CONVICTS FREED

STARKE, Fla. — Freddie Pitts and Wilbert Lee walked out of the Florida State Prison as free men Friday, 12 years after they were sent there to die for two murders another man says he committed.

Showing little emotion the two friends who spent eight years on death row walked out the prison's main gate shortly after noon. They had stayed for one last meal — a prison lunch.

THE PROMOTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Monday the Sinai accord is only a first step toward a Mideast settlement and that he has made it clear he is prepared to promote an agreement between Syria and Israel.

CHURCH BURNS

DES MOINES, IA — An early morning fire destroyed the Forest Avenue Gospel Temple Church of God in Christ, 1121 Forest Avenue, Monday. Firemen had found the back door of the church forced open, not far from where the fire was thought to have started in the basement.

Monday's fire was the third in the 13 years the congregation has used the buildings, according to Bishop A. B. Carter, Sr., pastor.

TEACHERS STRIKE

BOSTON, Mass. — Teachers striking for more money picketed Boston's public schools Monday, but classes in the 76,000-pupil school system resumed anyway as the third week of court-ordered integration got under way.

PROSECUTION RESTS

DES MOINES, IA — The prosecution rested its case in the murder trial of Terrance Hollowell, 26, who is charged with two counts of murder in the case. Hollowell, who already is under sentence for armed robbery is being held in the Polk County Jail without bond on the charge of killing two persons at the Holiday Inn in Des Moines. (See Hollowell's letter to the editor on page 2).

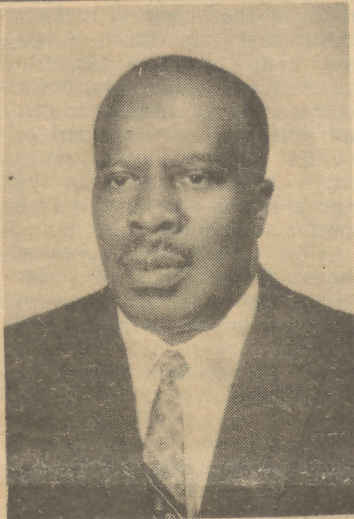

IP Customers To Get Refunds

The Iowa State Commerce Commission issued a ruling Tuesday allowing Iowa Power $9.25 million of the $10 million electric and gas rate increase collected in 1974. The Company will make the refunds as a credit on customers' bills as soon as the individual refund amounts can be calculated — probably late this fall. Gas customers of Iowa Power will receive refunds totaling $721,425 plus interest and taxes. No refunds will be made to electric customers since the Commission allowed 100 per cent of the electric rate increase request. A typical residential gas customer will receive a refund of approximately $4.00, including interest, and sales tax.

Mark Putney, Iowa Power senior vice president, said, "Tuesday's Commission ruling relates to 1974 revenues only. This settlement does not affect current rates now being collected which are based on 1975 financial data. We're disappointed that the Commission didn't grant a higher return on equity in line with their earlier decision. The 12 1/4 per cent rate allowed in this case absolutely ignores the real cost of money during the year 1974.

"Iowa Power must seek and maintain a strong, healthy financial position if it is to attract the large sums of outside financing necessary to construct new facilities to meet our customers' growing energy needs. We anticipate that electric use by new and present customers will increase between 6-7 per cent annually. Such growth will require an investment of over $350 million for new facilities and equipment during the next five years."

Refund payments to customers who have moved and closed their accounts will be made by check and mailed to the last known mailing address. The Company also said that it plans to maintain a detailed listing of each customer's refund, which will be available for inspection after calculations are complete.

D.M. Chamber Supports Bond

The Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce has gone on record supporting the October 21 bond issue requesting $3.8-million for acquisition and remodeling the old post office building at Second and Walnut Streets.

If the bond issue passes, all county administrative offices would be located in the building, leaving the courthouse for court-related functions only.

In addition, $2-million in revenue sharing funds would be used, bringing the total cost of the project to $5.8-million.

"This is absolutely the best cost proposal put forth by the county so far," said Joseph Strasser, Chamber president.

"By comparing this bond issue to the cost of a new structure, it's clear the Polk County taxpayer is getting a bargain."

Strasser added that the preservation of the old post office, which is listed on the National Register of Historical Places, would also be a "positive step" toward downtown redevelopment.

The Chamber's Board of Directors approved the action in their Wednesday board meeting.

Anyone wishing to contribute to a defense fund supporting efforts to obtain better counseling for Rodney Lamar Stewart, should send contributions to the St. Mark Defense Fund, 3907-N. 18th, Omaha, Neb., 68110.

Stewart, 17, was given the death penalty after a jury found the black Omaha youth guilty of first-degree murder in the shooting death of a white youth during a January 25 Marijuana transaction.

Dr. Mays Eulogizes Longtime Editor

By Howard B. Woods
NNPA Vice President

BIRMINGHAM—This city is a better place because Dr. Emory O. Jackson, lived, worked and died here, said Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College, in his eulogy of the venerable civil rights leader and editor of the Birmingham World.

Services for Dr. Jackson were held last Tuesday at the Sixth Street Baptist Church. The 67-year-old crusader died of cancer. Burial was in Shadow Lawn Memorial Gardens.

Tributes for Jackson came from all over the country. Before a church filled with friends and family, Dr. Mays said that the late editor was "born a free man." He walked like one; talked like one and looked like one. Tracing his history of public service, Dr. Mays said that Emory answered his call to duty after graduating from Atlanta's Morehouse College.

Nathaniel Veale, director of Alumni Affairs at Morehouse, speaking for its president, Dr. Hugh Gloster, who is ill, said even at college, Emory Jackson protested segregation. He said his protests of the men's rooms being marked "Faculty" "Men" and "Boys" succeeded in changing the designations.

Robert Johnson, associated publisher of Jet magazine, said that Dr. Jackson, as his teacher in high school, always made his students read newspapers and write letters to the editors. He told us that newspapers were of some value "other than papering the walls to keep out the draft or to spread on the floor after a mopping or to supplement the worn soles of your shoes."

This writer, speaking for the National Newspaper Publishers Association, told of his longtime work and membership in the association. He was described as brusque, though compassionate and that the project of the Black Press Archives at Howard University was under his guiding hands and direction.

C. A. Scott, editor and general manager of the Atlanta Daily World chain of which the Birmingham World is a part, said that he gave Dr. Jackson a free hand in editing the Birmingham paper. "He was one of the most vigorous, persistent and courageous advocates in the South for full civil rights for our people," Scott added.

Others who paid tribute to the great editor were: Congressman John H. Buchanan of Birmingham, his field representative, James C. Cotton; wealthy businessman A. G. Gaston, Dr. Sanford Bishop, president of Bishop State College; Rev. John T. Porter, pastor of Sixth Street, and YMCA chairman, Dr. Wayman C. Matherson.

Dr. Jackson, whose honorary LL.D. degree was awarded by his alma mater, was born on September 8, 1908 in Buena Vista, Ga. His parents moved here in 1919. After graduating from Morehouse in 1932, he taught at Carver high school, Dothan, Ala., and Westfield here in Jefferson County.

After service during World War II, Jackson became managing editor of the Birmingham World in 1943 and served in the post until his death.

He was one of the founders of the Alabama Conference of NAACP Branches and leader of nearly a dozen political, economic, and civil rights efforts for which he received numerous awards.

His pastor, the Rev. Samuel Pettagruie of Sardis Baptist Church, presided over the services. He closed the eulogies by saying: "The presses in heaven have stopped. A new edition was on the street and its headline read: 'The paper's top foreign correspondent, Emory O. Jackson, after serving 67 years away has returned home to serve out his assignment eternally.'"

Jackson is survived by four brothers, Bernard E., Birmingham; W. W., Chicago; Marion E., Atlanta; Lovell J., Detroit and a sister, Dr. Ruby Jackson Gainer, Pensacola, Fla. There are also Dr. W. A. Jackson, Chicago and Calvin Morgan, St. Louis, both nephews.

VIEWS and REVIEWS by James B. Morris

Peace In The Mideast Is Costly

While Secretary Kissinger was negotiating the agreements between Israel and Egypt, we learned of a provision in it that Americans would be used on each side to help keep the peace.

When this was first brought to the attention of the American people considerable opposition developed against it by members of Congress and others. However many now feel that it is worth the chance if war in the Middle East can be prevented by this agreement.

It now turns out that America is to sell war materials to several Middle East countries should war come, each would be equal in military strength.

This arrangement is somewhat like America and Russia, both of which have weapons capable of destroying the other at a moment's notice but neither wants to go that far.

Unfortunately if America did not sell arms to these countries other nations would do so thus we are maintaining peace by fear of each other rather than living together by the result of peaceful negotiations agreed to without the pressure of war.

I still think that the United Nations should be the chief moving force in an effort to make peace in the Middle East thus relieving one strong nation from trying to dictate policies without cooperation of other strong nations.

Don't Collect Taxes Because You Can

Considerable controversy has developed over an order by the Director of Revenue directing assessors to increase the valuation of city and farm property. The directive, authorized by law, requires real estate be assessed every two years.

Several legislators and lay people have called for a special session of the legislature to repeal that provision. They cite the already high taxes and know that once levied, seldom is the tax reduced. It is generally admitted that real estate taxes in Des Moines are extremely high (no doubt other cities are similarly situated) but taxes should be assessed and collected in order to pay the expenses of the government only. But this does not require that more taxes be levied simply because the price of living has gone up.

Many taxpayers appealed last year's assessment, most of which was reduced even without going to court. This new assessment is bound to cause even more citizens to appeal for a reduction in the assessment of their real estate.

I am opposed to the proposed assessment.

Students Find New Problems

Large enrollment of students in Iowa colleges and universities this year has brought students from most states in the union. This is true in other states. Many of these youngsters have never been out of their home town before which helps to make new surroundings more difficult.

In recent years, like other parts of our society, liberal privileges have been given students, far exceeding anything they even anticipated. Generally speaking most students have adjusted to their newly found liberties which carry new responsibilities. On the other hand, like their elders, some have misused these privileges thus impairing their scholastic achievements and making the type of record that may defeat their usefulness in future years.

Students go to school to learn the way to succeed in whatever avenue they expect to follow. They must make use of the valuable instructions to prepare themselves without following things that may hurt them in years to come.

Foot Patrolmen Can Be Valuable

Cognizant of the high crime rate that prevails here, the city council is attempting to develop plans to place patrolmen on foot in two of the areas where they say most crimes are committed.

Most people, living in high crime areas, welcome the idea since car patrols have not been able to be effective in tracking down criminals.

Many people living in these areas are law-abiding citizens but are locked in because they purchased homes many years ago and now find the economic burden too heavy to make a change.

Some councilmen are opposed to the idea pleading that such a program would make life miserable for the officers. On the other hand, Chief of Police Wendell Nichols reminds that it is one of the assumed risks of police officers to go where it is necessary to perform their duties.

Crimes are being committed in all areas of the city, but in addition to the unsolvable economic burden of taxpayers of the area, law enforcement officers have allowed crime to concentrate in some areas more than others.

I believe that any officers assigned to these areas could do a good job if they get acquainted and cooperate with the citizens of the area and not use their position to misuse anybody.

Victim of Racism Venom

TO THE EDITOR

I read with great interest your article concerning Rodney Lamar Stewart, particularly those statements concerning rehabilitation of this young man. Needless to say, no man is beyond redemption.

It is necessary to take issue, today, with the misrepresentation of facts, and what should be our focal point of attention in this endeavor. Mr. Stewart as so many others, is a victim of the venom of racism. In the past year, those of you who keep up with juvenile justice have noted two black youths, under 17, tried as adults, and very quickly convicted of murder. One young white female shot her father in the head and was permitted to face murder as a minor.

As for names, we're speaking about Ellen Davis of Cedar Falls, Robert Williams of Ottumwa and Bobby Anthony of Waterloo.

Now for another shock. We have a white man out of Elkader, Iowa who shot his 18-year-old wife. Five shots were fired, the fifth shot was fired in the presence of a witness who states the wife was laying on the ground and that the shot was fired from a 22 magnum pistol at close range.

We're talking about Donald Hyde, Jr. He served 10 days in jail, pleaded innocent, and was released on bond. On May 5, the charge was reduced to manslaughter. Hyde pleaded guilty, the judge sentenced him to eight years, suspended the sentence and gave Hyde five years probation. I am, not concerned today about the judge's trend of thought because that thought would only be meaningful if it were the rule in law, rather than periodic exception.

So to conclude, Rodney Stewart, now 17 years of age, is the victim of a program and conspicuous practice of racial discrimination, segregation, prize-persecution and domination that should be dangerously obvious. We cannot address ourselves to any myths in this matter, rehabilitation is at best a theory that has never been tested to a fecundant conclusion.

If we let this young brother die, his blood, as the blood of '12-year-old black Edith Parchman of Highland Park, Michigan, shot to death August 19, her murderer, Rudolph Acosta, charged with manslaughter and freed on $2,500 bond, will trouble our conscience for days.

We're talking about racism, not rehabilitation, and we need to let the world know, we won't tolerate it any longer, no matter how the state and other authoritarian figures try to disguise it.

Let us rise to the task quickly, and with all deliberate speed, we've been misled long enough. I close with this thought: "Few are open to conviction, but the majority of men are open to persuasion."

Respectfully,
Rev. Robert Anthony Williams

Public Must Become Inquisitive

To the Editor:

For years, the news media has been the mind of the people who "merely exist in the midst of this society."

The instrumentalism of influence that the news media plays is frightening, for in the midst of our society is an instrument which has the ability to motivate a bias-robotized opinion within the mind of the public.

Theoretically, people have allowed the resources of their mentality fall dependent of the news media as a way of thought. By allowing the total acceptance of the righteousness of news coverage, we, the people of society, fall victims to "politically conservative propaganda."

The detriment of newscasting, per se, is that it is bias, in respect to magnifying issues which may draw public condemnation. And in the present, such as past social structures, people are magnetized to the detrimental characteristics of an event without weighing the facts.

The aforementioned statement exposes us to the debatable prospect of man's inherent nature. Along this line, it is imperative to point out the aspect of environmental conditioning, which plays a dominant role in formulating the character of its social populace in this instance, dominate conservative perpetration of news coverage.

The laxity of the social populace to use their mentality in an inquisitive manner, in the quest for truth, has plunged the very nature of our democratical-theorized functioning into extinction. By accepting, without questioning, the validity of the news media coverage of events, society has formulated an unconscious callous attitude toward impartiality — impartiality being the basis of rational-fair judgment or opinion of facts.

Rationalism is the only basis for judgment of others (and from the aspect of religion, to pass such judgment is debatable).

In essence, the one-sided perpetration of the news, by the tools of mass communication is detrimental to the quality of social morals, thus, society itself and the populace within its sphere.

To render a quality of "bias-free" judgment, there must be the basis of impartial news coverage. Thus, the motivation of inquisitiveness must be instrumental in the quest for truth.

No Hiding From Hay Fever

Hay fever sufferers can't run away from their problem. If they're going to seek refuge anywhere, it should be at their doctor's office.

Only a physician can tell what's causing the condition and what to do.

Hay is sometimes the culprit, but not always. Airborne pollens and mold spores from certain trees, grasses and weeds are what's bothering the sensitive victim — who's one out of every twenty Americans.

Moving to a different part of the country is no guarantee of escape; the same or a whole new set of substances may trigger the symptoms. Hay fever is actually an "allergic rhinitis" — a sensitivity to various pollens, found indoors as well as out. Ragweed is the most familiar offender. Seventy-five per cent of hay fever sufferers are sensitive to it. Some estimates range to a dramatic 250,000 tons of ragweed pollen circulated in mid-west air during fall months.

"Sneezing one's head off" is the most common symptom. Others are stuffy and watery nose, redness, swelling and itching of the eyes, and maybe also of the nose, throat, mouth and ears. No fever is involved, unless the sufferer has another ailment.

Hay fever can't kill, but about thirty per cent of hay fever sufferers develop asthma, a more serious respiratory ailment.

Depending on various factors and parts of the country, the "sneezin' season," can run from early spring to the first frost, with the peak often at midsummer.

Here are some things that may help: The doctor can prescribe antihistamines or other drugs if he thinks they'll help. He may use injections that will desensitize against the allergen. Seasonal travel may bring "time out." Air conditioning and air purification also may bring relief.

For more information, write the American Lung Association of Iowa, 1321 Walnut, Des Moines, 50309 — the "Christmas Seal people" — for their leaflet on "Hay Fever." It's one of their many services to make living and breathing easier.

D.M. School Enrollment Shows Loss of Students

Enrollment in the Des Moines Public Schools dropped 1,157 from a year ago and stood at 39,580 for the 1975-76 school year.

The decline from 40,737 a year ago was slightly more than district administrators had expected, but was below the loss of 1,333 a year ago. Earlier projections had set the expected enrollment at 39,940.

Enrollment drops were recorded in elementary and junior high schools, but slight increases were recorded in senior high schools and special schools. The current enrollment in elementary schools is 20,659, a drop of 776 from the total of 21,435 a year ago. Junior high registrations totaled 9,592 a decrease of 444 from the total of 10,036 last year.

Senior high schools enrolled 8,786 students this year, 24 more than the 8,762 a year ago and special schools have 529 students, 50 more than the 479 enrolled a year ago.

The number of shared time students dropped from 25 last year to 14 this year, a loss of 11.

Based on an analysis of the enrollment data compiled September 12, five elementary schools and one junior high school were closed to additional minority enrollment and administrative assignment of minority students. The schools are Casady, Edmunds, King, Logan, and Moulton elementary schools and Irving Junior High School.

The enrollment figures showed, however, that the policy adopted by the Board of Education on August 5 to limit minority enrollment to no more than 50 per cent at any school and set up several categories at which the upper limit of minority enrollment was to be maintained, brought about a reduction at several schools.

The minority enrollment at Casady dropped from 75.7 per cent a year ago to 72 per cent this year, Edmunds dropped from 54.1 per cent to 48.4 per cent, King from 70.9 per cent to 61.8, Logan from 85.2 to 78.6, Moulton from 51.3 to 44.8, Hiatt from 34.7 to 32.6, Irving from 74.9 to 70.1, Callanan Junior High from 32.4 to 26.4. Increases were reported at Dunlap Elementary from 29.2 to 30.4, Longfellow elementary from 27.1 to 32.1 and North High School from 18.6 to 21.9.

The September 12 count resulted, also in the closing of North to administrative assignment of minority students, district administrators said.

Wesley Chapman, director of Intercultural Affairs, said Hiatt and Callanan junior high schools were not closed to administrative assignment because students who now are in the sixth grade at Greenwood Elementary will go to Callanan next year and this year's sixth graders at Pleasant Hill Elementary will go to Hiatt Junior High in the 1976-77 school year.

A total of 150 new students were enrolled for the 1975-76 school year through administrative assignment. The 117 elementary students were assigned to 10 schools and the 33

Among elementary schools, one went to Douglas, 13 to Garton, 17 to Hanawalt, 14 to Madison, eight to Monroe, 18 to Moore, 19 to Samuelson, 16 to Windsor, five to Woodlawn and six to Wright.

In the Voluntary Transfer Program, seven students are enrolled at Hoover and 24 at Roosevelt high schools; 11 at Brody, 86 at Franklin, 49 at Harding, 45 at Meredith and 69 at Merrill junior high schools. The elementary schools data showed 11 students in the VTP at Cowles, 75 at Edmunds, 41 at Greenwood, 29 at Hillis, 14 at Hubbell, 25 at King, 17 at Logan, nine at Madison, 16 at Monroe, 16 at Moore, nine at Oak Park, 12 at Perkins, 11 at Rice, seven at Samuelson, 28 at Windsor and 27 at Woodlawn.

GOPs Plan "Special Effort"

DES MOINES — A major voter registration drive aimed at potential Republican voters in counties across Iowa has been outlined by Republican state chairman Tom Stoner.

Stoner, in an announcement, said that the program will focus on the estimated 500,000 Iowans who are not registered to vote and that "a special effort" will be undertaken to get Republicans registered.

The success of the program, Stoner said, is "critical if Republicans are to regain control of the Legislature and elect Republican Congressmen in Iowa next year. If we fail to get all Republicans registered, it is going to be difficult to make 1976 a successful year."

He said primary attention will be given to the rural sections of the state where voter registration was implemented last Jan. 1.

"It is entirely possible that there are thousands of Iowans, including many strong Republicans, who are not even aware of the fact that they must register before they will be able to vote in the 1976 elections," said Stoner, adding that there are 76 counties in which voter registration is entirely new.

The GOP state chairman said that "we must ensure that as many Republicans as possible are registered so that they will be able to support our candidates in 1976. All of our campaign efforts will suffer if we fail to ensure that Republicans are qualified to support our candidates at the polls on election day in 1976."

The latest voter registration information, Stoner said, indicates that just over 1.3 million Iowans are registered to vote. "This means that about 500,000 eligible Iowans are not registered. Our goal will be to identify the Republicans among those 500,000 and get them registered," he said.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

Rev. Jacob Reed spoke last Sunday from the fifth chapter of Matthew. "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Pure means without mixture, unadulterated. Christ had a pure heart, not because He wasn't tempted, but because He overcame the temptations. It is not the temptations that soil us, but it is the giving in that takes our purity. Only when we abide in Jesus can we have a pure heart.

Sunday school is at 10:30 with services beginning at 11:30. Sunday evening services are at 7. Prayer meeting is Wednesday at 7 p.m. Join in our worship services soon.

"1975... Good Record Year For Barry White"

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Without a doubt, the incomparable Barry White has reached a utopia in the music industry, to the extent that 1975 has thus far been a very good year for the multi-talented creator of love songs and music.

His consistency to continuously sell singles and albums that turn to gold, then platinum speaks for itself. Invariably all of his concert dates are sell-outs both nationally and abroad. Basically, Barry White is phenomenal... and this year's Music Industry's top awards won and received by Barry White certainly attest to the fact that thus far, 1975 has been a very good record year for Barry White.

*'Best Male Vocalist Of The Year' in the 'Record World Poll', Barry White.

*'Best Producer Of The Year' for his production of 'The Love Unlimited Orchestra', Barry White.

* Additionally, as the 'Soul

Single Artist' and 'Soul Album Artist', Barry White was Number One.

* By vote of the Disco Jocks and their Association, Barry White was voted the 'Top Male Vocalist'; and repeated top honors of Disco votes as 'Producer Of The Year'.

Other honors shared by Barry White came as a result of his productive genius, when 'Love Unlimited' produced by Barry White, won in the category of 'Most Promising Female Group'; while 'The Love Unlimited Orchestra,' also produced by Barry White, topped the list in 'Instrumental Competition,' and snared the Number One spot in this category.

Immediately following Barry White's close of the season engagement at The Greek Theatre, 20th Century Records will be releasing a new album by the phenomenal superstar. The package will contain all of his greatest hits and will be entitled, "Barry White's Greatest Hits."

Barry Meets Berry

When the phenomenal Barry White met the legendary recording industry's Berry Gordy, Jr., history was made. The occasion was the surprise birthday party for Hazel Gordy Jackson, wife of Jermaine Jackson, who along with Barry White and wife, Glodean, gave the surprise birthday party at White's palatial hillside home in Sherman Oaks, California.

Simpson Students Create Communities

INDIANOLA, IA.—Some 400 students living in the three dormitories at Simpson College are undertaking a special project with the opening of the fall semester—designing their own “communities” for living.

These communities will be designed to fit the particular academic, personal and social needs of students residing on floors or wings of Kresge, Barker and Buxton Halls, explained Simpson Chaplain Dr. Roger Betsworth, who initiated the project.

The students, ranging from as few as 13 to as many as 50 in a group, currently are holding meetings to set up their communities through a process of discussion and compromise, Dr. Betsworth said.

Each group of students will hold at least three meetings to determine their needs and desires, work out compromises so that all persons can fit into the community and draw up final community agreements which all members of the groups will sign, Dr. Betsworth explained.

Although residence hall life may not usually be considered a traditional part of college learning, Dr. Betsworth said the experience “is a process of learning how to live in a community of other persons.”

“The purpose of life in the residence hall is to learn how to establish a creative, caring, open intention community,” he continued. Such learning is invaluable for persons today because in a time of major social change, roles are in flux and no longer provide much guidance in establishing meaningful relationships.

“The insight into self and the communication skills gained in the intentional community in the residence hall is of increased importance,” Dr. Betsworth said.

Each community’s agreement, with whatever rules and regulations are established, must fit within the “basic ethical concerns” of the wider Simpson community, such as respect for individual rights and academic integrity, Dr. Betsworth noted.

Dr. Betsworth said three specially-trained counselors have been hired to live and work in the dormitories to facilitate the process of community establishment and to serve counseling needs of students throughout the year.

The three are Bradley Small in Barker, Mary Vest in Buxton and Christie Kellner in Kresge.

Heartland Seeks Preschool Info On Handicapped

A survey to determine the current and future educational needs of Area II’s preschool-age children with known or suspected handicaps will be conducted over the next month by the staff of Heartland Education Agency (AEAII) in conjunction with the staffs of the area’s 63-local school districts, agency officials have announced.

Information sought by the survey, which will be conducted through October 17, includes the nature of the child’s disability and whether he is or has been enrolled in an educational program or a program of therapy designed to treat the disability.

Information taken from the survey will be used to plan future educational programs at the elementary school level as well as programs at preschool and day care centers served by Heartland’s special education staff. Any planning done on the basis of the survey will directly involve parents and resulting programs will be tailored to individual needs. All information on the child will be kept strictly confidential.

Parents of children with known or suspected handicaps or disabilities who live within the Des Moines Community School District should contact Dr. Tom Jeschke at 284-7714, or the principal of the nearest elementary school. Parents with handicapped children who live outside the Des Moines district should contact the nearest Heartland Office.

Heartland, which is headquartered at Ankeny, succeeded all county and joint county school systems in Area II last July 1. Agency staff support regular school programs as well as special educational programs designed expressly for handicapped children. Preschool children enrolled in approved day care and preschool centers are served by agency staff by way of a pilot program of educational services.

Council Closes Longfellow

One more Des Moines elementary school has been closed to additional minority students and another elementary school has been closed to administrative transfer students.

The Pupil Assignment Council which administers the recently-adopted policy of the School Board to limit minority enrollment on the basis of individual buildings percentages, has closed Longfellow to additional minority enrollment.

A total of seven schools are now in this category. Casady, Edmunds, King, Logan, Longfellow and Moulton elementary schools and Irving Junior High School.

The Council also closed Lucas Elementary School to administrative transfer, but left it open to minority students in the school’s attendance area. Other schools in this category are Dunlap Elementary, Callanan and Hiatt junior high schools and North High School.

The Council said Hiatt, with a minority enrollment of 32.6 per cent, falls within the range which would require it to be closed to additional minority enrollment. However, it was decided not to do so because the minority enrollment. However, it was decided not to do so because the minority enrollment dropped two per cent in the past year and sixth grade students at Pleasant Hill elementary school will attend Hiatt as seventh graders during the 1976-77 school year.

Iowa Colleges Get Two Out of Three

Our three major schools got two out of three last weekend. Here at home, Drake seems to have gotten out of the habit of gaining yards and forgetting to take along the football. So they win a big one and get a skip day. Maybe they will go well from now on. Reports say that the main reason for Drake's win is the fact that opponents can't key on Willie Herndon because he has help, and that makes them doubly tough.

Iowa State opened their new stadium with a win, and so it was a great day for Iowa State fans. My guess is that they better enjoy it because they have teams like Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Missouri coming up. How many Big Eight games will they win? Don't know, but they might get three and possibly one major upset if they can keep their main guys in one piece. Who will the three be? I'll let you call that one.

Iowa University is getting about like the folks who claim to know how the economy is. They aren't losing as bad as they once did, but they haven't won yet. They blew a tough game last week. When you start losing them in the final seconds, you have to say that sooner or later one has to turn in your favor. But it probably won't be in the next three weeks, with Penn State, USC and Ohio State coming up. With a ton of luck and a few other things, they might slip by Penn State, but don't bet the family jewels on it. Yet they will draw crowds because people will want to see the nation's top ball clubs in action. When Commings took over the job at Iowa I wondered if he would try to carry water on both shoulders, and get into trouble like his predecessors. Haven't heard anyone say he is trying that yet, and maybe he knows he can't afford to.

Looks as if the best ball club in the country is Oklahoma with just about anybody you favor for second. The Sooners have depth to offset any unexpected injuries, and that is what one must have to have a championship club. As such as I like to dwell on Notre Dame, I would have to say that their win over Boston College the other night was largely the result of individual efforts by a couple of good backs instead of the usual precision blocking and teamwork. They do have an awesome defense, and maybe that might carry them, because if you don't score, you can't beat them.

BACK AT THE RANCH

Still trying to figure out what happened to East against Dowling the other night. I have to believe East has a better ball club than that, and I wonder what got off. After the first quarter one could have packed up and gone home and not missed a thing. The daily papers that Iowa depends on, called one wrong when the reporter said that that game was the worst defeat ever by a Scarlet team. I recall as a youngster sitting in the stands in Drake stadium and watching what most North High people call their greatest team ever roll over East 65-0.

And they didn't have their all-state fullback or who knows what the score might have been. It seems that Scarlet coaches knew that Curt Morton had a short fuse, and they put a substitute in whose job was to get Morton mad and get him kicked out of the game. In those days cursing was legal, and you can guess what the sub called Curt. After the sub was brought to, they kicked Curt out of the game and it was only one play old.

Tech gave it one hundred per cent, but lost in the last quarter to the Fowlers at Roosevelt. Hang in there, Tech, you are going to get some body yet, and remember you read it first here. Just don't give up, but go out after each game as if it were the Holy Grail. You have got to get one and maybe more. North, Tech and East may well have some tough battles with the winner getting the breaks at the right time. But I still think East can get it all together. How do you stop Dowling? Know any witch doctors?

MUHAMMAD ALI

Have you kept up with the story on Muhammad Ali in the daily papers? There seems to be two versions. One tells it straight out, and the other sounds as if the writer thought Ali should have acted like white folks think blacks are supposed to act. He didn't so he proceeded to be rather condescending in his version of the story. Try to get both versions if you can.

Ashe Defeats Tanner

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe, placing his shots well, came back from a slow start to blast Roscoe Tanner in three sets Sunday to win the $100,000 Pacific Southwest Open tennis championship.

Ashe dropped the first set, 6-3 then took the next two 7-5, 6-4.

Pele Injured

KINGSTON, Jamaica—Pele, the superstar of the New York Cosmos, was injured, but not seriously, Sunday night when the touring North American Soccer League team dropped a 1-0 exhibition decision to Santos of Jamaica.

Coach Nat Frazier

Uncovers Recruits

Nat Frazier, Morgan State's basketball coach, announced September 16 five new basketball recruits for the 1975-76 season.

Among these are Anthony Young 6'6" All-Met forward from New York City. Anthony is the brother of Ivan Young, who was on the 1973-74 National Championship Team. Cornelius Frazier, 6'6" guard from Savannah, Georgia is Coach Frazier's brother. Bill Moreno, a 6'1" guard whose hometown is the Republic of Columbia, is a junior college transfer from Kalamazoo Junior College in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Moreno also played in the Venezuela Special Basketball League during the summer. Cordell Jackson, a 6'3" swingman from Bel Air, Maryland, is being counted on to put some size in the backcourt and Darnell Davis, 6'6" is a guard from Mississippi.

Davenport CIC Plans Presentation Fete

Presentation of the Davenport Catholic Interracial Council's 1975 Pacem in Terris Peace and Freedom Award to Dom Helder Camara, Archbishop of Olinda and Recife, Brazil, will be made in Davenport, Saturday, October 18, CIC officials announced today.

Dom Helder has confirmed plans to be in Davenport for the presentation which will be made in conjunction with a special "poverty-style" dinner at 7 p.m. in the South Hall dining rooms of St. Ambrose College.

In order to present Dom Helder with a generous purse for his programs with the poor in Brazil, CIC planners have arranged a simple meal of "heartily soup and homemade bread," symbolic of the Archbishop's personal dedication to service of the poor.

Tickets for the presentation meal and Dom Helder's response are priced at $5 per person and may be obtained by making requests directly to the CIC at 2706 Gaines Street, Davenport, 52804; or by calling

(319) 324-1911. Tickets may also be purchased at the Religious Supply Center, 320 Harrison Street; at the offices of The Catholic Messenger, 407 Brady Street; and at the Quad-City Center for the Study of Peace and Non-Violence, 1653 W. Fourth Street, all in Davenport.

To complete plans for a near capacity crowd of 700, CIC officials have requested that tickets be purchased in advance.

Dom Helder Camara, internationally respected advocate of non-violent social change, is the first non-citizen of the United States and the eleventh person to receive the Pacem in Terris Peace and Freedom Award since its creation by the Davenport CIC in 1964.

The Brazilian prelate has been nominated by the American Friends Service Committee for the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize. In 1973, he received a special "People's Peace Prize" in Norway; $300,000 raised by European church and student groups, trade unions and political parties.

He added, he would like to be remembered as the board member who always tried to serve and represent the total community at all times, putting the individual student above everything else.

He asked all citizens to get behind the School Board, the superintendent and staff and to continue to offer sound, quality education. As present vice president of the Area 16 Education Agency, Pearl pledged continued work in education.

What's New From ISU?

by Charlotte Young Extension Consumer
and Management Specialist

Most consumers have experienced some frustration with products that don't work or are "lemons", but today consumers do have some help.

As of July 4, we have a new law called the Magnuson Mass Warranty Act that gives buyers the right to gain information on warranties before making a purchase and to sue for damages when there's a breach of warranty or service contract.

Among its many provisions, the law requires manufacturers to clearly label warranties as either "full" or "limited." Under full warranty, any faulty product must be repaired or replaced, free of charge, within a "reasonable time." A limited warranty must tell, in clear language, which parts or labor are covered and for how long. A product may carry both warranty types. For instance, a car may have a full one-year warranty plus a limited warranty on certain parts for a longer period. But this difference must be made clear.

The law also protects consumers who buy a "lemon" under a full warranty. If the seller makes a "reasonable" number of attempts to get the product into working order, and it still won't work — a consumer can insist on getting a new item, a new part, or money back. The FTC will set specifications as to what's "reasonable."

The buyer can accept a refund of the full purchase price, but the manufacturer can't force consumers to take a refund, unless repair or replacement is shown to be impractical. It's up to the buyer to take small appliances or a car into the repair shop. But if a product is hard to move, such as a piano, it's the manufacturer's responsibility.

Consumers need to remember that manufacturers don't have to put warranties on their products, and we may see a trend of fewer warranted products on the market in the future.

Coyote Moves Over 200 Miles

DES MOINES — For the past four years, the Iowa Conservation Commission has been ear tagging coyotes in southern Iowa as a part of an overall coyote ecology research study. During that period, nearly 200 coyotes have been tagged in an effort to determine the movement and mortality of these animals.

Recently, a female coyote
tagged as a pup at a den southeast of Mt. Ayr, Iowa on May 11, 1974, was shot three miles east of Dove, Missouri which is located about 30 miles south of the Lake of the Ozarks in south-central Missouri. This would be 202 air-line miles from where the animal was tagged which nearly doubles the 110 mile movement of the previous longest moving coyote. Most of the other tagged coyotes have moved an average of 35 miles from their natal den sites.

Ron Andrews, state furbearer
biologist for the Conservation Commission in charge of the coyote study says, "With these kinds of long distance movements, it is easy to understand why coyotes are rapidly invading new habitat throughout the U.S. Also, these movements further verify that coyote control would likely be a short-term effort as new coyotes could move into vacant areas within a short period of time."

The main aspect of the study is to obtain an adequate measure of the livestock losses to both coyotes and dogs and to assess the recreational aspects of the coyote to the Iowa sportsmen. All this information is necessary to place the coyote in proper perspective and to implement good coyote management programs.

Hunters, trappers, and others who take tagged coyotes are requested to forward this information to Ron Andrews,
State Furbearer Biologist,
Fisheries and Wildlife Station,
1204 North Shore Drive, Clear
Lake, Iowa, 50428, or to other Conservation Commission
personnel.

Rates Will Not Rise Until After Christmas

Postage rates will not increase until after Christmas,
Postmaster General Benjamin
F. Bailar announced recently.
Bailar said that the Postal Service will file with the Postal Rate Commission for the new rates "some time in the next two weeks."

If the Commission does not act within 90 days of the filing, the Postal Service may increase rates on a "temporary" basis.

The exact amounts of the increases to be requested have not been finally determined, but they are expected to include 13 cents for the first ounce of ordinary first-class mail, with appropriate increases for other classes of mail. They will most likely take effect during the week following Christmas, although the precise date cannot be set until after the filing with the Rate Commission.

The Postal Service ran deficits of over $430 million for fiscal year 1974 and approximately $825 million in fiscal 1975, and estimates current losses at approximately $200 million per month.

The post-Christmas rate increases are necessary to stem these losses. The losses are due to inflation-driven cost increases and extreme delays in prior rate adjustments. Bailar said he was optimistic that the Rate Commission would move promptly on the new increases.

Hunger Hike Begins Sunday At Six Points

On Sunday, September 28, the sixth annual Hunger Hike will be held in the greater Des Moines area. Hikers, all volunteers from the area, will begin the 10-mile walk to the Iowa State Capitol building from six different starting points.

Hikers will sign up as many individual sponsors as they can who pledge contributions for each mile covered by a hiker.
Funds raised from the Hunger Hike are used locally and throughout the world to help fight the increasing problems of malnutrition and starvation.

According to Max Gumm,
Iowa regional director of CROP,
the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service, 60 per cent of the world's 3 1/4 billion people are estimated to be malnourished, physically underdeveloped, or poorly educated. Hardest hit, according to Gumm, are the children of poor families and it is estimated that as many as 15,000 people per day die of hunger and starvation.

Funds received in the Des Moines Hunger Hike are used in a number of ways. Local projects such as the breakfast program for elementary school children of low income families are operated by various churches in the metro Des Moines area.

On a worldwide basis, CROP assists people on a self-help
basis by providing food, clothing, technical and educational programs. This year, an immediate project is the Sahel area of the Sahara Desert where countless people have starved to death because of serious droughts, according to Gumm. Hunger Hike funds will be used to help build reservoirs and wells to meet the critical need for water.

Under the Partners of the Americas program, the state of Iowa adopted Yucatan, Mexico
as a sister-state to help people there. A Children's Milk program in the city of Merida was begun.
Pasteurizing equipment, cooler and bottlers were shipped and installed and today hundreds of children now receive daily milk
through the program.

Hikers from the Urbandale area will begin their walk from the City Park and Rev. Rich
Harbart will act as coordinator.
Ankeny participants will start at the National Bank with Peter Zevenbergen as coordinator.
Altoona hikers will begin their hike at the Methodist Church and Rev. D. Moss will coordinate efforts there. West Des Moines participants will work through coordinator Rev.
Robert Leverenz and start their hike from Valley High School.
At Norwalk, Rev. Russell
Sanders will coordinate volunteers who begin their hike
from the United Methodist Church. Holy Cross Lutheran Church at Carlisle will be the starting point for local volunteers under coordination of

The New Iowa Bystander—Thursday, September 25, 1975—Page 11

Ramon Leeper.
Gumm asks that volunteer hikers call the local CROP office for further information on how to participate in this year's Hunger Hike. Everyone is asked to help support hikers in the program which will take place

on Sunday, September 28. The CROP office is located at 319
East 5th Street, Des Moines. The telephone number is 282-8419.

ALA Holds Walk-A-Thon October 4

A Des Moines Walk-a-Thon
will be held Saturday, October 4,
on behalf of the American Lung Association of Iowa (Iowa's Christmas Seal organization) to raise funds for the fight against lung disease.

According to Jeffrey McLaughlin, chairman of the event, Des Moines area
residents will be hiking 20 miles,
beginning at the State Fairgrounds at 8:30 a.m., with registration at 7:45 a.m. The route will be carefully marked on the morning of the Walk and there will be several checkpoints or rest stops at which refreshments will be provided.
Completion of the route will also be at the fairgrounds.

Each walk-a-thon participant will be seeking sponsors to pledge contributions based on the total number of miles they are able to complete.

In announcing the event, McLaughlin remarked, "This walk-a-thon should be an excellent way for area residents to have some fun, get some good exercise, and at the same time, support the fine work of the American Lung Association of Iowa."

"Getting young people involved with the walk-a-thon
will be the key to a successful event," McLaughlin added.

All money raised by the walk-a-thon will remain in Iowa
and will go toward projects aimed at preventing respiratory diseases.

Last year in Iowa, respiratory diseases were responsible for more than 20,000 hospital admissions. Iowa's lung disease patients number about 90,000—
roughly the size of Sioux City.
Nationwide, more than 40 million men, women and children have some form of chronic respiratory disorder.

"The Surgeon General of the United States has estimated that up to 90 per cent of today's lung disease could be prevented," McLaughlin added.
"and this is why the work of the Lung Association is so very important for us all."

The American Lung Association of Iowa is a voluntary public health agency concerned with the control and prevention of lung disease.

Activities of the association are sponsored almost entirely by donations received during their annual Christmas Seal Campaign and selected special events. The organization devotes much of its effort toward the control of emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis and the elimination of air pollution and cigarette smoking.
