Asks Federal Govt. For Legal Action

News Briefs

WASHINGTON, D.C.--An organization of black lawyers opened its fiftieth annual convention here Monday with appointment of more black federal judges as a principal objective.

James B. Morris, Sr., publisher emeritus of the New Iowa Bystander is one of the oldest members attending the National Bar Association convention.

Charles P. Howard, Jr., of Baltimore, president of the NBA indicated that prospects for such appointments are uncertain.

"The political system, by allowing the senators to do the nominating, stifles the appointment of black judges," Howard said.

BOSTON, MASS.--Members of the Boston School Committee and 13 other school officials were ordered to appear Monday in U.S. District Court to explain their plans for beginning classes next month under a new integration program that will include more busing.

CLEVELAND, Ohio--The defense rested its case Monday in the 1970 Kent State University shootings trial shortly after a defendant told of seeing two slugs strike ground near troops immediately before military gunfire erupted.

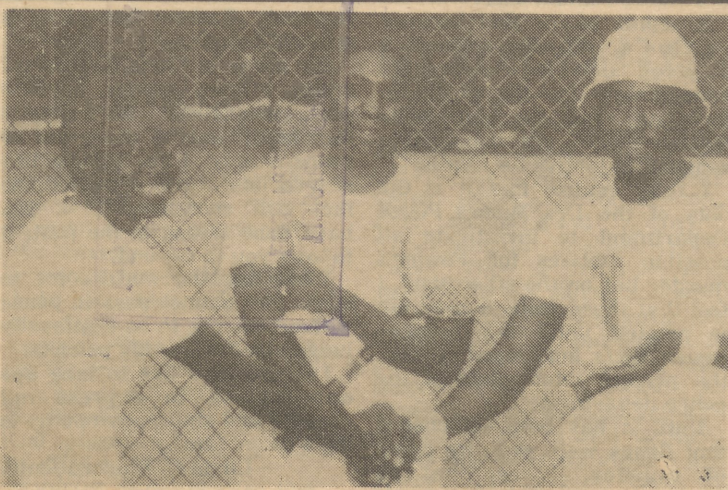

RALEIGH, N.C.--The North Carolina Supreme Court refused to review the contempt of court ruling that sent Joan Little's chief defense attorney to jail for 14 days.

Jerry Paul was jailed moments after the jury acquitted Miss Little of second degree murder in the Aug. 27, 1974, stabbing death of Beaufort County jailer Clarence Allgood.

DES MOINES, Ia.--Terrance D. Hollowell, convicted last month of the shotgun robbery of a Des Moines service station, has asked the Polk County District Court for a new trial.

Hollowell, 26, in asking a new trial, cited news coverage of murder charges pending against him, newly discovered evidence, perjury by prosecution and bias by Judge James P. Denato.

Hollowell is accused in the double slaying last August of two men at the Downtown Holiday Inn. He is scheduled to go on trial on those charges Sept. 15. His request has not been ruled upon by the court.

Group Elects Freeland To Chair Commission

Nancy Freeland was elected chairperson of the Des Moines Human Rights Commission for 1975-76. Ms. Freeland is the first Black female to be elected to this position.

She succeeds Martin Waldinger who has served as chairperson for the past year. Ms. Freeland, who is chief accountant at Drake University, was appointed by the mayor to fill an existing vacancy on the Commission.

Ms. Freeland received her degree in business administration from A and T State University in Greensboro, North Carolina. Prior to coming to Des Moines she was a financial analyst with General Foods Corporation in White Plains, New York. She is a member of the Drake University Affirmative Action Committee and Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Committee. She is currently working on a master's degree in urban affairs at Drake.

Ms. Freeland intends to guide the Commission in taking a more active role in the community recognizing that an effective human rights agency is one that is sensitive to problems of discrimination and racism wherever it exists and actively seeks to find remedies to alleviate those problems in cooperation with other agencies and groups.

Vice Chairperson

Kent Frank, 686-48th Street, was elected vice chairperson of the Commission. He is a teacher at Kurtz Junior High School where he has taught social science for the past 6 years. Prior to coming to Des Moines, he was a counselor officer with the U.S. Foreign Service in Canada and Spain.

Frank expresses concern that action to be taken to affect a plan for a fully integrated school system in Des Moines. He believes that the Commission should continue its involvement in the community, particularly in the area of housing.

NAACP Requests Feds To File Suit Against Two Iowa School Boards

The branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in Iowa has made a decision concerning the desegregation issue of two Iowa school districts.

Leaders of the local NAACP chapter decided Saturday to ask the federal government to file suit against the Des Moines and Davenport school districts to force them to desegregate.

Des Moines and Davenport were singled out for legal action because the cities school boards have refused to eliminate segregation from their schools, according to Robert Wright, Iowa NAACP president.

Reasons for Actions

Few measures to reduce racial imbalances have been taken in schools with high concentrations of black students in both cities, according to Wright.

The Iowa NAACP decided to ask for federal action because it is the responsibility of two federal agencies to action when there is a denial of equal rights. The local civil rights organization's request for legal action will go the U.S. Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The state board has asked the Des Moines and Davenport school boards for desegregation plans. Davenport has refused to comply and Des Moines submitted only a partial plan involving junior and senior high schools.

Refusal of the two school boards to meet state guidelines is cited by NAACP leaders as the main reason to ask the courts to order desegregation.

If the federal government fails to act, the governing board of the state NAACP officials pledged to go to court to ensure desegregation occurs in the two cities.

Competition Makes Athletes Hustle

By Allen Ashby

Over the past weekend we separated the sheep from the goats. The Hilltop Closed Tournament was in full swing, and you had to see it to believe the intensity of the competition.

These fellows battled for every point as if their lives depended on it. I have never seen so many three set matches in one small meet. This was what threw the whole thing off schedule, and that, along with the rain, didn't do things one bit of good.

You could say that there were upsets, but, since there was no seedings, I don't know who was upset. We just tossed them into a hat and pulled them out, and said "may the best man win." And that's just the way it went.

Someday Harold Winston is going to meet someone in the finals of this meet that he can beat. This is the second time he pulled up second. Dan White scrambled back enough balls to make Harold talk to himself. Then Dan made a few down-the-line shots, and top spin lobs that looked like strategy at its best, whether it was or not.

I think that Winston hit his peak against young Phil Tindrell, Jr. Then, he couldn't miss and everything he tried worked. And White was at his best against Winston. But then the fellow played good tennis all week, and finished the double elimination meet without one loss.

If you were looking for form, forget it. But if you wanted to see fellows go after that little ball like a dog after a rabbit, this was your meet. Guys fell down and made returns lying flat on their backs or stomachs. One fellow made a three-point landing, and still got the ball back.

It Got Smokey

The doubles competition was just as keen. There were eight teams, and from the way they battled each other they didn't know who was going to come out on top. No ball was put away until it had actually bounced twice. Those fellows most of them former athletes and fast as greyhounds went after all of them.

When the smoke had cleared, the teams of Ronald

A Long Wait For the Lucky Man

William (Judy) Johnson reached the pinnacle in the world of baseball after a long wait. He was inducted Monday into Baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, Maryland. A brilliant infielder of the phased-out Negro League, Johnson has sat and watched as many other great players received the great honor which he deserved.

Abig change was made that blacks are admitted to the main part of the Hall. There was a big flap several years ago, when the rules were first "relaxed" to admit black players who never made the majors because baseball planned to put them in a "seperate" wing of the Hall, but now they're included in the main part of the Hall with all other major league players instead of "segregated", again off to themselves.

Johnson spent nearly 20 years in the nation's once favorite sport. He played third base, some shortstop and he, also, managed. Johnson played in many All-Star games. Today he is one of the lucky ones who lived to see his induction although it took most of his lifetime. A lot of great black athletes in baseball will forever be overlooked, many have passed on, but that's just the way they play the game.

An Example of Black Women Who Desire To Show Their Potential

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, considered to be the oldest, largest and foremost civil rights organization in the world, has a black woman, for the first time in its 66-year history, sitting at its helm. Mrs. Margaret Bush Wilson was elected chairperson of the more than 400,000-member group when its board of directors met earlier this year.

Mrs. Wilson was selected on her own credentials to the course of the most influential black organization in the nation. She is a prime example of many black women with leadership capabilities which must be exploited. Responsible black women of today are waiting to prove that they, too, can play a challenging role in the progressive movement of minority populations.

Income Security Program

Vernon Jordan unleashed a plan to deal with unemployment at the annual convention of the National Urban League which was held in Atlanta, Georgia recently. The National Urban League's director indicated that the League would put forth its own income security program since the Republican administration and Democratic congress "have both failed black people on the economic front."

The battle plan against unemployment includes a credit income tax which would provide a "floor" under the income of Americans below a certain income level. The CIT would take the form of a cash grant to the jobless and the poor and a tax credit for the working class.

Details and economics of the credit income tax plan must be worked out and Jordan urged the 7,000 delegates to "call for an immediate emergency, federally-financed floor under the present welfare system with cost of living escalators and mandated coverage for families in need."

Racially Mixed Jury Acquits Joan Little

A panel of six blacks and six whites deliberated less than an hour and a half August 15, returning a verdict of acquittal for Joan Little of all counts in the stabbing death of her jailer, Clarence Allgood.

Members of the racially mixed jury said there was no difficulty in unanimously finding her innocent on the first vote because the prosecution failed to prove its case.

The state had charged Ms. Little with killing Allgood in an attempt to escape from the Beaufort County Jail in Washington, N.W., where she was being held while appealing a breaking and entering conviction.

The 21-year-old black woman said she stabbed the 62-year-old jailer, to defend herself during a sexual attack.

Jurors said Friday they did not all believe Ms. Little's testimony.

Moments after the verdict was announced, singing and dancing erupted on the sidewalk outside the courthouse. But in the courtroom, the presiding judge, Hamilton H. Hobgood, ordered Ms. Little's chief defense counsel, Jerry Paul to jail for contempt. Paul was ordered to spend 14 days in jail.

IFLPN Meets In Des Moines

The Iowa Federation of Licensed Practical Nurses will hold state meetings at Hotel Savery August 22 and 23.

Seven delegates were elected to attend National Convention in New Orleans, October 12-17. Delegates are Clara Wade and Jamsena Nichols, Des Moines; Lenice Arnce, Davenport; Bonnie Ballard, Polk City; Laura Harrison and Edna Anderson, Sioux City; and Pearl Forbes, Marshalltown.

The 1976 Twenty-sixth state convention will be held in Dubuque.

Have I Been Misled?

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing, in my concern, about articles printed in the Des Moines Register and Tribune (Thursday, August 14) which were related to the fatal shooting of Travis Fowler, Jr.

(The body of Fowler, 1155 Eighteenth Street, was found lying face down on the pavement of University Avenue's 1300 block about 9:30 p.m. August 13. He was shot in the back at close range Wednesday night.)

The final statement in the Thursday, August 14 edition of the Des Moines Tribune stated that Fowler's murder along with two others remain unsolved.

It seems to me that because Fowler's murder remains unsolved that it was terribly unnecessary for the public to have to read the statements written which were supposedly a connecting motive for murder.

I fully realize that it is the duty of the Des Moines Police Department to investigate all possible motives for Fowler's murder but on the other hand, I feel that these motives need not be printed until they become proven facts but should remain the private information of the police department.

Until it has been established that drugs were the sure cause of murder, I feel that an explanation of foul play would have been sufficient.

Allen Gets Ten Years For Murder

Thadius Alonzo Allen of Des Moines was sentenced to 10 years in the Iowa Men's Reformatory at Anamosa Monday for his part in the 1972 slaying of a local gas station attendant during a robbery.

Allen, 19, was sentenced by Chief Polk County District Judge Gibson C. Holliday in the Mar. 29, 1972, slaying of Gerald Koder, 29, of 1533 Thompson Ave., an attendant at the Vickers Oil Co. station at 1601 E. University Ave.

Reversal, News Trial

Allen pleaded guilty July 14 to a charge of second-degree murder. Koder was shot and killed with a .22-caliber weapon.

Allen entered his plea following a series of legal maneuvering that resulted in the Iowa Supreme Court reversing a previous conviction of second-degree murder and ordering a new trial for Allen.

Another man, Robert Winfrey, 20, was convicted of first-degree murder in the case and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Allen originally was sentenced to 40 years in the reformatory.

Charged as Adults

Both appealed their

The two statements which upset me the most were: "The fact that he had pleaded guilty to a heroin charge in 1972 and had served 29 months in Fort Madison."

I feel that this was probably elaborated on enough in 1972 and I see no significance in bringing up something which took place three years ago at this time.

"He was involved with heroin before and there is no reason to believe that he was doing anything different," Nichols said.

All of my life, I have been under the impression that we all have one judge; especially upon time of death, that being our Heavenly Father. Have I been misled?

My name is Linda C. Raeford Smith. I knew Fowler, but was not a close friend. I have written this letter out of my personal concern only. I see that in this sick society in which we live, the fact still remains that if you have done wrong in the past, it follows you to the end.

What has the world come to when you cannot pass in peace without having to be continually judged by our earthly patriots.

I would also like to take this opportunity to express my deepest and sincere sympathy to the Fowler family.

convictions, and Allen's was overturned. Both were charged and tried as adults in their first trials in 1973. Allen was 16 and Winfrey 17 at the time.

In his order, Judge Holliday said time spent in the Polk County Jail and Men's Reformatory by Allen will be applied to the 10-year sentence.

Allen has been in jail since Apr. 6, 1972, Holliday said in his order. The judge set Allen's appeal bond at $10,000.

Southern Blast Injuries Judge

GREENVILLE, Ala. — Circuit Judge Arthur E. Gamble, Jr., who a decade ago prosecuted three Ku Klux Klansmen for the killing of a civil rights worker, was wounded Friday when a blast ripped through the floorboard of his car as he started it.

The tall, husky Gamble, 55, was listed in satisfactory condition with leg wounds and a hand injury following about one hour of emergency surgery.

Gamble is the second Alabama circuit judge in recent months to be the target of an apparent booby-trap assault. An explosive device was found beneath the hood of Circuit Judge John Tally's car in the north Alabama town of Scottsboro several months ago.

Legislation "In A Hurry"

Dear Sir:

In order to be fair to your readers, the editorial you published two weeks ago regarding the sale of arms to Turkey should be corrected.

The legislation recently passed "in a hurry" by the Congress legalized for a certain length of time unlawful shipments which had been permitted by the executive department. The law prohibiting shipments of arms to an aggressor, against one of our allies has been in effect for many years.

It seems strange that you would condone violations of law by the President who is specifically sworn to uphold it. Failure to observe international agreements, as approved by Congress can lead to a division among Americans. Serious violations can trigger a chain reaction and nuclear war. Relative to those hazards, street crime, and victimless crimes are of trivial consequence.

Last week, I wrote of Atlanta's Mayor Maynard Jackson speech before the Congressional Black Caucus Dinner in Washington, D.C. in 1974. It was a moving speech about black women in a tribute to: Mrs. Coretta Scott King, Mrs. Medgar Evers, Mrs. Whitney Young and Mrs. Malcolm X, widows of our black martyrs.

His speech carried me back to my earlier days in my hometown, Memphis Tenn. I was a young lawyer, fresh out of law school in Chicago (my state did not offer an education in law to its blacks in those days), and returning home to practice.

No respect was given me as a member of the bar. The white bailiffs called me boy, if they spoke at all, and I was often made to feel like a criminal or worse if I requested permission to see a client in jail.

There were separate water fountains, separate schools, segregated seats on the buses and separate coaches on trains; there were separate entrances to eating places where blacks ate standing up, and separate water fountains even in public places paid for by tax monies.

Humiliation and degradation of the black man were the order of the day, yet those of us with the will, with loving mothers and supporting fathers, or other family members, made it. Some without these warm family links made it too, but for them it was infinitely harder.

Love One Another

All of us were taught, as Mayor Jackson said, to love one another and that therein lay our salvation and ultimately civilization's.

We were taught, as Jackson in his speech pointed out, that "the essence of black people is will, perseverance and dogged determination to survive, and that we must draw strength from each other and from black women in the struggle."

Because we were buoyed by this love from family and friend, many of us did not succumb to hate. We survived and in surviving became better men and women for it.

But as Mayor Jackson said in his speech: "These martyrs did not leave these wives just to elect 110 Black mayors across the nation. The fight is not just to open up a handful of $20,000-a-year jobs in big government. The fight is for freedom for all, the fight is for freedom from economic and racial oppression."

Open Doors For All

In my speeches across the country, I try to emphasize this point. I did not come to Washington, D.C. to enjoy the good life and ignore my downtrodden sisters and brothers. As a member of the Federal Communications Commission, I must work to open doors so that others—Black, Spanish-surnamed, Oriental, American Indian, and women can enter and seek opportunities hitherto denied them.

All of minority status must do this. Only then will we be worthy of the legacy left us by "The Rock of Ages" Mayor Jackson so eloquently addresses himself to. To do less would be to befoul our heritage.

It must not be forgotten, however, that she would want us to work with all people of good will—white, black, green or gray; that "we... seek allies regardless of color. Our protracted struggle must be one of good people against bad ideas... the battle for black liberation is a battle for Human Rights, black and white," Mayor Jackson reminds us.

And to that I say Amen.

Vow Detroit Busing Appeal

DETROIT, Mich. — Civil rights leaders, calling a Detroit school desegregation order "racist and evil," have vowed to carry their fight for school busing back to the federal appeals courts.

The order, handed down Saturday by U.S. District Court Judge Robert E. DeMascio, ruled out school busing for the fall term.

It was praised by C. L. Golightly, president of the city school board, the governor and Coleman Young, Detroit's first black mayor.

However, DeMascio's decision provoked a furious reaction from officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), which has fought for five years to get a busing plan for Detroit schools.

Nathaniel R. Jones, the NAACP's general counsel, said the ruling was a "rape of the constitutional rights of black children."

Jesse Goodwin, chairman of the Detroit NAACP education committee, said his organization would "not allow this kind of travesty of justice to exist without being challenged... There is no doubt in our minds that the judge has succumbed to the forces of white supremacy in Detroit."

Whites Back Officer Who Killed Black

GREENWOOD, S. C. — An estimated 1,500 whites gathered at the fairgrounds here in support of a white highway patrolman who shot and killed a black man last month.

The rally Sunday took place one day after 800 blacks marched through the town to protest the July 26 shooting.

Meanwhile, 300 blacks in the Berkeley County town of Moncks Corner Saturday staged a peaceful rally to protest the shooting death of a black by law officers in that county.

Ebony traces blacks in bicentennial issue

"The playing with freedom is America's original sin," writes noted historian and Ebony senior editor Lerone Bennett, Jr., in August Ebony's Bicentennial Special Issue. "Since Thomas Jefferson said goodbye to his slaves and went off to Philadelphia to write the Declaration of Independence, playing with freedom has become a national pastime in America. Two hundred years of evasion of the central mandate of our revolutionary birth... has brought us to the brink of national disaster."

Writing in the same Special Issue, Vernon Jordan, executive director of the National Urban League, says "The current Bicentennial celebration mirrors to some degree the hypocrisy that was not absent from the Revolution itself, a revolution of slaveholders proclaiming universal equality and the rights of all men." Jordan exhorts us not to downgrade the ideals of the American Revolution Bicentennial and the meaning of these 200 years. "The ideas that found expression in those historic documents have to be revived," says Jordan. "And it is black people who are best equipped to call this to the attention of a nation consumed by anti-privatism and decaying morality."

Other important contributors to the August Bicentennial Special Issue of Ebony include: Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, president, American Baptist Convention; Carlyle C. Douglas, Ebony associate editor; Alex Bontemps, Ebony, associate editor; Benjamin Quarles, eminent historian, author and educator; C. Eric Lincoln, world-renown author, historian, lecturer and educator;

Alex Poinsett, Ebony senior staff editor, author and lecturer; Bayard Rustin, distinguished labor leader and civil rights activist; and many more.

Contrary to the assumptions of many uninformed and misinformed Americans, blacks have played a great role in the building of America. Recalling the deeds of blacks who worthily lived and died for freedom, August Ebony is a journalistic witness to 200 years of black greatness in the cause of our national life. Long before the Others may know Ms. Cole as a black woman who has taken responsibility in a variety of human service activities. Others, still know Amie as a friend.

During the month of June, Ms. Cole accepted the responsibility of being president of the Board of Directors of the Fort Dodge Urban Ministry. The former board president, Len Schmidt, had resigned to take a position with the Lutheran Family Service in Red Oak, Iowa.

Previous Experience

Ms. Cole has had five years experience as an Urban Ministry board member, including her recent position as vice president. She is now also a member of the Fort Dodge Public Library Board of Trustees. In addition, she is secretary of the Webster County Democratic Women's organization. Over the last 10 years, Ms. Cole has held many offices in the Coppin Chapel Church.

In previous years, she was president of the Fort Dodge Inter-racial Commission.

"I feel it is a great honor and privilege to be serving the Fort Dodge Urban Ministry. My past experiences have enabled me to take the challenge of meeting the goals of this office," Ms. Cole said.

Ministry Must Meet Needs

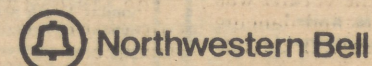

She went on to say, "I would like to see better communication between Urban Ministry Board members and members of the community. I believe it's important that all of us at the ministry be more aware of the needs and feelings of other people within the Fort Dodge community. I would like to see the Urban Ministry meet more of the needs of people in Fort Dodge and the surrounding area."

"I'm looking forward to serving this office with the help and support of the rest of the board members. If we all work together we can help make the Urban Ministry more alive and effective in this community," Ms. Cole concluded.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

Messiah Temple was blessed to hear Rev. Jacob Reed speak last Sunday. His text was taken from John 20 beginning with the 11th verse.

The lesson, "On Knowing the Lord," was very needed in these days. There are some in this world who have studied the Bible thoroughly and then think they are called to preach the word of God. It is the person who recognizes Jesus spiritually who will be called to follow God's leading. It is not the knowing in the head, but the knowing in the heart that Jesus is interested in.

We welcomed Rev. E. Bell and family of Mission Temple as partakers in our Wednesday services. Rev. Bell's message was of encouragement to each of the saints.

We welcomed as our visitors on Sunday the Blackcloud family from Cedar Rapids and Jerry and Jeff Spencer of Ames.

Happiness Through Health

HINTS FOR FOREIGN TRAVEL THIS SUMMER: GOING ABROAD? HERE ARE HEALTH TIPS YOU'LL NEED

Going abroad on your vacation this summer? Getting proper inoculation advice and tips for staying healthy in a foreign setting are high on the wise traveler's planning agenda.

Picture yourself facing a needle at a dusty foreign airport. Or reaching the high point of your trip and waking up with diarrhea. Or arriving home unscathed only to develop hepatitis a few weeks later.

Special health advice for the traveler to Europe and such popular tourist destinations as the Caribbean is almost unnecessary. The off-beat vagabond, however, should seek and heed more specialized advice from his doctor. There are indeed dangers from disease in the tropics and developing countries. Learning how to avoid contagion and ways to cope with illness may help to avoid spoiling an otherwise exotic adventure.

Vaccination Requirements

Health, Education and Welfare's Center for Disease Control (CDC), keeps health departments throughout the country up to date on vaccination requirements throughout the world. Your advice from CDC is to call your local health department two weeks before your departure to obtain current information on the countries you will visit since health conditions are constantly changing.

You will get answers to three important questions: What vaccinations will I need to return to the U.S.? What do other countries require for entry? What immunization should I get for my own protection? Requirements are based on whether or not smallpox, yellow fever or cholera is present in the countries you visit. Recommendations for your protection might include polio, typhoid, hepatitis, or malaria.

The United States no longer requires vaccination for returning tourists with one possible exception: If you have been in a country where smallpox has been reported within 14 days before arrival home, you will need to show proof of smallpox vaccination.

If any of the countries on your trip requires any vaccinations, you are well advised to have them before you leave home. And have them recorded in the "International Certificates of Vaccination," a yellow booklet available at your local health department. Make sure it is filled out and validated according to instructions. There are no vaccination requirements for travel directly between Canada, Mexico, or individual countries or Europe or the Caribbean, barring an outbreak of smallpox or cholera in one of them.

Food and Water

Food and water are usually safe in large cities and in hotels commonly used by American travelers. But if you get off the beaten track in areas where hygiene and sanitation are poor, drink only water that is boiled or bottled or carbonated soft drinks.

CDC scientists state that tap water that is uncomfortable hot is usually safe and can be used for brushing teeth and even drinking after cooling. Remember that the ice you use should be as safe as your drinking water. Select your food with care in areas where there is any doubt. Eat only what can be peeled or what had been cooked and served while still hot.

If you need drugs or medicines, take an adequate supply with a note from your doctor. Have an extra pair of glasses or lens prescription with you. If you have a physical condition that might require emergency care—heart condition, diabetes, serious allergy, etc.—get a tag or card. And if your best precautions go awry, you can usually get the name or recommended physicians from the U.S. Embassy or travel agent.

Orientation For New Teachers

A two-day orientation for teachers new this fall in the Des Moines Public Schools will be held Monday and Tuesday.

The teachers will spend Monday in their assigned buildings to study policy and procedure handbooks, study curriculum guides, discuss scheduling and programming, review textbooks and other instructional materials, visit with the building principal and staff members, study grading policies and procedures, become acquainted with transportation policies and practices, tour lunchroom and other facilities, and study attendance records and other administrative procedures.

Tuesday morning the new teachers will meet in the Brody junior high school lecture room for a general meeting and then will either return to their assigned buildings or attend group meetings with supervisors and consultants.

Dr. Robert R. Denny, assistant superintendent for education, will preside at the Tuesday general meeting. Speakers will include Nolden Gentry, president of the Board of Education.

Marie O'Henry Stars In Uplifting Black Movie

MARIE O'HENRY

A bright new face in film, Marie O'Henry, a sensitive actress, is starring in "Deliver Us From Evil," a fast moving uplifting black film.

Under the wise and capable guidance of director-producer, Horace Jackson, Miss O'Henry gives an outstanding and believable performance in this full length, heart-warming and powerful movie.

... It is in the ending that one fully realizes the potential of Miss O'Henry. Her switch in characterization is so complete that it forces a whole new look at what she has done up to that point. This quote from the Hollywood Reporter tells us succinctly of Miss O'Henry's talent.

On March 24, 1975, she made her co-starring TV debut in crime-drama "Caribe," starring male lead Stacy Keach. Her most current film appearances include "Deliver Us From Evil," "Uptown Saturday Night," "Three the Hard Way," and "Rape Squad."

In between movies and TV assignments, this multi-talented performer spends time modeling, a profession she has been actively involved in since she was 13 months old. As she matured she worked in booking models for her mother, Ophelia DeVore Mitchell, who pioneered this field for Blacks. Among such blacks is superstar Richard Roundtree.

Marie O'Henry, formerly Marie O. Carter, was born in New York City and went to schools there, in New Jersey and Connecticut too. With the constant support and encouragement of her mother, she was a devoted student of the arts, including dancing, singing, painting, writing and musical instruments, including the piano and guitar.

After two years of college at Syracuse University (N.Y.), she went on to earn a B.A. degree from Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia, with a double major in drama and English. From college came marriage and divorce from Dr. Raymond Henry. This found her in Los Angeles where she presently resides.

She began a concentrated professional career in the theatre, participating in various workshops in L.A. including Watts Writers Workshop, Kilpatrick-Cambridge Theatre Arts School and Inner City Cultural Center. Performing with these acting troupes and studying under such notables as Rick Edelstein and Beah Richards, provided the vital background and experience that made the transition to film work in 1973 so natural.

'The Mikado' In Ghana Is A Discotheque

By Jerome K. Full

TAKORADI, Ghana—Here in the western region of Ghana, the eye of western man is overcome with the images of a society in kaleidoscopic change.

The balcony of the big state-run hotel, the Atlantic, overlooks an ocean of the same name and, to the right, a visitor sees local villages clustering about the shore and the highway leading westerly toward the mostly the boys, race along the beaches playing soccer.

Also during the day, regional businessmen and tourists enjoy a drink in the bar off the hotel lobby.

At a local nightclub, a discotheque, lit feebly by shafts of colored lights filtered from behind the eyes, nose and mouth of authentic masks, a record plays Afro-American rock and soul music. The place serves western drinks and is named after an English musical comedy with an oriental theme. "The Mikado" is an ethnic smorgasbord.

Ships dock at Takoradi to carry enormous logs from the Ghanaian forests to New York, Liverpool and Baltimore, or bauxite from Ghanaian hills to smelters in Europe. Along the coast, before the ocean rollers begin to heave, curl and break, one can see Ghanaian men in log canoes setting and retrieving nets, their work no easier than ages ago but their speed increased by outboard engines, made in the American Midwest.

Along the coastal highway under a tent is a revival meeting of a fundamentalist Protestant group and here too are the traditional Ghanaian drummers, the dancing processions common to a fetish group. The organ and the guitar are new and both are amplified and the effect is an outpouring of human energy that borrows from the religious and musical traditions of two worlds.

On another side of Takoradi is a trove of castles and forts, built by Europeans starting in 1482 to preserve their footholds on African soil against the predations of rival powers and occasional local efforts to uproot them.

But as it was the Africans who first showed the Europeans that there was money to be made in slavery, it was the Europeans who made it an international business. It lasted nearly 400 years until an American Civil War, an American president and the British Navy finally ended the sickly business.

After the forts and castles came the colonial settlements and the sending of resident leaders to English colleges. After the colonial politicians left following full Ghanaian independence in 1957, many European businessman stayed or came to West Africa to remain. Some became citizens.

So now, the black youth in a wild joromi shirt may be a student from the University of Chicago studying in Ghana, and the white man in a business suit may be a resident Ghana citizen.

In the villages, though, the appearances reflect reality and the people rise not with room service but with the first cry of the cock while the sun is still hidden to the east behind kapok trees and dense palms. Soon the mammy wagons with their load of passengers and the logging trucks will continue their journeys along the coastal highway.

Conyers honors Gladys, Pips

Congressman John Conyers, Jr., Democrat of Michigan, honored Gladys Knight and The Pips with a Congressional Record.

The Buddah recording artists were honored by Conyers for their accomplishments and achievements in contemporary music.

Gladys Knight and The Pips recently debuted with their own summer weekly television series on NBC television. The group is currently on a cross country concert tour.

MOTOWN, STEVIE SIGN $13 MILLION PACT

HOLLYWOOD — The biggest contract in the history of the record industry was concluded recently between Stevie Wonder and Motown Record Corporation.

The agreement calls for guarantees to Stevie over a seven-year period of more than $13,000,00. This unprecedented sum is equal to the deals of Elton John and Neil Diamond combined.

Considered an authentic genius by other recording artists and producers as well as the general public, Stevie is philosophical about the historic deal.

Challenges The Church

News media in Zaire used the term Mobutism for the first time about a year ago. It represents the philosophy of President Mobutu Sese Seko and the official doctrine of the political party he founded the People's Revolutionary Movement.

The Commission for Political Affairs has declared that President Sese Seko should be regarded as a prophet or messiah, and his political party is to be considered similar to a church, with "authenticity" as its religion.

Mobutism is posing a serious challenge to the Catholic Church in Zaire. Religious instruction in primary and secondary schools has been replaced by the teaching of Mobutism and other civic and political doctrines. The faculty of theology at the National University of Zaire, formerly the Catholic University of Lovanium, has been closed.

In line with an official decree, crucifixes and religious pictures in public places have been replaced by photos of President Sese Seko. Despite all of this, political leaders of Zaire say they are only trying to advance the idea of African authenticity and trying to recapture traditional cultural and religious values.

The 48 bishops of Zaire, many of whom are Africans, are taking another view of the matter. In their pastoral letters, they are urging their people to be courageous in the face of adversity by having deep faith in Christ.

In addition to these pastoral guidelines, the Zairean bishops, together with Cardinal Joseph Malula of Kinshasa, have boldly decided to continue the faculty of Catholic theology of Kinshasa, but outside the jurisdiction of the National University of Zaire.

Cardinal Malula stated that the Bishops simply could not let this faculty cease to exist after 21 years of hard work. The faculty was founded in 1954 by Pope Pius XII and its theologians acquired international renown during the 1974 synod in Rome. They will continue their thorough study of African customs and of the religion of their ancestors as a way of making an African contribution to the universal patrimony of the Catholic Church.

There are some things you can do to make your air conditioner's job a little easier and keep your cooling costs down.

- Seal air leaks. Caulk carefully around windows and window mounted room air conditioners.
- Don't cool unoccupied rooms and closet spaces. Close interior doors. Turn the air-conditioning off when you leave home.
- Close your blinds early in the morning and air condition when your house is naturally cooler. Don't wait until your house is so hot the air conditioner has to work overtime to catch up.

(A forum about mature women)

by Margaret Brookfield

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice write Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 515 Madison Avenue New York, N.Y. 10022.

Job Calls For Tact

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I have worked for the same firm for 25 years, moving up from typing pool to executive secretary. Recently my boss of 10 years retired, and a younger man has taken his place. He said he wanted me to stay on as his secretary, since I know the ropes, but he keeps making changes in the routine, that I know won't work. Should I tell him, or let him find out for himself?

O.H.

Dear O.H.:

Many older workers find themselves in this difficult situation. It's usually best not to presume on your long service by telling the boss how to run his business. And remember, too, that times change, and you, yourself, may have gotten into a rut.

If you feel that something your new boss proposes is completely out of line, you might tactfully point out some of the difficulties it may entail, but never, never, imply that you know his job better than he does—even if you do!

Inflation Blues

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

Do you think the news of the crunch hasn't reached every corner of America yet? I have a few friends who retired to distant states. I enjoy corresponding with them but every once in a while one of them will add the postscript: "Please phone me, I'd love to hear your voice."

Well, I'd like to talk to them, too, but with three teenagers in the family who all seem to have the phone glued to their right ear constantly, my bills are extremely high. What do I tell these nervy friends?

F.G.

Dear F.G.:

Tell them the truth. But if they are living on a fixed retirement income, possibly they can't afford to call you. If so, perhaps you can relay the news about the inflation crunch

GSU, Norfolk State Clash In Young Classic Nov. 5

New York City's only college football extravaganza the 1975 Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Football Classic, will be played at Shea Stadium Saturday, November 15. Festivities for the Fifth Annual Classic will kickoff at 1 p.m.

The Classic will be a battle of champions with national Black college champions Grambling State University facing Norfolk State, champions of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (C.I.A.A.).

Sponsored jointly by the New York Urban League and the Coca Cola Bottling Company of New York, the Classic has attracted over 215,000 fans in the past four years, putting New York City back on the national football scene. Proceeds from the Classic help support many New York Urban League programs including the highly successful Street Academies.

Coach Eddie Robinson will head Grambling State's Tiger powerhouse for the 35th year. He has compiled a 236-81-11 career record, second best among active college coaches. Bear Bryant of Alabama University is the leader with a 242-71-16 record.

Robinson candidly sizes up the coming season by saying, "our strength is at quarterback, running backs, pass receivers, defensive front-four and kicking. Question marks on the team are linebackers and interior offensive line. Our weakness is the defensive backfield."

GSU posted an 11-1 record in 1974, losing a squeaker to Alcorn 19-14, with whom they shared the Southwest Athletic Conference title. In the Tigers match with Norfolk State, they outlasted the Spartans 16-10 in a whale of a ball game that makes fans think the two schools will put on quite a show at Shea Stadium in November.

Norfolk State (Virginia) had a banner year in 1974 with a 8-3 mark. They were 8-0 in the C.I.A.A., giving them the conference title. Head Coach William "Dick" Price was in his first year at the helm of the Spartans. He replaced Bob Ledbetter who left the school to take over as offensive backfield coach for the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League.

In five previous clashes with Grambling, Norfolk State had been soundly thrashed. But in last year's encounter, the Spartans from Virginia put a scare into the Tigers before finally losing 16-10. At half-time Grambling led 9-0 and shortly after the third period started, the Tigers found themselves on the short end of a 10-9 count.

It wasn't until the fourth period that Grambling punched across the winning touchdown. It came on a pass play, when the safety-man for Norfolk State slipped on the wet ground on what might have been an interception. Instead it preserved GSU's record that led them to the national championship.

Norfolk State had not enjoyed a winning season since 1962, and with 16 seniors and 17 juniors making up the bulk of the squad this year, they are looking forward to even greater things for 1975.

Robinson of Grambling and Price of Norfolk State were quite amiable at a recent press reception in the Times-Life Building. But it will be a different story when they look at each other across the Shea Stadium gridiron on November 15th.

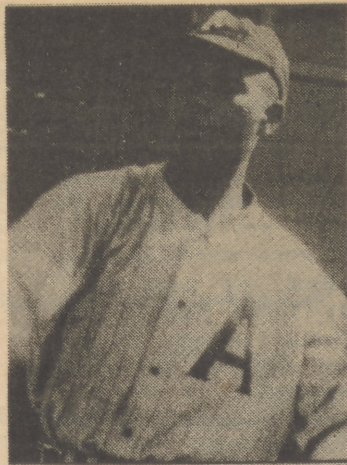

Black Sports Focuses On Illegal Recruiting

The people who know him well call him Freddy the Spook. Coaches call him the flesh peddler.

He's one of many bootleg agents who are part of the worsening collegiate athletic scene. Their brand of cheating differs from offering cars and money. It involves agents who are offering high school players to colleges if that school's coach is willing to either pay a sum up front or to redirect that player to the agent when he is ready to turn pro.

A variation on that theme is that the agent will often guarantee the coach a cut, a kickback of sorts, generally one to two per cent of the player's contract upon successful completion of the deal.

Just as no one is sure of how widespread recruiting violations are, no one is quite sure of the scope of the agent-coach arrangement. All agree however that the temptations and pressures on a coach to make such an agreement are

STOWE RETIRES

FULLERTON, Calif.--Wide receiver Otto Stowe, who played at Iowa State, told the Los Angeles Rams Monday he is retiring from football because he has lost his enthusiasm for the game.

The retirement was a surprise because Stowe, 26, was expected to be a prime contender for a spot with the National Football League club, which had six top receivers.

Stowe may have made the decision to retire because he was still hampered by a broken ankle, which cut down his mobility last year with the Denver Broncos. The injury occurred two years ago when Stowe was with Dallas Cowboys.

increasing as the competition for blue-chip talent becomes even more intense.

Bidding wars between the professional football and basketball leagues has brought out agents out to make their big hit in the inflated marketplace of professional sports. Under the protective shroud of insufficient evidence to accuse, agents roam high school gyms, community leagues and schoolyard games for the player that could be their lifetime meal ticket.

John Thompson, a Black coach at predominantly white Georgetown University says "Most of the time it's not a person with some formal education. Usually a bootleg agent is somebody very prominent in the community, somebody who the kid likes for some reason and who can get a linkage somehow to give advice to the kid."

ALLEN ASHBY

Johnson-Keith Rowland and Jack Johnson-Harold Winston were ready to face each other for all the marbles. But a funny thing happened. After one point had been played, Winston, apparently tired from his match with White, came up with leg cramps.

ALLEN ASHBY

Now, this was all hung on a fine technicality. If the guy had gotten his cramps before the match started, he could have been given the usual default limit too recover. But, since one point had been played, the match was officially on, and the book says that there shall be no provision for illness or injury beyond a player's control. That he must default. So there it was. Johnson and Winston had to default to Johnson and Rowland.

Rowland says they would have taken it anyway, but I watched Jack Johnson try to drive balls through people instead of around them, and I wasn't quite sure. But what might have been a fine match was done in, and everybody was sorry. Jack wanted to play them by himself, if that were permissible. That was the first time we had ever been faced with that situation, and nobody hated to call the thing any worse than I did. I felt almost as bad as the players, but that's life.

The meet was bigger than the one last year, and promises to be even bigger next year, with maybe a women's division. A couple of girls were scrambling around to get eight girls and women in the thing this time, but they didn't make it. But they promised to make it next year.

There was a kid team that played in the meet and they won a match as a doubles team, and gave good account of themselves in the men's singles. Maybe we can get in a junior section next year.

This meet is confined to the players who play at the park, but we wanted them to be black, because we are trying to develop black tennis, and it looks as if we are finally on the way. Most of the fellows helped us with our Hilltop Open and did just about whatever we asked them to do in the way of helping in this one. So we are getting the guys to realize that this is a two-way street, and they are glad to be on it.

Football?

While we were immersed in tennis, the football season sneaked in on us. Had to pass up the high schools, but I shall look them over later and give you our expert opinion. I did ask Jack Johnson what kind of a ball club they were expecting at East. I don't want to jinx him, so I will not repeat his reply yet. Later, I may remind him of it; however, it goes.

PUSH Expo
Salutes
The Family

CHICAGO—Thousands of visitors from across the nation will participate in the largest black-sponsored event in the U.S. when PUSH EXPO '75 opens its doors at Chicago's International Amphitheatre,
Wed., Sept. 24 through Sun. Sept.
28, for the 7th Annual Operation PUSH Business and Cultural Trade Exposition.

Focusing on the critical effect of the current economic condition on the American family, Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, national president, Operation PUSH, designated "Save the Family" as the theme of this year's Expo.

Through a series of meetings and workshops, national business, labor, government and media leaders will seek ways to alleviate financial pressures on the family and assure the economic survival of the wage earner and the business entrepreneur.

The primary purpose of the five-day exposition is to provide an opportunity to showcase black businesses. Joint ventures between black and white firms resulting in industrial payrolls in the inner city are one of the most valuable by-products of Expo, according to Celious
Henderson, Expo general chairman.

Over 500 exhibitors from almost every state will display their products and services at the Amphitheatre. "The exposition educates the consumer about these products and demonstrates to white businesses what black businesses can supply,"
Henderson said.

Major black firms, allied corporations, government agencies, civic and educational organizations will occupy 200,000 square feet of exhibit space, while dozens of small black retailers will sell their wares in the colorful Bazaar market area.

The best known names in show business have made appearances at PUSH Expo a tradition. This year's line-up, still in the formation stage,
includes Roberta Flack, Richard Pryor, Dick Clark and his
"American Bandstand" show, Don Cornelius and his "Soul Train" show, and Wolfman Jack with a Saturday matinee
"Midnight Special." A tribute to Julian "Cannonball" Adderley will be presented on Saturday evening.

Also planned are entertainment programs created especially for school children, and a "Celebration in Song," gospel musical scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Dominating the entrance to the exposition hall, a cultural display, dramatizing those factors which have influenced the growth of the family in Western civilization, will depict the "Save the Family" theme.

Last year, 400,000 people, from across the U.S., Canada, Virgin Islands, and from as far away as the Soviet Union came together at Expo to view the exhibits, to communicate with one another, and to celebrate current black business and cultural accomplishments.

Tickets for PUSH Expo '75
may be purchased at Operation
PUSH Headquarters, 930 East 50th Street, and at the Amphitheatre, 43rd and South Halsted Streets. General admission is $2 for adults, 50c for children.

NAB Searches for Job Opportunities

The local office of the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) will attempt to place 450 disadvantaged persons, 300 veterans, ten disabled veterans and 25 ex-offenders in jobs in the greater Des Moines area during the coming year, according to David Neugent, metropolitan chairman of NAB.

"These are realistic goals to undertake," Neugent said, "especially with a downturn in our economy."

"From July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975, NAB locally placed 402 veterans, 481 disadvantaged citizens and over 20 ex-offenders in private sector jobs," he added, "and that 188 private companies and firms participated in this overall effort."

Neugent, who is president of Blue Cross of Iowa, participated Wednesday in an orientation program for six loaned account executives who will spend three months in a pledge campaign seeking job openings within business and industry throughout the metropolitan area. The executives in loan are paid by their companies.

Norman C. Weber, vice president of the program for the NAB national office, Washington, D.C., will conduct the orientation session.

Loaned account executives and their firms who will be working on the program include: Jerry Ballard, The Bankers Life; Ron Reiff, Robert Ramsey, IBM Corporation; John Jackson, Blue Cross - Blue Shield; Dale Pritchard, Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.; and Thomas Riggs, Great Plains Bag Corporation.

Monroe Colston, metropolitan director for NAB, said over 300 businesses will be contacted for job opportunities and training for the NAB clients, consisting of disadvantaged, Vietnam veterans, ex-offenders, and disabled veterans.

The Alliance is a unique partnership of business, labor, government and with the newest partner that of education, working to secure jobs and training for the chronically unemployed and underemployed, stated Colston.

Colston said that since the NAB program was begun here in 1969 under the auspices of the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, 2,951 veterans and disadvantaged have been placed in jobs.

Another high leading source of lead poisoning is paper—especially colored-ink paper. Magazines with those beautiful glossy pictures are especially intriguing to those precious young ones. But any kind of paper with ink on it—newspapers, children's books and magazines, junk mail—can be high contributors to lead poisoning, possibly the main sources. So, be on the watch and keep those papers and magazines picked up and put away. It could help save a child's life. (Photo courtesy Lead Poisoning Program).
