Joint Center Examines Reasons At Institute For Black Elected Officials

WASHINGTON—The showing by black candidates in this fall's municipal office elections, especially the November 4 races, can be summed up in one word, "disastrous," according to a statement released here recently by the Joint Center for Political Studies.

Black Mayoral Ranks Decrease

Joint Center President Eddie N. Williams said: "While our preliminary analysis of the November election results shows that there were some minor gains registered by blacks in various state legislatures, these limited successes in no way balanced the losses sustained in municipal, primarily mayoral, elections. We have been pleased to note and report progress made by blacks in previous elections. We must not hesitate to also note and report setbacks. These setbacks saw the ranks of black mayors dwindle from 143 at the start of the Fall elections to 130 when all results were in."

"There has not yet been time for an in-depth analysis of each election result where black candidates were involved, but it is clear that the mayoral results were disastrous, in the short run, to attempts by blacks to play an active, constructive leadership role in making our cities more livable and more responsive to the needs of all citizens. We will be examining some of the underlying reasons for the results during the Third National Institute for Black Elected Public Officials to be held December 11-13 in Washington's Sheraton Park Hotel."

Negative Side

The Joint Center statement noted that 20 incumbent black mayors vacated their seats as a result of defeats in primary or general elections or by not running for reelections. Seven of these mayors were replaced by other blacks and 13 were succeeded by whites. Nine of the 20 mayors did not seek reelection; 11 campaigned for reelection and lost. Eight of the 11 lost to white candidates, the remainder to black candidates.

Black challengers contested white incumbents in ten mayoral elections in eight states (Alabama, California, Connecticut, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania). All lost. Nine incumbent black mayors, including three in the South, won reelection.

Positive Side

On the plus side, a survey of five states (Mississippi, New Jersey, Kentucky, Louisiana and Virginia) showed a net gain of two black state legislators. Most significant in the state legislative category were the three new seats won in Mississippi which now has four black state representatives—the largest number since Reconstruction. In the five states, 20 black incumbent state senators and representatives sought reelection. Seventeen won; two were replaced by other blacks and one yielded to a white challenger.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

Georgia Tech Has Come A Long Way

I was interested in the announcer during half time of the football game between the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech, both of which included Negro players on their squads.

But what surprised me most was when he said, "Georgia Tech has more black students in its engineering school than any other institution in the country." Howard University in Washington, D.C. and Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, both predominately black schools, have engineering departments.

Sounds Good But Not Profitable Business

A letter to the editor of Jet Magazine by Larry Dawson of Fort Gordan, Georgia, raises the question, "No black football on TV?" meaning from predominately black schools.

This is a good question to raise. However, blacks are seen on every football team that is appearing on TV and most others.

The American Broadcasting Company has televised these games for the last two decades. Only last week ABC entered into a contract with the National Collegiate Athletic Association to televise the 1976 and 1977 seasons for $38 million, $2 million each year over the last contract.

Apparently, ABC chooses the teams that draw the most revenue with limitation on the number of games any one school may appear.

Some of the smaller schools, predominately black and white, are complaining about the arrangement which tends to make the big schools bigger and little schools smaller leaving their teams out in the cold.

The complaint of these schools has some merit, but a network is out to make money which requires that they show the football teams which draw the largest number of viewers. The same principle is involved when any other type of show is being considered for their programs.

Nothing can be done about this for a few years. In the meantime, there will be more rumbling among those schools which complain of this arrangement.

The CIA Missed Nobody Even Dr. King

It often happens that when an individual is tapped for public service old skeletons are pulled from the closet that often are embarrassing.

A committee in the United States Senate has been evaluating work of the CIA, both at home and abroad.

For several weeks illegal surveillance and wire tapping by the FBI have been aired but it has been difficult to find out who authorized them.

Just recently statements have been presented alleging that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was a target subject for J. Edgar Hoover. Knowing the reputation of Hoover with regard to Negroes, there is little surprise that he chose to do such. But it was surprising that the authority for bugging and wire tapping was given by Robert Kennedy, then the U.S. Attorney General and was done with the knowledge of President Kennedy. The excuse was that it appeared that Dr. King had some communist connections and that with his popularity might stir up considerable trouble among the masses of the minorities in the United States. Who and what next? We had not thought that the popular President Kennedy would bow to this.

Bulls Are Dangerous in the Court Also

When President Ford appointed Pearl Bailey and Clarence Mitchell, NAACP representative in Washington, D.C., as delegates to the United Nations it was generally felt that this move was designed to help ease the antagonism between the democracies and a group of Asians, Africans, Cubans and other third world nations.

These choices were good, but it seems that chief delegate Moynihan counters by offsetting the good these folks can do by making bombastic speeches in the halls of the United Nations, including personal attacks on delegates from other nations.

It is easy to make a lot of noise by yelling and cussing people out, but such action is not the job of a diplomat whose job is to help make peace with other nations.

Increase in the Number of Minority-owned Banks

The number of banks designated by the U.S. Treasury Department as minority-owned increased from 57 in June of 1974 to 71 in June of 1975. Total bank deposits also increased by about $133 million during that period.

Alex Armendaris, director of the U.S. Commerce Department's Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE), said that compares with 31 minority-owned banks in 1969, with total deposits at that time of $396.5 million. Deposits today have reached $1.3 billion.

The U.S. Department of Treasury and OMBE are joint coordinators of minority-owned banking under the Administration's Bank Deposit Program. Banks are designated minority-owned when 50 per cent or more of the outstanding common stock of the bank is owned and controlled by members of racial minority groups.

"Minority-owned banks are important," Armendaris said, "because they open up financial resources in their community and provide opportunities for minority ownership and management."

Of the 71 banks, 43 are owned by black or multi-racial groups, with deposits of $663 million; 25 by Spanish-Americans with deposits of $619 million; two by American Indians, with deposits of $11 million; and one by Chinese-Americans, with deposits of $2.5 million. Total deposits of all minority-owned banks are $1.3 billion.

In terms of deposits, the three largest banks are Republic National Bank of Miami, with deposits of $123 million; Banco de Ponce in New York City, with deposits of $120 million; and The Bank of Miami, with deposits of $114.5 million.

The Office of Minority Business Enterprise was created in the Department of Commerce in 1969 to serve as the coordinating agency of the federal government for minority business affairs and to assist in both federal and private efforts with the development of minority-owned businesses throughout the nation.

International Mail Rate Increase Date Set

The U.S. Postal Service announced it will implement previously planned increases for international mail rates on Saturday, Jan. 3, 1976.

The increases were first proposed in the Federal Register on Sept. 18. Notice of the adoption of the new rates and the effective date was given in the Nov. 18 issue of the Register.

All international mail rates will increase on Jan. 3, with the exception of mail rates to Canada and Mexico. Rates for almost all mail to those countries are scheduled to increase on Dec. 28, 1975, the date a general U.S. postal rate increase is planned.

Surface first-class letters to Canada and Mexico will cost 13 cents for the first

"Operation Santa Claus"

The Des Moines Radio Amateurs Association, in cooperation with the St. Vincent de Paul Society, KCCI-TV and the Iowa National Guard, will conduct the 26th annual "Operation Santa Claus" drive Wednesday, December 10 12:15 - 7 p.m. for the benefit of needy families — 820 families — over 5000 persons — were assisted last year.

Campaign headquarters will be set up in the TV-8 studios, and the activities telecast on special programs at 12:15-30 2-2:30, and 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Persons wishing to donate non-perishable foods, new or slightly used toys, and cash to buy meat, bread, and fresh vegetables may call 243-8888 during the afternoon. Hams' two-way radio cars then will be dispatched to pick up the Christmas contributions. These mobile units will operate in Des Moines, Indianola, Norwalk, Altoona, Bondurant, Ankeny, Windsor Heights, in the collection. Members of the Iowa National Guard will relay the contributions from eight collection points to the main distributing center located at the old W.T. Grant Store in Park Fair Center, 2nd and Euclid.

Distribution to the needy will be made on a nondenominational basis by St. Vincent de Paul Society volunteers just before Christmas. Families wishing to sign up for items may contact the St. Vincent de Paul Store, 1426 Sixth Avenue.

ounce; 11 cents for each additional ounce. Post and postal cards to Mexico and Canada will cost 9 cents. Other types of mailings to these countries will increase, but not all will be identical to the domestic U.S. rate.

The Postal Service said the scheduled international mail rate increase will not affect mail to and from military bases overseas which is charged the domestic mail rate.

The increase in international mail rates is necessary to cover the rising cost of providing the service. The rise is in accordance with the new Convention of the Universal Postal Union, whose regulations facilitate the exchange of mail between nearly all countries of the world.

Gasoline tax increased by states in '75

State taxes on gasoline have increased more often than any other major tax during the first ten months of 1975, according to the Commerce Clearing House.

Eight states and the District of Columbia have upped their tax rates since January—continuing a ten-year trend toward higher and higher state taxes on a commodity almost as vital to Americans as flour.

Hawaii increased state gasoline taxes this year from 5 to 8.5 cents a gallon, while the per gallon tax in Washington, D.C. and Rhode Island rose from 8 to 10 cents. Minnesota hiked its gasoline tax to 9 cents per gallon, up two cents from May, 1975.

Other states enacting gasoline tax increases include South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, and Oregon.

In addition to state gasoline tax, motorists pay a federal tax of 4 cents on every gallon of gasoline purchased, plus sales tax.

Caucus of Black School Board Members and the Southern Conference of Black Mayors.

Commenting further on the November mayoral elections, Williams noted that the Institute sponsors recognize that black candidates for office "have no automatic right to expect victory in contested elections." But when "you're as far down on the political totem pole of representation as blacks are," he continued, "representing less than one percent of the nation's elected officials, any reduction in the number of black elected officeholders is a step backward and a major cause for concern. That is why the election results will most likely be a priority topic at the forthcoming Institute."

The Joint Center for Political Studies is a private, nonpartisan organization founded in 1970 to provide research, information and technical assistance to the nation's black elected officials. It is funded by a combination of foundation and government grants.

Stokes Succeeds in Adding Amendment

When the bill that would authorize $634 million to finance the Corporations for Public Broadcasting (CPB) for five years was before the house, Rep. Louis Stokes (D-Ohio), succeeded in getting an amendment added that would make the corporation subject to Titles VI and VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and to Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972.

These provisions, together, prohibit discriminations based on race, religion, national origin and sex.

The Senate bill does not have this amendment. The Corporation is seeking to defeat it because its officials say CPB is not a government agency. However the Justice Department, in a letter to Rep. Augustus Hawkins (D-Cal.) says it believes the CPB is subject to the anti-discrimination provisions of the 1964 law.

Senator John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) is chairman of the Senate conferees and messages should be sent to him, urging the Senate conferees to accept the House amendment.

Reid Calls Bishops' Plan A Vicious Attack on Black and Minority Women

NEW YORK.—Willie Mae Reid, Socialist Workers party candidate for vice-president, urged women throughout the country to "wage a forceful and united battle" against the campaign announced by Roman Catholic bishops to get a constitutional amendment passed in defiance of the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortions.

The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States announced a plan to organize anti-abortion groups in every congressional district at a four day meeting of the National Conference of Catholic bishops in Washington, D.C. In response, Willie Mae Reid issued the following statement:

"The campaign announced by the National Conference of Catholic bishops to add an anti-abortion amendment to the Constitution is an attack on the right of all women to control our own bodies and our own lives. These men have no right to impose their moral views or those of the Catholic Church on the women of this country. Their so-called 'pro-life' campaign, which is financed by the Catholic Church, is a particularly vicious attack on black and minority women.

"Prior to the 1973 decision by the Supreme Court legalizing abortion, poor and minority women were forced to go to back alley butchers to obtain illegal abortions. Thousands of these abortions resulted in serious health complications or death each year. Since the Supreme Court decision, more than 1.5 million abortions have been performed, clearly indicating that the majority of women in this country want and need safe and legal abortion facilities.

"We must not let this attack on women's rights go by unnoticed. Wherever the right to abortion is threatened, we must counter it through an action campaign of demonstrations, teach-ins, leafleting and picketing. That is how we won the right to choose abortion and that is the only way to defend it successfully.

"Women's right to choose abortion is also being threatened by city and state budget cuts. In New York, public abortion clinics are being labeled as 'non-essential,' and plans have been announced to close many of the city's clinics. Black, Puerto Rican, and other poor and minority women will suffer most from the closing of these facilities.

"We must not allow women's rights to become one of these budget cuts. We must demand that his money be raised by halting the billions of dollars of state, city and federal interest payments to the banks and by spending the $100 billion 'defense' budget on abortion facilities, childcare centers and jobs for women."

Calendar Has Paintings By 4 Iowa Artists

Paintings by four Iowa artists illustrate a special Bicentennial calendar produced by Northwestern Bell. Calendars are available at Bell business offices.

The artists are William S. Barringer, Marjorie B. Hayek, Gary Kelley and William A. Weber.

Barringer's acrylic painting, "Song of the Past," appears on the October page of the calendar. The artist was born in Stuart, Iowa, and now works as a professional artist in Des Moines. One of his best known paintings, entitled "Brian's Song," was commissioned by former Chicago Bear Gale Sayers.

"Still Life with Skates" is an oil painting by Marjorie B. Hayek, an Iowa City homemaker. The painting illustrates the month of January in the calendar.

America's small independent farmer is portrayed in Gary Kelley's painting, "Family Farm." Kelley is a Cedar Falls resident who works in Waterloo as an illustrator for a design studio. Kelley's painting, done with pen and ink and watercolor, was selected for June's calendar page.

William Weber's drawing, "Belgians," appears on the August page of the calendar. Weber lives in Webster City and is an industrial designer. The artist added pastels to ink and applied them with pens to achieve the fine detail in his drawing. The work conveys Weber's interest in work animals and their contribution to rural America.

This is the twelfth year Northwestern Bell has produced a calendar featuring the works of area artists. Nearly 700 amateur and professional artists submitted more than 2,900 entries for possible use in the calendar. Entries were limited to residents of of Northwestern Bell territory — Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota. In addition to original art work, the 1976 calendar features important dates in American history and salutes the 100th anniversary of the invention of the telephone.

BEGIN WITH BREAKFAST

Breakfast is probably more of a habit than an eating experience, especially with today's life-styles. Time seems too short in the morning to make breakfast a grand experience. But it is one experience you shouldn't skip. Eat a well-balanced cereal breakfast and give yourself time to enjoy it. Try a nutritious breakfast of fruit or juice, a bowl of fortified oat flakes with milk, toast with butter or margarine, and milk to drink.

Federal Min. Wage To Rise January 1

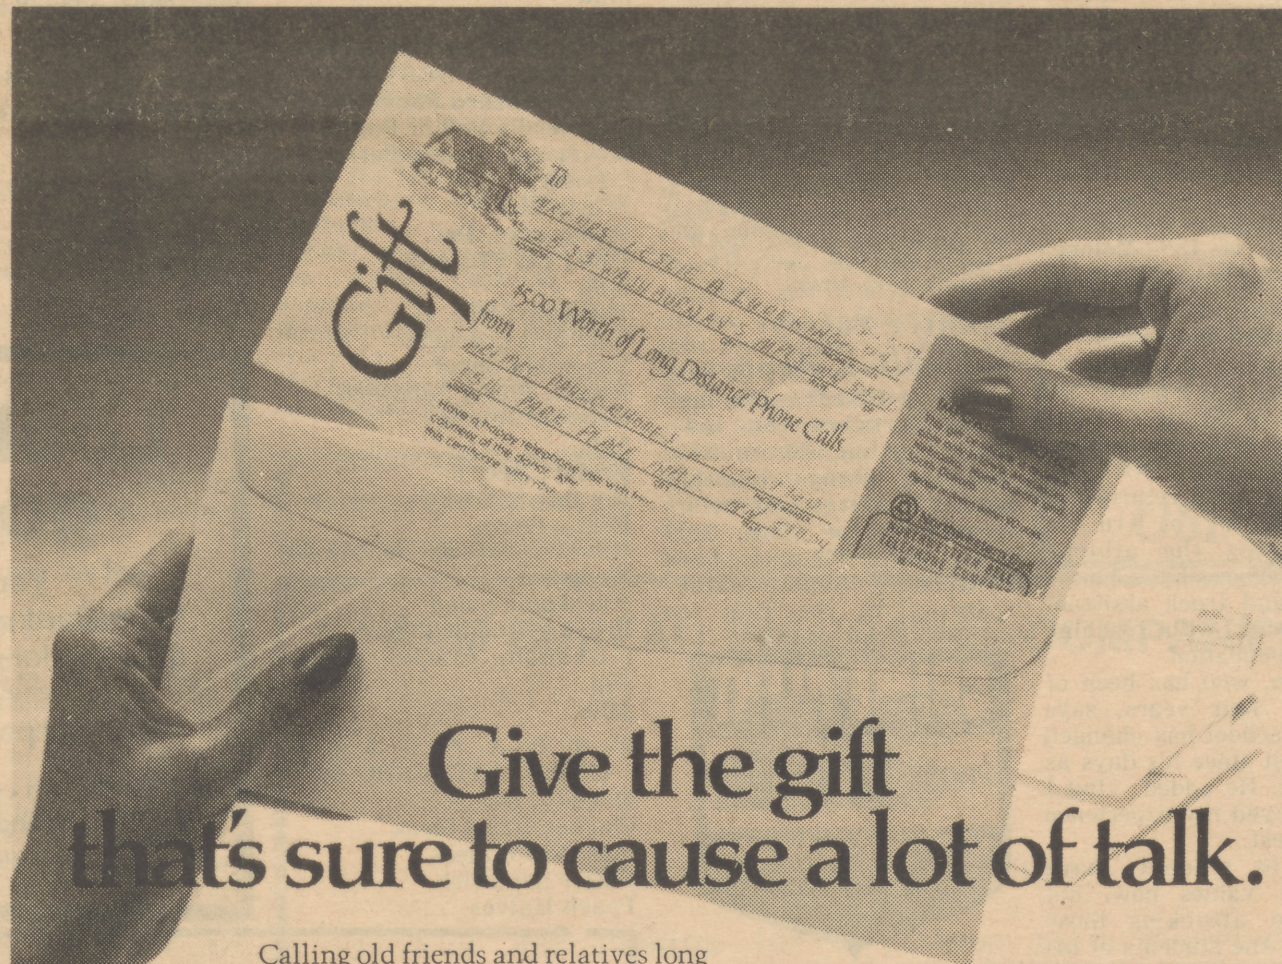

A hike of 20 cents an hour in the federal minimum wage will go into effect January 1, a U.S. Labor Department official in Kansas City recently reminded employers and workers.

Doyle I. Loveridge, who heads the department's Employment Standards Administration in the Mid-America region, said the basic minimum wage, applicable to most workers, will go from $2.10 an hour to $2.30 an hour.

The increase was mandated by Congress when it last amended the Fair Labor Standards Act in May 1974.

Loveridge said that the minimum wage of those workers whose jobs were not covered by the statute prior to 1966 goes from the present $2 an hour to $2.20 on January 1, 1976. They will catch up in 1977, when their minimum, too, goes to $2.30.

Covered agricultural workers, those on larger farms, go to $2 an hour January 1, from their present $1.80. They reach the basic $2.30 in 1978.

Give the gift
that's sure to cause a lot of talk.

Calling old friends and relatives long distance is something just about everyone really looks forward to.

Which is the reason we came up with the idea of a gift certificate from the phone company. One good for $5.00 worth of long distance calls.

And, remember, on the telephone, five bucks goes a long way. For example, when rates are low, the certificate can pay for over 10 calls to the coast.

So, if you've got a deserving friend living in Northwestern Bell territory (Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota), give the gift of Long Distance.

Just call, toll free, 800 228-3535. In Nebraska call, toll free, 800 642-8474.

A FREE GIFT FOR YOU. Order one or more certificates and you'll receive an attractive Christmas and Anniversary Book, free. It features a handy Christmas Card Register plus a Family Events Calendar and a "Wish List" Shopping Guide. A little money goes a long way on the telephone.

Jack Johnson is a physical education instructor here at Des Moines East High School, teaching boys gym.

Johnson is a 1967 graduate of East. He was one of East's outstanding athletes during his attendance here. Jack received eight of nine possible letters (three in football, three in track and two in baseball).

He also earned all-city honors for three years and an all-state honorable mention in his senior year at East playing football. In track, Johnson was a state champion in the high hurdles, tying the state meet mark with a time of 14.2 seconds.

After graduating from East, Johnson received a football scholarship to Iowa State University in Ames. He lettered three times and was ISU's leading ground gainer for one season.

Outside of athletics at Iowa State, Johnson was highly active in Omega Psi Phi, a black social fraternity, and a chess club player. He is now considered to be one of Des Moines' finest black chess players.

Returns to East

Johnson majored in physical education, journalism and history. He chose not to pursue a career with a professional football team (the New Orleans Saints). Johnson returned to East High to aid in rejuvenating the athletic program where he is now a football and track assistant coach along with teaching physical education.

Johnson, who has been at East for four years, says that the school has changed quite a bit since his days as a student. He added, "But I have enjoyed my experience to its fullest."

He said students have different values now, but they are attacking those values as the students of his time did. "It's really great working with young people, getting them as students and friends," Johnson said. "We have great leadership at East and things to me are looking better every year." Other than in the classroom, Johnson said, "You'll probably find me on a chess board in the winter and in the summer on the tennis courts." (Ladies, check this out). Johnson is an eligible bachelor and considered to be a man-around-town.

Silent Reading Session Includes Businessmen

Business executives will participate in the weekly silent reading period in the Des Moines Public Schools next week.

The executives, invited by the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, will join elementary school students and staff members throughout the school district in 15 to 30 minute periods of reading books of their choice.

The program was started November 10, when school district central office administrators joined students and staff members in the 50 elementary schools to bring renewed emphasis on reading for enjoyment.

Dr. James Bowman, executive director of Elementary Education, and Maxine Robinson, supervisor of Reading, said members of other community groups will be invited to participate in the silent reading programs which are held at various times throughout the day, depending on the schedule of activities at individual schools. Most reading sessions are held on Mondays, but a few schools have them on other days of the week.

Techsters Get Involved In Winter Sports

Des Moines Tech High School has many black students participating in winter sports.

On November 28, Tech's girls' basketball team played their hearts out to win in a game against Lincoln High School. The final score was 66-65, Tech's favor.

Kim Tindrell was the leading scorer for that night and she also made the winning basket with five seconds left in the game. Although Kim did not win the game all by herself, she had help from the other forwards.

Donna Murphy was on the job that night. Murphy is a guard. Even though Donna almost fouled out of the game, she was doing her thing on the court, along with the help of Marilyn Hill.

Gaylynn Bruce wasn't shooting like she regularly does, but as a sophomore, she has a long way to go. I feel Gaylynn will be just as good or better than last year's Tech star Yvonne Michelle McGregor. McGregor is now attending Drake University and is playing for the Bulldogs.

With one more year left to do it, Tindrell looks as if she is almost up there. Lulu McQuarry and Shirley Harper are also going to be profitable to Tech's female team.

And the Guys

Tech's young men's team is really in the swing even though they lost their first game against Lincoln. They were not expected to win anyway. This team has several old players and a host of new ones.

Kemp Johnson, a high spirited player, moves and grooves all over the court just to make his shot. Willis Humphrey was the high scorer for that particular game against Lincoln. Willis jumped in and out, up and down to score his points.

We have a young man from out of town who recently moved to Des Moines playing for the Engineers and if I say so myself he is "Dynomite." James McNear was just a foot shorter than most of Lincoln's players, but "Mac" really showed his height.

Mike Moore is still uping his long outside shots to score. Richie Hutchinson is really bad too. D.C. "General" Patton was scoring hard in that game also.

Richardo Duncan came into the game in the last quarter, so he really didn't get to show us what he could do. Fred Akers was 'skying' for a few points.

Although we didn't beat Lincoln we have a lot of games left to play. Good luck to Tech in both young ladies and young men's basketball.

I would also like to congratulate the young ladies who participated in the Miss Gateway Pageant. Diane Johnson, Miss Gateway 1976, Marilyn Hill and Sheri Redd were Techsters in the pageant.

What's New From ISU?

Play is so important to a child's development that it has often been called the work of children... and the toys are their tools of play. But what makes a good toy?

How well a toy functions depends, first of all, on how well it's designed and constructed. It need not be — probably should not be — an exact replica of some growup device.

What is essential is that a toy do what it is supposed to do. A toy steam shovel that can really dig means far more to a boy than an intricate scale model that looks the part, but can't do the job. Choose toys that you can thoroughly examine or try out, or those that come with some guarantee of proper operation.

A good toy will also challenge but not frustrate a youngster. If it's too complicated a child can't satisfy his curiosity about "what makes it go."

It is important that the toy be durable enough to take the kind of treatment it's likely to get in the process of play. The criteria will be different for a trampoline or a tea set, but either should be soundly made of appropriately durable materials. Price should not be a criterion of quality, but the toy which has been well constructed to hold up under hard use, will seldom have a low price.

To have continuing play value, a toy must challenge a child and offer "built in" variety or many possibilities he can imagine into many play situations.

What about suitability of the toy to fit the child's interest and ability? There are no hard and fast lists of toys for children of different ages and stages, but perhaps these suggestions may help:

Up to 9 months - mobiles, rattles, floating toys, soft dolls and animals.

9-18 months - blocks, cups that nest, simple picture books, push-pull toys, pounding boards.

18 mos-3 yrs. - dolls, pots and pans, tea sets, clay, play dough, balls, things to ride, easy wooden puzzles, put together toys, blocks of different sizes and shapes.

3-6 years - hand puppets, tricycle, jungle gyms, cars, boats, paint sets, make believe money, cash registers, play telephone, bike, picture books, sled.

6-9 years - board games, fashion dolls and houses, electric trains, marbles, science sets, construction sets, models, skates, handcrafts.

9-12 years - tool chests, coordination games, sports equipment, make-up kits, magic sets, jigsaw puzzles, card games, chemistry and science sets. Teens - wood burning sets, musical instruments, records, record players, grooming aides, tennis racket, skis, games, radio, tape recorder and tapes.

And last, but not least remember: ... younger siblings have access to toys bought from older children; instruct the child on the proper use of any toy that might cause injury; avoid toys that produce excessive noise; check fabric labels for "flame retardant" or "flame resistant"; avoid shooting games especially those involving darts and arrows; to make sure the parts can't be swallowed; doesn't have filmy wiring; and doesn't pinch fingers or catch hair.

Choose toys carefully as any toy if misused can be dangerous. Any toy which passes the durability and design tests and genuinely provides for play is a good toy, one a child will enjoy and learn from — which is, after all, what toys are all about.

Iowa Bystander SPORTS

"Cable 10 Sports" Begins Dec. 22

DES MOINES — Des Moines area cable television viewers soon will be receiving the greatest collection of taped sports events of the past available, Jim Hoak, Jr., president of Hawkeye Cablevision, announced recently.

The new sports programming, which is being supplied by Continental Communications, Inc., Canton, Ohio, will feature such diverse sports attractions as roller games, boxing, NFL football, college football, horse racing, auto racing, bowling and cowtown rodeo. It will be added to local sports and will be known as Cable 10 Sports.

Under this new program concept, Hawkeye Cablevision will feature at least five hours of videotaped sports programming each day from Continental Communications. The five hours will be repeated each day after midnight, so the sports tastes and viewing habits of all Hawkeye viewers will be satisfied, Hoak added.

Continental Communications owns the rights to over 30,000,000 feet of sports films, plus video tapes from many network sports specials. According to Hoak, this sports programming has been very popular throughout the country and is a very important addition to Hawkeye Cablevision programming in the Des Moines area.

The new sports programming will begin on Monday, December 22, on the cable company's channel 10. Exact daily listings will be available in the Des Moines Tribune, suburban newspapers, certain shoppers, TV Facts magazine, and on Hawkeye's Channel C Program Guide.

can tell you exactly where it is located, and how many students are enrolled. Then you ask them about a school probably just across the street, and they will look at you as if you are asking about Mars.

Remember when those two brothers were running for Texas U., or was it Texas A & M? Well, my point is that all the writers in the pressbox at the Drake Relays knew where their hometown was, and just how to get there. Then, when they heard the little town of Collins, Iowa which is just around the corner from Des Moines, nearly nobody knew where that place was, and that included some Iowa writers, too.

The Cagers

It looks as if there is going to be one big scramble to succeed UCLA as national champs next spring. I watched the Uclans play Indiana last Saturday, and I would have to say that the Bruins are a long way from being even in the last four teams for the honors. This club just didn't seem to have the poise or the precision passing that Wooden's teams had. Maybe they will get it as the season wears on, but they better hurry. With teams like Maryland, Arizona, California, and too many others to mention, the Bruins can't wait until March to get ready, for they may not even win their own league.

In the Big Ten it is who is going to finish second to Indiana. I can't see the Hoosiers getting beaten out of the league title, although they may drop a game along the way. The team that beats them is going to have to have at least two shooters who can hit from way out to pull the guys out of that bunched-up-under-the-basket zone they use most of the time. And with their height and muscle, they are tough, and can start plays to their master

Black Sports Explores Basketball In Europe

For the past 10 years, European basketball has been an outlet for talent unappreciated by any organized American League conference.

The men who export their playmaker, Quinn Buckner. And remember you read it first here.

Back at the Ranch

At home our high school race is going to be a pretty good scramble. Lincoln doesn't seem to know that they are supposed to give up their title. Dowling has the fellow who could well be the top scorer in the city, Tim Lee. Roosevelt can't be sold short, and Hoover had a shot at it last year and might believe that this is their year. East and North seem to have problems.

Somehow it doesn't seem right not to see many blacks on the teams at East when you remember that for years blacks were the bulwark of most of the teams, except tennis and golf and such. But now I wonder if the best players go out for the teams or what? Surely there must be some good material among the blacks over there. Why don't they come out? Maybe someone could enlighten me.

skills to overseas marketplaces frequently profit financially and accrue fringe benefits that erase any pangs of homesickness. Black Sports magazine explores basketball European style in its December issue.

Ambitious agents unable to negotiate profitable American contracts for their clients have been tapping this overseas outlet. One method employed to merchandise the talent is to organize teams to play exhibitions on the continent.

The benefits are from six-figure contracts, complete with furnished luxury apartments and cars, down to the room-and-board deals some are forced to accept. The opportunity is there also to teach basketball in schools, make appearances in sporting goods stores and even commercials.

One of the top agents says "For good ballplayers who are not superstars or products of a zealous publicity campaign, they can negotiate a better deal for themselves by playing abroad."

* ON SPORTS *

The football season is struggling to its close, and the cage bit is trying to come alive. I watched the games last weekend that would decide bowl games, and I thought that if UCLA has ten turnovers against Ohio State, they will get run right out of the stadium. The score will be so high it will look like the Pentagon budget.

I couldn't help but comment on the black athletes playing key roles in games like Texas 8 Texas A & M and Vanderbilt — Tennessee. It was only yesterday that those folks fought to keep blacks out. Now, what would they do without them? It is a good thing those people are spread around, because if all those black athletes were enrolled in the black schools around the country, competition would be rougher than cobblestone paving.

As it is, the black schools are having all the competition among themselves they want. I guess you know Grambling State had to forfeit a game to Prairie View because the Tigers scheduled a game with Oregon State on the day they were to play the Rattlers. This is a look at the situation from about eight hundred miles, so you know how much I know about it. But I guess that Grambling jumped at a chance to play a major school so they could prove themselves.

It is very likely that they made more money, and that is the name of the game. So from here, I would say the league took the right and obvious step, and if I were in Grambling's shoes, I maybe would have done the same thing. Grambling seems to be just about the only one of the black schools that gets much ink in the daily press, but they have a fierce battle among themselves for championships. And you see fellows from all of those schools in the pros.

I think that if schools like Jackson State and Alcorn, as well as Grambling, have any reserve strength, they could play with just about anybody. The way the players come up and do all right in the pros just about proves my argument. I recall how writers in the daily papers will get onto a school Grambling, and they

Iowa's Commission Divided On Competency Question

For the past several months, the seven members of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission have been divided as whether or not the Commission's executive director, Joseph Tate, is competent in the execution of his duties.

Some readers will remember that the same accusations and criticisms were leveled at Alvin Hayes, who is a past executive director of the Commission. Both Hayes and Tate are black.

Changes over 2 years

There have been positive changes, during the past 25 months, in the civil rights agency. In order to make the agency more efficient, the Iowa Civil Rights Act has been changed to provide the power of investigative subpoena, temporary injunction relief; deferral to local commission, an increase in the filing period from 90 — 120 days and a prohibition of discrimination in credit.

To further clarify the powers and procedures of the agency, four of the eight existing chapters of the commission's rules and regulations have been written and the fifth chapter — the operational rules — have been rewritten.

Programs Initiated

A formal training program has been implemented to provide staff with the necessary tools to process complaints faster and with higher quality. Also a formal compliance procedure was made operational. Formalized reporting such as the monthly compliance report was developed and implemented.

More changes resulted in agency manuals like the Operational Manual and the Personnel Manual were written. Equipment, which would assist the staff in processing complaints more rapidly, like a modern power typewriter, dictaphones and cars were purchased. Better and larger office space for the agency was obtained.

Additional Funds

Additional staff and money for commission programs were obtained from the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, CETA, the Governor's Internship Program and the Iowa Board on the Humanities. The sum total of the additional funding for this 25-month period is over $50,000.

More funding had been sought from the American Arbitration Association and was rejected by the seven commissioners while additional assistance has been sought and obtained from ACTION through the VISTA program. This program was approved by the Commission.

For the first time, a table of organization for the agency was developed and new job descriptions written and approved. Public information pamphlets and brochures about the agency and its programs were developed and printed.

The agency has progressed rapidly as a result of administrative activities which have been mentioned and staff dedication. The civil rights agency has been one of two agencies in the United States to significantly reduce its backlog within the past 25 months (146 complaints) while it received a record number of complaints (703) in fiscal year 1975.

From 1974 to 1975, there has been an approximate 54 per cent increase in production. A record number of 754 complaints were closed in the 1975 fiscal year with an annualized benefit to Iowans of approximately $347,000.

The Iowa agency's investigative staff numbers five. In comparison, the Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities, which is one of the five best agencies in the U.S., received 1,219 complaints, closed 934 complaints, had its backlog grow by 285 complaints and had awards totalings $96,160 with an investigative staff of 27.

Connecticut's agency conciliated 66 complaints while Iowa's commission conciliated 63. Does Iowa's agency compare favorably with Connecticut's which is similar in population?

After reviewing the facts, is the executive director of our state's Civil Rights Commission a competent administrator? Are there justifiable grounds for his possible discharge or is there another reason for the five white commissioners requesting his resignation?

There are other questions to be asked. Why was Governor Robert Ray asked during a press conference if he would favor a female as executive director? Why were the only persons who testified about the supposed inadequate service provided by the agency at recent legislative hearings females?

How can an agency, which had complaints in its backlog 25 months ago going back to 1967 and now the oldest case in the backlog was filed in 1974, be regarded as inadequate and inefficient?

Perhaps these questions can be answered at the next meetings of the Commission to be held on Wednesday, December 10 at 3 p.m. and Thursday, December 11 at 9 a.m. The meetings are scheduled for the Hamilton Building located at 301 East Seventh Street.

The Commission will decide the fate of its current executive director, Tate, at its first meeting. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

The Right Breakfast

In France, breakfast is usually a croissant and coffee; in Holland, add a piece of see-through cheese (it's cut so thin); in Poland, a piece of Polish sausage. It's prosciutto and figs in Italy, eggs and bacon in England, and believe it or not, dried seaweed and fish to match in Japan. In America, cereal is popular at the morning meal. To make sure you're getting the right breakfast, full of vitamins, try a cereal breakfast which includes fortified oat flakes.

His Interest: Helping Minorities

Basil Townes, Sr. has been selected from fifteen applicants to become the assistant director of the Des Moines Apprenticeship Outreach Program. For over two years he served as a member of the Administrative Board of the

Basil Townes

Des Moines Area Construction Training Program, which serves as the advisory board for the Apprenticeship Outreach Program.

His job will consist of recruitment and preparing minority youths to enter the construction industry apprenticeship programs.

The Townes family resides at 705-Twenty-eighth Street. Townes is a native of Des Moines. He is a Des Moines Technical High School graduate and attended Grandview Junior College. He joined the U.S. Navy in June, 1964 and returned to Des Moines in 1968.

After getting out of the Navy, Townes worked at John Deere for a short while before entering into the Bricklayers Apprenticeship Program in 1969. He completed four years of apprenticeship training and then became the second black union bricklayer in the state of Iowa.

Townes is interested in helping qualified minorities get started in the construction industry. He believes that minorities have a better chance now of getting into the trades than he did, and should take advantage of the opportunity.

Townes is confident that he can prepare and assist minorities in becoming good competent craftsmen.

Bishop Speaks

Stresses New Era In African Missions

The episcopal head of the 12th Episcopal District African Methodist Episcopal Church, embracing Ghana, Liberia, Nigeria, declares that "the AME Zion church shall remain in the vanguard of Christian evangelization and black liberation for the 'Fatherland'."

Rev. Ruben L. Speaks announces that the "Friends of African Missions" AME Zion Church will have Carl T. Rowan, noted journalist and commentator, as keynote speaker for its Centennial Awards Banquet, January 8, at 7 p.m. Statler Hotel, New York City. This banquet is for the benefit of African development.

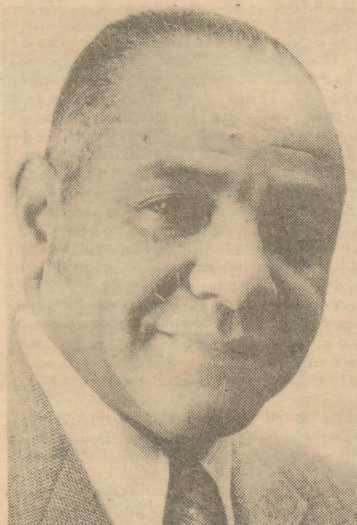

Rev. Speaks declares that Africa, with its status of nationhood, is casting about for a "dynamic religion" to accompany its establishing a new Pan-Africanism. He envisions "the emergence of a Christian Pan-Africanism growing out of redoubling our efforts to extend and strengthen our missionary presence."

Bishop Speaks stressed that Africa is aware of the need to build a new culture that will permit it to enter fully into the age of science and technology. He details that the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church is dedicated to serve the new Africa through the following steps: vigorous support of liberation efforts to

Toys For Tots Drive Is In Full Swing

The Marine Corps Reserves' 28th Annual "Toys For Tots" Drive is in full swing through December 17 this year.

Kick-off ceremonies were held on December 3 at Mister Steak on 86th Avenue in Clive with personal appearances of KCCI-TV's Dolph Pulliam at 10 a.m. and WHO-TV's Duane Elliott and "Floppy" at 2 p.m. Also attending were students from various schools in the Greater Des Moines, United States Marine Corps Reservists, and non-other-than Santa Claus himself.

"Children's lives can be brightened by the mere presence of a toy in their arms," says Captain Tom Peachey, inspector-instructor of the local Marine Reserve Unit here in Des Moines.

The Toys For Tots Drive is an annual collection of toys, preferably new or slightly used, donated by the general public and distributed to less fortunate and otherwise forgotten children. The toys will be collected and sorted by the local Marine Corps Reserve personnel and distributed by the Salvation Army, Ridewell-Riverside Community Center, and the St. Vincent DePaul store. If repairs are needed the Des Moines Technical High School Vocational Industrial Clubs of America have volunteered their services.

Des Moines Radio Station KIOA will select a movie to be shown at the Capri Theater on the evening of December 18. The price of admission is one toy. Also each kiddie that brings in a toy to Mr. Steak in Clive will receive a free children's dinner.

The Student Council members of Lincoln High School are sponsoring a Christmas dance at Lincoln High with the price of admission for students there being a toy for Toys For Tots.

Other drop-off points for Toys For Tots are all Seven-Eleven stores in Des Moines where free hot chocolate or ice cream will be given for a toy, also the Richmond-Gordman stores and the local Marine Reserve Unit at Fort Des Moines.

Toys For Tots chairperson this year is Angie Dickinson, star of the television series "Police Woman."

HOLLYWOOD, CA — Hosea Wilson, vice president of 20th Century Records R&B Division, has been set to be the honorary chairman of the Second Annual High Blood Pressure Awards Benefit Dinner and Show, that's set for Sunday, December 7, at The Hollywood Palladium.

Additionally, Maestro Barry White, 20th Century Records super star, has agreed to take part in this Second Annual Awards Benefit Dinner and Show, for the High Blood Pressure Foundation.

The United High Blood Pressure Foundation was founded in 1974 by Dr. Mays, and Joseph Dyer, community relations director for KNXT Channel-2, who serves as president of the foundation.

According to Joyce Watkins, executive director of the High Blood Pressure Foundation, "this year's awards benefit dinner and show, will be a paramount factor in aiding our cause, thanks to the many people who have volunteered their services and help."

In addition to Wilson and White of 20th Century Records, aiding the Foundation, other name celebrities include O. C. Smith, Brenda Lee Eager, Lincoln Kilpatrick, The Knockers, Esther Rolle, Ja'Net Dubois, William Marshall, Abbey Lincoln, Gloria Hendry, Stack Pierce, Richard and Willie, Vivian Bonnell, and a host of others.

The awards for those selected to be awarded, will be provided by City Councilman Dave Cunningham, a strong supporter of the Foundation since its inception.

Taylor Finishes Album, Sets '76 Concert Tour

DALLAS, Texas — Johnnie Taylor and his producer Don Davis have put the finishing touches on his first Columbia Records album release, which at this time has not been given a title or a specific date of release; however, both the veteran hit recording artist and his producer are very happy with the finished product that adds a new dimension to the vocal talents of Taylor.

Taylor cancelled all personal appearances and concert dates to concentrate on completing this album that should become a milestone in his recording career, which dates back to his replacing the late great Sam Cooke as the lead singer with the ever popular gospel group, The Highway Q.C.'s, prior to his recording of "Who's Making Love," which was the singer's first national hit, as well as his first million seller.

In talking about his new album, Taylor stated, "I'm happy with everything in the album, Don and I had complete freedom to come up with what we thought was the best for me and my fans at this stage of my career."

Pausing for a moment the immaculately dressed singer then said, "If there's such a word as 'Eargasm', I think this would spell the album out, and probably make a mind-blowing album title."

For the remaining months of 1975, Johnnie Taylor will be approving contracts for his 1976 concert tour schedule, which will start in January, and hopefully at that time his new Columbia album release will be on the market.
