

To Head Human Rights Commission

Fairfax, Va.— The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors has approved the appointment of Avis C. Bell as the first Executive Director of the County's Human Rights Commission. Mr. Bell is the nephew of both Mrs. Fannie Mae Williamson and Mrs. Ruby T. Smith of Des Moines.

Mr. Bell, 33, served in the same capacity with the Human Rights Commission of Rockville, Md.

In Fairfax, Bell will receive complaints of illegal discrimination, conduct preliminary investigations, conciliate violations and otherwise coordinate programs of the Human Rights Commission.

Besides his Human Rights post in Rockville, Bell directs the city's Department of Community Resources, which includes programs for senior citizens, fair housing and manpower training. He teaches accounting at Prince Georges Community College in Largo, Md. He lives in Reston with his wife and children.

Before joining the Rockville government in 1973, Bell was a senior policy analyst with the National League of Cities. Earlier he worked as associate director of the Metropolitan Manpower Commission in Indianapolis. He received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Central State University, Wilberforce, Ohio, and undertook further studies in sociology and economics at Indiana and Butler universities.

Iowa Supreme Court Says

Quit Stopping Cars Illegally

Commander Byron

Wiley Visits Here

Commander Byron Wiley of the U.S. Naval Air Force, was in Des Moines this week. A native of Chicago, he came to Des Moines during World War II with his late mother, Mildred Wiley who was serving with Catholic Charities.

Following his graduation from Dowling high school, he entered Creighton University at Omaha, Nebraska and upon his graduation he joined the Navy.

He saw active service in Viet Nam, has traveled extensively in Southeast Asia and the Middle East and served as an exchange officer with the British Navy.

Presently he is on assignment at the Pentagon in connection with a new program of Moral Delimas which helps to prepare Navy men to meet emergencies both in peace time and war.

Its first effort is directed toward helping to prevent the spread of and the use of drugs in the navy and to alcoholics and drug addicts adjust themselves without having to be pushed out of the Navy. These sources include race relations in which the Navy has been active in recent years.

Commander Wiley said more Negroes are remaining in the Navy due to improved conditions and a better opportunity to make progress in the ranks.

Commander and Mrs. Wiley live in Washington suburbs. They have two children.

Aetna Establishes 1.5 Million Credit Line With Minority Banks

Aetna Life & Casualty, the nation's largest diversified financial services corporation, has announced it will establish a $1.5 million line of credit with a consortium of minority-owned banks. According to Aetna, this is the first reported instance of a major financial institution launching a significant credit line with the minority banking community.

"By consolidating our assets, we were able to present an offer of sufficient size to be of interest to Aetna," said George Brokemond, President of Chicago's Highland Community Bank, which heads the consortium.

Aetna's D. Lee Tobler, Vice President and Treasurer, called the terms of the offer "very competitive," adding: "The bankers put together an offer that would have been very attractive to any large financial institution."

Among the 12 consortium members is Pullman Bank & Trust of Chicago, a non-minority bank but a major correspondent of Highland Community. Its participation, however, will be phased out as additional minority banks join.

League of Women Voters

The League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Des Moines is pleased to note that the Des Moines City Council at its May 19 meeting unanimously approved (with only one change - the New Horizons Housing Rehabilitation Program) the recommendations of the Central Advisory Board to rearrange the Federal Neighborhood Development Funds. By voting to take $107,000 from a park proposal the Council is in greater accordance with the priorities of the C.A.B.

Listening to and respecting such citizens participation is a step in the right direction. The

A far reaching decision rendered by the Iowa Supreme Court last week held that law enforcement officers do not have the right to stop automobiles and search occupants without a warrant simply because of suspicion or other conjecture that a crime has been committed.

The case arose with an arrest at 13th and Forest Ave. in the Model Cities Area of Des Moines a predominately black neighborhood when a car occupied by Cooley and a companion, both white, was seen talking to a black who had been convicted of a crime previously and yet no crime had been committed which would justify the stopping their car.

The court said that cars cannot be stopped on speculation, conjecture or surmise but must be on sufficient and authoritative cause to believe that a crime had been committed.

The evidence showed that Cooley and his companion had visited with several people in the neighborhood that the car was parked in a high crime area, carried out-of-county license plates, that Cooley was seen talking with "an individual suspected by the police to be a drug dealer and robber," and that Cooley and the driver "were white in a predominantly black area."

While the officers were searching the car they found a gun on the person of Cooley and this was admitted in evidence by the trial court. The court said the evidence of the gun found on Cooley's person should not have been admitted as evidence because the officers had no reasonable cause to stop the car in the first place.

The case was heard before Chief Justice Moore, Justice Harvey Uhlenhuth, Justice Warren J. Reese, Justice Mark McCormick, and Justice Maurice E. Rawlings. The opinion was written by Justice Rawlings and there were no dissents.

League hopes that the City Council will continue to cultivate such activity; that they will work toward establishing new priorities of their own with strong emphasis on housing and people programs; and that City Manager Richard Wiley (as directed by City Council) will be able to find in the 1976 budget the necessary $410,000 replacement funds to return to Community Development.

Award Contract To Electric Union

WASHINGTON, D.C. The International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers has been awarded its 6th contract by the U.S. Labor Department providing funds for on-the-job training of workers in IUE shops.

President Ford's Energy Message

President Ford spoke to the nation Tuesday evening unfolding his program to conserve energy. He took the action because Congress had failed to do so in spite of promises which have not been kept.

I cannot see that raising the price of oil and gas will help those people who are financially pinched to keep alive.

The President is opposed to rationing as well as controls and yet I believe that it is the best way to level off the constant rise in prices and at the same time save energy. True, rationing requires a big undertaking and yet it keeps the flow of goods and services within the bonds of everyone.

No doubt Congress will block this proposal.

Tax Loopholes, The Baby Of Congress

At the request of Sen. Mondale of Wisconsin, the Internal Revenue Service has provided the extent to which some large taxpayers are paying little or no taxes because they take advantage of the loopholes in the law.

The Senator, and a lot of people who think as he does, make a great issue of this and yet the law was passed by Congress about which he complains. This has been talked about for many years and one member after another has sworn to introduce bills to plug up the loop holes. To date, it has not been done and because a person or corporation takes advantage of legal deductions in preparing tax returns they are criticized for it.

The only reason other people don't take such deductions is that they have none or they have so little that the use of them simply turns up a normal payment of taxes.

Nobody wants to pay more taxes than the law requires. And if Congress will plug up these loop holes they are talking about, the big taxpayer will only take advantage of the law at that time and that is being done today.

The News Media

And Investigators Go To Far

Since the great investigation that grew out of Watergate, the news media and politicians are digging up the dead to make headlines. This is also true of disgruntled employees and turncoats who use this method of gathering material to write books.

The assassination of President Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King are being investigated by several groups, the results of which will do nothing but keep up a turmoil among many of the people.

The trial of the Rosenbergs, who were executed for passing secrets to Russians and the Kent State shootings in which the courts absolved the officers of any illegal law enforcement, are past and should clear the mind of the people.

Congress is investigating the CIA and publicizing material that should be guarded closely. Illegal acts against Russia and some of the other countries which while undesirable, should not be broadcast continually since they have already been accomplished and nothing that will be brought up will help our relations with other countries.

Everyday some member of Congress announces that he is demanding an investigation of a matter involving his pet ideas which will do little other than add to the cost of government.

What this country needs to do is to let bygones be bygones and quit resurrecting dead issues that simply divide the people and make them distrustful of everyone including themselves.

Veterans

Administration

Q — The last Civil War veteran died several years ago. Doesn't this make World War I veterans the oldest living veterans' group?

A — No. As of March, 1975, there were 1,085 living veterans of the Spanish-American War, according to the Veterans Administration.

Q — Suppose a veteran instructed the Veterans Administration to pay proceeds from his National Service Life Insurance in monthly installments. Would his beneficiary have the right to elect another payment option?

A — Yes, but only if option required payments over a longer period of time.

Q — Are Vietnam-era veterans taking advantage of current GI Bill education benefits as well as World War II veterans under the original GI Bill?

A — Yes. During the first 97 months of the current GI Bill, 53.2 per cent of the Vietnam-era veterans and servicemen took advantage of their education benefits. This compares to the 50.5 per cent who used benefits during a similar period after World War II under the original GI Bill.

INSURANCE PLAN

The Veterans Administration said today that an estimated 39,000 Vietnam-era veterans in Iowa who are eligible for low-cost government life insurance must apply before the August 1 deadline.

Robert L. Winters, Director, VA Regional Office, Des Moines, said that veterans separated from service between April 3, 1970 and August 1, 1974, can sign up for the program called Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI).

He described the insurance plan as interim protection during readjustment to civilian life. Non-renewable, five-year term coverage is available in $5,000 increments up to $20,000. Monthly premium for the maximum coverage is $3.40 for veterans aged 34 and under, and $6.80 for those 35 and over. Nationally, some 2.7 million veterans are eligible.

Servicemen discharged after August 1, 1974, received application forms automatically, but those discharged before that date must apply, he said.

Winters said that former servicemen may convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to the VGLI program without medical examination if applications are received within 120 days of separation. Applications after that time must include evidence of good health. He said this requirement is waived for veterans with VA-rated, service-connected disabilities.

Application forms are available from the VA Regional Office in Des Moines and veterans organization service officers. Completed forms and premiums should be sent to the Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102.

My Two Cents Worth

by John Solomon II

On May 20 I attended the Polk County Board of Health meeting on the housing situation in Des Moines and the County.

In His Opening remarks, Dr. C. Boyd Granberg, chairperson of the Board of Health, stated that the problem of finding decent and adequate housing in this area came about because City and County were destroying large houses due to the age and condition of these houses. Since Americans are no longer having large families these houses are not being replaced after they're destroyed.

Mr. Mel Vignoroli, the chief sanitarian for the county, told of several cases where 5 to 11 people were living in condemned housing with rats and other vermin. He also reported cases of lice and hepatitis among the school age children of these families.

Not only the size of these families but the reluctance of landlords to rent to large families because of the damage possible from such a large number of children, is a factor in this shortage of houses.

These people are not necessarily poor, some can pay rent of 150/mo. or more for decent houses, yet they cannot find any to accommodate the size of their families.

Dr. Granberg threw out 2 issues that the Board had been toying with. First, a County clearing house for housing, where both private and governmental agencies could refer people looking for housing. The clearing house would have listings of clean and decent housing for people.

The second idea was that of a County Housing Authority (C.H.A.). The C.H.A. would pool together the resources of both the cities and county with the Jurisdictional powers to enforce a unified housing code throughout the county on the standard of housing one could rent.

Questions and ideas from the floor were raised on the power of the city to force a landlord to keep up the property that he is renting. The reply came that the city does have the power to force an owner to keep his property up, and if necessary the city can step in and make the repairs necessary and charge them to the owner but the high cost of this makes it cheaper to tear down the structure than rebuild it.

Another idea from the floor was that a special housing court be set up where an individual could file suit against either the landlord or a landlord could file suit against a tenant to force repairs on a dwelling. If the defendant did not make the necessary repairs, he could be fined and if necessary jailed.

This plan is now in effect in St. Louis. During the meeting a State Senator spoke of a bill now in the Senate to set up a Iowa Housing Authority.

State Senator William E. Gluba (D. Davenport) spoke of a bill that had passed the House of Representatives that day. The Iowa Housing Finance Authority would act to disperse state and federal monies for housing projects.

Because of the state's involvement, more Federal money would be set aside than presently. The bill also has an anti-reclining clause in it so that Banks and other lending institutions could not economically boycott an area because of its geographic or ethnic situation, since banks would act in a "middleman" role and therefore be involved.

We should all urge our Senators to pass this important piece of legislation without delay so that a long range solution would be met. But this does not solve the immediate problem.

The immediate problem would be alleviated by setting up a clearing house for housing and the creation of a county housing authority with the power to enforce a tough housing code.

Since any money from the bill now in the Legislature would take at least a year to be available for use, we may just have to grit our teeth and bear it for now until these wheels are set into motion.

Rights Commission

The Des Moines Human Rights Commission has received a number of calls (6) from Des Moines residents advising the Commission of the activity of some members of the real estate industry. It has been impossible for the Commission to verify such allegations due to the request of the callers to remain "non-involved". Ordinarily, the Commission would not take much stock in anonymous allegations; however, in this instance all six allegations were similar in detail. In each instance, it was reported that a real estate salesperson has advised the homeowner that they should sell their property since prices will be lowered due to the fact that they reside in a bussing area.

The Commission abhors such conduct and will take stern legal measures against any agent or agency utilizing such action. In addition to local action, the Justice Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be notified for assistance.

The Commission expresses hope that the Board of Realtors will issue an official statement condemning such illegal activities.

The Commission also requests public assistance in exposing any agent acting in such a manner by calling the Commission at 283-4284.

Sioux City

Citizens living on the Westside of Sioux City have been trying very hard to eliminate the outgrowth of establishments that serve and/or sell liquor. They had the City Council convinced that it wasn't good for the area to admit Bob's Lighthouse No. 2. But, the State of Iowa's Board of Appeals overturned that decision. As a result of that decision, the American Legion will be opening a social club at the corner of West 15th & Geneva. This location is 3 1/2 blocks away from 1528 Center Street where Bob's Lighthouse is now operating and causing many neighborhood problems. What is so bad about the West 15th & Geneva St. location? It is less than 25' from the front doors of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, one of Sioux City's largest black churches. What is more sacrilegious than that? No member of the Planning and Zoning Commission has the interest of the people on the westside at heart.

Members of the church will be presenting the Council with a petition and making statements of their disapproval but they are

Summer Camping at Camp Sunnyside

Summer residential camping for physically handicapped Iowans will begin June 8 at Easter Seals' Camp Sunnyside, north of Des Moines. According to Camp Director Robert "Barney" Barnhill, 435 Iowans from 92 of the state's 99 counties have already applied to attend.

Sunnyside, the residential camp owned and operated by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Iowa, Inc., is located on 80 wooded and rolling acres. Approved for membership in the American Camping Association, it provides one and two week sessions with programs designed for seven age groups from eight to over-80.

Young Iowa adults aged 18-23 will attend the opening session of the camp, June 8-14, followed by eight-to-11 year-olds June 15-27. The third session, June 29-July 5, is planned for campers over 45 years old. Camping for other age groups will continue through August 16.

Despite crutches, braces, artificial limbs and wheelchairs; crippling cardiac, pulmonary and other problems, campers at the specially-built Easter Seal facility can enjoy most of the same activities offered at camps for the able-bodied.

Camp Sunnyside's special facilities for the handicapped include wider doors to admit wheelchairs, grab bars where needed, ramps, wide sidewalks and asphalt nature trails through the woods. The large covered swimming pool is heated to 82 degrees to avoid cold-water shock to swimmers.

Campers can go boating and fishing on the camp's doughnut-shaped Lake Cheerio aboard stable pontoon-craft, and can earn marksmanship awards on separate camp ranges built to the standards of the National Rifle Association and the Camp Archery Association. Recreation on the ranges improves hand-and-eye coordination and provides friendly competition.

Sunnyside campers can sample a wide range of handicrafts such as sand pictures, candlemaking, decoupage, leatherwork, pottery and woodworking. They can camp out, cook over a log fire, play miniature golf, exercise on the trampolines, participate in team sports and even square dance.

Much of the success of the camp program is due to the energy and dedication of the summer staff of 60 college-age counselors. Selected from nearly 400 applicants annually, the counselors are specially trained by the Easter Seal Society to work with 90 to 100 campers each session. All counselors are majoring in health, therapy and related rehabilitation and teaching fields and work under the supervision of the year-round professional Easter Seal staff.

Vacations at Camp Sunnyside are financed in many ways. A few campers can pay their own ways, but over 75% cannot afford to pay even a part of the $125 cost of 12 days at camp because of expenses and debts resulting from medical and rehabilitation costs. Those who cannot pay are helped by the donations of Iowans for campships and for support of the Easter Seal Society. No handicapped camper has ever been turned away because of inability to pay.

Additional information concerning the camp programs for the handicapped or campship donations may be obtained by writing the Easter Seal Society of Iowa, Inc., P.O. Box 4002, Des Moines 50333, or by telephoning (515) 289-1933.

LEAD POISONING CONTROL PROGRAM

Lead Screening
Reaches 12,000

Twelve thousand Polk County children, mostly between the ages of 1 and 6, have now been tested for blood lead level by the Des Moines Polk County Health Department, according to Evelyn Berry, R.N., of the Childhood Lead Poisoning Control Program. From this number 241 positives have been identified, Mrs. Berry said.

B. Carlota-Orduna, M.D., M.P.H., medical advisor to the Program, said that in the recent statement by the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia, the primary goal is to prevent lead poisoning and its consequences by early detection followed immediately by effective medical and environmental intervention before the child reaches the stage of evident or serious lead poisoning. It is therefore strongly recommended that children be screened at least once a year.

Lead Poisoning
Aides Going
Door-to-Door

Testing for lead poisoning will be carried out door-to-door and at Day Care Centers during June in the Southeast area of the city, the Des Moines-Polk County Health Department has announced. Parents wishing to be sure that their children have a safe lead level are urged to have their children tested when one of the six Certified Health Screening Aides from the Childhood Lead Poisoning Control Program knock on their door, said Dr. Conner, Director of the Health Department.

Final Cramming For Exams

Well tomorrow is the last day for 426 Roosevelt seniors, who will be graduating Monday at 8 p.m., at Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

I will always remember the cramming for finals, that me and many other seniors have experienced this past week.

I knew about a month in advance, when my finals would take place. But, I refused to do anything about it. A person can look at studying for finals in two ways. The first is if you don't always know the information by the time of the test you probably will never gain that particular knowledge in the time allotted.

Second, it isn't good to try and sort out different dates, definitions, names, and places.

'BOY OF YEAR' NAMED IN D.M.

Fred Frye, 17, of 1213 Hutton St., a junior at Tech High School, was named "Boy of the Year" at the annual meeting of the Boys' Club of Des Moines Thursday.

Erick Larson, executive director of the youth guidance agency, cited Frye's courtesy and gentlemanly conduct at the club, his willingness to work with younger members and his excellent academic record at school. Frye recently was appointed assistant woodshop director, and with the part-time job he helped support his mother and younger brother. His father died in 1970.

New officers elected at the meeting are Bernie Baker, president; Russ Clingan, vice-president; Will Sutcliff, secretary; and Dan Clifford, treasurer.

For at any time that information could explode in your mind and cause worse damage than it can cause good.

Therefore, though I still crammed for my finals, I can truthfully say that it didn't help me at all.

It was probably a waste of my time, but it won't be the first or last time that any person has crammed for a test or quiz.

Now there remains one more follow-up article for me to write. It will probably list the names of the black seniors who Roosevelt graduated this year.

It is necessary for me to take the time and thank my parents, brother, sisters and friends for encouraging me to keep writing for the Bystander.

For there were times when I could not think of a thing to write about. But since this was my column, I and others decided to be creative as well as informative in my work.

Numerous people have come up to me and complimented my articles that I have written.

But in fairness to all, I have gotten some ideas and received a lot of help from the above mentioned people.

Who's Who in Des Moines

Terry Lee Sims

Terry Lee Sims of Des Moines, Iowa is self-employed with his business of T & A Printing Service, 313 Kresge Bldg. Mr. Sims is well known in the community, mainly for his work with the Concentrated Employment Program (C.E.P.)

Mr. Sims was employed by Greater Opportunity in 1968, as a job developer and after several successful months, he was approached by several officials to start a new program.

This was the beginning of the Concentrated Employment Program in Des Moines. Sims and Sam Stampley worked many long hard hours establishing this program. After the ground work was laid, trainees were taken in and screened, given counseling, schooling, training for work habits and skills, then placed on a job of their choice. This program has enabled many to get and keep good jobs for which they would have had no chance prior to enrolling in the C.E.P. Program. Mr. Sims worked with this program as long as it was in existence, placing many thousands of people, black and white, into jobs of their choice.

At the time C.E.P. changed over to another agency, called CICOMP, Mr. Sims started devoting his full attention to his own struggling business, T & A Printing Service. Mr. Sims started his printing service in April 1974. Mr. Sims has the only black owned and operated printing service in Des Moines and is still struggling with his business. He has spent many, many long hours establishing himself. He said that he works 6 and 7 days a week, and usually 12 to 14 hours a day. Mr. Sims said that the prices and the quality of his work are hard to beat. He said there are samples of his work always on file in his office.

Mr. Sims states that he always wanted his own business and that he plans on working with it until he can make it work for him.

Mr. Sims and his wife, Ann, have been married 4 years and have 2 boys. He also has 5 other children from previous marriages.

Mr. Sims' business is located at 313 Kresge Bldg. in downtown Des Moines, Iowa, Phone 243-7757. Mr. Sims offers a substantial savings on many types and sizes of business forms and invoices. The savings which Mr. Sims offers is noticed when you compare his prices with what you are now paying for your business forms and invoices.

Mr. Sims realizes, that the parking in downtown is bad, but we do have FREE pick up and delivery service.

Tribute to Medgar Evers

ABC / Dunhill recording artist B.B. King and Fayette (Miss.) Mayor Charles Evers will host the third annual "Mississippi Homecoming" in tribute to slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers on Sunday June 1, in Fayette and Natchez.

Since 1973, the "Mississippi Homecoming" has become an annual event in Fayette and this year Mayor Charles Evers has again invited Mississippians of all races and from all walks of life to come to Fayette for a day of reunion and celebration.

Activities for this years observance will officially get underway in Fayette at 1:00 p.m. Sunday with memorial services in memory of Medgar Evers in the Jefferson Junior High School Auditorium Highway 61 North in Fayette.

Following the memorial services, a 2:30 p.m. dedication program for the new Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Apartments in Fayette will be held with Sam Jackson, former Undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), delivering the dedicatory address for the $1.3 million, 80-unit rent supplement project. The dedication services will take place at the site of the recently-completed complex on the town's north edge along Highway 61 North.

A gala parade, complete with visiting mayors and other dignitaries and marching bands will assemble on the town's south edge below the Medgar Evers Shopping Center at approximately 3:00 p.m. and will proceed north along Main Street to the campus of the Jefferson Junior High School. Following the parade, a giant barbecue-picnic will begin on the grounds of the Fountain Lounge in Fayette featuring local entertainment, old-fashioned barbecued chicken, pork and goat and an informal hospitality hour, during which time visitors and guests will mingle with the crowd and meet the various dignitaries.

This event will last until approximately 6:00 p.m., at which time an anticipated mile-long motorcade will assemble and depart from the school campus enroute to Natchez for the Third Annual Medgar Evers Memorial Concert at the Natchez Convention Center at 8:00, featuring world-known Blues singer B. B. King, Rev. Cleophus Robinson, known as the world's greatest gospel singer, the Staple Singers, the Jackson Southernaires and the Grenada Silvertones.

For the third consecutive year, B. B. King will serve as co-host along with Mayor Charles Evers for the event.

According to Mayor Evers, the Annual affair is significant, since, "it reminds us old folks of the progress that has been made on the racial, political and economic fronts in the last 12 years, and lets our young people appreciate the achievements of their own people. And, it really shows everybody that things have changed a lot since Medgar's death 12 years ago."

College Grad at 43

New York, N.Y. — Some 7,000 students will be graduating from the 41 member colleges of the United Negro College Fund this month and among them is a 43-year old woman who represents a growing new trend among black women.

Mrs. Christine M. Thompson is a mother of seven, a widow, a person who has been on welfare, a mother who has struggled to give her children an education... and now she is graduating from college herself.

Among white, middle-class women, the phenomenon of going back to school, or starting college, at a late age is well-established. Among black women, it is still a more isolated circumstance and the obstacles are usually far more formidable, but it is happening.

Mrs. Thompson, who lives at 1130 St. Paul St., Richmond, Va., first had to get her high school diploma before she could think of anything else. She did this by going to equivalency classes at night, while she worked.

Next, Mrs. Thompson learned of the federal Career Opportunities Program which gave help to needy, mature persons wanting to make a late start at college.

"I was doubtful I could do that," Mrs. Thompson recalls, "but my supervising teacher and principal in the high school program encouraged me so I decided to try."

When Mrs. Thompson toiled her way through Virginia Union University in Richmond, a UNCF school, three of her sons were there with her. They would meet on campus often but never had classes together.

All four of the Thompsons worked part-time, scraped and borrowed to get the money to get by. At the same time, Mrs. Thompson had the responsibility of caring for the other three who were at home. Another daughter was away at college elsewhere.

Among the jobs she did part-time was as a teacher's aide, and that whetted her appetite for teaching—a career she now feels she wants to pursue.

Being a student old enough to be the mother of most of her classmates and carrying the burdens she had did not prevent Mrs. Thompson from plunging into campus activities like everyone else. She went to football games, other sporting events, concerts, plays—and even pledged a sorority, Zeta Phi Beta!

Like many of the older black women who are going to college now, Mrs. Thompson is fulfilling an ambition which seemed only a dream.

"I hoped to go to college when I was young, wanted to go, then had to forget about it," she says. Now, "the dream has come true" and the basic direction of her life has been radically changed. Never in her wildest dreams did she imagine that she would be standing in the same class with her 21-year-old son, Wendell, when he graduated from college.

And now that the dream has been realized, does this mean the end of the line for Christine Thompson?

"Oh, my, no!" she says. "With my children growing up now, I should have lots more time to go on for my master's."

Native of Des Moines Makes History in Calif.

CAROLE KENNERLY DAVIS, a native of Des Moines, Iowa, a graduate of Des Moines Tech High and State University of Iowa, earned a new distinction on April 15, 1975: She is the first Black woman ever elected to the Berkeley City Council. This is a considerable accomplishment for any candidate living in a city that attracts some of the most educated, progressive minds in the country and is the home of the prestigious University of California.

Ms. DAVIS, 35, an political newcomer, took her oath of office on May 6 before a throng of enthusiastic supporters, family and friends. She moved from Des Moines to Berkeley some nine (9) years ago. She is the daughter of Chrystal Florence Kennerly, formerly of Des Moines who also currently resides in Berkeley; and Raymond B. Kennerly currently living in Des Moines. Ms. Davis' brother, Harold Kennerly, formerly of Des Moines and a well known local athlete, is now a resident of Hayward, California.

Ms. Davis, mother of a four year old son, Michael Eugene Davis, accredits her successful campaign and victory to her many dedicated friends and most particularly her immediate family — who, as Ms Davis says "stuck it out to the very end".

A community activist and professional administrator and consultant for the State Health Department, Ms Davis waged a highly disciplined campaign, introducing her views and programs to the more than 120,000 residents of the city, of whom 25% are black. In winning her first bid for elective office, she garnered nearly 5,000 more votes than her closest challenger. This is a clear mandate from the people and already the Bay Area politicians are reportedly looking at Ms Davis as a serious potential for the State Assembly. California only has two women in its 120 member legislature: Democrat Leona Egeland from San Jose and Pauline Davis, Democrat from Portola. There is only one woman serving as a statewide official and that is Secretary of State March Fong Eu. California has only one "Congresswoman, Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, a Democrat from Los Angeles.

MS DAVIS feels Berkeley is a very exciting and rewarding place in which to live, work and grow and in many ways is comparable to Des Moines. In her many interviews with the press, MS DAVIS notes these comparisons and indicates these factors of similarity influenced her decision to become a permanent resident of Berkeley. "I'm not all together clear as to how I got involved with electoral politics; for if you're involved with life, your community and if you care / you are at once involved in politics. Politics are you and you are politics." As the first woman of her race to sit on the governing body of the city that brought national recognition to elected black officials Berkeley Mayor

Warren Widener and California Congressman Ron Dellums, Ms Davis will assume the policy making role for a City Budget of over 30 million dollars and several hundred City employees.

Ironically, Councilwoman DAVIS now occupies the same seat won ten years ago by another pioneer: Wilmont Sweeney, the first black MAN to sit on the council. An attorney, Sweeney resigned his council seat following his appointment as Berkeley's first Black municipal Judge.

Since surviving her baptism in fiery political waters, COUNCILWOMAN DAVIS has led a hectic, intellectually demanding life. She continues her fulltime employment with the State Health Department and several times a week, she attends City Council meetings, in addition to many many workshop sessions and speaking engagements. Councilwoman Davis maintains her role and responsibility to her family as priority; however, the reality of her demanding schedule has meant setting aside her parttime work as a lecturer for the College of Alameda; as well as her plans to complete her studies for her PHD in Sociology.

Ms DAVIS feels it is important for her to concentrate on becoming a first rate City Council official and looks forward to this task with great expectation, enthusiasm and optimism. "I am concerned that Berkeley City government play an increasingly aggressive role in meeting our critical social needs — especially in the area of health maintenance and prevention of disease."

CAROLE KENNERLY DAVIS, a strong advocate of health education, earned a masters degree in social work from Howard University, Washington, D. C. — produced and moderated a Berkeley radio talk show that focused on medical issues. Well known in the Berkeley area for her work and interest in Community health workers Ms Davis helped organize Berkeley's city-wide health forum and its program to train hire community health workers for employment in neighborhood health centers.

For the past four years she has served as chairperson of the Berkeley Community Health Advisory Committee and was recently overwhelmingly elected chairperson of the Alameda County Hypertension Council.

In summary, Councilwoman Davis has engineered a hectic but successful political campaign, became the first of her race to assume a Councilmatic position in the City of Berkeley and at once assumed her place among a select number of women in the State to have accomplished this feat. Reportedly, in California, women now hold some 1,347 public offices, of which only 290 are City Council; and 30 are Mayors. Too few women, Black or White, have been successful in bids for other than school board seats.

Being the keen person she is, Councilwoman Davis, feels she would be wise to take a well deserved vacation for which she is currently making plans. The word has it, she is off for a month's stay, visiting friends and government officials of various countries in AFRICA.

Attorney's Daughter Killed in La.

A spectacular head-on collision near White Castle, La., left five members of a family dead and one in critical condition Friday night. Among the dead is Mrs. Denise Maynelle Thompson Arnold, 28, of New Orleans, daughter of Atty. J. Nelson Thompson, a prominent black lawyer in Kansas City.

Mrs. Arnold was a passenger in a car driven by her husband Bobby, 36, who was also killed in the mishap late Friday on Louisiana Highway 1, along with her sister-in-law, Betty Arnold. Authorities say the freak accident occurred when the South bound vehicle driven by Bobby Arnold, was struck head-on by a car traveling North that was driven by a cousin Ronnie Arnold, 18, of Plaquemine, La. Both Ronnie and a cousin, Donald R. Harris, 17, were killed in the second car. In critical condition in a Baton Rouge hospital is Wilbert Arnold, brother of Bobby.

Atty. Thompson said a preliminary investigation led him to believe that the North bound vehicle driven by Ronnie Arnold was in process of passing another car, he was believed to be racing at a high rate of speed on the two-lane Highway. Both drivers apparently tried to negotiate turns onto an off ramp to avoid the collision. They struck as the North bound vehicle turned left and the South bound car attempted to turn right, Atty. Thompson said. Both cars were completely demolished.

Mrs. Arnold was graduated from Xavier University and had taught school in New Orleans, and worked for Pan American Airlines before acquiring her latest position as a reservationist for Delta Airlines. She had been a frequent visitor to the Kansas City area and had many friends here. A daughter, Maude T. Arnold, did not make the trip as she was visiting with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Alice Thompson, of New Orleans.

The Arnolds were on their way back to New Orleans from a special church banquet in Plaquemine, La.

Mr. Thompson, a native of Des Moines, Iowa, has been practicing law in the greater Kansas City, area since 1952 and his office is located at 3427 Prospect in Kansas City, Mo. He is a graduate of Drake University and was first admitted to practice law in Iowa in 1934. He is a former assistant attorney general for the State of Missouri for Kansas City, a Life Member of the NAACP, serves as Redress Counsel for its board of directors, and is a member of the Executive Committee of the NAACP, Kansas City, Kansas Branch. He is also a charter member of the National Conference of Black Lawyers, a member of the Kansas City, Jackson County and the Missouri Integrated Bar Associations.

John N. Thompson, Jr. also attended the funeral of his sister. Atty. Thompson, Jr., one of the first blacks to attend Tulane University in New Orleans, and was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School in Ann Arbor, where he is practicing law as First Asst. in the Public Defender's Office.

Atty. Thompson's father, John L. Thompson, was also a graduate of Drake University Law School in 1898, and was the editor and owner of the Iowa Bystander, the oldest Black weekly newspaper west of the Mississippi River.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Geddes-Willis Funeral Parlor in New Orleans, where the wake was held for Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, Tuesday night, April 29, 1975. Funeral services were held Wednesday, April 30th, with interment in New Orleans.

Pictured above is the recently graduated class of men who completed the eight week pre-apprenticeship school co-sponsored by the Master Builders of Iowa and the Iowa State Conference of Bricklayers. Mr. James Fredregill, the class instructor, is also in the picture with the apprentices.

Included in the class was John Campbell who will work for Seedorf Masonry, Inc. in the Ames area and Terrance Butts who will work for the Ringland-Johnston-Crowley Company in Des Moines.

If you watched the state high school track meet last week, you probably wondered as I did where were the Des Moines schools. Time was when it rated high in the scoring column, but that time seems to have passed. Tech made the strongest showing as I figured they would. But they got points and lost points where I thought they would do different. For instance, I figured Ricardo Duncan for no worse than second in the hundred, with a chance of winning it. He came in third. I thought their 440 yard relay team would finish at least second or third. So they broke a record of long standing and ran away with the race. They did in a record that was held by the kids from North called the Flying Four; Conrad Jones, Reggie Kaiser, Gary Scott and George Nicholas, and they never lost a race in that season that I know of. People thought their record would maybe stand forever.

Now, will they call Anderson, Butts, Humphrey, and Duncan the new Flying Four? But it looks as if the Engineers are back on the way to winning seasons in just about all of their major sports. They seem to have fine prospects for a good football team next fall, and their basketball should be dangerous next year. So this may be the year Tech turns it all around.

The Next Olympics

When you look around at the college track meets, you see so many runners and jumpers from other countries running for American colleges. They come from the African countries, and most of the sprinters seem to come from Jamaica. And they are right in there with our best hundred and two twenty men. They seem to have taken over the long and triple jumps. With all of those guys competing against the big countries, won't the 1976 Olympics be something to see. But we have a year to come up with some fellows who can make it tough for the fellows from other countries, and maybe we will do it. This kid who ran a 9 flat hundred could be one. Watched him in the hundred meter race Sunday, and for a hundred yards he had the field beaten. The extra ten yards did him in, but still he ran in near record time for that race. Maybe in another year he will be stronger, so he can make it. I think we can forget about the mile or 1500 meters, because those Africans seem to have that one locked up as well as the 3000

Be Cautious Mushroom Hunters

Commissioner of Public Health Norman L. Pawlewski today urged Iowans to exercise caution in hunting mushrooms. "Every spring the woods are full of mushroom hunters, and every year approximately 100 persons in the United States die from ingesting poisonous mushrooms," the health official said.

Pawlewski urged Iowans to be certain that the mushrooms they pick and eat are of the edible varieties and are fresh. There are some varieties of mushrooms which can be eaten by some people without causing them problems but which make others ill. "Mushroom picking is not a casual hobby," said Pawlewski. "People should know what they are doing."

Information about mushrooms can be obtained in a booklet, "Edible Mushrooms in Iowa," (Pm-565), available from the Cooperative Extension Service, Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa 50010.

meters. But this year the race won't be between US and Russia for the gold medals. Those other fellows will come in for their share, especially in track and field Questions?

A fellow asked how I could come up with this thing for all the years that I have. Well, I told him, he would be surprised at how many times I really hadn't said anything. Just words. Another guy wanted to know how I could remember all of the events I sometimes recall. Well, to him I reply I was there when most of them took place, and you don't forget things you were mixed up in. Hope that answers your questions, fellows.

Now back to tennis

I am not sure how many black players were in the local schools this year, mainly because I wasn't trying to find out. They are all just tennis players to me, and I am amused when someone asks me about a player, and says "You must know him, he's colored." I am just waiting for the time to come when all of the tennis players and the rest of the people will be called just that, and not described by their nationality or anything else. But speaking of tennis players, Mark Morrow had a pretty good year at Iowa his freshman year. Don't know just what his won and lost mark was, but he must have come up pretty even, and made it to the quarter finals of the Big Ten meet in his section. I thought I saw a Harold Morrow playing for one of the smaller state colleges, wonder if that was the guy I know or someone else. Some day I shall follow those questions up and see how they come out.

And this year if we can get our Hilltop off the ground, the fellow who gave Jensen fits in the veterans singles will be back and he says he will be ready. Do you know I am getting requests for entry blanks for schools who want them in bunches like bananas. That never happened before. The big problem will be courts and we shall have to get on that as soon as school closes so we can have what we may need.

Goodlett and Price USMC Chopper Pilots

What does it take to become a Marine Corps helicopter pilot?

Two recent graduates of North Carolina colleges set good standards for comparison by aspiring "chopper" pilots: leadership qualities, achievement in academics and athletics plus the ability to accept challenges.

First Lt. Walter Eugene (Breeze) Goodlett flies the Marine Corps' Cobra, a light-weight jet attack helicopter that is fast and highly maneuverable. Flown by a two-man crew, it cruises at 160 miles per hour or dives at 190 m.p.h.

First Lt. James C. Price pilots a Sea Knight, a twin-turbine, tandem-rotor helicopter that can transport 15 men or move 5,000 lbs. of supplies 100 nautical miles.

The two men are currently stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station, New River, North Carolina. Both excelled in high school, were college leaders, active in athletics and ready to meet the challenge of aviation and the Corps.

James C. Price

Price was graduated in 1967 from the Ralph J. Bunche High School in Weldon. While there, he was vice president of student government, an academic leader (ranked fourth in class of 61 persons), and a forward on the basketball team, averaging almost 20 points per game.

He continued to play basketball at North Carolina Wesleyan in Rocky Mount, N.C., where he received a bachelor's degree in 1971 and immediately was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Coming from a similar background, 1st Lt. Goodlett was graduated in 1968 from North High School in Rowan. He was on the honor roll, played basketball and started learning karate.

At Western Carolina University, he was a member of the National Honor Society and vice president of a student organization.

Goodlett, too, was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from W.C.U.

Price and Goodlett had joined the Corps' Platoon Leaders Class (PLC) and trained to become Marine officers during summer vacations of their sophomore and junior years.

Shortly after college graduation, both were sent to flight school at Pensacola, Fla., for initial flight training in conventional aircraft.

When they completed basic instruction satisfactorily, Price and Goodlett chose helicopter aircraft for further training.

The first helicopter "hops" were unusual experiences for both Marines, because each had accumulated about 120 hours of flight time in conventional aircraft.

"It's hard at first," says 1st Lt. Goodlett, "but all of sudden, everything 'clicks' together. You feel as if the craft is dangling on a gigantic string that you can control with just the slightest movement of your finger."

The pride he feels in his accomplishments is typical of the professionalism found in the Corps, not only in aviation but in the many other fields of opportunity open to those who choose the Marines as a career.

Both men suggest that those interested in learning more about opportunities within the Marine Corps should call 800-423-2600 (toll free) or contact their local recruiter.

Apprentice

After graduating from Valley High School in West Des Moines in 1967, L. C. Heard worked for Western Electric Company for about a year as a laborer. He then went to work for several different companies at odd jobs. He decided that he would like to try being a Cement Mason and enrolled in their pre-apprenticeship class in 1973.

L. C. Heard

L. C. is now working for Arthur H. Neumann and Brothers Construction Company. The picture above was taken at the Swift Soybean Mill job in Des Moines. He is also enrolled in the Cement Masons Upgrading Class which is being held at Area XI College.

Charles Wittmack, Vice-president of the Neumann Company, said that L. C. is a dependable and works hard. He also said that he should become a fine craftsman when he finishes his apprenticeship.

L. C. Heard lives at 1701 Gillette. He is married and has three children.
