Drake University to Honor Six Distinguished Alumni

National News Briefs

Atlanta, Georgia—For the third time in five weeks, the offices of the Institute of the Black World, Atlanta, Georgia, have been burglarized. During the night of April 14, thieves entered the 87 Chestnut St. office, stole five electric typewriters (three on loan from IBM) and again rummaged through file cabinets and desk drawers. The two previous burglaries occurred.

Washington, D.C.—Five more Blacks have been elected to serve on the Democratic National Committee, marking the second time under Chairman Robert S. Strauss that the party has added such a large number. The names of the five, Hazel Dukes of New York City; Pearl Carey of Seaside, California; Evelyn Richardson of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Mayor Maynard Jackson of Atlanta, Georgia and Anna Scott of Urbana, Illinois, were introduced at the party's recent meeting held in Washington, D.C.

Chicago, Ill.—A 2-year-old Southside tot was fatally wounded in the head Thursday morning by his 12-year-old playmate, as the two boys were apparently playing "cops and robbers," homicide investigators said.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A virtual red tape circus, involving mainly Blacks, is holding up a one million dollar federally financed Black business project in Brooklyn, with the million dollars lying in the Freedom National Bank.

The greatest concern of outsiders not directly involved in the money is that the Federal Government will call back the money and kill the fight among themselves.

Kankakee, Ill.—Chicago butcher W.C. Sims won $300,000 Thursday in the Bonanza drawing of the Illinois State Lottery and, with broad grins but few words, began planning how to slice it.

Chicago, Ill.—More than 6,000 black men and women will be taking the Civil Service examination Saturday with high hopes of becoming Chicago police officers.

Healthline

"Healthline" is now over 18 months old! Started in September, 1973, Des Moines' first phone-in-health information service has had over 72,000 calls. In 1974, over 40,000 people in Greater Des Moines listened to Healthline.

Every Friday afternoon, the Healthline message is changed. One week it may be on the flu, the next on high blood pressure, etc. If one message does not appeal to you, maybe the next one will.

By listening to Healthline you will learn about health subjects that are of current interest. The "Healthline Habit" is a good habit and it's easy to get: just dial 282-5235 once a week, every week — and benefit by what you will learn.

Social Security

QUESTION: I understand the Social Security Administration provides Supplemental Security Income disability benefits to people who have never worked under social security. Do the social security taxes which workers pay have to be used for these benefits too?

ANSWER: No. All Supplemental Security Income payments come out of taxes collected through general revenues.

QUESTION: I received social security disability benefits but had to wait 5 months to start receiving the checks. Does everyone have to wait 5 months to receive checks?

ANSWER: Yes, under the Social Security Act, any disabled worker is required to wait 5 full months before he can receive monthly disability benefits.

QUESTION: I receive social security benefits on behalf of my retarded brother. Does social security have any kind of account book I can use to keep a record of his benefits?

ANSWER: You can get a free copy of "Social Security Representative Payee Account Book" at any social security office. This 12-page booklet is designed for people responsible for social security benefits paid to them on behalf of another person. You can use it to record your brother's income and how it is used.

QUESTION: My mother is going to apply for supplemental security income payments, but she needs financial help right away. Is there some place she can get immediate assistance?

ANSWER: When your mother applies for supplemental security income, she should tell the people at the social security office that she needs immediate financial help. Under certain conditions, an advance payment of up to $100 can be made. In addition, the social security representative may be able to refer her to a State agency for assistance during the time her application is being processed.

Ruth McQuerry Retires

After 32 years of service in DMGH's housekeeping department, Ruth McQuerry retired on March 6.

In all these 32 years, Mrs. McQuerry has seen DM General grow from a "little old building" to the four-story, 145-bed building it now is. The small, quiet woman, who was 68 years old on March 21, remembers when the housekeeping department consisted of only four girls.

"I'd never worked in a hospital before," said Mrs. McQuerry, "but I learned enough to become supervisor of the housekeeping department for 25 years, from 1949-74."

During these years as a housekeeper, Mrs. McQuerry came to know just about every employee in the hospital.

One employee who came to know Mrs. McQuerry quite well was Elise Saunders, OR technician.

"Ruth is a very nice person—I mean this from the bottom of my heart," said Mrs. Saunders.

"In the 32 years I have known her, she has tried to be of help to everyone in the hospital."

Mrs. McQuerry was honored by fellow employees at a two-hour open house in the student library on March 6. Mrs. McQuerry was presented with several gifts, including a silver serving tray. Housekeeping workers Opal Starling and Lillian Kurschinski and executive housekeeper Betty Turner spoke of Mrs. McQuerry's faithful years of service.

Mrs. McQuerry said that her biggest regret about retiring was that she would miss all her friends, but she was looking forward to resting.

Mrs. McQuerry plans to spend her free time growing flowers and singing in the St. Paul's AME Choir, to which she has belonged for 12 years.

Mrs. McQuerry, a native of Heidelberg, Miss., lives with her brother, Grady Jones, and a nephew, Louis L. Barrow, in Des Moines.

Two Black Included In North Viet Nam Tour

Four American teachers, two of them black, have just concluded a 10-day visit to North Vietnam arranged by the American Friends Service Committee. The tour, part of continued efforts by the Quaker organization for reconciliation with the Vietnamese people, included schools and other educational facilities.

One of the blacks, J. Marshall Rogers Jr., a high school instructor from Durham, N.C., was named U.S. National Teacher of the Year in 1972. He teaches social science and human relations at a Durham high school. He visited the Ministries of Education in addition to teachers and schools in 1973 in Egypt, Lebanon, Israel, Greece and Cyprus, and gave many lectures upon his return to the United States.

Sara Boyd, the other black, lives in Stanford, Calif. She is a public school counselor at Palo Alto. Also, she is active in relation to other schools and counseling services in the San Francisco Bay area and has worked on civil rights and other educational and public issues.

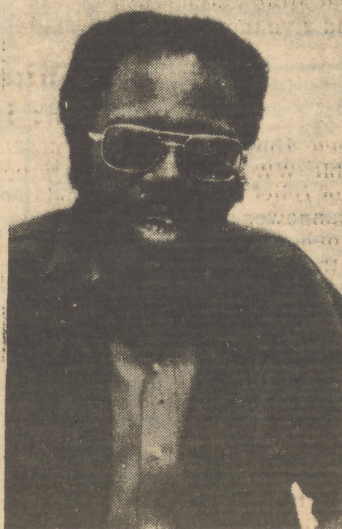

Other AFSC efforts in North Vietnam include shipment of $50,000 worth of critically needed copybooks for school children. Future projects will provide a variety of supplies for a Hanoi high school near Kham Thien Street, an area that was carpet bombed by B-52's in 1972, and will set up machinery shops for handicapped people of the Kham Thien Street community who were injured in the bombings.

AFSC Executive Secretary Louis Schneider, who visited North Vietnam last summer, stated: "Visits to schools and with school children and teachers can provide opportunity to demonstrate personal friendship and concern for reconciliation between the Vietnamese and American people.

Ms. Sara Boyd

Marshall Rogers, Jr.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

"Don't Settle for One Without the Other," was the title of Reverend Carlotta Turner's message last Sunday. We must not be content to settle for salvation without the assurance of having it. We are most apt to fall away from God unless we know for sure that we are His children.

Sunday evening services were blessed to have Reverend George Turner and Reverend Williamson as the speakers. We were told how to discern a true Christian from a false Christian. A true Christian will have the love of God planted deep within for all to see.

Our visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Buster Atwood, Mr. Clarence Harper, Mr. Clifford Hobbs, Mr. Alvin Hobbs, Mr. Charlie Williamson, Mr. Larry Salisbury, and Mr. Lawrence Speck. It was a blessing to see so many helping us praise the Lord.

Sunday school is at 10:30 with services at 11:30. The Life of Christ is every Sunday evening at 7:00. Prayer meeting is Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. We are fully in the Spirit of God's love and wish to share with all who come in His name.

"Tribute to Mother's" 1975

Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church will give tribute's to all Mother's both living and deceased.

This program was such an overwhelming success last year until we had no choice but to present it again this year. We found out how much honoring Mother, actually mean to most people.

Bethel will have as their guest the two most popular choirs in Des Moines, the Senior Choir of Kyles A.M.E. Zion Church and also the Young adult choir of Kyles. Mrs. Mary Lee Chambers is the directress of both, abely assisted by Mrs. Spriggs. The reverend Joseph H. Jones is the pastor of Kyles and it was his graciousness that made it possible for these fine choirs to be with us. The inimitable Mr. Irvin White will render a reading as only Mr. White can.

SINGING

PREACHING

Rev. Henry I. Thomas
Host Minister

Beginning the first of the year 1975, at St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church, a marvelous phenomenon was established between Union Baptist Church and St. Paul. The impact of this Christian Covenant, between the two faiths, was so great that reverberations were felt throughout the city of Des Moines! Never before have there been so many Christians together singing praises to God and enjoying good fellowship and good food! Rev. Henry I. Thomas brought his entire congregation with him, including his Senior Choir, the H. I. Thomas Singers, Youth Choir, and the New Creations, all under the direction of their Minister of Music, the lovely Mrs. Evelyn Thomas. The electrifying message that the most magnetic Rev. Thomas delivered at St. Paul A.M.E. Church was very challenging.

Two Faiths
Connected
By God!

Rev. Robert G. Clay
Guest Minister

Now, on April 27, the second burst of glorious worship will unfold at Union Baptist Church! The distinctively provocative Pastor Robert G. Clay, and his people have been invited to Union! He is bringing with him the St. Paul Choir, the Richard Allen Chorus, the New Life Ensemble and the Cherub Choir, all joyfully praising God in song! Their Minister of Music, Mrs. Lauretta Reeves is unusually talented. The dynamic Rev. Robert G. Clay, will pour forth, in his own inimitable way, a glorious sermon entitled: "To Whom Shall We Go?" This program begins at 4:00 p.m. at which time Holy Communion will be served with Rev. Thomas and Rev. Clay as chief celebrants.

We recognize the excellence of these two outstanding young Ministers and the City of Des Moines is greatly benefited! Behind every successful man is a faithful woman. In this case they are, Mrs. Evelyn Thomas, a teacher in the public school system and the charming Mrs. Patrick Ann Clay, a Christian Social worker.

We expect a marvelous turnout for this grand occasion with people from other churches of the City.

Chairladies are Mrs. Mary Parker and Mrs. Dolores Clayvon.

Busses will leave St. Paul Church at 12:45 a.m. Dinner is being served at Union beginning at 1:00 o'clock.

RHS Grade. of '26 Achieved Many Accomplishments

By Pam Spencer

Theodore Roosevelt High School graduated its first black student on June of 1926. She was Mrs. Marguerite Cothorn.

While attending Roosevelt, she was a member of the orchestra, the Music Honor Society, and the National Honor Society. She also won a silver "R" for Girls Declamatory work.

During her life she has accomplished a great deal. She attended Drake University from 1926-1930 in Des Moines. That is where she received her BA degree with 3 years of Liberal Arts, and one year of Law school.

Mrs. Cothorn served as a probation officer, at the Polk County Juvenile Court. During this time she was able to obtain her MA degree, her major was sociology and her minor was psychology. Attending evening and summer classes allowed her to work and go to school.

Several positions that Mrs. Cothorn held between 1933 and 1965 include a case worker, with the Baltimore Emergency Relief Commission; acting director of the Negro Community Center in Des Moines; director of the Booker T. Washington Center in Rockford, Illinois; and a Social Worker.

Mrs. Cothorn was the Executive Secretary, with the Council of Social Agencies. At this particular time she informed me that she was the only black person in the United States with this director position.

In 1973, she received a award for "Outstanding Leadership in Black Community". The men who selected her for this award are Monroe Colston, James Bowman, Silas Ewing, William Cropp, Nolden Gentry, John Estes Jr., and Edward Easley.

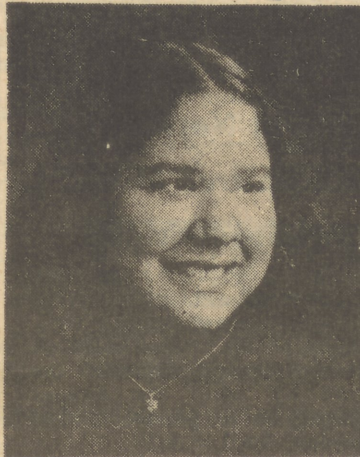

Mrs. Cothorn received the Drake University Distinguished

Alumni Award, in 1974. She was the fourth black person to be chosen for this award.

Mrs. Cothorn has one son John, who is married with a son of his own, and is stationed in Vientaini, Laos. He is with the US Agency for International Development.

She had this to say about the black kids of today, "Black kids need to train for areas of importance. So when the opportunity comes, they can be ready for them".

Mrs. Cothorn has accomplished much more than I have listed here. I attempted to give a general idea of just a few of the things that she has been involved in.

Graduation Hits Dowling

Its now just a few weeks away from graduation and the halls of Dowling are buzzing with sounds of joy, sadness and a mad rush to make a comeback in grades. A lot of seniors are dazed to the fact that they have actually made it through High school.

It all sounds too nice, no more teachers, no more homework, no grades to worry about, but is it? Graduation for some means an opening to a whole new world of freedom, to others, its a scary situation because for once in their life, they will have to make decisions on their own that will affect the rest of their lives.

To me, Graduation means the end of a lot of old friendships, the end of "Mom can you loan me a buck," and facing four years of Drake University.

Out of 45 seniors that I questioned, I found that the greater majority of them are college bound. Some on their way into marriage and the rest, "sluffin around for a while."

Any way the fact still exist. Graduation is on its way, unavoidable, happy, sad, daring and scary, but since it exist, take it as it comes and chalk it up for being the 12 strangest years of your life.

New TV series, Feeling Good

Dick Cavett will host the new FEELING GOOD series on health for adults beginning April 2 at 7 p.m. on the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (Channel 11, Des Moines; Channel 12, Iowa City; Channel 32, Waterloo; Channel 27, Sioux City).

Cavett says, "What attracts me to the show (besides hypochondria) is that the subject matter is vital in the original sense of the word. It tells people about real problems in a way that can improve-or even save lives."

FEELING GOOD TV's first attempt to motivate health behavior and provide health information on a sustained basis for an adult audience, was originally introduced as a 60-minute weekly series. It drew a measure of critical acclaim and a large number of calls and letters in response to informational segments, but the program's producers were disappointed with its overall impact.

In early January the Children's Television Workshop (CTW), makers of the series, announced the decision to withdraw the series and to restructure it in an attempt to strengthen the program's informational purpose and win greater audience impact.

Among the format changes made include: 30-minute programs and the decision to treat fewer topics, usually one or two per show in greater depth.

The subject matter will cover aspects of mental health, cancer, alcohol abuse, children's vision and hearing problems and other major preventable or controllable health problems that afflict large portions of the population.

The series will continue to use guest stars. In its first 11 programs FEELING GOOD featured Bill Cosby as a regular, and appearances by Helen Reddy, Johnny Cash, Pearl Bailey, and B. B. King among others.

FEELING GOOD will air on IEBN Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. and will be repeated on Tuesday evenings at 11:30 p.m.

WORLD

Ricky Williams

Ricky Williams is not exactly a household name. But he will be. A year and a half ago, 22-year-old Williams was an unknown blind musician. Today he is one of the country's few blind studio musicians and rising star at New York City's major recording studios.

His specialty is the Clavinet (an electronic keyboard instrument that sounds like the clavichord). In the past month he has been featured on sessions for seven top recording stars. You'll hear Williams' clavinet on new releases by Sister Sledge, Ben E. King, Peter Nero, Jereed Palmer, Ace Spectrum, Bette Midler and Martha Reeves, as well as the soon-to-be-released "Stevie Wonder Songbook."

Stevie Wonder referred Williams to Shel Freund, director of the Louis Braille Foundation, a national nonprofit organization that helps blind musicians. The Foundation set up music lessons for Williams, obtained instruments, had his original material copyrighted, had music transcribed into braille, and even gathered musicians and obtained engagements for Williams' own group, The Grande Union.

Freund introduced Williams to the production team of Bert DeCoteaux and Tony Silvester, who arranged his first session, dates.

Ricky also plays piano, organ, drums, saxophone, and sings. He spends a minimum of seven hours each day practicing, arranges all of his songs, composes and writes lyrics.

"If it wasn't for the Foundation," Williams says, "I wouldn't be here. They've worked wonders. They've helped show me where I want to go."

Choral Bell Ringers concert set for Sunday

The YMCA Choral Bell Ringers will present their annual spring concert Sunday, April 27, at 3 p.m. at the Valley High School auditorium. The group will handle 250 different bells during the hour long performance.

The 50 ringers are directed by Mr. and Mrs. Marlow Cowan of Ankeny and are sponsored by the YMCA. They can swing into folk music, comedy, serious and inspirational numbers with equal ease.

Samples of their jingling equipment are sleigh bells, saucer bells, octo melody bells, cricket bells, piccolo bells, cow bells, tea bells and tap bells. The young artists even have something for their listeners on a set of bicycle sprockets.

The group has recently returned from a successful tour of Disneyland in California and the Hawaiian Islands. They frequently travel 8,000 to 10,000 miles a year, presenting 50 to 70 concerts.

Nicotine Found In Urban Nonsmokers

"Virtually all urban nonsmokers have measurable amounts of nicotine in their body fluids throughout most of their lives," according to recent research findings of two British scientists.

In a report in the January 25 issue of Lancet, a medical journal published in London, Dr. M.A.H. Russell and Dr. C. Feyerabend discussed experimental studies which revealed measurable amounts of nicotine in the urine of nonsmokers.

The report observed, "It (nicotine) is derived from the indoor air they breathe and it requires no more than one or two smokers to contaminate a vehicle or building."

Though the amount was small relative to that measured in smokers, the doctors reported, "The fact that some nicotine appears to be present in the urine of almost all nonsmokers suggests that episodes of passive smoking are common in urban life."

Such "passive smoking" or breathing second-hand smoke occurs mainly in poorly ventilated or confined areas where people have been smoking.

Measles On The Upsurge

The measles epidemic in Iowa is on the upsurge after a brief decline in March, Commissioner of Public Health Norman L. Pawlewski announced today. In the first three months of 1975 more than 300 cases of measles were reported in the state of Iowa as compared with less than half that number reported for the entire 12 months of 1974. At this time last year, only seven cases of measles had been reported to the Iowa State Department of Health.

Measles epidemics have been reported in Floyd, Black Hawk, Mitchell, Howard, Polk, Pottawattamie, Warren and Greene counties and health officials fear the epidemic will continue through the school year.

According to Pawlewski, three groups of children should be vaccinated immediately. The first group includes those children who never have had measles or measles vaccine. The second group includes those who were given gammaglobulin along with their measles vaccine. "If it is not known whether gammaglobulin was given, children who were immunized before 1968 should be re-vaccinated," Pawlewski said.

Understanding Life Insurance

What goes hand in hand with life insurance is the legal instrument called the will, because it helps make the transfer of property and a persons assets move smoothly after a death. A will can be instrumental in reducing family fights and arguments during the distribution of the deceased estate and everything is in black and white and none of the livings words are included just the wishes of the deceased. Wills are very instrumental in cutting down the amount of inheritance, death or estate taxes that must be paid out of the estate. Through the will you can direct who gets what and under what circumstances out of your estate. The court will make the distribution if this valuable instrument is not present. When people die relatives and friends come out of the woodwork to claim part or all of a dead persons estate. A will can make this situation avoidable. Many times these people can tie your estate up in legal red tape which sometimes takes years to unravel, a will can help you avoid this.

Many people feel that a will is for the rich and not the person with the smaller estate. The truth is that anyone who owns anything of value, and he has someone who he wants to leave it to, needs a will because he cannot be sure that it will get to that person. Without a will the court will appoint who it will go to. Many people own much more than they think they do. If you take the values of a home, a car, some life insurance, a savings account, group insurance, pension rights in a union or government plan they could add up possibly to a pretty tidy size estate.

Many people think that the wife automatically inherits everything when the husband dies. This is not so, if there is no will the wife in most states receives 1/3-1/2 of his estate. In some states she gets an equal share with the children. If there are four children then her share would be 1/5th of the estate and the rest is divided equally among the children. Few men would like to leave their wives in this semi-disinherit position, but through their neglect they do. I will continue our talk about wills next article. As always if you have any questions concerning life insurance or related matters feel free to drop me a line or give me a call at: Quincy L. Souther, 1100 Central National Bank Bldg., Des Moines, Iowa 50309 (515) 288-7051.

By Allen Ashby

It is that time of the year again. By the time you read this the Drake Relays will be on in full swing. The show used to begin on Friday around noon and end Saturday about five PM. But now the things starts about Wednesday and then ends after the last race on Saturday. There are so many events that there is no way to crowd them all into two days. Now they have added tennis meets and bowling contests to the show, and they are all held as part of the main event. A far cry from the days when they used to hold a race between the bellboys who worked at the Des Moines hotels. I always thought it was rather funny that the boys from the Randolph Hotel used to win the thing each year, beating out a hand picked team that Tommy Avant and I put together one year. Then years later I learned that they went out and got five of the fastest runners they could find, and gave them the names of the original runners who won the first race fair and square. So the same four guys ran for at least five years. Tommy and I went out and got fellows from North and East Highs and led the race, which was held on Locust Street between Fourth and Eighth streets until the crowd surged out in front of our anchor man so he couldn't get to the tape, and we lost. The next year we vowed vengeance, and were to have as our anchor man Bobby Vandvere. Bobby was the fastest thing that I believe ever ran in Des Moines, and then, too, he would have run over anybody who was luckless to get between him and the tape. But the race was cancelled that year and was never run again. I would have liked to have seen that team we had in action. Unless you think we had done something wrong, let me say that all of the hotels recruited teams of runners for that bellboy relay, and each fellow ran I think a block carrying a suitcase.

But now the thing is so big that there just wouldn't be time for that and there would be too much traffic, but it would be fun. Maybe they will come up with a race for old guys past fifty and that will be worth seeing.

In the early days black athletes made news by just showing up, no matter where they finished. The first all black team I saw came from Crawfordsville, Indiana and they had a fellow who later attended Drake, Maurice Patterson. These fellows ran away with the high school half mile and mile relays. The year? I think it was 1923. But they have come on since then. Brother Bill and I sued to syndicate our relay stories, Bill taking pictures and my story. We would get a shot of a black runner, no matter if he was a mile behind, and label it with the runner's name trying to help his team win. We would neglect to mention that he was so far behind that they thought he was in the next race.

Another Saturday AM Stunt

Then there was the time for the late Everett Wadsworth and me to make the rounds of the various hotels and interview the black runners. It usually took us most of the morning, but it was worth it. We had books full of autographs of some of the world's greatest black athletes, including Jess Owens and Ralph Metcalf, and such. Then there was Mack Robinson, brother of Jackie Robinson. Mack and I became good friends, and kept up a regular correspondence until Mack went to World War II. Though Mack, who was a world class athlete, I learned about Jackie when he was in high school. Mack finished second to Owens in the two hundred meters at Berlin, and ran on the winning eight hundred meter relay team. Perhaps the funniest quip of the years was the statement made to Wilma Rudolph, Olympic sprinter when she ran an exhibition race here. The guy said that he had been looking at relays winners a long time, but Wilma was the first champion he would like to take home.

Just a bit different

Back in the early days, black athletes who were on white teams usually had to take their meals in their rooms, but I heard that Michigan did away with that. They refused to let that happen to a couple of their men and threatened to make a public issue of it. And for years the Wolverines never came to the Drake show. Don't know if that was the reason or not, but I like to think so. When the black schools began to show up, most of them stayed at the smaller hotels, I think because of the price. But that is changed now. There are so many blacks that in no way could anybody get around to talking to all of them. It would take days, and now you would have one bell of a time trying to find all of them who were not from black schools. And where would you put those fellows from the African countries? Oh, well, let's break it off, and maybe I'll see you out there.

Tennis afterthought

The ratings of the Iowa Tennis Association were shown to me the other day. Willie Alma Jones of Cedar Rapids is number 13 in the womens singles, and she and Esther Snype are sixth in the womens doubles. Mark Morrow isn't rated, and Reggie is a number 12 in the twelve year olds, and is number 6 with Mike Song in the doubles. Oh, yes, our Hilltop meet starts July 28th this year if we can get counts.

As this was wrapped up, Pat Marshall called to report that the Maple Street Baptist girls cagers cinched at least a tie for their league championship. If the other team loses next week, they will be outright champs.

Opposition to Apartheid Hurts So. Africa Gold Mining Industry

Black Africa's "rising opposition to apartheid" is seriously threatening South Africa's $3.8-billion gold mining industry, Business Week magazine (April 14) reports.

The mines, which turned out 54 per cent of the world's gold production last year, depends largely on imported black workers as only 29 per cent of South Africa's 350,000 gold miners are native South Africans. About 26 per cent come from Mozambique, 19 per cent from Malawi, and the remaining workers hail from Botswana, Lesotho, and Swaziland — countries economically dominated by South Africa.

However, in the past three months 33 miners have been killed in intertribal riots, leading thousands more to break their contracts to seek safer jobs at home. Although mine owners have raised wages from $2.40 to $3.30 for the lowest paid per shift, (effective midyear) the mines are still 25 per cent below work strength. Moreover, Business Week points out, "there is virtually no hope of getting an additional 100,000 blacks needed to open new mines by 1980."

The magazine says that the main drawbacks are the work itself and the conditions in the miners' hostels, where there are no women and black unions have no real standing with white management. The unnatural life-style has contributed to the violence that has left 132 dead since late 1973.

"If we don't solve the labor problem soon," one pessimistic executive at Anglo American Corp., South Africa's largest mining employer is quoted as saying, "we may be out of business."

His statement comes in the wake of a gradual phase out of Malawians, whose government has slapped a recruitment ban on mine workers. Mozambique, which is slated to get a black-run government in June, could impale a similar curb.
