News Briefs

NAIROBI, Kenya—Ugandan President Idi Amin announced Monday he is going ahead with the execution of Denis Hills unless British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan travels to Uganda within 10 days to talk it over, Kampala radio reported.

Hills was convicted of treason by a military court on the basis of an unpublished manuscript in which he wrote that Amin was a "village tyrant."

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique—African dancers in bright feathers gyrated to throbbing drums Monday and tens of thousands of other Mozambicans cheered tumultuously as Samora Machel—set to become Mozambique's first African president after nearly five centuries of Portuguese colonial rule—flew there.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Twelve Republican senators and more than 55 House members Monday introduced a measure that would fundamentally change the food stamp program, increase benefits to the needy by 29 percent and save an estimated $2 billion a year.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Using a "hidden unemployment index" takes into account "discouraged" workers, the National Urban League Research Department reported that during the first quarter of 1975, total black unemployment reached a record high of 2.9 million and the black unemployment rate went from 21.1 per cent in the last quarter of 1974 to 25.7 per cent during the first three months of this year.

NEW YORK—Welfare rolls in New York City topped the million mark last month. And according to Commissioner James Dumpson that means that one of every eight men, women and children in the city is on the dole.

UNITED NATIONS—The United States last week opposed the imposition of mandatory sanctions against South Africa while urging that nation to act in the immediate future to end its occupation of Namibia (Southwest Africa).

AGAWAM, Mass.—"We're headed for gasoline prices at a dollar a gallon," Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) said as he predicted President Ford will veto congressional extension of the mandatory allocations act.

Jackson said Pres. Ford has supported programs supported by large oil companies, and criticized the administration philosophy that removing controls and increasing gasoline prices will result in energy conservation.

Neu Chides Democrats

Lieutenant Governor Arthur Neu views Iowa's 1975 legislative session as "cordial but unproductive."

Following adjournment last Friday, June 20, Neu commended both political parties for their spirit of cooperation. "A sincere working relationship," he said, "existed between political parties and legislative chambers alike."

But the Lieutenant Governor chided the Democrats for minimal legislative output. "The Democrats' list of measures pending," he stated, "is much more impressive than their list of measures passed."

Neu, a Republican and Senate presiding officer, cited creation of an Iowa housing finance authority and upward bracketing of the Iowa income tax as the Democrat's top accomplishments.

Lt. Gov. Arthur Neu

"But those were overshadowed by lack of final action on either criminal code revision, a land use policy, or adoption law changes," "Notable too," he said, "was the Democrats' failure to provide relief from imminent property tax increase or to provide significant funding for road maintenance and construction."

The Lieutenant Governor also expressed disappointment at the Democrat's failure to consider many of Governor Ray's legislative recommendations. Proposals for unifying county budget funds, for creating an Iowa office in Washington, and for requiring competitive bids by governmental subdivisions should have been debated, he said.

The minority party, the Lieutenant Governor noted, "made the wage collection measure manageable, and slowed too-hasty consideration of corporate farming and anti-trust legislation. The minority party also intimidated the Democrats from any consideration of corporate tax or right-to-work proposals."

March of Dimes Names Wright Youth Assistant

Charles B. Wright, program coordinator for the Middle Atlantic States for The National Foundation-March of Dimes, has been named assistant for Youth Activities for the voluntary health organization. He has moved his office from Baltimore to national headquarters in White Plains, N.Y.

"Mr. Wright will concentrate on reaching and involving college students, male youth, and minority groups," said William R. Russell, vice president and director of chapters. "Our youth activities program has grown rapidly. A major emphasis of our health education services, aimed at prevention of birth defects, is directed to young people, because they are the ones most affected by the problem."

Mr. Wright, who joined the March of Dimes last September, has vast experience in youth education and counseling. Previously, he served three years as a vice president and dean at Coppin State College, Baltimore, supervising all student personnel services. He is a Coppin graduate and holds a master's degree in education.

As a volunteer with the March of Dimes, Mr. Wright was largely responsible for developing Project SADD (Sigmas Attack Drugs and Defects). This is a nationwide health education and service activity of Phi Beta Sigma fraternity and the March of Dimes. Sigma members participating in SADD counsel young boys in health education, school work, and career guidance.

To achieve its objective, prevention of birth defects, the March of Dimes supports programs around the country in research, medical services, professional and public health education, and community service. Special materials, programs, and audio-visual aids are available for school and youth group activities.

Black Caucus Points Out Why Membership Denied

The Congressional Black Caucus released last week its response to Congressman Fortney H. Stark's (D-Calif.) request for admission as a member of the Caucus.

Pointing out that "the Caucus symbolizes black political development in this country", the letter from Congressman Charles B. Rangel (D-N.Y.), Chairman of the Caucus, also stated: "We feel that maintaining this symbolism is critical at this juncture in our development."

The Congressional Black Caucus was created in 1970 as a forum which would allow black members of Congress to discuss proposals and strategy on issues related to the interests of black and poor citizens. Since its inception, the Caucus has recognized that the problems of black Americans are inextricably tied to the needs of all Americans. The Caucus has always drawn upon a significant number of non-black, as well as black, technical resource persons — many of whom now serve as staff for the individual members.

The Caucus stated that "just as the Democratic and Republican Caucuses have unique interests to protect and project and would not include non-party members in their respective groups, we too, have the same needs and concerns." In addition, the Caucus members stressed the fact that numerous forums already exists for non-black members of Congress to address the needs of their low income and minority constituents.

Congressman Rangel's letter suggested that representatives should pursue the interests of poor and minority people more aggressively within existing formal groups, such as the Democratic Caucus, the Democratic Study Group, Republican Caucus and the various state delegations.

The Congressional Black Caucus expressed a willingness to discuss with Congressman Stark and others, "the development of an alternative Congressional vehicle for addressing the critical concerns embodied in the Caucus' Legislative Agenda." Such a vehicle would provide members an opportunity to come together across racial, geographic, ethnic, sex and party lines to discuss and advocate positions and take actions that ensure passage of legislation responsive to human needs.

The Caucus also noted that there are numerous congressional districts throughout the country where non-black members represent significant numbers of poor and black constituents. Many of those members have frequently voted contrary to the positions taken by the Congressional Black Caucus.

Thus, Rep. Stark's major rationale for requesting membership in the Caucus, the size of his minority constituency, is not, in itself, sufficient reason to admit him. The letter stated further that, "The Black Caucus is composed of seventeen House Members who share the common social, cultural and political experience of being black in America."

Speaking for the Caucus, Congressman Rangel said that, "Pete Stark's letter has highlighted our concerns about cooperative means for the Caucus and other members of Congress to best respond to the economic and social crises confronting the nation. The Congressional Black Caucus has a program which addresses both the critical survival problems traditionally experienced by blacks, and the social and economic needs of the entire nation."

He further noted that, "We are determined to redouble our efforts to work closely with all Members of Congress in ensuring the passage of legislation responsive to the needs of all Americans."

D. M. School District Reports Enrollments

Junior high school summer enrollment is ahead of last year, but senior high and elementary school enrollments are down in the Des Moines Public Schools, a preliminary report Tuesday.

The junior high enrollment, based on reports at the end of the first week of school, was 796, compared with 706 a year ago and senior high enrollment was 1,371, just nine fewer than the 1,380 who enrolled a year ago. Enrollment in other secondary school programs such as driver education, the two drop-in centers, the program for handicapped and a special camp for learning disability students was 1,237 this year, compared with 1,130 a year ago.

Elementary enrollment including special reading clinic programs was 1,023 compared with 1,090 a year ago.

The preliminary report did not include an estimated 1,000 students in music classes, adult education enrollment or the city-school recreation program included in the final tally.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

Attempted Assassination Does Not Auger Good Relations With Cuba

The Rockefeller Committee has made its report on the activities of the CIA. But the Senate has just begun to hold hearings on the agency.

Sen. Church of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Sub-Committee which is conducting the hearings, continues to say that he has solid evidence that the CIA has engaged in plots to assassinate foreign heads of government including Fidel Castro of Cuba. I think that developing this type of facts should be brought out in closed hearings before the proper committees of Congress so that steps can be taken to prohibit such acts in the future.

America does not maintain diplomatic relations with Castro and maintains an embargo against Cuba. On the other hand Sen. McGovern of South Dakota visited Cuba and eventually was able to secure an audience with Castro. The senator said he believed that Castro was in favor of a change in the present strained relations between the two countries. It should be done as we are too close to each other in view of the danger of collaborating with other countries as was done when Russia was permitted to place missiles in their country.

No doubt, as he learns that some of our officials have helped plan his assassination it is easy to understand how he will mistrust any effort to be friends again.

Loud talking hurts our foreign policy.

Voting Rights Measure Gets A Boost

Last week, the lower house of Congress enacted a measure extending the Voting Rights Law. This is the second extension of the original enactment of 1965 and is extended ten years.

The measure was passed of 341 to 70, a rousing backing of the right of every citizen to vote. It eliminates literacy and similar tests; enables the Federal government to intervene in Federal elections in states and subdivisions where it has reason to believe minority voters are being discriminated against; it provides that any change in election laws in states in question must be approved by the U.S. Attorney General. The act applies to Asians, Spanish Americans, American Indians and Alaskans, also.

The law has been responsible of the election to office of many minorities. It has forced white politicians to give more attention to minority votes in their area where even some were prevented from registering and voting in the past.

The measure has gone to the Senate where a committee chaired by Senator Tunney, (D-Calif.) will hold hearings and we hope that the measure will be reported out and passed by the Senate promptly since the old extension expires August 6.

Rise In Gasoline Price Hurts The Wrong Ones

GASOLINE PRICES

Some economists are suggesting that the price of gasoline be raised so as to reduce its consumption and help ease the energy problem. We had this scare last year but the price remained stable and there were few areas where there was a gas pinch.

The administration is opposed to rationing gas just as it was opposed to a lid on prices and wages. Maybe it does take a lot of effort to enforce either of these but at least every fellow is assured, reasonably, gas without excessive prices.

Americans have long maintained the habit of driving to work or downtown in their cars. In many communities there is little mass transportation, and in some places none, to provide a means of getting to work.

The price of gasoline makes little difference to the fellow who has a lot of money but unfortunately we all don't. Consequently prices should be lowered so as to give every fellow a chance to buy at reasonable prices. I seriously doubt that the cry of gas shortage has much validity.

Surveys Indicate Gov't

Exercises Too Much Control

Preliminary results from surveys conducted at Republican town meetings in late April indicate that an overwhelming number of Iowans believe governmental institutions are exercising too much control over their personal lives.

Republican State Chairman John C. McDonald has announced the initial results, compiled from responses to questions asked at 50 town meetings across the state. He said the preliminary totals reveal that 96 percent of the participants are disturbed by government-imposed restrictions on their daily lives.

He said only 1.1 percent believe government is not exerting too much control, while

2.9 percent gave no opinion.

In addition, McDonald said the initial results revealed that nearly 52 percent of the respondents supported the President's decision to veto the farm bill. The poll, taken the week that Ford vetoed the legislation, indicated that just under 16 percent supported the farm proposal with the rest undecided.

"From the initial results of this survey," McDonald said, "it should be a clear warning to public officials and politicians that the people are fed up with government domination. The deep sense of alienation that exists between the people and the government must be regarded as one of the most pressing problems we face."

His Only Visitor

TO THE EDITOR

On June 7, 1925, the president of the BYPU made the following statement in the Maple Street Baptist Church Bulletin, "Another year is coming to a close through this strenuous year, financially and through the sickness and besettlements, but through all of that we are to be thankful to the Supreme Ruler for holding His protecting hand of Mercy over us and sparing us to be able to see another milestone come to a close."

Today 50 years later, this same woman is a member of Maple Street BC, we can say she is a senior citizen, and to God she must even be an angel. Over the past few years this one of God's children has suffered. Past 90, she cuts her own grass, shovels her own snow and stays alone, save for one or two elderly women friends that call to see if she is alive or dead.

This woman out of pure unadulterated love, has been my only black visitor on any kind of regular basis, and many have talked about her like a dog, mistreated her, and even ceased relating to her because she visits a former minister who did try to do what a preacher should while at the church. She colors me her adopted son.

Yes, you've forgotten me, and I don't hold it against any of you, but from this day forward, regarding Mrs. S. B. Boyers, 1318 Stewart, Des Moines, Iowa 50316, 266-5660, let your conscience be your guide. While

The survey results, he said, "magnifies the need for a positive response on the part of politicians to address the needs of the people."

"It is time that our officials stop traveling at government expense to government functions to denounce big government. It is time for them to match their rhetoric with action and demand that government respond to the people," he added.

McDonald said, however, that he does not believe the situation is "as bad in Iowa as it is at the federal level. In Iowa, our

New Deal Names

TO THE EDITOR:

In conjunction with a study of blacks and the New Deal, I am seeking persons named after Franklin or Eleanor Roosevelt.

I would be grateful if such persons would write to me indicating the reasons their parents may have given for naming them after President or Mrs. Roosevelt.

I would also welcome personal impressions of the Roosevelts, either from direct memories or from oral family tradition.

political leaders have made some attempts to reflect the needs of the people. That is why I am so concerned about the trend toward a full-time legislature — because it removes the elected representatives from the daily problems of the people."

McDonald said that the final tabulation on the town meeting results can be expected within the next few weeks.

Tandem/TAT Clear

Way For Aspiring

Minority Writers

Norman Lear announced on behalf of Tandem Productions, Inc. and TAT Communications Company the creation of an experimental program that would provide access and opportunity for minority career-oriented comedy writers to begin a professional writing career.

Bob Peete, story consultant on "Good Times," will head the program which is being offered under the auspices of both Tandem Productions, Inc. and TAT Communications Company on behalf of their shows, "All in the Family," "Sanford and Son," "Maude," "Good Times" and "The Jeffersons."

Peete stressed "we are only looking for career-oriented comedy writers who already have the skill and knowledge of writing comedy for television, but don't have or don't know the avenues for getting their work to the proper people."

Due to Writers Guild restrictions and other legal considerations, story ideas and/or scripts cannot be accepted until certain preliminary steps are followed. They are: Comedy writers interested in participating in the program must first contact Bob Peete by letter. In return, interested writers will receive an informational letter detailing instructions to be followed. (Letters of interest should be addressed to Peete c/o Tandem Productions, Inc., 1901 Avenue of the Stars, Suite 670, Los Angeles, California 90067. Do not include literary material with this letter; if you do, it will be returned and it will not be possible to consider your work.)

"We are very excited about the project, but in order for it to work and in order to avoid legal complications, cooperation from the writers regarding proper procedure is imperative," explained Peete.

Mississippi Crusade Improves Relations

JACKSON, Mississippi — Even in thunderstorms and rain, the Jackson, Mississippi Billy Graham Crusade drew an average of 34,000 people each night.

On May 11-18, 1975, an average of 917 made public commitments for Jesus Christ each night. The closing service was the largest crowd in the history of Mississippi — outdrawing even the football team.

It was the first time that the entire Crusade budget was met by the fourth day of the Crusade. Because the budget was reached so early, all remaining offerings were designated either for the Billy Graham television ministry, or for the World Emergency Relief Fund, an arm of the Graham ministry that sends relief to famine stricken and disaster areas around the world.

According to the Rev. S. L. Bowman, black civil rights leader of Jackson and vice-chairman of the Crusade Executive Committee, "Race relations are greatly improved. People have gotten to know each other across racial lines. This had not happened prior to the Crusade."

The Rev. David Grant, pastor of the Broadmoor Baptist Church, said, "The relationship between the two races has been the most wholesome I have ever seen."

The Rev. John Perkins, black president of the Voice of Calvary ministry, added, "I really think that this Crusade is going to make a difference."

Asked about the working together of the races the Rev. Donald Patterson, pastor of Jackson's First Presbyterian Church, which is all white, said, "We have blacks and whites on our committee and we have been blessed of God with a good relationship."

The Rev. S. L. Spann, black leader and pastor of the Fairview Baptist Church, added, "It is entirely different from 23 years ago. We have accomplished a great deal through this Crusade."

Gov. William Waller of Mississippi who only missed two services said, "The Mississippi Billy Graham Crusade has done more to bring a spirit of togetherness than any single event in my lifetime."

Motor Club Believes Truck Action Improper

The AAA Motor Club of Iowa has stated that last Wednesday's action on big trucks by the Iowa House was unbelievably irresponsible, improper and a disservice to the citizens of Iowa.

According to John R. Bireline, the Club's director of Public Relations & Safety, "Iowans deserve, at the very least, proper and responsible performance from their elected officials." He added, "The tactics involved in last week's truck action in the House represent a slap in the face to all Iowans and the voters deserve an explanation."

These statements by the AAA Club were in response to the passage of an amendment which would legalize 65-foot trucks in Iowa. The Club stated that the truck amendment is absolutely not closely connected to the bill which it was attached. And, the Club further contends that the action is a deliberate attempt to hide a very hotly contested question from the citizens of the state. The original bill alone relates to the addition of six inches to the width of buses and is considered as a piece of necessary legislation. It has been listed as a non-controversial item on the House calendar. A non-controversial bill is one that is generally expected to pass, with little or no debate.

Referring to the House action, Bireline said, "A very controversial and highly contested legislators appear to be more concerned with preferential legislation than the interest of their own constituents.

The original proposal relating to buses only is a Senate bill, and had earlier been passed by the Senate with no amendment referring to increased truck lengths. Having now been amended and passed by the House, the bill must be returned to the Senate. The AAA spokesman said, "We trust the Senate will continue in its responsible manner by refusing to accept the House amendment on longer trucks." Only a few days ago, Senate leadership indicated that it could not rule a big truck amendment germane to the upcoming important 55 mph speed limit bill. Thus, the AAA spokesman said, "We are confident the Senate will not rule the truck amendment germane to one unrelated bill when it has already indicated that the amendment is not closely connected to another unrelated bill."

The AAA Motor Club of Iowa has long been opposed to increased truck lengths in Iowa. However, in this particular case, the Club believes that the tactics involved touch upon basic legislative responsibility and credibility. The Motor Club spokesman concluded by saying, "The House action on the truck amendment was clearly improper and the people of Iowa deserve better treatment."

AHA Announces Iowans Selected To Key Positions

Des Moines—Dr. Elliot Rapaport, president of the American Heart Association, has announced the selection of several Iowans to key posts of that organization for the coming year.

Ray Uhlhorn, of Council Bluffs immediate past board chairman of the Iowa Heart Association. In that capacity, Uhlhorn will serve on the following national committee: board of directors, executive committee, Affiliate Relations Working Group and the Management and Finance Committee. He has held nearly every top post in the Iowa Heart Association, having just completed his second year as chairman of the board of directors.

Robert H. Clark, Jr., of Des Moines, current board chairman of the Iowa Heart Association, has been elected vice president of the national organization, and will serve in the following capacities: board of directors, executive committee and chairman of the Fund Raising Advisory and Policy Committee. Clark is the former state campaign chairman and treasurer of the Iowa Heart Group.

Two other Iowans will be serving on the American Heart Association for the coming year. They are: Dr. Lewis E. January, Department of Internal Medicine University Hospitals, Iowa City, who has been selected to the Committee on International Program. January is a past president of the American Heart Group. Also named to a key post nationally is Professor Marilyn T. Molen, Iowa City, who will serve on the National Committee of Ethics.

Black Mayors Face Increase In Popularity And Problems

According to the Joint Center for Political Studies, there are today 130 black mayors; in 1973 there were 82; in 1970 there were 40.

As the chances grow for a black politician to make it to the top in municipal government, so do the problems he will face as an urban mayor. Reader's Digest, in its July issue, examines both facets of this significant political story.

Written by former United States Information Agency Director Carl T. Rowan and David M. Mazie, the article points out that black mayors do not operate exclusively in southern and border states. Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey have nine each; Illinois has eight; California, five.

While the white flight to the suburbs has to be counted as a factor in the emergence of black majors in cities, the authors also credit a new white trust in black politicians. "In almost every case, blacks have won against white opposition," the article says.

On the plus side for this new breed of urban politician are the tremendous moral factor his election engenders for the city's black population and a new sense of confidence in municipal government. The minus side, however, is weighty. "He must walk a tightrope between the demands of the blacks, who have been shortchanged for centuries, and the concerns of the wary whites, who still are not certain how to react to a black mayor — and who still wield economic, if not political, power," the article comments.

In addition, the black mayor faces the same difficult problems his white colleagues are struggling with — inadequate education systems, deteriorating housing and tax base, and a tight job market. "Some crucial urban problems are beyond immediate solution, no matter what the skin color of the person in the mayor's chair," The Digest observes.

On Sunday, June 29, at 4:00 p.m., the Maple Street Mission Society will be presenting Rev. Robert Clay and choirs from the St. Paul A.M.E. Church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

Rev. Jacob Reed brought the lesson from Luke 5 during the morning worship services. He told how after Simon Peter had done all humanly possible to catch fish all night and yet failed, he caught enough fish to almost sink two ships as he immediately obeyed Jesus' word. He related this to current Christian living by saying we are to do all we can to present the word of God. Yet we must never hesitate to put forth another effort as the Lord calls for it.

We were blessed to fellowship with Community Baptist Church for our evening services. Rev. Zora Reed brought us the message from the 18th chapter of Jeremiah, "Clay in the Potter's Hands." Just as the potter made the flawed vessel over to suit himself, so will the Lord make us over to suit His Holy plan if we yield ourselves to Him. We cannot hold back one fault or sin, or we fail to follow the path God would have us walk. The Messiah Temple Children's Choir added their voices in praise of the Lord at these services.

Our visitors were Ms. Mary Lewis and Mrs. Dorothy Griffith of Des Moines, and Mrs. Florence McMichael and children of Detroit.

Sunday school is at 10:30 with worship services at 11:30. The Life of Christ is taught every Sunday evening at 7 and prayer meeting is every Wednesday evening at 7:30. Join us soon for a lesson in Christian living.

Four Dramas Highlight Witnesses Convention

There will be four major dramatic productions at the forthcoming "Divine Sovereignty" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Des Moines.

These presentations, in rehearsal for many weeks and in full costume of the historical period, are highlights of the conventions scheduled this year in many principal cities throughout the United States and Canada.

It is estimated that over 1,000,000 persons will see these productions at over 100 conventions that are scheduled.

S.W. Spinasanta, convention manager, said great care goes into the arrangements for the plays. He stressed they are true stories taken from the Bible.

"And, too," Spinasanta said, "the producers, the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, give great care to studying modes of dress of each period to give authenticity to the costuming."

"The events, the language and proper meaning of each event depicted is also studied with great detail in mind," he said.

Spinasanta listed the productions scheduled for 1975. They include:

* "Do Not Become Unevenly Yoked with Unbelievers," Thursday, June 26. It will be directed by D. A. Coleman.

This is the ancient story of King Ahab and Jezebel. The king's unequal marriage yoke to a wicked Baal worshiper brings disaster to their life.

* "That the Word of God May Not Be Spoken of Abusively," Friday, June 27. The director is J. A. Miller.

This drama explores the relationship between husband and wife in a modern marriage. It also relates to the Bible for counsel on exactly what this relationship should be in order for the marriage to succeed.

* "Keep Your Senses," and Go on Building with the Greater Noah," Saturday, June 28. J. H. James is director.

The story of the flood in the days of Noah and the events that led up to it. A disastrous end of an ancient world is detailed in this dramatic production.

* "Pure and Upright Practices — Necessary to a Child's Life," Sunday, June 29 with L. Cutwright, Jr., director.

The historical study of the Jewish prophet Samuel as a boy. This drama unfolds the early life of a man set apart for God's service by his mother before his birth. It is pointed toward young people at the convention and stresses their responsibilities as outlined in the Bible.

Spinasanta said all productions are set for the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and are free. No reservations are necessary.

Arthur P. Trotter

Corinthian Honors Fifty-year Member

The Corinthian Baptist Church will have an appreciation dinner honoring one of its fifty-year members, Arthur P. Trotter, on Saturday, June 28, at 6:30 p.m.

Trotter has served on the Trustee Board of Corinthian for more than twenty-five years. He has been active in past years in the black community, having operated the Community Luncheonette at Twelfth and Center Streets. Trotter is a life member of the YMCA Board, having begun his work at the Crocker Branch at Twelfth and Crocker Streets.

Tate, Hamlett Attend Writers' Conference

Chicago, Ill.—The Fifth Annual International Black Writers' Conference was held June 20-22 at McCormick Inn here, with writers, poets and novelists from throughout the United States in attendance.

Speakers at the conference included motion picture producer, poet and novelist Sam Greenlee ("Spook Who Sat by the Door"); Broadside Press publisher Dudley Randall; journalist Barbara Reynolds and Ethel Payne; Muhammed Speaks editor Akia-Muhammed; Mstique Magazine publisher Bettie Pullen Walker, and poets Gwendolyn Brooks, Don L. Lee, Henry Blakely and Nora Blakely.

The conference also focused on children's literature, theater presentations and other areas of the Black arts.

Saturday afternoon's session included poetry readings by Miss Brooks, Randall, Ann Bishop and Eleanor E. Tate of Des Moines.

Miss Tate and Zack E. Hamlett, III, also of Des Moines, were among the participants in the three-day conference.

Living History Farms Has Eleven Festivals Remaining

After three successful weekend festivals for Living History Farms, eleven exciting festivals round out the remaining weekends.

The farms, designed to show agricultural progress over the last 130 years, hold their weekend events according to season. All festivals are held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Harry and Terry Hoogesteger will be in charge of the festival which marks the public opening of the 1900 farm. Featured will be a turn of the century farmhouse and typical machinery of the time. The farming, done by horses and horse drawn equipment, and the harvesting, done by a steam threshing machine, will be supervised by Hoogesteger.

The highlight for July 4 will be Bicentennial Celebration Days. The main event will be a horse show sponsored by the Ponderosa Saddle Club and in coordination with the farms. "The farming aspect and the regular farm activities will be stressed," said executive director Oliver Gillespie. "Although we are not planning a special festival, there will still be a lot to see."

Pioneer Farm Days, to be held July 11-13, will be directed by Darwin Thede. Thede and his wife, the family residing at the 1840 pioneer farm, will demonstrate typical pioneer activities, such as harvesting grain, using muskets, spinning and weaving.

Old Time Blacksmithing Days will be the main attraction for the July 19-20 weekend. Thede, director of the event, will demonstrate special blacksmith techniques for making hinges, chains and gate hooks as well as give the ordinary blacksmith demonstration.

According to Gillespie, the grain harvest festival scheduled for July 26-27 will be one of the big events of the summer. The festival, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Vince King, is expected to attract as many as 7,000 people. Recognized as a national Bicentennial event, the festival will include steam threshing, grain harvesting with cradle, old machinery and gasoline engines display and an old fiddlers contest.

The next weekend, featuring the potter Gary Rittgers, is planned for August 2-3. Rittgers and other potters will give various demonstrations on potting and will also do experimental work with glazing. Traditional and modern pottery will be displayed.

The antique car and horsedrawn vehicle show is slated to take place August 9-10. Westphal will host the show and Central Iowa Model A. Ford Association will participate. Events include a driving skills contest with old cars and a display of horseless carriages and horsedrawn vehicles.

The Farming of the Future festival is scheduled for August 29-31. According to Westphal, plans laid for the area call for a farmstead powered by solar energy. A demonstration and display area will include automated feeding devices, computer controlled operations, tests for narrow row planting and demonstration plots for new crops and hybrid seed. "We're hoping that corporations will volunteer to put their newest innovations on display, much as the machinery demonstrations at the state fair," Westphal said. The farm of the future, located northwest of the 1900 farm, will also have in-residence farmers. The main attractions this year will be a plowing contest sponsored by the Iowa Plowmen's Association and a parade of plows showing plow development from the 1800's to the present.

The September 13-14 weekend will feature a quilting bee and exhibition by June Knudson. Visitors will be able to learn quilt making and can also view one of the finest collections of early American quilts in the Midwest.

Fall Harvest Days will be held September 20-21. Westphal will head up events for the festival, which include pressing apple cider and working up sorghum for forghum molasses. The Flynn Mansion will be the site for the festival.

The final festival of the season will be a corn harvest on October 4-5. The Kings, hosts for the weekend, will supervise a hand corn picking contest, a steam and gasoline engine display and an equipment demonstration. More than 5,000 people are expected to attend this nationally recognized Bicentennial event.

Although this year is the first time for many of these festivals, they will hopefully become annual events for the farm. Gillespie said. "They are just part of the many activities we have at the farms. I hope visitors take the opportunity to visit the rest of the farms as well as see the weekend events," he said. Other features of the farm include the Flynn Mansion, the quilt house, the museum, the pottery shop, the Handcrafters' Gallery, the country store, the 1840 pioneer farm and the 1900 horse farm.

Walter Manuel (left) joins another Jehovah Witness during rehearsal for one of the many Biblical dramas to be presented at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium June 26-June 29. The play that Manuel is in will be presented tonight.

WALTER MANUEL JOHovah WITNESSES

Walter Manuel 1747 Capitol Street in Des Moines, plays the character Jadok in one of the Biblical dramas to be presented at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium June 26-29.

The dramas are highlights of the "Divine Sovereignty"

District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses being held here.

Manuel will be performing in the drama "Do Not Become Unevenly Yoked with Unbelievers" that will be presented tonight before thousands of delegates from more than 16 states and three foreign countries.

Manuel is associated with the Union Park congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses and is active in their educational work and ministry of preaching the Good News of God's Kingdom.

DRAKE FINE ARTS TO PRESENT OPERAS

Drake University's College of Fine Arts will initiate its two-year bicentennial celebration of American arts Wednesday, July 9, when the Drake Opera Theatre presents two short American operas.

The performance of the operas, Gian-Carlo Menotti's "Amelia Goes to the Ball" and Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti," begins at 8 p.m. in the Hall of the Performing Arts of Drake's Harmon Fine Arts Center. The public is invited to attend without charge.

The director of Drake Opera Theatre and musical director for the two comedic operas is Dr. Marion Hall, who will also conduct the opera orchestra. The stage direction is by Dr. William S.E. Coleman, professor of theatre arts at Drake. The scenic design is by Catherine Shymanski of Omaha, a junior theatre arts major at Drake.

Meet The Southside Movement ...On The Move

The Southside Movement, a nine-man vocal-instrumental group of dedicated music makers from the Southside of Chicago, record for 20th Century Records. They represent the epitome of Southside Chicago 'soul' that's fast becoming the universal language of peace, love, and musical understanding.

The Southside Movement is a group of young, talented, serious-minded musicians and entertainers, whose first hit record entitled "I've Been Watching You," has caused the world of music lovers and record buyers to not only watch them, but also rate them as one of the greatest new groups to come along.

With each new record released on the group, and with each performance performed by The Southside Movement, their popularity increases to the extent The Southside Movement is like a household word.

Why?? Because from the very beginning that the group was formed by Jimmy Vanleer in 1973, the mold was cast to make The Southside Movement the greatest entertaining and recording group around.

Each member of the group was carefully handpicked after he had proven himself to be a top quality musician and performer among the many musicians, performers, and groups that emerged from Chicago's musical spawning grounds. And additionally each member picked to become a member of The Southside

Movement, had to have a serious love for music, and a dedicated ambition to make music his professional career.

Invariably each member of the group came from the Southside of Chicago, and their movement as a solid group in a positive vein, made it a natural to dub themselves professionally as The Southside Movement.

The Inseparables: Monte And Truman

Perfect unions are hard to come by, perfect friendships even harder. But playwright Eric Monte and actor Glynn Turman, writer and star, respectively, of American International's "Cooley High," both outstanding in their own fields, have a friendship of years standing.

Eric Monte, creator of the hit television series "Good Times," poet and playwright, has seen many of his earlier works performed by Turman. Additionally they share a love of the outdoors, photography, tennis and horseback riding. Both are inveterate readers.

Glynn Turman, who was for years a regular on the popular television series "Peyton Place" and, more recently, a smash hit in the award-winning television special, "Ceremonies In Dark Old Men," has for a long time looked forward to doing something outstandingly professional with his friend and, with "Cooley High," the perfect union between playwright and actor has happened.

The catalyst was producer Steve Krantz. It was he, being aware of the friendship and respect between the two men and of both their talents, brought them together for what promises to be one of the major motion picture events of the year.

Culled from Monte's memory of what it was like to be a high school student in the ghettos of Chicago in the 1960's. The film has a light-hearted touch, yet seriously deals with the problems of a group of spirited youths in transition from being boys and girls into men and women. And, although most of the characters are black, it is by no means a "Black Film" in the recently accepted sense of the term. It is, rather, a graphic delineation of experiences which many are going through or a touch of nostalgia for those who have gone through the period.

In addition to Turman, the film stars Lawrence-Hilton Jacobs, Garrett Morris, and Corin Rogers and introduces as Brenda, the Cooley High beauty, a young actress named Cynthia Davis whose veteran performance belies her newness to the screen.

Another friend involved in the making of "Cooley High" was the brilliant young black director, Michael Schultz. He had become friends with both Monte and Turman; Monte through the direction of some of his teleplays and Turman when he directed Lonnie Elder's "Ceremonies In Dark Old Men."

Throughout the location filming in Chicago the three buddies were as inseparable as their screen counterparts, Preach, Cochise and Pooter (character names for roles portrayed by Turman, Jacobs and Rogers). And, if the end result of their collaboration is any pronostication, they would do well to consider keeping the trio together.

Eric Monte and Glynn Turman have been friends since both hit Hollywood, a number of years ago, as an aspiring playwright and actor, respectively. Monte has since gone on to create the hit TV series "Good Times." Turman, now one of the most-in-demand young actors around is fresh from his triumph of starring in the award-winning TV special "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men." They join forces in "Cooley High," a lighted romp through the memories of high school life in the 1960's.

Int'l Youth Congress Gathers In Memphis

More than 10,000 Youth delegates of the Church Of God In Christ, Inc., the fastest growing Pentecostal movement in the world, will gather in Memphis, Tennessee, the denomination's headquarters, from across the nation and abroad, June 30-July 6, to attend the 40th session of the International Youth Congress of the church, with its theme: "Holiness, the Way".

The congress is under the leadership of Bishop William James, Toledo, Ohio, international president and Mrs. Clara Cantrell Clemmons, New York City, international chairlady. Headquarters for the congress will be the Rivermont Holiday Inn and Mason Temple, named for the late Bishop Charles Harrison Mason, the founder of the denomination, and the Chisca Hotel the church's downtown headquarters.

Youth delegates will be involved in seminars, clinics, workshops and institutes of evangelism, christian education, music, physical education, recreation, lectures, tours and banquets. The congress is so designed to keep the delegates mentally alert, spiritually alive and physically fit, to better prepare them for today and tomorrow, with mounting world crisis.

Highlights of the congress will include the Congress Musical, Monday, June 30, at 7 p.m., at Mason Temple; An address by Dr. C.M. Ward, president of Bethany College, Santa Cruz, Calif., on Tuesday, July 1; the concert of the year by the Living Sounds, Vocal and Instrumental, International youthful missionary team of Tulsa, Oklahoma, on Wednesday, July 2; Bishop J.O. Patterson, international presiding bishop will address the congress on Friday, July 4, after which ReDedication of Youth will be given by Bishop Louis H. Ford, 2 assistant international presiding bishop of Chicago.

One week prior to the congress, a youth evangelistic team will invade the city Memphis reaching and contacting more than 15,000 homes. The congress radio ministry will be conducted Tuesday, July 1-Saturday, July 5, 2-3 p.m. over Radio KWAM, 990 on dial in Memphis.

The congress will climax on Sunday, July 6, Official Day, with the annual message by the international president, Bishop William James. Music will be furnished by the 1,000 voice congress choir under the direction on Mrs. Pearlina Ford, minister of music for the congress and A. Samuel Hawkins, Chicago, organist. Following the Official Day Service, "Miss National Youth Congress 1975" will be crowned at the annual hospitality banquet.

Other leaders of the church expected to attend the congress will be Dr. A.L. Bailey, general supervisor of Women and president of the International Women's Convention, of Detroit, and Dr. Arenia C. Mallory, president of Saints Junior College, Lexington, Miss.

The congress will be hosted by Tennessee, First Jurisdiction, Church Of God In Christ, Bishop J. O. Patterson, state bishop, Elder L.M. Haley, state president.

Maestro Wins Music Awards

The 1974 BMI Music Awards were held recently at The Century Plaza Hotel, in Century City, Calif., honoring the top song writers, music publishers, and the 100 most performed songs of the year in this annual music industry event.

In all, 109 song writers and 86 music publishers were honored during the evenings program for the 100 most performed songs of 1974.

All of the popular songs from the national charts over the past year were in competition for the coveted BMI Awards, and the competition was stiff. Among the 100 most performed songs were "Nothing From Nothing" by Billy Preston, "The Love I Lost" by Roberta Flack, "Keep On Trucking," by Eddie Kendricks, "Feel Like Makin' Love" by Roberta Flack, "For The Love Of Money" by the O'Jays, "Loves Me Like A Rock" by Paul Simon, "Rock and Roll Baby" by Ray Stevens, "We've Only Just Begun" by Paul Williams, and so many more familiar songs from the hits of 1974.

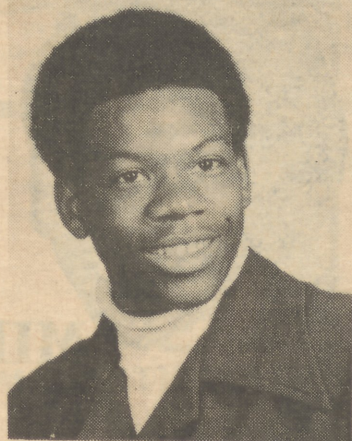

When the evening's awards were over, Maestro Barry White had won three awards out of 100 awards for his songs of love. The Maestro was awarded his three BMI Citations of Achievement for "Can't Get Enough Of Your Love," "Love's Theme," and "Never Gonna Give You Up."

SOUND ADVICE

Summer Hearing Hazards

Summer — the time of year when everyone can enjoy outdoor activities — also is the time precautions should be taken to guard against sustaining a hearing loss, according to officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

The crusade is sponsored by Chicago-based Beltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments, as a means of making persons aware of the vital need to protect their hearing ability.

One summertime hazard is the possibility of contracting ear infections by participating in swimming, water skiing or other water sports. A precautionary step in guarding against ear infections and similar maladies such as "swimmer's ear" is to wear a pair of properly fitted ear plugs.

Most importantly, if encountered, these infections should be considered serious and should be brought to the attention of a medical ear specialist. Self-prescribed medications should never be used to treat infections.

However, ear infections are not the only dangers to the hearing ability of water sports enthusiasts. Severe head colds or earaches also can be contracted, and also deserve the attention of a medical doctor.

In addition to ear maladies, summertime also can present another hazard to everyone's hearing ability—excessive noises. These noises can come from many sources including powered pleasure boats, power lawn mowers and power tools — and continuous or prolonged exposure to excessive sounds could be hazards to hearing ability.

Sullivans Perform At Wilkie House

Starting July 2 the Gateway Dance Theatre will be sponsoring an Open Dance Session every Wednesday 6-8 p.m. at the Wilkie House, 16th & Crocker, with Michael Sullivan.

Sullivan recently arrived from London, England where he studied both classical ballet and contemporary dance at the Rambert School of Ballet, with Arthur Mitchell of the Dance Theatre of Harlem and Maria Faye of the Ballet Rambert. He has also studied at the Martha Graham School in New York.

He has choreographed and performed a work for television and his latest ballet 'Split' was performed at the Mercury Theatre in London on May 18.

Sullivan will be assisted by his wife, KayLynn. They both worked on the Experimental Theatre Movement Workshop for Children in London which combined creative movement, improvisation and instant drama.

Witness Convention Opens Today

The "Divine Sovereignty" assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses opened today at Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Des Moines with delegates from at least 16 states and three foreign countries.

The convention program features Bible lectures, discussion periods, interviews and dramas. A drama will be featured each day in full costume of the period depicted.

S.W. Spinasanta, convention manager, said, "The producers, the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, give great care to studying modes of dress of each period to give authenticity to the costuming."

"The events, the language and the proper meaning of each event depicted is also studied with great detail in mind," he said.

Included in the dramas are the story of King Ahab and Jezebel, an exploration of the relationship of husband and wife, the story of the flood of Noah's time and the events leading up to it and the historical study of the Jewish prophet as a boy. The final drama, to be presented on Sunday is pointed toward young people and stresses their responsibilities as outlined in the Bible.

Highlight of the Witness convention will be the public talk delivered by S.R. Roberson, a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. His subject will be: "One World, One Government, Under God's Sovereignty."

All sessions of the convention are open to the public beginning at 9:55 each morning and 3 in the afternoon. All seats are free and no collection is taken.

Iowa Crafts Sell At LHF Gallery

Iowa Handcrafters' Gallery, a pilot project developed through Iowa State University Extension Service, has been operating successfully for the past year at Living History Farms. According to Bernice Bateson, assistant state leader in home economics community development at Iowa State, the Gallery's purpose is to give craftsmen an opportunity to sell unique crafts.

Started by Bateson and Lois Warme, also with Iowa State Extension, the Gallery gives Iowa craftsmen an Iowa outlet for merchandising. After the Extension Service initially contacted home economists across the state for names of craftsmen, the Gallery has functioned mostly on its own, Bateson said.

Interested craftsmen can apply by submitting a sample of their work and filling out the description form. The Extension Service evaluates the product and makes comments on workmanship, function, materials and design. "We highly encourage people to submit their work, and we screen applicants once a month," Bateson said.

Although all craftsmen must be Iowans, materials can come from other places. "If craftsmen use Iowa materials, the products are carefully screened," said Bateson. "We like to keep unique products that have high quality. Many have some kind of heritage value, but that is not necessary criteria for all products."

Bateson stressed that high quality must be maintained by all producers. If the product sells well, the Gallery will order a reasonable amount. If the product is not selling well when inventories are taken, the Gallery may suggest the producer lower the price or make advised changes.

The producer can determine the basic price. If there is disagreement, a compromise is reached. The producer received 75 per cent of any product sold, while Living History Farms receives 25 per cent. The Extension Service receives no money, Bateson said, because it's an educational effort.

Sally Rittgers, manager of the Handcrafters' Gallery, said that the turnover rate is quite high.

Fast selling items include corn husk dolls, doll furniture, pottery, souvenir stationary, rag dolls, rag rugs and woven placemats. Among the many unique items sold are applehead dolls, handmade tinware, wooden toys, china head dolls, pictures made from human hair, quilts and hairpin lace handkerchiefs.

According to Bateson, the Gallery has accomplished its four original objectives. "It has provided Iowans an opportunity to purchase quality Iowa crafts. It has supplied handcrafters with marketing information and a publicized outlet. It has provided an opportunity for merchandising Iowa arts and crafts. And it has acted as an educational advisor for craftsmen," said Bateson.

Although the Iowa Handcrafters' Gallery is one of the few outlets that will eventually become self supporting, Bateson said the Extension Service hopes to help more get started in Iowa. But available resources, raw materials and time are limiting factors, she said.

Tips On Trips

FEEDING KIDS ABROAD

Napoleon was supposed to have said that an army marches on its stomach. Parents soon discover that a family travels on its children's stomachs. If Tommy's tummy is turny, then the trip comes unzipped.

To keep youngsters on an even keel, feed them according to their regular schedule even when you're traveling abroad. Steer your family away from heavy, hard-to-digest and exotic foods.

If you're staying at a Holiday Inn in a foreign country you won't have a problem. Your children can have the same wholesome food at most Holiday Inns that they're accustomed to eating at home, prepared American style. The foreign setting will be exciting for them, but their meals will be familiar, safe and settling.

Keeping your youngsters healthy and happy on your trip — that's food-for-tot all right!

Iowans Should Exert Care In Canning Foods

It's gardening season again, and more people than ever will be canning fruits and vegetables. Norman L. Pawlewski, commissioner of public health, urges Iowans to exert the utmost care in the preparation and consumption of home-canned foods.

"Improper or inadequate home-canning of foods can lead to a very dangerous food poisoning known as botulism," the health official said. Two cases of botulism were reported in Iowa last year, and fortunately both of these persons recovered. The fatality for this disease in the United States in recent years has been about 25 percent.

Botulism is a paralytic disease caused by a chemical toxin produced by bacteria which are found throughout our environment—including garden soils and animal intestinal wastes. The botulism bacteria produce their highly potent toxin when they grow in the absence of air, Pawlewski said. Canned foods provide an ideal air-free environment for such growth and toxin production unless safe canning procedures are employed.

"We have two standard defenses against this disease," the health commissioner said. "One is canning all foods at the correct time and temperature to kill the botulism organisms during the canning process, and the other is cooking foods prior to serving in order to destroy any toxin which might have been formed."

Home canned foods can be safe if proper procedures are followed, Pawlewski said. In preparation for canning, foods are separated into high-acid and low-acid groups. The high-acid group includes fruits, rhubarb, tomatoes and pickled foods. All other vegetables and meats should be considered low-acid foods. All foods should be packed in containers with good, air-tight seals.

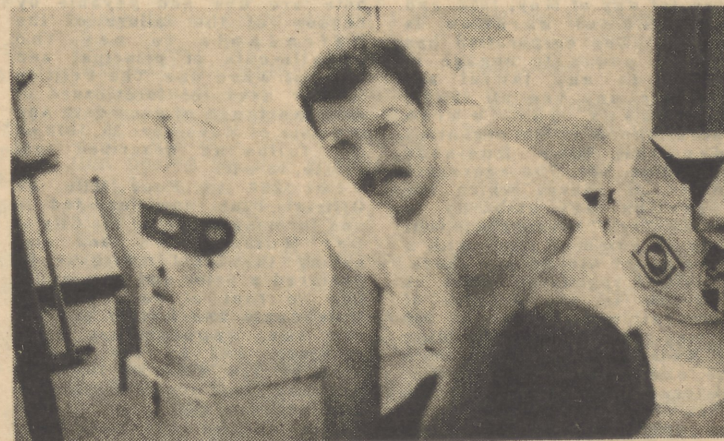

High-acid foods can be safely canned at boiling water temperature, using an unsealed canner or water-bath and boiling the filled jars or cans for as long as 30 minutes. Low-acid foods must be canned at higher temperatures, for which a sealed pressure canner is necessary, heating at 10 lbs. pressure (240 degrees) up to an hour or longer. The times required for both boiling water and pressure canning vary with the type of food and size of container being used.

Directions for safe canning of specific types of food can be found in the following booklets:

"Wise Ways to Can ... Fruits and Vegetables," (free) PM510 Iowa State University of Science and Technology, Ames, Iowa and "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," Home and Garden Bulletin No. 8, U.S.

Electrician Apprentice

Fred Rivas, E.A.

Fred A. Rivas, of 113 SE Kirkwood, was selected by the Electricians Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee in June 1975. He is employed by Baker Electric, Inc., 615 Center Street, Des Moines. At the present time he is working on the remodeling of the old Katz Drug Store at 19th & Carpenter.

Fred graduated from North High School in 1967 and was employed at Lennox Industries before applying for the Electricians Apprenticeship Program in January 1975. In addition to working on the job for 40 hours each week, he will be required to attend related classroom training each Saturday from 8 a.m.-2 p.m.

Department of Agriculture. The latter can be purchased for 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, Stock No. 0100-1595. County agriculture extension services also provide literature on proper canning.

Before eating canned foods, the containers and food should be inspected for signs of spoilage, such as bulging lids, leakage around the seal and spurting of the liquid, abnormal odor or mold in the food when the container is opened. Foods with any sign of spoilage or possible spoilage should be discarded in such a way that animals or children will not accidentally ingest some of them later. "When in doubt, throw it out," is a good rule of thumb, the Commissioner advises. Suspect foods should not be tasted, since even very small amounts of botulism toxin can cause serious disease.

Unless very confident that correct procedures are rigidly followed in the canning process, home-canned low-acids foods should be cooked at boiling temperatures (with thorough stirring) for at least ten minutes before eating, the Commissioner advises, adding that botulism toxin may be present in improperly canned foods without noticeable signs of spoilage.

THOMAS EDWARD SMITH,
BRENDA L. SMITH,
POLK COUNTY, IOWA,
DIAL FINANCE CO. OF PARK FAIR,
DEFENDANTS

You are hereby notified that the Petition of the Plaintiff in the above-entitled action is now on file in the Office of the Clerk of the District Court of Iowa in and for Polk County, Iowa, claiming personal judgment against Thomas Edward Smith and Brenda L. Smith, and judgment in rem against the property hereinafter described in the sum of $18,075.67, with interest at the rate of 7% percent, from and after November 1, 1974, on the promissory note of Thomas Edward Smith and Brenda L. Smith, executed and delivered to the Plaintiff's assignor, that the Plaintiff is the absolute owner thereof, and said note and mortgage given to secure said note are due and payable by reason of the failure of the Defendants to pay the installments of principal and interest when due. The Petition further asks for foreclosure of said mortgage of even date and the note of November 28, 1972 on the following described real estate, to-wit:

Lot 298 in Four Mile, an Official Plat, now included in and forming a part of the City of Des Moines, Iowa, and also asking that said mortgage be declared a prior and paramount lien to that of each and all Defendants and further praying for the appointment of a receiver, and for the amount paid by the Plaintiff for legal attorney fees, abstract expenses and all accruing costs of this action, and for such other relief as may be just and equitable in the premises.

You are further notified that the mortgage herein provides that in the event of foreclosure and sale of the property by Sheriff's sale, the time of one year redemption shall be reduced to six months provided that the mortgagee waives any right to take a deficiency judgment. Plaintiff reserves the right to waive all rights to a deficiency judgment prior to Sheriff's sale.

You are further notified that the mortgage herein provides that in the event the Court finds in the Decree that the titleholders who are personally liable on the mortgage have abandoned the premises and the mortgagee has waived any right to a deficiency judgment, the redemption period shall be reduced from one year to sixty (60) days.

The foreclosure Petition of the Plaintiff prays for a writ of possession in the event that any part of the mortgaged premises be sold under foreclosure decree and not redeemed from Sheriff's sale as provided by law without any other additional proceedings.

You are further notified to appear before said Court at Des Moines, in Polk County, Iowa, on or before the 18th day of July 1975 and that unless you do so appear, your default will be entered and judgment or decree rendered against you for the relief demanded in the Petition.

WEATHER STATIONS GIVE 24-HOUR WEATHER

Now, you've got the weather when you need it. In more than 75 areas around the U.S., continuous 24-hour-a-day weather reports are being broadcast by the National Weather Service's expanding weather/warning network.

The weather broadcasts, which are updated every two to three hours, can be received within a radius of 50 miles from the new 1000 watt transmitters, and 25 miles from older 300 watt units. Seventy-seven transmitters, which reached one-half the United States population in early 1975, will be joined in the coming months by 269 more throughout the country.

The continuous weather reports, on special frequencies of 162.4 and 162.55 MHz, are especially useful for sportsmen, campers, pilots, boaters and travelers, as well as providing homeowners and farmers accurate, up-to-the-minute local weather forecasts.

Radio manufacturers are now producing a wide variety of reasonably priced radios capable of receiving the weather frequencies. For example, General Electric offers six "instant weather" radios, including portable and clock radios. These allow the listener to switch from standard FM or AM stations to the local weather frequency at the touch of a button.

IBEN Presents A Bicentennial Musical Special

A one-hour Iowa Bicentennial musical special will be presented by the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network Thursday, July 3 at 9 p.m.

Featured is Iowa-born Marilyn Maye, in "Memories For A Centennial '76" which reflects the many musical moods of past and present Iowa. Other performances are presented by jazz trumpeter "Doc" Evans, The Warren County String Ticklers (Bluegrass), the Scott Smith Trio, the Adventureland Dancers, and Des Moines' own Valley High School Marchmasters.

Taped at Adventureland in Des Moines, the musical review uses over 500 Iowa "extras" of all ages for audiences and program participants. Scenes include a jazz medley of Bix Beiderbecke tunes performed by Eyans, a nostalgic stroll by Miss Maye down the main street of old town Adventureland, a parade by the 226 piece Valley band around the town square, a bluegrass concert and dance number from an old-time western saloon.

Songs include "76 Trombones" and the "Iowa Corn Song" by the Valley High School Marchmasters; "Until There Was You," "Cabaret," "If My Friends Could See Me Now" and "Maybe This Time" by Miss Maye; "Foggy Mountain Breakdown" and "Orange Blossom Special" by The Warren County String Ticklers; and "I'm Coming Virginia" and "At the Jazz Band Ball" by "Doc" Evans.

"Memories For A Centennial '76" is an IEBN Cultural Affairs Division production. Tom Grasso is producer/director and John Beyer is director.

The musical special can be seen in Des Moines on Channel 11, Channel 12 in Iowa City; Channel 32 in Waterloo; Channel 27 in Sioux City and in Mason City on Channel 24.

Low-cost Insurance Available for Vets

The Veterans Administration has urged veterans discharged from service between April 3, 1970, and August 1, 1974, to apply by midnight August 1 if they want low-cost Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI).

Approximately 2.7 million former servicemen separated from military service during that period became eligible for VGLI under the Veterans Insurance Act of 1974 (May 24), Robert L. Winters, director, VA Regional Office, Des Moines, said.

The insurance is designed to assist veterans through readjustment periods, may be carried for five years only, and is available in increments of $5,000 up to a maximum $20,000.

Premiums for maximum coverage are $3.40 monthly for veterans aged 34 and under, and $6.80 for those 35 and over. To be eligible, the veteran must be in good health, except for service-connected disabilities.

Winters said that veterans who convert their Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to VGLI within 120 days of leaving service need no health information. But those who wait beyond the 120-day period must apply within one year from the end of the 120-day period and must be in good health except for service-connected disabilities.

Application forms for VGLI are available from VA offices and veterans service organizations. Completed applications and first month premiums for those separated before August 1, 1974, must be submitted before midnight August 1, 1975, to: Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102.

They Will Wake Up Someday

If you watched the Coaches' All-American football game last week, you must have been impressed by Solomon of Florida State who wants to prove that he can play quarterback in pro football.

The man proved himself to be a leader, a good passer when he wasn't rushed off his feet, and a heady player but as I heard it, the team he is going to wants to make him a wide receiver.

Why do they want to do that? There are two fellows playing quarterback in the WFL because they wanted to play that position instead of being pass catchers. Teams will nurse a fellow along for two or three years or more in the hope that he will develop, but it looks as if that isn't true if he happens to be black.

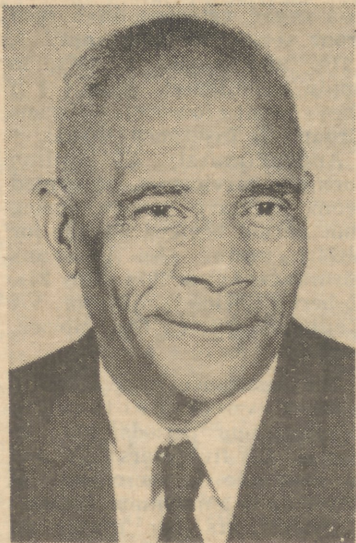

Do they think the team won't play behind a black quarterback? I recall how the Pittsburgh Steelers coach left his choice of signal callers up to the fans, and you know who they picked over Gilliam. The guy had better come through or people would still be scraping egg off their faces. Maybe they will wake up someday.

Los Angeles' quarterback James Harris should have proved that quarterbacks come in all colors. That should have made somebody want to give Solomon a chance.

Tennis, Anyone?

The Hilltop Tennis club is trying to get things started at Good Park before their annual tournament. Plans are being formed for a ladder tournament that will likely run five or six weeks as well as the meet that was held last year. The ladder meet will be open to people who play at the park, but the other meet will be a closed one.

Starting June 30 there will be a series of four lessons given in the evenings at the park. The instructor will likely be an old guy too old to lift a racket, so he will have to have some help. But we will try to get in lessons for people who want to improve their game and beginners.

By Allen Ashby

Maybe we will get a good bunch interested in the game again.

I DIDN'T GET IN

Last Friday the Road Runners met at the Grand Lanes for their weekly cash bowl. Somebody must have read the story last week in which I said I didn't know just what they were doing, and they invited me to get in.

I looked at the lineup of hungry bowlers, and wondered if they were inviting me just to be sociable, or if they looked on me as fresh meat, or if they were challenging me. I did what most good poker players do when in doubt. I passed this time. Maybe next week, fellows, and maybe not.

ALI SHOULD WIN, BUT —

Next month Muhammad Ali defends his heavyweight title again. This time his opponent is a fairly tough British who says he won't be afraid of the champ is at the time in his career when he can have a bad round or even a bad night and there could be an upset. You don't know how fast you can lose your stuff until it happens to you.

In your early thirties, you have nintey-five per cent of your speed and your punch, but at times you can't get it all together for some periods. If you can stay out of trouble during those periods, you can weather the storm and go on to win.

This will probably happen to Ali, but if the Briton catches him with a stiff one on the whiskers during one of those lapses, there could be an upset.

ONE HELLUVA TRACK MEET

Way back before even my high school days there used to be a national high school track meet held in Chicago that was called the A.A. Stagg meet, named after the famous Chicago University football coach.

I recall that one fellow who lived in Boone hoboed his way to the meet to compete. He found that he was really in fast company, for in most of the meets the prep marks equaled or bettered the college marks around the country. Well, they brought back the thing in the presence of a meet held over the past week end at Mt. Prospect High in Chicago, and the marks were really something to shout about.

For instance, the first four runners in the hundred yard dash did under 9:4, and they ran under 21.5 for the first places in the 220. Dave Korir of Cedar Rapids who has yet to lose a half-mile race did the distance in 1:50 and the next four runners came in under the old mark of 1:52. Korir said he runs "just fast enough to win." What if somebody pushed him?

And so it went all down the line, with the high hurdles going in 13.1 and another guy a split second behind the winner in 13.18. The field marks were in the same category, in that it would take championship performances just to qualify. And there was a native Iowan who set a mark in the girls 220 by running 24.13 almost two seconds under the old mark. An Ames girl cleaned up in the girls 880 doing it in 2.15. Yes, it certainly brought memories of the old Stagg meet. Never did learn why that was discontinued.

GSU, Alcorn Get Dome "Out of Red"

A new chapter in small-college football history will be written on Sept. 6 when Grambling and Alcorn State play the first college football game in the Superdome.

Governors Edwin Edwards of Louisiana and Bill Waller of Mississippi made the announcement last week during ceremonies attended by officials of both schools and the Superdome Board of Commissioners.

They emphasized that it was an honor for two black schools to occupy the prestigious ceremonial place of honor.

"Here we are," Gov. Edwards said, "two white governors signing for two black schools to get the Superdome out of the red."

Coaches Eddie Robinson of GSU and Marino Casem, the remarkable Alcorn mentor, displayed genuine pride in the confidence placed in their teams by the Superdome. The Tigers and Braves are co-champs of the Southwestern Athletic Conference. They depart from their usual tribal custom and possibly decide the league championship in the first, rather than the final game.

GSU opens and closes its season in the Superdome.

Ali Plans To Retire

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia—Muhammad Ali said he will not fight any more after his July 1 bout with Joe Bugner because he wants to spend more time with his family and branch out in other directions.

But several Ali camp followers and members of the press viewed the announcement with skepticism, especially in view of negotiations that have been under way for a third fight with Joe Frazier in which Ali would get about $8 million.

Ali did "apparently leave leeway for a change of mind. Just before I go into the ring I will make my decision. I'm 99

Morgan Wins MEAC Title In Basketball

Two years ago, Morgan State College won the NCAA College Division Basketball Championship, but lost the Mid-Eastern Atlantic Conference (MEAC) Champion game to University of Maryland Eastern Shore (UMES) but the MEAC stripped UMES of this honor and gave the championship to Morgan.

This decision came when the NCAA announced two ineligible players from the UMES team. The two players named were Joe Pace (now of Coppin) for receiving aid while ineligible and William Gordon for playing more than four seasons in his college career.

UMES who went to the NIT in New York as the first black school to do so, beat Morgan in the conference championship game, 77-62. This was the only honor to elude Marvin Webster and the college division champs that year.

Enroute to their 1974, 28-5 season (11-1 conference) record, coach Nat Frazier was named Associated Press College Division "Coach of the Year" and Webster was named "Player of the Year" (college division) for a clean sweep of basketball honors in 1974 by Morgan State College.

This year Morgan finished second in the MEAC with a 8-4 conference record and 19-10 overall.

per cent sure I'll retire."

Following a workout, Ali held a news conference at his hotel where he said:

"You can write I'm gonna retire. I'm gonna announce it officially on television so the people can hear my voice. To fans and non-fans alike, this will be the last time you'll see me fight.

Demos Seek Ties At Liaison Meet

Iowa Democrats of a Spanish-Speaking background will hold a meeting in Des Moines July 12, to select a person to represent them on the Democratic State Central Committee.

Recently, that body created the position of "minority liaison" which would allow for minorities groups in Iowa to be in official communication with the Democratic Party organization, through a non-voting representative.

The meeting is slated to begin at 11 a.m. at the United Rubber Workers Hall at 125 Broadway just south of the Second Avenue exit on Interstate 80 in Des Moines.

In announcing the meeting, State Democratic Chair Tom Whitney encouraged Democrats of Spanish-speaking background to attend the meeting.

"The purpose of the minority liaison post is to provide an avenue by which the official organization of the Democratic Party can be tuned in to the needs of minority populations of this state, and by which those minorities can begin playing an active role in our political process."

Under conditions set down in the resolution which created the post, there must be at least fifty members of the group present at the meeting representing at least three of Iowa's six congressional districts to warrant creation of an official minority liaison for the group.

In addition, it is hoped that the group will establish a statewide political organization to work for the interests of the Latino community.
