Black Leaders Present At Signing Of Act

Morris Attends NBA National Convention

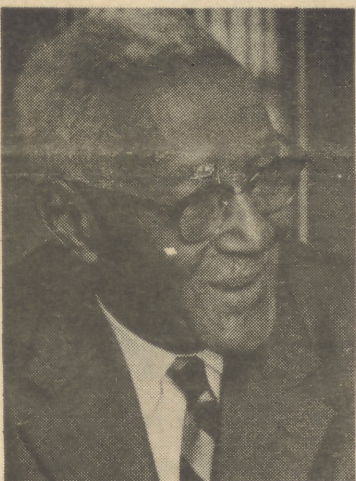

James B. Morris, Sr., publisher emeritus of the New Iowa Bystander, will attend the 50th Annual National Convention of the National Bar Association (NBA) in Washington, D.C. August 18-23.

Morris, who will be 85 in October, is the only remaining member of the Iowa delegation at the NBA's charter meeting in August, 1925.

Other members of Iowa's delegation which met at that time were George H. Woodson, NBA's first president, S. Joe Brown, Charles P. Howard and Gertrude E. Rush.

The idea to form the organization belongs to Woodson. He "decided to form a more active association because blacks (lawyers) were not admitted to the National Bar Association," Morris said in an interview. Invitations were sent to the nation's Negro lawyers.

JAMES B. MORRIS, SR.
NBA ORIGINAL MEMBER

"Forty-eight members from all over the country were at the initial meeting," Morris said. He added that most of the delegates came from Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit.

Present NBA membership, according to the Des Moines lawyer, numbers 3,000 strong. Organized and incorporated in Des Moines, the NBA has its central office in Washington, D.C.

In July 1969 the NBA presented Morris, one of its eldest members, with a life membership certificate. Morris worked his way through school at Hampton Institute and later earned his law degree from Howard University. Admitted to Iowa Bar in 1917, he presently shares a law firm with son, Brad.

Morris said, "I was a member of the first Des Moines Human Rights Commission" which was called the Mayor's Commission on Human Rights and Job Discrimination. He is also active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The NBA is dedicated to the advancement of jurisprudence, the administration of justice, preserving the independence of the judiciary, maintaining the highest professional standards and the protection of the civil and political rights of all citizens of the United States.

Selected By Ray

Charles W. Toney, 1605 Coffelt Ave., Davenport, Monday received an appointment by Gov. Robert Ray to a four-year term on the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

Toney, director of minority relations for Deere & Co., Moline, since 1972, will replace DeEdwin White, Burlington. Toney, a Democrat, is one of three appointees to the commission announced by Ray.

Ray also reappointed Gary H. Koerselman, a Sioux City Republican, to the commission on which he has served since 1972, and named Gretchen M. Bataille, Ames, an independent, to succeed Elizabeth Kruidenier, Des Moines.

The appointments are subject to Senate confirmation.

Toney, who has been prominent in community affairs for many years, was awarded an honorary degree by St. Ambrose College earlier this year in recognition of his work at local and state levels in equal employment opportunity and human rights.

Ray also announced appointment of State Public Safety Commissioner Charles Larson as acting director of the Iowa Crime Commission.

Larson was placed at the head of the Crime Commission, which is undergoing reorganization, pending selection of a permanent replacement for George Orr who retired.

NAACP Lobbyist Praises President For Supporting Voting Rights Extension

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — "Your commitment to this legislation has been unwavering," veteran NAACP lobbyist Clarence Mitchell, Jr., told President Ford in a precedent setting statement following the signing of the Voting Rights Bill last week in the White House Rose Garden.

This message of appreciation from Mitchell, who is often critical of the President, brought loud applause from nearly 100 cabinet officers, members of Congress, civil rights leaders, and government officials who had been invited to witness the signing.

Further, Mitchell said, "As one of those working for the passage of the Voting Rights Act, I was always sure of where you stood. This knowledge," he continued, "was helpful in getting bi-partisan support for those in Congress who were leading the effort."

"Your signing of the completed bill today," Mitchell added, "is a victory for Democrats, Republicans and people of goodwill everywhere."

President Ford said in his prepared statement: "The right to vote is at the very foundation of our American system and nothing must interfere with this very precious right. Today is the 10th anniversary," he recalled, "of the signing by President Johnson of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 which I supported as a member of the House of Representatives.

"The bill I will sign today extends the temporary provisions of the Act for seven more years and broadens the provisions to bar discrimination against Spanish-speaking Americans, American Indians, Alaskan natives and Asian Americans."

Ford added, "further, this bill will permit private citizens, as well as the Attorney General, to initiate suits to protect the voting rights of citizens in any State where discrimination occurs."

The original Voting Rights Act was passed shortly after the historic 1965 Alabama march to Montgomery, Ala., to protest voting discrimination. Seventy-two blacks held office in the 11 Southern states that year, and in Selma, where Martin Luther King, Jr., launched the march, only 2.1 per cent of voting-age blacks were registered.

This spring there were 1,587 blacks in office in the South, including 1,114 in the seven states then covered by the act. The 1975 black voting-age enrollment figure for Selma is 70 per cent.

Among those present for the signing were: Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Attorney General Edward Levi, and Senator Philip Hart of Michigan.

Blacks included: Representatives Barbara Jordan, John Conyers, and Charles Rangel; civil rights leaders Roy Wilkins, NAACP; Vernon Jordan, National Urban League; Bayard Rustin, A. Philip Randolph's Institute; John Lewis, Voter Education Project; J. Francis Pohlhaus of the NAACP; and Mitchell.

Others were: Mrs. Pauline Ellison of the Links; Sherman Briscoe, NNPA; John Buggs, Civil Rights Commission; Lowell Perry, new chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; and John Wilks, Republican National Committee; Robert Brown, former assistant to the President.

White House black staff members included: Stanley S. Scott, who served as a host; his assistant, John Calhoun; Aaron Spaulding, assistant director of Presidential personnel; Richard Parson, counsel to the Domestic Council; and Thaddeus Garrett, assistant to Vice President Rockefeller.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Ford has nominated Clarence Mitchell, Jr., 61, to be a full delegate to the next session of the UN General Assembly when it meets in September.

Mitchell is director of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP and a lawyer by profession. His home is in Baltimore. Frd also named Mrs. Carmen Maymi, a Puerto Rican and director of the Women's Bureau in the U.S. Labor Department, as an alternate U.S. delegate.

This is the first time since the UN began that the U.S. delegation has included two minority representatives.

RALEIGH, N.C. — Attorneys for Joan Little rested their case Tuesday after she testified that she fled for her life after stabbing her white jailer but would not have left the jail had she known he was dying.

SALISBURY, RHODESIA — Rhodesia's white-ruled government said Tuesday it will soon open talks with African Nationalists expected to lead to black majority rule. They will be held in a luxury railway coach on a bridge straddling the scenic Victoria Falls between Rhodesia and Zambia.

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. — The number of black doctors in the United States has not increased in five years, partly because young blacks are being driven away from medicine by economic pressures and prejudices, the National Medical Association says.

VIEWS and REVIEWS by James B. Morris

It Is Better To Do Something Even If You Make A Mistake

When the Des Moines School Board appointed a representative committee to study defacto segregation in public schools, I felt that we were on the right track to solve the problem without undue conflict.

True, they made extensive studies and came up with a program. Naturally everybody could not be pleased but it gave a basis for reaching a peaceful settlement.

Open meetings were held where the public was offered an opportunity to question the members of the committee as well as some members of the board. I attended the first meeting. It appears that opposition forces had organized a campaign based on their opposition to busing, to which they directed all of their attention. The board seemed unprepared to meet the issue and thus seemingly came out second best.

Subsequently, other programs have been suggested and meetings held but so far the board has failed to produce a proposal which meets the approval of the majority of its members. I feel that it would have been better to have adopted some program. The fellow who stands still never accomplishes anything.

Then, too, the board should realize that whatever plan is adopted must meet the requirements of the Civil Rights Commission, otherwise the whole matter will be brought up in court whether the present members or others elected in September will be in charge.

Spreading Ourselves Too Thin

Secretary Kissinger is trying hard, with his traveling diplomacy, to bring about peace in the Near East. This has been going on for a long time, such as with the case with the Vietnamese War. Whatever was done wound up in the worse results of international failures in the history of the country.

The terrible ending was brought about, to a great extent, because we agreed to help stop the flow of communism further south in Viet Nam.

While all this was going on, Russia sold our enemies all kinds of war material and came out smiling at the end of our attempted conquest.

I hope history will not repeat itself in the Middle East. In the press of trying to reach a settlement, we find ourselves deep in the terms of suggested agreements.

I have long wondered why the facilities of the United Nations have not been used more to settle difficulties between nations rather than let the United States take the lead and bear the responsibility when things go wrong.

Commendation Is Deserved

The group of men and women, who met the goal set to raise nine million dollars for the renovation for certain portions of downtown Des Moines, deserves credit for its persistency and effort.

Judging from the list of contributors, one would conclude that interest is widespread which goes a long way to assure success of the program. Downtown Des Moines, like many other communities, has been hurt with a flow of residents and business to the perimeter of the city leaving it without the support of the whole community it deserves. We hope this excellent start will tend to reverse, to some extent, the drain on downtown Des Moines.

The job has just begun and deserves the support of citizens throughout the community.

Satellite receiving for Cablevision

Hawkeye Cablevision, Inc., the cable television operator in the Des Moines metropolitan area, has announced that it plans on installing a satellite receiving earth station in Des Moines this winter. The earth station, to be located at the Company's studios at 5233 N.E. 15th Street, will be the first of its kind in the Midwest. In making the announcement, James Hoak, Jr., President of the Cable Company, said that Hawkeye will file with the Federal Communications Commission for approval to construct the earth station this month, and expects approval later this year. The target date for turn-on of the earth station is March 1, 1976.

The supplier of the earth station has not yet been chosen; however, Hawkeye is presently negotiating with Scientific-Atlanta, Inc., the largest supplier of this equipment. The earth station will be capable of receiving signals from satellites, and the Company plans to use it to receive various programming in the future. The first use will be the reception of the Home Box Office service in the Spring of 1976. Hawkeye has contracted with Home Box Office, a subsidiary of Time, Inc., New York, N.Y., to supply the Des Moines area with its subscription television service via the RCA Satellite. The HBO service is a combination of first run movies, live sports, and other high-quality programming which will be available on a subscription basis to Hawkeye subscribers.

Hawkeye Cablevision, Inc., is a subsidiary of Heritage Communications, Inc., the operator of cable television systems in 25 communities in four states.

(Editor's Note: The following is a letter from Stuart A. Scott chairman of Quint-City Chapter of Congress of Racial Equality. The Bystander does not know to whom the letter was addressed. It was submitted by our Davenport reporter.)

On July 29, 1975, the Black people of Davenport, Iowa were brutally reminded that they are subject to the racist actions of the city government through actions of the City of Davenport Police Department.

On the night in question, a young man was shot in a city park by a plainclothes police officer. The shooting alone was tragic and unnecessary but the actions of the police become even more abused when one considers the following facts:

* The park was crowded with approximately 75-100 children.

* A shotgun was used to down the young Black man.

* The officers were dressed in plain street clothes and an unmarked car.

* Not only was the fugitive shot at, but also another young Black man whose only crime was that he wore clothing similar to those of the alleged fugitive.

* The police officers involved in the shooting were involved in an investigation for several prior incidents alleging brutality toward Blacks and youths.

* and, after being critically wounded, the fugitive was handcuffed, cursed and forced to walk to the ambulance.

Eyewitnesses have sworn the above allegations are true. I, Stuart A. Scott, can attest to most of the above allegations because I was there. Armed with these facts CORE, through its membership and other concerned citizens, went to a Davenport City Council meeting and demanded respect and justice from our city leaders. We demanded the officers involved be suspended without pay until a full and just investigation was conducted. The mayor and some councilmen, after more than an hour of testimony, granted us our demands.

The mayor reversed her decision the following morning, offering the officers are involved a paid vacation (inactive duty with pay). This, my Black friends proves your worth, clarifies your second-class rating, defines the limits of your abilities to effective change and finally, this action proves and reinforces the known fact that a racist system, run and controlled by racist people, will not afford justice to Black people of this land.

A clear challenge has been made and CORE, in its never ending battle for peace and justice, accepts the challenge with your support and confidence. The battle for justice and self-determination has just begun. CORE has united and revitalized the Black community in this battle and with our sweat and blood, no force under God can turn us about.

First Aid Moves

After forty years in the same place, the Red Cross has moved its Main First Aid Station to a new and better location for the Iowa State Fair, it was announced by Arthur Long, first aid chairman for the Central Iowa Chapter of Red Cross.

The station was moved from the lower level of International Place to its own building just north of Pioneer Hall and south of Camp Gate No. 1. The new station will offer better facilities and accessibility is easier as it can be reached by the fair shuttle bus. The other station is still located in the west end of the grandstand and the mobile unit will continue to tour the fairgrounds.

Long said 100 highly-trained Red Cross volunteers, first aiders, and nurses will be available to care for the expected 1500 people who will be injured or become ill. He said that the first aid is provided as a free service of the Red Cross and no charge for care has ever been made.

If the fairgoer should suffer a very serious injury or illness, Capital City Ambulance Service will be immediately available for transportation to the appropriate medical facility.

marches protesting "school racism" before classes begin in the fall. He did not elaborate on his plans, but he did say: "We must go, neighborhood by neighborhood to rouse the people. We have seen an arrogant demonstration of white racism... and we must act and act fast."

Chicago's schools have more than a 58 percent Black population, though Blacks comprise only about one-third of the city's population.

AME Church Gives To Africare

Bishop H. Thomas Primm, center, African Methodist Church, chairman of the AME Church African water drive, is presenting a $50,000 check to Dr. Joseph C. Kennedy, Africare's director of international programs. Money will be used for water development in Mali, a country in the drought stricken Sahel. Looking on are: Rev. Dr. John R. Bryant, left, co-chairman of the water drive; Dr. Rosa L. Graggs, treasurer of the drive; and Bishop H.N. Robinson, president of the AME Council of Bishops.

Problems Brewing In Chicago

CHICAGO — Chicago may be in for some trying times before school reopens in the fall. Racial demonstrations are being talked about and Chicago Teachers Union president John Healey has already given some "strike" talk.

What set off this speculation was the selection of Joseph P. Hammon, as the new Chicago school superintendent. Hammon, 42, was named to head the nation's second largest school system over deputy superintendent Manford Byrd Jr., a Black who was the second-ranking school official behind retiring superintendent James F. Redmond. Hammon was voted in by a 7-to-4 vote by the school board, Hammon was assistance superintendent in charge of faculty planning and an educational consultant before being named superintendent.

"If Byrd had been white, he would have won," said Carey Preston, a Black school board member who voted with the board's other two Blacks and one white for Byrd.

FCC
COMMISSIONER

Last year I attended the Annual Black Caucus Dinner in Washington, D.C. As usual, the affair was a resounding success with some 3,000 persons—many of them black celebrities—in attendance. The dinner honored four widows of black men who have done much to change the quality of life in a positive way in America:

Mrs. Medgar Evers, Mrs. Malcolm X, Mrs. Martin Luther King, Jr., and Mrs. Whitney M. Young, Jr.

The main speaker was Atlanta's young, personable and popular black mayor, Maynard Jackson. If you will bear with me for a moment, I'd like to present here some excerpts from his speech, a speech that is one of the most warm, moving and powerful I have ever heard, partly I suppose because the theme centered around the black mother:

"Over three and one half centuries ago, an old, gray-haired mother stood on the shores of the mighty African continent and watched with strained gaze a small ship slowly fade from view. As that vessel of evil disturbed the serenity of that tranquil sea, she endured the pain of recalling that her sons and daughters had been stolen, beaten, chained and sold into a system so perverse that it challenged her understanding.

"She knew nothing of the politico-economic arrangements of that day. Words such as mercantilism and imperialism meant nothing to her. But in her heart she knew that something bad had just made an attack upon the soul of her people.

"Although she was left behind, too old to be privy to the plunder, she felt the tremors when that enslaved black humanity which, theretofore, had thrived under the moon and stars of freedom, survived the middle passage and was spewed onto the docks of Jamestown, Va., to make cotton King and the King Corrupt.

"As we were defined as chattel, sold like a horse, worked like a mule, mated like cattle and treated like a dog, the spirit of that old woman presided over us. She saw us emancipated into a system of freedom where everybody was free but us. She consoled us while we endured pellagra, boll weevil, exploitation, lynching, castration and racism so barbaric that its vestiges plague the oppressed and the oppressor even a century later.

"Today, as we remember our common roots, we honor these four matriarchs of the movement and the strength, intelligence and compassion of universal Black Womanhood which they represent.

"We celebrate the black woman as our 'Rock of Ages'...clothed in the raiments of poverty, surrounded by rumpled shopping bags, waiting for her ride home after a hard's work for too little money, hers is not the smooth contour of the Venus De Milo, the mysterious smile of the Mona Lisa, or the languid beauty of a Paul Ganguin Polynesian bather.

"She bulges from too many starches. She grimaces from corns and bunions that vie for position on weary feet. She is weathered by experience and withered by the heavy burden of being overworked, oppressed and ignored. But she's our Rock of Ages, standing steadfast against the tides of trouble, the rancor of racism and the bitter winds of benign neglect."

Those are powerful words, moving descriptions, evoking haunting imagery and I have quoted him at such length because much of the speech has not been reported in the national media—neither print nor electronic—and I think our people ought to be cognizant of it. Even if they have read it in whole or in part, in the local Black Press, the speech is so moving, it will not hurt to offer it for a re-reading.

Jackson said also "she taught us to love another. Yet the spiraling incidence of black-on-black crime makes her wail the words from Genesis: 'The voice of your brother's blood is crying to you from the ground.'" And he said: "She taught us to survive on little in a land of plenty.

"Yet, now she stands in a mute amazement at an America where the thing that is fed the best is inflation and it is partial to dark meat. Our Rock of Ages taught us that if we did right, obeyed the law and loved the Lord we too, could walk America's glory road up to Canaan Land. Yet she now sees that when America catches cold, Black America catches pneumonia." More of this in a future column.

Would Spur Inflation, Unemployment

PITTSBURG—PPG Industries President Joseph A. Neubauer has urged Congress to defeat a bill that would allow a striking union to shut down an entire building construction site.

He said the bill would fuel inflation, increase unemployment, and slow the construction of middle-income housing.

The PPG president's statement came in a letter to Kentucky Rep. Carl D. Perkins (D-7th Dist.), chairman of the House of representatives education and labor committee which now is considering the bill. The firm supplies glass, paints and other construction materials, and is a major glazing contractor.

House bill HR-5900 would "result in more work stoppages with attendant increase in costs for residential, commercial and government construction projects, and its attendant unemployment," Neubauer's letter stated.

The "common site picketing" bill would allow members of one trade union having a grievance with their employer-electricians, for example—to induce uninvolved tradesmen such as painter, plumbers and glaziers to discontinue work on the building construction site.

Neubauer termed such action a secondary boycott, nothing that "obviously, the plumbing contractor has no power to resolve a labor dispute between the electricians and the electrical contractor." Secondary boycotts or strikes against uninvolved parties are forbidden by current law.

Top Corporations Recruit At Delta Convention

WASHINGTON, D.C.—More than 40 of the country's leading corporations sent representatives to the 33rd National Convention of Delta Sigma Theta, Inc., to counsel and confer with Delta members and to recruit, according to Mrs. Lynnette Taylor, Delta executive director.

The corporations, she explained, are participating in the Delta Career Mobility Program and Job Fair, one of the key attractions at the convention, which is being held in the Seattle Center, Seattle, Washington, this week.

"The women presented their resumes and conferred with the representatives from the industries," Mrs. Taylor said.

This program, she pointed out, is in keeping with the idea of economic development and developing the potential of our membership.

During Delta's last convention, in 1973, more than 40 women, "mostly young college graduates were hired and given positions in industries...and we have continued this emphasis during the past two years," Mrs. Taylor revealed.

Some of the corporations represented were: Gulf Oil; J.C. Penny; GTE Sylvania of Stamford, Conn.; General Motors; Southern California Edison Corp.; Southern Pacific Bell, AT&T; Cargile Corp. of Minneapolis; IBM Corp.; Johnson Products of Chicago; Johnson and Johnson Corp., of New Brunswick, N.J.; and GAF Corp. of New York.

Participating government agencies included the Department of Transportation; U.S. Office of Education, and the National Institutes of Health.

Delta Sigma Theta, Inc., is a public service sorority with more than 75,000 members in 45 states, the Virgin Islands, the Republic of Haiti and the Republic of Liberia.

CBC Announces Dinner Weekend

Rep. Charles B. Rangel, chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus said that a "broad cross-section of Black leaders will be invited to a one-day legislative strategy and workshop session as part of the Fifth Annual Dinner Weekend, September 26-27."

Rep. Rangel explained that "as we enter not only the bicentennial year of this country's birth, but also the presidential election year, the 17 members of the Congressional Black Caucus feel that we need a strong and representative national legislative strategy plan for the year ahead. In order to do this, we have developed a process and mechanism for receiving input from all segments of the black community." The one day workshop will be a major step in this process, with hundreds of black elected officials and other black leadership persons coming together to review and finalize plans for the legislative agenda and timetable for implementation.

In addition to the workshop on Friday, September 26, the Caucus will hold its $100 per plate fundraising dinner Saturday night, September 27 at the Washington Hilton Hotel.

Rangel said that support from the previous four dinners have enabled the Caucus to establish a "highly competent staff of individuals involved in legislative, research, and information activities essential for carrying out the Caucus' legislative role." Over the past four years, the annual dinner has provided the Caucus with funds necessary for conducting intensive fact-finding hearings and forums (e.g. Racism in the Military, Governmental Lawlessness, National Health Care, Education, Media, Economic Priorities). Many of these resulted in the introduction of specific, corrective legislation.

Since its inception, the Caucus has provided a forum in Congress for addressing the needs of diverse, but powerless, segments of the population—black and non-black. Members of the House and Senate have increasingly called upon the expertise and perspectives of the Caucus in dealing with the legislative needs of poor and minority constituents.

During its fifth year, the Caucus has and will continue to focus on the development of a national legislative agenda, one that includes a plan for obtaining the involvement of black and poor citizens at every level.

This year's dinner chairman is Rep. Walter E. Fauntroy (D-D.C.). Co-chairpersons are Ralph Weller, chairman of the board, Otis Elevator; Ms. Patricia Roberts Harris, attorney, former ambassador, leader in the Democratic National Committee; I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America.

Other highlights of the Dinner Weekend include a Benefit Concert at Capital Centre on Friday evening, September 26, and a Benefit Fashion Show/Luncheon on September 27, Sponsored by The Host City. The concert will feature Harold Melvin & The Blue Notes; Billy Paul; MFSB; and The Peoples Choice. Entertainment for the Dinner and Concert is being contributed by Gamble, Huff and Bell, well-known for their exciting new sound of Philadelphia. The Fashion Show/Luncheon will raise funds to establish a Congressional Black Caucus Graduate Legislative Fellowship Program.

Preliminary plans for the Fifth Annual Dinner Weekend were announced at a recent press conference and reception called by the Caucus. A special guest at the reception hosted by Essence Magazine, was Johnny Nash of Columbia Records, who sang "We Can See Clearly Now What Must Be Done." The words were written especially for the Congressional Black Caucus. Other guests included Essence publisher, Ed Lewis, editor-in-chief, Ms. Marcia Ann Gillespie and Laurence Smith, president, Essence Communications, Inc.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

Rev. Everett Castle was our speaker last Sunday. His text was from Luke 15: 11-32, "The Prodigal Son."

Just as the son left his father and did all in his power to do evil, so have we done to God. And just as the father was compassionate in forgiving the repentant son and rejoicing in his return to the fold, so God rejoices and forgives a truly repentant soul.

Next Sunday Rev. Jacob Reed will be speaking. His text will be, "On Knowing the Lord."

We rejoice in the Lord here at Messiah Temple for all the blessings He gives daily. We are blessed also in the many visitors who joined in our services this past week. Then the Lord blessed more abundantly as some of those visitors became members.

Sunday school is at 10:30 with services at 11:30. Evening worship is at 7. Prayer meeting is Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Children's choir practice is Saturday at 2 p.m.

OBITUARIES

ROBERT E. PETERS

Funeral Services for Robert E. Peters were held August 6 at Angelus Crenshaw Chapel in Los Angeles, California. Rev. J. B. Patterson officiated.

Mr. Peters, former Des Moines resident, resided in Los Angeles for 18 years. He had a stroke Sunday afternoon, while watching a ballgame and was rushed to the Plazer Hospital July 27 and laid in a coma until he died July 31.

He was a graduate of Des Moines East High School and a veteran in the U.S. Army and Air Force where he received honorable discharges from both branches. Mr. Peters was employed as a postal carrier.

Survivors are: Jacquilyn Peters, his wife; Barbette, Tony Robert, Jean Marie and Shanta Peters; two stepchildren, Richard and Patricia Preston; his mother, Mrs. Sadie E. Peters of Des Moines; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith and Mrs. Rosa Mae DeVan of Omaha, Neb.; five brothers, Earl T. Peters of Davenport, James A. Peters of Hartford, Conn., Howard Peters of Des Moines, and Williams Peters of Kansas City, Kan.; an adopted son, James Saunders, Pamona, Calif.; a mother-in-law; sister-in-law, nieces, nephews and a host of relatives and friends in California and Iowa.

COPING WITH SUMMERTIME ENEMIES: INSECTS, POISON IVY, SUN, HEAT

What does summertime bring to your mind? Lying at the pool or beach? Hiking in the mountains? Exploring the wilderness? Camping out? Sightseeing adventures?

Any one of these can live up to your dreams as long as you avoid those well-known fun-spoilers: sunburn, insect bites, heat exhaustion, poison ivy. Armed with a few precautionary measures, some common sense, and a knowledge of how to cope with each, you can keep them from sabotaging your family's holiday.

Here are some ways Public Health Service experts suggest for coping:

INSECT BITES are likely to be a greater threat with bans on widespread use of insecticides. Protective clothing and repellants are the best preventives if you're likely to be exposed. Some insects are merely nuisances. Baking soda compresses and ice, usually suffice to relieve the discomfort after making sure the stinger is out. Ticks, black widow and brown recluse spiders present a more serious threat of severe, though rarely fatal, illness.

In tick-infested areas, wear long sleeves and tight pants, then check the body carefully and often. Ticks not yet attached should be brushed off and killed. Pull attached ticks away gently so the head and mouth won't remain imbedded. Use tweezers, or in stubborn cases try a hot knife, blade or pin, nail polish or iodine. The danger from ticks is Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever (actually more prevalent in the Southeast now).

The two poisonous spiders (black widow with red hourglass marking on its abdomen and the brown recluse with a violin-shaped marking on its back) are unlikely to bite unless they have been disturbed in their hiding places—such as window sills, foundation cracks, garden debris, etc. If you are bitten consult a physician at once.

HEAT EXHAUSTION is a threat if you overexert on a hot and humid day. Dress in light porous, loose-fitting clothing and step up your salt intake at such times. In the event of mild heat exhaustion (tired, headache, nausea) or if it's severe (perspiration, weakness, pale and clammy skin with possible vomiting and leg or arm cramps), the treatment is the same. Lie in a cool place and take cool salted water (a teaspoon per quart). More rare is heat stroke—a serious condition marked by high fever and hot, dry skin. The fever should be reduced rapidly by sponging with water or alcohol.

SUNBURN can be avoided by common sense—building up gradually those first days at the pool or beach. Arm yourself with a good sun lotion or cream. Toddlers and anyone with sensitive skin need extra protection from the searing rays. If you do get a burn, cool or tepid baths with colloidal oatmeal will give some relief as will topical local anesthetics such as Solarcaine. A serious burn, of course, needs medical attention.

POISON IVY with its clusters of three shiny leaves, is easy to recognize. Teach your children to recognize it—and poison oak and sumac, too. If you have been exposed, wash promptly (preferably within 5 minutes) with soap and water to remove the oily substance that causes the trouble. Everything exposed—clothing, pets, tools—should be washed, too, but handle them cautiously until they've been scrubbed. If a rash develops, simple home remedies will relieve the discomfort until it clears up, but if the reaction is severe, have your doctor treat it immediately. Topical local anesthetics such as Solarcaine will give relief, and calomine lotion will dry the blisters and oozing. Remember that the blister fluid won't spread the rash—only the original plant secretion. So if it spreads, relaunch anything that may be tainted—clothing, sheets, towels.

Fall registration begins at D.M. Community College

The fall quarter registration schedule has been released by Des Moines Area Community College. Starting date for the quarter is Sept. 10.

1 to 2:15 p.m. is reserved for A-C students; 2:15-3 p.m.—D-F and 3-4:10 p.m. G-J.

August 13, from 1 to 7:30 p.m. has also been reserved for registering returning Arts and Sciences students.

I.U. Offers Series On Black Journalists

by
Adrienne Seward

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—“Carl T. Rowan: Journalist Extraordinary” is the first released publication from the “Blacks in American Journalism” series produced by Indiana University's Afro-American Arts Institute.

The series of profiles, bibliographies and special reports on black contributors to American journalism, was developed under the combined efforts of the Institute and the I.U. School of Journalism, directed by Professor Richard Gray, editor of the series.

Now available to the public is the Rowan profile, researched and written by Lynn Bynum and containing highlights of heretofore unpublished interviews conducted by Ms. Bynum with the famed author and journalist.

A native of Indianapolis, Lynn Bynum is a graduate of the I.U. School of Journalism where she received the Arthur-Metz Scholarship for high scholastic achievement and the Sany

Cooper Scholarship honoring her as the outstanding woman in journalism. Presently, Ms. Bynum is a reporter on the staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

In his introduction to the series, Richard Gray states that, “the literature pertaining to development of the media in the United States is embarrassingly negligent in mentioning black journals or black journalists. This series is an attempt to fill the void.”

The careers of journalists such as John Mitchell, Monroe Trotter, Ida B. Wells, John Johnson, and Ethel Payne are currently being researched by skilled and qualified scholars.

The series is designed to be of particular benefit to university schools and departments of journalism and departments of black studies. It is also expected that high school journalism clubs and departments, social science teachers, and career counselors will benefit from the availability of this new series.

The director of the Afro-American Arts Institute is Dr. Herman Hudson, vice-chancellor for Afro-American Affairs at Indiana University.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR

Mrs. Ben H. Hill has been chosen twice as “Woman of the Year” by the Women's Division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and Zeta Phi Beta Sorority for service to community churches, schools, hospitals and other humanitarian organizations. Mrs. Hill is assistant director of Tulsa Oklahoma's Retired Senior Volunteer Program. Surrounding Mrs. Hill are three of her foster children, (l-r) Suzanne Arkle, Heddy Hashbun and Marva Lee.

THE COLD HARD FACTS

As much as anything, individual habits push up the cost of air conditioning. It's easy to waste large, costly chunks of cooling energy without even thinking about it.

- Don't keep fiddling with the controls. Find a comfortable adjustment and stay with it. You'll get better dehumidifying and—in the long run—less power consumption.
- Don't make extra heat for your air conditioner to get rid of. Keep unneeded lights off, and avoid unnecessary use of ranges, hot water, irons, television and other heat producers.

Checkmates... Popping In July

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.: More than Fourth of July firecrackers have been popping for that "dynamite" musical group, The Checkmates, Ltd.

On July 8, they hosted a gala opening night press party, at the Playboy Club in Century City, California, featuring Sweet Louie's delicious "Granny's Cake," which he baked that afternoon in the kitchen of the Club. That same night, The Checkmates, Ltd. were presented with a Los Angeles City Resolution by Councilman David Cunningham, and Commissioner Warren Hollier and TV personality Tommy Hawkins were on hand for the presentation.

Later that same week, The Checkmates, Ltd. visited the children at the Sickle Cell Day Camp at Malibu. Meanwhile, they've been playing to overflow crowds during their smash three-week engagement at the Century City Playboy Club.

July closed with a bang, when The Checkmates, Ltd. met the Fred Williamson All Stars in what promised to be a fun-filled Celebrity Basketball Game. The game, which took place July 31, at the L.A. High School Gym at Olympic & Rimpau, will benefit The Advance Foundation for Mentally Retarded Children. Smoked Sugar entertained prior to the game and again at half time.

Playing with The Checkmates, Ltd. were councilman David Cunningham, actor Tom Murray, musician Tyree Glenn, Jr., and members of The Jackson Five. The Fred Williamson All Stars included Bernie Casey, Jim Brown, Rudy Ramos, Richard Roundtree, Richard Pryor, Beau Bridges, Elliott Gould, Tony King, Maurice Warfield, and Tim Weisberg.

Future months promise to be just as exciting, as early August will find The Checkmates, Ltd. opening at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, and in September they will embark in their first tour of Europe.

Benefit Dance

The Model Cities Young Adult Action Committee will sponsor a benefit dance at the Rivera Ballroom at Riverview Park, Friday August 15.

All proceeds will go to the Model City Senior Citizens to help with financial difficulties that organization has accrued.

Featured musicians are "Good and Plenty" from Peoria, Ill. For more information call the Model Cities Site Office at 1000 College, 283-4104.

ABC Records Signs Pense, Cold Blood

LOS ANGELES — San Francisco's Lydia Pense and Cold Blood have been signed to ABC Records, according to Jerold H. Rubinstein, chairman of the company. They are presently completing their sixth album, their first for ABC, for release shortly.

Ms. Pense is the lead singer with Cold Blood, which evolved from a group called Generation formed in the Bay Area in the late sixties. She and organist

Raul Matute remain as original members of that group along with lead guitarist Michael Sasaki, trumpeter/vocalist Max Haskett (members since 1971), tenor saxist/vocalist Skip Mesquite (recently recruited from Tower of Power), and a new rhythm section manned by drummer Harvey Hughes and Domingo Balinton.

ABC Records is a division of ABC Leisure Group 1 of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc.

First Lady of Soul Gets Special Salute

Twelve time Grammy Award winner, Aretha Franklin will be honored on "Rock Salute," Friday, August 15 on Burt Sugarman's "The Midnight Special" on NBC-TV.

The 20-minute tribute to the Atlantic Records recording star, is the longest and most complete salute that has been scheduled on the series to date. Aretha's career as the "first lady of soul" will be outlined through the use of film, slides and music. As part of the "Rock Salute," Ms. Franklin talks about her career and performs "Without The One You Love," the first song she wrote, "Brand New Me," "Canadian Sunset" and a duet with the "king of soul," Ray Charles.

In addition to the salute to Aretha Franklin, this episode of "The Midnight Special" features Glen Campbell performing his current hit, "Rhinstone Cowboy," plus Jimmy Walker of "Good Times," Uriah Heep and Gwen McCrae.

Helen Reddy is permanent host of "The Midnight Special" for executive producer, Burt Sugarman. Stan Harris is a producer-director of the series, which airs every Friday following "The Tonight Show."

Chocolate Chip Turns Into Gold

LOS ANGELES—Isaac Hayes' first LP for ABC Records, "Chocolate Chip," has been certified as a Gold Record by the Recording Industry Association of America, according to Jerold H. Rubenstein, Chairman. The album was released in May on Hayes' Hot Buttered Soul label, distributed by ABC.

Certification of "Chocolate Chip," arranged and produced by Hayes, indicates that it has surpassed $1-million in sales, as shown by an RIAA audit. The album is presently climbing to the top of the music industry trade charts.

Black press, Frats and Sorors unify community commitment

SAN FRANCISCO (NNPA) — The black newspapers of America and the leading fraternities and sororities joined hands here recently in a unified commitment for the uplift and advancement of the black community, said Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett this week.

Dr. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association and editor-publisher of the San Francisco Sun-Reporter/Metro-Reporter, stated that this relationship between his organization and the Greek letter groups was developed through discussion and consultation at the recent NNPA convention here.

Those who participated in the discussion with the black publishers are: Dr. Elbert E. Allen, grand polemarch, Kappa Alpha Psi; Ms. Lillian P. Benbow, national president, Delta Sigma Theta; Judge Marion W. Garnett, grand basileus, Omega Psi Phi; Dr. Annie Lawrence, grand basileus, Sigma Gamma Rho.

Mel Patrick of Phi Beta Sigma; Mrs. Barbara K. Phillips, president-elect, Alpha Kappa Alpha; Mrs. Marian Shannon, national publicity director, Zeta Phi Beta; Dr. Walter Washington, general president, Alpha Phi Alpha and president of Alcorn State University; and Charles Wright, vice president, Panhellenic Council. Dr. Eugene Mitchell, publisher of the St. Louis Argus and medical director of Homer G. Phillips hospital in St. Louis, presided over the discussion.

Among other things, the discussion focused on the many projects being conducted by the 500,000 members of fraternities and sororities to help improve the quality of life for blacks and on the need for publication of news stories about these services by the Black Press so that more of the people will share in them.

For example, the Omegas offer scholarships each year to high school graduates, the Zetas have a national "Stork's Nest" project through which they give assistance to needy expectant mothers.

The Alphas are pushing career development and the Deltas conduct job fairs and other vital programs. The Kappas promote leadership training for teenagers, and the Sigmas have their SADD program — "Sigmas' Attack on Drugs and Defects" which it conducts in cooperation with the National Foundation for the March of Dimes.

The AKA's have a variety of educational and economic programs and Sigma Gamma Rho has special programs in health and housing. All of these highly important activities aimed at uplift and further advancement of Black Americans go largely unreported. And this is the complaint of the Greek letter organizations.

The publishers and the fraternities and sororities concluded that a two-part problem exists. (1) The Black Press, like all mass media, is more sensitive to conflict news than other types, and (2) the Greek letter groups are not inclined toward developing the types of stories that capture the interest of editors and readers. W.A. Scott III, Atlanta Daily World, served as a discussion leader.

In joining hands, the publishers agreed to improve their sensitivity to constructive news and to assist the fraternities and sororities in developing and writing more interesting stories about their programs to the end that the black community is better served.

(A forum about mature women)

by Margaret Brookfield

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice write Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 515 Madison Avenue New York, N.Y. 10022.

Fears Retirement

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm a single working woman who will reach the mandatory retirement age at my office in a year. Frankly, I'm terrified at the prospect of not having to get up and go to work. What will I do with my time? How can I meet people?

I've always enjoyed going to plays and concerts and traveling, but even with a pension and social security, I won't be able to afford such pleasures. I've never been any good at sewing, knitting, painting, or so many of the other hobbies that keep people busy and happy in their old age. Have you any suggestions?

R.S.

Dear R.S.:

Just because the job you've been paid to do all these years is ending, you don't have to give up a rewarding daily routine. There are any number of organizations that welcome volunteer office workers, and since you are interested in music and the theater, why don't you look into doing volunteer work for theatrical and musical enterprises—amateur or professional. They are perennially short of funds, and would probably be glad to give you free tickets in return for your services.

You might also explore putting your travel experience to work by advertising as a traveling companion—helping someone less knowledgeable—or perhaps older and less active—with reservations and other arrangements, in return for all or part of your trip expenses.

RONNIE REED

Journeyman Cement Mason

Ronnie Reed of 1621 Cleveland is a journeyman cement mason who works for Riddley Construction Company of Des Moines.

Reed became a journeyman in 1970 after having completed a three-year apprenticeship for the Johnson Concrete Construction Company.

The adjoining photo was taken at the new shopping center at S.E. 14th and Army Post Road which is now being constructed. He was doing lay-out work in preparation for placing concrete floors.

Reed's father, Jimmy and brother Paul are also journeyman cement masons and members of Local Union No. 21, Operative Plasterers and Cement Masons International Association. Cement Masons earn wages of $9.35½ per hour.

Contact your local Social Security office and find out how much money you are permitted to earn without endangering your benefits. In this shaky economic situation it's a long shot, but perhaps you could find part-time work to supplement your retirement income.

The World of Tennis Has Revenge

By Allen Ashby

The annual city public parks tennis meet was held last week. I don't think too many blacks got into the thing, most of the fellows seem to wait for our Hilltop Closed Meet.

But Esther Snypc, Myers, or whatever, got in and came away with the women's singles crown. Enroute to the title Esther survived a couple of three set matches, and then swamped her final opponent. The match that must have done her the most good was the win over Laura Williams who won the women's title in our Hilltop Open the week before. Esther and Laura have been playing each other for years, and Laura has won only once. She always carried Esther at least three sets. One would think she might break the string just once more, but it wasn't this time.

Now the Hilltop Closed Meet will be in action when this article comes out. This is a meet for the fellows who play at Good Park and wolf at each other about what they can or will do to each other. This gives them a chance to prove their bragging. The trophies don't mean much, but the bragging rights that go with it can't be bought for all the money at the park. There will be maybe about sixteen people in the double elimination affair which ends Sunday at the park.

Why don't they wake up?

The tennis writers called the victory of Manual Orantes of

ALLEN ASHBY

Spain over Arthur Ashe in the national clay court meet an upset. Why won't they do their homework? If they had, they would have learned that Ashe has never beaten Orantes on clay, or for that matter nor has many others. But the Spaniard has never beaten Ashe on any other surface. About the only surprise was the fact that Ashe didn't win more games. This fellow Orantes could win the US title at Forest Hills, which will be on clay for the first time ever.

ATA, USTA Sanctions
Some people were surprised to learn that our Hilltop meet is sanctioned by both the ATA and the USTA. We do this for the benefit of fellows like Royal Madison who comes out of Chicago each year. Madison is a card-carrying ATA member. Since the reciprocal policy is in effect, he can play in a sanctioned USTA meet, but cannot get a rating in the USTA.

A USTA member can play in an ATA meet, but could not get a ranking in that body's listings. So it works both ways, and we have everybody covered, no matter what people might think.

This idea that ours (Hilltop Open) isn't a sanctioned meet caused one of the junior players to get into difficulties. He and his folks got the idea that he could play in a wrong division. Well, he might have gotten away with it if only he hadn't won.

You'd be surprised how many rules you can break and get away with it if you don't win. But the kid won, so now his case is up in the air. At this writing everybody is marking time until the next move by the man in charge of the junior players in the Missouri Valley district.

The Omaha Junior Tennis League players were in town for a tri-city meet with Kansas City and Des Moines. A certain fellow ran all over town trying to locate them and they were at the Racket Club South all the time. His reason was he thought there were too many players to be playing out there. How wrong can one get?

The Wild Bunch Defeats Checkmates, Ltd., 53-47

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. —

Before the dust that he stirred up in New Mexico could settle, following the completion of his latest production "Adios Amigo," Fred Williamson was back in Hollywood organizing an all star team of fellow actors with box office appeal to play in a Benefit-Celebrity basketball game.

The Checkmates, Ltd. with special guest star players in the persons of the Jackson Five, Councilman Dave Cunningham, actor Tom Murray, Tyree Glenn, Jr. and others, played Williamson Team for the purpose of raising funds to aid the continuation of the work by The Advance Foundation For The Mentally Retarded Children.

Living up to their adopted playing name, "The Wild Bunch," Williamson and his red-suited fellow actors in the persons of Jim Brown, Rudy Ramos, D'Urville Martin, Mike Warren, Dino Washington, Denny Dobson, Maurice Warfield and a few others, outclassed the gallant efforts of The Checkmates, Ltd. and their celebrity guest players to the score of 53 to 47 in a close fought battle before an estimated crowd of close to 800 spectators, whose paying presence netted The Advance Foundation For

The Mentally Retarded Children close to $5,000.

In all, it was a winning night for the friends and fellow actors and actresses of Williamson. "The Fred Williamson Starlets" comprised of Liz Treadwell, Heidi Dobbs, Suhaila Sarhat, Vicki Jee, and Joy Lober, outpointed the Playboy Club Bunnies in a special halftime volleyball contest 21 to 17. An additional highlight of the halftime activities was Williamson receiving an award from Bobby Stevens, Sweet Louie and Sonny Charles of The Checkmates, Ltd. which they called "The Hammer Award" with an inscription that read "To Fred Williamson, who unselfishly gives so much of himself to help others."

Ray Gibson, director of The Advance Foundation, presented every celebrity participant with an "Advance Appreciation Award" during the halftime activities.

Brown, Mike Warren and Williamson were the high scorers for "The Wild Bunch"; while Jackie Jackson, Tito Jackson, Chip Steen, Bo Robinsn and Sonny Charles carried the high point averages for The Checkmates, Ltd. and their celebrity guest players at the Los Angeles High School Gymnasium.

Area soccer league formed

The Greater Des Moines Junior Soccer League was formed July 17 and player registration will be held August 17, 24 and September 8 at the YMCA in Des Moines and August 23 at the West Des Moines Recreation Office 217 5th.

The newly formed League will be composed of 12 teams throughout the metropolitan area for youths of Junior High School age. There will be three teams in the western suburban area.

The officers of the new league are Harry Berting, president; Bill Reichardt, vice-president; and Jack Hastings, secretary-treasurer.

The soccer program was formed to meet the needs of youths who do not fit in the football programs in the city. Reichardt, who has been involved with the Little All American Football League, said there was a lack of opportunity for all interested adults and children to participate in that football program and said an organized program is needed which does not depend on definite physical attributes. Reichardt said a soccer program would fill this need.

Coaches, assistant coaches and referees will be needed for the season. Those interested in helping should contact Jack Hastings, at Ways Food Center, 315 5th in West Des Moines.

Sports

No More?

With all of the firing of baseball managers, one would think the owners would reach down and come up with a name like Maury Wills, or maybe Larry Doby or some one like them to try to manage a club. If the club is in the cellar, or in a prolonged losing streak, they could do worse. The guy might get lucky or maybe have enough savvy to pull the team up.

But they have decided that Frank Robinson is to be the only one in his lifetime, or at least during his tenure.

Could Willie Mays manage? I don't know. Some super stars seem to expect the players under them to do what they did as players, which accounts for the fact that some of the game's greatest stars were flops as managers, while fellows who were not outstanding as players have been good managers.

Speaking of managers and coaches, I hope Willie Woods has company in his job.

New Assistant Coach At Morgan

Earl C. Banks, athletic director of Morgan State University announced the appointment of Eugene (Superman) Simms to Morgan State football staff.

Simms will replace coach John Townsend, who is moving to Dartmouth College, in Hanover, New Hampshire to become an assistant football coach. Simms will serve mainly as defensive coach, working with the Bears linebacking crew.

Superman Simms, an All-American linebacker, his junior year at Morgan, led the Bears' defense to a No. 3 rating in the nation the same year (1973). This also helped the Washington, D.C. product to become the "Defensive Player of the Year" in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference.

A starter since his freshman year, "Simms is a team leader in every sense of the word," says Coach Nat Taylor.

Athletes In Review

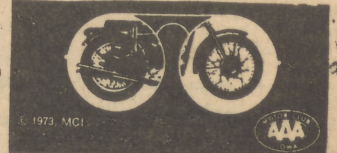

He's called "Perola Negra" (Black Pearl) in his native Brazil. In Italy, he's known as "Il Re" (The King). The French salute him, "La Tulipe Noire" (The Black Tulip).

But, all of these terms of awe and endearment notwithstanding, he is simply Pele, a poor Black boy from Brazil who now enjoys a salary of nearly $5 million.

The 5-7, 165 pound giant in soccer was lured to the magic of New York and the Cosmos by Warner Communications, the conglomerate which owns the Cosmos. Pele's job is to make soccer more than just "that foreign sport." Even though soccer is still on the outside as far as the media is concerned, Pele may successfully place soccer in a tenable position considering his legendary super powers.

Witness his heartbeat during competition - 56 to 58 times per minute, while the average athlete's heart beats 90 to 95 times per minute. His peripheral vision is 30 per cent higher than average. His feet are parallel and the bone in his heels are exceptionally strong and well-developed. It serves as a shock absorber after a jump or kick and helps his quickness.

Pele's presence at a mere exhibition game at New York's Randall's Island drew 21,278 fans, where 4,000 might have watched the same teams under normal circumstances. Medical experts, after a long series of tests on Pele, made the following observation "Whatever this man attempted to do he would have been a genius."

100 senior volunteer workers has been approved by the Polk County Board of Supervisors.

Financed by a $2,400 Federal "mini-grant" and $5,016 from the County, the program is sponsored by the Retired Senior Volunteer (R.S.V.P.) for persons more than 60 years old.

Twenty-five volunteers are sought to start the program.
They will work in county offices and jobs where volunteers can be used and will not replace employees on paid jobs.
Part-time secretarial, clerical, managerial and administrative roles are contemplated.

The force will be increased to 100, contributing 5,200 man-hours during the year ending June 29, 1976, according to Mrs. Helen Goodwin, its coordinator.

The County's share will be in either cash or "in kind" payments, including transportation and meal costs for volunteers who work through a meal period.

The volunteers may be used in many county offices and on such projects as a Court House lobby information booth, including time-saving phone information service; auto license mailing help and a County "scrap book" which might mature into a County history, Mrs. Goodwin said.

"In approving the supplement to the Federal "mini-grant" the Supervisors recognized the need for a number of non-salaried workers and a need to give senior citizens something meaningful to do while utilizing their abilities," she said. "It is the first project of its kind ever initiated by the Board."

Interested senior volunteers are asked to call the R.S.V.P. office, 282-4942; or Mrs.
Goodwin, at 284-6439.
