involved in the lives of young people and have close relationships with parents and community leaders.

Athletic directors are accepted educational administrators as well as spokesmen for interscholastic athletic programs. Deeply committed to the school's educational programs, they are also engaged in business affairs, health service, student activities and community services.

"By definition," according to a spokesman for the National Council of Secondary School Athletic Directors, "he or she is the person who has the major responsibility for administration of the interscholastic athletic program for a specific school or school system."

Some of the many concerns are maintenance and building of facilities, priority of budgets, coaches' salaries, girls' sports, certification of coaches, motivation of coaches, sports in the total educational program, intramurals and coeducational athletics.

They have a profound influence in their communities because of their close work with more than 18 million students in junior and senior high schools, as well as their parents, educators and members of the health team, and city and town officials.

Because of his overriding concern for the well-being of students, he is frequently consulted by youngsters and their parents about various health problems. These range from safety procedures to the best product to treat athlete's foot. When it comes to the latter, more and more athletic directors are recommending Tinactin cream and powder to help treat and prevent this disorder.

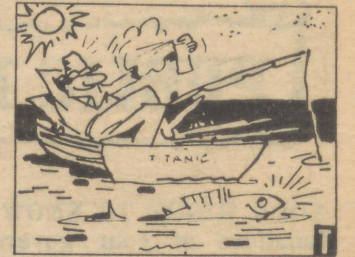

Among the director's many other duties is securing and working with competent officials in all sports.

SPORTS SHORTS

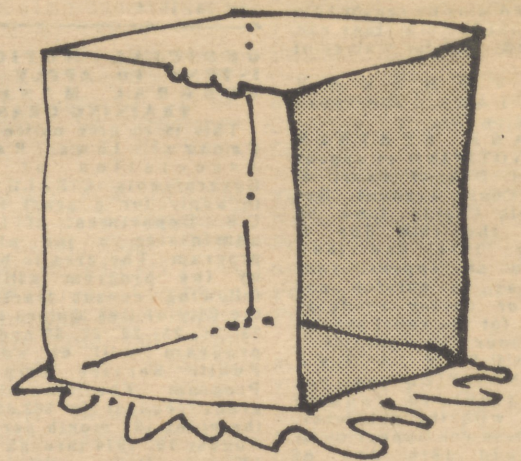

No matter what kind of sports-person you are, whether you're hooked on fishing, or tennis is your racket, whether you have a ball at golf or your real arena is spectator sports, there's no point of letting yourself be bugged by insects, everytime you try to enjoy yourself.

Now, you can improve your sporting life three different ways, with three forms of tough new insect repellent designed with the outdoors person in mind, to put those pests in a flap!

No mere fly-by-night insect repellent, it has been tested in the bad bug country in Maine and New Jersey, and proved especially effective against the black flies and mosquitoes that can drive you bugs during the warmer months. It contains an unusually high percentage of active ingredients that can make the little monsters flee fast, and comes in a compact five ounce spray, a 1½ ounce liquid and a new two ounce cream with an unbreakable container that goes into a tackle box, back-pack or pocket as smooth as butter. This wing-ding pestbuster is called "Sportsmate II" and is made by Union Carbide Corporation.

When it comes to keeping the bugs at bay, even the best sport shouldn't handicap himself by giving the beasts a sporting chance!

Give your refrigerator or freezer a break by giving it less work to do.

- Locate your refrigerator away from heat sources like ranges or radiators. Decide what you want before opening the door. It saves as much as 20% on energy.
- Defrost when frost build-up exceeds one quarter inch. Keep your freezer at 0° F. Higher isn't good, colder isn't necessary.
- Make sure all doors seal tightly.
- Allow space between the cooling unit and wall for heat dissipation.
- Clean dust from condenser fins.
