SCHOOL BOARD'S ACTION IMPELS NAACP TO ACT

News Briefs

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was asked Tuesday to order reinstatement of Morris Dees as a defense attorney in the Joan Little murder trial.

Dees was removed July 30 by Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood, who is presiding over the trial in Raleigh, N.C. Miss. Little is charged with murdering Beaufort County, N.C., jailer Clarence Allgood, who she says tried to rape her while she was a prisoner in the jail.

BOSTON, Mass.--Police are blaming the second race-related beach disturbance of the summer on outside agitators.

A group of about 300 young white men smashed windows in passing cars Sunday as they waited to "defend" Carson Beach in South Boston from a rumored takeover attempt by blacks that never happened.

DES MOINES--The Des Moines Plan and Zoning Commission's selection of the Harding "neighborhood" in the northern part of the city for extensive planning was expected to meet some resistance at a City Council meeting Monday night.

David Pickett, chairman of the Model City Board, has asked that the council grant permission to a resident from that board's area to speak about the selection.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.--The prosecution in the Zebra murder trial was expected to end its case Monday against four black men accused of killing three whites in a series of street attacks.

A four-man legal team is to start presenting the defense Aug. 18 for Manual Moore, 30, Larry Craig Green, 23, J.C.X. Simon, 28, and Jessie Lee Cooks, 30.

LOS ANGELES, Calif.--Rock singer Little Richard has sued his former road manager for $11,000, complaining the ex-manager refuses to hand over business records the singer needs to support tax deduction claims.

NEW HEW SECRETARY

Criticizes Secretary's Stand On Busing

SAN FRANCISCO (NNPA)--In a mailgram to Dr. David Matthews, president of the University of Alabama who has just been confirmed as the new secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, National Newspaper Publishers Association president, questions his fitness to serve on the basis of his opposition to school busing. The mailgram follows:

"Your pragmatic opposition to public school busing leads National Newspaper Publishers Association-Black Press of America to question your psychological fitness to offer meaningful federal leadership in crucial struggle to remove racism from public education. Redress of long denied constitutional rights is seldom palatable to the offending white majority. For the past six years HEW, under the cloud of benign neglect, has been long on rhetoric and short on positive actions to implement federal judiciary decisions in the national public education crisis.

"What alternatives to busing do you offer those victims of institutional racism in public education? Your responses on busing delighted southern senators, however, as HEW secretary you assume national responsibilities more demanding than presidency of University of Alabama.

"The Black Press hopes that you will draw strength and guidance from the career of fellow Alabamian, late Supreme Court Justice Black. We pledge assistance in publicizing all positive measures instituted by you. Equally, we shall oppose vigorously any directive that alters the constitutional mandate to remove both institutional and individual racism from the government. We wish you success in this challenging appointment.

Rejects Proposal To Group 6 Elementary Schools Into 2 Attendance Areas

The Des Moines School Board's rejection of a proposal Tuesday to desegregate six elementary schools has prompted the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to consider taking legal action to force desegregation of the Des Moines public schools.

A decision as to what action will be taken will be considered by the local NAACP Chapter at an August 16 meeting.

The proposal defeated in Tuesday's school board meeting was to group six elementary schools into two attendance areas, each with three centers. The plan was to desegregate Casady by combining it with Monroe and Rice elementary schools and desegregate Logan by combining it with Garton and Phillips elementary schools.

Resulting combined student bodies would have a racial mix that would bring the schools into compliance with state guidelines. The three-center attendance area concept would have reduced minority enrollments at Casady and Logan to less than 31 per cent. At Casad and Logan, at least 75 per cent of the student populations are black.

Policy to Limit

A policy approved by the board to help prevent de facto segregation from increasing in the schools, will go into effect the fall of 1976. The policy places limits on the number of minority children who may attend individual schools. It does not say how to deal with any school that has a minority enrollment greater than 50 per cent.

School officials are not sure how the policy will be applied to Logan and Casady. Guidelines will be presented to the board before they are implemented.

Other Proposals

Nolan Gentry, board president, proposed a resolution to obtain a majority of the board members approval of desegregation of the schools. The effort was defeated by the board.

It is expected that a final decision by the board on desegregation of elementary schools may not be made until after the school board election September 9. The Des Moines board already has submitted a desegregation plan for junior and senior high schools and the state board has asked for an elementary plan to consider at its Aug. 14 and 15 meeting.

The state board has asked Des Moines for a desegregation plan because it contends the city's school board has not done enough to equalize the racial composition of its schools.

Other proposals considered by the board were:

- * To give King and Edmunds, one-year-old magnet schools with special educational programs designed to attract white students from other areas of the city, more time to allow their programs to work.

- * Leave Moulton alone because it has a minority enrollment just below 50 per cent and appears to be declining.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

A Move In The Right Direction

Community Development (Des Moines) via the Model City Prime Service Area, is planning a series of clean-up projects August 18th-22nd and August 25-29th.

A late beginning, as a rule clean-ups are done in the spring before the grass and weeds grow up. The movement is highly desirable and demonstrates newly found action in making the area a Model City.

I hope the program will be well-organized and that volunteers, particularly those in the area, will cooperate fully.

Long before Model Cities, the Bystander conducted spring clean-up campaigns among its subscribers. Prizes were offered for the best looking place in different neighborhoods also prizes were given for homes where the best effort was made with what was available by the homemaker. The board of realtors provided prizes each year and agreed to continue as long as the program was kept up.

I hope the project is a success for it will demonstrate that citizens in the area wish to make the name Model Cities meaningful.

Improper Influence At Court Trials

Even since the turn of the century, often when a Negro was being tried for murder, rape or lesser offense in many Southern communities, mobs surrounded the courthouse intimidating the prosecuting attorney, the lawyers, the judge and the jury and demanding the conviction of the defendant.

The NAACP, after many efforts, finally secured a ruling from the United States Supreme Court that trials held under such conditions were a disservice to the defendants, a denial of fair trial and violated the constitutional rights of the defendant. This was a good decision and the practice has been carried on very little since.

Three incidents have taken place at the trial of Joan Little in Raleigh, North Carolina where she is charged with the murder of a jailer.

First, a group of Negro ministers gathered around the courthouse and offered prayer for the acquittal of Miss Little. While their intentions were good, the courthouse, where a trial is being held, is no place for a group to offer prayer in an effort to put pressure on the outcome.

Second, Morris Dees, a member of the defense counsel staff, was barred from further participating in the case by presiding Judge Hamilton Hobgood because he was found to have attempted to prevail upon a state witness to change her testimony (the same thing was done by the prosecutor in Nevada, Story County District Court last year but no note was taken of it by the presiding judge).

Third, after Dees was banned from the case, chief counsel Jerry Paul invited William Kunstler, who has engaged in a number of notorious cases, to join with the defense. However, the judge refused. But not to be outdone, Kunstler chose the visitors' area of the courtroom to say "I see the quality of justice in North Carolina has not improved."

The judge warned Kunstler that any further comments of that kind from him would be dealt with by sending him to the fifth floor.

However, Kunstler continued and said, "Take me up there, what you are doing is outrageous." The judge sentenced him to jail for two hours for contempt.

Stunts of this kind do a defendant a disservice. True, there are injustices in many areas but generally our courts work orderly and with justice.

Negroes and their friends have made great progress by the intelligent use of the law in defending clients in the courtroom and by proper presentation in the legislative halls.

High Unemployment Among Minorities

Speakers at the recent meeting of the National Urban League in Atlanta, Georgia dealt heavily on the question of unemployment among Negroes. Further emphasis was given to unemployed youngsters, many of whom are returning to school this fall and need to make some contribution to the cost of their education.

Over the years, in many instances, Negroes have been the last hired and the first fired. Much of this is due the practice of the refusal of labor unions to admit them to membership. However, some of the unions have changed these practices, but even though Negroes were hired in recent years on these union jobs, due to contracts agreed upon by the employers and employees, even though unfortunate; they leave first you just cannot break contracts so easily.

President Ford is reluctant to advance legislation for any particular race but something must be done eliminate the terrible inequality between the employment rate of Negroes and whites.

While the situation is somewhat better, yet in the large cities the situation is terrible. Even in Des Moines, I don't believe Negroes are being hired in construction, street repair, garbage even projects that are financed by the federal government and in other areas where the masses of the people make their living.

I believe the Human Rights Commission should investigate this and do something about it and that the Civil Rights Commission should use their facilities to help alleviate the situation.

ADS DON'T COST, THEY PAY!

Wishful Thinking

TO THE EDITOR:

Would it not be great if a community committee would set up a project of "Beautifying the Neighborhood" where everyone in the community would donate time?

This project would need a very good coordinating staff. There could be appeals to local paint and lumber companies for materials to be donated or purchased at medium prices. Someone could write a proposal for a grant from city and federal governments.

Can you imagine what magnitude of moral up lifting this project would be to residents of that community? The need of togetherness in these hard times is very evident.

Manns is a salesman in men's clothing. He retired from the service and has worked part time for nine months with Brandeis in Omaha before coming to Des Moines.

The two-level store is the twelfth outlet in the Brandeis department store chain and its fourth largest. It marks the first major expansion of Brandeis outside Nebraska.

Brandeis has 163,455 square feet of retail space. In addition to its merchandise space, the store includes an auditorium available to local groups, a snack shop, beauty parlor and flower shop.

Another committee could help others in the art of housekeeping. Keeping a good-sized home is a job and takes skill in maintaining.

Des Moines is a city that has many family ties; there are members of large families who live in Des Moines. Even if all families would help each other that would be beautiful.

This is all wishful thinking on my part, and then again, a seed may be planted in somebody's mind. It takes hard work and self-discipline to achieve this concept. Everything would not happen overnight.

And if it ever happens, the relationship of the community will for evermore be intact-full of togetherness, warmth and love. We blacks, need the feeling of thoughtfulness and togetherness of one another.

Once we feel the unity on the community level, then we can go for larger and better goals in the community. We have to stop tearing each other up and start building.

"I guess I am a dreamer."

RALEIGH, N.C.--Activist lawyer William Kunstler, famed for his stormy defenses of dissidents, was ordered jailed briefly Monday for contempt of court by the judge in the Joan Little murder case.

The action followed Judge Hobgood's refusal to allow Kunstler to join the defense team for Ms. Little, a 21-year-old black woman accused of killing a white jailer. Kunstler was to have replaced another lawyer, removed from the case by Hobgood for allegedly asking a witness to lie.

Making summer bearable

When the temperature goes up it's kind of nice to be able to retreat into a comfortable air conditioned world. But with the costs of energy what they are today, it doesn't make sense to waste any of that cooling energy.

That's why making sure your home is properly insulated is so important. Insulation helps keep the hot out and the cool in, and saves money on your utility bill. Maybe you should be thinking about re-insulating.

An Iowa Power Registered Insulation Contractor can help and show you how you can finance re-insulation on your utility bill.

America's Double Standard

Within the past few weeks, it has come to light that our Department of Defense is cutting back on black recruits, implying agreed upon racial quotas set behind closed doors.

Now we are not opposed to racial quotas. In fact, we favor them. We would be satisfied with a 10 per cent across-the-board quota allocation. A 10 per cent limitation in volunteer military recruitment is all right, if we can have 10 per cent of all government and private jobs at every level, and our fair share of contracts.

One reason for the large number of blacks volunteering for the military is the lack of equivalent civilian positions for them. While blacks make up approximately 15 per cent of the government employees, and a somewhat larger percentage of the private work force, the level of their employment is concentrated in the lower grades.

For example, blacks compose 20-70 per cent of the bottom grade government employees, but hold an average of less than three per cent of the high level positions. The same trend prevails in industry, only worse.

But everytime the Equal Employment Opportunity

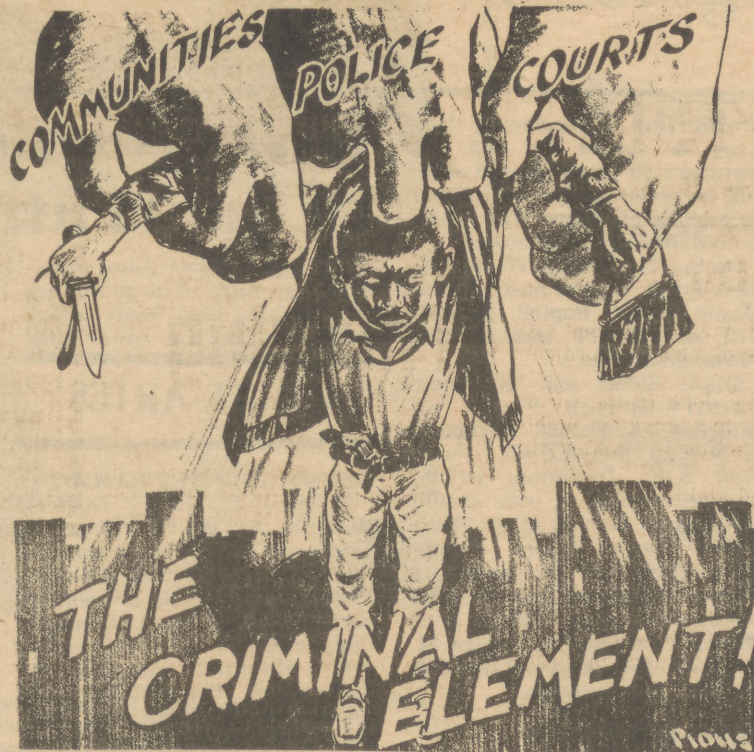

Commission or the affirmative action people raise the question of quotas, government and industry and most of our liberal friends throw up their hands, insisting that quotas are undemocratic. Instead, meaningless goals are offered as a substitute.

Yet when it comes to the military, and blacks begin to join up in percentages larger than their representation in the population, hands go up again. Now the government wants quotas.

And to prove it, within a year, it has cut back on black Army recruits from 30 to 17 per cent, the Navy, from 14 to 6 per cent, and the Air Force, from 22 to 12 per cent.

A fight against military quotas for blacks is being conducted by the National Newspaper Publishers Association, the Urban League, the Joint Center for Political Studies, and members of the Congressional Black Caucus, especially Rep. Ronald Dellums, a member of the House Armed Services Committee. But the chance of victory is not good without larger support from blacks. The voice of protest must be heard. America cannot have a double standard on quotas.

Having that philosophy is just like whistling in the dark. There are over 670,000 deaths in the U.S. from heart attack each year, many thousands of them among people in the prime of life. And growing indications are that heart disease in the U.S. may be a disease of prosperity. What are medical scientists discovering about this question?

In their search for a way to prevent heart attacks and strokes, scientists have studied the living habits and medical records of thousands of persons in middle age. The studies showed that those who had heart attacks often had one or more of the following conditions or living habits: High Blood Pressure—High levels of cholesterol or other fatty substances in the blood—Overweight—Diabetes—Lack of Exercise—Cigarette Smoking—Family history of heart attacks in middle age.

A person can harbor several of these risk factors and still feel well. We know that heart attacks sometimes strike people who have "never been sick a day in their lives". There are ways to reduce your risk of heart attacks. They are contained in a booklet entitled, "Reduce Your Risk of Heart Attack", which is free from the Iowa Heart Association. For your copy of this life-saving booklet, write: Iowa Heart Association, 3810 Ingersoll, Des Moines, 50312.

JACKSON PROMOTES SMILES OF JOY

Rev. Dr. Jesse Jackson, president of Operation PUSH, was keynote speaker for Rev. Dr. William A. Jones, Jr.'s Bethany Baptist Church of Brooklyn, New York's Annual graduates' banquet. Rev. Jackson gave a profound address, full of wisdom and positive direction, aimed primarily to the 12 honored young people who received college scholarships for outstanding service and achievement.

Each year, Rev. Jones, the pastor of Bethany, says that his church supports their aspiring young people by sponsoring them in educational, cultural, artistic, and social programs. He feels that is one of the prime responsibilities of all religious institutions.

Sharps' Vacation Is European Tour

Mr. and Mrs. William Sharp and son Larry returned July 23 from an exciting tour of Germany, Belgium, Holland and France which united them with their son-in-law, daughter and grandson, Master Sergeant and Mrs. Sammie Powell and Sammie, Jr. The Powells reside in Wildflecken, Germany.

The Sharps and Powells motored to Garmisch, Germany and toured the famous Linderhof Palace of King Ludwig II of Bavaria. Then they traveled by train halfway to the top of Mr. Zugspitz. The remainder of the way was taken by cable car to the top of Germany's highest mountain with an elevation of 10,000 feet.

From Garmisch, the Sharps and Powells motored to Brussels, Belgium where they visited the famous Atomium, the Grand Market Place and many historical buildings of the Middle Ages religious orders.

Leaving Brussels, the group went to Amsterdam, Holland to tour "Madurodam," the world's only miniature town of Europe, after which they took a boat cruise highlighting points of interest in Amsterdam, as well as view of the world's largest harbor leading out to the North Sea. Later a cheese farm was visited and samples of cheese were tasted. Continuing on to Den Haag, the capital of Holland, the group spent a day at the beach and shopped.

The group motored to Paris, France where they visited the Arc de Triomphe, Eiffel Tower, Notre Dame Cathedral, Tomb of Napoleon, Place de Pyramides, Luxembourg Gardens, Montmartre and many points of interest. The famous International Bicycle Race was in progress while the group was in Paris and they were able to see parts of it.

Leaving Paris, the group had breakfast at Verdun where the famous battle of Argonne, World War II was fought. They returned to Germany and departed from Frankfurt for Des Moines.

It Takes Courage To Step Into A Snake Pit

Take courage as your companion through all the days ahead, the same companion that the noble men and women of all ages have had as their closest friend-the courage to act now, the courage to keep on trying, the courage of master life's daily irksome tasks, the courage to keep one's mind free from worry, the courage to bar all negative thoughts, the courage to live up to our full potentials, the courage to know that success will come, the courage to meet the valley days, the courage of a dogged determination, the courage to eliminate fear by determining to win, the courage to admit mistakes you have made.

Give yourself the courage to build a philosophy of life under which you can live as a man in a new world, finding kinship with kings who conquer. Force yourself into the banquet hall of life and take your place at the table of leaders!

"Profile of A Professional..."

If one should every try to count every star in the sky, the task would invariably cover a million light years. On the other hand, if one should involve themselves in counting the personalities regarded as stars throughout the world, a considerable amount of time would be spent to come up with an accurate listing. Which proves, that anyway you approach the stars, it is a time consuming matter.

CANDY WARD is a young lady that is destined to be a star, and she realizes it takes time to get to that status, so she has been working towards being a star ever since she cried into the world in the Bronx sector of New York City, some twenty-odd years ago, a typical trait of the Sagittarius that she is.

Ironically enough, her formal training years were divided between her studies to be a nurse and learning to play both piano and violin. With CANDY, dancing was a natural and before long she was involved with professional dance groups performing around New York.

This in turn led her to becoming a professional dancer and travelling all over the world.

Her concern to be more dramatic in her approach to dancing, promoted her into studying drama, and the smell of the grease paint soon captured her soul.

Fate was in her favor and a professional dancing engagement brought her to Hollywood, California, where she continued her studies in drama, while supporting herself as a professional dancer.

Candy's professional drama training was highlighted by courses under Tony Barr's Professional Theater Workshop, and several courses under Frank Silvera; but it didn't stop there, nor has studying drama stopped for Candy Ward, who constantly enrolls and studies drama and acting, because she's determined to be the best.

She has performed in any number of theatre workshop group productions; and her dramatically starring roles in "Timeless Seconds" and "The Owl and The Pussycat" are still referred to by her instructors as outstanding stellar performances.

To-date, Candy's movie credits include: Street Fighters, Truck Turner, Black Belt Jones, Five On The Black Hand Side, The President's Analyst; Hook, Line and Sink, The Riot, Don't Make Waves, Seven Minutes, Melinda, Up Town Saturday Night, Dark Town Strutter's Ball, and the soon-to-be-seen Sidney Poitier production of Let's Do It Again (the sequel of Uptown Saturday Night.)

Anyday now, CANDY WARD might soar to the heights and be proclaimed as a box office queen of the silver screen, but for now, CANDY WARD, is our choice of the week, lovely actress and a "PROFILE OF A PROFESSIONAL."

By Allen Ashby

Our Hilltop Open tennis meet made its splash and left.

This had to be different in at least a couple of ways. First, the bunch from Omaha, there were twenty-one of them and all but two were black. They proved to be a well-behaved and disciplined group, as well as good tennis players.

They won at least one championship and finished second two other times. And they vowed to be back next year and said they were going to carry away some more trophies. Their leader, Kathy Trotter, was probably just the type of person who could handle that bunch, and they seemed to enjoy being handled by her.

The next surprising thing was the amount of coverage we got in the papers and television programs. Perhaps the fact that there was no Hawkeye meet, brought it all on, but this coverage was the greatest amount of space we have gotten in twenty-seven years.

It could be that folks have begun to recognize as, I don't know how many times I have heard the Hilltop is one of the finest meets in the state and that we have the best trophies. This comment comes from juniors and adults who have played around the state. So, maybe we are being noticed.

Some of the Winners.

The meet itself wasn't quite as big as the one last year, but we had better players in most of the events. There was the guy from California, Rodger Tout who won both the boys' eighteen-year old age group title and the men's singles.

We had Randy Krejei who who upset the number one doubles team to carry off the men's doubles crown. Just about everybody asked me why Mrs. Laura Williams was seeded second in the women's singles. She proceeded to show them by winning that crown. Esther Snype and Willie Alma Jones of Cedar Rapids went out in quarter finals after three set matches which they both had chances to win. But they are saying wait until next year.

Jack Silverman, who heads the Association ladder beat Erling Jensen for the forty-five and over honors. Jensen spotted his opponent over twenty years and just couldn't make it in the blistering heat.

The men's singles match was a hard-hitting affair with Randy Krejei not being able to get started against Tout, but it was a fine duel to watch. Laura Williams simply played too steady for her young component Cindy Clason, and stopped her late rally to take the match. We thought if Clason could win the second set she would have a chance, but that didn't happen.

The women's doubles was not played because one of the finalists found herself in a meet at Allentown Penn., having gotten there at the last minute. So Becky Seamon and Cindy Erhardt defaulted to Cindy Clason and Joy Rabinowitz. Rabinowitz teamed with T.J. Hill to take the mixed doubles cups. The defending champions of Krejei and Clason lost in the semi-final round to the eventual champs.

Lots of help

The thing about this meet which I thought was outstanding was the amount of help we got from everybody, both black and white. People who weren't in the Hilltop Club did whatever they were asked to do: acting as linemen, and doing whatever was necessary to put the thing over.

There was little Smith Williams. Smith is from the Deep South, I think and has an accent you could cut with a knife. When he first came around and offered to help years ago, Bill Ashby and Chet Williamson give him the fish eye, and I had my doubts. But the guy proved to be 100 per cent, and was actually glad to be calling the men's singles for us again.

In other years Jack Buss, director of the Hawkeye Meet used to call matches for us. This time he showed up and spent just about the whole day on the stand, and said he enjoyed it all. Tuesday when we found ourselves with more tennis courts than players, there was this guy Tout who tried to help, but got carried away. But he did help before he got too far out. Then I don't know how many people asked what they could do to help. The city was their usual cooperative group and we didn't have to wait for anything if we just let them know in advance.

ATA, USTA

One thing that made me feel rather bad was the fact that the USTA was inquiring about the age of one of the winners from Omaha, and the number of times we had to inform people that ours was really a sanctioned meet by both national associations, the ATA and the USTA. But we finally got the message across, and don't expect any further trouble on that scene, not even from folks who just can't believe it is so.

But it was a great meet, and I was happy to have been a part of it. We can't let go without mentioning the help brought up by Chet Williamson, who was the absolute boss at Good Park,

Henry Aaron, the quiet man of baseball, who holds more batting records than all the other players who have ever participated in the game combined, has in his characteristic, unflamboyant, down-to-earth way, fashioned a new sports constituency-the fan who likes to see history being made.

With "Hammering Hank" still breaking records, baseball is concentrating its attention on this, the steadiest and most consistent of all its sluggers.

Baseball records are, of course, quantitative and proofs of greatness must rest on a statistical base. And when it comes to statistics instead of press clips and ballyhoo, Aaron leads all the way. The proof of his new constituency, for example, is buried in the last item of the detailed box scores reported for each major league game-the day's attendance. In the 1975 season to-date, Aaron has hypoed the attendance of the and Kizzie Strothers, along with Alma Jones who turned out to be a fine printer, as well as a good tennis player. We had about twelve blacks in the thing, and some of them won first round matches. So, let go.

Milwaukee Brewers, his new ball club, by 51 per cent over its record for the same number of games in 1974. In comparison, Atlanta where Aaron set many of his records-except for the public orgy of home run 715 (in virtually complete isolation as far as the fans are concerned)-the gate has dropped since he left.

The Brewers' records indicate that Aaron brings an average of 7,000 additional fans into the Milwaukee ball park for every home date. Back in Atlanta, without Hank for the first time in its major league history, its attendance has shrunk, 2,300 fans per home date. What the figures say is that quiet Henry has been personally responsible for a 10,000 per date swing in attendance between the two clubs-bringing one up from eighth place to third in its league and dropping the other from eleventh to twelfth place.

In the 11 major categories of baseball hitting, Henry is first in seven. He makes a new record everytime he appears in a game, comes to bat, adds to his total bases, gets an extra base hit, bats in a run and, of course, gets a home run. He is also number one in two lesser categories-sacrifice flies and intentional walks.

He has a chance, depending on whether he goes for another full season, of taking the leadership in runs scored from Cobb who is approximately still 100 ahead with 2245. However, a couple of records are well beyond his grasp. Cobb is more than 500 hits ahead with a career total of 4192. Tris Speaker has 180 more doubles to his credit, and in triples-a lost art in today's baseball, Henry would need some 40 years to catch up with Sam Crawford who had 309.

Congress Gives Final Approval To Extension of Voting Rights Act

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Congress has voted final approval of a bill to extend the Voting Rights Act—the law that led to the election of more than 1,500 black public officials and the registration of 1.5 million new black voters in the South.

The extension is for seven years—from August 6, 1975, to August 6, 1982. In June, the House of Representatives voted to extend the Act for 10 years. The Senate, however, approved a seven-year extension and returned the bill to the House on July 24. House and Senate managers of the bill said that there might not be enough time for an effort to reverse the Senate action before the August 6 expiration date, soon July 28 the House sent the bill to the White House to be signed into law.

Congressman Andrew Young voted for final passage and said: "If anybody doubts the need to continue the Voting Act, we can point to numerous violations of voting rights in the South just this summer. The battle is now over. Congress should also pass legislation designed to register all potential voters and to provide permanent protection of voting rights."

Young is the first black Congressman from Georgia in 101 years.

Under the Voting Rights bill just passed:

* Six Southern States (Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Virginia) and most of North Carolina are specially covered. All changes in voting laws and practices in these areas must be cleared by the federal government before they can be put into effect. Also, the Attorney General can order federal registrars and poll watchers into these areas.

* Literacy tests and other voting qualifications which have been used to deny voting rights are permanently banned throughout the nation.

* Private citizens may recover attorneys' fees when they are successful in federal suits to enforce their voting rights.

* For the first time, the Voting Rights Act covers "language minorities"—citizens of Spanish heritage, American Indians, Asian Americans and Alaskan natives.

Col. Robert W. Dews

Assistance Command in Vietnam and later assigned to the Army Office of Equal Opportunity Programs in the Pentagon. Prior to assignment to DRRI he was a group commander with the U.S. Army Southern European Task Force.

Among the awards and decorations Colonel Dews has received are the Legion of Merit, the Meritorious Service Medal with one oak leaf cluster, the Army Commendation Medal with two oak leaf clusters, and Joint Service Commendation Medal.

Col. Thomas J. Lapos, USAF, who has been director, Department of Social Actions Training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, has succeeded Colonel Dews as Deputy Director for Instruction at DRRI.

More than 3,500 military and civilian students have graduated from DRRI.
