Des Moines City Council Puts Teeth In Rights Ordinance

National News Briefs

New York, NY — George H. Houser, Executive Director of the American Committee on Africa, and Raphael Gould, Special Projects Director, have returned from a month-long fact-finding tour of the newly liberated Portuguese colonies in Africa: the Republic of Guinea Bissau, Cape Verde Islands, and Angola.

They were invited to visit Africa's newest independent nation, Guinea Bissau.

Meridian, Miss. — Dr. Thomas W. Matthew whose 1973 conviction for Medicaid fraud was voided unanimously last week by an appeals court, has charged that he had been a victim of lynching and the misuse of power and said that he would file a $10 million suit against the office of District Attorney Nicholas Ferraro of Queens.

Chicago, Ill. — A Southside minister appealed Thursday to the local NAACP, the Chicago Urban League and six other civil rights groups to come to the aid of Charles Lee White, an unemployed factory worker, who is facing a stiff jail term for his efforts to dramatize the plight of the jobless poor.

Milwaukee, Wis. — Federal security officers used chemical mace to eject about 40 loudly chanting demonstrators who tried to force their way into an outpatient waiting room at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Wood Wednesday afternoon.

Calling the hospital a "butcher shop" and a "ripoff", the demonstrators organized by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War - Winter Soldier Organization had picketed for about 20 minutes in driving snow outside the east door of the hospital before entering a small foyer that was stocked with about a dozen guards.

Milwaukee, Wis. — One of the two Black candidates for judgeships emerged a winner in last Tuesday's election.

Harold B. Jackson, Jr., who ran unopposed, collected about 82,000 votes to retain his seat in Circuit Court, Branch 18. Jackson, 35, was appointed to the seat by Gov. Lucey last November. He is the first Black elected judge in Wisconsin history.

Balks At New Muhammad Leadership

In an article published in the New York Amsterdam News a copy of which was sent to the Bystander for publication states:

Three days after the Honorable Elijah Muhammad was buried in Chicago's Mount Glenwood Cemetery, his grandson told the Amsterdam News that the late leader of the Black Muslims "did not groom or name" his 41 year old uncle, Wallace D. Muhammad, as successor to the Nation of Islam's highest post.

The man who telephoned the Amsterdam News, identified himself as Herbert Muhammad, Jr., son of Casius Clay's manager, Herbert Muhammad, I was a personal aide and attendant to my grandfather for six months prior to his death, he said.

Maude White Appeals Adverse Ruling Of Rights Commission

Complaining that the Iowa Civil Rights Commission was in error when it dismissed her complaint against the office of Planning and Programming for the State of Iowa wherein she alleged she was discriminated against based on sex and race, Maude White filed an action in the Polk County District Court seeking back pay from the time that her position as associate planner was taken from her.

The petition states that a complaint was filed with the Civil Rights Commission on October 8, 1971 and was notified of the decision on March 1, 1975.

The petition states that she adequately and faithfully performed the duties assigned to her; that the administrators failed to adequately assign and make a donation to help screen for sickle cell anemia and to purchase films and other educational material to inform the public about the dreaded disease. That evening we expect to hear from Governor Ray and other state governmental and health officials.

So remember April 13th, Sunday... 10:30 P.M. to 12:00 P.M. ... KSO (1460) Black Awareness.

Move To Clarify Procedure; Helps State With Case Load

Responding to a request from the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights the ordinance governing its operation and procedure was amended by the Des Moines City Council at a meeting Monday Night. The request was made chiefly because of the requirements placed against all cities in the state which have established a Human Rights Commission by the case of Cedar Rapids Human Rights Commission v. The Cedar Rapids School District. That case spelled out for the first time in precise detail the Iowa Supreme Court's view of the requirements placed by state law upon local Human Rights Commissions in Iowa.

The principal changes in the ordinance are as follows:

Jurisdiction

The Commission is that its area of coverage widen to include both discrimination by reason of age and discrimination by reason of disability. The Iowa State Legislature has enacted legislation broadening Iowa civil rights statutes to include age and disability.

Judicial review

The case of Cedar Rapids Human Rights Commission v. Cedar Rapids School District, 222 N.W. 2d 391, requires that local human rights ordinances be written to permit judicial review of Commission decisions. In order to do so, any final action of the Des Moines Commission must be in such form that it is reviewable in a court of law. Up until now, the Des Moines Commission has issued findings after hearing which have not been reviewable; the rewritten ordinance makes those findings enforceable and therefore subject to judicial review.

Procedure

Presently, a committee of the Commission has operated as an investigative body which would preliminarily review the staff investigator's file and determine if a preliminary finding of discrimination is warranted; thereafter, the Commission as a whole has heard the case. Many cases may be conciliated or adjudicated in more timely and equitable manner through the use of an investigating commissioner, who will be a single member of the Commission assigned to a case, to investigate in coordination with the staff. That investigating commissioner will make the initial finding on the question of discrimination, but if the matter goes to public hearing will not serve on the Commission on a case which he or she has investigated. This system will provide for a higher degree of understanding of the cases, will facilitate the whole investigative process, and will provide for increased equity as compared to the present system.

Deferral

In a move to decrease an ever expanding backlog and to allow local commissions an opportunity to administratively handle local problems, the Iowa Legislature passed legislation providing for deferral from the Iowa Civil Rights Commission to local commissions throughout the state. This legislation will allow the Iowa Civil Rights Commission to enter into memorandums of understanding which will provide an avenue for all local cases to be deferred to the particular local commission. They agree that the present backlog of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission is not in the best interest of either complainant or respondent. The Des Moines Human Rights Commission is recognized at both the state and federal level for its performance in the administrative investigation of complaints, and acting as a deferral agency would be in no way a detriment to the positive intent of the deferral legislation.

The ordinance was passed by a vote of six to one, Russell Levine was the decenter.

America Needs To Get Out Of Southeast Asia

Everyday, it becomes more certain that America backed the wrong horse in Southeast Asia with the result that roofs are caving in in every direction.

Laying aside what has gone on before, we must take stock and decide where we are headed from now on. The air lift of orphans is the most pitiful blow America has suffered for years and its humanitarian action can only soothe its conscience. Speaking of the airlift of orphans, Dr. Ruth Lord, a noted physiologist of Miami Florida, said, "MANY Americans are prompted by compassion and love to seek a Vietnamese child but others are driven by guilt, glamor and emotional problems."

Of course, this situation is no fault of the children and something had to be done to protect their lives.

I have long since felt that further aid to Southeast Asia and Cambodia is useless. If they were unable to stop the hoards from the north will all the material we left upon our departure, there is little hope that they will do any better with a few dollars more. And this in spite of the fact that the invaders are less than 50 miles from Saigon.

It is reported there are 6000 Americans in Southeast Asia. It is almost a forgone conclusion that they must eventually learn to live with the Communist or leave the country. This is evident by the presence of U.S. Marines and a compliment of war material to protect them should they be forced to leave.

This, of course, poses a serious situation for when the blow comes our men may find it necessary to use force to protect their departure and thus another chance for involvement.

Of course, even with the the pity engendered by the baby lift, the American people will oppose any fighting by its forces in Southeast Asia, but protecting Americans, who may be forced to leave Saigon, poses a very serious problem.

The Voting Rights Act Should Be Extended

The Voting Rights Act passed by Congress 1965 and extended to 1970 in several designated states of the South, has provided an opportunity for every citizen in those areas to register and vote expires in August 1975. It grew out of the continued practice of several states to intimidate voters and enforce rules that practically disfranchised them. Since the passage of the Voting Rights Act, Negroes have been elected to office, including members of Congress, mayors, sheriffs and other lesser offices which had not been true since the turn of the century. Congressional delegations in these states are opposed to the extension of the law.

Clarence Mitchell, legislative representative of the NAACP in Washington who is well acquainted with the situation, told the Senate committee that conditions had improved but the objectives were far from being fully accomplished.

The National Civil Rights Commission also says that the law should be extended.

The people of these states can put an end to the violation of rights of those citizens who are prevented from voting and thus make continuation of this law unnecessary. Until that time it should be extended.

Advertising In The Black Media

Speaking before the American Association of Advertising Agencies in Puerto Rico, Vernon Jordan, executive director of Urban League, said, "the survival of Black Media, the continued life of an essential Black institution and the ability of 25 million people to communicate with each other is at stake" and called upon the advertising industry to double its expenditures in the Black media.

For years, advertising agencies sold business on the theory that any advertising in other than the daily press or large magazines (later radio and TV) was a duplication of circulation and a waste of money. This theory has been exploded in that weekly newspaper, class papers and the like are read closely and their readers give more attention to the advertising which appears in them. The industry has further concluded that advertising in minority newspapers is a valuable gesture of goodwill and spends a part of its advertising dollar among these newspapers.

Actually, some advertisers put a coupon in the newspapers for a few issues directed toward some insignificant item expecting their coffers to be filled with money from this source.

While extremely important, the people who need to save give little attention to coupons. Industry needs to create goodwill among its customers and one of the time honored successful means of doing so is by advertising.

Selective Service System

President Ford signed Proclamation 4360 dated March 29, 1975, which changes the method by which young men, both citizens and aliens, fulfill their obligation to register under the provisions of the Military Selective Service Act. The termination of existing registration procedures became effective April 1, 1975.

H. J. Fleischacker, State Director of Selective Service, said planning is under way for a new registration procedure. The requirement to register is still in full force and effect, and only the method of registration will be changed. Mr. Fleischacker explained that planning centered around a once-a-year registration period of a few days in which young men born in a given year would be required to present themselves for registration.

TO: THE EDITOR

School boards, administrators, and teachers are all in agreement that the Iowa teachers' continuing contract law needs to be improved.

However, the revision just passed by the Iowa Senate (Senate File 205) is a special interest bill giving tenure to teachers without providing local school boards the authority to make complete and necessary staffing decisions. The bill as it stands is not in the best interests of Iowa citizens and their schools.

As passed by the Senate the proposed law severely limits the reasons for which teacher contracts may be terminated. It would take from local school boards, who are elected by the local citizens, the final authority for teacher contract termination, and place this authority in the hands of an outside arbitrator; and it does not deal uniformly with all certificated employees.

I urge you and your readers to consult with local school board members and administrators in order to become aware of the inadequacies of the proposed law, and to immediately request your legislators to vote down or substantially revise the bill as passed by the Senate.

Yours truly,
Keith E. O'Connell, President
Iowa Association of School Administrators

Veterans Administration

Q — I am a World War II veteran with barely enough income to live on. Am I eligible for a Veterans Administration pension?

A — VA pensions are based on need and nonservice-connected disability. Veterans 65 years of age and older are considered disabled for purposes of eligibility for VA pension and need not furnish medical evidence of disability. Your income may not exceed $3,000 a year, if single, and $4,200 if there are dependents.

Q — Because of a severe service-connected disability, the Veterans Administration says I'll be eligible after discharge from the Army for a $25,000 grant toward purchase of a specially-adapted home. Are such homes exempt from state real estate taxes?

A — Many states provide relief from taxes. You should check with your local VA regional office for tax exemptions in your state.

Q — After I'm discharged from military service, I'd like to become a physician's assistant. Which Veterans Administration hospitals may I apply to for training?

A — Apply to any college or university of your choice, then contact the nearest VA regional office if you would like to train under the GI Bill. VA hospitals provide clinical training to students enrolled in physician's assistant programs of colleges and universities.

Rock Island Lauded For Its Integration

This article by Ted Watson appeared in the Chicago Defender April 5th. Since the life of the Rock Island Railroad hangs in the balance and that its operation is of great importance to Iowa the article is printed herewith:

Despite the current dilemma stalking the financial-troubled Rock Island railroad, it appears that the Dining Car Employees may benefit from a decision by Federal Judge Frank J. McGarr appointing Atty. William M. Gibbons, of the Loop law firm Moses, Gibbons, Abramson and Fox, trustee of the road.

Cecil L. Patrick, general chairman, Dining Car Employees, Local 849, expressed a fine outlook for future employment of members of his organization, coupled with 17 other unions comprised of

"During that time," Patrick said, "many waiters and cooks who had been hit by furloughs, were sitting home, drawing full salaries, which was objected to by the rail firms which approached the union for a solution."

Holding fast to pre-agreed union employment rules, officials of five unions in the non-operating groups, made a Job Protection Mediation agreement, on Feb. 7, 1965 in the

On Monday evening, April 14, the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network and four Iowa radio stations will conduct an experimental "tele radio-cast." At 7 pm that night IEBN will present "Aggression: The Explosive Emotion," the second in a series of five mental health programs entitled "The Thin Edge." "The Thin Edge" has been termed by authorities as "the most ambitious attempt ever at mass mental health education." The series examines the five conditions of depression, anxiety, guilt, aggression and sexuality and the fine line, psychiatrists believe, between mental health and mental illness.

"We're going to examine what medicine knows about the five conditions, what treatments are available and what preventive skills can be brought to bear by us, the public, to avoid going over 'the thin edge,'" said series producer host David Prowitt.

Immediately following the televised program the participating radio stations will continue the mental health theme by offering listeners a chance to phone-in

BLACKS IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Blacks are involved in the auto industry all the way from the foundry, up along the assembly line, and into new car dealerships. At top is Porterfield Wilson, a Pontiac dealer in Detroit. He is one of more than 75 black new car dealers throughout the country. Below, two blacks are on the assembly line helping to put together a new Ford Mustang II. Auto purchases help to maintain black employment and other progress in the auto industry and allied fields.

Roots Of Blacks Go Deep In Most Auto Industry

Detroit, Mich. March 31 — (Special for NNPA) — The roots of black America in the auto industry pre-dates this period of job problems.

Talk to any of the oldtimers here and they will tell you that Henry Ford, Sr. recruited blacks during his struggle with organized labor in the thirties. Blacks went into the plants with incomes far beyond what many had ever hoped for.

At that time, Ford had a special relationship with five black churches: Second Baptist, pastored by the Rev. H. L. Brady; Bethel AME, pastored by the Rev. William Peck; St. Stephens AME, the Rev. C.A. Howell; St. Matthews Episcopal, Fr. Daniels and Hartford Avenue Baptist, the Rev. Charles Hill.

Oldtimers say Ford workers attended these churches and if their dues weren't paid on time, they were nudged to pay up by the plant. Such operations are a far cry from today's market where General Motors, alone has a top of 36 black dealers from a low of two less than 10 years ago.

Both Ford and Chrysler have ongoing programs involving blacks as well. In a pamphlet entitled "General Motors and a Better Today," the corporation points out that it has chiefted "significant results in many areas of concern to minority groups and women ..."

GM proudly points to its minority suppliers, a position echoed by both Ford and Chrysler. In terms of insurance needs, GM utilizes black agencies for property damage, paying premiums totaling $1.5 million. In addition other minority insurance firms reinsure $300 million of GM employee group life insurance.

Henry Ford, II, has taken the initiative in a project, designed to rejuvenate downtown Detroit. This is being done in the face of some businessmen who view with alarm the increasing number of blacks in this city and its chief executive in the person of Mayor Coleman Young.

Buy New Cars

In terms of buying new cars now, the industry proposes a number of items that is called "persuasive" over and beyond the special rebate program.

A new car saves all of the money you will have to spend on tires, shocks, brakes and repairs to keep the old bus running.

New maintenance schedules can save you hundreds of dollars. Spark plug life is longer, so are lubrication and oil change intervals.

Dowling Seniors Go South

On Friday, March 28th, about 77 seniors packed their suntan lotion, beach towels, pillows and rubber duckies and headed for Coco Beach, Florida. For less than $150.00 a person couldn't have asked for a better vacation. The trip entailed five days at Coco Beach, where getting up at 6:00 a.m. to swim and hunt seashells was not at all a rarity. Also we stayed two days in Orlando, Fla. where the students went to the beautiful Cypress Gardens and to Walt Disney World.

For ten hours we experienced a totally different world filled with Disney characters, crystal mosaics depicting well known cartoons, birds of foreign lands, warm weather and a lot of very friendly people.

Like the old saying goes, all good things must come to an end. We had a two day bus ride ahead of us and everyone was pretty well worn out. As we pulled into Des Moines, there was a sigh of relief to be home and a lot of sad faces because the vacation was over.

Social Security and Medicare

QUESTION: My husband died a couple of years ago and I was only 51 years old at the time and have no children. I was told that I could not qualify for any monthly widow's check because I was not at least 60 years old. This didn't bother me then because I was still working and had a good income. Now, I am 53 and have become disabled so that I can't work any longer. What now?

ANSWER: If you are disabled to the extent that you cannot continue in gainful employment, you should contact your Social Security Office right away and file a claim for disability benefits. You might be entitled to draw Social Security either on your own record or on the record of your deceased husband. The folks at the Social Security Office will advise you on which is more advantageous.

BETHEL A.M.E. CHURCH NEWS

God has bestowed many blessings on Bethel African Methodist Episcopal during the month of March. It has been a very spiritual uplifting and celebrating period. First, through God's benevolence, Bethel has now purchased a 54-passenger bus. It is to be used in the church's Outreach Program of bringing people to Christ.

Secondly, the Senior Citizens Nutritional Program located at Bethel A.M.E. Church held its first anniversary celebration. Over 120 people attended including the mayor of Davenport and various other dignitaries. Those involved in the program are now numbering the highest ever.

During the Easter celebration Bethel participated in various spiritual commitments. The church is one of the seven churches composing the AME Ministerial Fellowship of the Quad Cities Area. that delivered the Seven Last Words on Good Friday. The combined congregations met at St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church in Moline, Ill. On Easter morning Sunrise Service was held with Progressive Baptist Church. Rev. Wright preached the sermon entitled "Early in the Morning". That Sunday afternoon the Sunday School present its annual Easter Program to a capacity filled audience.

Bethel is now preparing to attend its District Conference to be held in Clinton, Iowa from April 16-17th. Rev. Wright will be conducting a workshop at the conference.

Senate Report

The Senate passed three important bills last week. A bill relating to terminating of teachers' contracts drew the most debate and controversy. The present Iowa law regarding teacher contracts does not provide any due process protection for teachers who are fired. There have been instances of teachers being fired in front of their class and other cases where teachers were fired and not given any reason. These problems have arisen primarily in smaller districts of the state rather than in the urban areas. There is a tendency for some boards to still feel that they should be able to control the personal lives of teachers.

The bill provides that a superintendent must give written notice of termination to a teacher. It must explain the reasons for the termination. Then the teacher may appeal to the school board. If the school board's action is unfavorable, the teacher may appeal to an arbitrator selected by the teacher and the board. The arbitrator would review whether the termination was for just cause, such as incompetency, failure to perform contracted duties or staff reduction. The arbitrator can also review whether the procedure was properly followed. The bill provides for a two year probationary period for new teachers.

On the balance, I think this is a good bill for, like many compromises, neither the teachers nor the administration are entirely satisfied with the bill.

The "right to serve" bill passed the Senate 26-21. I supported the bill. The idea of the bill is to allow any person to run for elective office without fear of losing his or her job. However, to protect small employers, the bill applies only to those who employ 25 or more people. It provides that a leave of absence would be granted to a person during the term of his or her elective service. The bill has some shortcomings which I think should be corrected in the House, including the need to cover candidates. Some protection against the loss of key people may be needed.

A bill to regulate strip mining in Iowa passed with little debate. Nevertheless, it is a significant measure to require that strip mining operations provide for reclamation of the land.

Earl M. Willits
State Senator

Understanding Life Insurance

Many people's life insurance package is based solely on the insurance that they have on the job. Normally it is for a minimal amount, which if the person should die, would offer supplemental coverage. The rate is very low, but you get nothing while you live, with this contract. I think the correct name of this insurance should be death insurance because you have to die in order to get anything from it. You have no cash values nor loan values. A very important point is that you don't own the policy and are at the mercy of your employer or union. They can change the premium, change insuring companies, or the face value of the policy. If you change jobs your insurance does not follow. You generally must qualify for new insurance. There is normally a stated amount of time in which you would not have insurance. Evidence of insurability is seldom required.

The cost of group insurance is considerably less than the cost of whole life insurance. The administration cost is lower because a group policy with 100 people requires the same amount of people to administer it as would be required by one. A substantial portion of the cost of the group insurance is bore by the employer. You do not get the master policy when you enroll in a group plan. The master policy stays with the employer. Many states require that the company issue individual certificates with all the pertinent information on it. (Amount of protection, beneficiary and basic provisions of the contract). Generally most companies hand out an announcement book which explains how the program works.

Reinstated As Apprentice

Luther Fulbright

The first time Luther Fulbright was selected by the Sheet Metal Workers Joint Apprenticeship Committee was in 1971. Because of lack of work and an excess of apprentices already in their program the J.A.C. did not start him on the job until the spring of 1973. Then, after going to work for the Waldinger Corporation he had his parole revoked and his apprenticeship was nullified.

On March 21, 1975, Luther was again paroled and after contacting the local Sheet Metal Workers he was asked to appear before their committee on March 24. After consulting with Luther, his Parole Agent, Apprenticeship Outreach personnel and the Waldinger Corporation, it was decided to reinstate him. Luther went back to work on Tuesday morning, March 25, 1975 after having been released only five days.

It is felt that actions such as described above should be made known to the public and that acknowledgement should be made to the following for their efforts in getting Luther reinstated:

The Sheet Metal Workers, Local 45 and their Joint Apprenticeship Committee.

The Waldinger Corporation.
The Parole and Probation Officers, Iowa State Department of Social Services.

The Des Moines Apprenticeship Outreach Program.

All of the above organizations have a desire to see Luther become a competent craftsman who will be a credit to his family and his community. Luther says that he is satisfied with the way people have accepted him, and he can now adjust himself to society.

sports

By Allen Ashby

We finally got the college basketballs put away for another year, and we know who is the best wrestling team in college mat games. So we go to track and other spring outdoor sports. Baseball, tennis, track and the rest. I don't know how many blacks are playing baseball at either Drake, Iowa State or Iowa. There have been a few playing at Iowa. I can't recall any at Iowa State, although I am sure there must have been one or two. Drake had what I think was just about the first black player on a major state school. Charley Howard played first base for the Bulldogs back in the early twenties or late teens. He must have been pretty good, because Drake was willing to forfeit a game at St. Louis University if Charley couldn't play. So he played, and being a good hitter, said he swung at anything that came near the plate because it was a strike anyway.

In tennis, we have a local fellow at number four, and maybe he will raise his ranking before the year is out. Mark Morrow holds down that spot, and I am not sure how he stands in won and lost matches, but I think he has won more in doubles than he has lost, at least. Has there been anybody on Drake's or Iowa State's tennis team? I don't believe I can remember anyone on either. Paul Williams could have had a chance to make the Drake tennis team, but he was born too soon, and never got a chance to even try out for it. There have been a few black players on tennis teams in small colleges around the state, but not in the larger schools. Be interesting to see how Mark does in the conference.

Then there is always the big slug of blacks in track, and this year is no exception. But, do you know, there are quite a few fellows from places like Kenya and Nigeria and such who are moping up on American tracks. It has got down to the high school level. A fellow named Korick of Cedar Rapids seems to be the middle distance man to beat in the prep school meets. I think these fellows train harder and don't have too many distractions so they get tough in the competition. Maybe our guys could learn something from them. Maybe that is a reason why I want to see some of the high school meets coming up.

What Shall We Do?

Now there is talk of North High pulling out of the Metro Conference at least in football because they have only enough students for a three A rating while the rest of the schools will be four A. I may be wrong, but I just can't see all those different classifications in any other sport. I can see it may be in football where a school like Dowling with a forty man squad might wear down a twenty five man group. But, when you stop to consider UCLA with six men playing that big, muscular Kentucky team, you have to realize that the key to the whole problem is conditioning. In basketball, I can see no reason why a school with five hundred boys can't hold its own with the bigger schools. Personally, I would rather be playing for the state championship than the class A or Class AA title. And I would think my team would feel like they had accomplished something if they won that big one. My five guys would be in condition so they could go the distance against anybody. And it would be the same in football. Of course, in that game they have taken away some of the things that made the little squad have a chance against the big school. For instance, the games are played on artificial turf pretty often. There is nothing like a muddy, wet field to equalize things. If your boys have learned how to handle themselves on such a field, they can play with anybody.

Track

Now what makes anybody think that a boy from a small school can't run as fast or jump as far as a kid from one of the larger schools? They all have the same physical equipment, and I know I would much rather have a medal that proclaimed me the state champ in the hundred yard dash against the whole state than one that said I was the best class AA sprinter. I know that dividing the schools into these various groups gets more boys and maybe girls into the competition, and also makes more meets so they can take in more money. What if schools out of Cedar Rapids and Des Moines begin sending girls teams to the state meet? Will they divide them into these groups? The first girls team from a larger city lost to a school that maybe didn't have as many people in the school as the Cedar Rapids team did out for basketball, and that didn't affect the play of the smaller school. One could go on like this forever, but I think you see my point.

office of the U.S. Secretary of Labor. Among the groups were the Railway and Steamship, Maintenance of Way, Hotel and Waiters, and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen.

To get the Dining Car Waiters to agree, it had to be necessary for the work classification to be one of elevation and higher pay in order to promote integration.

Because of his unionized mediation development, Rock Island, according to Patrick, became and still is one of the best integrated railroad companies in the country.

"On the other hand," Patrick recalled, "when the dining car roster became exhausted of available employees, I prevailed upon the railroads to hire more blacks from the streets."

This, Patrick said, was a successful move and was one of the motivating factors in his struggle with general chairmen of other unions to save the Rock Island and its 10,500 employees.

Atty. Gibbons says: "I have every intention of making Rock Island work." He was mindful of the help given by the Rock Island employees in recent weeks and hopes they will continue to be alert to the need for efficiency and for hard work.

Simpson College News & Events

Lecture & Film

The location of two events scheduled in connection with the Dunn Library open house Apr. 20 at Simpson College has been changed.

The slide-lecture presentation entitled "George Washington Carver Discovered His Life's Work in Iowa" at 6:30 p.m. and the film, "Ace of Hearts," at 8 p.m., will be presented in Camp Lounge of the Brenton Student Center instead of the Library.

Both events are open free to the public.

To Attend

Summer Seminars

Two members of the Simpson College faculty have been selected to participate in National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Seminars.

They are Dr. Owen Duncan, assistant professor of history, and Dr. Robert Gieber, assistant professor and head of the department of foreign language, culture and linguistics.

Dr. Duncan will participate in a seminar on "The Anglo-American Connection Before the American Revolution" under Dr. Carl B. Cone at the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Dr. Gieber has been selected to join a seminar on "The Medieval World View" taught by Dr. Edward Grant at Indiana University in Bloomington.

Both professors will have the opportunity to pursue personal study of their own choosing in addition to the seminars.

Each will receive a stipend of $2,000 plus a $250 housing and travel allowance.

The purpose of the summer seminar program is to give college teachers an opportunity to work with distinguished scholars in their fields at major universities. The seminars are intended for teachers in the smaller private and state colleges and in the two-year colleges who are concerned primarily with improving their knowledge of the subjects they teach.

Apr. 24-25 — Art Days which will include a variety of activities planned to give prospective students an overview of art instruction at Simpson, and

May 1 — Law Day, which is being presented as a cooperative effort by Simpson and the Warren County Bar Association in conjunction with National Law Day to present Simpson's criminal justice program of study.

Resides joining in specific activities planned by the department, prospective students will be able to participate in any special events scheduled for the general student body at the time of the open houses.

Persons enrolling in any of the two-day sessions will be provided free room and meals with college students.
