National News Briefs

New York, New York — The major consumer credit companies operating in New York City came in for a blast of criticism last week from "Jerry" of JGE Enterprises, Inc., a large chain which sells appliances, furniture, and carpeting at discount prices exclusively to persons with union and civil service affiliations. He charged these firms, particularly Household Finance Corporation and General Electric Credit Corporation, with discrimination against persons living in predominantly Black and Puerto Rican areas of the city.

New York, New York — Contributions to the Medgar Evers Fund have hit a five-year low since last March, Fund President Charles Evers reported to his Trustees in late September. The nation-wide economic recession has slashed both the size and volume of private gifts, Mayor Evers noted, and brought the Medgar Evers Fund to a crucial crossroads regarding its future.

Washington, D.C. — The Navajo Nation of Arizona is making a major effort to improve communications and the exchange of information among the almost 800,000 American Indians in the United States.

In Denver, there are plans to build a complex for Indian people and families for reservations who seek to make a life in that city's urban community.

Washington, D.C. — The Department of Justice filed a civil suit today charging the owner and manager of a Louisiana bar with discriminating against black patrons.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe said the public accommodations suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Shreveport, Louisiana.

Rochester, N.Y. — A Purdue University professor was sharply critical of a new book on slavery Friday during a conference at the University of Rochester. Harold D. Woodman,

Dr. Conner Speaks In New Orleans

Dr. Julius S. Conner, director of the Des Moines-Polk County Health Department was a panel participant this past week at the American Public Health Association annual meeting held October 20-24, in New Orleans.

His topic was "Morbidity Surveillance and Health Service Monitoring Beyond Communicable Disease: Role of Local Health Agencies."

Dr. Conner stressed that local health agencies have a role beyond the provision of personal and environmental health services for the purpose of disease control.

"The role of local agencies in non-infectious disease and injury control should be to work with other existing health resources, whether public, voluntary, or private, to see that adequate health services exist and that barriers to their utilization by all citizens are removed. In addition to this, local health agencies sponsored by government should collect morbidity and disability data from all pertinent sources for

New Members On Rights Commission

Four new Commissioners have been appointed by the Mayor and City Council to the Des Moines Human Rights Commission. The new Commissioners are Russell Davis, 2716 Fleur Drive, Vice-President and Assistant General Counsel of American Republic Insurance Company; Kent Frank, 686-48th Street, Social Science and English Teacher at Kurtz Junior High School; Ada Jackson, 3900 Brinkwood Road, Vice-President of Pameco Incorporated; and Ephraim Mogolov, 5915 Rutland Drive, District Manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Commissioner Davis was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Hal Stookey which expires in the Fall of 1975. Commissioners Frank, Jackson and Mogolov will serve regular three-year terms which expire in 1977.

Federal Judge Orders Equal Hiring Fire And Police

Milwaukee, Wisconsin — Social and legal organizations in the Black community won a major victory Friday when the Milwaukee Fire and Police Commission and the Fire Department were ordered to immediately remedy their discriminatory hiring patterns for Black, brown, and red people, and women. After weeks of negotiations with city officials, representatives from the NAACP and Milwaukee Legal Services succeeded in getting far-reaching changes in the department's current hiring and recruiting policies.

Beginning with eligibility lists compiled in the department's latest recruitment effort in July, the Fire Department will hire two candidates from a separate list of non-whites who passed examinations for every three whites hired. The two for three plan will continue until the department reaches a parity goal of 14 percent non-white. The order was handed down in federal court by Judge John W. Reynolds last Thursday. The city, NAACP and MLS met on Friday to come to terms on Reynolds order.

professor of history at Purdue, challenged both the methods and the interpretations of the authors of "Time on the Cross," a widely-discussed book which has been interpreted by some critics as an apology for slavery as practiced in the South before the Civil War.

Los Angeles, California — A Los Angeles school security guard was indicted today by a federal grand jury in the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old youth in a high school. Attorney General William B. Saxbe said the indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles against William C. Garcia, 23, an employee of the Los Angeles Board of Education.

The federal action was the result of two cases brought against the Commission and Fire Department by the NAACP and by Loren J. Washington, 26, who failed the department's oral examination in July. Washington had been told by department officials that he would not pass the oral test because he had been convicted on a misdemeanor. On the day the eligibility list was posted, Washington received a full pardon from Gov. Lucey, but still did not pass the test. Washington was recently given the oral test again and will be certified to the Fire Department for appointment. The first separate list for non-whites will be composed of those candidates who did not make the eligibility list in July. There were 14 Blacks and seven latins who made that list. Of the 22 vacancies available at that time, none were filled by any of the non-white candidates. There has also been inserted into the court plan a key control mechanism which provides

Name Honors Former Wilkie House Director

Mrs. A. Lillian Edmunds
1892 to 1955

By Vance Hawthorne
Nearly 400 persons — parents, students, teachers, community residents, distinguished visitors and Central office dignitaries —

came to share the "culmination of a dream" Sunday, Oct. 27 with the formal dedication of Lillian Edmunds Elementary School, 1601 Crocker Street, held at 2:00 p.m. in the school's huge regulation gymnasium.

In the larger Des Moines community and especially Black community the event served as a landmark; it marked the physical realization of Charrette '71, an innovative process when community and school district personnel, combined in intensive planning sessions, to develop goals for two new community schools that would replace four ancient buildings.

Bringing the main dedication address was James Bowman, executive director of Elementary Education, who extolled the exemplary human qualities of Mrs. Lillian Edmunds, who was his longtime mentor and friend.

Presentations

Presentation of the building was made by Nolden Gentry, president of the Des Moines School Board of Directors, who emphasized that the most important factor was not just the structure of the building, but "what goes on within its walls."

Mrs. Lena Smith, chairman of the Edmunds Advisory Council and a participant of Charrette '71, accepted the building. Mr. Arthur Edmunds, Pittsburgh, Penna., son of the late Mrs. Edmunds, represented and introduced the Edmunds family as well as made closing remarks.

Edmunds Family

Other members of the Edmunds family attending included Mrs. Edmunds daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Williams and their children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Lewis and two children, Miss Sandra Williams and Miss Stacie Williams and Mr. A. Edmunds sister-in-law, Mrs. Gwendolyn Morgan, Chicago.

Serving as master of ceremonies, Dr. Don Brubaker, principal, introduced platform guests and some of the visiting dignitaries which included Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Dwight Davis, School Board members, Mrs. Jack Spevak, Dr. George Caudill and Dr. John McCaw, and various Central Office Administrative personnel.

Cast Your Vote November 5th

The nation goes to the polls November 5th to select a number of U.S. Senators, governors, state, county and township officials. The ballot provides an opportunity to select candidates who will do the best job for all their constituents and square with action the pledges they made during the campaign.

Unfortunately, the country has been plagued with unsavory conduct by some public officials which has shaken the confidence of many voters. It is unfortunate. We have had this before but somehow have worked our way out of the delima. The present trouble should not be allowed to linger indefinitely otherwise the country will utilize valuable time looking into skeleton closets rather than applying wisdom to correcting the evil and halting the unbridled rise in prices.

Voting percentages have been very poor during the last few elections and possibly adding to the trouble we have had. Since we have an opportunity to make our decisions at the polls, don't wait and gripe after unqualified people are elected to office.

Problems To Be Met

During the past four years I have been a member of the Advisory Council of CIRAS (Center for Industrial Research and Service) which is an arm of the extension services of the engineering department of Iowa State University.

The Council is made up of business men and women, engineers, accountants, lawyers and school administrators from all over the state.

This has been a fine experience in that I did not realize the extent of industry in Iowa. It has been a pleasure to meet this group and to add whatever contribution I was able to make, not only for Negroes, but all groups to which the service is rendered.

The state is divided into areas headed by a specialist who offers assistance in helping solve problems all without charge. Their reports indicate that many business concerns, that might otherwise have gone down the drain, have been helped by this service.

Having been involved in a fatal accident in 1957 I have made a rule not to drive out of the city (my driver's license was renewed for two years a few days ago). For this reason I make the trip with various members from Des Moines.

Last week I had the occasion to ride with the director of one of the top job placement agencies in the state. In the course of our conversation, he stated that one of his big problems had been the inability to find Negroes to fill requests for their employment.

I have said all along that there are good jobs for qualified Negroes in Des Moines but the people just are not available.

While the employment rate among Negroes in large cities is as high as 25%, here in Des Moines the rate is no higher than the total city which is near 3%.

Des Moines has a Human Rights and Job Discrimination Commission; Iowa has the Civil Rights Commission. And while the complaints of discrimination in employment and the exercise of the Civil Rights by minorities and women have had little success, the original sponsors of these agencies definitely had in mind that they should determine the extent of employment and help increase it.

They should contact various industries and companies, determine the extent that they are cooperating with the law and helping acquaint the public with availability of employment for minority groups.

The federal, state and county officers should not be overlooked as they have a responsibility to be "equal opportunity employers."

I still believe that children should be taught the necessity of learning to work from kindergarten to the time they either quit school or finish a particular course.

I notice that employees have been brought into the state to fill federal, state, city and county positions but few of those other than Civil Rights or community development jobs have been Negroes.

Lillian Edmunds School

The Lillian Edmunds Elementary School at 15th and Crocker was dedicated Sunday.

The program was participated in by the principal of the school, officers of the school board and school administration, a number of former close associates of Mrs. Edmunds, a number of students, the committee which nurtured the idea, selected the site and the staff which will conduct the school operations. Relatives and a large number of friends and educators were present to honor one who worked diligently among young people.

Edmunds School is a Charet school, a new concept of education in Des Moines.

She believed in education, work, stability and felt all were necessary in order for young people to get the best out of life. She believed in responsibility and honest work as a strong part of what youngsters must learn in school.

The program was excellent. The school was inspected by the visitors which gave them a better idea of what this type of education is all about.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR Committee to Free James Hall is Active

Hello!

All very happy with the article! Incredible! Not used to the press taking an active role in the struggles of the people.

Want to tell you first — the $5,000.00 cash HAS been reached! It seems that by directing out energies in the right way we will have the $50,000.00 soon.

There will be a rally this Wed., Oct. 30th - at 12:30 on the Pentacrest. A coalition of groups from this area will be sponsoring the rally; Comm. to Free James Hall, Black Student Union, Revolutionary Student Brigade, and Chicano-Indian Cultural Ctr. All of these groups are building for Wed., and will be represented by speakers. The Black Student Organization, of Ames, will also have a speaker, and hopefully people from the Comm. to Free Ray Mendoza (Milwaukee) will be there. In essence, Wednesday will be a day for people to unite - people from all over the Mid-west who are involved in the struggle will be demonstrating their support for James Hall. Hope you will be with us.

I am enclosing a leaflet put out by the Revolutionary Student Brigade. R.S.B. is a multi-national, anti-imperialist student organization. Had wanted to send the Committee's poster (building for the rally) — it is being run off now and I don't want to wait any longer before mailing this to you.

If possible, we would like to have more copies of the article.

Gladys Gal for the Committee to Free James Hall

YOUR COUNTY GOVERNMENT

A new Polk County Building and Courthouse expansion are needed NOW! We can't afford to wait!

Here are the facts:

- Our judges, courts, and court services MUST have more space NOW (State law says so).
- Our county MUST have more space to efficiently conduct day-to-day business NOW. (It can't continue to operate in a sardine can.)
- Federal funds - enough to pay 1/2 the cost of the entire project - MUST be used NOW (or they'll revert to other uses).

VOTE YES

for the Polk County Building and Courthouse expansion.

It's the one issue that provides something for all the people!

School Dedication

Portrait

A beautiful lifelike portrait of Mrs. Edmunds was presented by Mrs. Marguerite E. Cothorn, representing Phi chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority, with Mrs. Mildred Robinson, also a Charrette '71 participant, accepting. Mesdames Mary Good and Martha Howe of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Auxiliary Airport Post 6852, presented a United States flag to the school which was accepted by Mrs. Frances Hawthorne, Educational Coordinator. Invocation was by Rev. H.I. Thomas, pastor of Union Baptist church and Rev. Frederick W. Strickland, pastor of Corinthian Baptist church, gave the benediction. A check was presented to the school by Mrs. Barbara Weisner, Director of Wilkie House.

In addition to the other landmarks mentioned, Lillian Edmunds school, also marks the first time that a Des Moines school has been named for a Black woman. A "one world model," Mrs. Edmunds provided leadership and inspiration to children and adults in the Des Moines community for over 30 years. Her love of young people and her intense concern for their futures was evidenced for the entire period she served as executive director of the Negro Community Center and of Wilkie House.

Model for Young

A native of Greenville, Ala., Mrs. Edmunds, was to many young people a role model or an additional parent and benefactor. Many times children were provided with clothing or other needs from her own family's resources. She organized Boy Scout Troop 59 because of her feeling for the leadership roles it provided for young boys. From this troop have come many professional men who got their start with Mrs. Edmunds. Adult organizations for leadership were also given careful guidance through her tireless efforts.

Strong Impact

While she offered leadership to the entire community in many ways, most significant was her impact on young people in her strong influence on their aspirations and self perceptions. She literally directed all who could to obtain college education, technical training or meaningful employment.

Just as she was an involved model for so many young people during her lifetime, it was more than fitting that young people were involved in the dedication activities for the school, that they attend and which also bears her name.

Children

Initiating Sunday's dedication was the 30-voice Edmunds chorus, under the direction of Ramona Hall. Also making presentations of scrapbooks which include numerous sketches and writings of Mrs. Edmunds authored by children attending the school, were students, Keith Robinson, Darlene Hunsman and Gilbert Dawson. Named student tour guides for the occasion were Sara Mason, Tammy Harris, Kristina Handy, Christal Weldon, Charles Cotton, Keith Muir, Keith Robinson, and Bryon Wells, all of Unit C; and Sammie Smith, Juanita Dean, Doug Johnson, Chris Campbell, Merita Head, Greg Strong, Tanya Harvey and Scott Monroe, all of Unit D.

Edmunds parents served as hostesses for guest books and the reception in the Community room. Afterwards tours were conducted over the school facility, which is a unique architectural design. Edmunds replaces Bird and Grant elementary schools.

FOR VETERANS AUDITORIUM EXPANSION

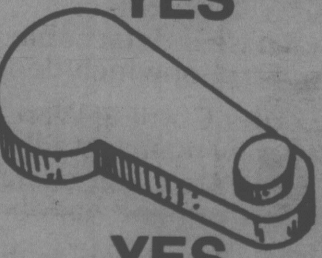

YES

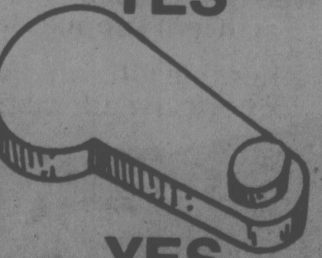

YES

VOTE YES to keep the convention business in Des Moines thriving! This year 200,000 convention delegates will visit Des Moines and pump $25,000,000 (25 million dollars) into the economy of our city — that's more than double the annual payroll of Massey-Ferguson. And remember, the convention population does not require any new tax-supported services such as schools, streets, hospitals, welfare, etc. The delegates come to Des Moines . . . spend their money . . . and return to their own hometowns.

VOTE YES to help Des Moines attract larger conventions to our city. Because of our ideal mid-country location, excellent hotel-motel accommodations and reasonable prices, many national groups want to meet in Des Moines. The problem: Veterans Auditorium does not have nearly enough exhibit space or the proper meetings and banquet facilities required by these larger groups.

VOTE YES to help maintain Des Moines' leadership as the convention center of Iowa. Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Sioux City and other Iowa cities are going all out to lure convention business away from Des Moines.

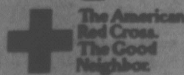

VOTE YES to provide more exhibit space so badly needed by popular shows such as the Des Moines Kennel Club Dog Show, Iowa Camping Show, Iowa Sports and Vacation Show and the Custom Auto Show.

VOTE YES to change Veterans Auditorium into an impressive landmark in downtown Des Moines . . . a building we can all be proud of! The bond issue will not only provide the expanded convention facilities we so desperately need but also give the auditorium a much-needed face lifting.

American Education Week is observed

the National Education Association and Officials of the U.S. Office of Education about launching an educational campaign to correct such deficiencies.

At it convention held in 1921 in Des Moines, Iowa, NEA Representative Assembly adopted a joint program of work with The American Legion, an important part of which was the first American Education Week observance, set for December 4-10, 1921.

Since 1926, when teaching of citizenship first became a major American Education Week focus, the dates of American Education Week have included Veterans Day, which used to fall annually on November 11. The only exception was in 1970, when American Education Week was moved to the fourth week in October so that the observance could bear directly on critical issues that faced communities in early November elections rather than follow them. Beginning in 1971, Veterans Day was designated as the fourth Monday in October by congressional law, and thus it again occurs during American Education Week.

The purposes of American Education Week have broadened beyond the eradication of illiteracy and the promotion of physical fitness. Today, the observance serves to increase public understanding and appreciation of the schools, to encourage parents to visit their children's schools at least once a year, to secure civic and community support for measures to improve the schools, and to help students gain an appreciation of what the schools are doing for them.

In connection with the local observance of American Education Week displays have been set up in many local business stores.

American Education Week, being observed this week throughout the United States, had its beginning in 1921. It was initiated after draft boards discovered during World War I that about 25% of the young men called for military service were illiterate and about 29% were physically unfit.

These alarming conditions led members of the Americanism Commission of the then newly formed American Legion to consult in 1917 with officers of

Law Enforcement

Project Awarded

Grant

Washington, D.C. — Administrator Richard W. Velde announced today that the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has awarded a $1,044,600 grant to New York City for a project that will create time-saving services for witnesses at the Brooklyn Criminal Court and will offer emergency aid to Brooklyn crime victims.

Mr. Velde said the project will improve the system of notifying witnesses when to appear in court and will place them on telephone alert whenever possible rather than requiring their appearance.

The project will provide transportation to and from court for crime victims and offer emergency repair services to those whose homes have been vandalized or burglarized.

The Vera Institute of Justice, a non-profit agency, will conduct the project.

The LEAA grant was made to the New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services. The project was developed by the New York City Criminal Justice Coordinating Council in cooperation with the Vera Institute of Justice, the New York City Criminal Court, the District Attorney of Kings County, and the New York City Police Department.

Record Number

Seeking Offices

Atlanta, Georgia — A record number of 118 blacks and 5 Indians are seeking major public offices — posts in state legislatures and the United States Congress — in November 5 elections in nine southern states reports the nonpartisan Voter Education Project (VEP).

Black candidates for state legislative posts could win as many as 31 new seats in southern legislatures as a result of the November elections, the VEP research indicated. In 1962, when the Voter Education Project first began promoting minority political participation in the South, there were no black members of southern legislatures. The 31 new positions projected by the VEP would bring the total of southern black legislators to a record 91.

Christmas Seals fight lung disease

"Lung disease victims in Iowa would equal a community the size of Sioux City and have more than doubled in the past decade," according to G. Thomas Reilly, President of the AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION of Iowa.

Reilly made the statement in announcing the mailing of this year's Christmas Seal letters which will be arriving in Iowa homes in the next few days. The Christmas Seals mark the kick-off of the 1974 Christmas Seal Campaign.

Proceeds from the campaign will be used for the prevention of lung disease in a number of local and state-wide programs. Among locally administered programs are visits of the Superbreath Lungmobile, a mobile unit featuring animated characters, lighted displays and sound recordings in presenting an anti-smoking message to 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grade youngsters in Iowa schools.

Christmas Seal contributions also support work with community hospitals and physicians in an effort to keep them up-to-date in the detection and treatment of chronic lung disease.

It's a matter of life and breath!

Working through its eight Division areas, and many dedicated Volunteers, the Heart Association has continued its training program of Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (closed-chest heart massage and mouth-to-mouth breathing). This training is made available to physicians, nurses, ambulance drivers, firemen, policemen, plant safety personnel, and many others in related medical positions. In addition, rehabilitation of the stroke patient has received additional emphases during the past 12 months.

The ins and outs of an electric heat pump.

In and out pretty well explains how a heat pump works. It's kind of like a furnace and an air conditioner all rolled into one.

In the summer, it acts like an air conditioner and pumps heat that's inside your house . . . outside. In the winter, it automatically reverses itself and takes heat from the outside air and pumps it in.

The amazing thing about the heat pump is that except for a few of the coldest days of the year, it produces much more energy in the form of heat than it uses in the form of electric power.

The time is right for electric heat

Columbia Records has announced the release of the Manhattans' second Lp for the label entitled "That's How Much I Love You."

The quality of the album is well summarized by Billboard, a leading national trade magazine, which reported: "Absolutely stunning set from one of the most talented harmonizing units in soul music today. Whether they are moving through raucous rockers, smooth ballads, or mid-tempo material, there is little if anything this group can do wrong. Certainly one of the strongest soul acts of today, combining musical ability and commerciality."

The Manhattans is comprise of Sonny Bivens, first tenor;

included in the current Lp as well as the highly successful "There's No Me Without You."

"We're very excited about the new album," commented Blue Lovett, group spokesman. "Right now we're in the process of deciding which song we should release as a single. At this point we feel that it will be either "Don't Take Your Love From Me" or "That's How Much I Love You."

The Manhattans are currently touring the college circuit in conjunction with the release of their new Lp.

For Black Students:

Progress In Black Participation Of Extra Curricular Activities At Roosevelt

By Pamela Spencer

More black students at Roosevelt High School are participating in the extra-curricular activities.

Some of the organizations blacks are becoming active in include the following.

The band, which has five black students enrolled as opposed to the three last year.

The orchestra now has two members, both sophomores.

There are four young men on the Varsity Football team.

It seems as if blacks take a high interest in music and sport activities.

Students were asked by me, their feelings on getting more blacks involved.

Senior Sharon Holmes commented, "I feel that more blacks should try out for cheerleading."

She continued, "Since there are blacks on the team, it would boost their morale if they see blacks on the cheerleading squad."

Occasionally, I run into black students who feel it is a waste of time to run for an office.

The students at Roosevelt must not get discouraged if they don't win an office or are not nominated for an event.

Goldie Eaves, a junior at Roosevelt remarked, "When blacks are nominated for specific offices, we should vote for them, rather than assume that they won't make it anyway."

Last year there were two black students on student council and this year there are none.

Roosevelt and it's extra-curricular activities are for all students enrolled.

Shy from Drama

Drama is one activity that black students seem to shy away from.

Junior Kim Jackson informed me, "There wasn't enough black students in drama at Roosevelt, that is why there are probably a shortage of black actors and actresses."

She also added, "If more black people get involved in drama, we could get out of the stereotype roles in movies and television."

Roosevelt is just a building, the people in it make up the school.

Black students are some of these people.

U.S. Supreme Court Will Soon Consider

Iowa ADC Care

The U.S. Supreme Court may deny ADC benefits to unborn children. The Court, which began its 1974-75 session the first Monday of this month, has agreed to consider only 25 of some 1000 cases appealed to it for review. According to Lorna Williams, Special Assistant Attorney General Assigned to our Department, it looks as if the Iowa case will be the first on the Court's agenda and will be heard about the first of January. Thirty-five states, including Iowa, do not now count unborn children in figuring ADC grants. In at least 17 of these states, the question is in the courts. The Iowa case began in 1973 when a pregnant ADC applicant who was denied assistance in Scott county decided to sue the Department of Social Services. Two other Scott County women joined the first in a class action suit against the Department. The Federal District Court in Des Moines, the first to hear the case, held that the term "dependent child" was broad enough to encompass an unborn child.

This decision was upheld in a second hearing by the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. And now the case has one more hearing — in Washington, in January. The state's case, according to Lorna Williams, is based primarily on the question of what a "living entity" really is. The state asks the question: If, on one hand, the court says a fetus is not a person and can be aborted, can it say, on the other hand, that it is a person and must be provided for as an individual? Until the issue is settled in the high court, the Department will not be making ADC payments to unborn children by reason of court stay order.

Study Minority Admissions To Universities

LOS ANGELES, OCT. 27 ... Three national organizations have combined forces in an effort to solve the controversial question of how students should be admitted to institutions of higher learning - a question that has reached the U.S. Supreme Court.

Purpose of the joint project is to "develop guidelines for fair and rational admissions policies, financial aid, and supportive services at institutions where there are more applicants than openings for students."

Basic to the controversy is a re-evaluation of the factors that admissions officers use in determining which applicants to accept. Almost all institutions of higher learning take account of a student's scholarship record, family relationship to alumni, place of residence, and extracurricular potentials. With the nation's current concern for providing greater opportunities for people from disadvantaged groups, questions have been raised as to what weight or priority should be given to such factors as race, sex, religion, and need for assistance because of past disadvantages.

The three cooperating organizations are the American Jewish Committee, A Better Chance, Inc., and the American Council on Education.

Measures To Stem Racial Conflict In City's High Schools Put Forth

In the wake of racial conflicts in several city high schools, City Human Rights Commissioner Eleanor Holmes Norton this week released a commission study designed to focus on specific remedies and practical approaches to problems of racial conflict in integrated schools.

"The schools," Commissioner Norton said, "share with the rest of the nation and with virtually all its institutions the failure to come to grips with the needs of workable integration. We know how to integrate; what we do not know is how to make integration work on a permanent basis."

The report offers a series of recommendations for concrete measures that can be taken to improve race relations and school and neighborhood stability throughout the city.

The report, entitled "After Integration: Problems of Race Relations in the High School Today," was based on a commission study of Madison High school in Brooklyn, where racial incidents caused the closing of the school for two days last December.

The report sought to demonstrate that problems of open racial conflict among students — a relatively new phenomenon in the New York city schools — "are not beyond the capability of the school to affect."

* An affirmative effort to involve minority students in extra-curricular activities and to maximize interaction between Whites and minorities in such activities by rescheduling activities to accommodate out-of-district students; revising recruitment and selection procedures that work to exclude minorities; and intensifying efforts to overcome self-segregation that results from cultural differences, unfamiliarity between groups, and the mood of strained race relations of this period.

* Extensive efforts to reach alienated lower-income White students who sometimes contribute to group conflict through improved communications procedures and the establishment of ethnic studies courses that focus on White ethnic groups as well as Blacks and Puerto Ricans.

* The development of faculty seminars to help the teacher operate within the challenges presented by the integrated school.

* An affirmative effort to involve more parents, especially those of out-of-district minority students and lower income White students.

* The establishment of procedures to improve communication between the school and the community surrounding it, to counteract misinformation, to improve community understanding, to diffuse hostility to minority out-of-district students, and to prevent unbiased fears and panic that lead to neighborhood instability.

* Special training, orientation and supervision of security guards to ensure their maximum effectiveness.

* A regular orientation program for out-of-district minority students, to familiarize them with the school and the community.

* Special efforts to recruit minority faculty.

* The establishment of a regularized, official method for communication between all segments of the student body and administration and faculty.

* The assignment of the faculty member designated a Student Coordinator to work full time on intergroup relations between students.

A copy of the report may be obtained by writing to the Commission, 52 Duane Street, New York City, N.Y. 10007.

A PRESIDENTIAL CHAT

National "Boy of the Year", George Clark of Philadelphia tells President Ford at a special White House youth conference that a recent nationwide health survey conducted by the Boys' Clubs of America revealed that emotional problems are the greatest single concern of many teenagers today. Young Clark represented more than a million members of 1,100 Boys' Clubs across the country at the meeting. Clark was selected 1974 "Boy of the Year" on the basis of his service to community, church, school, home and Boys' Club. With the title, Clark received a $4,000 Reader's Digest Foundation scholarship, which he is using to attend Slippery Rock, Pa., State College.

Horner suggests innovations

By Peter Zollo and Bruce Frank,

"I can't brag about a big education. I don't have it. But I have 23 years of in-depth experience. I've done all the duties and will stay with it. I'm 51, and not about to change," remarked Fred W. Horner, Polk County treasurer and Democratic candidate in the Nov. 5th election.

A paper weight with the inscription 'ulcer department' sits on Horner's desk in the Polk County Courthouse. He admitted the office of treasurer is sometimes not too appealing to his constituents, but added "we didn't make your taxes, but we must, by law, collect them."

Horner was appointed to the office of treasurer 20 months ago at the resignation of Carl Bogenreif. At the time of his appointment, Horner was chief deputy to Bogenreif who said, "Fred is not the political type guy who is overwhelmed by the desire to get elected to some office, any office somehow, someday. Horner is a career tax man in county government. He knows the business, inside, outside, upside and downside."

Prior to his appointment, Horner had served at every desk in the county treasurer and auditor offices. He served for six years as chief accountant and six years as assistant treasurer of Polk County. Horner, a tax accountant, graduated from Johnston High School in Polk County and completed an accounting course from LaSalle Extension University. He added, "The rest of my education comes from experience right here at the county court house."

Horner was a pioneer in data-processing. He introduced the method in 1964 to the office of treasurer in Polk County. In traffic and to add incentive to pay taxes earlier it is his proposal that sub-stations be set up where taxpayers can pay May, 1971, the Polk County Board of Supervisors contracted the use of the City of Des Moines' computer for the purpose of storage of tax information and tax collection. He is a member of the Polk-Des Moines Computer Policy Committee.

To decrease court house taxes and renew auto licenses. These sub-stations would also cut down on the already over-loaded court house. These sub-stations would be set up in various locations in Polk County.

Horner said the proposal is "very operational and will have fringe benefits." His proposal includes an electronic system with data input and output stations for quicker and easier access to basic records.

"I'd like something that would and an incentive to pay taxes sooner," Horner said. He has suggested a type of discount for early payment of taxes, but added "when I mentioned it to one legislator, he just grinned." However, according to Horner, the discount idea has been successful in Louisiana.

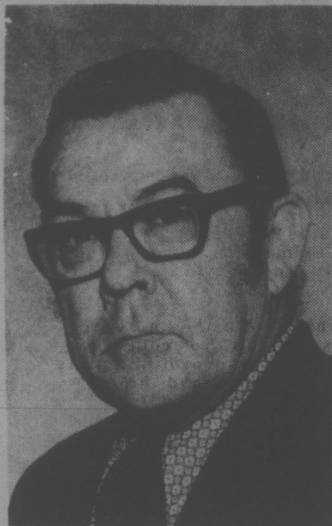

"To accomplish the new sub-station system," added Horner, "we need a couple of law changes to make it really practical." He has proposed a 12-month plan for vehicle license renewal to replace the present law which allows two months to renew 225,000 licenses. Horner said that by switching to the 12-month proposal his office would be able to cut down on extra help currently needed from December 1 to February 1. Horner said his office presently has no extra help. He added,

"The computer system is working that smoothly."

Horner, however, emphasized the complexity of the tax collection operation. He said that a new trainee "could in no way learn the whole tax collection and data-processing system in a two year period."

Another law change for the office of treasurer, Horner believes is necessary regarding the legalization of micro-film. The use of micro-film would provide quicker access for tax records and a more efficient means of storing all tax information, said Horner. He "With micro-film I could store everything in one desk which now takes up the hallways and basement."

Mr. and Mrs. (Beth) Horner live in Des Moines with two of their four children, Kerry 19 and Fred Jr. 17. The oldest child, Mrs. Paul Johnson, has three children of her own and their oldest son, Michael, 25, was recently married.

Horner is a member of the Des Moines Pioneer Club, as his great-grandfather "came here on horseback and homesteaded here." His uncle, Charles Horner, was clerk of the court for 45 years in Polk County. "I've never heard of anybody who didn't like him," commented Fred.

He is also a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Beavertown Post No. 9127, and of the American Legion, Polk City Post No. 232.

Horner, who said he "ran quite a campaign in the primary," added he is ready to campaign again, against his Republican opponent. He said, because he paid $1,200 in postage in the primary campaign, he cannot afford to mail out a brochure. However, he will hand out the usual campaign literature and has planned speaking appearances.

When asked about his daily routine of business in the court house, as his secretary entered the office and placed a $2 million check on his desk, Horner replied, "One day it's small, and one day it's big."

School Boards Oppose Constitutional Amendment

The school districts of Iowa could lose over $3 million in receipts annually if a revision to the Iowa Constitution is passed at the general election on November 5.

The governing boards of the statewide associations of school boards and school superintendents have each taken official action to urge the voters of Iowa to vote "no" on a constitutional referendum on the ballot.

A proposed amendment would repeal Section 4, subdivision 2 (School Funds and School Lands) of Article IX and Section 4 of Article XII of the Iowa Constitution, which relate to the distribution of fines, collected for any breach of the penal laws, to school districts in the counties where the fine is collected.

Football - Iowa

If you were in Iowa University Stadium last Saturday you saw a pretty fair ball game. Of course, the sports caster and writers who were born yesterday called it the greatest game ever, and that covers a lot of games. But when you look back on some of the games of the past seven years, they had reason to be carried away. But I have to think of some of the scuffles I have seen over the years, and while this Iowa-Illinois game was one heluva game, there were a lot of others. I guess it all depends on one's viewpoint. The thing about the game that I thought was outstanding was that it was a hard hitting duel on both sides, and it looked as if the Hawks had figured out a way to blow this one, but they wouldn't let it go.

How many more will they win? Well, they haven't beaten Purdue in the last fourteen times out, so, they are about due to crack that jinx, although the Boilermakers are tough at home. One would have to give them a good chance with Indiana, and possibly Michigan State if they can all be healthy for that one, because the Spartans are a rough, tough ball club, and you had better come to play when you meet them. Ohio State? Do you believe in miracles?

Football - Iowa State

Iowa State was supposed to drop one to Kansas, but they forgot to tell the Cyclones. That fellow Harris must have had quite a day. He was doing just what a free safety is supposed to do; follow the ball. ISU went into this game with all hands in good shape, and they will need everybody and some fellows they don't have for the rest of the schedule. Oklahoma isn't taking any prisoners, and Nebraska has shown that they can be taken down. One must play an errorless game and have a ton of luck. Maybe our gang will do just that.

This is the first time all three of the major schools won at the same time in at least a couple of years. Drake pulled one out by the skin of their teeth, and maybe they can get going now, for they really have a pretty fair team even if they haven't shown it. They started out with such high hopes at the beginning of the year, and it makes me wonder if they could have done better if they had not publicized the pursuit of Johnny Bright's rushing record so much. Heston became a marked man, and it seemed that yards were really hard to come by.

Football - High School

Dowling left no doubt as to who is number one in the Metro conference. They put the boots to North, as if you didn't know it. I wasn't there, but fellows I talked to say that North never did have a good field position but once, when the Maroons fumbled in the first quarter. But they found they couldn't gain much ground early, and that just about wrapped it up. But North still has a shot at a playoff berth if they can win this week-end. A fellow I know criticized the North coach, saying that since the game was out of reach, he wondered why he didn't use his reserves and given them a chance. Maybe he was trying to hold down the score. But normally when a game is won or lost by a convincing margin most of the subs on both sides get to play. Did Dowling use their subs? Then I heard that a couple of North's best fellows were ejected from the game. When did this happen, and there wasn't a word about it in any of the game stories. Why? I thought the Bears had a fair chance with the Maroons, and they did on paper, but you just can't tell what is on the inside. Maybe that was the difference. Some guy asked me who this Boston playing for Dowling is, and I replied that I know several Boston families. Now which one does he come from?

I don't see how they can keep Roosevelt's Larry Fowler off at least the all city team and maybe one of the all state clubs. According to the writers, he is a little bigger than I thought he was. I called him about five nine and about one seventy. But they say he is a little taller than that and I was very close on the weight. Maybe he will come back next year about ten pounds heavier. Probably still growing.

East won't have a bad mark for the year, but they can say that they were the only city club to give Dowling a game. I bet this winter there will be another movement to oust the Maroons from the Metro conference. This time it might go.

Scores from Way Out.

UNCF '74 Campaign Ahead Of Last Year's

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Directors attending the United Negro College Fund's national board meeting in New York City have been told that the Fund's 1974 campaign is running almost a million dollars ahead of last year's pace but that last-quarter donations will be crucial to the success of the appeal.

Christopher F. Edley, UNCF Executive Director, gave the directors the report showing the campaign $950,000 ahead at the meeting which concluded last weekend at the New York Hilton Hotel.

Mr. Edley reported that corporate giving, especially, is holding up this year. Companies so far have contributed $2.9-million to the total $5.5-million, $621,000 ahead of 1973's corporate pace.

"Despite the uncertainty of the financial times, we are doing well in the corporate area and we expect we will continue to do so throughout the rest of the year," Mr. Edley said.

However, he warned, "we are concerned that corporations may not realize the great and urgent needs of the private black colleges and reflect that dimension in their giving."

Thomas A. Murphy, newly-elected Chairman of the Board of the General Motors Corp., who is the 1974 UNCF National Campaign Chairman, attended the meeting and urged the staff and volunteers to redouble their efforts to reach the Fund's $15-million goal for the year.

A. Dean Swift, President of Sears, Roebuck & Co., who heads the UNCF's National Corporations Committee for 1974 and 1975 which is responsible for raising money from the business community, also attended the meeting.

Matthew Johnson of Minneapolis, Minnesota, director of the UNCF in this area was in Des Moines last week to perfect plans for the annual campaign in Iowa.

Grand Jury Indicts Two Rioters

Boston, Mass. — Two men have been indicted by a federal grand jury in the beating of a black man on October 7 during the Boston school desegregation disturbances.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe said the two-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Boston, Massachusetts, against Joseph E. Griffin Jr., 33, and Ronald B. King, 32.

Griffin and King, who are white, were arrested by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation with the cooperation of Boston police on October 16 in Boston.

One count said Griffin and King beat and injured Andre Yvon Jean Louis, 32, in order to intimidate black students from attending Boston public schools without discrimination.

The second count charged that in beating Louis the two men tried to interfere with the rights of children in the Boston school system to attend the schools to which they were assigned by a June 21, 1974, order of U.S. District Court in Boston.

some assurance or compliance by the Commission and Fire Department. If the number of Black, Latin and American Indian applicants eligible for appointment at any time is not sufficient to meet this interim hiring goal," the order reads "the Milwaukee Fire and Police Commission shall approve no appointments to the position of firefighter until such time as this interim hiring goal will be met."

This means that the department will not be able to use the lack of non-white candidates as an excuse for not meeting the goals set by the court. If no non-white candidates are eligible to satisfy the two-for-three plan, then those positions vacant cannot be filled.

The court also ordered a couple of significant changes in the hiring guidelines for the department. Only those felony convictions occurring within five years prior to the submission of an application for firefighter "shall render a person ineligible" for firefighter unless they receive an unconditional pardon from the governor. Any felony conviction occurring more than five years before filing that application will no longer be considered a reason for automatic ineligibility.

Although the suits against the department were prompted by racism in its hiring practices, the order included relief for sexist discrimination in hiring as well.

New York, New York — The major consumer credit companies operating in New York City came in for a blast of criticism last week from "Jerry" of JGE Enterprises, Inc., a large chain which sells appliances, furniture, and carpeting at discount prices exclusively to persons with union and civil service affiliations. He charged these firms, particularly Household Finance Corporation and General Electric Credit Corporation, with discrimination against persons living in predominantly Black and Puerto Rican areas of the city.

New York, New York — Contributions to the Medgar Evers Fund have hit a five-year low since last March, Fund President Charles Evers reported to his Trustees in late September. The nation-wide economic recession has slashed both the size and volume of private gifts, Mayor Evers noted, and brought the Medgar Evers Fund to a crucial crossroads regarding its future.

In Denver, there are plans to build a complex for Indian people and families for reservations who seek to make a life in that city's urban community.

Dr. Conner Speaks In New Orleans

Dr. Julius S. Conner, director of the Des Moines-Polk County Health Department was a panel participant this past week at the American Public Health Association annual meeting held October 20-24, in New Orleans.

His topic was "Morbidity Surveillance and Health Service Monitoring Beyond Communicable Disease: Role of Local Health Agencies."

Dr. Conner stressed that local health agencies have a role beyond the provision of personal and environmental health services for the purpose of disease control.

"The role of local agencies in non-infectious disease and injury control should be to work with other existing health resources, whether public, voluntary, or private, to see that adequate health services exist and that barriers to their utilization by all citizens are removed. In addition to this, local health agencies sponsored by government should collect morbidity and disability data from all pertinent sources for

came to share the "culmination of a dream" Sunday, Oct. 27 with the formal dedication of Lillian Edmunds Elementary School, 1601 Crocker Street, held at 2:00 p.m. in the school's huge regulation gymnasium.

In the larger Des Moines community and especially Black community the event served as a landmark; it marked the physical realization of Charrette '71, an innovative process when community and school district personnel combined in intensive planning sessions, to develop goals for two new community schools that would replace four ancient buildings.

Bringing the main dedication address was James Bowman, executive director of Elementary Education, who extolled the exemplary human qualities of Mrs. Lillian Edmunds, who was his longtime mentor and friend.

Presentations

Presentation of the building was made by Nolden Gentry, president of the Des Moines School Board of Directors, who emphasized that the most important factor was not just the structure of the building, but "what goes on within its walls."

Mrs. Lena Smith, chairman of the Edmunds Advisory Council and a participant of Charrette '71, accepted the building. Mr. Arthur Edmunds, Pittsburgh, Penna., son of the late Mrs. Edmunds, represented and introduced the Edmunds family as well as made closing remarks.

Edmunds Family

Other members of the Edmunds family attending included Mrs. Edmunds daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Williams and their children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Lewis and two children, Miss Sandra Williams and Miss Stacie Williams and Mr. A. Edmunds sister-in-law, Mrs. Gwendolyn Morgan, Chicago.

Serving as master of ceremonies, Dr. Don Brubaker, principal, introduced platform guests and some of the visiting dignitaries which included Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Dwight Davis, School Board members, Mrs. Jack Spevak, Dr. George Caudill and Dr. John McCaw, and various Central Office Administrative personnel.

discriminatory hiring patterns for Black, brown, and red people, and women.

After weeks of negotiations with city officials, representatives from the NAACP and Milwaukee Legal Services succeeded in getting far-reaching changes in the department's current hiring and recruiting policies.

Beginning with eligibility lists compiled in the department's latest recruitment effort in July, the Fire Department will hire two candidates from a separate list of non-whites who passed examinations for every three whites hired. The two for three plan will continue until the department reaches a parity goal of 14 percent non-white.

The order was handed down in federal court by Judge John W. Reynolds last Thursday. The city, NAACP and MLS met on Friday to come to terms on Reynolds order.

The federal action was the result of two cases brought against the Commission and Fire Department by the NAACP and by Loren J. Washington, 26, who failed the department's oral examination in July. Washington had been told by department officials that he would not pass the oral test because he had been convicted on a misdemeanor.

On the day the eligibility list was posted, Washington received a full pardon from Gov. Lucey, but still did not pass the test.

Washington was recently given the oral test again and will be certified to the Fire Department for appointment.

The first separate list for non-whites will be composed of those candidates who did not make the eligibility list in July. There were 14 Blacks and seven latins who made that list. Of the 22 vacancies available at that time, none were filled by any of the non-white candidates.

There has also been inserted into the court plan a key control mechanism which provides

Cast Your Vote November 5th

The nation goes to the polls November 5th to select a number of U.S. Senators, governors, state, county and township officials. The ballot provides an opportunity to select candidates who will do the best job for all their constituents and square with action the pledges they made during the campaign.

Unfortunately, the country has been plagued with unsavory conduct by some public officials which has shaken the confidence of many voters. It is unfortunate. We have had this before but somehow have worked our way out of the delima. The present trouble should not be allowed to linger indefinitely otherwise the country will utilize valuable time looking into skeleton closets rather than applying wisdom to correcting the evil and halting the unbridled rise in prices.

Voting percentages have been very poor during the last few elections and possibly adding to the trouble we have had. Since we have an opportunity to make our decisions at the polls, don't wait and gripe after unqualified people are elected to office.

Problems To Be Met

During the past four years I have been a member of the Advisory Council of CIRAS (Center for Industrial Research and Service) which is an arm of the extension services of the engineering department of Iowa State University.

The Council is made up of business men and women, engineers, accountants, lawyers and school administrators from all over the state.

This has been a fine experience in that I did not realize the extent of industry in Iowa. It has been a pleasure to meet this group and to add whatever contribution I was able to make, not only for Negroes, but all groups to which the service is rendered.

The state is divided into areas headed by a specialist who offers assistance in helping solve problems all without charge. Their reports indicate that many business concerns, that might otherwise have gone down the drain, have been helped by this service.

Having been involved in a fatal accident in 1957 I have made a rule not to drive out of the city (my driver's license was renewed for two years a few days ago). For this reason I make the trip with various members from Des Moines.

Last week I had the occasion to ride with the director of one of the top job placement agencies in the state. In the course of our conversation, he stated that one of his big problems had been the inability to find Negroes to fill requests for their employment.

I have said all along that there are good jobs for qualified Negroes in Des Moines but the people just are not available.

While the employment rate among Negroes in large cities is as high as 25%, here in Des Moines the rate is no higher than the total city which is near 3%.

Des Moines has a Human Rights and Job Discrimination Commission; Iowa has the Civil Rights Commission. And while the complaints of discrimination in employment and the exercise of the Civil Rights by minorities and women have had little success, the original sponsors of these agencies definitely had in mind that they should determine the extent of employment and help increase it.

They should contact various industries and companies, determine the extent that they are cooperating with the law and helping acquaint the public with availability of employment for minority groups.

The federal, state and county officers should not be overlooked as they have a responsibility to be "equal opportunity employers."

I still believe that children should be taught the necessity of learning to work from kindergarten to the time they either quit school or finish a particular course.

I notice that employees have been brought into the state to fill federal, state, city and county positions but few of those other than Civil Rights or community development jobs have been Negroes.

Lillian Edmunds School

The Lillian Edmunds Elementary School at 15th and Crocker was dedicated Sunday.

The program was participated in by the principal of the school, officers of the school board and school administration, a number of former close associates of Mrs. Edmunds, a number of students, the committee which nurtured the idea, selected the site and the staff which will conduct the school operations. Relatives and a large number of friends and educators were

She believed in education, work, stability and felt all were necessary in order for young people to get the best out of life. She believed in responsibility and honest work as a strong part of what youngsters must learn in school.

The program was excellent. The school was inspected by the visitors which gave them a better idea of what this type of education is all about.

A coalition of groups from this area will be sponsoring the rally; Comm. to Free James Hall, Black Student Union, Revolutionary Student Brigade, and Chicano-Indian Cultural Ctr. All of these groups are building for Wed., and will be represented by speakers. The Black Student Organization, of Ames, will also have a speaker, and hopefully people from the Comm. to Free Ray Mendoza (Milwaukee) will be there. In essence, Wednesday will be a day for people to unite - people from all over the Mid-west who are involved in the struggle will be demonstrating their support for James Hall. Hope you will be with us.

I am enclosing a leaflet put out by the Revolutionary Student Brigade. R.S.B. is a multi-national, anti-imperialist student organization. Had wanted to send the Committee's poster (building for the rally) - it is being run off now and I don't want to wait any longer before mailing this to you.

Portrait

A beautiful lifelike portrait of Mrs. Edmunds was presented by Mrs. Marguerite E. Cothorn, representing Phi chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority, with Mrs. Mildred Robinson, also a Charrette '71 participant, accepting. Mesdames Mary Good and Martha Howe of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Auxiliary Airport Post 6852, presented a United States flag to the school which was accepted by Mrs. Frances Hawthorne, Educational Coordinator. Invocation was by Rev. H.I. Thomas, pastor of Union Baptist church and Rev. Frederick W. Strickland, pastor of Corinthian Baptist church, gave the benediction. A check was presented to the school by Mrs. Barbara Weisner, Director of Wilkie House.

In addition to the other landmarks mentioned, Lillian Edmunds school, also marks the first time that a Des Moines school has been named for a Black woman. A "one world model," Mrs. Edmunds provided leadership and inspiration to children and adults in the Des Moines community for over 30 years. Her love of young people and her intense concern for their futures was evidenced for the entire period she served as executive director of the Negro Community Center and of Wilkie House.

Model for Young

A native of Greenville, Ala., Mrs. Edmunds, was to many young people a role model or an additional parent and benefactor. Many times children were provided with clothing or other needs from her own family's resources. She organized Boy Scout Troop 59 because of her feeling for the leadership roles it provided for young boys. From this troop have come many professional men who got their start with Mrs. Edmunds. Adult organizations for leadership were also given careful guidance through her tireless efforts.

Strong Impact

While she offered leadership to the entire community in many ways, most significant was her impact on young people in her strong influence on their aspirations and self perceptions. She literally directed all who could to obtain college education, technical training or meaningful employment.

Just as she was an involved model for so many young people during her lifetime, it was more than fitting that young people were involved in the dedication activities for the school, that they attend and which also bears her name.

Children

Initiating Sunday's dedication was the 30-voice Edmunds chorus, under the direction of Ramona Hall. Also making presentations of scrapbooks which include numerous sketches and writings of Mrs. Edmunds authored by children attending the school, were students, Keith Robinson, Darlene Hunsman and Gilbert Dawson. Named student tour guides for the occasion were Sara Mason, Tammy Harris, Kristina Handy, Christal Weldon, Charles Cotton, Keith Muir, Keith Robinson, and Bryon Wells, all of Unit C; and Sammie Smith, Juanita Dean, Doug Johnson, Chris Campbell, Merita Head, Greg Strong, Tanya Harvey and Scott Monroe, all of Unit D.

Edmunds parents served as hostesses for guest books and the reception in the Community room. Afterwards tours were conducted over the school facility, which is a unique architectural design. Edmunds replaces Bird and Grant elementary schools.

VOTE YES to keep the convention business in Des Moines thriving!

This year 200,000 convention delegates will visit Des Moines and pump $25,000,000 (25 million dollars) into the economy of our city — that's more than double the annual payroll of Massey-Ferguson. And remember, the convention population does not require any new tax-supported services such as schools, streets, hospitals, welfare, etc. The delegates come to Des Moines . . . spend their money . . . and return to their own hometowns.

VOTE YES to help Des Moines attract larger conventions to our city.

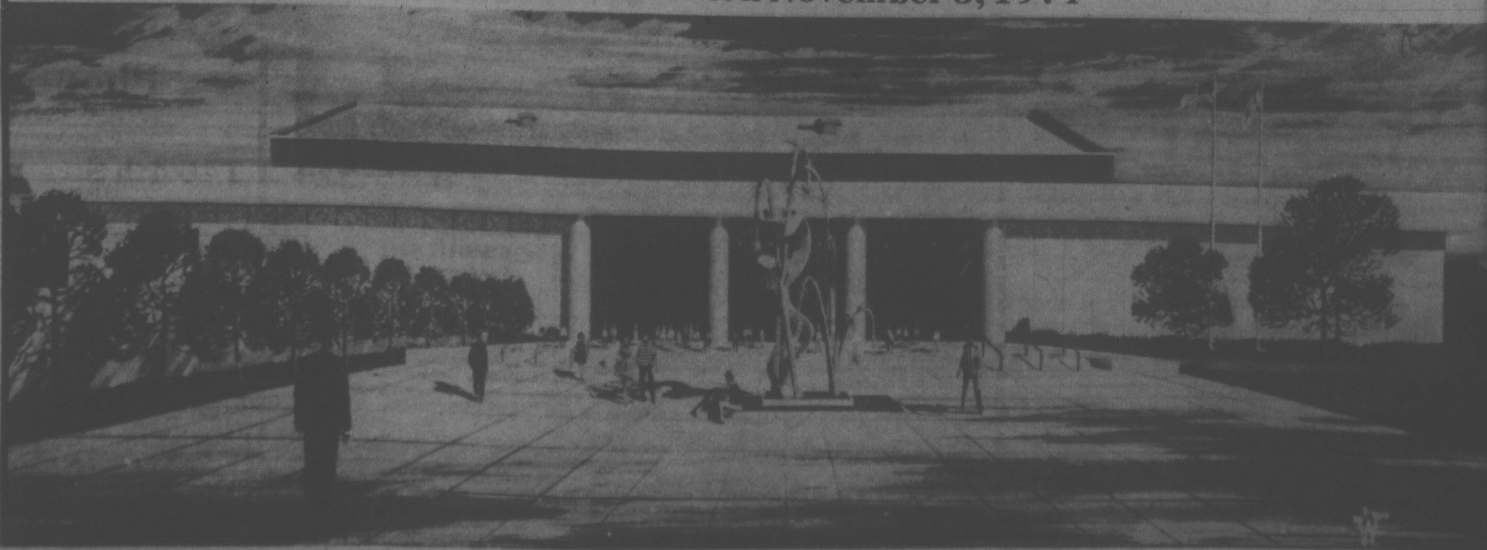

Because of our ideal mid-country location, excellent hotel-motel accommodations and reasonable prices, many national groups want to meet in Des Moines. The problem: Veterans Auditorium does not have nearly enough exhibit space or the proper meetings and banquet facilities required by these larger groups.

VOTE YES to help maintain Des Moines' leadership as the convention center of Iowa. Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Sioux City and other Iowa cities are going all out to lure convention business away from Des Moines.

VOTE YES to provide more exhibit space so badly needed by popular shows such as the Des Moines Kennel Club Dog Show, Iowa Camping Show, Iowa Sports and Vacation Show and the Custom Auto Show.

VOTE YES to change Veterans Auditorium into an impressive landmark in downtown Des Moines . . . a building we can all be proud of! The bond issue will not only provide the expanded convention facilities we so desperately need but also give the auditorium a much-needed face lifting.

American Education Week is observed

the National Education Association and Officials of the U.S. Office of Education about launching an educational campaign to correct such deficiencies.

At its convention held in 1921 in Des Moines, Iowa, NEA Representative Assembly adopted a joint program of work with The American Legion, an important part of which was the first American Education Week observance, set for December 4-10, 1921.

Since 1926, when teaching of citizenship first became a major American Education Week focus, the dates of American Education Week have included Veterans Day, which used to fall annually on November 11. The only exception was in 1970, when American Education Week was moved to the fourth week in October so that the observance could bear directly on critical issues that faced communities in early November elections rather than follow them. Beginning in 1971, Veterans Day was designated as the fourth Monday in October by congressional law, and thus it again occurs during American Education Week.

The purposes of American Education Week have broadened beyond the eradication of illiteracy and the promotion of physical fitness. Today, the observance serves to increase public understanding and appreciation of the schools, to encourage parents to visit their children's schools at least once a year, to secure civic and community support for measures to improve the schools, and to help students gain an appreciation of what the schools are doing for them.

In connection with the local observance of American Education Week displays have been set up in many local business stores.

American Education Week, being observed this week throughout the United States, had its beginning in 1921. It was initiated after draft boards discovered during World War I that about 25% of the young men called for military service were illiterate and about 29% were physically unfit.

These alarming conditions led members of the Americanism Commission of the then newly formed American Legion to consult in 1917 with officers of

Law Enforcement

Project Awarded

Grant

Washington, D.C. — Administrator Richard W. Velde announced today that the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has awarded a $1,044,600 grant to New York City for a project that will create time-saving services for witnesses at the Brooklyn Criminal Court and will offer emergency aid to Brooklyn crime victims.

Mr. Velde said the project will improve the system of notifying witnesses when to appear in court and will place them on telephone alert whenever possible rather than requiring their appearance.

The project will provide transportation to and from court for crime victims and offer emergency repair services to those whose homes have been vandalized or burglarized.

The Vera Institute of Justice, a non-profit agency, will conduct the project.

The LEAA grant was made to the New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services. The project was developed by the New York City Criminal Justice Coordinating Council in cooperation with the Vera Institute of Justice, the New York City Criminal Court, the District Attorney of Kings County, and the New York City Police Department.

Record Number

Seeking Offices

Atlanta, Georgia — A record number of 118 blacks and 5 Indians are seeking major public offices — posts in state legislatures and the United States Congress — in November 5 elections in nine southern states reports the nonpartisan Voter Education Project (VEP).

Black candidates for state legislative posts could win as many as 31 new seats in southern legislatures as a result of the November elections, the VEP research indicated. In 1962, when the Voter Education Project first began promoting minority political participation in the South, there were no black members of southern legislatures. The 31 new positions projected by the VEP would bring the total of southern black legislators to a record 91.

Christmas Seals fight lung disease

"Lung disease victims in Iowa would equal a community the size of Sioux City and have more than doubled in the past decade," according to G. Thomas Reilly, President of the AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION of Iowa.

Reilly made the statement in announcing the mailing of this year's Christmas Seal letters which will be arriving in Iowa homes in the next few days. The Christmas Seals mark the kick-off of the 1974 Christmas Seal Campaign.

Proceeds from the campaign will be used for the prevention of lung disease in a number of local and state-wide programs. Among locally administered programs are visits of the Superbreath Lungmobile, a mobile unit featuring animated characters, lighted displays and sound recordings in presenting an anti-smoking message to 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grade youngsters in Iowa schools.

Christmas Seal contributions also support work with community hospitals and physicians in an effort to keep them up to date in the detection and treatment of chronic lung disease.

Heart Association Annual Report

Des Moines, Iowa: The Iowa Heart Association has released its Annual Report and heart fact booklet for the 1973-74 fiscal year. Publication of the report was announced by Mr. Ray Uhlhorn of Council Bluffs, Chairman of the Board of Directors, Iowa Heart Association.

The report, which is available to the public, stressed the increased Community Program activities in which the Association has become involved during the past year.

Working through its eight Division areas, and many dedicated Volunteers, the Heart Association has continued its training program of Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (closed-chest heart massage and mouth-to-mouth breathing). This training is made available to physicians, nurses, ambulance drivers, firemen, policemen, plant safety personnel, and many others in related medical positions. In addition, rehabilitation of the stroke patient has received additional emphases during the past 12 months.

The ins and outs of an electric heat pump.

In and out pretty well explains how a heat pump works. It's kind of like a furnace and an air conditioner all rolled into one.

In the summer, it acts like an air conditioner and pumps heat that's inside your house . . . outside. In the winter, it automatically reverses itself and takes heat from the outside air and pumps it in.

The amazing thing about the heat pump is that except for a few of the coldest days of the year, it produces much more energy in the form of heat than it uses in the form of electric power.

The time is right for electric heat

Shocked after being served a subpoena by the U. S. Columbia Records has announced the release of the Manhattans' second Lp for the label entitled "That's How Much I Love You."

The quality of the album is well summarized by Billboard, a leading national trade magazine, which reported: "Absolutely stunning set from one of the most talented harmonizing units in soul music today. Whether they are moving through raucous rockers, smooth ballads, or mid-tempo material, there is little if anything this group can do wrong. Certainly one of the strongest soul acts of today, combining musical ability and commerciality."

The Manhattans is comprise of Sonny Bivens, first tenor;

included in the current Lp as well as the highly successful "There's No Me Without You."

"We're very excited about the new album," commented Blue Lovett, group spokesman. "Right now we're in the process of deciding which song we should release as a single. At this point we feel that it will be either "Don't Take Your Love From Me" or "That's How Much I Love You."

The Manhattans are currently touring the college circuit in conjunction with the release of their new Lp.

Richard Taylor, baritone; Kenny Kelley, second tenor; George Smith, lead singer; and Blue Lovett, bass. Bivens, Taylor and Lovett are songwriters as well, and selections they have penned are

For Black Students:

Progress In Black Participation Of Extra Curricular Activities At Roosevelt

By Pamela Spencer

More black students at Roosevelt High School are participating in the extra-curricular activities.

Some of the organizations blacks are becoming active in include the following.

The band, which has five black students enrolled as opposed to the three last year.

The orchestra now has two members, both sophomores.

There are four young men on the Varsity Football team.

It seems as if blacks take a high interest in music and sport activities.

Students were asked by me, their feelings on getting more blacks involved.

Senior Sharon Holmes commented, "I feel that more blacks should try out for

cheerleading."

She continued, "Since there are blacks on the team, it would boost their morale if they see blacks on the cheerleading squad."

Occasionally, I run into black students who feel it is a waste of time to run for an office.

The students at Roosevelt must not get discouraged if they don't win an office or are not nominated for an event.

Goldie Eaves, a junior at Roosevelt remarked, "When blacks are nominated for specific offices, we should vote for them, rather than assume that they won't make it anyway."

Last year there were two black students on student council and this year there are none.

Roosevelt and it's

extra-curricular activities are for all students enrolled.

Shy from Drama

Drama is one activity that black students seem to shy away from.

Junior Kim Jackson informed me, "There wasn't enough black students in drama at Roosevelt, that is why there are probably a shortage of black actors and actresses."

She also added, "If more black people get involved in drama, we could get out of the stereotype roles in movies and television."

Roosevelt is just a building, the people in it make up the school.

Black students are some of these people.

They can and should get the most out of Roosevelt.

U.S. Supreme Court Will Soon Consider

Iowa ADC Care

The U.S. Supreme Court may deny ADC benefits to unborn children. The Court, which began its 1974-75 session the first Monday of this month, has agreed to consider only 25 of some 1000 cases appealed to it for review. According to Lorna Williams, Special Assistant Attorney General Assigned to our Department, it looks as if the Iowa case will be the first on the Court's agenda and will be heard about the first of January. Thirty-five states, including Iowa, do not now count unborn children in figuring ADC grants. In at least 17 of these states, the question is in the courts. The Iowa case began in 1973 when a pregnant ADC applicant who was denied assistance in Scott county decided to sue the Department of Social Services. Two other Scott County women joined the first in a class action suit against the Department. The Federal District Court in Des Moines, the first to hear the case, held that the term "dependent child" was broad enough to encompass an unborn child.

This decision was upheld in a second hearing by the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. And now the case has one more hearing — in Washington, in January. The state's case, according to Lorna Williams, is based primarily on the question of what a "living entity" really is. The state asks the question: If, on one hand, the court says a fetus is not a person and can be aborted, can it say, on the other hand, that it is a person and must be provided for as an individual? Until the issue is settled in the high court, the Department will not be making ADC payments to unborn children by reason of court stay order.

Study Minority Admissions To Universities

LOS ANGELES, OCT. 27 ... Three national organizations have combined forces in an effort to solve the controversial question of how students should be admitted to institutions of higher learning - a question that has reached the U.S. Supreme Court.

Purpose of the joint project is to "develop guidelines for fair and rational admissions policies, financial aid, and supportive services at institutions where there are more applicants than openings for students."

Basic to the controversy is a re-evaluation of the factors that admissions officers use in determining which applicants to accept. Almost all institutions of higher learning take account of a student's scholarship record, family relationship to alumni, place of residence, and extracurricular potentials. With the nation's current concern for providing greater opportunities for people from disadvantaged groups, questions have been raised as to what weight or priority should be given to such factors as race, sex, religion, and need for assistance because of past disadvantages.

The three cooperating

organizations are the American Jewish Committee, A Better Chance, Inc., and the American Council on Education.

Measures To Stem Racial Conflict In City's High Schools Put Forth

In the wake of racial conflicts in several city high schools, City Human Rights Commissioner Eleanor Holmes Norton this week released a commission study designed to focus on specific remedies and practical approaches to problems of racial conflict in integrated schools.

"The schools," Commissioner Norton said, "share with the rest of the nation and with virtually all its institutions the failure to come to grips with the needs of workable integration. We know how to integrate; what we do not know is how to make integration work on a permanent basis."

The report offers a series of recommendations for concrete measures that can be taken to improve race relations and school and neighborhood stability throughout the city.

The report, entitled "After Integration: Problems of Race Relations in the High School Today," was based on a commission study of Madison High school in Brooklyn, where racial incidents caused the closing of the school for two days last December.

The report sought to demonstrate that problems of open racial conflict among students — a relatively new phenomenon in the New York city schools — "are not beyond the capability of the school to affect."

* An affirmative effort to involve minority students in extra-curricular activities and to maximize interaction between Whites and minorities in such activities by rescheduling activities to accommodate out-of-district students; revising recruitment and selection procedures that work to exclude minorities; and intensifying efforts to overcome self-segregation that results from cultural differences, unfamiliarity between groups, and the mood of strained race relations of this period.

* Extensive efforts to reach alienated lower-income White students who sometimes contribute to group conflict through improved communications procedures and the establishment of ethnic studies courses that focus on White ethnic groups as well as Blacks and Puerto Ricans.

* The development of faculty seminars to help the teacher operate within the challenges presented by the integrated school.

* An affirmative effort to involve more parents, especially those of out-of-district minority students and lower income White students.

* The establishment of procedures to improve communication between the school and the community surrounding it, to counteract misinformation, to improve community understanding, to diffuse hostility to minority out-of-district students, and to prevent unbased fears and panic that lead to neighborhood instability.

* Special training, orientation and supervision of security guards to ensure their maximum effectiveness.

* A regular orientation program for out-of-district minority students, to familiarize them with the school and the community.

* Special efforts to recruit minority faculty.

* The establishment of a regularized, official method for communication between all segments of the student body and administration and faculty.

* The assignment of the faculty member designated a Student Coordinator to work full time on intergroup relations between students.

A copy of the report may be obtained by writing to the Commission, 52 Duane Street, New York City, N.Y. 10007.

A PRESIDENTIAL CHAT

National "Boy of the Year", George Clark of Philadelphia tells President Ford at a special White House youth conference that a recent nationwide health survey conducted by the Boys' Clubs of America revealed that emotional problems are the greatest single concern of many teenagers today. Young Clark represented more than a million members of 1,100 Boys' Clubs across the country at the meeting. Clark was selected 1974 "Boy of the Year" on the basis of his service to community, church, school, home and Boys' Club. With the title, Clark received a $4,000 Reader's Digest Foundation scholarship, which he is using to attend Slippery Rock, Pa., State College.

Horner suggests innovations

By Peter Zollo and
Bruce Frank,
Staff Writers

"I can't brag about a big education. I don't have it. But I have 23 years of in-depth experience. I've done all the duties and will stay with it. I'm 51, and not about to change," remarked Fred W. Horner, Polk County treasurer and Democratic candidate in the Nov. 5th election.

A paper weight with the inscription 'ulcer department' sits on Horner's desk in the Polk County Courthouse. He admitted the office of treasurer is sometimes not too appealing to his constituents, but added "we didn't make your taxes, but we must, by law, collect them."

Horner was appointed to the office of treasurer 20 months ago at the resignation of Carl Bogenreif. At the time of his appointment, Horner was chief deputy to Bogenreif who said, "Fred is not the political type guy who is overwhelmed by the desire to get elected to some office, any office somehow, someday. Horner is a career tax man in county government. He knows the business, inside, outside, upside and downside."

Prior to his appointment, Horner had served at every desk in the county treasurer and auditor offices. He served for six years as chief accountant and six years as assistant treasurer of Polk County. Horner, a tax accountant, graduated from Johnston High School in Polk County and completed an accounting course from LaSalle Extension University. He added, "The rest of my education comes from experience right here at the county court house."

Horner was a pioneer in data-processing. He introduced the method in 1964 to the office of treasurer in Polk County. In traffic and to add incentive to pay taxes earlier it is his proposal that sub-stations be set up where taxpayers can pay May, 1971, the Polk County Board of Supervisors contracted the use of the City of Des Moines' computer for the purpose of storage of tax information and tax collection. He is a member of the Polk-Des Moines Computer Policy Committee.

To decrease court house taxes and renew auto licenses. These sub-stations would also cut down on the already over-loaded court house. These sub-stations would be set up in various locations in Polk County.

Horner said the proposal is "very operational and will have fringe benefits." His proposal includes an electronic system with data input and output stations for quicker and easier access to basic records.

"I'd like something that would and an incentive to pay taxes sooner," Horner said. He has suggested a type of discount for early payment of taxes, but added "when I mentioned it to one legislator, he just grinned." However, according to Horner, the discount idea has been successful in Louisiana.

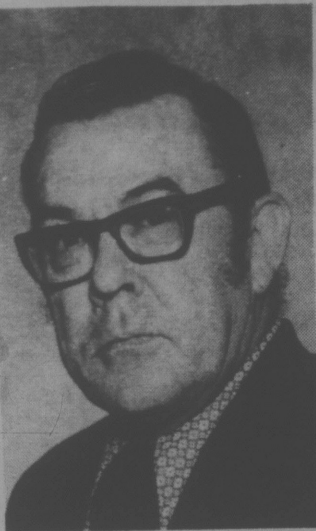

"To accomplish the new sub-station system," added Horner, "we need a couple of law changes to make it really practical." He has proposed a 12-month plan for vehicle license renewal to replace the present law which allows two months to renew 225,000 licenses. Horner said that by switching to the 12-month proposal his office would be able to cut down on extra help currently needed from December 1 to February 1. Horner said his office presently has no extra help. He added,

"The computer system is working that smoothly."

Horner, however, emphasized the complexity of the tax collection operation. He said that a new trainee "could in no way learn the whole tax collection and data-processing system in a two year period."

Another law change for the office of treasurer, Horner believes is necessary regarding the legalization of micro-film. The use of micro-film would provide quicker access for tax records and a more efficient means of storing all tax information, said Horner. He "With micro-film I could store everything in one desk which now takes up the hallways and basement."

Mr. and Mrs. (Beth) Horner live in Des Moines with two of their four children, Kerry 19 and Fred Jr. 17. The oldest child, Mrs. Paul Johnson, has three children of her own and their oldest son, Michael, 25, was recently married.

Horner is a member of the Des Moines Pioneer Club, as his great-grandfather "came here on horseback and homesteaded here." His uncle, Charles Horner, was clerk of the court for 45 years in Polk County. "I've never heard of anybody who didn't like him," commented Fred.

He is also a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Beavertown Post No. 9127, and of the American Legion, Polk City Post No. 232.

Horner, who said he "ran quite a campaign in the primary," added he is ready to campaign again, "against" his Republican opponent. He said, because he paid $1,200 in postage in the primary campaign, he cannot afford to mail out a brochure. However, he will hand out the usual campaign literature and has planned speaking appearances.

When asked about his daily routine of business in the court house, as his secretary entered the office and placed a $2 million check on his desk, Horner replied, "One day it's small, and one day it's big."

School Boards Oppose Constitutional Amendment

The school districts of Iowa could lose over $3 million in receipts annually if a revision to the Iowa Constitution is passed at the general election on November 5.

The governing boards of the statewide associations of school boards and school superintendents have each taken official action to urge the voters of Iowa to vote "no" on a constitutional referendum on the ballot.

A proposed amendment would repeal Section 4, subdivision 2 (School Funds and School Lands) of Article IX and Section 4 of Article XII of the Iowa Constitution, which relate to the distribution of fines, collected for any breach of the penal laws, to school districts in the counties where the fine is collected.

Football - Iowa

If you were in Iowa University Stadium last Saturday you saw a pretty fair ball game. Of course, the sports caster and writers who were born yesterday called it the greatest game ever, and that covers a lot of games. But when you look back on some of the games of the past seven years, they had reason to be carried away. But I have to think of some of the scuffles I have seen over the years, and while this Iowa-Illinois game was one heluva game, there were a lot of others. I guess it all depends on one's viewpoint. The thing about the game that I thought was outstanding was that it was a hard hitting duel on both sides, and it looked as if the Hawks had figured out a way to blow this one, but they wouldn't let it go.

How many more will they win? Well, they haven't beaten Purdue in the last fourteen times out, so, they are about due to crack that jinx, although the Boilermakers are tough at home. One would have to give them a good chance with Indiana, and possibly Michigan State if they can all be healthy for that one, because the Spartans are a rough, tough ball club, and you had better come to play when you meet them. Ohio State? Do you believe in miracles?

Football - Iowa State

Iowa State was supposed to drop one to Kansas, but they forgot to tell the Cyclones. That fellow Harris must have had quite a day. He was doing just what a free safety is supposed to do: follow the ball. ISU went into this game with all hands in good shape, and they will need everybody and some fellows they don't have for the rest of the schedule. Oklahoma isn't taking any prisoners, and Nebraska has shown that they can be taken, but one must play an errorless game and have a ton of luck. Maybe our gang will do just that.

This is the first time all three of the major schools won at the same time in at least a couple of years. Drake pulled one out by the skin of their teeth, and maybe they can get going now, for they really have a pretty fair team even if they haven't shown it. They started out with such high hopes at the beginning of the year, and it makes me wonder if they could have done better if they had not publicized the pursuit of Johnny Bright's rushing record so much. Heston became a marked man, and it seemed that yards were really hard to come by.

Football - High School

Dowling left no doubt as to who is number one in the Metro conference. They put the boots to North, as if you didn't know it. I wasn't there, but fellows I talked to say that North never did have a good field position but once, when the Maroons fumbled in the first quarter. But they found they couldn't gain much ground early, and that just about wrapped it up. But North still has a shot at a playoff berth if they can win this week-end. A fellow I know criticized the North coach, saying that since the game was out of reach, he wondered why he didn't use his reserves and given them a chance. Maybe he was trying to hold down the score. But normally when a game is won or lost by a convincing margin most of the subs on both sides get to play. Did Dowling use their subs? Then I heard that a couple of North's best fellows were ejected from the game. When did this happen, and there wasn't a word about it in any of the game stories. Why? I thought the Bears had a fair chance with the Maroons and they did on paper, but you just can't tell what is on the inside. Maybe that was the difference. Some guy asked me who this Boston playing for Dowling is, and I replied that I know several Boston families. Now which one does he come from?

I don't see how they can keep Roosevelt's Larry Fowler off at least the all city team and maybe one of the all state clubs. According to the writers, he is a little bigger than I thought he was. I called him about five nine and about one seventy. But they say he is a little taller than that and I was very close on the weight. Maybe he will come back next year about ten pounds heavier. Probably still growing.

East won't have a bad mark for the year, but they can say that they were the only city club to give Dowling a game. I bet this winter there will be another movement to oust the Maroons from the Metro conference. This time it might go.

UNCF '74 Campaign Ahead Of Last Year's

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Directors attending the United Negro College Fund's national board meeting in New York City have been told that the Fund's 1974 campaign is running almost a million dollars ahead of last year's pace but that last-quarter donations will be crucial to the success of the appeal.

Christopher F. Edley, UNCF Executive Director, gave the directors the report showing the campaign $950,000 ahead at the meeting which concluded last weekend at the New York Hilton Hotel.

Mr. Edley reported that corporate giving, especially, is holding up this year. Companies so far have contributed $2.9-million to the total $5.5-million, $621,000 ahead of 1973's corporate pace.

"Despite the uncertainty of the financial times, we are doing well in the corporate area and we expect we will continue to do so throughout the rest of the year," Mr. Edley said.

However, he warned, "we are concerned that corporations may not realize the great and urgent needs of the private black colleges and reflect that dimension in their giving."

Thomas A. Murphy, newly-elected Chairman of the Board of the General Motors Corp., who is the 1974 UNCF National Campaign Chairman, attended the meeting and urged the staff and volunteers to redouble their efforts to reach the Fund's $15-million goal for the year.

A. Dean Swift, President of Sears, Roebuck & Co., who heads the UNCF's National Corporations Committee for 1974 and 1975 which is responsible for raising money from the business community, also attended the meeting.

Matthew Johnson of Minneapolis, Minnesota, director of the UNCF in this area was in Des Moines last week to perfect plans for the annual campaign in Iowa.

Milwaukee Judge Orders Changes

some assurance or compliance by the Commission and Fire Department. If the number of Black, Latin and American Indian applicants eligible for appointment at any time is not sufficient to meet this interim hiring goal," the order reads "the Milwaukee Fire and Police Commission shall approve no appointments to the position of firefighter until such time as this interim hiring goal will be met."

This means that the department will not be able to use the lack of non-white candidates as an excuse for not meeting the goals set by the court. If no non-white candidates are eligible to satisfy the two-for-three plan, then those positions vacant cannot be filled.

The court also ordered a couple of significant changes in the hiring guidelines for the department. Only those felony convictions occurring within five years prior to the submission of an application for firefighter "shall render a person ineligible" for firefighter unless they receive an unconditional pardon from the governor. Any felony conviction occurring more than five years before filing that application will no longer be considered a reason for automatic ineligibility.

Although the suits against the department were prompted by racism in its hiring practices, the order included relief for sexist discrimination in hiring as well.

Grand Jury Indicts Two Rioters

Boston, Mass. — Two men have been indicted by a federal grand jury in the beating of a black man on October 7 during the Boston school desegregation disturbances.

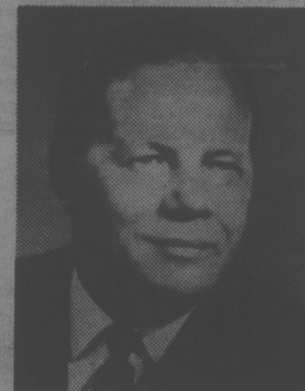

Attorney General William B. Saxbe said the two-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Boston, Massachusetts, against Joseph E. Griffin Jr., 33, and Ronald B. King, 32.

Griffin and King, who are white, were arrested by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation with the cooperation of Boston police on October 16 in Boston.

One count said Griffin and King beat and injured Andre Yvon Jean Louis, 32, in order to intimidate black students from attending Boston public schools without discrimination.

The second count charged that in beating Louis the two men tried to interfere with the rights of children in the Boston school system to attend the schools to which they were assigned by a June 21, 1974, order of U.S. District Court in Boston.
