Award Davenport Employee Damages For Racial Slur

National News Briefs

Washington D. C. At a press conference last week, Secretary of Transportation William Coleman said: He would concentrate on running the Department of Transportation and not try to be a civil rights advocate within the Ford administration.

New York, N.Y. The lawyer for a former civil rights worker says his client was frightened out of Mississippi in April, 1969, by a threatening letter from the FBI.

Buffalo, NY — In reply to a suggestion that he testify in the events surrounding the death of a guard in the 1971 Attica Prison Rebellion, Vice President, Nelson Rockefeller, stated that he had no personal knowledge of what happened but he would not want to impede the trial by not appearing and he is not afraid to testify.

New York — This week, Black Journal ... this evening presents a special edition, "Conspiracy," examining the possibility of conspiracy in the Robert and John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, and Malcolm X assassinations.

Des Moines, Iowa — The teacher tenure bill which is set for debate in the Iowa Senate on Tuesday, Mar. 25, would make it extremely difficult for a school board to dismiss an unsatisfactory school teacher, the executive director of the Iowa Association of School Boards (IASB) contends.

Chicago, Ill. — Two South-suburban Chicago Heights brothers were killed when fire swept through their second-floor apartment at 1449 Central in the suburb Thursday. Ironically, Michael Harden, 5, was rescued by neighbors when the fire first broke out, but he ran back into the building and was later found dead alongside the body of his brother, Antonio, 3. Fire Chief Robert Walters said.

Town Meeting

A Town Meeting with Eastside legislators will be held on Saturday, March 22 from 10 a.m. until noon at Goodrell Junior High School, E. 29th and Ovid in the Home Ec. Room.

Senators William Palmer and Earl Willits and Representatives John Connors, Carl Nielsen, James Caffery, and Jack Woods have been invited to visit informally with area residents, answer questions and discuss issues.

The meeting, co-sponsored by Common Cause and the Metro-Des Moines League of Women Voters, is open to the public.

No ADC For Unborn Children

By a vote of 7 to 1, the United States Supreme Court moved Tuesday, that unborn children are not entitled to receive Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

The case arose in Davenport where Linda Alcalá of Davenport, then 20, had contended in her lawsuit that an unmarried, pregnant woman with no children should be entitled to the same ADC benefits as a woman with children.

Two other Scott County women, both unmarried and pregnant, later joined in the lawsuit.

Fire Employee Without Investigation The Charges

Employers who suspend their employees without investigation violate their civil rights

Judge William Hansen of the U.S. District Court for Southern Iowa had held for the plaintiff originally and was upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

Justice Marshall, who was the lone dissenter said that it was not a question of money but that he did not believe that the Social Security Act should not be read to exclude unborn from eligibility of ADC.

according to a ruling by the Iowa Civil Rights Commission last week.

The complaint filed against the city of Davenport charging that one of its supervisors, Calvin Smith fired one of its employees and called him a derogatory name without investigating the complaint against him. On March 23, 1973 after working for the city for three years. The commission voted 5 to 1 that the city of Davenport pay Overton $1,473.70.

Calvin Smith, Davenport superintendent of sewers, who fired Overton, testified at a public hearing last Nov. 20 that he thought Overton was a "nigger," according to "findings of fact" on the case signed by Commission Chairperson Frances Lowder and approved by the entire commission.

The City of Davenport said at the public hearing that Overton was fired for failure to work overtime on Mar. 22, 1973, when an emergency flood situation existed.

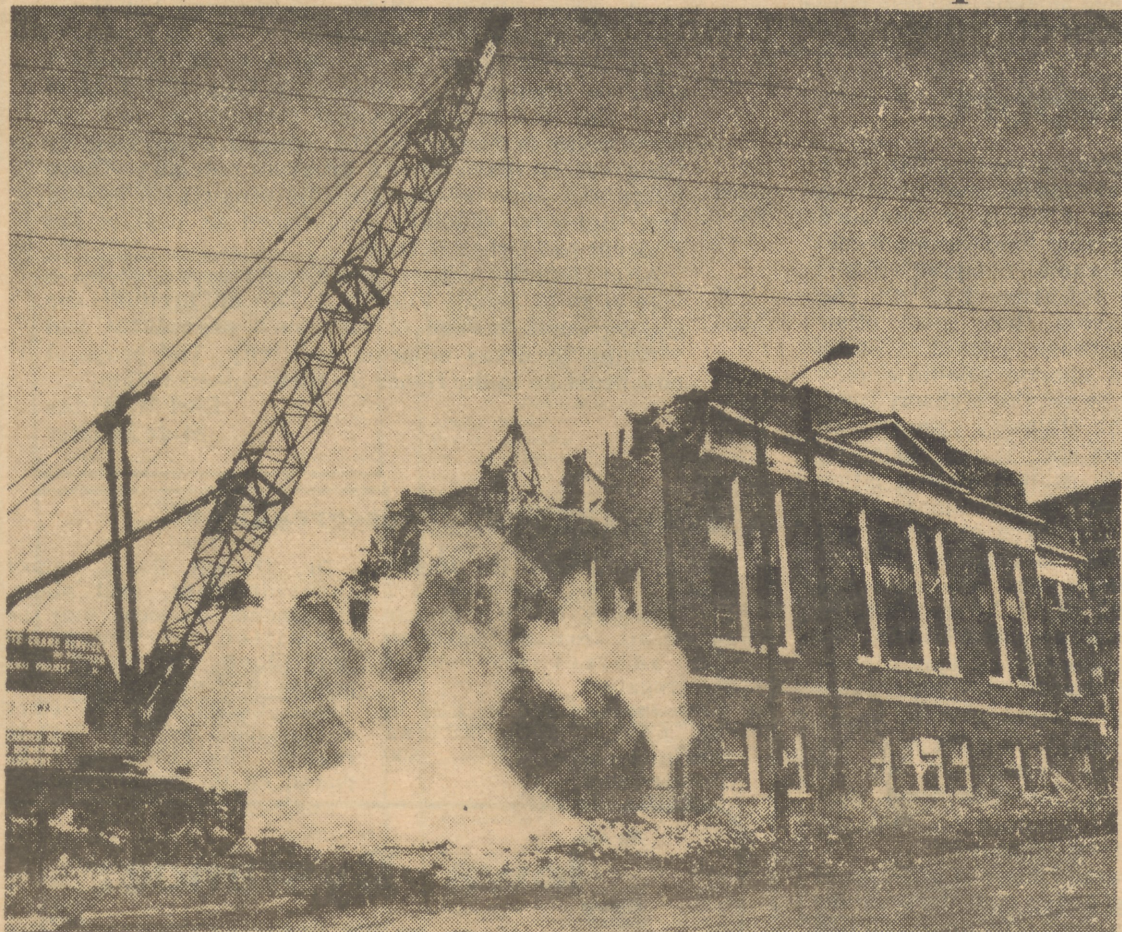

Smith testified that he discharged Overton the next day without investigating the incident, and without asking Overton if he had an excuse for leaving, according to the "findings of fact."

And a statement entitled "conclusions of law" — also signed by Lowder and approved by the commission — says the word "nigger" is a "word of such onerous historical and modern connotations" it brands the person using it "a racial bigot."

"The racial hostility that surrounded Mr. Overton in his employment is overwhelmingly shown by Mr. Smith's testimony, especially his admission of his feelings toward Overton and his use and definition of the word 'nigger,' the statement says.

"There can be no doubt that Overton's discharge was racially motivated."

Landmark Victim Of Urban Development

Built in 1918 while America was at war, St. Paul AME Church at 9th and Crocker St. has been demolished, having been sold to the Urban Development Department of the city of Des Moines. The congregation marched from its former location at 2nd and Center St. under the leadership of Rev. S. L. Burt who was the pastor at the time.

The congregation moved to its new location in 1973 at 13th and Day St.

The city has not announced the use for which the lot will be utilized but it is hoped that it will be purchased for a business in keeping with the area. At the time of the construction in 1918 many members purchased windows as memorial for themselves and for their friends, many of which were beautiful and unusual. Unfortunately, these windows were sold as part of the transaction, some of which were destroyed while the building was standing idle.

Indianola, Ia. — An Affirmative Action Program to insure adherence to federal legislation regarding equal employment opportunity has been adopted by the Simpson College Board of Trustees.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

Swapping Turkeys for Pheasants

For the last two years, the Iowa Conservation Commission has swapped to Missouri 5000 pheasants in return for 260 wild turkeys. This is one of the reasons why Iowa hunters are finding less pheasants in the fields.

I have hunted pheasants in Kossuth county each season from 1926 to 1969. The population was good until the 1940 storm which reduced the population to a great extent.

Since farmers are eliminating hedgerows and drain ditches are cleaned out, northern Iowa has few pheasants in recent years. However in southwest Iowa the crop has been reasonably good. In spite of the announcement by the Conservation Commission during the last two years birds were in good supply, the population has been exceedingly scarce.

In view of the fact that little concerted effort is made to provide food and cover for the birds during terrible snow storms like we have had this year, the situation will continue to deteriorate unless the Commission does a better job maintaining the pheasant stock in Iowa.

Helping Downtown Again

Business men have sent up another trial balloon about revitalizing downtown Des Moines. The city manager has prepared an extensive program which includes a theatre, botanical garden, addition to the Veterans Memorial building, and others most of which are sound but failed to meet the approval of the voters at the previous election.

It is obvious that something must be done, not only to improve the looks of things, but also to bring people downtown to shop in stores that are still here.

Of course, voluntary contributions to build some of the items, which the voters did not approve, makes sense and I hope the public will support a reasonable program. I believe that if a different approach is made during the campaign to earn the confidence of the voters is worked out some of these programs can be accomplished.

Mass Transportation Suffers

Mass transportation is in trouble all over the country and this, of course, includes the railroads. It seems that some railroads have been able to convince the Railway Association that they have a chance to live but the Rock Island has not been able to do so.

Secretary of Transportation Coleman has stated that the railroads are in trouble because of mismanagement on the part of the bosses. I would add to this the railway labor board which has permitted a system of little work for a lot of money to wreck the finances of these companies.

Since the Rock Island is not able to secure a loan like other railroads, it appears that the employees are willing to do their part to help it survive. This is an excellent idea, one which many companies could do which, in the final analysis, will help reduce the unemployment rate which is very high at this time.

Senate Report

Committee work has progressed rapidly this week to the point where many of the major appropriations bills are ready to be debated on the floor. One such bill, House File 368 appropriated funds to state and local road construction programs. I supported this bill. The high rate of inflation had hit the construction business harder than most other industries. Due to a 42% increase in building costs, the Governor asked for a special one-time only appropriation of $20 million to aid the highway fund. Some agencies including the Highway Commission were requesting a $40 million special appropriation. It was indicated that a $40 million appropriation would save over 1,840 direct and indirect jobs. At the time the state was considering these proposals, the President released $2 billion dollars in federally impounded road funds. Iowa was informed $56 million in impounded funds could be returned to the state if matching state funds were available. The Joint Senate-House Transportation Appropriation Committee then approved House File 368, which made available $5.7 million matching state funds. This match will be sufficient to attract over $56 million in federal funds. The passage of this bill places $20 million more in the road fund than proposed by the Highway Commission and $40 million more than the Governor proposed.

It is imperative that concerned citizens understand that cities and counties are under consideration for more highway money in a separate appropriation later. It would be hasty and ill-advised to appropriate more money than is necessary to qualify for available federal funds at this time.

However, time is of the essence with regard to these federal funds. If the state or any city or county wishes to be eligible for these released funds they need to let bids prior to July 1st. The timetable for letting bids ranges from 3 weeks minimum for county projects to approximately 3 months maximum for state projects thus requiring that the

Scientists' Statement on Energy Policy

We, as scientists and citizens of the United States, believe that the republic is in the most serious situation since World War II. Today's energy crisis is not a matter of just a few years but of decades. It is the new and predominant fact of life in industrialized societies.

The high price of oil which we must now import in order to keep Americans at their jobs threatens our economic structure — indeed, that of the Western World. Energy is the lifeblood of all modern societies and they are currently held hostage by a price structure that they are powerless to influence.

In the next three to five years, conservation is essentially the only energy option. We can and we must use energy and existing energy sources more intelligently. But there must also be long-range realistic plans and we deplore the fact that they are developing so slowly. We also deplore the fact that the public is given unrealistic assurances that there are easy solutions. There are many interesting proposals for alternative energy sources which deserve vigorous research effort, but none of them is likely to contribute significantly to our energy supply in this century.

Conservation, while urgently necessary and highly desirable, also has its price. One man's conservation may be another man's loss of job. Conservation, the first time around, can trim off fat, but the second time will cut deeply.

When we search for domestic energy sources to substitute for imported oil, we must look at the whole picture. If we look at each possible energy source separately, we can easily find fault with each of them, and rule out each one. Clearly, this would mean the end of our civilization as we know it.

Our domestic oil reserves are running down and the deficit can only partially be replaced by the new sources in Alaska; we must, in addition, permit offshore exploration. Natural gas is in a similar critical condition; in the past seven years new discoveries have run far below our level of gas consumption. Only with strong measures could we hope to reverse this trend.

We shall have to make much greater use of solid fuels. Here coal and uranium are the most important options. This represents a profound change in the character of the American fuel economy. The nation has truly great reserves of these solid fuels in the earth. Our economically recoverable coal reserves are estimated to be 250 billion tons and exceed the energy of the world's total oil reserves. Our known uranium ores potentially equal the energy of 6,000 billion tons of coal; lower grade ore promises even more abundance.

The U.S. choice is not coal or uranium; we need both. Coal is irreplaceable as the basis of new synthetic fuels to replace oil and natural gas.

However, we see the primary use of solid fuels, especially of uranium, as a source of electricity. Uranium power, the culmination of basic discoveries in physics, is an engineered reality generating electricity today. Nuclear power has its critics, but we believe they lack perspective as to the feasibility of nonnuclear power sources and the gravity of the fuel crisis.

All energy release involves risks and nuclear power is certainly no exception. The safety of civilian nuclear power has been under public surveillance without parallel in the history of technology. As in any new technology there is a learning period. Contrary to the scare publicity given to some mistakes that have occurred, no appreciable amount of radioactive material has escaped from any commercial U.S. power reactor. We have confidence that technical ingenuity and care in operation can continue to improve the safety in all phases of the nuclear power program, including the difficult areas of transportation and nuclear waste disposal. The separation of the Atomic Energy Commission into the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission provides added reassurance for realistic management of potential risks and benefits. On any scale the benefits of a clean, inexpensive, and inexhaustible domestic fuel far outweigh the possible risks.

We can see no reasonable alternative to an increased use of nuclear power to satisfy our energy needs.

Many of us have worked for a long time on energy problems and therefore we feel the responsibility to speak out. The energy famine that threatens will require many sacrifices on the part of the American people, but these will be reduced if we marshal the huge scientific and technical resources of our country to improve the use of known energy sources.

state receive federal Highway Administration authorization by April 1st.

More research and study into the amount of available state funds and the specific needs of cities and counties is required. The need is there and we believe this is a responsible approach to that need. No decisions have been made as to precisely how much more money will be appropriated but those decisions will be forthcoming.

The federal funds release works by allowing each state to proceed on a first-come first-served basis until the $6.6 billion national total is reached but each state is limited to the amount authorized by Congress for each federal program category. These funds can only be expended for projects on streets and highways officially established as part of the Federal Aid Urban System.

After lengthy debate, the Senate approved by a vote of 36-13, Senate File No. 2. This bill prohibits the underground storage of gas, such as natural and propane in areas adjacent to a city. The proposal now must go to the House for their consideration.

Letter To The Editor

My name is Love Jones. I am incarcerated, and I am writing this letter as an appeal to you in order for me to obtain correspondence and friendship from your readers. I hope you will be kind enough to publish my plea for help in your paper.

I have become aware of my desperate need to reacquaint myself with the outside world and to become associated with others so I can regain inner strength and have a better understanding of people as well as myself. I would thank you in advance for any consideration you can give me in this matter.

I am 29 years old and my interests are poetry, music art and Blackness! I am oppressively lonely and will answer all letters promptly.

Please write to:

Mr. Love Jones No. 136-402

P.O. Box 787

Lucasville, Ohio 45648

Speakers, he said, will be scheduled in the order in which requests are received.

The superintendent also requested that persons wishing to speak limit their talks to five minutes and that they provide 25 copies of their statements in writing so officials will have them for later study.

On Sunday morning, March 23rd, the Reverend Robert G. Clay will be back in his pulpit after spending a week in Indianapolis, Indiana, as Assistant Accountant to Rev. At Convocation time, we are sorry to mourn the loss of the wife of our beloved Bishop Howard Thomas Primm, Mrs. Edythe Mae Primm, our Missionary leader, noted for her impressive portrayal of her "Night in Light and White" at every Annual Conference. St. Paul Church will certainly miss the grace and charm of Mrs. Primm. There was never a more dedicated lady in the annals of African Methodism. We extend our sympathy to the Rt. Rev. Howard Thomas Primm.

Mrs. Lauretta Reeves has asked all choirs to sing each Sunday from now up to, and including Easter Sunday. Mrs. Reeves is St. Paul's Minister of Music.

Please keep in mind the fabulous Easter Morning Breakfast, given by Mr. Chauncey Bailey every year. Mr. Bailey wishes to thank all of you for the astonishing results of your generosity.

Fortune Is $694,000

WASHINGTON NNPA — William T. Coleman, the second Black member of the cabinet in U.S. history, has a net worth of $694,000, with a substantial portion of assets in blue chip stocks.

The recently sworn in secretary of Transportation holds securities with a market value of approximately $204,228, and is due $218,889 from his interest in a prestigious Philadelphia law firm.

Coleman, an honors graduate of Harvard College, has savings accounts totalling $32,780, a home in Mt. Airy, Pa., valued at $72,500 and home furnishings worth $75,000. The transportation law expert submitted these and other figures in a required financial statement to the U.S. Congress.

The statement also lists $18,816 in insurance, $13,600 in four automobiles, and books and office furnishings valued at $5,000.

Coleman, who served four administrations on a variety of advisory bodies and panels also lists income totaling $51,000, less Federal taxes, from the law firm of Dilworth, Paxson, Kalish, Levy and Coleman. The firm, where he is a senior partner, will pay his interest in installments — one-third due by December 31, 1975, and one-third by December 31, 1976 and a final payment by December 31, 1977.

Stock Holdings

Coleman apparently is still negotiating with the law firm over the amount of the payment. In his statement he says the total payment from the firm might be $100,000 higher.

Coleman's largest common stock holdings are $54,726 in International Business Machines and $54,405 in Xerox. Other stocks include $15,824 in the Burroughs Corporation, $7,056 in Lincoln National Corporation, $9,275 in Philadelphia Electric and $8,562 in the First Pennsylvania Corporation.

He must sell 800 shares in Pan American Airways, valued at $1,900, as well as assorted other stocks because his duties as Secretary of Transportation might conflict with his financial interest in these companies. Coleman owns stock in a total of 16 companies.

In addition, he holds bonds worth $20,000 in Citicorporation. Coleman also included in his financial statement information about a pending claim for foot injuries received in 1973 during an escalator accident.

Campaign Chairman

J. Locke Macomber

J. Locke Macomber, President of Valley National Bank, has been named Chairman of the 1975 United Way Campaign.

A lifelong resident of Des Moines, Mr. Macomber has been employed by the Valley National Bank for 22 years, the last three years as its President. He has a Bachelor of Science degree from Yale University and a Juris Doctorate from Drake University.

Mr. Macomber has been active in the Des Moines Community for many years. In addition to being a member of the Board of Trustees of Drake University, he also serves on the boards of the YMCA, Blue Shield of Iowa and Orchard Place. He is a member of several committees within these organizations and is Treasurer for Orchard Place and Blue Shield. He is Assistant Treasurer of the YMCA.

As Campaign Chairman, Mr. Macomber will be charged with building, organizing and managing a successful campaign team. This will involve recruiting over 4,000 volunteers from various segments of the population and working with them to raise the maximum amount possible for the 38 United Way agencies serving the Des Moines area.

When accepting the position Macomber stated: "The United Way Campaign is probably the most important endeavor that our community has. It is tremendously important to the whole fabric of our community that we do this job."

Last year's campaign generated a record $3,373,694 in funds for human services increases, so also does the need for additional funding. In 1975 the challenge is greater than ever before.

The number of people seeking the services of the United Way agencies has increased substantially, and indications are that this trend will continue. In recognition of this fact the theme for the 1975 United Way Campaign will be:

THANKS TO YOU
IT WORKS...
FOR ALL OF US

As a native of Des Moines, Locke Macomber has had the opportunity to observe the needs of the community as they have developed through the years. His selection as Campaign Chairman reflects the need for a strong leader with the attitude and ability necessary to conduct a successful campaign in 1975.

Mr. Macomber and his wife Harriet reside at 630 41st Street in Des Moines.

Vet's Questions

Q — I'll be discharged in two months after three years of duty in the Army. Will I be eligible for GI Bill benefits?

A — Since Congress has not voted an end to the current GI Bill, you would be eligible, provided the character of your discharge from service is determined to be under honorable conditions.

Q — I'm buying our home with a GI loan, and wonder if I can pay off the loan in advance?

A — Yes. You may partially or fully repay your mortgage at any time ahead of schedule, without penalty — provided payments are for not less than one monthly payment or $100, whichever is less.

Q — Because I was severely disabled during military service three years ago, the Veterans Administration awarded me a $2,800 automobile grant. The engine in the car I bought with the grant is now in need of repair. Will VA pay for these repairs?

A — Sorry, no. While VA pays for repair, maintenance and replacement of adaptive equipment required for operation of the automobile, the law prohibits such payment for the automobile, itself.

IEBN Ranks 2nd in Nation

The Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) has notified the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (IEBN) that a recent

A.C. Nielsen cumulative audience survey indicates IEBN's station KDIN-TV, Channel 11, Des Moines, is currently ranked as the second most watched public television channel in the nation. These findings are based on a daily "measurable" percentage of total households watching during the month of November, 1974 from 7 a.m. to 1 a.m.

"We are pleased to have received such recognition in national ratings, but we can take only part of the credit," said IEBN Executive Director, Thomas Ditzel, "Iowans seem to know what they like and don't like and tend to be very selective viewers. They use the opportunities provided by an alternate programming service, namely, public television."

Spring, What Is The Hold Up?

Tomorrow is the first day of spring. Most people already know that, but the snow lingering on the ground can cause others to have some doubts.

When I think of spring, I don't particularly want to see the slushy snow on the ground. Nor do I want to feel the wind blowing heavily up against my face, as I am walking.

Spring means walking home from school after a track practice. It also signified Easter, which is the Sunday after next. For college and high school students, a spring break will be here soon. The high school's will be off during the first week of April.

Roosevelt tracksters can be seen running either inside the school building or outside around the blocks, surrounding Roosevelt. Panting and perspiring, these young men and women are preparing for their first track meet which is April 5. Girls and boys golf, are now underway.

It is nice to see the snow melting now. Maybe it will clear up for good, by tomorrow.

Award Scholarship to Vicki Clark

Vicki Clark

Vicki Clark has been chosen by the American Republic Insurance Company to receive a four-year scholarship to Drake University.

Each year American Republic, located at 6th and Park Streets, awards two full scholarships to promising high school seniors who intend to major in business. This year's winners are Vicki Clark of East

High School and Gary Timmons from Noth High.

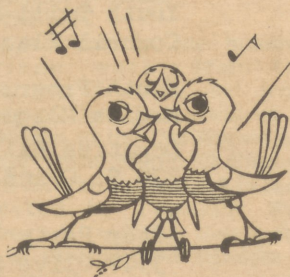

The scholarship includes full tuition, fees, and books at Drake. Tuition at Drake is nearly $2,800; books will cost approximately $150 a semester; and fees will probably amount to $500. Upon maintaining the required grade average the scholarship will be renewed for each of four years.

Vicki is graduating in the top 10% of her class at East. She has participated in numerous activities at East which include: Captain of the girls' track and basketball teams, she participated in the United Nations- Washington D.C. Tour, has served as a Senate Representative in Student Government and was also the President of that organization, been on the honor roll each of her three years at East is chairman of the East-IPALCO (Iowa Power and Light Company) organization, and is presently Co-Editor of the school newspaper.

In past years East students have also been recipients in the American Republic Scholarship. Three years prior to this one East students have won.

"I was relieved to find out that I had won," said Vicki, "because it's such a hassle trying to get money together for college."

Not only does the scholarship include all the necessary tuition and fees but it also provides the students with part-time employment during the school year and full-time summer work. The students are employed by the American Republic Insurance Company and work in the downtown office.

You know,
We grew up playing
But now we play only in our memories.

Like sometimes Jimmie would come by for Breakfast at 8:00 o'clock in the morning and it was cool!

I mean we knew Everybody!
And we played away from kick the can to basketball by the street lights hard and furious only to end our day with last tag.

Them were the days we could do anything and be anybody without worrying about who's going to think what.

The consequences were always small compared to one's objective cause we were brave, bold, and unaffected by the darkness.

I mean we would try anything once and then make jokes and songs all evening about our successes and failures.

We played with strange kids
new kids
black kids
yellow & brown kids and an occasional white kid whose parents couldn't afford to move out of the Ghetto.

We played with some of those grown-up kids who hadn't forgot the essence and value of play where everybody is equal and subject to ridicule.

The ridicule that nick-names
you the bear, fats, ringeye, bullet head, bones, koolbreeze, and anything else you can imagine, if you still have an imagination.

Cause imagination is what kept play going when all the Xmas toys were broken or boring. Can you Remember!
I think you can.

You know,
We grew up playing
But now we play only in our memories.

Parent Aids

The Parent Aids, of the Iowa Family & Childrens Service, took Parents, 9 children on their first outing of the year. Would you believe it was to McDonalds. On Forest.

First: we went on a guided tour through the kitchen, in groups of (10) to see all the working mechanisms, of how the food is prepared, and served. Then, we all sat down for some good hot, french fries, hamburgers and soft drink.

I beleve it was a success. The Children really enjoyed themselves. And thats what our Program is all about. Children. Total participation 82.

Vice President Rockefeller Presents Black Magazine Achievement Awards

Sen. Edward Brooke, Dr. Gaston Cannon, Naylor Fitzhugh, Dempsey Travis Mildren Montgomery, V. P. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Mrs. Freddye Henderson, Ray Dones Herbert Britton, and Earl G. Graves.

WASHINGTON, D.C. Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has presented the First Black Enterprise Annual Achievement Awards to seven black business persons and professionals. This historic presentation was made at the white house on Friday, February 21.

The recipients— a contractor, a mortgage banker, the head of a meat processing firm, a toxicologist, a travel agent, a bond underwriter, and a marketing consultant— are being honored by black enterprise magazine... the country's largest magazine reporting on activities of black business persons.

Black Enterprise Magazine

The magazine is known for the "Black Enterprise 100" an annual list of the country's largest black-owned businesses. (The third edition of the black enterprise "Top 100" will appear this June).

The black enterprise annual achievement awards are given in recognition of individual accomplishment as well as the recipient's contributions to opening up economic and professional opportunities for others.

The seven recipients of the first black enterprise annual achievement awards were chosen from some 3,000 nominations received from leading personalities in business, education, public life, and civic affairs throughout the country. The final selections were made by a special panel of judges.

Republican Lincoln Day Tuesday

DES MOINES — Republican State Finance Chairman W. H. Goodrich has encouraged Republicans to demonstrate support of the party by purchasing tickets to next week's Lincoln Dinner.

Goodrich, in a statement this week, said ticket sales for the annual Republican fund-raiser have been "picking up during the past week, but we are trying to make this one of the most successful dinners in our history."

Goodrich said the dinner, which will be held next Tuesday March 25 at the Val Air Ballroom in West Des Moines, was "a chance for the state's Republicans to actually demonstrate to Iowans that our party remains strong. This dinner is more than a fund-raising event, it is a chance to show our support of the party and Republican government."

In addition, Goodrich said the head table has been eliminated to allow persons attending to visit with the party's leaders and elected officials, including Gov. Robert D. Ray and Lt. Gov. Arthur A. Neu.

AFRICAN WORKS ON DISPLAY

Approximately one hundred African works from the collection of Julian and Irma Brody of Des Moines will be on exhibition at the Des Moines Art Center from March 19 through April 20. The exhibition has been selected by Professor Roy Sieber of Indiana University, one of the foremost scholars of African art.

The selection of works ranges geographically over the Western Sudan, the Guinea Coast, the Equatorial Forest, and the Southern Savannah with a heavy emphasis on art from the tribes of Nigeria and particularly the Yoruba.

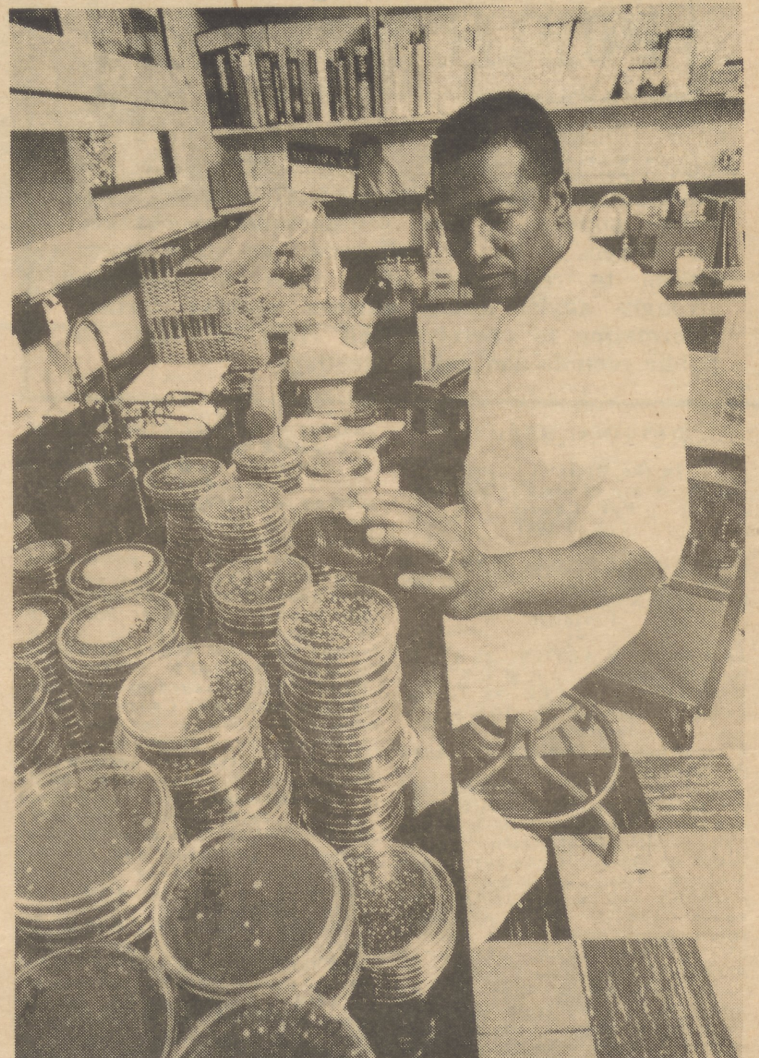

This will mark the first time that such a large selection of works from this significant collection will have been shown in central Iowa. An illustrated catalog with an introduction by Sieber will be available.

To augment the Brody Collection, a series of four outstanding color films on Africa's contribution to American culture will be shown. Produced, written and directed by Eliot Elisofon and featuring as narrators four noted black Americans, the films describe the history, traditions, culture and beauty of Africa. Each film is 50 minutes in length and a different film will be shown each of four week-ends... with a 3 p.m. Saturday and a 3 p.m. Sunday showing.

"The Congo," narrated by Julian Bond will be shown on March 22 and 23; "The Bend of the Niger," March 29 and 30, is narrated by Ossie Davis; Maya Angelou will narrate "The Slave Coast," to be shown April 5 and 6; and the series will conclude with a showing on April 12 and 13 of Gordon Parks presenting "Africa's Gift," with special focus on the Senufo people of the Ivory Coast.

Dr. Pugh and another veterinary medical officer, Dr. David E.

By Allen Ashby

If you don't know about Drake's big win over the week end, you must be living in outer space, and maybe even folks who are out there heard about it. This has to be the biggest thing to have happen to the Bulldogs since they played the ears off UCLA and finished third in that meet a few years back. But since so much has been written and said about Drake, let's move on to other games. And of all the tournament games I saw over the week end, the one that really stood out to me was the game between Alabama University and Arizona State. As you looked at the Alabama players being introduced, you had to wonder where the governor was who stood in the path of one black man who wanted to enter the school. For this starting lineup of the Tide consisted of five blacks. The white boys came on later, but the bretheren were in there at the opening bell, and played a major part in the game. When Bama got a million points behind, I began to wonder if they weren't in the wrong meet, but as they came on later in the scuffle, it was easy to see why they were rated. And if they could have made their free throws, they might have pulled this one out, it was that close.

Then there was the confrontation at the NIT meet that ended in the officials promising to include at least one black school in future meets. And I don't see why not. Jackson State was number two in the small college poll, and was number one nearly all year. And I have always thought that black schools are ready for just about any sort of competition anybody wants to give them. But it is my guess that if these black schools are given recognition, it might make the recruiting for black players a little more difficult for white schools. True, they would have more to offer, but the appeal to race pride would be tough to outbid, especially if the school was on the schedule of some of the leading white, or intergrated schools. And I don't think that race pride means racism, either. Just that, race pride. UCLA had to struggle to make it to the next round, and there is a chance that they may not make the final four. But the Bruins are tournament tough, and have been there before, so they can't be sold short. Wouldn't that be a deal? The two finalists of last year sitting this one out. Experts say Indiana is the team to beat. Maybe, but each win they get now makes that string stretch just a little tighter, and it could very well break too soon. But, counters our sparring partner, the UCLA's won eighty before their string broke. But Indiana is no UCLA, and even they will likely never do that again.

Now, back at the ranch

Here at home, we have the boys high school meet coming on, and Lincoln is in the same spot as Indiana. And what I said about stretching their string applies to the Railsplitters. If they had dropped a game during the regular season, they might have a fine chance of going all the way. Maybe they have anyway, but pressure gets greater with each win. This was the first time one of the schools from larger cities got to the state girls finals, and that means that in a few years we will be seeing more of them, and likely a few black girls. There haven't been very many black girls in that meet because most of the teams come from towns where black people don't live. Ankeny had the first black girl who was an all starter, even though her team didn't win the meet. Then there have been one or two others, among them Coleen Bowser of West Des Moines, who never really got a chance to show how good she was because she had a leg injury during the meet.

Don't think there will be many black boys in the thing this week but there have been some good ones. But, as I recall, there was just one team that had an all black lineup, East Waterloo, that was supposed to win the thing hands down. And they might have done that if their main player hadn't got hurt and couldn't play. I remember he tried to play on one leg, and you don't play that game on one leg, because sometimes two legs aren't quite enough. But, be that as it may, we shall all be watching to see who plays in the last game Saturday night.

Here and There

While I was talking about Arthur Ash, he wrapped up another title over the week end. Had to be amused at the story that Borg was so weak he couldn't be at his best. It sounded as if the person sending over the story was making excuses for Bjorn Borg. Well, doesn't he know that the top twenty tennis players in the world are apt to beat any other in that group on any given day. Nobody dominates the game any more. They are saying that Jimmy Connors is a super man. Maybe so, but I think the fellows will get to him sooner or later.

Wonder why the WBA didn't want Muhamad Ali to fight the fellow they said wasn't a good opponent for him? They were awfully quite when other title holders took on fellows named Joe. Maybe they can't get used to the fact that he calls em as he sees em, and what he says makes sense. He isn't quite the clowning idiot that people thought he was.

Veterans

Administration

Veterans and military service personnel who dropped out of high school will benefit from recent GI Bill increases when they enroll in "catch up" training programs, the Veterans Administration said today.

Robert L. Winters, Director, VA Regional Office, Des Moines, said that educational allowances averaging 23 per cent higher are now payable to Vietnam-era veterans who take advantage of a unique provision permitting them to complete high school or refresher courses without having the payments charged against their basic GI Bill entitlement.

He said that persons eligible for "catch up" benefits include anyone who did not complete four years of high school or who does not have an equivalency certificate. High school graduates may also use the program if they need additional courses to qualify for higher education. A single veteran enrolled in the program full time receives $270 monthly. Rates are higher with dependents.

Winters cited several reasons for growing interest in the "free entitlement" provision. Among these are "outreach" efforts by campus-based VA counselors who contact and encourage educationally-disadvantaged veterans to use the program. The military's "Predischarge Education Program" (PREP) for servicemen and the need for higher education and training levels among job seekers are also considered important factors.

He urged veterans interested in GI Bill information to contact the VA Regional Office in Des Moines or representatives of veterans service organizations near their homes.

Pony Express riders will aid handicapped

Iowa's Pony Express Riders will invade Polk County in a big way this year with the volunteer horsemen conducting six "spur" rides in the area, including one in the Des Moines business loop.

Purpose of the rides, part of the annual Good Friday and Saturday horseback relays from the state borders to Camp Sunnyside, is to collect funds to support Easter Seal programs for handicapped Iowans. Last year, over 8,000 men, women and children participated in the "Ride That Crippled Children Can Walk" and raised $140,000, all of which the Pony Express Riders of Iowa, Inc., donated to Easter Seals.

The high-spirited volunteer "bandits" will saddle up to ride in downtown Des Moines on Friday afternoon, March 21, "raiding" businesses and passing Western hats for contributions from passersby. The Polk County Riders will also ride March 22 on Second Avenue, beginning north of the city at 8 a.m. and moving south to Park Fair and Eastgate Shopping centers.

On March 28, beginning at 9 a.m. at Crossroads U.S.A., the horsemen will storm Urbandale, riding east on Douglas Avenue to Merle Hay Plaza, and on March 29 they will ride from the intersection of Army Post and Indianola Roads north to Camp Sunnyside, where traditional day-long festivities are scheduled.

A continuous five-hour variety show, staged by professional musicians and entertainers who volunteer their time, will be held in the Main Lodge at Sunnyside beginning at 2 p.m., March 29. Among the headliners will be Bill Fries of Omaha, writer and voice of Old Home Bread's C. W. McCall; and Billy Cole of WHO Radio, honorary ride chairman. Governor Robert D. Ray, his wife and daughter Vickie have been "regulars" riding horses into Sunnyside for the celebration, which is open to the public without charge.

Pony Express "spur" rides will also be held on Friday, March 7, in Windsor Heights, Clive and West Des Moines and on March 15 in Huxley, Slater, Sheldahl, Maxwell and Ankeny.

The Pony Express ride, regarded as one of the most outstanding family-oriented horse events in the nation, originated in 1968 in Northwest Iowa and has now been copied in a dozen states coast to coast. This year the Pony Express will ride in California, Nebraska, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio, Arizona and New Jersey, among other states, to support Easter Seal programs for their residents.

On March 10, Governor Ray proclaimed March 23-29 as Pony Express Week in Iowa.
