At May 27th
Ceremonies

WASHINGTON, D.C.—President Gerald R. Ford presided over the swearing in of Lowell W. Perry Tuesday, May 27, in the Rose Garden of the White House as Perry became the sixth chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). Judge Dammon Keith of the Eastern District of Michigan administered the oath.

President Ford said "This Administration is totally dedicated to the elimination of any discrimination in the area of sex, race, creed, color, or what have you. Under the leadership of Lowell Perry, I am certain and positive that the dedication to that cause will be carried out."

A Detroit business executive and labor law specialist, Perry, 43, was nominated by President Ford on May 12 to become a member of the EEOC. The other members of the Commission are Mrs. Ethel Bent Walsh, vice chairman; Colston A. Lewis and Raymond L. Telles.

Perry, who at his confirmation hearing before the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare stressed that equal employment opportunity for women, blacks and other minorities was still far from a reality, pledged to "join in the team effort with my fellow commissioners, general counsel and key commission employees to insist on the enforcement of Title VII to the letter of the law."

Among those attending the White House ceremony were top administration officials, local and Federal government

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

A Valuable Decision

The Iowa Supreme Court further clarified the right of citizens to be from illegal search and seizure without a warrant.

It is a blow to those law enforcement officers who feel that they have a right to question a white person found in a predominately Negro neighborhood and vice versa without reasonable cause.

All along, because a Negro was in the company of a white person was a signal that a law was being violated in the eyes of some when, in fact the reason was based on jealousy and prejudice by the accousting officer. This was illustrated last week when a law officer accousted black legislature who was found in a car with his secretary in front of her apartment in the early morning in Clive. There is no excuse for this conduct and law enforcement officers who do so should be required to take the consequences.

Use The Unemployed To Clean Up

A trip around some areas in Des Moines makes a fellow wonder what the plans of the city fathers are to better the looks of the community.

Heretofore, I have called attention to delapidated housing in some areas. However without money to repair them the city is tearing many down and purchasing the lots from the owners. Recently Congress has had under consideration an appropriation for funds to meet this problem but it has not trickled down to us as yet.

A real eye sore is the old Iowa Packing House facility at South East 18th and Maury. Unoccupied with a wilderness growing up around it, the place looks terrible. And to add to the bad looks practically every window in both places is broken.

We are trying to improve our downtown and I fully agree that this should be done. However to ignore these unsightly areas is reminds of the fellow who shines the toe of his shoe and leaves the heel with mud. It seems to me that with the unemployment plus the youngsters who are out of school for the summer and have nothing to do, a program to clean up these areas would add to the looks of the city and at the same time provide employment for these people.

President Ford In Europe

President Ford has spend a week in Europe discussing our relationships with a number of foreign countries. He also visited with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat with whom he discussed possibilities of peace in the middle east.

For the fear the miserable pull out of Southeast Asia lessened the confidence of our European allies we have given heretofore in men and material, the President is reassuring them that our early agreements stand.

The President has been received with enthusiasm. However, he recognized that he must be careful with our commitments which would have a tendence to draw the country into another bad situation.

Nuclear information is in the hands of many countries, consequently every effort should be made to assure the nations of the world that we do not wish to throw our weight around and cause trouble between nations.

A Sound Decision

The Commissioners of Veterans Auditorium set the policy including concessions. Last week, the commission received bids from a number of concerns for the operation of concessions and catering. Among the bidders was an out of town concern which submitted the lowest bid but the contract was awarded to a local business.

Congratulations to the commission for awarding a local concern the concession the failure which has hurt Des Moines in recent years.

Out-of-towners started a drain on business from downtown, and have driven small business to the wall. They have run to the suburbs. Most of these companies collect our dollars, hire few people and ship the cash to the big centers.

There are other concessions in Des Moines which should have been awarded to local contractors but those handling the bids have not seen fit to recognize the ultimate consequence of accepting the low bid of large outside concerns, which because of their large operation, do the job cheaper. Our course some of these firms are an asset to the city and we are bound to have them but not those that take all and contribute little to the city.

Celebrities Headline "Discovery 75"

(Des Moines, June, 1975) America's premier comedian Bob Hope, CBS news analyst Eric Severeid, and ABC's Dr. Kiley of "Marcus Welby, M.D.," James Brolin, will headline a 4-day career exploration conference, "Discovery '75", to be held at Drake University, June 8-11, for members of the Exploring Division, Boy Scouts of America.

Dallas Schroeder, chairman of the Greater Des Moines Chamber's Education and Youth Affairs Committee, and "Discovery '75" program chairman, said the program is designed "to provide Explorers—both young men and young women—with an aggressive, dynamic look into the career of their choice."

Schroeder said some 600 to 800 young people from a 10-state area expected to attend the conference that will offer an in-depth study, of such career areas as law, aviation, health, law enforcement, marine science, communications and conservation.

As an additional program feature, former Iowa Congressman Fred Schwengel will outline current national and local Bicentennial Celebration planning.

Letters to the Editor

NOTICE

Letters to the editor and all articles submitted to the New Iowa Bystander become property of the paper which reserves the right to edit and/or omit any part thereof.

Dear Sir,

I would like to applaud Mr. Silas Ewing on his comments in the Des Moines register, June 2, 1975 concerning the treatment of blacks in Iowa prisons. It's a beautiful feeling to see a man in Mr. Ewing's position to speak of his concern on this matter. Mr.

Ewing's elaboration on black prisoners having no peers in terms of identification with the institution and adds, "no leadership, counseling, administration and attitudes are 100% right."

I would like to see an advisory board of ex-offenders, set up to work with Iowa's parole board to hash out problems in the Iowa prisons. Somehow society has gotten to the point where the concern of men in prison are not their problem. But I think it is a part of society's problem to help make a productive and wholesome environment for us to come home to. You see, we ARE somebody! Closing my discipline gap in knowing what I am and what I can be since I came here has been rewarding to me. My personal hurts from outside have made me strong and I know I can deal with whatever, and gain my positive goals in life and br a useful member of society.

How right Mr. Ewings statement "75% of those paroled from Iowa prisons DO NOT RETURN", for this is one HELL of a learning experience!

Sincerely

Theodore C. Brewtin Jr

Making summer bearable

When the temperature goes up it's kind of nice to be able to retreat into a comfortable air conditioned world. But with the costs of energy what they are today, it doesn't make sense to waste any of that cooling energy.

That's why making sure your home is properly insulated is so important. Insulation helps keep the hot out and the cool in, and saves money on your utility bill. Maybe you should be thinking about re-insulating.

An Iowa Power Registered Insulation Contractor can help and show you how you can finance re-insulation on your utility bill.

NCCJ pres. urges Ford to act on 41% unemployment of black teenagers

NEW YORK — Dr. David Hyatt, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, has written President Gerald Ford expressing his deep concern about the "alarming fact that 41.1 per cent of all black teenagers in this nation are unemployed."

Dr. Hyatt termed the situation "unconscionable" and urged President Ford to take "immediate affirmative action."

The leader of the 47-year-old national human relations organization called upon Mr. Ford to utilize "all the ingenuity at your disposal," and advocated "some sort of comprehensive employment-education program to take care of immediate employment needs, while also developing skills to compete for jobs over the years."

He recalled the depression and the Civilian Conservation Corps, stating: "Since both of us are of the same generation, we can readily recall the massive efforts of the federal government to alleviate suffering. The CCC in particular, served a noble and practical purpose in those days."

Dr. Hyatt said that the fact that nearly 50 per cent of the young blacks "are and will be unemployed" could result in a dangerously unstable situation, but "even more important than the danger is the inhumanity, indifference and injustice of such treatment of our black youth."

"The entire nation is looking to you for the moral leadership and the kind of guidance in which the powerful use their positions to help the powerless," concluded Dr. Hyatt.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

The Evangelist Zora Reed brought us a stirring lesson from Isaiah 43:25-26. In the lesson, "Plead Your Case," she taught us our rights before God in prayer. We learned that we limit the amount of work God can do for us by not praying correctly or often enough. God can act whenever and however He chooses, but He prefers that we ask Him for our needs and our blessings for our own sakes and so He can't be accused of acting like Satan. Believers today must know how to pray under their new covenant rights.

The church picnic was postponed until this Saturday due to the weather. It will be held at Birdland, June 6, at 11:00 a.m.

Our visitor last Sunday was Ms Doris Ott from Charles City, Iowa.

Sunday school is at 10:30 with services at 11:30. The Life of Christ is every Sunday evening at 7:00. Prayer meeting is every Wednesday night at 7:30. Come and join in singing praises to the Lord.

Bond And Others NNPA Newsmaker List

WASHINGTON D.C. (NNPA) A Georgia legislator, who looms as the only black the nation considers a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, plus a number of sports and political figures emerge this year as the National Newspaper Publishers Association Newsmakers of the Year.

Georgia State Senator Julian Bond, ranked seventh in a national Gallup poll in terms of a recognition factor for the highest elective office in the country, appeared on all the lists submitted by NNPA member publishers.

The composite list was released this week by Howard B. Woods, publisher of the St. Louis Sentinel, chairman of the Newsmakers Committee and vice president of NNPA.

Dr. Carlton Goodlett, publisher of the Sun-Reporter Newspapers of San Francisco and president of NNPA, said these personalities of black America, are those who provide the momentum that moves the country forward.

Listed among the figures selected from all over the country were Terry Metcalf, running back of the St. Louis Football Cardinals and Lou Brock, base stealing champion of the Baseball Cardinals from the same city.

Henry Aaron stood out as the man who set a new Home Run record with the Atlanta Braves and Frank Robinson's ascendancy as the nation's first Black baseball manager, marked a startling new era for Blacks on the athletic field.

"Newsmakers of the Year" certificates will be presented at the NNPA Annual Convention, June 11-14 at the Hotel St. Francis, San Francisco.

Kaplan's Passing Great Loss To America

Kivie Kaplan, retired Boston millionaire industrialist who took the leadership in recruiting more than 50,000 Life Members for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and who became its president in 1966, is dead. Long live Kivie Kaplan and the faith he generated in the universal and eternal oneness of man.

Mr. Kaplan died with his shoes on, flying from one service-to-humanity meeting in Washington to another in New York City. He preferred it that way.

Although he had worn a pacemaker since his heart attack, he refused to slow down. He was always on the go for the NAACP and Jewish causes.

In March, for example, he went from Safety Harbor, Florida to St. Petersburg and worked up an NAACP Life Membership dinner for 103 people and got 58 of them to become Life Members. From there, Mr. Kaplan drove 256 miles to Thomasville, Georgia, to meet with NAACP officers and board members there. Then on to Macon, 157 miles away, for another NAACP meeting.

This is the way it was for Mr.

Kaplan since 1953 when the Boston Branch succeeded in getting him elected to the National NAACP Board at a time when the organization was struggling to raise funds to continue the school desegregation suits.

Immediately, he joined in the fund raising as chairman of the Life Membership Committee. There were only 88 paid up Life Members, and 133 subscribers. Under his leadership, the number increased to 53,000 making such memberships a prime source of revenue for the NAACP.

Nine years ago Mr. Kaplan became national president of the NAACP, but he never stopped recruiting Life Members. His passing is a great loss to America and especially black America whose cause he carried in large measure on his broad shoulders. Not only did he raise millions for the civil rights movement, but also provided innovative ideas and program direction as well as stimulation and inspiration for the long struggle. Kivie Kaplan's shoes will be extremely hard to fill.

LADIES LUNCHEON

DES MOINES — The annual spring luncheon for the Iowa Republican First Ladies Club will be held Thursday, June 12, at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club in Des Moines.

Mrs. Sue Reed of Des Moines, the First Ladies State Chairman, said the event will begin at 1 p.m. with a nationally-prominent speaker scheduled to address the group. Mrs. Reed said the speaker would be announced within the next ten days.

The First Ladies program, she said, is designed "to give Republican women a special opportunity to participate in supporting the party organization. Our primary goal is to show that women are interested and involved in the future of the Republican Party in Iowa."

"The entire First Ladies program," Mrs. Reed said, "has evolved into a major fund-raising effort for the Republican Party, along with allowing the members to demonstrate their personal support for the party's goals and programs. The First Ladies effort actually shows that women can make a contribution to the success of the Republican Party in Iowa."

The $50 membership, Mrs. Reed said, is used to support on-going party activities and programs leading up to the 1976 election campaigns. She said that any woman wishing to join the First Ladies Club should either contact the state headquarters in Des Moines or the local First Ladies chairman.

Businessmen raise $3.5 million for Miles College

A group of local Birmingham Businessmen has raised $3.5 million for Miles College toward its purchase of the Birmingham-Southern College campus. The businessmen have also pledged to help Dr. W. Clyde Williams, President of Miles College, in the national drive to raise an additional $6 million.

This is the first time that a group of businessmen in a deep southern community has agreed to financially support a predominately Black institution in a multi-million dollar capital fund drive. These businessmen, including John Woods, President, Alabama Ban-corporation; Cecil Bauer, President, South Central Bell; John Jemison, President, Jemison Investment Co.; Clinton Milstead, Vice President for Community Relations, U.S. Steel; Frank Samford, Jr., Chairman, Board, Liberty National Life Insurance Co.; Crawford Johnson, President, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Birmingham; A.G. Gaston, President, A.G. Gaston Enterprises; and Vincent Townsend, Vice President and Assistant to the Publisher, Birmingham News represent a wide and varied cross section of the social and economic power of the Birmingham community.

Birmingham-Southern is located on a rolling 100-acre site near Miles College, and comprises dozens of classroom and administration buildings, dormitories, fraternity houses and faculty homes. There are about 70 undeveloped acres on the campus.

President Williams praised the work of the eight Birmingham businessmen for their efforts in the campaign to raise the money needed.

He also praised the Black community for raising and depositing $100,000 as "good faith money" during the early stages of the negotiations. This money will be merged into the campaign fund.

FACTS ABOUT BLACK WOMEN

According to census data, the black woman is 52.6% of the total black population of 22,672,570.

She is paid less than any other group in the country. The order from the lowest paid to the highest is: black women, white women, black men, white men.

Of all black women, 30% are employed while 23% of all white women are employed.

Black females who have completed or gone beyond college earn only 78.8 percent as much as black males who have completed or gone beyond college and only 54.2 percent as much as equivalent white males.

In 1971 28.9% of black families were headed by females, as compared to 9.4% of white families.

In 1970, the marital status of females 14 or more years of age was:

	Black	White
Married, spouse present	42.0%	60.3%
Divorced	4.3	3.4
Widowed	13.5	12.4
Single	28.0	21.3

In 1970, for those 21 or more years of age, 4.5 percent of black males as compared with 4.4% of black females had completed or gone beyond a college education.

In addition, black females have had less access to the most prestigious institutions of higher education than have black males and white females and males.

According to Geraldine Rickman, Director of Resource Development, associate professor of psychology and adjunct professor of psychiatry at the University of Cincinnati, "Many fabled myths surround black women. They have age, with a booster dose of vaccine at 6-12 months of age.

Rabies is prevalent in skunks in Iowa and is likely to spread to dogs that are not immunized, according to Dr. S. L. Hendricks, DVM, chief of the Preventive Medical Division of the Iowa State Department of Health. He pointed out that for the first four months of 1974 only one case of rabies in dogs was reported in Iowa, as compared with three in the same period this year. The three cases noted this year concerned young dogs that had not been immunized. All three were known to have been attacked by skunks.

suffered from the stigma of being seen as the white woman's domestic, the white man's lover, and the black man's matriarchal oppressor. Such myths tend to reinforce erroneous beliefs that directly affect social policies which in turn adversely affect many black females. "Clearly the black woman has the most to gain. She is already a high risk change agent in her own world, or she would not have survived. She is adaptable, knows who she is, and knows what the real world is all about."

Dedication ceremonies held at new credit card center

Dedication of the new $3 million Standard Oil Division Amoco Oil Company Credit Card Center took place last Thursday morning. The two-story building is located on a 12-acre site at I-35 and Forty-second Street. Approximately 500 people are employed at the center. The building houses the company's new credit card center which serves customers located in 15 midwestern states.

Standard Oil Credit Card Bldg. Dedication

Dedication ceremonies were held last Thursday for the new $3 million two-story Standard Oil Division Amoco Oil Company Credit Card Center located on a 12-acre site at I-235 and 42nd Streets in West Des Moines.

Featured at the ceremonies were addresses by Lt. Gov. Arthur A. Neu, Curt Hartley, Manager of the Center, and Walter Peirson, President of Amoco Oil Company, Chicago. The 105,000 square foot building was constructed to house the company's new credit card center which will serve credit card customers located in 15 midwestern states.

Peirson explained that "thanks to the availability of an above-average group of people from the Greater Des Moines area, with the skills and qualities we need, the Center is already an efficient, smoothly functioning office."

The new two-story contemporary building was specifically designed to handle credit card processing. Construction is "slab on grade" with a steel frame and insulated while steel curtain walls. The two-part windows are made of silver-mirrored insulating glass.

The mirrored glass serves as a solar screen against heat and glare and allows visibility from inside the building, but only a reflection from outside. An employee break-room in the northeast corner of the building overlooks the spacious, well-lighted, 500-car visitor and employee parking lot as well as over 700 trees that decorate the entire area and enhance the site and community.

Trained customer service employees of the center process an estimated 500,000 credit card transactions each day, resulting in daily mailings of 100,000 items. A like number of items are received and processed. This volume of mail is equal to a post office servicing a city of 75,000.

Following the program guests were treated to a tour of the building, luncheon at Eddie Webster's Restaurant.

Glamour's Spring things

Easy dressing is here again. Wrap up a great new look in one of GLAMOUR's favorites — this billowy soft peach of a dress. Drop it over your head, wrap up the sash and go. To complete the look: neutral sandalfoot pantyhose (no reinforced heels and toes) and peach colored sandals, a coral necklace or two, and a wistful of handcarved bangles. The newest scarf look for spring is "rope-wrapped." To get it, fold a square scarf (a cotton one works best) into a triangle, then into an oblong length and twist the scarf over and over again until it's a tight rope-like coil. Tie this around your neck, making a square knot and leaving the ends free or tucking them under the coil as shown here. This terrific ombred T-shirt tucks into neatly tailored pants. The color is olive drab — but drab it isn't! To dress up the tone-on-tone top, Beverly Johnson, one of Glamour's favorite models, tied a long thin scarf into a double rope-wrap, added a green beetle pin and a toggle-closed belt. Her other accessories include a wristful of bangles, a rope bag, and a khaki straw hat. Here's Beverly again in a delicately faggoted big-top matched to its own gentle skirt. The easy-care, easy-wear fabric in a soft neutral color can go casual or be dressed up — great for work or travel. She wears several cane and wood bracelets and carries a big straw tote. Around her waist: a soft crushed leather belt.

"Harlem; Voices, Faces"

"Harlem: Voices, Faces" — an impressionistic documentary about present-day life in America's best-known black ghetto, will be presented on the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (Channel 11, Des Moines; Channel 12, Iowa City; Channel 32, Waterloo; Channel 27, Sioux City) Monday, May 19 at 7 p.m. on SPECIAL OF THE WEEK.

Produced in 1973 for Swedish Television, the 90-minute film is not an attempt at a definitive statement about Harlem, but, according to Swedish producers, it is a view from the outside presented in the hope that there is something to be learned from what others see. Comment the producers, "This documentary is first and foremost a program about the ordinary, unknown black citizens of Harlem, USA, who are allowed to speak for themselves."

"Anything you can learn in school you can learn in the street," one young cynic tells the camera, "because that book stays in school, but you have to learn to live in the street. People will do anything conceivable to the human mind to make money," he continues, "because the American ethic is to get rich quick."

In defense of this attitude a Harlem social worker states, "In order to pull yourself up by the bootstraps, you have to have a bootstrap to call your own. You can't have a bootstrap with a lien on it."

The camera searched for hopeful sign. With the warm sensuality, the pretty boys, the fast money, cadillacs and fly women, there is toughness, toil and pride. An aggressive church is making extraordinary social contributions. There is black self-awareness and respect for black culture. It is reflected in pictures, fashions, literature and school instruction.

Above all, the film points out, the remnant of a dream. "All we have left are our dreams and hopes," says one street philosopher. "The realization of those dreams coming true are about 20%. That's all you have are your dreams. That's all you have."

"Harlem: Voices, Faces" is a production of Swedish Television and will be broadcast over IEBN, May 19 at 7 p.m.

I'll Never Smoke

Several Polk County youngsters were congratulated by Dr. Luther Terry, former U.S. Surgeon General, Saturday, in conjunction with the Annual Meeting of the AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION of Iowa.

The youngsters were recognized for their activities in the local INS (I'll Never Smoke—I'm No Sucker) Project, a Christmas Seal program of the AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION of Iowa.

In addition to receiving recognition at the Saturday meeting, INS members also attended a special workshop on Friday evening to further assist their efforts in persuading younger students not to smoke. INS group members from throughout the state attended the Friday and Saturday meetings in Des Moines.

Dr. Terry is nationally known for his release of the now famous Surgeon General's "Report on Smoking and Health" in 1964.

DECA gives students good head-start

Everyday the prospect of locating and keeping a money making occupation becomes more and more difficult. For a time the answer seemed to be found in a higher education. Now, however, this idea is proving unfounded. Instead the shortage of occupational work has moved to a higher level of training. At the present there is not so much a cry for degrees as there is for highly trained vocational workers.

In response to this need the heads of the school system have arrived at a solution in the form of DECA. What this program entails is not an irrelevant accumulation of facts not needed by the average student but a type of training where the student learns what he needs to know about a particular vocation from on the job training.

This training is good in three ways. One, the student learns what he needs to know to be a success in that type of job. Two, he or she has a head start on other young people in seniority, advancement, and wage placement. Three, the student gets most of his learning by on the job training.

Because of the previously discussed virtues of the program many students, if indeed not a majority of future students, will be tremendously helped. Therefore, the originators and the sponsors of this program should, and will continue to receive, the heartfelt thank you's of we who are, in this manner benefited.

Observations ~ The History Of The New Iowa Bystander

The Iowa Bystander founder in 1894, later The Iowa State Bystander, later The Iowa Bystander and since 1972 The New Iowa Bystander is publishing its 81st Anniversary Edition this week.

Launched by a group of men in 1894 who felt the need of a newspaper where the doings in the Negro community would be published, their views on the problems of the race aired and employment opportunities for their young people to handle office, newspaper or business employment. The paper has never operated a printing plant other than a job department. Relying on the conveniences of the Western Newspaper Union, a company which served weekly newspaper with ready print of a part of the paper and also stereotype material to be printed with the live news of the paper.

Various employees ran the paper until it came under the management of the late John L. Thompson who advanced its facilities. He traveled the state on a bicycle each year collecting subscriptions and securing agents who reported the news in their town and did some work in connection with subscriptions.

Thompson covered the activities of 17th Provisional Training Regiment at Ft. Des Moines and wrote a history of it which includes a number of photographs of the men.

FOR 1919

In 1919, Thompson sold the paper to Dr. Lawrence Jones, principal of Pine Wood School in Mississippi. He used it as an outlet for students from his school who had studied business and journalism but the program did not work out.

FOR 1922

In 1922 Dr. Jones sold the Bystander to James B. Morris who at the time was a Deputy County Treasurer of Polk County and practicing lawyer in the city of Des Moines. He was a candidate at the training camp at Ft. Des Moines, later served at Camp Dodge and in France before being discharged in 1919.

For 50 years Morris carried on conducting the paper somewhere along the line of Mr. Thompson with such improvement as was available in the newspaper field among minorities. He was one of the original members of the National Negroes Publishing Association.

FOR 1972

In 1972 Morris sold the paper to Carl Williams, who at the time, was a radio advertising salesman. He moved the paper to 23rd and University Avenue, later to the Black Theology Center at 11th and Forest. Williams was an excellent advertising salesman but had no experience in the newspaper field.

FOR 1973

In 1973 with the problem of continued publication of the paper uncertain, the paper was taken over by the creditors and The Triple S. Publications Inc. was formed with James B. Morris as Chairman of the Board. Far into retirement age I still felt it was important that a valuable institution in the community should not be allowed to go under. And while not the editor or publisher at this time I have undertaken to assist the corporation in carrying on its operation.

Early this year Barbara Epps, a journalism major graduated from Northern Iowa University, joined the paper as managing editor but has been forced to discontinue because of illness.

The new management is gratified with the support which the subscribers, advertisers and friends have given and with their continued support the paper will go far at all times

50 Years Progress In Des Moines Among Minorities

Last month, Mary Ann Smith, who has been researching records for an article concerning the history of Negroes in Des Moines, turned over to the Bystander a copy of a piece of history concerning the Des Moines Interracial Commission.

The material consists of 14 desires for economic, political and social upgrading of the Negro community.

The document was prepared at the request of the Des Moines Interracial Commission in an effort to pinpoint the goals which the Negro hoped to attain. A committee consisting of the late S. Joe Brown, A. Lillian Edmunds, both deceased and James B. Morris. Those who knew S. Joe Brown would recognize the word "Desiderata" as a part of the captain because he was an able scholar.

It reads like a prediction of what was to come. The reader who reflects and looks at what has come about will see that the Negro has come a long way since 1925. The document is printed below in full and my evaluation of what has taken place since that time.

THE DOCUMENT

Subject: "The Desiderata of the Des Moines Negroes" (April 1925)

1. Abolition of separate bathing beaches, and separate everything else, supported by public taxation.

2. Abolition of discrimination in buying and renting of property.

3. Abolition of segregation in hotels, restaurants, theatres and other places of public accommodation.

4. Abolition of custom that has prevailed in Polk county for 20 years of excluding all Negroes from the grand jury lists.

5. Representation in proportion to our population in all city and county labor and office work, with a definite program for the interviewing of employers of labor and the heads of the labor unions to the end that more Negroes may be employed in other than menial jobs; and that the labor unions to the end that more Negroes may be employed in other than menial jobs; and that the labor unions may take a fairer attitude toward Negro mechanics of the respective trades.

6. Several more carriers and at least one clerk in the Des Moines post office.

7. A member in the attendance department of the DM Public schools; and at least one teacher in those schools which we furnish about 50% of the pupils as we do in Franklin and Logan schools.

8. Better attendance of white people upon Negro meetings for which an invitation is extended to the general public.

9. More opportunities for Negro speakers to appear before audiences of white people, more especially groups of white children.

10. Introduction of a course in Negro History in DM Public schools.

11. At least 200 white men and women to become members of the DM branch of the NAACP.

12. A fully-equipped modern YMCA building at 12th & Crocker.

13. A fully-equipped modern YMCA building at 13th & School.

14. A Negro member of the DM School Board of Education.

MY EVALUATION

1. Accomplished
2. Progress has been made. In 1925 conditions for Negroes were very poor and practically all were located in densely populated areas northwest, east and southwest. Today Negroes own good homes in most areas of the city and rental of apartments is good, all in spite of the real estate professionals.
3. Very well accomplished. Negroes are accommodated freely.
4. Negroes have served on Grand Jurys for 25 years.
5. Representation in federal, state city and county, is mediocre. While some improvement has been made in the union field, it is still very poor and in spite of the equal opportunity programs and the money spent to train minorities, most unions continue to make it difficult for men to secure apprenticeships.
6. Very well accomplished
7. Very well accomplished with teachers integrated as well as students.
8. Much of this being done but with membership of Negroes in so many organizations suffices to carry out these programs.

9. This is being done extensively.

10. This is being done but to date it has not been especially attractive since the left handed method of handling it has not made it practical.

11. This has been accomplished.

12. The YMCA is integrated and there is no 12th & Crocker St. building.

13. The YWCA is integrated and there is no building at 13th and School.

14. A Negro serves on the school board and is president.

Check your own list, the older residents of Des Moines may well check the list and determine for themselves the progress that has been made, much far better than had been anticipated.

Younger people would be surprised at what did exist in 1925 and we hope they will come to appreciate further the effort made by citizens of Des Moines of all classes and groups to improve their lot as it exists today.

VA policy triplefold pays off

The Veterans Administration reported today a "very rare situation" in which the beneficiary of her son's $10,000 National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policy has so far received more than three times the policy's face value.

The mother of the deceased World War II Air Force flier is now more than 100 years old and lives in a nursing home in Oklahoma. Morris Nooner, Jr., director of the VA Center at Fort Snelling, said she has so far collected more than $31,313 on her son's policy.

Nooner said the serviceman signed up for the government insurance when he joined the military in 1941. The government paid the premiums for the first year because of his aviation cadet status. Actual premiums paid by the son, who was first listed as missing in action and later declared dead in 1944, totaled $110.40.

Nooner explained that when the woman's son took out the insurance policy he was provided no choice of option, so that on his death she received the proceeds in monthly installments of $83.50 for the rest of her life, with 120 payments guaranteed.

"Maybe this was a good thing," Nooner said. "Because at her age she might very well have argued that she would not live long enough to receive the face amount of the policy." The woman was 69 years old when her son was declared officially dead.

The VA director said that four optional payment settlements have been available since August 1946. A "cash option" is available only if elected by the insured. The other options provide monthly installments for varying periods of time.

Currently, only Service Disabled Veterans Insurance (RH) is available to those veterans who have been released from service since April 25, 1951, he said. Application must be made within one year from date of notice granting service-connection for disability.

Program On Sexuality

Three hundred people took advantage of the opportunity provided to call the studios of the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (Ch 11, Des Moines; Ch 12, Iowa City; Ch 24, Mason City; Ch 27, Sioux City; Ch 32, Waterloo) on Sunday, June 1 at 9:30 p.m. to ask questions about sexuality that were troubling them. In the studio a panel of four mental health professionals fielded questions that touched on subjects from homosexuality; to sex roles, stereotyping and feminism; to premarital sex; to sex counseling.

One male viewer called to say that he had been widowed and was raising his children alone. He felt they were being "mothered" adequately. Another male called to suggest more emphasis be put on love "rather than just sex."

The panel received calls from all across the viewing area: Sioux City, Mason City, Ft.

Madison, Ft. Dodge, Des Moines, Dubuque, and Moline, Illinois, all were recorded. Calls were made to fifteen "I.E.B.N. Sexuality Operators", fifteen members of Friends of Educational Broadcasting, who wrote down these questions, the sex of the caller and the city from which the call was being made. This information was then passed on to the panel. Of those calls noted, 119 were from women, 88 from men, and 2 from children. Seventeen calls were accepted without the sex of the caller being noted. In some instances, calls were not written down because the questions duplicated those already accepted.

Hosts for the call-in on sexuality were Dean Borg, Public Relations Director, University Hospitals, Iowa City; and Sara Frasher, IEBN Associate Producer. Panel members included Dr. Nancy Andreasen, Psychiatrist, University of Iowa Hospitals;

Dr. Robert Kretaschmar, Obstetrician / Gynecologist, University of Iowa Hospitals; P.J. McDonald, a Marriage and Family counselor and former Catholic priest; and Karlene Kerfoot, psychiatric nurse with the Linn County Psychiatric Clinic, and a leader of workshops on sexuality.

The call-in on sexuality followed the telecast of the final program in the series THE THIN EDGE, which has been telecast during the past 3 months. The 5-part mental health series will be repeated beginning Wednesday, June 18 at 9:00 p.m., with the program on Depression. The series will continue on four succeeding Wednesday evenings. The call-in portion will not be repeated.

Social Security Ques. & Ans.

The IOWA BYSTANDER has made arrangements with the Des Moines office of the Social Security Administration to answer questions for our readers about social security and Medicare. Send your question to Social Security Representative, Room 293 Federal Building, 210 Walnut Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50309.

QUESTION: I'm going to take my 65-year-old aunt and uncle to apply for supplemental security income payments. What documents should they take with them?

ANSWER: They should take their birth or baptismal certificates, checkbooks, savings account books, stocks and bonds, life insurance policies, auto registration cards, latest real estate tax statements, last year's income tax returns and W-2 forms, evidence of all other income and their social security cards.

QUESTION: I know Medicare helps pay most hospital and doctor bills, but what are some of the things that it doesn't cover?

ANSWER: Medicare does not pay for custodial care, drugs and medicines you buy yourself with or without a doctor's prescription, routine eye and hearing examinations, homemaker services and meals delivered to your home, preventive medicine such as routine physical checkups, and certain other services. Your Medicare Handbook contains a list of services and supplies Medicare does not cover.

QUESTION: My mother is 81 and can no longer care for herself. I can't stay with her because I work. If I put her in a nursing home, will Medicare help pay for her care?

ANSWER: Medicare does not cover custodial care, such as help in walking, getting in and out of bed, bathing, dressing, eating, and taking medicine. Medicare does help pay for post-hospital care in a skilled nursing facility under certain conditions. For more information, consult your mother's copy of Your Medicare Handbook. If she doesn't have a copy, call or write any social security office.

QUESTION: Starting next month, I'm going to be out of the country for 8 or 9 months. What should I do about my social security checks?

ANSWER: You can probably have your checks mailed to your foreign address or have them deposited directly in a bank. Call or write any social security office as soon as possible. Tell them the name of the country or countries you plan to visit so they can tell you exactly how your absence from the United States will affect your checks.

QUESTION: I read in the paper some time ago that supplemental security income payments will be increased in the future according to the cost of living. How will this work?

ANSWER: When there's a cost-of-living increase in social security benefits, supplemental security income payments will be increased. Under the law the first possible increase could be for July 1975.

Spelman pres. to retire

Dr. Albert E. Manley, President of Spelman College since 1953, announced that he plans to retire as of June 30, 1976. Dr. Manley who is the first black and the first male president of the College has had an administration of distinction.

The Spelman campus itself is strong evidence of his belief that the college environment should enhance the educational experience. The John D. Rockefeller Fine Arts Building, erected during his administration, provides modern facilities for the department of art, drama, and music. Three new dormitories, the latest a unique departure from the usual design, and a modern college center named in his honor, were all constructed during Dr.

Manley's administration. Older dormitories and classroom buildings have been renovated to meet present demands.

The student body has more than doubled since 1955. This increase has not diminished the quality of the student body. Recent scores made by freshmen admitted to Spelman College on pre-admission tests have been equal to those made by white college-bound males.

The faculty has been upgraded from four holding the doctoral degree to the present 42. Faculty salaries and fringe benefits have been constantly upgraded to attract and keep these strong teachers, and a sabbatical program has been initiated.

Curriculum development has been encouraged with emphasis on the education of women for leadership. Spelman women have been encouraged to enter medicine, law, international affairs, engineering, business and industry. Majors are offered in twenty-one fields along with special pre-law and pre-medical sequences. Counseling programs undergird the curriculum.

Dr. Manley and the trustees are presently engaged in a fund-raising campaign from which the College hopes to receive $16.9 million to provide endowment funds for scholarships, faculty development, and capital improvements.

Upon the return of the Chairman of the Board from abroad, a Search Committee will be appointed to find a new president for the College.

So many ways we can help you.

Roosevelt Seniors Graduate

Roosevelt graduated 426 seniors last Monday night at 8 p.m., at Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

Among these, 16 blacks were included. They were Jan Gerard Archer, Paula Jean Brown, Denise Dianne Bumpus, Dorothy Rene Claytor, Ralph Mark Hayes, Sharon Yvonne Holmes, Cheryl Georgene Jackson, Cathy Lynn Jones, Stephen Kitchen, Arthur Spencer Lee Jr., Bobbie Carol Mash, Donald Michael Jr., LaMont Richardson, Reginald Dean Southerns, (myself) Pamela Jo Spencer, and Kirby Leeloyd Woods.

The address was given by Dr. George E. LaMore Jr., of Iowa Wesleyan College. His topic was "Review to Renew".

Both the Symphonic and Concert bands performed for the evening.

I thought the entire commencement went rather well. There was a slight mix-up between a few band members in which I was included, and as to whether were supposed to be upstairs or not.

But a five minute practice, returned all of the seniors from the band to the basement.

I still can not understand why it was necessary for the seniors to play at all that night.

Walking across the stage, receiving my diploma left me feeling quite pleased with my accomplishments through the years.

This is the final Roosevelt news story, that I will be covering. I have enjoyed writing this year, and I wish the future reporters the best of luck for next year.

He also represented the corporation before the NLRB and was a member of Chrysler's Bargaining Team during the 1967 and 1970 labor negotiations with the United Auto Workers.

Since 1970, he handled an assortment of manufacturing production assignments that led to his becoming the first black plant manager in the auto industry.

He is a member of the board of a number of organizations, including the National Football League Board of Charities, the United Foundation of Detroit, and the Boys Club of Metropolitan Detroit.

Perry is married. The Perrys have three children—Lowell, Jr., a freshman at Yale, Scott, 10; and Merrideth, 4.

All about chavivaris

"Have you seen the frying pan?"

"Last time I saw it it was in the bathroom."

"How about my new bonnet?"

"I think that's out in the barn with the horses."

Sound like a peculiar story? Well, it could be a common conversation following a charivari.

Charivaring was often done following a wedding 100 years ago, and is occasionally used today.

Following the wedding, after the bride and groom had gone back to their own home and were settling down for their first night together, a knock would sound at the door.

Soon the house would be filled with fun loving friends. And the party would begin.

Short sheeting the bed, moving everything not bolted down, and sometimes even hiding the bride was a part of the game.

The next day friends again would appear and help restore the house to near normalcy.

Usually the newlyweds took things well, knowing they would get their revenge on the next couple wed.

Home weddings were also common practice in 1875. Economically they were cheaper and what could be nicer than being married in your home.

Often parties and dancing followed the wedding well into the night. It was definitely a very festive time.

Weddings 100 years ago didn't differ a great deal from the ones of today.

On the whole, the weddings may have been a little simpler and more formal than today, but they had their high society weddings too.

Throughout the centuries, weddings have survived custom changes. And it looks as if they'll be around awhile longer.

Through a series of programs, Dr. Burrell has strengthened the black business community. His drive now is to expand the capitalization of black businesses, extend more business training opportunities through workshops, and to increase the across-the-board clientele of black enterprises.

VA LOANS POSSIBLE

GI Bill students in Iowa who cannot make ends meet despite recent increases in Veterans Administration education payments are eligible for VA loans to meet necessary education expenses, according to the VA.

Robert L. Winters, Director, VA Regional Office, Des Moines, said today that the loans are not automatic to all students, but applicants who demonstrate a clear need can qualify for loans up to $600 per academic school year.

Winters said that recent legislation which raised monthly education payments by 22.7 per cent stipulated that loans could be extended only to students found to be in need after the "actual cost of attendance" was compared to the student's "total financial resources."

Eligibility was also limited to students eligible for VA education assistance for school attendance on at least a half-time basis. The law specified that the course must lead to a standard college degree or that the course last at least six months leading to "an identified and predetermined professional or vocational objective." Also, the student must have sought and been unable to attain, in the full amount needed, a loan under the guaranteed student loan program of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Winters said that repayment of both the principal and interest is deferred while the student is enrolled on at least a half-time basis, and no interest begins until the starting date for repayments.

Installment payments must start within nine months after the student ceases enrollment on at least a half-time basis. Interest at the rate of 8 per cent per year begins at that point, and full payment must be made within 10 years. He said there is no penalty for prepayment. A 3 per cent loan fee is deducted from the face amount of the loan to provide a fund to insure against defaults. Defaults are

Listen to Dr. Hazel Swann

(It's about High Blood Pressure)

Probably the one thing that troubles me most — as a physician and as an individual — is needless loss of human life. About 250,000 people are killed each year ... and hundreds of thousands more are crippled ... all by strokes, heart disease and kidney damage caused by high blood pressure. Everytime I see one of these cases, it's a fresh reminder that most of these people could have avoided tragedy, because high blood pressure can nearly always be controlled.

If you have high blood pressure, follow your doctor's advice. This usually means taking daily medication as well as other directions about weight, salt intake, and exercise. But believe me, it's worth it.

One other important point. High blood pressure often is a family trait. So if you've got it, your children may have it as well. Their blood pressures should be checked regularly as well as your own.

sports

The Younkers Kodel tennis meet got finished one jump ahead of the rain Saturday. I mention this because the team of Kay Anderson and Bob Borm that represented the Hilltop came within an ace of staging the upset of the meet. As it was, they played just about all afternoon before losing. Later I reminded them that I didn't care about them losing, but why did they have to take all afternoon to do it and louse up the rest of the program. But they had folks asking where the Hilltop club was, and who was in it. So I said something that sounded like nothing and kept still. To me, the big surprise was the size of the crowd at the parking lot on Saturday to watch Harry Burris and Sue Silcott win the two big silver plates and the big mug that everyone around the mike took a swig of champagne from. Will we try it again next year? Wait and see.

A look Into the Past

The movie based on the life of Jack Johnson was shown on TV last week. I saw it before, and it didn't really stick to facts, but it brought back some memories. For instance, I felt the jeering and scorn of white crowds when I used to wrestle in small towns, and that only made one all the more determined to win. And when I read into the story of earlier fights, I learned that Johnson was one of the few men who could take such a jeering and smile while he killed his opponent. Such a fellow was Curt Morton who played football for North High in the years just about the time World War I was ended. At that time there was no attempt to show any sportsmanship in the crowds attending football games between local high schools. Well, Curt was the North High offense in his last year. So he would pretend to be injured and the East High fans would cheer so hard that I was ashamed to be one of them. Then Curt would jump up, make faces at the crowd, and proceed to run over some unlucky tackler on his way to a TD. So I would say that Curt has some of the stuff that motivated Johnson. The rest of the story as it was told on the screen wasn't as factual as it might have been, but then it might not have sold if it had stuck to facts. As I watched some of the pictures of the early fights, I remember commentators saying that Johnson never really kayoed a man because as he was about to do that, the police would jump into the ring and stop the fight so he couldn't get credit for a knockout over his opponent, and I am sure you know why. But I did get a chance to see the man when he was in his fifties, and I remember him as a really independent thinker who did as he pleased when it pleased him. As I recall, at that time he had an offer of ten dollars to anyone who could hit him in the face in three minutes of boxing, and I don't remember anyone collecting. They said he could be talking to someone out of the ring and boxing you, and you couldn't hit him in the face.

The search is on

Now people are looking for someone to take the place of Arthur Ash when he finally calls it quits. The fellow is past thirty years old, and has his hands in so many things that he can't concentrate on tennis alone, so he isn't playing as well as he might if he did. The other day I noticed that a fellow who played here last year, Juan Farrow, was given the next chance to be "another Arthur Ash." I am not sure any budding black tennis player wants that. If I were a young black player, I would want to be just me, and not another anybody. But as the fellows showed here, I thought Bruce Foxworth had everything, and was a fine prospect to make it big. Then I have been reading about Earl Prinz on the West coast who should make it pretty good too. However I think that the black tennis player who catches the fancy of the tennis writers will be the next whatever he is. One guy they don't mention is Maryland University's John Lucas who happens to be one of the best basketball guards in the college game also. But he won the Middle Atlantic singles championship without the loss of a set, and was regarded as one of the finest black players in the east. But he might go to basketball where he can command a good contract and have it made, because people who claim to know say he could make any pre cage team in the country.

I read about the rigged draws against the ATA players after they got into the USLTA meets. Well, don't worry, fellows. We had that around here for years. There were about four of us who used to meet each other in early rounds, or at least the semifinals of each meet. If we didn't do that we met the number one seed. For three consecutive years I drew the state singles champion in the opening round of each state meet. And I am sure the thing wasn't set up, even if I did hear a fellow ask to play my late brother Bill one day, and the meet director said "You got him." But I think the black player who comes up now will be someone who will have people asking about him, and won't attract too much attention until he scores some big upset win. Then he will be the next "next Arthur Ash," no matter what his real name is or who he wants to be.

ANNIVERSARY

Muhammad's Temple Of Islam No. 2

CHICAGO—The city's leading businessmen, politicians, clerics, performers, educators and media personalities have joined the Nation of Islam in preparation for the appearance of the Honorable Wallace D. Muhammad, June 15th at McCormick Place.

The June 15th address, which is expected to attract more than 40,000, will be the first major Chicago appearance of the Supreme Minister since his historic speech at the Muslim's annual Saviour's Day convention last February.

It was at this gathering that Wallace Muhammad assumed leadership of the Nation of Islam in a ceremonial transition of power that baffled supporters and critics alike who predicted bickering and internecine strife after the passing of his father, the Honorable Elijah Muhammad.

Bicentennial To Hold Open Meeting

The Polk County American Revolution Bicentennial Commission will hold an open meeting for all organizations and individuals interested in participating in the Bicentennial celebration. The meeting will be held on Monday, June 9, 7:30 p.m., at Brody Junior High School, 25th and Park Avenue, Des Moines.

Mrs. Virginia Hermann, Polk County Bicentennial Commission Chairman, said that the meeting was being held "encourage organizations from throughout Polk County to participate, in their own way, in the celebration of our country's 200th Birthday. Although we do not ask organizations to participate in specific ways we do hope that all organizations will consider undertaking some program or project designed to commemorate the Bicentennial observation".

Mr. Murray Goodman, Executive Director of the Iowa Bicentennial Commission, and other members of the staff will be in attendance to offer suggestions and advice about ways in which interested groups can participate in the Bicentennial activities.

The meeting is open to the public. Anyone wishing to obtain additional information can contact Mrs. Hermann at 277-2905.
