CELEBRATES BUS BOYCOTT

MONTGOMERY, ALA. — A youth rally, an art show and a "gospel extravaganza" marked the closing Sunday of the 20th anniversary of the Montgomery bus boycott.

Black leaders from around the country discussed future economic, educational and political struggles last Saturday.

GETS KIDNEY APPROVAL
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Howard University Hospital has received formal approval from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as a kidney transplant hospital.

POOR COURT HELP
WASHINGTON, D.C. — A Justice Department study has found that there had been only "token" compliance with the 1972 Supreme Court ruling that required a court appointed lawyer to represent any poor person who faced a possible jail term.

"The Sixth Amendment right to counsel is an empty one for many defendants," the study said.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA. — A suit has been filed in U.S. District Court here accusing Deer and Company of discrimination.

The suit was filed by Mohinder Teja who alleges he failed to gain promotion and later was dismissed because of his race and national origin.

Holds Off On Firing Of Tate

DES MOINES—Faced with threats of legal action charging racial and sex discrimination, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission backed off on the issue of firing Joseph Tate, executive director of the commission.

Instead, six of seven commissioners, Joseph Garcia of Iowa City did not attend, voted unanimously to have an outside agency to evaluate the commission and its director.

Board Adopts Integration Plan

DAVENPORT, IA.—The Davenport Board of Education, prompted by intensified pressure by the State Department of Public Instruction (DPI), and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has adopted a program designed to desegregate three inner-city elementary schools.

The program also increases minority group staff members and improves programs at schools with high minority enrollments.

A citizens' committee was approved to be appointed to study the school district's boundary changes and new educational programs. In an attempt to reduce racial imbalance last March, the Davenport board refused to appoint a citizens' committee to formulate desegregation plans.

The program changes aim to bring the district into compliance with DPI guidelines within three years. A DPI study of minority isolation in the schools spurred speculation that the report could lead to a lawsuit or the cancellation of $1.5 million annually in federal aid.

BASIC Warns UN General Assembly

The Black Americans in Support of Israel Committee (BASIC) warned the General Assembly that the resolution on Zionism not only "obscures the roots and nature of racism," but "would sacrifice the struggle against racism upon the altar of political advantage."

Writing to the heads of all United Nations delegations, Bayard Rustin, director of BASIC, deplored the implications of Israel's illegitimacy and declared that the move would "undeniably encourage and justify anti-Semitism" and "disgrace the memory and degrade the suffering and struggle of generations of blacks who struggled against racism."

Another veteran civil rights leader, Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., also stressed that Zionism espouses the legitimate goals of other national liberation movements: statehood and self-determination.

The attack upon Zionism thus "amounts to the grossest form of anti-Semitism," he declared, "since it is clear that the term Zionism is used by its opponents as a code word for Judaism and Jews."

Jordan, who is director of the National Urban League, also pointed out that the resolution was "rammed

Charges Eagle Iron Works Of Employment Discrimination

DES MOINES — The United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) Monday began the trial in U.S. District Court in Des Moines of EEOC v. Eagle Iron Works, et al.

The government has alleged that Eagle Iron Works has violated the Civil Rights Act of 1964 by discriminating against blacks in employment on the basis of their race.

This case has its origins in the charge of discrimination filed by Ira Hicks, a former employee of Eagle Iron Works, concerning blacks being assigned to the Foundry and subsequently discharged due to their race.

Steps in Filing

Hicks testified Tuesday that he had filed a complaint with the Des Moines Human Rights Commission and the Iowa Civil Rights Commission. He later filed a complaint with the Federal commission, EEOC.

An employee of Eagle Iron

Works for 12 years, Hicks had reached the highest position in the Foundry for a worker and "demanded better working conditions." He was dismissed after making the demands. Several other employees were dismissed.

First In Iowa

The EEOC, through its Chicago Litigation Center, filed this lawsuit over two years ago in May of 1973. The trial is the first employment discrimination trial held in the Federal Courts in Iowa concerning a broad range of employment practices which are alleged to discriminate on the basis of race.

Specifically, the EEOC's complaint alleges that blacks are assigned to the Foundry and not to the other divisions of Eagle Iron Works; that Eagle Iron Works engages in practices which have the effect of locking blacks into the Foundry and denying them opportunities for promotions.

Loose Talk By A District Judge

Most public officials exercise decorum and good judgment in their public utterances. And this is particularly true of judges most of whom have had long experience and association with all classes of people and in many ticklish situations. Ordinarily we just look upon a judge as somebody.

Apparently District Judge John Stone of Mason City is one of the judges who did not meet that standard of decorum where he had occasion to sound off by using the word "nigger" pointing out that he was directing a statement toward a man he knew in Mason City. This occurred before a committee of legislators, some of whom chastised him for his remarks.

Mason City is one of the towns in Iowa that has a clean record in regard to civil rights, even as I visited there in 1923 and have a number of friends, both white and Negro citizens.

Such remarks by a district judge are uncalled for and no Negro would like to appear before him in either a criminal or civil case.

Private Colleges Are Doing Well?

A study by the American Association of Colleges, headed by Howard R. Bowen, former president of University of Iowa, has been completed. The report showed that private colleges have not suffered the severe financial crisis that had been predicted and most of them see a bright future.

The study ranges from Dartmouth, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Fisk and Oberlin colleges. Fisk is one of the older predominate Negro colleges.

The results of the report came as a surprise in view of the plight of many private schools and colleges that have been forced to trim their staff and reduce other expenses in order to continue operation.

In fact, a number of Negro college presidents met with President Ford several weeks ago in order to explain the plight of their schools.

The federal government has given more money to schools in recent years than ever before, but in many instances private contributions have slowed up because of that fact. Then too, most of these small schools have fewer wealthy graduates who make large contributions.

Negro Business Has Problems

During former President Nixon's administration he announced that as a part of his program to better the plight of Negroes, emphasis should be placed on improving Negro business. Funds were set aside and an organization set up to further the cause.

In a few spots where the Negro population is large and concentrated, some success has been achieved. In many smaller communities, in most cases, it has been disastrous.

Experience has shown that in many instances these poor businesses have been able to start with little knowledge of how to conduct a business or with the false notion that Negro patronizing is sufficient to maintain them.

Most Negro businesses are small and like the neighborhood grocery stores, which thrived in years gone by, find themselves gobbled up by chain stores. These small stores charged more, often extend credit to customers who now drive to the chain stores for lower prices even though the distance is out of the neighborhood.

Today there are few ethnic operated businesses. A few Italians survive because of the particular commodity that they sell, but even the old Jewish stores are few and far between.

The day has come when the big concerns, whether grocery stores or newspapers, squeeze out the little ones and even those newspapers and magazines like "Ebony", "Jet" or even the "New Iowa Bystander" could not survive without the advertising bought by the large business concerns.

these dolls will be given to youngsters whose families might not otherwise afford one at Christmas time.

Central National has followed the display of new Christmas dolls for a number of years and is a treat to anyone who comes downtown and sees them.

FBI: A Kremlin of Dupes

By Sherwood Ross

The disclosure that the FBI sent a letter to the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. urging him to commit suicide is another fresh proof of how the federal government is becoming the greatest menace to the life and liberties of the American people.

From the FBI to the IRS, and from the CIA to the Pentagon, agency after agency of the Federal government is committing acts of illegality and wrong-doing that are worthy of a totalitarian society.

In the case of Dr. King, since it now appears incontrovertible that the FBI urged him to kill himself, the question must now be asked whether the FBI played any role in his murder in Memphis in 1968. Far-fetched, you say? If Dr. King had taken his life at the instigation of the viscous letter mailed to him by the FBI, the FBI, at the least, would have been an accomplice in the killing. And the Bureau certainly tried. As Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said, "That was certainly no Christmas card."

Moreover, the FBI's letter was not an isolated incident. It committed 25 separate acts of harassment, all of them illegal, in its systematic campaign to bring Dr. King down. When these acts failed, Dr. King was mysteriously murdered. Moreover, the FBI considered planting stories that Dr. King was patronizing a white-owned hotel in Memphis. Such stories, conceivably, might have influenced Dr. King to stop at the popular black-owned Lorraine Hotel, where he was in fact murdered by a sniper's bullet for the high crime of stepping out on his balcony.

Not only did the late J. Edgar Hoover hate the popular civil rights leader, but under Hoover the FBI waged a war of disruption and incitement to violence against a number of black protest groups, including Chicago's Blackstone Rangers and Jersey City's Black Panthers. The FBI also — despite advance warnings that James Meredith was going to be shot on June 6, 1966, in Mississippi — failed to guard him to prevent the shooting even though its agents were just five minutes from the scene.

The FBI crusade against Dr. King, using tactics of deceit and treachery that would have done justice to the Russian secret police, brings to mind other examples of FBI wrong-doing. Exhibit No. 1 was the FBI's failure to notify the Warren Commission that alleged assassin Lee Harvey Oswald had been, at the least, contacted by an FBI agent shortly before President Kennedy's murder, and was perhaps a paid FBI informant. Exhibit No. 2 was the FBI's efforts to make Blackstone Ranger chief Jeff Fort think members of his own party were attempting to kill him. The FBI apparently hoped that Fort might stroke first.

It's time for the American people to ask some hard questions:

What role did the FBI play in the murder of Dr. King? Why wasn't he protected by the government, instead of harassed?

What is the true role of the FBI in the murder of President Kennedy?

What was the role, if any, of the FBI in the shooting of James Meredith?

What was the role, if any, of the FBI in the murder of Sen. Robert Kennedy?

Is it possible that the FBI — once highly revered by the American people — has become a private, Secret Police force that has been committing crimes to satisfy the illegal whims of its leaders?

Ponder, if you will, the fact — as brought out in a recent issue of The Atlantic Monthly — that J. Edgar Hoover regarded his no. 2 aide as so "unstable" mentally that he felt compelled to fire him. Ponder whether dangerous and demented individuals inside the FBI weren't possibly engaged in a lawless orgy of violence and murder against the civil rights movement's leadership?

Surely, every FBI agent guilty of crimes against Dr. King should be fired and prosecuted to the full extent of the law for these crimes.

Surely, Sen. Church's committee should undertake a sweeping probe of the FBI. Surely, FBI chief Clarence Kelley should launch his own probe immediately.

Surely, Justice Department head Levi should swing into action to create a probe of his own.

Surely, President Ford should demand action today to clean up the FBI.

The irony of ironies in the entire sordid King tragedy was that the FBI was attempting to justify its own crimes on grounds that Dr. King was being influenced by Communists. No proof of those connections has ever surfaced, but assuming that the Communist strategy is to destroy the liberties of the American people, there were a lot of Kremlin dupes in the FBI headquarters building in Washington, D.C., and El Dupo No. 1 was J. Edgar Hoover.

Better Driving Habits

Help Gas Watchers Efficiency

The AAA Motor Club of Iowa claims that two of the major causes of poor fuel mileage for many motorists are poor driving techniques and poor planning. Studies conducted during the past year have shown that gasoline efficiency could be increased by as much as 44 per cent if driving habits were improved over a typical stop-and-go commuter run.

The AAA Club states that good planning is the best introduction to good winter driving techniques, and recommends the following tips:

If you own more than one car, use the most economical one for as much of the driving as possible, particularly for commuting to and from work, or local stop-and-go driving.

Snow tires are recommended for Iowa winter driving. Tires with a normal or balding tread are not only a hazard on wet or slick highways, but wheels spinning in the snow are a tremendous waste of fuel.

Plan Routes

Plan driving routes to avoid local bottlenecks such as extra-long lights and congested streets. Use less-traveled roads and free-flowing highways whenever possible, relying on traffic reports over your car radio for assistance. This will help you avoid fuel-robbing, stop-and-go traffic as much as possible. Avoid rush hours and other peak traffic times when possible.

On long trips start early in the morning to avoid heavy traffic and in cold winter weather-reduce long warm-up by driving slowly rather than idling a cold engine. Time your pleasure driving to avoid rush hour traffic in urban areas, or plan your trip so that meal times coincide with these peak traffic periods.

Unnecessary extra weight in your trunk will cut fuel economy. So keep your baggage to a minimum when taking a trip. Packing baggage on a roof rack also creates fuel-robbing air resistance.

Even while driving you should continue planning. Look well ahead for any slowdowns or red lights. Pace yourself to reach lights when they turn green. A car uses a lot of fuel when accelerating quickly from a complete stop. Keep a good space in front of you so you can adjust your speed gradually without closing the gap on the car ahead. If stops are necessary, brake gradually.

Smooth footwork is crucial to good gasoline mileage as well as a safe driving technique. Best economy is achieved by smooth steady acceleration pressure for cruising conditions. Gradual acceleration and braking also are helpful.

You'll get better mileage when you travel at moderate speeds. High speeds require more gasoline to overcome greater air resistance. Each car's engine has a speed at which it operates most efficiently. Generally this ideal is under 55 mph. Observe the 55 mph speed limit.

When approaching a hill, build up speed early to avoid fuel-robbing hard acceleration on the upgrade. When accelerating with a manual transmission, shift up as soon as possible without causing the engine to "lug" or stumble.

The Motor Club of Iowa firmly believes that the Gas Watchers goal of making five gallons do the work of six can be achieved if all motorists practice better driving habits.

transfers and cleaner and higher paying positions.

Finally, the government has alleged that the company has maintained a policy of discharging blacks because of their race. The policies and practices filed in the complaint include but are not limited to:

- Failing and refusing to hire and assign blacks to job openings on the same basis as white applicants;

- Maintaining a policy of assigning blacks to the lowest paying, dirtiest and most hazardous jobs at the Des Moines facility;

- Maintaining racially segregated departments and lines of progression which exclude black applicants and employees from equal employment opportunities;

- Maintaining an interdepartmental transfer and job bidding policy which excludes blacks for advancement opportunities.

- Recognizing and bargaining with a racially segregated collective bargaining unit which operates to exclude and deprive blacks of equal employment opportunities;

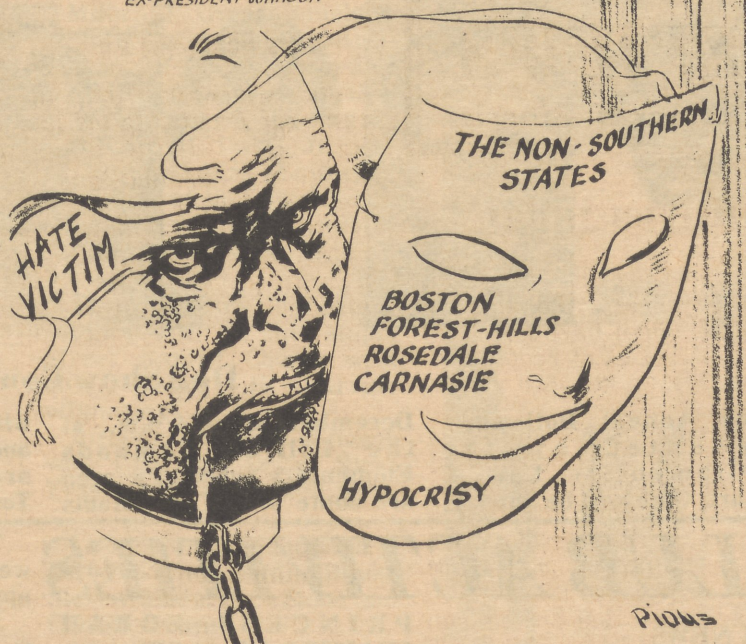

- Maintaining racially segregated job classifications, thereby classifying and excluding blacks from equal employment opportunities;

- Failing and refusing to apply equal standards to discharge and discipline of black employees.

U.S. Commission on Civil Rights Urges Federal Financing of New Low-Cost Housing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congress should authorize at least 600,000 new units of low- and moderate-income housing each year from now until 1978, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said in a report released Wednesday.

Titled "Twenty Years After Brown: Equal Opportunity in Housing," the 188-page report criticizes the President and Congress for abandoning the goals of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, which called for the production or rehabilitation of 6 million units of federally-subsized housing by 1978.

The Commission pointed out that minorities and women encounter discrimination in the housing market and face disproportionate hardships because of a shortage of low-cost housing.

"The effect of discrimination in housing has caused untold suffering for minorities and women, especially those at the lower end of the economic scale. It has kept a much large proportion of minorities and women from acquiring any but the worst housing available," the Commission said.

The Commission charged that the Federal government has been "timid in its approach" to stimulating the production of low-income housing in areas in which whites reside. It said that Federal agencies have failed to enforce strongly laws against discrimination in housing and that Federal policy has been a major factor in creating segregated neighborhoods.

Stating that a metropolitan remedy for segregation in central-city public housing is "both feasible and necessary," the Commission criticized the Justice Department for failing to support this policy.

"The position taken by the Solicitor General indicates that the Federal government is still unwilling to take effective action to promote residential desegregation," the Commission said.

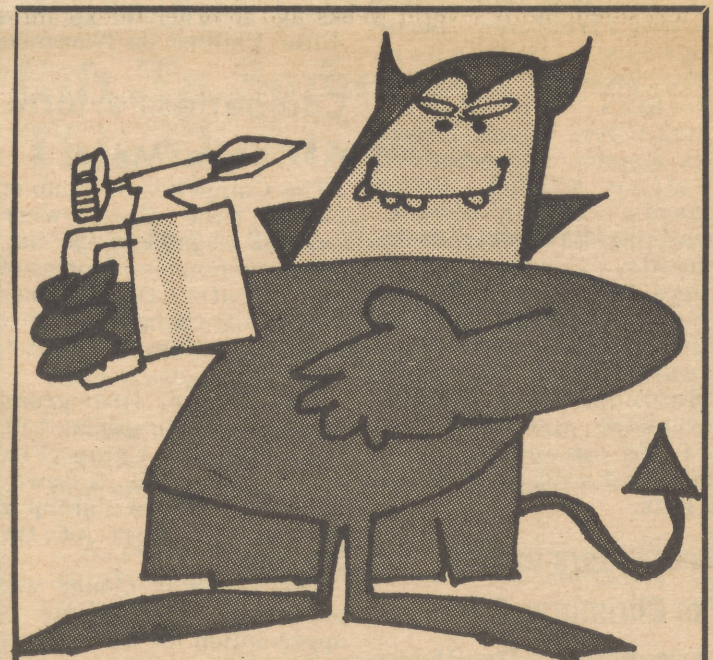

The new report is the last volume in a series reviewing the status of women and minorities in the 20 years since the Supreme Court's decision in Brown v. Board of Education. Other volumes have covered economics education, and the historical background of the decision.

The Commission on Civil Rights is an independent, bipartisan, factfinding agency concerned with the rights of minorities and women. Chairman Arthur S. Flemming is also commissioner on Aging of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

MEDICAL SCHOOL APPLICANTS DECLINE

WASHINGTON — The number of minority students entering the nation's medical schools declined this year for the first time since 1969, the Association of American Medical Colleges has reported.

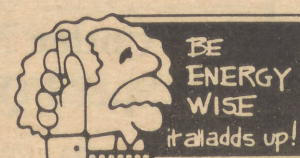

Toll-free telephone service is available to Veterans Administration regional offices from 312 cities in 45 states.

Several months ago Mrs. Lizzie Fullilove, owner of the Fullilove School of Music, 720 Sumner Street, suffered a broken hip. She remained at American Nursing Home for a period of time and then returned home. Ironically, the last time she saw the club members was when she suffered her broken hip at a meeting.

Stoner Announces Plans For GOP Preparation

DES MOINES — Republican State Chairman Tom Stoner has announced plans for an aggressive organizational effort throughout Iowa during the coming months to fortify party strength in preparation for the 1976 campaigns.

Stoner, who stressed the importance of building a strong party organization at the county and local levels, said Republican State Co-Chairman Margaret McDonald of Cherokee has been named to oversee the organizational effort and appointed as chairman of the newly-created Organizational Task Force.

The task force, Stoner said, has been charged with responsibility for working in about 30 counties "where a strong Republican organization is essential to the success of our candidates in the 1976 elections." He said task force members will assist local leaders in recruiting precinct leaders and encouraging Republicans to assume leadership roles in various party programs.

Selection of counties in which the task force will work, Stoner said, was made on the basis of "importance that the respective counties have in our campaign plans next year. Many of the counties which were chosen have relatively strong organizations, but it is imperative that we ensure that these organizations are as strong as possible."

Stoner said the task force members, who are serving on a voluntary basis, are "experienced in the area of political organization. They all have been involved in either political campaigns or organizational work on the county level."

Members of the task force are Kenton Allen, Columbus Junction; Dennis Bailey, Creston; Mildred Elliott, Mt. Ayr; former House Speaker William H. Harbor, Henderson; Mrs. Nancy Knight, Cedar Rapids; Mrs. Sharon Nail, Iowa Falls; State Rep. David Readinger, Urbandale; Steve Roberts, Des Moines; Doris Tellier, Humboldt; and Bennett A. December has been declared Christmas Seal Month in Iowa with a proclamation signed this week by Governor Robert D. Ray in conjunction with the 1975 Christmas Seal Campaign of the American Lung Association of Iowa, formerly the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association.

Upon signing the proclamation, Governor Ray urged all citizens to support the Christmas Seal appeal of the American Lung Association of Iowa by answering their Christmas Seal letters.

Drake University professor Dr. Eddie V. Easley, right, presents a $500 scholarship to Derek Batts of Detroit, a freshman in Drake's College of Business Administration. The scholarship was awarded to Batts by the Zeta Kappa Lambda chapter of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, Inc., on the basis of his academic performance during high school and at Drake during the 1975 summer session. Looking on, from left, are Everett Mays, chapter

Students Give Reasons For Attending East

Have you ever wondered why some black students choose the high school they wish to attend and some of them picked East High?

My reason for selecting East High School was the Des Moines school's music department. I feel that East has the best high school vocal music department in Des Moines. Also, I feel East has a pretty nice sewing department.

Recently, I wondered why some of the other black students came to East so I polled twenty-seven of the students to get their reasons. Fourteen seniors were interviewed.

Michael Carter, stated "I did not want to come to East at first but after I began attending, East became my top choice."

"In the first place, East was the school I wanted to go to," said Norman Cason, "because I felt I could get a better education here. I'm glad I came here."

Fred Lyle feels that East offers an opportunity to get a broad education in preparation for college. He added that East offers an extensive program of music education.

To get a good education was the reason Betty Williams decided to attend East. Gail Williams stated that she knew more people at East and the high school presents good opportunities to her.

Dwight Reed did not want to be surrounded by too many of his people and Bill Gordon did not want to be with his other friends who attend other Des Moines schools. Gordon also attends East because it is close to his home.

"I came to East because it has good sports," said Kevin Cavil. Michael Wortham feels East has a better athletic program than other Des Moines high schools. Cavil adds that the ladies are nice and Wortham likes the close distance between his home and East.

Vonille Jones feels East gives the few blacks attending the school a better chance to experience social functions together. "I think that East is a pretty nice school to come to and most of the teachers are fair," said Carletta Burkett.

"East was closer," states Melody Duplanti, "and I did not dig getting up at six o'clock to catch the bus to go clear across town." Michell Hawkins thinks East has good art and clothing departments. Terri James gives a summary thought that East is a nice school to come to.

Ten of the junior class students gave reasons for attending East.

Brian Daye said that Des Moines Tech did not have the co-op area he wanted. The area was music. Brian Harris was told by his mother to attend East.

Pam Turner, Michael Bailey, Bill Batts and Theresa Balance attend East because the school is close to their homes. Batts added that his father is a former Scarlet. Teresa Shepard likes some of the high school classes.

Donnie Murray feels that attending East is a great opportunity. "I'm looking forward to playing baseball and tennis," said Jack Murray. He adds that East is closer to his home and "it's a together school."

"East is the school I picked for I didn't want to go out of my way. Besides, I wanted to play basketball and football," said Chico Lewis.

Sophomore Dennis Gunn wanted to play football for East and because it was the closest school he became a Scarlet. Another sophomore,

Blacks Participate In Tech's Drill Team

Des Moines Tech has a lot of different organizations, like Junior ROTC, in which a lot of black students have joined and later dissolved their memberships.

Some black students got out of the Junior ROTC program because they didn't want to get haircuts. Some blacks presently in the ROTC program are Gary Grant, Bill Caivel, Darla Hayes and Leslie Barber.

Tech's ROTC unit also has a drill team, Blackman's Rifles, which can really "get down." They have drilled against about a hundred other drill teams. This summer, the drill unit won two awards and are the Mid-West Drill and Veterans of Foreign Wars champions.

The efforts of the Marine Corps Junior ROTC drill team really brought up some Tech school spirit.

There are some black students in the Marine Corps drill unit. They are Kish Anderson, Walter Gates and Toni James, a black female.

Eddie Robinson, another member of the Junior ROTC at Tech, completed along with the Tech unit against other drill teams. Tech's drill unit placed first and Robinson did solo competition against about a hundred or more other young men.

Robinson placed first in the drill competition.

Tech's ROTC drill team marched when President Gerald Ford came to Iowa during the state fair. You might come to one of Tech's basketball games and the Jr. ROTC might be marching or presenting the flag and colors before the boys' game.

Business in the Black

By Charles E. Belle

New Law to Benefit Blacks

At the beginning of 1975 a new law beneficial to one out of every three workers in America became effective. Those workers not currently participating in a qualified retirement program can begin immediately to prepare themselves financially for retirement with investments that are fully-tax-deductible.

Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) are particularly promising for people who are employed part-time and sometimes in semi-skilled and unskilled positions. Because Blacks make up a disproportionate amount of these type jobs, IRA is a valuable plan for low income people.

Right now any person who is or has been employed this year can start to set aside up to 15 per cent of their earnings to a maximum of $1500 yearly, tax-deductible. Furthermore, any interest, dividends or capital gains accumulated in the plan will not be taxed until they are distributed. Retirement withdrawal can begin as early as age 59½.

However, you can still start and/or contribute up until age 70½ if you must start a little late in life. In the event of death or disability withdrawals may be made before age 59½. IRA will not affect your Social Security benefits. Furthermore, Social Security contributions do not make you ineligible for IRA.

If you work for a living and you are not now participating in a qualified retirement program, then you are eligible to start your own Individual Retirement Account. Because the plan stays in the same bank you do not have to be concerned if you change jobs.

Many small business owners and employees as well as barbers, beauticians, clerks, cashiers, taxi drivers, tax accountants, dentists and doctors are eligible to start an IRA. Their money can multiply by buying stocks and bonds, insurance annuities or in an interest paying bank account.

An IRA tax-shelter investment program of $3 a week will grow to $2,000 in ten years at the current bank paid interest rate of five per cent. This would be almost $20,000 if an individual took full advantage of the law and deducted only $28.84 a week for his retirement.

Those young enough to start now and voluntarily maintain the program for thirty years at the maximum contribution of $1500 a year can expect $106,452. Your bank trust officer is available to assist you in establishing an IRA program.

Drake Frosh Has Weather Service

Drake University freshman Dan Siegel of Whitefish Bay, Wisconsin, is sharing his hobby of weather forecasting with Drake students and the Des Moines community via telephone taped messages.

Siegel's one-minute forecasts, which also include interesting facts on weather and weather safety, may be heard by dialing 271-2882 five days a week, 24 hours a day. Siegel updates his weather information twice each day, 8 a.m. and 7 p.m., when he confers with the meteorologist at the Des Moines Airport, marks his weather maps and tapes his messages.

Since beginning his service earlier this fall, Dan has received an average of 100 calls each day and up to 150 calls in periods of significant weather change. He is volunteering this service to the Des Moines community and says his interest in weather was fostered during his last two years in high school when he worked in Milwaukee with Paul Joseph, a professional meteorologist, who televises weather information for WTMJ-TV there.

A graphic arts major at Drake, Siegel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Siegel, 1722 E. Cumberland Boulevard, Whitefish Bay.

D.M. School Board To Act On DMEA Contract

The Des Moines School Board is expected to act at its Dec. 16 meeting on the contract negotiated with the Des Moines Education Association calling for a budget increase of 6.73 per cent for pay and fringe benefits of teachers in the Des Moines Public Schools.

The contract, which would cover the 1976-77 school year, would go into effect August 15 if ratified by the board. The DMEA membership approved the contract in a vote announced Dec. 2.

The starting salary for a new teacher with no experience, under the contract, would be $9,350, an increase of 5.6 per cent over the $8,850 for the current year. Top salary under the contract, a teacher with a doctoral degree and at least 16 years experience, would be $18,813.

Adding the increases teachers will receive by advancing steps on the salary schedule, increases in supplemental pay and the provision for paying a portion of the cost of prescription drugs, the increase amounted to 6.73 per cent over the expenditures for like items in the current budget. The total budget increases amounted to $1,877,291.

The contract, first one negotiated under the new state collective bargaining law which covers all public employees, lists procedures for evaluation, transfer, staff reduction and inservice training. It also outlines grievance procedures.

A contract also has been negotiated with teacher associates, but the ratification election has not yet been held. Contracts are still to be negotiated with the secretarial staff, food service workers, custodians, bus drivers and craftsmen.

A limited number of copies of the agreement are available and may be obtained from Dr. Donald Prine, negotiations coordinator, at the school board office, 1800 Grand Avenue. When the supply is exhausted, a copy will be available for inspection at the school board office.

LOOK ON SPORTS

This is a time when a fellow has to scrap to come up with anything worth reading. I missed so many fine chances to comment on events that happened during the football season. And, speaking of football, did you happen to catch the game Saturday night between Florida A&M and Kentucky State? That A&M club could play with just about anybody, except maybe the big boys like Ohio State and such. They had a runner who ran so low as he went into the openings that his head seemed to scrape the ground, and at 215, he was harder to stop than a greased pig.

The Rattler defense was something to see. They had men around the ball all night, whether it was being carried or thrown. They were a well-coached team, and their coach, a former Ohio State player and assistant, should be proud of his club. The Kentucky team was in over their heads, but one could see that they had a better club than the score showed. The final score was 40-10.

Myths About Black Quarterbacks

I was interested in comments by a player in the AFC about black quarterbacks. He said that people keep saying that blacks can't pass, and yet, the pros keep drafting those wide receivers and split ends out of black schools. And they do fantastic jobs at pass catching. Now who do you suppose was throwing to these guys when they were in school?

He attacked the myth that fellows like Joe Gilliam and Jim Harris throw too hard, and yet in school, Gilliam's receivers hung onto his passes, or else he would never have attracted the attention of the pro scouts with his completion record. The same goes for Harris.

How many times have you heard that if the receiver doesn't actually look the ball into his hands, he will drop it most of the time? And these myths are reasons why fellows like Jimmy Jones of USC and Conridge Hollaway of Tennessee went to Canada.

The guy wonders why the leagues will carry a white quarterback four or five years to help him develop and expect instant stardom from a black one. And if the brother doesn't make it right away, he becomes a defensive back or a pass catcher. It just may be that if Harris can help get the Rams into the Super Bowl, a few of those myths will die, but they die hard. For instance, there was a myth that teams wouldn't play baseball behind a black pitcher, but when Don Newcomb and Joe Black got the Dodgers into the world's series, the team played like mad behind them, and would have gone to the mat for them if it had become necessary. What a difference a few bucks makes.

Here at Home

Things are heating up on the cage front in Iowa too. Drake doesn't really know just how good they are, and might find out by the time you read this. Iowa U has a better club than they had last year. In fact, Hawks are being picked to finish fourth in the Big Ten race which everybody concedes that Indiana has locked up.

Iowa State doesn't know just what to make of their program. Coach Trickey is in more trouble than the alligator was when the pond went dry. He will have to come up with some wins, because he can't fast talk his way out of the trouble he will have if the Cyclones don't improve.

I would have to guess that his impressive record at Oral Roberts was in a large measure due to the competition. That, and the fact he had some fine individual players.

Oops

In discussing the high schools last week I wondered why or if the best players at East were out for the team. Now, this was no reflection on the team or school. Tech had that problem a few years back. The best players said they had to work or that their schedules kept them from going out for sports. Another fact was some of them didn't like the coach.

I don't know what the score is at East, and it could be that there are no better players in school than the fellows out. Anyhow, I was reminded that one-third of the basketball team is black, and that the football team had at least four starting blacks, which I knew. I wasn't arguing that. Maybe I didn't express myself clearly. I merely wanted to know if there were some athletes who could help the team who are not playing. Now, may I keep my scalp?

And while I was fending off folks, things began to shape up as though the Metro race is going to be between Lincoln, Dowling and Hoover with the rest of the schools straggling along. It could well be that the games between those three schools will decide the race.

The Railsplitters seem to have come up with a solid team that will take some effort to beat. Dowling has won without their leading scorer, Tim Lee, being hot and you can see what will happen if he gets rolling. It will be a race worth watching.

Holy Terrors Terrorize WDM Mets

Forward Pat Collins led the Maple Street Baptist Church Holy Terrors to a lopsided 40-17 victory over a West-Des Moines Methodist girls' basketball team.

During the Monday night game, Collins paced the Holy Terrors with 14 points. Gracie Edmonds scored 12 points.

Rounding out the scoring for the Maple Street girls' team were Jenny Garrison with three baskets for 6 points, Myra Green with 4 tallies. Kim Donnelly Donna

Anderson netted 2 points apiece.

The Holy Terrors are 3-0 for the season in the Interchurch Girl's Basketball League. They continue defense of their championship title Saturday afternoon at 3:30 against First Federated.

All games are played at First Christian Church located at 25th and University. The Maple Street team is coached by Bud Collins and Pat Marshall.

Toros Are Bullish On Steve David

He hasn't the reputation, the experience or the monty of New York's Pele or Boston's Eusebio, but 23-year-old Steve David of the Miami Toros believes that he represents soccer's destiny in this country.

The native of Trinidad featured in the December issue of Black Sports magazine was the most valuable player in the North American Soccer League this season.

Morgan Wins

First Basketball Game of Season

Morgan State Basketball team opened their 1975-76 season with a 71-68 win over Elizabeth City State University. Eric Evans came off the bench to lead Morgan, scoring 21 points and 8 rebounds.

Morgan jumped off to a 23-5 lead in the first half on the scoring of Jim Gorman and Barry Scroggins, but the Elizabeth City Vikings came back strong with Martin Towe and Thomas Blue scoring 10 and 14 points respectively in the first half, to make the half-time score 45-33 in favor of the Golden Bears.

With Coach Nat Frazier

In only his second year in the NASL, he has scored at least one goal in each of the Toro's first six games, finishing the season with a total of 52 points, tops in the NASL. This year with David's guile and teammate Warren Archibald's speed, the Toro's came close to winning the national title. They lost the game only on tie-breaking penalty shots.

The Toros are bullish on Steve David. They are aware of his worth but they may not be able to give him the money he deserves, David's salary this year is estimated at less than $10,000.

substituting very freely, and Elizabeth City's one-two punch of Blue and Towe scoring freely, the Vikings made the game very tight in the last five minutes of the second half. But Eric Evans scored the last five Morgan points to keep the Viking at bay.

This was Morgan's first game with the National Boh Metro tournament on December 4, 5 and 6 next on the schedule. The Bears open up the tournament with Johns Hopkins University. For Elizabeth City, their record is 1-2 with Livingstone College next on their schedule.

LOTION BELIEVED TO REDUCE BALDNESS IN MEN

A lotion made from the female hormone estrogen reduces baldness in men when it is rubbed into their scalps, according to a New York City physician who says he has successfully experimented with the treatment for the past decade. Estrogen cannot be taken by men internally without certain undesirable side effects, such as enlarged breasts. But Dr. Edward M. Settel says when estrogen is applied externally, it reduces hair fallout in men and stimulates hair growth in bald areas.

Settel reported the results of his experimentation in a scientific exhibit at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Family Physicians recently. He said the treatment is still in the experimental stage and is not ready for commercial distribution. Of the 748 men he has treated in 10 years, 90 per cent had "markedly less fallout" after using the estrogen lotion and 68 per cent showed improved hair growth, he said.

"I don't make the claim that you're going to grow back as much hair as you had when you were 15 years of age," Settel said. But he said some hair does grow back on the heads of men with a hereditary condition called pattern baldness.

STUDY SHOWS WOMEN DO NOT LIVE LONGER

A study of the deaths of 4,000 Pennsylvanians by an Edinboro College statistician suggests there is no basis to the widely held belief that women live longer than men. "It appears a bunch of nonsense that women are inherently prone to living longer than men," says Dr. G. H. Miller, who studied the deaths of northwestern Pennsylvania residents in researching the effects of smoking.

Miller interviewed relatives of the deceased between 1970 and 1973, and, to extract information solely on cigarette smoking, he eliminated those who suffered from such physical conditions as alcoholism or obesity, which could figure in early deaths. Among his preliminary findings published in the Illinois Lung Association's Journal are:

- There is practically no difference in the average life spans of men and women if they are nonsmokers. Both sexes were found to have average life spans of 75 years.

- Female smokers died at an average age of 59 while male smokers were found to die on an average at 65.

- Those who smoke two or more packs a day can expect to reduce their lives by 14 to 15 years if they are men and 19 to 20 years if they are women.

PROSTATE CANCER TREATMENT IMPROVES

"Supervoltage" radiation is helping victims of prostate cancer live longer, according to five doctors of the University of Southern California Medical Center at Los Angeles. They disclosed increasingly favorable results of radiation treatment against the prostate disease that causes higher fatalities among men as they get older. The radiation therapists said the high-dose treatment "appears to improve both length of survival and quality of life, even in those whose disease course is inexorable." They said treatment of 96 patients by supervoltage radiation enhanced survival, as did hormonal manipulation and possibly "aggressive surgical intervention."

New Fishing and Hunting Licenses Available Soon

DES MOINES—With the Christmas season soon approaching, the Iowa Conservation Commission has some important gift suggestions for the outdoors minded—1976 fishing, hunting, and trapping licenses. Also included in this category are the 1976 trout and state duck stamps.

The 1975 licenses expire December 31. Many hunting seasons such as pheasant, quail, ruffed grouse, and rabbit will be open after the first of the year. Ice fishing will be in its prime during January and some trapping seasons will also still be open. If a sportsman plans to be afield enjoying these forms of outdoor recreation, he or she must have valid 1976 licenses.

The 1976 licenses and stamps will go on sale in mid-December at license outlets such as county recorders, sport shops, and hardware stores throughout the state. The new licenses and stamps are effective from January 1 through December 31, 1976.

Wrestling Season Prospectus Good

The return of seven lettermen, led by Nehemiah Jackson (142 lbs.) two time All-MEAC and National Greco Roman Champ of the World should provide the nucleus for a potentially outstanding wrestling season at Morgan State University. Also back are Herbie Johnson (134 lbs.), two-time All-Conference, and Edward Shiver (167 lbs.) and Luther Owen, both one-time All-MEAC Champions.

But these names aren't the big news in Morgan's wrestling program. Coach Phillips has some of the best

Socialists Urge Abolition of FBI

NEW YORK — Responding to the latest revelations about the FBI's campaign against Dr. Martin Luther King, Peter Camejo and Willie Mae Reid, Socialist Workers candidates for president and vice-president, issued a call for an independent commission of inquiry to investigate King's assassination in 1968.

"What is needed," Camejo and Reid stated, "is an investigation conducted by people we can trust — people responsible to the Black community who are committed to uncovering the full truth. This commission of inquiry should include representatives of civil rights and community groups, trade unions, church organizations, and Black leaders. The hearings should be open to everyone interested in seeing King's assassins brought to justice."

Referring to Attorney General Edward Levi's announcement that the Justice Department "should take another look" at the FBI's files on King, Reid said such a review "would be like ordering the fox to look after the well-being of chickens. The FBI is part of the Justice Department."

This practice of government agencies 'investigating' themselves is totally inadequate. The black leaders who have suggested that the FBI was involved in Dr. King's slayings will probably find it no surprise that a government investigation will clear group of freshmen ever to come to Morgan led by Clarence Summerville at 126 lbs. of Mt. Vernon, New York. Summerville is a three-time WIAC Champion and two-time All-New York State. Also entering Morgan will be 150 lbs. Ali Moine who was the third best wrestler in Iran. Dennis Frazier brings to Morgan a 39-3 high school record and is second in the State of Florida and second in his district and region.

Hoover and his men."

Camejo and Reid characterized the FBI as "a violent, racist agency," and "an enemy of the civil rights movement." Pointing to the Senate reports on CIA assassination plots against Castro, Lumumba and Trujillo, they said, "If the government could justify murdering foreign leaders that they felt threatened by, couldn't they just as easily justify murdering Black leaders like Martin Luther King, Malcolm X and Fred Hampton who were challenging their power at home?"

Both Camejo and Reid are veteran civil rights activists. In 1958 Reid joined the ride-ins and bus boycotts in Memphis which ended the segregated seating for Black people on city buses. Camejo participated in the historic Selma to Montgomery freedom march led by Dr. King in 1965.

Citing the testimony of ex-FBI agent Gary Thomas Rowe, Jr. to the Senate Committee in Intelligence on December 2, Camejo accused the FBI of "working in collusion with the Ku Klux Klan to destroy the civil rights movement and inflict violence on civil rights activists."

Rowe, who worked as an FBI undercover agent in the Klan for six years, testified that he had repeatedly given the FBI advance knowledge of planned Klan violence against civil rights civil rights activists, and about police collusion with the Klan, but that no action was ever taken by the FBI.

Both Camejo and Reid stated that "the revelations about the FBI's Cointelpro operations against the Socialist Workers party, and Black and antiwar groups, their racist attacks on Dr. King, and their collusion with the KKK call for one course of action: the immediate abolition of the FBI."

Iowa Demos Form Bi-partisan Committee

The Iowa Democratic Party today announced the formation of a bi-partisan committee to obtain extensive electronic and written media publication and coverage of the upcoming precinct caucuses.

Committee meetings between Democratic and Republican Party leaders will focus on impressing the media with the importance of publicizing this opportunity for participation in the political process.

Both political parties of Iowa will hold their precinct caucuses next year on the same date, January 19.

Tom Whitney, state chair of the Iowa Democratic Party announced the appointment of Jean Hauglan, vice chair of the Iowa Democratic Party, to the committee.

Whitney said further, "Our participation in this bi-partisan effort to publicize the January 19 caucuses is yet another effort by the Iowa Democratic Party in its implementation of its affirmative action program."

The Affirmative Action Program of the Iowa Democratic Party is designed to open its presidential selection process to the broad spectrum of society.

MESSIAH TEMPLE CHURCH NEWS

Evangelist Zora Reed was our speaker this communion Sunday. Her message was taken from II Timothy 2:1-7. The lesson, "Becoming A Champion," told us of the price it takes to be a champion for the Lord.

First of all, we must forget about what other people will think. It is not important what they think, only what God thinks. We must endure hardness, and we must set our minds on Jesus and forget about the cares of this world. Last of all we must be a team member with God as our captain. There will be crowns of victory to all who

Black Proportion of College Population Steadily Increasing

College enrollment of black students continues to rise as they become a larger proportion of the total student population, according to a report released last week by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The report shows that the estimated total of black college students rose 19 per cent during 1973-74, from 684,000 to 814,000, and 56 per cent since 1970 when the estimated black enrollment was 522,000. Black college students were nine per cent of the 8.8 million total of college students in 1974 as opposed to only about five per cent of the 4.6 million in 1964.

Although black enrollment has approached parity with white enrollment in the past 10 years, differences remain among college classes. For example, the report shows that there is a substantially smaller proportion of black students in the senior year than in the freshman year.

In the freshman year, blacks accounted for about 12 per cent of college students in 1974 — about the same as the overall black proportion in the population. However, they made up seven percent of all college seniors. Four years earlier they were nine per cent of all freshmen and five per cent of the seniors, not significantly different from the proportion of seniors in 1974.

VA FACTS

The Veterans Administration treated about one million patients in its 171 hospitals last year. Another 12 million received outpatient treatment.

The nation's veteran population is expected to peak at 29.7 million in fiscal year 1979, according to the Veterans Administration.

More than 30,000 Vietnam-era veterans are employed by the Veterans Administration.

The Veterans Administration operates the largest health-care system in the United States. Included are 171 hospitals and more than 200 outpatient clinics.

Open Burning--

Is it worth what it costs?

Citizens' concern over the effects of leaf burning will become an open forum on December 10 when the Des Moines Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality holds its public hearing on open burning at 7:30 p.m. in the Prairie Room of the YWCA, at 8th and Grand.

What does open burning cost Des Moines in real dollars? In air pollution? In public health and safety? Is it worth what it costs, or are there alternative methods of dealing with such refuse as leaves and yard clippings? All of these questions will be explored. In addition, representatives of the Iowa Department of Environmental Quality will present the results of their 1975 study showing the effects of leaf burning in Des Moines.

A summary of the public hearing and citizens' concerns will be presented by the Des Moines Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality before the Des Moines City Council.

All concerned citizens are invited to attend the public hearing and to express their views and recommendations on open burning.

NICE WORK IF YOU CAN GET IT

Ted Lange, "Junior" on the popular "That's My Mama" television series, is obviously enjoying his motion-picture feature role debut in American International's intrigue-action film, "Friday Foster." The film, starring Pam Grier in the title role, depicts Lange as "Fancy" a top-drawer New York player, constantly surrounded by a stable of beautiful girls and is slated for nation-wide Christmas opening. How'd you like to find all that in your Christmas stocking?

"Ooooweee," Junior's Doing His Thang In "Friday Foster" Flick

As the jive-talking, hip-walking "Junior" in the popular "That's My Mama" television series, young actor Ted Lange has endeared himself to millions of viewers.

Now, in keeping with his swinger image, he has been cast in the role of Fancy, a top-drawer pimp, in American International Pictures intrigue-action drama, "Friday Foster."

In the film, he is surrounded with a stable of beauties; any one of which could be a dream come true. But he manages to spend his time in futile romantic pursuit of Pam Grier in the title role — not bad duty either; when you come to think about it.

In any event, being in close contact with so much pulchritude is a pretty good way to deal with one's first feature role in films. Of course, being a member of an internationally famous cast isn't going to hurt him either.

His fellow cast members include Pam's co-star Yaphet Kotto, a star in his own right; famed comedian Godfrey Cambridge; celebrated entertainer Eartha Kitt and a young man who is fast becoming one of Hollywood's busiest, Thalmus Rasulala. All together, they make an entertainment package which would enhance any film.

Lange is a capable young actor who has paid many dues in providing himself with an extensive training program for his chosen profession. A serious student of Shakespearean drama and an habitue of workshops all over California, he insisted on playing many diversified roles.

However, it took an inane line like "Ooooweee" and an exaggerated posture of a hip character to capture the public imagination.

His role in "Friday Foster" is a sort of sophisticated extension of his television character but it is one which will hopefully lead to bigger and better things for the deserving, dedicated Lange.
