Community Completes 7-Year Sewer Project

Freedom Train Walkway

Controls Traffic Flow

A visit to the American Freedom Train is a moving experience—in more ways than one. A unique moving walkway serves as a counter-measure to long waiting lines.

In 1947, people waited four abreast in lines that stretched 15 city blocks to see a similar train. Although there were only three exhibit cars, the train could only accommodate 640 persons per hour. With the moving walkway, the Freedom Train more than doubles that hourly rate and still waits in some cities have exceeded three hours.

Visitors to the Freedom Train will quickly note that there is little time to browse. The Train coming to West Des Moines, Iowa September 16-21 is no museum, but a kaleidoscope of sights and sounds dramatically illustrating the spirit of American achievement.

The Train will be open for viewing each day from 8 a.m.-10 p.m. On Friday, September 19, and Saturday, September 20 the closing time will be midnight. Children under 3 are admitted free. Admission is $1 for children 3 to 12 and for senior citizens 65 and older. All others $2. Tickets are on sale at all branches of Des Moines Savings and Loan Association and all Central Iowa Youngsters Department Stores. Mail order forms are available at all Hy-Vee Markets. For ticket information call 515-255-1776.

The moving walkway concept was devised by Foundation planners to control the traffic flow and to allow more Americans to share the exciting portrayal spanning 200 years of our nation's growth and achievement. Since the aisles are only 27 inches wide, any person stopping unduly long at any point would hold up the entire line.

"We didn't want the wait to be too long, but we wanted the line to move slowly enough so everyone could enjoy the experience," said Petr Spurney, president of the non-profit foundation. "We feel we've reached that happy medium."

The walkway takes visitors through each of the 10 exhibit cars where they are caught up in the color, adventure, and excitement of various facets of American life starting with the Revolution and continuing through exploration, culture, technological progress, labor and professions, sports, the arts and crisis.

Priceless documents, art treasures and memorabilia gathered from some 200 historical societies, museums and private collectors have been placed aboard in dramatic dioramas designed to instill a feeling of pride and accomplishment.

The 25-car Train is powered by a 425-ton "iron horse" of the golden age of railroading. The massive 80-inch high drivers fascinate youngsters and bring tears to the eyes of elders who remember all too well an era past.

The privately-sponsored Freedom Train is traveling to more than 90 cities in 48 states during its 21-month journey which ends in Miami in December of 1976. During that period the Train will have come within an hour's drive of 90 per cent of our nation's population.

Oralabor Now Has Sewer System

Signing the final document to complete construction of the Oralabor Sanitary Sewer District of Polk County project is Isaac Jones, Jr., (seated) chairman of the Oralabor Board of Trustees. Witnessing the signing are (l-r) Daryl Cree of Cree Enterprises, contractor; Jim Kimm, Ankeny engineer consultant; Leonard Volineer Board of Trustees treasurer; Jim Burell, secretary of Oralabor Board of Trustees; Patrick Brick, Ankeny city attorney and David Dirks, Ankeny city manager.

The Oralabor Sanitary Sewer District of Polk County project was completed Saturday with the signing of resolutions by the Oralabor Board of Trustees in the office of Patrick Brick, Ankeny City attorney.

Construction of the sewer and water lines was made possible through a 90 per cent grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), according to Isaac Jones, Jr., chairman of the Oralabor Board of Trustees. The water and sewer lines project amounted to $144,298.70, according to Brick and Jones.

Water services for the Oralabor Community will be provided by the City of Ankeny. Ankeny will also pay the percentage of the construction costs which the HUD grant does not pay, the city attorney said. Brick said that maintenance bonds will provide for maintenance on the project.

"The bonds will protect the City of Ankeny," the city attorney said, "because Ankeny will own the system." He added that the City of Ankeny will not accept responsibility of the system until it has been inspected.

Members of the Oralabor Community can begin efforts to connect the main sewer and water lines to their residences, Jones said. He said that $10,000 was given by the Catholic Diocese to help persons on fixed incomes and those who cannot afford the $225 deposit to make the water and sewer lines connection.

Jones stated that the project started twenty years ago under the leadership of his father Isaac Jones, Sr., but "it fell through." The project was again initiated by the younger Jones and took seven years to complete.

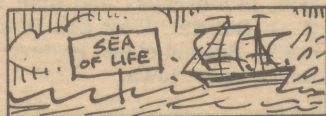

The Oralabor Community with a populace of 75 is the first community in the nation to receive a grant for an unincorporated area from HUD.

Incumbents plus one win; Tax levy loses again

Four incumbents of the Des Moines School Board and a 37-year-old housewife were winners in elections held Tuesday but a tax levy question was defeated.

Incumbents Nolden Gentry and John McCaw will serve two-year terms, while incumbents George Caudill and Merle Schlamp were re-elected and are joined by Betty Grundberg to serve three-year terms. Grundberg replaces Kate Goldman who did not seek re-election.

They will take office at a special board meeting September 15 at 2 p.m., joining Ora Niffenegger and Majorie Spevak, whose terms last another year.

Life is a struggle.

Caudill led the eight-candidate field for the three-year positions with 8,628 votes. Schlamp received 6,138 votes and Grundberg followed with 5,752.

A schoolhouse levy question was defeated a second time with 7,970 persons voting against it while 5,372 voted for.

The levy question would have allowed School officials to levy up to 67½ cents per $1,000 of actual property valuation or $13.50 each year for the owner of a $20,000 home. The tax would have given the district $1.25 million a year.

Des Moines school officials hope to submit the schoolhouse levy question to voters a third time.

Gentry received the most votes, carrying 59 of 96 precincts — many by large margins. He polled 9,110 votes, according to unofficial returns, while McCaw collected 8,483, among the five candidates for two-year terms.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

Making Somebody A Scape Goat

Much has been written about the financial plight of New York City. Some have been sound, some otherwise. The one by Marquis Childs, which appeared in the Des Moines Tribune on September 5th, deserves attention because he attempts to shift the cause on the poor families.

He states that "The root cause is the welfare load, and that grew primarily out of the migration from the South and from Puerto Rico, swelling the ghettos to completely unmanageable proportions. For this influx of poor families, quite unequipped for urban life in the North, the federal government took no responsibility whatsoever."

It is true that large numbers of Negroes have left the South and located in populous cities. This is also true of Puerto Ricans in some instances. Invariably, politicians from the districts where these people live have used their influence, in many instances, to get them on the relief rolls and used it as a reason why they should be re-elected to public office year after year. In fact, they have used the relief rolls to build a political machine.

Officials have had this problem with them during good times when plans should have been made to help these people get employment. And while pressure from civil rights organizations has helped considerably to fill this gap they are among the latest to begin receiving any or better jobs and thus are first to be laid off when times became tough.

It is generally agreed that political machines bowed to pressure to spend more than New York could afford, placing the city in the same position as the family which makes no effort to save for hard times.

It is easy to accuse the people on relief, many of whom could be working if permitted to, but they are only part of the problem, most of which could be solved if those in power made an honest effort to do so.

Disregard For The Public

There is a wave of strikes by teachers that undermines the education of millions of youngsters. They have become carried away with their newly-found power and like auto workers, who came to power not too long ago, flex their muscles regardless of the consequences.

Today, coal miners are winding down their strike, policemen in San Francisco bludgeoned the mayor to get what they wanted, dock workers in Texas are going back to work after holding up shipping grain to Russia, all of which discommoded the public and in most cases ignored the courts and their regard for "law and order."

In Boston, and to a great extent in Louisville, Kentucky opponents of busing are displaying disregard for law and order, thus teaching their children how not to be law abiding citizens.

Undoubtedly, these disorders could be averted if each side of a question could settle their differences at the peace table where reasonable and intelligent negotiations could be had. Recent efforts by Secretary Kissinger to secure agreements between Israel and Egypt brought about more lasting peace than a war which kills a lot of men, expends untold millions and in the end settles nothing. This is the route which citizens should take when they feel their grievances are not being dealt with fairly.

I still think we are creating too many pressure groups that tend to pull the country apart and thus open the possibility of pursuing ideologies foreign to the things we propose to stand for.

We Should See Freedom Train

The Freedom Train is scheduled to be in Iowa next week. It may be seen in West Des Moines. Admission is charged out of which, no doubt, the operating costs are being paid.

According to advance publicity, history of America during its almost 200 years is on display. No doubt it is worth seeing and by all means youngsters should have an opportunity to inspect it.

Every citizen should be proud of America even though, at times, it has not lived up to expectations. Many people forget their history and the exhibits on this train will help renew it.

Like travel the Freedom Train is a reminder of what has happened and suggests what can be done to improve the lot of each of us.

DMARC Sponsors Unique Communion Service

Every congregation has shut-in members within its constituency. These confined Christians are unable to come to their church's communion table and receive the sacrament with the rest of their church family. Pastors usually take the Lord's Supper to these members in homes and institutions.

October 5 will be observed by many denominations as "World Communion Sunday." On that day, Christians of many countries, continents and cultures will gather about a common table 25,000 miles long to share the sacrament instituted by Jesus Christ. It is a day when the Christian world acknowledges its oneness in Christ.

On that Sunday, Dr. Robert W. Rae, pastor of Highland Park Presbyterian Church, will conduct a thirty-minute communion service over radio station W H O beginning at 3:30 p.m. Congregations within the listening-area are invited to participate in this service as pastors and laymen take the sacrament to their shut-in members.

This service will include appropriate scriptures, prayers and message. Time will be allotted for the serving of both elements to communicants. It will be an undenominational service with no denominational labels.

This unique service is sponsored for the first time by

Benjamin L. Hooks

Women or minorities cannot win for losing

At long last, the Federal Communications Commission has instituted an inquiry and rulemaking proceedings (as prescribed by Communications law) preparatory to issuing firm equal employment opportunity guidelines to all of its broadcast licensees.

Comments on its proposals and policy clarifications are being requested from the general public by September 11, with replies set for October 1. I would urge all interested public interest, black, Latino and women's groups to participate.

For my part, I am happy to see the Commission issue this Notice of Inquiry and Proposed Rulemaking regarding non-discrimination in the employment practices of broadcast licensees and setting forth its view that EEO is an important aspect of the Commission regulatory function.

In a 10-page concurring statement that was attached to the notice, I commended the Commission for taking this action.

This has been a long time in the making. When I came aboard the Commission, July 1972, EEO had been a Commission policy for three years. On June 4, 1969, the Commission adopted rules forbidding discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin and requiring that equal opportunities in employment ... be afforded by all licensees or permittees ... to all qualified persons."

The FCC was the first and I believe is still the only one of the so-called "Big Eight (ICC, FTC, FPC, SEC, CAB, etc.) federal regulatory commissions to adopt the rules.

I was quickly named EEO Commissioner and we set about establishing an in-house EEO unit and an external EEO unit, the latter to deal with the industries we regulate.

It never dawned on me that it would take nearly three years before the Commission would agree on a set of EEO guidelines on non-discrimination.

I disagreed with the term the Commission insisted on keeping — "qualified." I said I felt it could be used to eliminate minorities and women from broadcast employment consideration and that it could thus, become "an escape hatch."

"Unfortunately, women and minorities are often told that they are not 'qualified' to take a job or be promoted, but they are then told to instruct a non-minority or a male on the specifics of how to do the very job they were told they (minorities, women) could not do.

"In many instances, it seems that women or minorities cannot win for losing. They are either 'not qualified,' 'underqualified' or 'overqualified'. Where does the 'buck' stop? Common sense dictates the answer. Employers know if a person can do the job, or be trained for the job. The question becomes, 'If the applicant were a white male, would I bring up the 'qualifications' issue?'"

There are several other portions of the proposed rules and guidelines I am not happy with: I wanted goals and timetables established for all stations; the Commission is wavering between exempting those stations with 10 or those with 15 employees.

I favor a "self analysis" approach (Executive Order 11246) for two reasons, as opposed to the "Title 7" approach the Commission finally adopted.

I also would have preferred requirements that stations with 25 employees instead of 50, list all job titles by race and sex, and that there be requirements that the FCC act on all complaints instead of referring them to other agencies.

Oh, well, you can't win 'em all. And as this present package stands barring any later revisions for the worse, I think minorities and women can live with it.

After A Coronary, What Then?

There's no doubt about it — the person who has a coronary attack has had a frightening experience. Even when he is getting better and the physician assures him that he will be all right, he is still likely to be beset with doubts and fears, says your Heart Association.

This is perfectly natural at first. But gradually, as the patient gains an understanding of his illness and of the healing processes, as he increases his activities without discomfort, and as he hears about the great number of people who have had a heart attack and are now back at work and enjoying life, he can truly feel he will once again be well.

The physician caring for a patient is the best person to answer all his questions. But questions often occur when the doctor isn't there or are forgotten when he is. Sometimes, for one reason or another, the patient or his family hesitate to ask questions. A new booklet, "After A Coronary" is now available from the Iowa Heart Association. In this publication, some of the matters that puzzle and worry patients are discussed. If you or someone in your family has had a heart attack, you may find in this booklet some of the answers to questions that have been troubling you. Or you may be reminded of other questions to ask your physician. For your free, single copy of "After A Coronary", write to: Iowa Heart Association, 3810 Ingersoll, Des Moines, Iowa 50312.

Greyhound Presents New Travel Plan

WASHINGTON — All Americans can now travel all of America for $76 on Greyhound's new seven-day Ameripass.

At a news conference here today, Charles D. Kirkpatrick, Greyhound vice president-sales, said that a new seven-day unlimited travel ticket went on sale Tuesday. The new plan has all the basic features of Greyhound's other Ameripasses, but offers a great opportunity for unlimited travel at even lower cost than ever before.

Greyhound's other Ameripasses include a new 15-day Ameripass for $125 which goes into effect Sept. 15, a one-month Ameripass costing $175 and a two-month Ameripass for $250.

"This means anyone can travel any day of the week and go anywhere over Greyhound's more than 10,000 miles of routes throughout the United States and Canada. Many connecting bus lines will also honor the new Ameripass," said Kirkpatrick.

Gun Safety Course

A date has been set up for the 12th Polk County Sheriff's Basic Four-hour Gun Safety Course, being given in cooperation with the Des Moines Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, NRA, Iowa Conservation Commission, Des Moines Public Schools, Department of Community and Adult Education.

Applications for the 1976 Concealed Weapons Permits will be available at the Polk County Sheriff's Department, room 204, in November of 1975.

Pat Rice, deputy, Polk County Sheriff's Department emphasizes the importance of completing the course before applications are made for 1976. No Concealed Weapons Permits will be issued in 1976, unless the course is completed.

The date for the course is Saturday, September 20, 1-5 p.m. at the Izaak Walton League, 4343 Valley Drive. Do not bring a weapon. There is no charge and no registration.

"Passengers can travel any route any day, inside and outside their state—and they can stop over where or when they want."

Greyhound, recognizing the need for a travel plan which would benefit all Americans, feels the new Ameripass will be well accepted, particularly by young persons, senior citizens, pensioners, job seekers and others who may have postponed travel because of inflationary and recession pressures. He added that the new fare should also appeal to students and others who may want to travel over the Thanksgiving holiday period.

In support of the government's program to encourage foreign travellers to visit the U.S.A., the seven-day, $76 Ameripass will also be offered for sale throughout the world.

As with Greyhound's other Ameripasses, seven-day Ameripass passengers receive Greyhound's discount guide which describes discounts offered by many hotels, sightseeing companies, attractions and other travel related services.

ENTERTAINMENT WORLD

Leslie Uggams: Star From Harlem Suburb

For Leslie Uggams, show business began on the streets and stoops of Washington Heights, a section of New York City dubbed by one comedian as "a suburb of Harlem."

"I was always a ham," recalls Leslie. "I would sing and dance at the drop of a hat. You know we didn't have porches, so we used to sit on the stoops and practice our singing."

To correct her knock knees and to direct their daughter toward a better life-style, Leslie's parents sent her to a nearby dancing school, where the teacher took special note of Leslie's abilities. Her parents were told that Leslie had exceptional talent and the teacher began escorting her to local auditions and talent shows.

At six years of age, Leslie made her national television debut, portraying the niece of Ethel Waters on "Beulah." Appearances on "The Show of Shows," "The Milton Berle Show" and numerous children's programs soon followed.

When she was just eight years old, Leslie began performing at the famed Apollo Theater in Harlem. She sang and danced, an extra added attraction before the performances of Ella Fitzgerald, Dinah Washington and Louis Armstrong. Leslie still considers Dinah Washington to be perhaps the greatest influence on her singing style. She worked at the Apollo on a regular basis until the age of thirteen.

"I didn't do too much in my early teens," I just had to grow into myself."

At a substantial economic sacrifice; and with her father father working three different jobs, Leslie was able to attend Professional Children's School for show business children in New York. I proved something of a dilemma for the young singer-dancer, for she was now exposed to two different environments—her own neighborhood and that of upper-class whites.

"It was like living in two different worlds," says Leslie. "On one hand, I was attending a sophisticated white school where everything was so proper and smoother. And on the other hand, I still lived on 164th Street, which can get a little crazy at times. You know I'd get all dressed for school and then come home, slip on my jeans and go outside and sing with the kids in the neighborhood. It was a fine experience."

An appearance as a contestant on "Name That Tune" at the age of fifteen brought her to the attention of Mitch Miller. Miller soon signed her to Columbia Records, and less than a year later Leslie came to national prominence as a regular on the popular "Sing Along with Mitch" television program.

Leslie was confronted with new difficulties on the Mitch Miller show, for despite her ratings as television's most popular female singer, Southern stations shied away from the program because of her color.

"In the beginning, the South didn't pick up on 'Sing Along with Mitch' and Mitch would get a lot of static," Leslie states, "because I was the first black to be a regular on network TV. But Mitch took a stand. He faced them down. 'If you don't want her, then you don't want me', is what he said."

Leslie's success with her career helped her parents to realize at least one of their dreams—being able to move from their third-floor tenement to a better neighborhood. Meanwhile, Leslie increased her popularity as a nightclub performer, appearing at New York's Persian Room and noted supper clubs nationwide.

In pursuit of her acting interests, Leslie appeared in summer stock productions around the country then returned to New York, where her portrayal of Georgina in the Broadway production of "Hallelujah Baby!" earned her a Tony Award as "Best Actress in a Broadway Musical."

The multi-faceted Leslie Uggams is very active keeping her many talents busy simultaneously. Having hosted her own television series and starred in several TV specials (including "S'Wonderful; S'Marvelous; S'Gershwin"), television dramas and feature films, Leslie would like to remain heavily involved with TV, the medium she believes to be the most influential and the one where she first started. She is currently a regular on the popular TV game show; "Hollywood Squares."

Her nightclub appearances take Leslie all over the world. She has just returned from an international tour with her new nightclub act; "The Leslie Uggams Cotton Club Review," based on the Cotton Club in Harlem, where her mother was a dancer in the 1930's.

Leslie's recording career is no and recording facilities, Davis recorded the musical tracks for the album in Detroit and Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

Names Otis Redding Scholarship Students

MACON: Ga.—Two 1975 Mercer University graduates who will be first-year students in the Walter F. George School of Law this fall have been named the first recipients of the Otis Redding Scholarship established by Phil Walden.

They are Charles A. Mathis, Jr. and Miss Patricia Elaine Akins, both of Macon. The scholarship, named in honor of a Maconite who became an international recording star, was initiated in 1974 by Walden, Macon recording executive, to enable students to attend the Mercer law school.

The first gift for the fund was a $30,000 check from Lou Adler, president of Ode Records in Los Angeles, and co-producer of the Monterey Pop Festival at which Redding reached the peak of his career in 1967. A few months before his untimely death in a plane crash in Wisconsin.

In 1961 Redding began his musical career which was managed from the beginning by Walden, now manager of The Allman Brothers Band and president of Capricorn Records, Inc.

Walden, a 1962 graduate who once considered a law career himself, said that $250,000 in contributions is being sought for the scholarship fund.

The Otis Redding Scholarship Fund, established in the spring of 1974, will enable several minority students to attend Mercer's Walter F. George School of Law each year. The scholarship fund is still seeking contributions c/o The Otis Redding Scholarship Fund, Mercer University, Macon, Georgia.

Fay Clark, author, researcher, and lecturer in the field of parapsychology, will conduct the weekly informal sessions. The public is invited to participate in the workshops. A fee of $25 per participant will be charged.

During these informal sessions, participants will discuss and learn how to interpret their dreams. Also, they will learn about the types of dreams, their causes and effects, and research that is being conducted in this field.

Class is open to adults of all ages.

Drake University is offering a course on "The Basics of Investing" from 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays, September 10 through October 1, in room 223 of Drake University's Meredith Hall, 28th near Carpenter Avenue.

Dr. Frank Tiernan, Assistant Professor of Finance, will conduct the course.

The public is invited to participate in the program. The short course will familiarize the participant with the environment in which investments are made.

Topics will include an explanation of the stock, the sources of investment information, the role of the brokerage firm and the sources and implications of general economic indicators.

The course is considered an introduction into the process of investing and does not require any previous knowledge of the subject.

A fee of $25 per person will be charged. Further information about both classes is available by contacting Emilie Duimstra or Nancy Guthrie of the Pre-Retirement Planning Center at 271-2184.

Green Arrives Early At CC

PELLA—Charles Green, Central College senior, is on campus early to begin work as a member of the Student Union Board.

The board works directly with the Student Union director to plan and coordinate all social activities for the school year, such as movies, concerts and dances.

Green is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Green of Des Moines, and is majoring in political science and psychology.

Women Vets Eligible For More Benefits

INDIANOLA, IA.—Nearly 94,000 women veterans have not yet used their current GI bill for education, according to statistics released recently by the Veterans Administration.

Greg Holdsworth, assistant coordinator of veterans affairs at Simpson College, said the report indicated that only 46 per cent of the 174,000 women veterans eligible have received educational benefits under the current GI bill. Holdsworth added that 59 per cent of the male veterans eligible are receiving benefits.

The VA report also noted that some of the 80,000 women who have used their current GI bill may be eligible for a special retroactive payment, according to Holdsworth. Women who were enrolled, while married, between June 1, 1966, and October 24, 1972, are eligible for an additional $30 for each month of enrollment if they were not paid at the rate for married veterans.

Holdsworth said women veterans who feel they may be entitled to educational benefits can receive clarification of their status by contacting the nearest VA office or telephoning him at Simpson College.

New Change In Elementary Starting Time

Elementary schools will start at 9:10 a.m. every day of the week, an official of the Des Moines Public Schools said Tuesday, eliminating the delayed starting time on Wednesdays.

"A different starting time for elementary schools on different school days tends to cause more home interruptions, supervision problems and baby-sitting problems for working parents than varying dismissal time," said Dr. James Bowman, executive director of elementary schools.

He announced that the school day will be 9:10 a.m. to 3:20 p.m. every day at least until October 8 "to allow time to rearrange staff development time for teachers in the afternoon on Wednesdays rather than Wednesday mornings."

There are lots of great things about this new Flynn plastic gallon jug.

Actually our new plastic gallon jug is the next best thing to the cow herself for keeping Flynn Milk fresh. The re-sealable screw on cap insures complete freshness. The built-in handle makes it easy to carry and easy to pour from. The plastic is translucent so you can always see how much milk is left. Of course, we wouldn't be so excited about the container if we weren't so sure about what we put inside it. It costs no more than milk in waxed cartons. And you pay no deposit. Available now at your store. For home delivery call 243-6211.

LOOK ON SPORTS

As football season advances; baseball, tennis linger

This is the time of the year when a fellow wishes he has as many eyes as a fly. Baseball, football and tennis at the same time.

Only one of the three Iowa schools got started, and they would like to take that one back. Drake had troubles, and came up second. Iowa and Iowa State will get going this weekend. Still, my spies tell me that the Bulldogs don't have a bad ballclub and will likely win their share of games as the season goes on.

I think I will hold up on the black school news until I see what Charles McCauley comes up with. The guy has been doing a fantastic job on black sports, and I certainly wouldn't want to butt in on his playhouse.

By the time you read this, we will know who the starting signalcallers are for both the Hawkeyes and Cyclones. Remember when we all thought there never would be a black quarterback in the Big Ten or any other major football conference? Well, now there are so many you need a scorecard to tell who is who.

It looks as if there will be more than one black calling plays in the NFL, too. I know I said that I don't think the quarterbacks call their own plays, and I don't but the position is still a glamour position. We go into the opening games wondering what kind of records the teams will have.

A fellow said it all when he said that being a champion in any conference involves several things: Keeping your key players healthy and free from injury, your big stars having their best days in their most important game, and the ability to keep from making mistakes, such as getting big penalties on crucial downs. This has to keep up all season, or your club may well become the victim of an upset that you know they were ripe for, but which may astonish everyone else.

Do you know I don't believe that you have to have a ballclub with all the players buddy-buddy to have a winning team? In my book, all you need is for each man to know his job and do it. The players can be nearly strangers, and they will do all right because nobody wants to be the guy who will get blamed for blowing the game. Now, this is just my personal theory, and could be as wrong as two left feet, but right now, I believe it.

Here at home

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the local high school season got under way. Dowling took up where they left off last year, and proved that they will be tougher than shoe leather. Time was when black players had a rough time against Roosevelt, but now the three Fowlers are making the Rough Riders tough. How things change.

North and East had troubles, the Polar Bears dropping one to Ankeny. They used to recruit Ankeny players to play for the local high schools. Now they wish they could do it again. East seems to have made a few minor mistakes that cost them, but they may have a good team before long.

Tech put up a mighty struggle, but took one on the chin against Urbandale. If the fellows just don't get discouraged, they can come up with some wins, and possibly a major upset. Football depends a lot on mental attitude, and if the Tech fellows can psyche themselves up, they can do it at least once when they aren't supposed to. We will know more about it next week.

Now, back at the nets

Arthur Ashe didn't make it to the quarter finals, but the guy who was supposed to take the thing went down to the same fellow who beat Ashe in the clay court finals. Ashe seems to have shown the rest of the players how to play Connors, for he has lost to players who have teased him with junk, and overwhelmed people who tried to pound the ball with him.

Maybe a few losses will teach him some good manners on the court. That is about all he needs to be a fine player in everybody's eyes. But I still don't see where beating a couple of fellows in challenge matches can rate Connors as the greatest player in the world. What do you do with Ashe, Orantes, Amantrji, and Lemond? You figure it out. I still maintain that any one of the top twenty-five players in the game today is apt to beat any one of the others on a given day, and that includes the greatest.

GSU Seeks To Make It Six In A Row

WASHINGTON, D.C.—High-powered Grambling State University will try to make it six victories in-a-row over rival Morgan State when the Louisiana powerhouse invades RFK Stadium against Morgan on Saturday, September 13, in the Second Annual "Timmie Football Classic."

Kick-off time is scheduled for 2 p.m., with a capacity crowd of 50,000 expected.

In last year's contest, GSU made it five in-a-row over the Baltimore school by inflicting a 14-0 whitewash. Despite the torrential rain last year, 25,000 fans attended. Morgan State won the first contest, held in 1969 at Yankee Stadium (New York), 9-7 but Grambling State won the next five when the rivalry was moved to Pittsburgh's Three River Stadium, 1970; then back to Yankee Stadium, 1971-73; and last year at RFK Stadium.

This year's matchup will feature a strong Tiger club, which went 11-1 last year, against a rebuilding Morgan State squad which finished fourth in the MEAC with a 5-5 record.

Grambling's legendary Eddie Robinson (236-81-11) will have nine of his 11 starters back on offense, including sophomore quarterback Doug Williams, and receivers Sammy White and Dwight Scales. Williams came on as a freshman after the fifth game last year and threw for at least one TD in every remaining game. Many scoring tosses went to White and Scales, who hauled in 10-11 each, respectively.

To withstand the strong Tiger air attack, Morgan's Coach Nat Taylor will counter with the strength of his lineup—their top defensive returnees, defensive tackle Angelo Wells and safety Tim Baylor. Baylor intercepted five passes in his first five games before suffering a knee injury for the year.

Top player to watch on the field, however, may be GSU's James Hunter. Pro scouts tab the Texan as a sure-bet No. 1 pick in the 1976 college draft. Hunter sees most of his action at safety, but has also played as a wide receiver.

The Grambling-Morgan State "Timmie Football Classic" is sponsored by Touchdown Club Charities, Inc., which donates the net proceeds to such organizations as Children's Hospital, Timmie Inner City Scholarship Fund, Camp Timmie-Washington Boys Clubs, Heroes, Inc., and D.C. Special Olympics. Last year, Touchdown Club Charities raised $25,000 from the contest.

Benny Scott, BAR Crack Racing's Major League

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Benny Scott will be the first black driver to crack international auto racing's big league with his entry in the Long Beach (California) Grand Prix Formula 5000 road course championship on Sunday, September 28.

In announcing that Viceroy will sponsor this effort by Scott and the Black American Racers team, Robert A. Pittman, vice president of marketing for Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, noted that the entry "marks another auto racing first for Viceroy and Black American Racers, the first black team ever in major racing competition, and another step toward the team's goal of competing in the Indianapolis 500."

At Long Beach, Scott will compete against many of the world's greatest drivers, including former Indianapolis 500 and National Championship winners Mario Andretti and Al Unser, who are also sponsored by Viceroy. The race will be run on a challenging two-and-a-quarter mile, 16-turn course laid out on the streets of Long Beach. It will be the first major, internationally sanctioned event ever run on city streets in the United States.

The only other major international race run on city streets is the famed Monte Carlo Grand Prix.

The brand-new Viceroy Lola T-332 Scott will drive at Long Beach is being prepared by race car builder Grant King, in his shop in Indianapolis.

"When we announced Viceroy sponsorship of Black American Racers in April, 1974," Pittman said, "it was the first time a major corporation supported a black team in a programmed auto racing effort. At that time," he recalled, "a stated goal of Viceroy and Black American Racers was to develop a team that could more than hold its own in major American and international competition."

"With wins in any of the four remaining races on the schedule, (Mosport Park, Canada, September 21; Watkins Glen, New York, October 5; Mexico City, October 19 and the season finale at Daytona, Florida, November 30), Benny has a good chance to take it all. His qualifying time of 101 miles per hour at Laguna Seca in California, where he finished second, is the fastest time ever posted by anyone on that course."

Scott, a Ph.D. candidate and associate professor of psychology at Los Angeles' Mission College, has been racing since he built a "go-kart" with a friend at the age of 13. His father, Bill "Bullet" Scott, who raced on the Southern California Black circuits in the 30's, died when Benny was 10, but Benny was already bitten by the racing bug.

After Len Miller organized Black American Racers he began looking for two things: sponsorship and a driver. Viceroy gave him the sponsorship and Scott is the competitive driver he sought.

Miller added that running in the Formula 5000 series, jointly sanctioned by the U.S. Auto Club (USAC) and SCCA, will bring Benny Scott under the scrutiny of USAC officials, "the first step in qualifying for Indianapolis, as they have to see for themselves if a driver is a good enough to race there."

Insulation is nice to have around the home

Insulation is one of those things most people take for granted. But with the cost of energy going up, making sure your home is properly insulated is one of the most important things you can do to conserve energy and save money at the same time.

A properly insulated home is cheaper to heat in the winter and to cool in the summer.

Ask your Iowa Power Registered Insulation Contractor to check your insulation and explain how you can finance the re-insulation of your house on your utility bill.

A Right To An Education

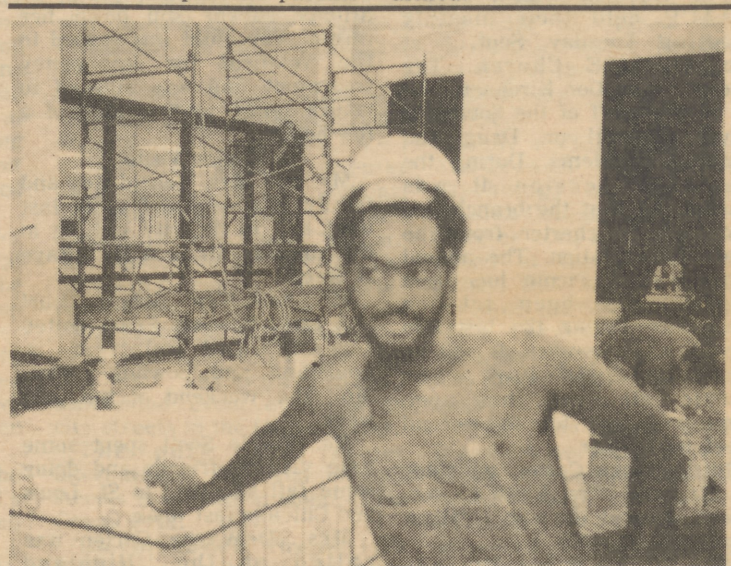

The right to an education, at least through elementary school, is so widely accepted now that most states will force parents to keep their children in school at least that far.

But parents owe their children much more than the minimum the state requires. A parent's responsibility extends to the creation of a climate for education with in the home that not only motivates a child towards learning but helps him conquer the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic.

Wise and responsible parents will condition their children to accept the fact that high school is absolutely necessary and further education is advisable. Every child who shows the potential for college or advanced trade education should be given the opportunity to obtain it — even if it means that parents must make sizable sacrifices.

For black people, education is one of the most important weapons in the fight for full freedom and all parents should see that their children are fully armed.

W/CLIP Seeks Women To Train

The Women's Community Leadership Institute Project (W/CLIP) is now recruiting participants in four Iowa cities. The Institute, a federally-funded project, is in its second year of operation at the SUI School of Social Work education centers in Des Moines, Iowa City, Cedar Rapids, and Davenport.

Funded by Title I Higher Education Act of 1965 through Iowa Program IMPACT, the Institute seeks to train women as social change agents in their communities. Local sponsors contribute funds and services to the project.

Tuesday and Thursday sessions in Iowa City are from September 30-November 20; in Cedar Rapids from September 16 - November 25; in Davenport from September 23 - November 20.

The Des Moines Institute is co-sponsored by the SUI School of Social Work and Drake University's Women's Programs along with other community women's groups.

Weekly sessions at Drake University will begin Tuesday, October 7 and continue through November 25. Field experiences are designed to sensitize the participants to special problems in such areas as housing, health services, welfare, human rights, child care and family life. The curriculum will emphasize communication skills, board effectiveness, and assertive training. Women completing the Institute are expected to assume decision-making positions in organizations, public or private agencies or on government commissions.

Protect Against

Mosquito Bites

Julius S. Conner, M.D., M.P.H., director, Des Moines-Polk County Health Department, said "There is no definite evidence that we have mosquito-borne encephalitis in Polk County."

Because of numerous confirmed encephalitis cases in states bordering Iowa and the recent heavy rain, another spraying for mosquitoes will be done even though the regular mosquito spraying program was completed in mid-August.

Dr. Conner went on to suggest a number of things that each person could do to protect against mosquito bites:

1. Be sure all screens on the home are free from holes.
2. Wear clothing that covers arms and legs after dark.
3. Purchase and use a good insect repellent from any drug or grocery store, and apply it to the exposed skin-being careful not to get the repellent in the eyes.
4. Remove, cover or turn upside-down, all old tires, grills, wading pools, and other containers that hold water to prevent the further development of mosquitoes.

5. In addition to the above recommendations, it would be helpful to spray your shrubbery, flowers and plants with any of several good chemicals on the market-to ruin the daytime resting places of mosquitoes.

GERALD DAY

Firm's First Black Foreman

Gerald Day of 3222 Bowdoin is the first black to become a foreman for the business equipment and office supply firm of Koch Brothers.

Day was promoted to warehouse foreman after working part time with Koch Brothers which has three stores in Iowa. The other job he had folded. The firm employs 100 persons across the state. Day is the only black person working in the Des Moines area store.

Day organized his own cleaning service (G & M) which employed two persons and established his own trademark. At night, he worked at Koch Brothers in a cleaning capacity.

When the firm's warehouse foreman resigned, Day was selected to fill the position. Richard Koch, president of Koch Brothers, said that Day was promoted over another employee who had served over a longer period of time.

The administration at the office supply firm recognized the leadership and responsibility qualities Day possessed. Day is in charge of three warehouse employees. He manages the central warehouse for all the firm's other stores.

"I figured I could do it," Day said in response to receiving the promotion. A resident of Des Moines' east side, Day said he sees that all supplies are delivered to the right places.

Night Classes At DMACC

Associate in Applied Science degrees may be earned in four areas of financial services by attending night classes at Des Moines Area Community College, says Carroll Bennett, dean of career education.

The courses are a part of the "extended day" career education programming at the college that enable working adults to prepare for a career, upgrade their knowledge in their present career or even plan a second career, according to Bennett.

The four areas offered are: Insurance, Real Estate, Investments and Banking.

All the classes meet from 7-10 one night each week. Exceptions are one class of real estate principles which meets from 9 a.m. till noon on Saturdays (in addition to weekday nights), and real estate appraisal, schedule from 8 till 11 a.m. on Thursdays.

All classes carry three credits. First class night was Sept. 10.

Announces Policies For School Lunch Programs

Policies governing reduced-price meals, free meals and free milk under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk Programs were announced recently by the Des Moines Public Schools.

The policies include income ceilings, according to family size, for determining eligibility:

Family size	Income Scale for Free Meals and Free Milk	Income Scale for Reduced-Price Meals
1	$ 3,230	$ 4,520
2	$ 4,240	$ 5,930
3	$ 5,250	$ 7,350
4	$ 6,260	$ 8,770
5	$ 7,190	$10,060
6	$ 8,110	$11,360
7	$ 8,950	$12,530
8	$ 9,790	$13,700
9	$10,550	$14,770
10	$11,310	$15,840
11	$12,060	$16,890
12	$12,810	$17,940
Each additional Family Member	$ 750	$ 1,050

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible either for free meals and free milk or for reduced-price meals. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses may be eligible and school officials suggested they apply.

Self-employed farmers and self-employed business men report gross receipts less operating expenses when applying.

Application forms are being distributed to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children also are eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for meals and milk, the family should contact the school.

In the operation of the programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy the school social worker will review applications and determine eligibility. If parents are dissatisfied with the ruling, they may make a request either orally or in writing to the building principal where the child attends school for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure. Prior to initiating a hearing procedure, the parents or local school official may request a conference to provide an opportunity for the parents and school official to discuss the situation, present information and obtain an explanation of the decision. Such a conference shall not in any way prejudice nor diminish the right to a fair hearing.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school office and in the offices of the Department of Pupil Services and the Director of Food Services where it may be reviewed by any interested patron.

Childbirth Classes For Single Women

Childbirth education classes for single women due for labor and delivery in October, November, or December will be offered by the Red Cross beginning at 7:30 p.m., September 11, 1975.

The classes will be held each Thursday for four weeks, starting with the session on the Sept. 11th. They will be taught in a private residence at 741-Thirty-fifth Street, under the direction of Ms. Katie Hane, RN.

Transportation to and from the classes is available from the Red Cross should it be needed. Women wishing to enroll in the classes may do so by calling the Red Cross in Des Moines at 243-7681 and asking for Sharon Blackley.

"The importance of knowing what is happening to your body during pregnancy, labor, and delivery cannot be overestimated since the lack of knowledge breeds fear. All single women and their female relatives and friends are encouraged to attend these classes," Mrs. Hane said.
