Boone Addresses NAACP Members

Ina Boone, regional NAACP representative, talks with Malaku J. Steen, chief of the Civil Rights Branch of the Office of Revenue Sharing, Department of the Treasury, after she addressed NAACP members at dinner during the Iowa-Nebraska State Conference of Branches held last weekend. Boone urged members to support the civil rights organization.

Staffers Urge Citizen Support

Several staff members of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission are trying to garner support in their protest of actions by the commissioners to fire Joseph Tate, executive director of the Commission.

The commissioners met behind closed doors for two hours Wednesday of last week to consider whether to fire Tate. No conclusion was reached and the seven-man commission adjourned without putting the matter to a vote.

In an interview with the New Iowa Bystander, several representatives of the Commission's staff supporting Tate feel that the commissioners should explain the incompetency of Tate. The supporters stated that neither accusations nor reasons to fire Tate were given when the commissioners held their monthly meeting.

The staff interviewees stated that the constant discussion of the Commission is "putting the staff under pressure and Commission

Boone Urges Members To Support NAACP

DES MOINES — Resolutions concerning education, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission and housing and urban development were resolved during the two-day Iowa-Nebraska State Conference of Branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

The conference was held at the Howard Johnson on Merle Hay in Des Moines November 14-15. Activities for the annual meeting included workshops, speeches, a dinner-dance and luncheon-fashion show.

In its resolution on education, the Iowa-Nebraska NAACP State Conference urges the Iowa Department of Public Instruction to vigorously require "the Davenport School System to enact proposals to desegregate its schools in accordance with the guidelines which have been established by the Iowa Department of Public Instruction..."

It further stated that the Des Moines School Board be urged "to immediately adopt proposals consistent with the Department of Public Instruction guidelines to remove all vestiges of a segregated school system as it now exists."

Demands Resignations

A second resolution demanding the resignation of Dr. Gary Koerselman, chairman of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission and James Gillman, chairman of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission and James Gillman, Iowa Civil Rights commissioner.

The resolution cites as grounds for its demand, "the persistent activities" of the two commissioners "have the effect of thwarting the efforts of the executive director of the Commission to carry out his responsibilities. (Joseph Tate is executive director of the Commission.)

Continuing, the resolution states "no rational justification can be given for the continued knifpicking and internal problems created by the chairman and commissioners..."

Third Resolution

Another resolution places the Iowa-Nebraska NAACP branches "on record supporting the action of the Kansas and Missouri State Conference of NAACP in demanding the immediate removal of Elmer Smith, regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for failure to effectively implement action consistent with equal housing

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by James B. Morris

Serving Refugees with Sympathy and Respect

I sat in a meeting recently of an organization in which I hold a life membership. It is a great organization and while I disliked it during my tour of duty in France in WW I, I have changed my views because even a great organization as it is must have some rotten eggs in the group.

Members of the organization and their families have gone all out on behalf of the refugees who have been brought to Iowa. The federal government and the state government have been liberal in providing contacts for families who are willing to take these people into their communities and provide for their safe keeping and welfare.

The members of this group, (Red Cross) have done a tremendous job implementing the refugee program not only by handing out groceries and clothing — which of course is necessary — but also they are going further and inviting these people to gatherings where they will have an opportunity to be met by people who are interested in their welfare and which naturally involves some social activities.

It is very interesting that many of our citizens have taken high ground with reference to these people because their lot from the scratch as American citizens will be trying.

Good Advice from the Iowa Football Coach

Players of the Iowa University football team suffered a defeat at the hands of Purdue University Saturday. Apparently they had out-played Purdue and wound up with a highly questionable call which defeated them.

The members of the team and coach Bob Cummings would ordinarily be disheartened by this experience but I was interested in a remark he made on Jim Zabel's "Beat the Bear Show" Sunday night. He said, "Yes, I am disappointed and disgusted but I am not going to let the crooked constabulary, and by that I mean those officials who fail to carry out their responsibility to make fair and square decisions, beat us. We are going to prepare for them and beat them at their own game."

This is a sound position to take and to my mind good advice for young people who will be misjudged at times for one reason or another but who must take their licks and proceed to beat the crooked constabulary.

I Am Not Surprised

I have always known that the FBI keeps a pretty close tab on most people who are out in front. As a matter of fact, whenever a citizen is being considered for a federal post the FBI makes an investigation as to his reputation in the community and his loyalty to the federal government. This is as it should be.

However, recent discoveries have turned up some pretty ugly tactics upon the part of members of the FBI who not only investigate citizens, but also engage in unlawful and dirty tricks to embarrass them.

Yet I am not surprised that the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. along with many other liberals, has been subjected to treatment that tended to degrade their character and manufactured evidence in an effort to support it.

Former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was known to be a part of this smutty conduct and even though he was highly respected as an officer of the law, he used his post to take advantage of people and organizations which branded him as an undesirable public servant. Minorities and most liberal people felt this way about him all along.

HEW Finalizes

Act Regulation

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) Friday issued final regulations for Title I of P.L. 93-638—the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act. This act provides the Indian and Alaska Native people the option of operating HEW's Indian Health Service facilities and services in their communities.

Section 103 of Title I of the law, directs the secretary to enter into contracts with Indian tribes or tribal organizations, at their request, to carry out any or all of his functions, authorities, and responsibilities for their health needs.

Section 104(b) authorizes the secretary to make grants for the development, construction, operation, and maintenance of health facilities or services, and for planning, training, and evaluation projects to improve the tribes' capacity to contract.

The act, signed into law

Are We Too Eager For Prestige?

January 4, 1975, by the President, commits the administration to furthering the self-determination of Indian and Alaska Native communities without terminating their special relationship with the federal government.

Great effort has been made to reflect the Indian and Alaska Native people's views and recommendations in the regulations, and to assure full implementation. The regulations, which go into effect immediately, appear in Friday's Federal Register.

While no substantive differences occur between these regulations and the corresponding ones of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, (BIA), differences in format, language and approach exist, and the Department has promised Congress that it will work to eliminate them. Therefore revised regulations can be anticipated.

IRS Contacts Income Tax Return Filers

DES MOINES, IOWA—A number of individual income tax return filers in Iowa will soon be contacted by the Internal Revenue Service asking about incorrect names and social security numbers, the Internal Revenue Service recently announced.

The IRS said contacts are being made because some payers of wages, dividends, interest, and other income have submitted information returns (Form W-2, 1099 series, and 1087 series) with incorrect name spelling and erroneous social security numbers. Telephone and personal contacts will be made with some taxpayers about these matters.

The information from the inquiries will be used by the IRS in its expanded program for matching individual tax returns with information documents filed by employers, banks and other income payers.

Demos Hold Workshop

Tom Whitney, state chair of the Iowa Democratic Party, announced today another step in his party's attempt to involve all Democrats in the political process.

Whitney stated that the Iowa Democratic Party's Affirmative Action Committee will hold a Delegate Selection Workshop on Saturday, November 22 at the Machinist Hall, 2000 Walker, here in Des Moines, Iowa. The workshop, to begin at 10 a.m. will be concerned with the delegate selection process from the precinct level to the national convention.

Both political parties of Iowa will hold their precinct caucuses next year on the same date, January 19, 1976.

Whitney noted that the Affirmative Action Program of the Democratic Party is a program designed to open the Democratic Party's presidential process.

Whitney said, "We would like to see every Democrat in Iowa attend their precinct caucus next January. Saturday's workshop is being held to help anyone who wants to participate in the Presidential Process of Iowa in 1976. Our Affirmative Action program is endeavoring to involve every minority group, not only numerical minorities such as our native Americans, but also our underrepresented groups such as our elderly.

The workshop is open to the public, and there is no admission charge.

NNPA editorial

It's Our Turn To Aid NAACP

Our National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), which has been working for 66 years to achieve first-class citizenship status for us black Americans, "is in grave financial trouble," according to the New York Times' Charlayne Hunter whom the NAACP helped to get into the then segregated University of Georgia a decade ago.

Elaine Welles of the Philadelphia Tribune reports that the NAACP has a deficit of nearly $250,000, and is said to be "reaching a point where it could imperial critical programs that are the life-blood of the organization."

To put it bluntly, our NAACP is in debt, bills are going unpaid, lawyers are awaiting their fees, and the payroll for the New York national staff is in danger. In years past, the organization turned to the wealthy Joel and Arthur Spingarn who put in their own funds and raised additional monies from their friends. At other times, the NAACP called on labor, especially the United Auto Workers, for financial aid; and still later it depended heavily upon its late millionaire President Kivie Kaplan who increased the number of life memberships from a few hundred to more than 50,000, as well as contributed out of his own pocket.

Today, the NAACP is rightly turning for funds to us black folks whom it has aided enormously through the years. Here's a small sample of that aid:

It fought lynching for 30 years, shaming Americans out of the barbarous practice; it succeeded in getting abolished white primaries in the South which for years nullified the black vote there; it fought restrictive covenants in housing through the courts until these were outlawed and we, like everyone else, are free to live wherever our checkbooks would take us.

And the NAACP, figuratively, snatched away the humiliating railroad dining car curtain that used to segregate us as if we were carriers of some deadly disease. Its crowning achievement was the 1954 Supreme Court decision which began removing our children from the indignity of segregated schools. But still further, the NAACP worked with other organizations in the 1960's to end jim crow public accommodations, as well as secure the passage of the all important "Voting Rights Act" through which the number of black elected officials has increased to more than 3,500, including 140 mayors.

But the work of the NAACP is not finished. Job discrimination is rampant in government as well as in private industry; too many blue collar unions are keeping us out; equal opportunity is too much of a sham; and contract compliance is a charade. Even equal opportunity in education is far from a reality. So, we have a long way to go, and only the NAACP has the capacity and the expertise to help us travel the road.

If we appreciate the past achievements of the NAACP, and if we want its assistance in the future, it's time to reach down in our pockets and come up with the money to keep the NAACP going full speed ahead. And we have the money. Dr. Andrew Brimmer says blacks last year earned nearly $58 billion or $58,000 million. The NAACP owes only one-fourth of a million, or $250,000, and they are saying it is in deep financial trouble. Why?

We spend billions on high-powered cars, cigars and cigarettes, Scotch and bourbon whiskey, rouge, lipstick and eyeshadow, but not nearly enough toward achieving equal opportunity for ourselves.

The local branch of the NAACP address is P.O. Box 1472, Des Moines, Ia. 50306. Write today and take out a membership. They start as low as $4. And further, our president, Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, urges you to get with your local NAACP branch and push a membership drive or fund-raising effort.

There are 10 million of us blacks who can send $5 and not feel it; 3,000,000 who can send $10 or more; and 500,000 who can take out $500 Life Memberships. Let's take our NAACP out of the "hand-to-mouth" status and give it the financial support it needs to finish the fight against racial discrimination in America. If we don't then maybe we are phonies and don't deserve the NAACP.

BLACK COLLEGE HEADS CALL ON HEW

Presidents or chancellors of 44 black colleges are shown at bottom in Washington last week calling on Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare David Mathews for increased funding to bring their schools up to parity with other colleges. approximately 54 per cent from the calendar year 1974-75. At the same time, the number of charges filed with the agency has increased by approximately 26 per cent.

Iowa's Civil Rights Commission, lead by Tate, obtained a high rating (number one position) among civil rights compliance agencies nationwide despite serious limitations in budgeting and staffing.

The group added that several members of the Commission were recently appointed by Gov. Robert Ray. They also stated that Tate is the only black person to head an Iowa state agency.

Some employees of the 24-member staff feel that Tate should be dismissed. A letter, signed by 11 staff members supporting Tate, sent to Gov. Ray charged that some of the staff members were working to oust Tate.

A petition has been formed to garner citizen support for Tate. Staffers interviewed request that all letters supporting the Commission's executive director should be addressed to 7800 Iltis Drive, Apt. M125, Des Moines, Iowa 50322.

Program Examines Breast Cancer

The psychological and physical experience of discovering one has breast cancer and undergoing a radical mastectomy is examined on Emmy Award winning documentary "Why Me?", to be seen on the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network, Monday, November 24 at 7 p.m. In this one-hour program ten women talk about how the experience was for them.

The telecast can be seen on Ch 11, Des Moines; Ch 12, Iowa City; Ch 24, Mason City; Ch 27, Sioux City; Ch 32, Waterloo; Ch 36, Red Oak; and Ch 32, Council Bluffs.

"Why Me?" is a straight-forward report on breast cancer: how it is detected and what can be done about it. Narrated and hosted by Lee Grant, the special shows women how to examine themselves and makes the point that many breast cancers are first discovered by the women themselves.

Lee Grant makes a personal appeal to women to watch the program. "It is as hard for me to talk about breast cancer as it is for you to listen and watch. But please stay with me. This program could save our lives." At the conclusion of the program viewers are referred to their local chapter of the American Cancer Society for more information.

"Why Me?" won three local Emmy Awards: for reporting, public affairs, and editing, and was the recipient of several other local awards as well. It was written and produced by Joe Saltzman for KNXT, the CBS-owned affiliate in Los Angeles and aired on that station last year.

Young Ghanaian girls dance in traditional style with traditional dresses. The dances tell stories of their ancestors, of great victories, of tragic losses and they relate the pageant of life in a way which maintains the traditions of the large ethnic groups in Ghana.

Where Are We Going and How Will We Get There?

When the Iowa Legislature convenes in January, one of the major topics for study and discussion will be a new master plan for transportation in the State. At the request of the Sixty-fifth General Assembly in 1974, the Iowa Department of Transportation (DOT) has been preparing a proposal that will have an effect on all Iowans and encompass all modes of transportation including river, air, public, highway and rail.

On Tuesday, November 25 at 8 p.m., the Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network (IEBN) will present a Public Affairs Special Report: Where are We Going and How Will We Get There? The DOT's New Transportation Plan. The DOT will unveil their plan to the public for the first time on this two-hour, statewide televised program. (The program will be seen on IEBN Channels 11, Des Moines; 12, Iowa City; 24, Mason City; 27, Sioux City; 32, Waterloo; 32, Council Bluffs and 36, Red Oak.)

A panel of newpeople led by program host Dean Borg will be present in the IEBN studios to question key DOT administrators. Scheduled newsmen are Dan Pillar, Des Moines Register; Tom Frehling, Cedar Rapids Gazette; Bob Case, Waterloo Courier; and Dan Miller, IEBN. The public will also have an opportunity to ask questions of the DOT officials as a battery of telephone operators will be on hand in the studio to accept "collect" calls from any IEBN viewer.

DOT division directors slated to appear on the program with State Transportation Director Victor Preisser are Terrence L. Fritz, public transit; H. E. Gunnerson, highway; Richard Hoffman, railroad; Commander James L. Lightsey, river; and Michael E. Palmer, aeronautics. DOT Commission Chairman Robert Rigler and Planning and Research Director

Raymond Kassel will also be present for questioning.

The Iowa transportation plan is unique in the nation as it is the first "comprehensive" state department transportation plan to be offered for legislative approval. More significantly, it is the first plan to study modes of transportation in relation to each other, and the effect each will have on the other in the future.

Special Report: Where are We Going and How Will We Get There? ... The DOT's New Transportation Plan is a production of IEBN Public Affairs.

Enjoys Job as Counselor

Don Graves plays an important role at East High School this year. Graves is one of our black counselors and has been here for three years.

His job consists of being the school-community coordinator at East High. Graves responsibilities are attendance director, coordination of free bus passes and coordination of free or reduced lunch applications.

Graves also works as a go-between in some situations involving black and white students. He also represents student point of views whenever necessary.

Helping teachers to understand black culture, as well as helping to develop an awareness for multi-ethnic and multi-racial studies is another task of the counselor. He also serves as advisor of the human relations committee and works with the parent human relations committee.

Graves is a Des Moines Tech High School graduate and a graduate of Iowa State University. He earned a masters degree from Drake University. Besides his job, sports, music and photography are his main interests.

Before coming to East, Graves taught physical education at Amos Hiatt Junior High. Graves indicated some changes he has seen while at East.

"Students are better able to communicate. Instead of getting uptight about a situation, most of our students are beginning to learn how to talk out our problems. Fighting is not going to solve anything," he said.

Graves added that most black students are now starting to get involved in activities at East. "East is their school too, and they must realize that and not just stand around and pout, but get in there and try."

"Blacks must learn how to function in the mainstream at East or anywhere else. If we cannot do this then we are lost. We do not have to give up our identity to do this either," the counselor said.

"I like my job at East where I have been for three years," he said.

Ballet Classes Will Continue

Ballet instruction is being given in five Des Moines elementary schools by instructors from the Des Moines Civic Ballet.

The instruction is provided in exchange for the Civic Ballet being permitted to use the former Riley elementary school building at 5300 Urbandale for its activities.

The ballet instruction started Nov. 3 at Greenwood, Douglas, Casady, Jackson and Windsor elementary schools. The instructor spends a day each week in each school, holding two classes each morning and two each afternoon. The present schedule will continue through February. A second set of five schools will be selected at that time for ballet instruction during the remainder of the school year.

MSU Program Focuses On Urban Counseling

EAST LANSING, Mich. — "You say you need a 'gig'. Tell me what a 'gig' looks like, and I'll help you find it," the white counselor says to the hip-looking black client in the cartoon.

Charles H. Beady, Ph.D. candidate in urban counseling at Michigan State University and creator of the cartoon, believes it illustrates the need for counselors who come from racial, social, educational and economic backgrounds similar to their clients.

"In the black community, a 'gig' is a job," explains Beady.

The director of the Urban Counseling Mental Health (UCMH) program at MSU, Dr. Gloria Smith, adds that a counselor who is comfortable with the nuances of speech and gesture of a particular segment of the population can be more effective.

In the past, she says, few minorities have sought counseling as a career. For that reason, the UCMH program was begun at MSU in 1972, with a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, and has been re-funded each year since.

Since its inception, the program has graduated 47 minorities at the master's level and 10 at the Ph.D. level.

The program is a joint effort of the College of Urban Development, the College of Education, and the Department of Counseling, Personnel Services and Educational Psychology.

What's New From ISU?

by Ann Harrison

Extension Home Economist
Holiday gatherings are beginning to be planned. We often hear families say this gives the extra push to get the house cleaned.

Carpet cleaning may be high on the list. Our suggestion is to be cautious about cleaning carpet too frequently. And if you do-it-yourself make sure a powerful vacuum cleaner is available. The residue left in carpets will attract more dirt and make it soil even faster. If you use liquid or foam cleaners make sure to go easy and not dampen the carpet backing.

For years we've shared these furniture cleaning tips with many families.

* For cleaning old furniture or woodwork (may mean you don't need to refinish it)

1 quart water
3 tablespoons boiled linseed oil (buy boiled linseed oil)

1 tablespoon turpentine
Heat mixture in double boiler and keep warm. Use fine (3/0) steel wool, dip in solution and rub surface following wood grain. Wipe with warm damp cloth and buff with soft dry cloth.

* For removing white spots or rings-sprinkle ground pumice stone or even cigarette ashes on the surface. Dip cloth in fine oil such as sewing machine oil, and rub surface lightly with the grain. Then wipe surface with a soft cloth. I sometimes mix the abrasive and oil together as a paste and then dip the cloth in that mixture.

* For furniture scratches-try the cleaning procedure mentioned above or rub the scratch diagonally with a nut meat-English or black walnut works fine.

BEGIN WITH BREAKFAST

Breakfast is probably more of a habit than an eating experience, especially with today's life-styles. Time seems too short in the morning to make breakfast a grand experience. But it is one experience you shouldn't skip. Eat a well-balanced cereal breakfast and give yourself time to enjoy it. Try a nutritious breakfast of fruit or juice, a bowl of fortified oat flakes with milk, toast with butter or margarine, and milk to drink.

Candidates Demand KKK Be Prosecuted For Violent Acts

NEW YORK, — Peter Camejo, Socialist Workers Party candidate for President, and his vice-presidential running mate Willie Mae Reid, denounced the plans of the Ku Klux Klan to use force to "break up Communist meetings and rallies..."

The statement, issued by Ohio Klan grand dragon Dale Reusch, said he would publish a list of individuals and organizations targeted for Klan violence. Reusch said the Socialist Workers Party and Americans for Democratic Action were "Communist fronts."

Camejo and Reid stated, "The Socialist Workers Party has been the object of threats and violent attacks from right-wing organizations since the campaign for the presidency began. On February 4, 1975, the Socialist Workers campaign office in Los Angeles was bombed and 25 campaign workers narrowly escaped death. The Nazis took credit for the bombing. On February 20, 1975, an armed KKK demonstration took place at our Houston campaign headquarters.

"We insist on our right and the right of all individuals and groups to campaign free from any sort of harassment or attack. Should the Klan carry out its threats, we will, as we have in the past, vigorously demand that those guilty of violent acts be apprehended and prosecuted to the full extent of the law. We will take all legal steps necessary to see it that this is done."

(A forum about

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice write Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 515 Madison Avenue New York, N.Y. 10022.

Rejected But Not Dejected

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'd like to share my recent very happy experience with your readers. Two years ago, after retirement, I took up writing as a hobby. After many rejections of my short stories I decided I'd write short, humorous poems. These, too, were rejected by publishers, and I finally selected the best forty, published them myself and gave away the little paper-bound booklets.

What publication did for my image! People stop me to tell me they enjoyed this or that poem, and through giving the book away, I

NEW AID ADMINISTRATOR FOR AFRICA

Stanley S. Scott, left, former special assistant to President Ford, is shown being congratulated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger after he was sworn in last week as assistant administrator of the Agency for International Development (AID). In his new post, Scott will administer AID's $170 million African program. He was sworn in at the State Department by Senator Edward W. Brooke in the presence of his wife, children, mother, Mrs. Clinora Scott Suddath of Chicago, and more than 500 friends and well-wishers. (NNPA Washington) recently met a man who has asked me to marry him. If I'd waited for him to buy it I'd have remained a lonely widow living on social security. Now I am living on social security and romance. D.L.

Dear D.L.: Congratulations and best wishes!

Even though many women don't have your talent, or cannot afford to pay for printing their own work, they can still give of themselves in other ways that will bring them together with congenial people — women as well as men. Romance may not always blossom, but rewarding friendships may.

opportunities for minorities in this region.

Boone Speaks at Dinner

Ina Boone, regional NAACP representative, was speaker at the conference's dinner Friday evening. Scheduled speaker Margaret Bush Wilson, chairman of the board of NAACP, was unable to attend.

Boone discussed a few concerns of the NAACP, and its membership. She indicated that the financial plight of the NAACP was similar to problems faced by the average corporation in America.

"Any operation that is an entity with a corporation are the same problems NAACP has, unless it has a salable product," she said.

The dinner speaker pointed out that the real problem of the civil rights organization is its financial status. "Inflationary prices and past activities (mostly action in courts) have caught up with us," she added.

Boone urged each NAACP member to tap every monetary source available. Stating that the heart of an organization is its members, Boone asked each member to pledge at least ten new members by December 15.

Afternoon Session

Features of the afternoon luncheon was an address by James H. Blair, assistant secretary of the U.S. Department of HUD.

He emphasized the periods of progress among minorities in reconstruction days up to the present, and strongly urged that education and strong backing of law enforcement in the community would go far to offer opportunities even greater than the case now.

Another feature of the program was a style show under the direction of James H. Piggee who was assisted by Mrs. Joe Mitchell of Akron. Mitchell modeled many of her beautiful garments while other participants who took part in the fashion show were Jennifer Bethe, Anthony Gales, Lonie Jenkins, Rolanda Piggie and Ardith Wyatt.

Airs School Patrol

Training Program

The Iowa Educational Broadcasting Network, in cooperation with the Motor Club of Iowa, will air a special program on the highly successful school safety patrol activity at 8:15 a.m. on Tuesday, November 25, to help train Iowa patrol members and educate the general public on the job that the safety patrol performs.

The Iowa safety patrol program, sponsored by the AAA Motor Club of Iowa, in conjunction with local schools, has been helping to save children's lives since the mid-1920's. Since that time there has never been a reported death at a school safety patrol protected crossing. The over 20,000 safety patrol members daily supervise over 200,000 individual crossings to and from school.

The TV program is designed primarily to train Iowa safety patrol members to perform this important job according to standard procedures and to educate the motoring public in what to expect from a patrol member at a supervised crossing.

It is hoped that a cooperating effort between the safety patrol and Iowa motorists can produce a safe walking environment for all our school age children.

A Thanksgiving Message

Let us give thanks to our precious Lord and Savior for all his blessings.

We know all of our blessings come from God. We must take time every day to give thanks. We must thank the Lord for health, strength, our homes, families and friends.

All of our blessings come from God. Let us not forget that; some people forget about God — never realizing that if it were not for God's goodness they would not have anything. Everything belongs to God. So let us stop for one hour everyday and thank Him for all His blessings.

On Thanksgiving Day, there will be many large dinners with families and friends gathering together for a big feast, not really knowing the real meaning of Thanksgiving. God doesn't want us to celebrate just Thanksgiving on this one day. He wants us to celebrate and give thanks everyday during the year.

The real meaning is giving thanks to God, we must share what we have with others when there are people who need food and clothes. God wants us to take some of what we have and give to the poor and the needy. God will give you more and help you to prosper in life if you help others who need your help.

This Thanksgiving, let us all start by going to church with our families. If you plan to go out of town, you can still go to church and serve the Lord for at least one hour.

Every Sunday let us all worship in the church of your choice. From this day on let us let every day be Thanksgiving.

ALLEN ASHBY with a LOOK ON SPORTS

"We Wuz Robbed!"

If you listened to the Iowa-Purdue game last Saturday, you probably got the letdown that most of us had. When we heard Jim Zabel say they didn't make it, we thought the Hawks had won a cliff hanger. Then came the reversal and what a letdown. Nobody will ever know for sure that the Purdue back got to the goal line. Maybe the official thought that the guy just couldn't possibly miss going in from that short distance, but I saw Jim Brown stopped with a half yard to go, and he leaped over the line, or he intended to. But the defensive line rose up, and nobody gave one inch, and he didn't make it. So it was possible for Iowa to have held.

As one looks at the picture, you don't see anybody pushed back, and usually in such cases, the official doesn't make his call until he unifies the players and sees where the ball comes down. But, do you know that in cases of such judgment calls that could go either way, the home team gets them most of the time. And this holds true in basketball and baseball, too. I don't mean to imply that the officials cheat, but it seems that the home crowd influences the close calls. But the guys had nothing to be ashamed of, and this one may well fire them up for the Michigan State game. With a little luck, they might take the Spartans. This would make them win more than they lost last year, and that would be progress.

Cyclones Stir Up Heat

And they poured some more fuel on the fire under Earl Bruce last week. Of course, the guy has had his share of tough luck with injuries, but still the Cyclone fans want a winner. They have to put people in that new stadium, and the only way to do that is to win games, so if Bruce doesn't do it, they will try somebody else. I would guess that it takes about twenty five thousand to break even for home games, and if the boys don't bring in some scalps, they won't put that many people in the place. Don't ask me where I got these figures, because I don't really know. They have one more with Oklahoma State coming up, and they could make this game a close one or even win it. But in the screams for Bruce's scalp, close won't count.

It didn't seem as if Majors, or the guy before him, got the fellows that Bruce has, but they gave the competition more trouble than this Cyclone team has. Maybe they will give him one more year to get on the ball.

Drake has to be happy. They finally got a taste of victory, and it was an exciting game. Maybe they will close out with another win, and help everybody forget the early disappointments.

Now for the Roundball Game

Now that the football season is out, our local high schools will begin their cage schedules. I don't have any idea who will be the top contenders. I might make a guess and include Hoover, Tech and North. I can't see Lincoln being in it much because they will have to rebuild and that will likely be too big a job.

Oh, yes, while we are on the subject of basketball, a fellow told me a story that would be funny if it were not so pathetic. He said that they took a bunch of boys from various places to Kansas City last fall or in the late summer to a basketball clinic. The instructor was K.C. Jones, one of the game's all-time greats. The fellow said the Des Moines kids embarrassed him no end. They left the clinic, saying that Jones couldn't show them anything.

The man led his team to the final round of the NBA playoffs, and has had a fine record coaching wherever he went, and he couldn't show these kids off the streets and parks anything. This leaves a fellow so flabbergasted that he can't find words to really castigate the guys. But I hope they wake up some day before it is too late if it isn't now.

I suppose that is typical of the kids of today, the ones who don't make it in school or other classes of athletic games. I recall a pretty good football player at North High saying they were going to have to pay him for playing football for the school. I don't think he played a game, so we never knew how good he was.

Bethune-Cookman Rejects NCAA Bid

MIAMI, FLA. — Bethune-Cookman (9-0) turned down an invitation Monday to participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's regional football playoffs.

Coach Wesley Moore said a schedule conflict was the reason for not accepting the offer to play in the November 29 game.

Bethune-Cookman is scheduled to play Maryland-Eastern Shore in the Central Florida Classic at Orlando that same day.

Iowa Bystander SPORTS

Black Athletes Discuss Dowling

Interviewed this week were six young men who wear the "maroon" of Dowling High School. They are enthusiastic about the football program at Dowling, but emphasize that Dowling is a lot more than sports.

Carl Jaco, a varsity center, finds that "you just don't study religion; Dowling helps you develop a good philosophy of life."

Dowling varsity teams have produced a won-loss record of 103-10 since the arrival of Coach Jim Williams, but have been unable to capture the state crown. It is the opinion of varsity quarterback Kevin Guess that Heelan High School was the toughest opponent Dowling has met. That, plus the Maroon's 600 miles of travel to Cedar Falls and Sioux City brought the Maroon's defeat in the semi-finals.

Key is Coaching

When asked why the great record in football are, frosh fullback Winston Jaco said the coaches well liked, "so you want to play for them."

Coaching is the key," said Guess, "fundamentals are taught thoroughly from the beginning."

"The coaches encourage you to push yourself," added frosh standouts Dion Cobb and Mike McQuarry.

Each young man indicated that studies are challenging. Sophomore wingback Don Dyer believes he is receiving an exceptional education.

"I've received one's and two's in other schools without much work. I don't here and I have homework every night," Dyer said. He added no one shows disrespect to their teachers.

"You wouldn't want to show disrespect to these teachers," chimed in Cobb. "I knew it would be tough."

reported halfback McQuarry, "it is!"

Meaningful Classes

Turning to the subject of religion at Dowling, senior Guess said that the religion classes take on more meaning through the four years. The young men feel that Dowling students are no better or worse than a cross-section of students in other schools. Dyer is impressed by the fact that "most of us in the student body attend chapel when the opportunity is provided... the school is more like a family."

What about next year? Guess suggested that even though this year's team was supposed to be the best in years, "next year's team could be the real 'sleeper.'"

Deer Gun Season Begins November 22

DES MOINES — The first period of Iowa's 1975 shotgun and muzzleloader deer season will get underway Saturday, November 22. According to the Iowa Conservation Commission approximately 25,000 hunters are expected to be out in the state's timbered areas trying

Morgan Gets MVP

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Joe Morgan, second baseman of the world baseball champions Cincinnati Reds, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player Tuesday by the Baseball Writers Association of America, winning by the largest margin in the history of the award.

Morgan received 21½ of the 24 first-place votes cast by a special writers' committee and totaled 321½ points, beating runner-up Greg Luzinski, slugging Philadelphia outfielder, by a whopping 167½ points.

It was the largest plurality for any MVP in either league since the writers began handing out the awards in 1931.

Dodgers Trade Wynn

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — The Los Angeles Dodgers Monday traded centerfielders Jimmy Wynn and Tom Paciorek plus infielders Lee Lacy and Jerry Royster to the Atlanta Braves for centerfielder Dusty Baker and infielder Ed Goodson.

Wynn, 33, a 13-year major league veteran, provided power for the Dodgers in his first season with them after coming from Houston before the 1974 season.

But after a bad elbow hampered him in 1975 and the Dodgers finished 20 games behind Cincinnati in the National League Western Division, Los Angeles went looking for a long-ball hitter again.

OSU Alumni Plan Meeting

Iowa residents who are graduates of Ohio State University are planning to get together on November 22 in Des Moines to watch the nationally-televised Big Ten showdown between Ohio State and traditional rival, the University of Michigan.

According to the luncheon organizers there are over 700 Iowa residents who are members of the university's alumni organization and the group hopes to organize an Iowa chapter on that date.

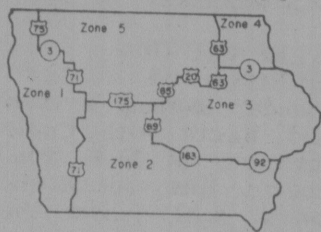

The meeting will be held from eleven o'clock until the game's conclusion at the Howard Johnson Motor Inn on Merle Hay Road in Des Moines. Reservations may be made by writing Bill Martin, 722 Insurance Exchange Bldg., Des Moines 50309 or by calling (515) 280-1631.

to bag Iowa's largest game animal, the wary white-tailed deer.

The four-day season continues through November 25 with daily shooting hours from sunrise to sunset. Deer hunters who received licenses for the last period will have their opportunity December 6-12. Permitted weapons will be 20, 16, 12, and 10 gauge shotguns with rifle slugs only and flintlock or percussion cap lock muzzleloading muskets of .44 to .775 caliber. Deer hunting is open only to Iowa residents.

Daily bag, possession, and season limit is one deer. The entire state is open but hunters are limited to hunting only in the zone designated on their license (see map). The modified bucks only season is in effect in all zones. Antlered deer only licenses were issued to the majority of the hunters although in different ratios according to the number of license applicants in each hunting zone. The ratio system of "bucks only" licenses to "either sex" license applies to both paid shotgun and free landowner-tenant license holders. Bucks only or antlered deer refer to deer having at least one forked antler. The purpose of the modified buck season is to provide quality hunting and at the same time to provide moderate growth to Iowa's deer herd.

1975 DEER ZONES
(SHOTGUN-MUZZLE LOADER)
SEASON DATES: NOV. 22-25 OR DEC. 6-12

The ICC cautioned hunters always to respect private property and to obtain permission from the landowner before entering.

The ICC also stated that according to Iowa law, landowner-tenant license holders may hunt only on land on which they reside.

Deer hunters are reminded that they must wear an iridescent orange colored (blaze orange) article of clothing when in the field such as a vest, coat, jacket, hat, or cap. The purpose of this law is of course to make deer hunting safer in Iowa.

The program will include viewing the game on a special 6-foot screen, filmed highlights of the Buckeyes 1974 football season, and discussion of plans to organize the Iowa group.

The Ohio State University Association is one of the largest alumni groups in the country with over 60,000 members and is open to everyone who has received at least 15 hours of credit for course work completed at the University. An affiliate chapter existed in Iowa several years ago, but has recently been inactive. Last year, over 150 met in Iowa City for a pre-game luncheon prior to the Ohio State University of Iowa game.

Fergie Heads East

BOSTON, MASS. — Ferguson Jenkins has been traded from the Texas Rangers to the Boston Red Sox, Boston General Manager Dick O'Connell confirmed late Monday night.

The Red Sox sent outfielder Juan Beniquez, pitcher Steve Barr and an undisclosed sum of money to the Rangers for Jenkins, a seven-time 20-game winner.

Jenkins had a 17-18 record in 1975. He just missed the Cy Young award in 1974 with a 25-12 mark after he was traded to Texas by the Chicago Cubs. Jenkins had six consecutive 20-game winning seasons with the Cubs and won the Cy Young award in 1971.

Hunters Should Have

Physical Examinations

Hunting season in Iowa is indeed an experience looked forward to by thousands of Iowans and shared with many properly licensed non-resident hunters from neighboring states.

The activities of Iowa's 1975 fall hunting season have started. The squirrel and rabbit seasons are upon us.

Needless to say, the game have been getting into condition since the beginning of summer, but far too many hunters are getting into condition for what in many cases will be the sudden and abnormal physical exertions required by the hunt.

"Getting into condition for these more strenuous physical demands is imperative, if the hunter himself does not want to become one of the seasonal statistics that report more hunters dying of heart attacks than of gunshot accidents," said Dale A. Harding, M.D. of Eagle Grove, president of the Iowa Heart Association.

The hunter who has had no physical checkup in several years or has followed no regular routine of exercise frequently, is in more danger than the game he stalks.

The Iowa Heart Association cautions hunters throughout the state who are recovered heart attack patients to consult with their physician before planning a hunting trip. Let the doctor know exactly where and under what conditions you will be hunting.

Hospital Plans Expansion

Iowa Lutheran Hospital, in Des Moines, plans new expansion to better serve persons receiving artificial kidney treatments.

Jim Anderson, Iowa Lutheran Hospital planning coordinator, said that facilities in the new dialysis unit will improve patient comfort and enjoyment. Because dialysis takes six to eight hours, three days a week, we are planning to provide opportunities for the patients to spend their hours productively.

Artificial kidney treatments, called dialysis, cleanse the blood of wastes and impurities when the kidneys do not function.

At Their Fingertips
Planned unit improvements include a library service, with subjects ranging from home decorating to occupational training. In the new dialysis unit, individual entertainment centers will be provided for each patient. A five-inch mini-television screen, AM-FM radio and nurses call system will be at the patient's fingertips.

Electric reclining chairs will be another new feature for dialysis patients. Anderson said, "The advantage of the new electric recliners is that only one arm is needed to make chair adjustments. On standard recliners adjustments are difficult when one arm of the patient is strapped down and connected to the dialysis machine."

Sheila Gruver, head nurse of the dialysis unit, said, "Besides the comfort and entertainment factors, the new unit will have 25 artificial kidney machines available."

Presently the unit has 12 machines and treats 30 persons. In the future, the unit is expected to be able to treat as many as 65-75 persons.

"Children as young as four years old and adults up to age 82 have received treatments at Lutheran. Some of the people travel over 100 miles," said Gruver.

Construction of the expansion is expected to begin sometime this winter.

The Right Breakfast

In France, breakfast is usually a croissant and coffee; in Holland, add a piece of see-through cheese (it's cut so thin); in Poland, a piece of Polish sausage. It's prosciutto and figs in Italy, eggs and bacon in England, and believe it or not, dried seaweed and fish to match in Japan. In America, cereal is popular at the morning meal. To make sure you're getting the right breakfast, full of vitamins, try a cereal breakfast which includes fortified oat flakes.

Federal Project Centers on Sexual Discrimination

INDIANOLA, IA. — A federally-funded project to eliminate sexual discrimination in the Interstate 35 Community School District is underway through the cooperation of the school district and Simpson College.

Operating with a grant of $9,550 from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Simpson is coordinating a "desegregation training institute" for faculty members, administrators and non-certified employees in the four Interstate 35 schools, according to coordinator Donald Koontz, Simpson's assistant to the president for special programs.

Since all public schools are under federal order to desegregate school programs, the project provides an opportunity for constructive changes in the schools through "self-evaluation" rather than governmental order, according to Interstate 35 Superintendent Lyle R. Kooiker, who requested Simpson's help when he learned of the availability of federal funds for such a project.

Marian Pulsifer of Indianola, the project's director and instructor, said specific objectives of the project include helping the 27th Street.

It was during the administration of Mrs. Beatrice Bailey, who had served the mission as president for ten years, when the suggestion was brought to her group to do something for the aged and shut-in during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays regardless of race, creed or color throughout the city of Des Moines. In 1946, this became a part of the annual mission program.

Yellow Cab and Ruan Cab companies have helped in this effort by furnishing free transportation from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

schools develop a positive approach to sex desegregation legislation, the development of positive communications skills for all persons involved in the school district regarding sex desegregation legislation and the elimination of sex role stereotypes and expectations for boys and girls in the classroom.

"This is an unusual school district," Pulsifer said. Instead of just reacting to federal desegregation guidelines, the district has made a "conscious choice" to deal positively with the legislation, she explained.

The project could serve as a model for other schools to follow, she added.

Currently 28 persons are participating voluntarily in the project. They include Supt. Kooiker, three of the district's five school board members and principals and representatives from the administration and the faculty of the district's junior and senior high schools and the two elementary schools.

The participants are attending five day-long workshops each Saturday in November to learn basic human relations and communications skills, said Pulsifer. In addition, participants are spending five to six hours during the week taping classroom or counseling sessions for play-back and self-evaluation.

Participants are being paid $30 per day for the workshops.

The project also includes three consultant days, during which project participants will be able to meet with experts in areas selected by the school district and a final day-long session in March for follow-up and evaluation, Pulsifer said.

The emphasis is on the practical application of skills regarding human relations and communications rather than simply learning about theories, Pulsifer emphasized.

Kooiker said he has been very impressed and pleased with the way in which the project participants have taken hold of the training and their involvement in it.

He added that he believes the project will improve instructional opportunities for the district's 975 students as well as improve communications between students, faculty, administrators, the school board and the community at large.

Simpson is the only institution in Iowa to be conducting a sex desegregation institute through the federal program. Ten other institutions throughout the country which received similar grants this year include: the University of Arkansas in Little Rock, Ark.; the University of San Francisco in San Francisco, Calif.; St. Mary's College in Notre Dame, Ind.; St. Cloud University in St. Cloud, Minn.; Rocky Mountain College in Billings, Mont.; the University of Nebraska at Lincoln; Douglass College in New Brunswick, N.J.; the University of Oklahoma in Norman, Okla.; Seattle University in Seattle, Wash.; and Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg, Mo.

THE SPINNERS

Spinners Celebrate 20th Anniversary

In celebrating their 20th Anniversary as entertainers, the Spinners have countless memories to reflect upon. They never seem to forget those people who helped them along the way, and rather than being remorseful about the hard times they consider the years an invaluable education which has ultimately been beneficial.

They first started singing in 1955 while still attending high school in Ferndale, Michigan (a Detroit suburb). The Domingos, as they were known then, made their debuts via amateur contests and small club dates in Detroit. It was during this early period that they changed their title to the Spinners because they were often confused with other groups like the Flamingos and the Dominoes.

It was little time before the Spinners were a popular local attraction with their peers. They became involved in community organizations, held fundraisers for youth groups and Christmas charities.

Their first record, "That's What Girls Are Made For," was on the Tri-Phi label owned by Fuqua and Gwen Gordy (sister to Berry Gordy). Fuqua and Gwen married and merged their label with the Motown complex. While at Motown their career languished until 1970 when Stevie Wonder chose to explore their potential. The result was "It's A Shame," which was their only major recording on the label. During this period they worked with and watched numerous other groups become stars such as the Supremes, Temptations and Four Tops, but the Spinners never received similar attention.

In 1971, at the encouragement of their close friend, Aretha Franklin, the Spinners joined Atlantic Records. With Atlantic came the magical influence and involvement of writer/producer, Thom Bell, one of the best in the music industry. The admiration and respect he commands from the Spinners confirms the affect he has had on their career.

With four gold albums under their belts (Spinners, Mighty Love, New and Improved, Pick of the Litter) these gentlemen are the '70's, which transcends the labels of R&B, Easy Listening, Pop, etc. Certainly this is reinforced by the fact that the Spinners have been nominated for four Grammy Awards in the last two years by NARAS. The Spinners have unquestionably earned themselves an abiding legacy for determination and talent.

Incredible as it may seem, the group retains four of its original founders; Pervis Jackson, Henry Fambrough, Billy Henderson and Bobby Smith. The fifth member, Phillipe Wynne, joined the Spinners in 1971. Needless to say, the years of experiences shared by these artists has aged them like a fine wine. The blend is smooth, mellow, clear and full with a bouquet of harmony that is palatable to the musical ear whether two, twenty-two, ninety-two or anywhere in between.

It is often said by people in the entertainment business that if you want to be a star who stays on top for a long time and have the respect of your peers, then you have to pay some "dues." The concept parallels the adage that in order to be a really good artist you have to suffer. If this notion bears any truth then most certainly the Spinners richly deserve their star status and will undoubtedly remain there until they lose their voices... say in thirty years or so.
