Measles vaccination needed in wake of rubeola outbreak

Commissioner of Public Health Norman L. Pawlewski today recommended that all infants 6-12 months of age be administered measles vaccine immediately, with a booster given at 15 months of age.

The announcement came in the wake of one of the worst epidemics of measles (rubeola) that has hit Iowa since 1971. In the first 19 days of 1977, approximately 500 cases of rubeola were reported in 33 counties of the state. Most of these cases are in the 10-12 year age group.

The altering of the recommended age for immunizing infants is a temporary move to especially protect infants who frequently have serious complications, Pawlewski said, adding that after the present outbreak subsides, the Iowa State Department of Health will return to its former recommendation that children be routinely immunized for measles at 15 months of age.

Pawlewski said that persons who were vaccinated at 12 months of age or older should be considered adequately immunized but that older children who were immunized under 12 months of age should be revaccinated. He urged the revaccination of persons who received the killed vaccine or gamma globulin in conjunction with live virus vaccine as was common practice prior to 1966.

He said health officials are responding to the widespread distribution of rubeola cases by organizing emergency clinics for school-age youngsters and by attempting to secure large quantities of vaccine as soon as possible. However, due to a nationwide shortage of the needed vaccine, emergency shipments have had to be secured from neighboring states, as well as from an epidemic stockpile at the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

Plans call for children in grades K-4 to be injected with a combination rubeola / rubella vaccine and children in grades 5 and above to be given only the rubeola immunization.

Parents are encouraged to have all unvaccinated children immunized as soon as possible, Pawlewski said, adding that in addition to illness from the disease itself children can incur such complications as pneumonia; heart problems; ear infections; and potentially fatal encephalitis.

Killer Arrested After Tense Search

A convicted murderer was arrested Tuesday by Des Moines police and FBI agents following a tense search of a near north side apartment building.

David Ellis Steele, 22, from Kansas City, Mo., escaped August 14 from the Missouri State Prison and is suspected of at least two other murders and a savings and loan robbery in the Kansas City area since his escape.

Evelyn Davis Health Center Plans Opening

Plans are now underway to establish a new Evelyn Davis Community Health Center.

The former Evelyn Davis Health Center was closed in July 1976 due to staff and funding problems but Davis said the community needs a health center more accessible than Broadlawn Hospital and the Iowa College of Osteopathic Medicine.

A new board was created at a Jan. 8 meeting and will be called the Central Iowa Health Services, Inc.

Davis said she is optimistic about the proposed clinic although the opening date has not yet been set. The new board has set up sub-committees to study funding, office space and the board governing structure.

The FBI learned that Steele had been living in Des Moines for several months under an assumed name. Federal agents staked out his residence at 1335 Forest Ave. and saw him go to a next door apartment building.

Several law enforcement agents then proceeded to search the building while others watched the building exits. Steele was found in a basement room hiding behind two mattresses leaning against a wall.

Black Scholar realizes impact of Black vote

The U.S. Presidential election of 1976 brought home a new realization of the power and impact of the black vote, as 93% of the black population who voted, did so for Jimmy Carter, and provided the election margin which carried Carter into the White House, according to Chuck Stone, syndicated columnist for the Philadelphia Daily News in the January/February 1977 issue of THE BLACK SCHOLAR. Stone's article is titled "Black Political Power's Future in the Carter Era".

Based upon original statistical data gathered at election time, Stone shows that Carter lost the white majority in the key Southern states, while he won the overwhelming majority of the Southern black vote, and thereby gained the presidency. Stone's article provides a fundamental understanding of the electoral facts and figures which lie behind the rhetoric of the post-election commentators. From the statistical tables provided in his article, Mr. Stone draws important strategic conclusions about future black political patterns for major parties and black independent parties over the next four years.

In other articles U.S. Representative Ron Dellums criticizes what he sees as a dangerous trend to use elections "not as opportunities to change the nature of oppression", but as opportunities to change "the color of oppression." The article stresses the need to match black political potential with black political organization and leadership effectiveness.

Professor Marguerite Ross Barnett of Howard University's Political Science Department analyses the successes and failures of the first years of the Congressional Black Caucus, and in other essay S.E. Anderson of SUNY / Old Westbury College, traces the history of the Student Movement from 1960 to 1976.

As a special feature THE BLACK SCHOLAR interviews Maya Angelou, talented literary and theatrical figure. Also in this issue THE BLACK SCHOLAR presents the poetry of Gloria Gayles of Morehouse College.

Tax help at library

Tax assistance for low income elderly people will be offered again this year at the branches of the Public Library during the first week of February; individual branches may be contacted for exact day and hours at each location.

BLACK JOURNAL returns to public television in February with host Tony Brown. Produced by WNET/13, New York, and distributed nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service, BLACK JOURNAL is made possible by a grant from Pepsi-Cola Company. This year's theme for BLACK JOURNAL is "the Black Presence." Among the topics to be examined on the series are "The New Power," a look at the influence of the Black vote on electoral politics; "The Search for Roots," with author Alex Haley; "War in Africa?" with Gen. Daniel "Chappie" James; Benjamin Hooks' new role as head of the NAACP; and "Does Busing Work?" (Check local PBS stations for correct area broadcast time.)

Why Continue to Emphasize the Bad Part of History

Roots, now being shown on TV, is a spectacular play depicting the life of Negroes from the jungles of Africa to this country and particularly, the southern slave states.

To my mind I think it leaves a bad taste in the minds of many Negroes, especially the youngsters, many of whom, unfortunately, have built up an attitude of hate toward white people. It satisfies the minds of people who harbor prejudice in their hearts and tends to shatter the attitude of some who had no position one way or another with regard to Negroes.

I watched the show the first night and concluded that I saw nothing that I had not read in histories. And as one who was born in the South before the turn of the century, it reminds me of many instances that I knew about or my parents told me about which were a little different from what this play depicts. And while considerable progress has been made in racial relations in the South, in the backwoods in some areas these same things are being carried on today.

Only last week was shown a program concerning poor housing that exists in those areas today. And even though lots of money is spent in the cities little of it reaches those people who live under conditions where no protest is made that they share the same considerations that others do.

I have always felt that it is better to emphasize the things that we agree on than those on which we disagree and thus in this instance create a contingent deviceness among the races.

Bell Confirmed in Spite of Stiff Opposition

The senate has confirmed the nomination of former federal judge, Griffin Bell of Atlanta, Georgia, as attorney general of the United States.

Considerable opposition developed to his confirmation particularly, by civil rights groups which cited one instance after another which pointed to Bell's undesirable attitude toward civil rights.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the NAACP, led the opposition and was supported by a representative of Americans for Democratic Action and other civil rights leaders.

They cited the fact that while a member of the Fifth Circuit, U.S. Court of Appeals, his was the deciding vote with the majority which held that Julian Bond should be excluded from membership in the Georgia legislature; that Bell drafted the plan for then Governor Vandiver to perfect segregation in the schools in an effort to get around the 1954 Supreme Court decision against school integration; that his decisions, while on the bench, were generally contrary to the 1954 Supreme Court decision on public school integration.

Mrs. Martin Luther King, Jr., also criticized Bell and expressed disappointment that President Carter appointed him attorney general.

Bell was not without supporters even among Negroes who included Andrew Young, newly appointed ambassador to the United Nations, the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the deposed president of the Atlanta branch of the NAACP.

President Carter defended Bell and stated that his record on civil rights was good. However, the vote for confirmation was 75 to 21. Unfortunately, the opponents to Bell did not include organized labor which had generally stood with Negro leaders in their opposition to objectionable public officials, especially those coming before the senate for confirmation. Senator Clark, of Iowa voted for Bell, Senator Culver voted against him.

U. S. Supreme Court Aids Civil Rights Violators

The U.S. Supreme Court has thrown out the desegregation order of a federal judge in Indianapolis, Indiana. The Negro school population exceeds that of the whites and the order provided that 10,000 students would be bused. The court said that in order to establish a violation of the civil rights law in segregation cases it would require that intent to segregate must be shown.

This sounds rather slim in view of the fact that intent in matters of this kind are difficult to prove as has been shown in other cases. And it will be a good excuse, in many instances, even though glaring violations of the law occur.

It appears that the court is crawling away a 1954 decision on public school desegregation.

Role of Black American told

Each year we celebrate Black History Week or Negro History Week, which ever name, the particular person wishes to acknowledge. As the renowned writer once said, "A rose by another name would smell as sweet."

The name is not nearly as significant as the reality it represents.

We do have a history and the history is more than his story, it is our story and we must tell it as our story and make the world hear it and understand it as our story.

We may all thank God that we now have a book like ROOTS to reenforce the historic, anthropological and Pan-African aspects of our being for no people exist who simply emerged by osmosis. Attempts to define us as a people genetically, historically, culturally, economically, politically and otherwise as simply American has never been adequate and will never suffice.

Coming on the heels of the much ballyhooed Bicentennial celebration, this discussion is crucial. The role of the black man in American history was minimized at least and ignored at most. Regardless, our story was not told.

Our story is not being told and we have been induced to dissolve all the promises of Black (Negro) History Week into the ceaseless recitation of biographies. These biographies are carefully screened and chosen by those who paternalistically direct the concepts and thought processes through which so many blacks exist. Thus great contributors to our past such as James Monroe Trotter, Adam Clayton Powell, Malcolm X, Gabriel Prosser, Denmark Vesey and others are not mentioned. Despite the annual occurrence of History week too many blacks do not know that Hannibal, played by Victor Mature in the movies or Cleopatra, played by Liz Taylor in the movies were black.

Too few people know that Piacasso went to the then Congo (now Zaire) and learned to paint. One can still go to struggling villages in the interior of Zaire and find painters whose talents and work rivals anything Piacasso every painted despite the fact that their paintings are sold for tourist pennies and his are heralded in the great parlors and renowned circles of the world.

Few blacks know that the Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman was written by a black man, Ernest J. Gaines. Television portrayed the writer as a white man.

I make these points to say that during Black History Week and at all other times we must seek to educate our people with functional concepts and analytical concepts that help them to live and to survive. We must seek to instill the sense of history, the sense of anthropology and the sense of power. Biographies are important but the meaning of those biographies and the dynamics and the substance of those biographies are more important.

We must teach black people what we know about DuBois and Booker T. Washington but not about James Monroe Trotter. We must teach them why we know about Nat Turner (The presence of John Brown to instill the white positive presence) and not Denmark Vesey and Gabriel Prosser.

This whole discussion is about the reality of black existence in the true sense in our nation and in this world. We must always plan our lives based on truth and realtion and not myth and image.

We at National Black

United Funds feel keenly about this and in fact the seeds of our initiation and the fruits of our sustainment have been forged by people whose visions were tempered by keen, realistic perceptions.

The realities of black life in America demand that we articulate a philosophy that is related to our roots, not one which is similar to white charities that fund programs related to symptoms rather than elimination of problems.

The founding philosophy of the National Black United Fund is based in the history of black people: The Philadelphia Free African Society, Prince Hall's first Black United Fund, The Free School Society, David Walker's Harper's Ferry and the underground railroad. Our germ seed are a part of Black History and stress mutual aid and interdependency based on the concept of collective action versus individual action.

These principles are rooted in the dominant societies of West Africa where most of us originated, they were rooted in slavery despite efforts to destroy them and they still live in the hearts, minds and souls of black folk today.

Fill IRS forms legibly

Des Moines—Incorrect or illegible addresses and social security numbers on tax returns can delay refunds, the Internal Revenue Service cautioned today.

Taxpayers who have moved since filing their tax returns should inform both the U.S. Postal Service and the IRS Service Center where they filed their return of the new address, or any refund due might not reach its destination.

An incorrect or illegible social security number can also delay the processing of the tax return, the IRS said, and slow up the issuance of a refund check due.

A simple solution to the problem is for the taxpayer to use the peel-off label attached to the tax package mailed out by the IRS. The taxpayer can make any name, address, or social security number corrections right on the label so that the IRS will know to whom and where to direct the refund.

Blue Cross meeting set

Members of the Area 7 Blue Cross and Blue Shield Subscriber Advisory Committee will meet February 3 at the Des Moines Sheraton Motor Inn.

Advisors from Area 7 who plan to attend the meeting are Marvin Miller, Ames; Louis Friestad, Jr., Johnston; Anderson Cogshall, Cambridge; and James Agnew, Walter Galvin, Nancy Perazelli, Roger Hudson, Dennis Montgomery, Verlee Richey, and Emma Chance, all of

Des Moines.

Each of the 12 Iowa area committees meets twice yearly to advise the Iowa Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans on matters pertaining to the delivery of health care benefits and health services. The Iowa statewide advisory council, which is composed of representatives of the area committees, has served as a model for many of the 23 other councils in the United States.

Income tax return need not frighten

Des Moines—Preparing a tax return each year is a basic responsibility that most taxpayers face. While this is an important responsibility, it need not be a w e s o m e o r frightening—especially if you know what you're doing and approach things in an orderly fashion.

For example, right from the start, it's essential that you have the necessary tax forms and schedules on hand. If you filed a return last year, then the IRS sent you a tax package in the mail containing not only tax forms and schedules you'll probably need, but also some valuable instructions. Tax forms and instructions are also available from IRS offices and at many banks and local Postal Service stations. This leads to the next step.

Read the instructions. They can not only save you time as well as effort, but also, in some cases, money because you may become aware of a deduction or exemption to which you are entitled. This year it's especially important to read the instructions because they cover tax law changes that can affect your taxes, such as the general tax and earned income credits, and credit for the elderly, among other areas.

And if your taxable income is not over $20,000, a new tax table enables you to determine your tax at a glance, without making the calculations required by the tax rate schedules. You must use the tax table if your taxable income is not over $20,000, whether you itemize deductions or use the standard deduction.

By the way, when preparing your tax return, make sure that you are in shape to do a good job. Don't pick a day when you are not too alert or not feeling well. It's also important to make sure you are in the proper surroundings—a well-lighted and ventilated room, no distractions—and that you have the necessary supplies on hand—scratch paper, pens, pencils, a pocket calculator, if necessary.

Speaking of supplies, you can hardly expect to prepare a return without records such as Forms W-2 received from employers and 1099 forms issued by savings and loans, banks, and other financial institutions.

If you think it might be to your advantage to itemize deductions, have your expense records on hand, such as medical and dental bills, real estate taxes, State income tax, home mortgage interest, and charitable contributions. It would pay you to double check the instructions to find out just what types of expenses you can deduct.

When preparing your return, make sure you see the mailing label on the forms sent out by the IRS. Correct any name or address changes right on the label. Using the label can help to avoid errors and also speed processing for the IRS and delivery of any refund due you.

As you proceed to prepare your return, it makes good sense to have the instructions handy for ready reference. For example, one important consideration is whether or not to itemize. The instructions can help you decide.

As you move through the return you will finally come to a point where you find out whether you owe tax or can expect a refund. For the taxpayer owing tax, attach a check or money order for full payment when filing. The check should be made out to "Internal Revenue Service" and it's advisable to put your Social Security number on the check in case it becomes detached during processing. This way the money will be credited to your account.

For the taxpayer with a refund, of course, it's a matter of waiting for the check to arrive. Bear in mind that early filers always get their refunds faster.

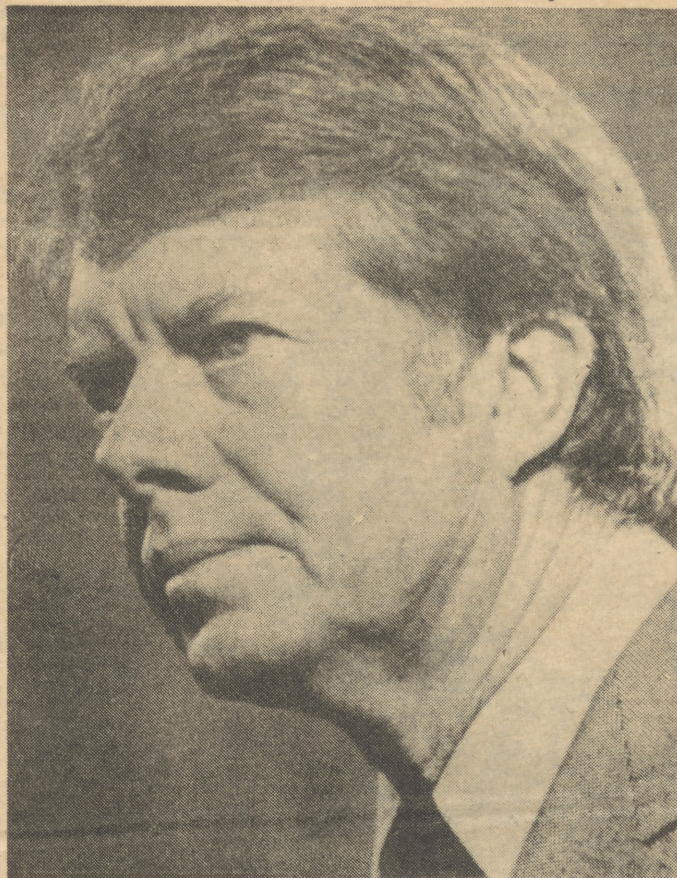

Whether you owe taxes or receive a refund, double check your return. Go over all items and make sure they are correct. Double check the arithmetic and see to it that the return is signed—two signatures are required on a joint return. Also, be certain you have attached everything—W-2's from all your jobs, schedules, and a check if there is a tax liability.

Finally, after double checking everything, the wise taxpayer mails his or her return in the preaddressed coded envelope provided by the IRS and found in the tax package. This also speeds up processing of your return. Remember to affix the proper postage to the envelope. Otherwise the return will be sent back to you.

If you move after filing your return and are expecting a refund, you should notify both the post office serving your old address and the service center where you filed the return of the change in address. Here again, be sure to include your Social Security number on any correspondence with the IRS.

That's basically how to prepare your return—of course, everyone does it a bit differently. The important point, however, is that you prepare your return in an orderly way and know what you're doing. While perhaps not the most pleasant of tasks, the annual ritual of preparing a tax return need not be overwhelming.

Who helps a child to talk? Easter Seals and you.

Pres. Jimmy Carter

Carter: Give $50 to each American

President Jimmy Carter this week proposed to provide a $50 cash payment to every American, even those too poor to pay income taxes, in order to help spur the American economy.

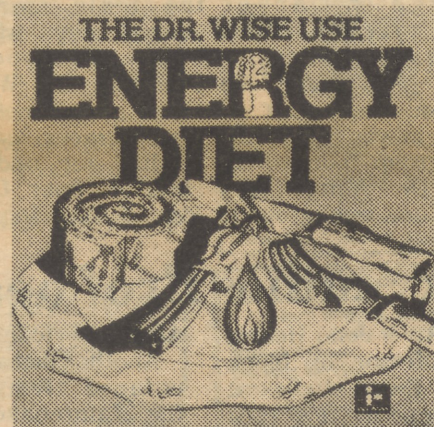

Bert Lance, Carter's budget director, suggested the payment would be in the form of a tax rebate for each exemption claimed by a taxpayer on the 1976 income tax return. There will also be a $50 payment to people receiving social security benefits and to low income persons who pay no taxes.

The Congress must approve the rebate program which is expected to cost about $11 billion.

Help for your checkbook... our free "Energy Diet" booklet

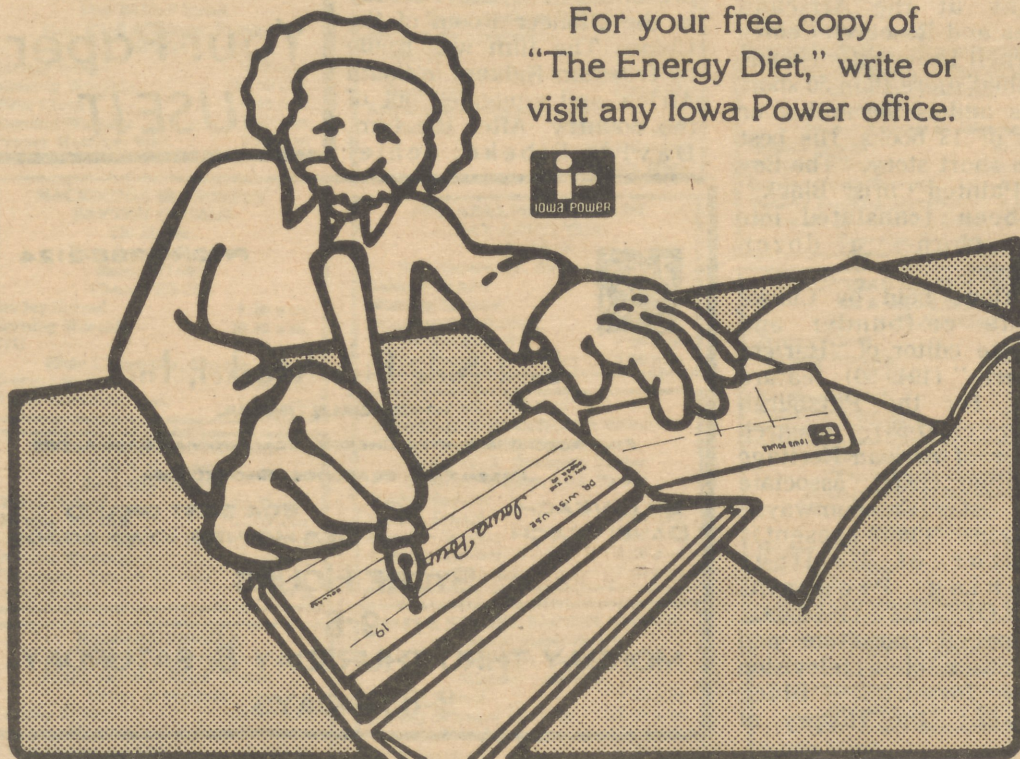

There's a reason why your utility bills are larger this time of year: it takes a lot of energy to keep your home warm and comfortable. That's in addition to the energy required to run all the appliances you use every day.

If you would like ideas on how to "slim down" your utility bill, ask for our free booklet, "The Energy Diet." It shows you how much it costs to run the appliances in your home, and how much you can save by cutting back on their use. There's also a section on how to use energy more efficiently.

For your free copy of "The Energy Diet," write or visit any Iowa Power office.

Goodlett receives Award

THE 33rd ANNUAL GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER AWARD WAS PRESENTED TO DR. CARLTON GOODLETT at Pittsburgh's Carver luncheon recently. Mrs. Artegious Moncrieff, standing right, made the presentation on behalf of National Achievement Clubs, Inc., the group founded by the late Dr. Alma Illery (pictured in background)

and now headed by Mrs. Moncrieff. Dr. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association, seated left, was the main speaker at the annual event which brought over 700 persons to Pittsburgh's Webster Hall Hotel as a benefit for Camp Achievement, an interracial facility for underprivileged children near Connellsville, Pa. NAC, Inc. plans the national celebration of Carver Week. Last year's chairman was Roy Kohler, Manager-Special Projects, Gulf Oil Corp., standing left. Next year's head will be Mrs. Jayne Spain, Senior Vice President of Gulf, seated right. Dr. Goodlett, making his first talk during the Sesquicentennial year of the Black Press, revealed the black media would be getting its first wire service before year's end.

Black Studies Prof heads ISU Conference

AMES, IA. — John Henrik Clarke, professor of black and Puerto Rican studies at Hunter College in New York City, will highlight a Black Students Organization symposium at Iowa State University, Feb. 7-8.

Clarke's speech, "The Role of African Peoples in World History," will be at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 7, in the Sun Room of Memorial Union.

Clarke is a distinguished visiting professor of African history at the Africana Studies and Research Center at Cornell University. He has published more than 50 short stories and is the author or editor of 13 books. His best known short story, "The Boy Who Painted Christ Black," has been translated into more than a dozen languages.

Positions held by Clarke include co-founder and associate editor of "Harlem Quarterly" (1949-50); feature writer for the Pittsburgh Courier (1957-59); research director of African Heritage Exposition (1959); associate editor of "Freedomways" magazine (1962-present); director of Heritage Teaching Program, HARYOU-ACT (1964-69); and special consultant and coordinator of a television series for CBS, "Black Heritage: The History of Afro-Americans."

Another activity on Feb. 7 is taped "Reggae" music in the Maintenance Shop of the Union, noon to 3 p.m.

On Tuesday, Feb. 8, a taped speech, "The Myth of the Racially Superior Athlete," will be presented at 12:30 p.m. at the Black Cultural Center, 517 Welch Ave. The speech is by Harry Edwards, professor of sociology at the University of California at Berkeley.

A film, "Soweto," will be presented at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Pioneer Room of the Union. The film was made by freedom fighters in South Africa and smuggled out of the country. After the film, David Sibeko, chief representative of the Pan Africanist Congress for Europe and North America, will lecture on "The High Cost of Freedom in South Africa."

All events of the symposium are free and open to the public. Clarke's lecture is co-sponsored by the ISU Committee on Lectures and the Black Students Organization.

Stan Scott Appointed

Phillip Morris Exec.

New York, NY — Stanley S. Scott, Assistant Administrator of the State Department's Agency for International Development and former Special Assistant to President Ford, has been appointed assistant director of corporate relations and communications at Philip Morris Incorporated effective February 1.

James C. Bowling, senior vice president, assistant to the chairman of the board and director of corporate affairs, made the announcement in New York shortly after Scott had submitted his letter of resignation to President Ford.

Scott, 43, is a former New York newsman who also served as assistant director of communications during four and one-half years at the White House. He joined the White House staff as assistant to the director of communications in 1971 and later served as assistant to the President until November, 1974, when he was appointed by Ford and confirmed by the Senate to his position with AID as Assistant Administrator for Africa.

Before joining the White House staff, Scott served for four years as a radio newsman at Westinghouse Broadcasting Corporation in New York City. He was an assistant director of public relations for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in New York and a general assignment news reporter for United Press International. Scott, a former reporter for the Atlanta Daily World, Atlanta, Ga., and editor-general manager of the Memphis World, Memphis, Tenn., won a

Stanley Scott

Pulizer nomination for the assassination of civil rights advocate Malcolm X.

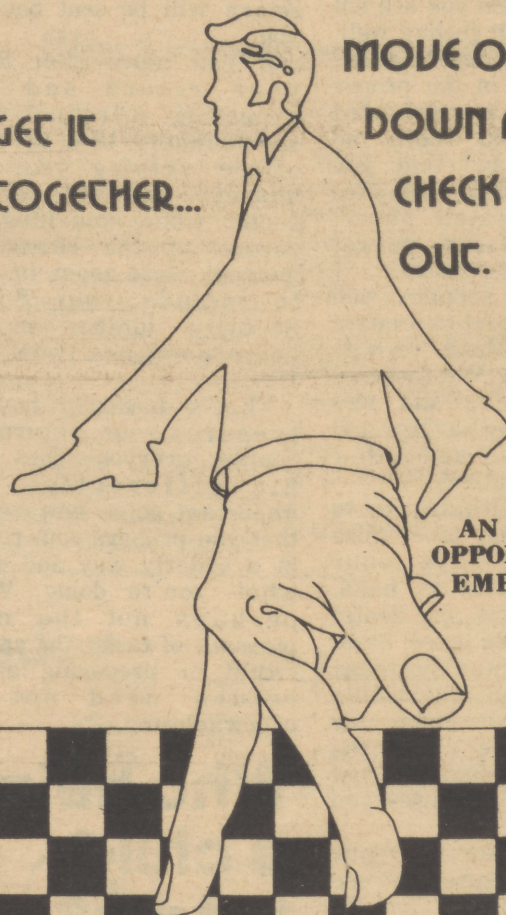

In his letter of resignation to President Ford, Scott said: "It has been a delightful, hectic, frustrating, enjoyable and personally satisfying six years here at the nation's nerve center these are demanding and exciting times for all of us, and I would certainly encourage others to join the ranks of those thousands of unsung government employees who daily perform with enthusiasm and dedication to duty."

Born in Bolivar, Tennessee July 2, 1933, Scott attended Palmer Memorial Institute, a preparatory school in Sedalia, (NC); the University of Kansas in Missouri (1957-1959), where he received his B.S. degree in journalism. He served in the U.S. Army from 1954 to 1956, including one year in Korea.

Scott is married to the former Bettye Lovejoy. They have three children, Kenneth, Susan, and Stanley.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday morning's service was conducted by the Reverend H.R. Fields, whose sermon was taken from Phillipians 4:19. Text: "Commit Thy Way Unto the Lord". The Junior Choir was in charge of the music.

Visitors at the morning service were Wayne Camp and Willie Fountain.

Deacon Hollie Cherry gave us a brief recap of his attendance in Washington, D.C. of the inauguration of the President, Jimmy Carter. While it was very cold in Washington, Deacon Cherry felt he was very fortunate to be in attendance at this historical event. He also had a chance to do some sightseeing before returning to Des Moines.

An offering was taken for the Moody family who lost their home by fire last week. Mr. Moody remains hospitalized at Mercy Hospital in guarded condition. The family is staying with Mr. Moody's sister, Mrs. Toni Lewis, 2017 Washington. We ask that you remember this family in your prayers.

Ms. Roberta Pack and Ms. Elnora Tolson will be having a dinner sale at Tolson's home Saturday, January 29, beginning at 12:00 p.m., along with a White Elephant Sale. They ask that you call ahead for pick-up of dinners, 262-5059. Proceeds from the sale will be given to the Moody family.

In addition to requesting your prayers for Mr. Moody, we ask that you also remember Roosevelt Johnson, Mercy Hospital, Reverend Thomas Pack, at home; and our shut-ins: Deacon Travis and Beatrice Bailey, Ms. Marie Williams, Beulah Powell, Mr. James Duffy, Mr. Frank Smith, A. N. Anderson, Grant Shade.

Give your all to Christ; He gave His all for you!

MESSIAH TEMPLE

"To God be the glory, for the things He hath done."

We feel that we should tell how God has moved and blessed us, and we truly praise the Lord for being with us in 1976. This past year was great for expansion. Of course, with an expanding ministry the financial needs have more than doubled in the past year, but thanks be to God, every bill has been paid on time.

We here at Messiah Temple have no interest in dragging the Gospel through the channels of entertainment. Because of this, the Lord has blessed us by hearing His word preached and taught every time we meet at the church. We teach that the Bible is a mine of wealth, the source of health, and a world of pleasure. It is given to you in this life, will be opened at the Judgment, and will stand forever. It involves the highest responsibility, will reward the least to the greatest of labor, and will condemn all who trifle with its Sacred Contents. We love the Word of God.

Messiah Temple welcomed the message of encouragement our guest speaker, Samuel Boone, brought. The message, taken from the fourth chapter of Neemiah, asked if we were as interested in our work for the Lord as we were in our work in this world. We get a paycheck for what we do in this world, and it is certain that each of us will get a paycheck for the work we do for the Lord. The time is limited; you have the chance now to work for your heavenly payday.

Sunday school is at 10:30 with worship services at 11:30. The Book of Acts is taught every Sunday evening at 5:00. Prayer meeting is every Wednesday evening at 7:00. REMEMBER: It is only a split second between life and death; use your time for the Lord.

The pastor is Reverend Jacob Reed.

MAPLE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

On Sunday, Jan. 30 "Exchange Services" will be held with Reverend Berwyn Otlman and choir of the Stover Memorial Church of the Brethren. Rev. Otlman will deliver the sermon and his choir will sing for our Morning Service. In exchange, Rev. Parrish and choir will render the Morning Services as special guests of Stover Memorial Church. All choir members are asked to meet at 10:15 a.m., 4100-6th Ave., on Jan. 30th.

A Chicken & Chitterling Dinner will be held at the church on Sat., Jan. 29, beginning at 11:00 a.m. Call Ms. Ruby Cooper at the church to place your orders. All proceeds will go toward the Pastor's trip to Africa.

On Friday, Jan. 28, at Washington Irving School a "Zany Style Show" will be held. Various booths of interest will be open for your enjoyment. The latest in fashion will also be shown. Please plan to attend. This event is being held to help raise funds for the minister's trip to Africa. Ms. Mildred Crowder is in charge. Show will start at 7:00 p.m.

A "Fellowship Dinner" honoring the minister will be held following Morning Service on Sunday, Jan. 30, given by the Mission Society. Everyone is invited to stay after Morning Service to join in with us in this special recognition to a most worthy and deserving person. A special Mission Program will follow the Fellowship Dinner.

F.A.M.I. I.N.E. READING CLINIC

Bishop Aaron B. Carter sr. pastor and Bishop of the Heavenly Temple Church, 2110 Carpenter Des Moines, Iowa announces the expansion of services provided to the community.

The Reading Clinic is more than the usual tutorial program, and job readiness skills for adults, and high school drop outs, activities for preschool age children, and children with mental retardation, or developmental inequities. It is a multi-disciplinary multi-categorical concept of learning.

Services are offered to adults, with special emphasis on adult literacy, Bishop Carter states that, Reading is a basic need of the Black race, and it is his desire that many within the community who still feel the Universities, or schools, are a threat to them should avail themselves of this Half-way house concept, as a facilitator of their goals, as a vehicle to understanding.

Services are offered to children, pre-school through senior high all sessions are one to one, for individualized instruction. Hours are from 5:30 to 7:00 through out the winter months. There are certified teachers, consultants, advisors, and special education consultants college students, and a vast resource of experience individuals to assist you in reaching your most cherished goal. Call 244-8324 for further information.

Bishop Carter has recently been invited to Africa, where he will tour the land & seek new visions for his people.

An evening with Dr. Glory Van Scott was presented by the Galvin Fine Arts Center, St. Ambrose College on January 14, 1977. She presented a very inspirational performance. She was exceptionally outstanding in her presentation of "Dramatic Excerpts", from "Miss Truth", (Sojourner Truth), written by Dr. Scott.

Dr. Glory Van Scott, actress, dancer, publisher, play-wright and authoress; Dr. of Philosophy; and her written works are part of the Black writers' collection of New York City College. She has recently completed scripts, music, lyrics, directions and choreography for three children's productions. Personal performances credits include the role of Barbara, in the play of Billy Naname, Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope, The Great White Way, Fly Black-Bird and principal dancer in Porgy and Bess.

Observances in the quad city area marking the birth of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. were held Jan. 14-15, 1977. Among the activities presented was a public ceremony held on January 14 at the Rock Island Arsenal. Guest speakers were Rev. Emmett Wiseman of Progressive Baptist Church of Davenport, Iowa and Rev. James C. Wade of Gaines Chapel AME Church of East Moline, Ill. Also on the program were remarks by the Rock Island Arsenal Commanding Officer, Col. L.F. Skibbie. Ronny's gospel ensemble from the quad city area presented gospel music. On the 15th of January, a program was presented at the Martin Luther King Jr. Center, Rock Island, Ill. by twenty-two quad city area churches, the NAACP and other community groups, in honor of Dr. King. It was a very enlightening afternoon and evening with dinner being served and also presented was a film of the life of Dr. King.

Mrs. Inez B. Love, first vice president of Hearland Region, ITC, was guest speaker at the January meeting of the Illow Toastmistress Club which was held at the Quality Inn, Davenport, Iowa. The title of her speech was "The Advantage of Being a Member of Toastmistress". Mrs. Love has held council and regional offices. She is currently in charge of membership with eight councils and fifty-two clubs located in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri. When she was chairman of Council 4, Corn Belt Region, The Illow Toastmistress Club was organized and the council won four awards at the Regional Conference. Mrs. Love resides in Rock Island, Ill. and is employed at Rock Island Arsenal, Arrcom, Comptroller's Office. She says, "The Toastmistress motive is self-development."

Atkins, Billingsley finish navy training

S. R. Larry D. Billingsley

By LaClaire Z. Mitchell

William H. Atkins, and Larry D. Billingsley of Des Moines, successfully completed 9 weeks of intense training and study, graduating from the Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Ill., Friday, January 21, 1977.

Atkins, the son of Mrs. Doris Tucker of 1342 Harrison, received a special citation which distinguished him as honorman of Battalion 17, Company 360, in the ceremonial services there.

Billingsley will go on to Orlando, Florida, where he will begin intensive training as a Signalman.

Billingsley is the son of Mr. F. E. Billingsley of 1128 10th Street, a retired Air Force Captain here in Des Moines.

Atkins will remain at the base in Great Lakes, Ill., to continue training at A.T.P. school for 3 weeks there.

Both men are enlisted in the Naval Program for 4 years completion of service and study.

Claudia Shepherd named "Outstanding"

Claudia Shepherd was selected from among many students as an "Outstanding Community College Graduate", by the College Entrance Examination Board (CEE). Claudia was selected on the basis of her cumulative grade point average and over-all academic performance at Des Moines Area Community College.

Being selected will mean that her name and academic records will be placed on the 1977 Talent Roster, which will be sent to all baccalaureate degree-granting institutions in the United States. This will assist these institutions in selecting academically promising students to attend their colleges.

Ms Shepherd said the Urban Campus staff does an excellent job to assist students with special needs to continue their education. She plans to continue to work toward a B.A. and later a M.A. in Special Education.

Religion As A Tax Dodge

REV. NORMAN HALLIDAY

The Des Moines Register's Sunday classified advertising section has been running the following advertisement for some time.

BECOME A MINISTER.

Men and women be ordained in the Universal Life Church. Legally perform marriages and all other religious ceremonies. Send to Universal Life Church, 1203 N. Vermont Ave., Dept. DR Los Angeles, CA. 90029

Being anxious to investigate this church, of which I had heard, I wrote a short letter saying I was interested but not revealing I was already a minister in a recognized denomination. By return I received a mimeographed sheet informing me that "The Universal Life Church Inc. has been ordaining ministers since its incorporation in the State of California, May 2, 1961." The Church's Bishop Kirby J. Hensley sets forth the doctrine of the church...

"Be it known that the Universal Life Church Inc. has no traditional doctrine. It believes only in that which is right...Everyone has the right to his own religious convictions and the right to express them while continuing to strengthen his beliefs. The purpose of the church is to preach and teach brotherhood. We will ordain any person who wishes to become a minister of our church and spread the love and purpose of our church."

You will notice that there is no mention of a Supreme Being, and no mention of an ethical standard such as the Ten Commandments or the Golden Rule. The statement declares the Universal Life Church believes in what is right but does not define what that is. Evidently if you believe it's right to swindle your neighbor that's acceptable! The statement mentions teaching and preaching brotherhood but says nothing about the practice of brotherhood.

Then the mimeographed letter, signed as Secretary by the Rev. Roberta Macy continues...

Become a Minister! We ordain both men and women as ministers of the Universal Life Church. The certificate of ordination is granted for life and the holder is entitled to perform all ministerial services, such as Baptisms, Marriages, Funerals and to conduct Church Meetings. The holder is entitled to all the privileges the considerations granted a minister, including tax exempt status, both State and Federal, for you and your property.

Like those monstrous locusts in Revelation 9:10 whose stings are in their tails, the offensiveness of the "ordination" offered is revealed in that last sentence about tax exemption. It appears to be a tax dodge. Frankly, ministers are not tax exempt beyond any other citizens, but Church property used for religious purposes usually is tax exempt and this also applies to the residence owned by the Church and used to house the minister. Some unscrupulous "ministers" misuse this tax concession for their own selfish purposes. They organize a church composed of their family, relatives and friends, then register their home as the place of worship and apply for tax exemption. Such tax-exemption may be legitimate when a bona-fide religious body contributes something to the public good, but it becomes an outrageous rip-off when used as a tax dodge.

This tax loophole exists because the State refuses to be involved in specific religious legislation. Thus we have the absurd position that a Doctor cannot practice medicine without a license; a lawyer cannot practice without a license, and a barber cannot cut your hair without a license but the person who conducts marriage services and cares for the most important part of us, our souls, need not have any educational preparation at all. Bona-fide denominations exercise care and supervision of their ordinands and their ministers can be called to account, but the Universal Life Church offers lifetime ordination to anyone who sends $25! Without enquiry they will send by return mail the lifetime certificate "suitable for framing" and a "smart-looking laminated plastic" wallet-size credential to carry around. Then these "ordained" persons are let loose on an unsuspecting world posing as ordained ministers.

The Old Testament speaks strongly against King Jeroboam's practice of making priests of people who were not qualified to be priests. He did what the Universal Life Church is doing. No questions asked. No ability required. No character references needed. The story is told in 1 Kings 13:33-34. He used religion for his own purposes. And Jesus spoke scathingly about people who used religion to escape their moral, family and financial responsibilities. (Mark 7: 9-13) When the apostles of Christ wanted more help they appointed seven men "Of good reputation, full of the Spirit and Wisdom." And the high standards laid down for ministers in the epistles of Timothy and Titus, show the great importance of a well-qualified ministerial leadership. Jesus called some of the religious leaders of his day "white-washed sepulchres" because they were content with outward show that had no inward reality.

Everyone's jumping on the bandwagon. News reports tell of a New York Massage Parlor that got itself registered as a religious corporation under the high-sounding name "The Fellowship for Human Happiness," thus obtaining tax exemption on its property and profits. The corporation advertises religious services at $45 a session. "Fulfill yourself and your dream fantasy," they advertise. "Be captivated by your own personal, glamorous, tranquillity angel in the seclusion of our temple. She will soothe your mind with meditative relaxation and personally bathe you and anoint you in an ancient religious tradition."

But justice is on the way. The New York Attorney-General, justly incensed, is conducting an investigation and has subpoenaed the corporation's books and records. All reasonable people will applaud this scrutiny of phony religion.

Smith is elected chairman of small business committee

Rep. Neal Smith
Chairman

Rep. Neal Smith (D-Ia.) today was elected Chairman of the Small Business Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives. Smith and 20 other committee chairmen were selected by the House and will serve for the next 2 years.

Smith stated, "I am very pleased by my colleagues' action in selecting me for this position. The problems of the thirteen million small businesses in the United States are greater and more numerous than in the past and I consider this a worthwhile challenge!" Among the major areas slated for examination by the Committee are:

1. The impact upon Small Business of the pension reform act which has resulted in some 10,000 small firms cancelling their pension plans in less than 2½ years;
2. Government regulations and laws which result in paperwork which imposes an oppressive burden on small business by seeking information which is not needed to fulfill the purpose of the law;

JOSE FERRER IN ONE-MAN SHOW AT ISU

Ames, Iowa — One of the most versatile people in show business, Jose Ferrer, will present a one-man show in Iowa State University's C.Y. Stephens Auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 2.

His performance, "Shakespeare and Others Without Tears," consists of monologues from Ferrer's vast repertoire of works by Shakespeare, Orwell, Beckett, Chekhov and others. His presentation ranges from comedy and drama to pathos and biography.

In motion pictures, on stage and on television, Ferrer has been an actor, director, producer and author. One of his earliest stage successes, "Cyrano de Bergerac," won him an Academy Award when it was transferred to film in 1950.

The only time the New York Drama Critics ever selected one person as best actor, best director and best producer was in 1952 when Ferrer took all three honors for "The Shrike." In that same season he appeared as Toulouse-Lautrec in the motion picture, "Moulin Rouge," and was producer-director of two other plays, "Stalag 17" and "The Fourposter."

Among his motion picture appearances are "Joan of Arc," "The Caine Mutiny," "Lawrence of Arabia," "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and "Ship of Fools."

Ferrer's performance is a part of this season's Theater Series. Tickets are on sale at Iowa State Center ticket outlets for $5, $4 and $3.

Free license plates, disabled veterans

Because of a recent ruling change, seriously disabled veterans in Iowa may now obtain free Iowa license plates for their motor vehicles.

According to Iowa Department of Transportation (DOT) Office of Vehicle Registration Director Karen Bellis, a veteran will receive free registration for any automobile, motor home, truck, truck tractor or motorcycle. Veterans who have been provided with a vehicle by the Federal government under section 19.01 to 19.03 of Title 38 of the U.S. Code are eligible.

Veterans may contact any county treasurer's office for more information.

Heart disease is number one killer

Of the 28,400 Iowans who will die this year, more than half, or 15,900, will die of heart diseases, according to Dr. J. P. Long, President of the Iowa Heart Association.

"That's 56 percent," Long says, "and nationally the figures are similar with 950,000 Americans dying of cardiovascular diseases this year. All together, lost output due to disability and medical expenses caused by heart and blood vessel diseases cost this nation 26.7 billion dollars this year." Long said volunteers for American Heart Month, February, will be educating the public as well as collecting funds. "If you know the warning signals and the risk factors for heart attack and stroke," he said, "your life could be saved."

"So when the volunteer calls with materials that could save your life, give generously to support community programs and research. These are the weapons of the Heart Association in the fight for the life of Iowans."

February Tips For The Green Thumb

Although outdoor garden activities are at a minimum, many important decisions can be made now. Planning, for instance, is probably the most significant task. This is particularly important in landscaping and permanent gardens.

Since mistakes are easier to erase on paper rather than the lawn or garden, jot down all necessary plantings you wish to make. Arrange the plot on graph paper, using each square to represent one, two or three square feet. Having arranged the plantings on paper, study the adaptation of the plants—climatic and soil conditions. Nursery catalogs will usually tell the hardiness of ornamental trees and shrubs. In this area, for instance, it is determined that the plant hardiness zone is 5a-referring to plants that can survive from -20 degrees F. to -10 degrees F.

It is also time to begin placing catalog orders not only for trees and shrubs, but also for your favorite vegetable and flower seeds. Postponing seed ordering usually gets the frustrated gardener looking at racks that seldom carry the varieties he/she wishes to purchase. When ordering, though, be sure to evaluate last year's records, and pick out the varieties that performed best.

Meanwhile, start propagating house plants by vegetative means. Cuttings can be taken from ivys, geraniums, phloxes, coleus, pothos, begonias and many other small house plants. Place the cuttings in sand, perlite or vermiculite, and allow about 4 weeks or less (depending on the type of plant) for rooting to take place. Rooting may be enhanced by using a root promoting hormone such as tootone. Pot these newly rooted cuttings in a mixture of one part of garden loam, one part of peat moss, and one part of perlite, vermiculite or coarse sand.

Several species of tall growing plants, such as ficus (rubber plant, fiddle leaf fig), Dracaena, Dieffenbachia, Fatschiera and Ti plant often become large, leggy and sometimes unsightly after many years in the house. One way to solve this problem and yet maintain an attractive plant is the airlayerage method of propagation. You will not only increase the number of plants, but marvel at the satisfaction of rooting the parts of plants while still attached to the parent. (Obtain additional information on air-layerage from the Polk County Extension Office, 2844158.)

Choose Heating System Wisely

If a new house is in your plans for 1977, you may be particularly concerned about the energy issue. After all, you want to make sure the heating and cooling system you install will last through whatever kind of energy crises may be coming up in the future.

Regina B. Fineran, Polk County extension home economist, says the best buy in fuel right now and for the foreseeable future is natural gas, if it's available. For many people in Iowa's rural areas it's simply not available.

If it's not, a second choice is LP gas. Both can be used as the fuel source for a forced warm air furnace, which is also a good buy. This type of furnace will last a good 20 years with little need for maintenance or repair, she said.

However, Fineran said, LP gas may not be a good choice for some parts of the state. Homeowners store LP gas in tanks that need to be refilled every so often. During times of shortages or strikes it may not be possible for some people to get their tanks filled.

"Our housing specialist

Fred Roth says if neither natural gas nor LP gas are possibilities, then people might want to consider a heat pump," Fineran said.

Heat pumps are more expensive to install than gas furnaces and they will only last half as long with more need for maintenance and repair, Roth says. But they do have the advantage of being a heating and cooling system all in one. The same unit will cool in summer as well as heat in winter.

However, Roth said some people may not be interested in the cooling system of a heat pump. If they don't want to cool their home in the summer, they may want to save money and go to other kinds of electric heating. Several types are available increasing heating elements in either a ceiling or in baseboards.

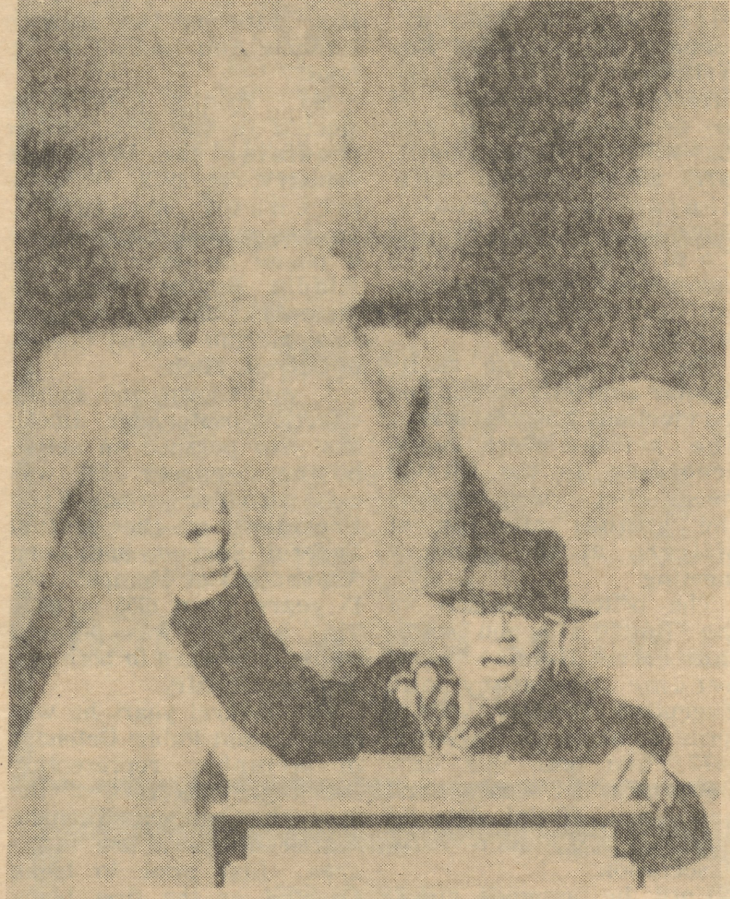

But regardless of the type of heating and cooling system a homeowner chooses, one important factor to keep in mind, especially with new construction, is the amount of insulation, Fineran said.

"Roth is now recommending two by six wall studs so thicker insulation can be added in the walls and 10 inches of insulation in ceilings," she said.

For more information about insulation, there is a new leaflet called "Home Insulation" available free at the Polk County Extension Office.

Caution When 'Jump Starting'

With the advent of cold weather, the Iowa Society for the Prevention of Blindness today issued a warning about "jump starting" cars with dead batteries.

More and more cases of loss of sight, facial disfigurement (even death!) are being reported from a very common practice, using "jumper cables" to start a car with a dead battery. Such batteries often explode...violently...unless proper precautions are taken.

The Society urges the following procedure be used

The Captain and Tennille (Daryl Dragon and Toni Tennille) and Donny and Marie Osmond, stars of their own ABC Television Network series, will be among the presenters on the fourth annual "American Music Awards," to be telecast live on the ABC Television Network from the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium on MONDAY, JAN. 31 (9:00 - 11:00 p.m., EST).

Other top entertainment stars acting as presenters for the event include Merv Griffin, Michael Jackson, Dionne Warwick, Freddy Fender, Donna Summer, Doc Severinsen, Dolly Parton, Engelbert Humperdinck, Herb Alpert, Lani Hall, Bobby Vinton, Charley Pride, Tammy Wynette, George Jones, Seals and Crofts, Peter Frampton and Aretha Franklin.

when trying to start a dead battery with jumper cables:

1. Attach Red (positive) cable to the positive side of the dead battery.
2. Attach Red cable to the positive side of the live (booster) battery.
3. Attach Black (negative) cable to the negative side of the live (booster) battery.
4. Attach Black cable to engine block of the car with the dead battery.

To remove cables, follow the above instructions in REVERSE. For foreign cars, owner's should check their manual for jumping procedures.

Glen Campbell, Lou Rawls and Helen Reddy will co-host the two-hour ABC special event honoring individuals, groups, albums and singles selected by the public as the best in the areas of country, soul and pop rock. Five individual awards — Favorite Male Vocalist, Favorite Female Vocalist, Favorite Duo, Group or Chorus, Favorite Album and Favorite Single — are given in each of the three categories.

In addition, a Distinguished Merit Award will be presented to a leading member of the music world in recognition of his or her contributions to the industry. Previous recipients of the award have been Irving Berlin, Bing Crosby and Berry Gordy, Jr. Dick Clark is the executive producer of the special telecast.

NAACP votes for transition

NEW YORK — The NAACP National Board of Directors on Monday, January 10, re-elected Roy Wilkins as Executive Director and Secretary of the Corporation for a term that will run through July 31, 1977, when he will retire. Benjamin L. Hooks, Commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission was elected as his successor, effective August 1.

The Board's vote at its regular quarterly meeting on the elections was unanimous. The actions were taken according to the NAACP constitution, which requires the annual election of officers at the January meeting.

The official language of the Board's action states that Mr. Hooks "shall become Secretary and Executive Director with a term to begin on August 1, 1977, and until that time Benjamin L. Hooks shall have no official duty or status within the Association."

Until he assumes office, Mr. Hooks will have the title of "Executive Director-designate." This term, the Board said, "shall be used as a descriptive title only with reference to Benjamin L. Hooks until such time as he assumes office."

Mr. Wilkins, whose name has become synonymous with the NAACP, first joined the staff as Assistant Secretary in 1931. As a former associate editor and columnist on the Kansas City Call, he brought with him the indispensable talent of the pen and a missionary commitment to the struggle for human dignity.

One of the most frequently recalled exploits of his early years involved his investigation of working conditions for black workers on a Mississippi flood control project.

His report, "Mississippi River Slavery — 1933," touched off a Senate investigation that resulted in the improvement of working conditions.

Affectionately dubbed "Mr. Civil Rights," Mr. Wilkins will be especially remembered in American history for his leadership in the struggle to win enactment of the Civil Rights Acts of 1957, 1960, 1964, 1965 and 1968.

Combined with the Supreme Court's 1954 decision in the Brown school desegregation case, another NAACP-sponsored action, these laws marked a dramatic turning point in the struggle for human dignity and equality that was launched with the founding of the NAACP in 1909.

The Civil Rights Acts eradicated from the face of the South the old-line practices of open and hostile racial segregation. They removed barriers in public accommodation and opened up a whole range of opportunities in employment, housing and political involvement for blacks and other minority groups.

Born on August 30, 1901, in St. Louis, Mo., Mr. Wilkins grew up in St. Paul, Minn. His wife is the former Aminda Ann Badeau of St. Louis.

Mr. Hooks was first elected to the FCC, which regulates the broadcast industry, in 1972. He is a licensed minister, businessman and lawyer. He is pastor on leave from the Middle Baptist Church in Memphis, and the Greater New Moriah Baptist Church in Detroit, Mich.

A well-known and highly effective orator, Mr. Hooks has also pursued an active business career. He was co-founder and Vice President of the Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association of Memphis, for 15 years, from 1955 to 1969. This career was pursued while he worked in both law and the ministry.

For several years he was an Assistant Public Defender in Memphis, representing the legal interests of the poor and indigent. Then he practiced general law in the area, just prior to being selected as the first black judge in Shelby County (Memphis) Criminal Court, where he served with distinction for several years.

He has also produced and hosted his own television program, "Conversations in Black and White."

NCBL participates in Conference

NCBL, through Charles Knox, Professor Fred Ramey, and Philip A. John, participated in the Conference on Religion, The Arts and Human Liberation. The theme of the conference, "Give us Free," was derived from the only English words spoken by the heroic leader of the slave ship, La Amistad.

The three NCBL participants were respondents to a paper on "The Humanities and Law Enforcement," presented by Theodore Gill, provost of the John Jay College of Criminal Justice. Mr. Gill's thesis was essentially that by equipping police with knowledge of the humanities, to wit: All branches of the social sciences, religion, art, dance, etc., their humanism will be enhanced to nullify bestial traits.

NCBL's respondents vehemently denied this possibility, and contended that Mr. Gill's apparent liberalism had served only to confuse humanism with humanitarian sentiment. In further denouncing this proposal, they proposed that the answer to police brutality, an everyday occurrence in black communities throughout the United States, is not found when once one is "privy" to Plato or scholarly journals, or, is "liberally cultivated," as suggested by Mr. Gill. The appropriate starting point, according to Charles Knox, is a study of the nature of law and its relation to society, "for then and only then would we be able to understand that which promotes institutionalized racism and the differential access to wealth and power in this country."

Professor Ramey of the Fred Hampton Law College insisted that the humanities

only reflect the values of the society, values which are reinforced rather than attacked; while Philip John, citing recent examples of brutality in New York, put forth the position that humanitarianism is a relative concept. He stated that perhaps the KKK is as convinced of its humanitarian mission—to stamp out communism and integration—as Mr. Gill was of his.

LOOK ON SPORTS

I don't know when I have heard as much flack about the officials as there was after the Drake-Marquette basketball game last week. The Drake coach called it the most gutless performance he had ever seen, and a lot of the fans agreed with him.

From what was written about the game, it seems that things did get out of hand. Perhaps this was because the Marquette coach had been billed as an attraction, and people came to see him. So he had to put on a show for the crowd. The officials must have been lax in letting him do things that he should have drawn technical fouls for, and so the whole thing got away. And the game must have been rough, because everybody who talks about it says it was.

But if you follow basketball you know that the game today for winning teams is muscle and intimidation. The good teams nearly always play rough, and really whack you if you get in their way. Just about the only good team that didn't play like that was the UCLA team under Coach Wooden.

And another thing there is so much riding on a good crowd that coaches like Al McGuire have their own fans just as Woody Hayes of Ohio State has in football. People will come to the game, and couldn't care who wins just so the coach puts on a show. He probably draws about a thousand people who come just to see him. So, what do you do? Do you whistle him down at the very first show of gamesmanship, or do you let him get away with it. If you put him down, the fans won't like it, but you have to run the game.

But I think the Bulldogs found out that they can play with just about anybody and will likely be tough from now on. Their game last Saturday night was proof of that.

I don't know if Iowa State is for real yet, but it looks as if they may not finish in the cellar where they are supposed to according to the experts. They look pretty good at times, and came up with one last week that should have given them confidence when they meet the big boys in the conference.

Iowa U got their big man, Sky King, back and just might avenge at least one of their conference losses. Which one? Could be either one the way Michigan is just squeaking by in their games, and the fact that Minnesota took one on the chin last week.

The Hawks may not win the deal, but they should come in pretty close behind the leaders. And they got a lot of help from their bench, so they won't have to be afraid to go to it the rest of the way.

Here at home the Metro conference race boils down to the showdown between Lincoln and Hoover. But the big news this week was the fact that Tech finally got things together and came up with a pair of impressive wins at North and out of town. Maybe they have turned it around, and maybe this was just the law of averages working for the Engineers.

But whatever it was, I bet they were a happy bunch, and might have ideas about winning some more. Coach Green had to be pleased, because now he can maybe make them believe in themselves, and even if they don't win again, they will likely give somebody plenty of hell before they are beaten. Great work, fellows.

And the Tech girls aren't doing too badly, they do have a fine mark so far. But

MOODY

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moody, 1403 E. 15th, lost their home and all their possessions in a house fire recently. Mr. Moody has spent the last 14 years building the home.

Mr. Moody is now seriously ill with complications of a hernia operation. He is on a kidney dialysis machine in the intensive care unit of Mercy Hospital. His family, two daughters and a son were visiting him at the time of the fire.

I would guess that with a five girl team, the Tech team might be the class of the league, maybe.

I keep reading about a possible fight between George Foreman and Muhammad Ali sometime this spring or summer. On the surface as I see it now, the fight can end in only one way, a kayo by Foreman. Ali just isn't hungry enough to train hard enough to be able to take the punches that he took in their first fight.

As I said once before, if Foreman hits Ali as often as Norton or any of the last three fighters, the champ will end up on the floor. The old story of the pitcher going to the well once too often. I almost hope it doesn't come off.

RECREATIONAL VEHICLE SHOW

Greater Iowa's Annual Recreational Vehicle Show opens next Wednesday (Feb. 2) for a four-day run at Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Des Moines that will feature exhibits by more than 30 different dealers and distributors.

In addition, the Iowa Association of Private Campground Owners, Iowa Conservation Commission and several individual campgrounds will have information about camping in Iowa and surrounding areas.

The recreational vehicle exhibits will fill both floors of the auditorium with travel trailers, fifth-wheel trailers, fold-down camping trailers, motor homes, mini homes, pickup campers, pickup toppers and related RV equipment.

It'll be the largest collection of such equipment ever shown under one roof in Iowa, according to Show Director Martin P. Kelly.

The show will be open from 1 to 10 p.m. daily, Wednesday through Saturday, Feb. 2-5. A $1000 cash door prize will again be given away.

For additional information phone 515-274-0010 prior to show dates. During show week call the auditorium.

ENTERTAINMENT WORLD

Pearl Bailey: 1st Lady of Song

She has dined with kings, danced with presidents, slept in the White House, been baptized in the River Jordan, clashed with the Cuban ambassador on the floor of the U.N., and for over 40 years radiated a joyous, exuberant talent that lights up the stage and the silver screen like no other entertainer of our time.

Pearl Bailey is the stuff of legend... a one-of-a-kind original.

It's there in the husky voice that reflects a lifetime of singing in smokefilled clubs, and in all the small, subtle mannerisms that are pure Pearl Mae.

"Honey..." draws the voice that slithers from warm butterscotch to rough gravel.

"Honey, I have done a lot of livin' in my time!" and the remark is punctuated by a stab of the long, brown fingers studded with her trademark diamond rings as big as auto headlights.

The daughter of a Newport News, Virginia preacher, Pearl Bailey began her career at the tender age of three, singing and dancing in her father's church. By her mid-teens she was established on the vaudeville circuit, and years later, despite the patina of cafe society, Broadway and Hollywood, she still retains that indomitable air of a troupier who'd rather be front-stagecenter than anywhere else on earth.

"Darlin', I did every kind of work that was decent in my lifetime includin' scrubbin' floors, and I never asked nobody for no handouts. I can look back on my life without regrets."

In those early years, determined to make it big as an entertainer, she worked as a singer and dancer for $15 a week in the rough-and-tumble world of Pennsylvania coal-mining towns like Pottsville, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. People began to notice the tall, elegant girl with the indolent, throw-away singing style and soon she was in New York singing with the Big Bands, including Cab Calloway.

Hollywood and Broadway successes followed in the Forties and Fifties and in 1967 Pearl Bailey stepped into her most memorable role... as the 59th incarnation of Dolly Gallagher Levi, the wily match-maker of "Hello, Dolly." During those years she also racked up career honors which included a Tony award for her "Dolly" performance, Entertainer of the Year Award from Cue Magazine in 1968 and USO Woman of the Year Award in 1969.

But there is something about Pearl Bailey that can't be contained... something bigger than the plush clubs, the sound stages, the Broadway opening nights. And hence the early Seventies saw her become an international figure not just as an entertainer, but as a humanitarian... a kind of unofficial diplomat, with no ax to grind other than a deep and abiding love for people.

"Comin' from the world of theatre, I believe in humanism, sweetheart. I want to stretch out my hands and touch people. I think that's what it's all about... you simply stretch out your hands in deep love and concern."

It was that kind of love that took her to the Mideast where she received the Hussein Ben-Ali Freedom Medal from King Hussein of Jordan in 1973, and the First Order of Arts and Sciences of Egypt which was awarded her by President Sadat in 1974. It was love that took her to Israel, to Africa, to Liberia, and to Senegal where she showed them what a "real" American was like... an American who wasn't afraid to crawl into native huts, visit hospitals, cradle babies coated with dirt and bloated from malnutrition, even touch and talk to lepers in leprosariums!

The experiences touched Pearl Bailey in a new and abiding way, and in October of 1975, while starring in her third tour with "Dolly," she walked on stage at the Minskoff Theatre in New York after her fourth curtain call to announce her "retirement" from show business. Pearl Mae had finally decided she had had other and bigger fish to fry!

"The plain truth is, darlin', that I wanted to do something else with my life," she explains with the same uncontrived intensity that audiences have recognized for years as the "real Pearl." "I wanted to go into hospitals and schools, to other countries and places where I could help cure some of the hate we see destroyin' this world."

And Pearl had just the platform from which to launch her new career as an ambassadress of universal good will. As a friend and confidante of several U.S. presidents, including Eisenhower, Johnson, Nixon and Ford, Pearl Bailey has been invited to the White House more than any other performer except Bob Hope. And in late 1975 she was invited by President Ford to sing at a White House reception for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Now Pearl Mae, being Pearl Mae, is not long on protocol, but she is long on love, darlin'! "I just saw this fella sittin' there, darlin' and I thought, 'Gee whiz, they all dacin' and nobody asked that poor man to dance.'" And with all the naturalness and exuberance for which she is famed, Pearl just melted all that stuffy formality by bussing Sadat on both cheeks and whisking him out on the dance floor where the visiting Egyptian biggie danced til the wee hours.

Even President Ford, who had been suffering from a cold and sinus infection and avowed as he "felt poorly," tripped the light fantastic with Pearl Mae til 1:30 a.m. and pronounced her the best remedy since aspirin.

That same night she borrowed Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's bifocals to read her music and then suggested to Rocky that she'd dearly love to keep them as a souvenir. "You've got 'em," said the vice president. And Pearl Mae, who once took home a White House chair when she performed for President Nixon, tucked her latest acquisition in her pocket.

Even though it was a fun evening, it was a night that made a deep impression on the President, who recognized in Pearl Bailey a unique capacity to love unstintingly, to give unselfishly and to mend... by the sheer force of her warm personality... the gaps, wounds and suspicions that separate and alienate people. Three days later, in December 1975, President Ford named Pearl Bailey as Special Adviser to the U.S. Mission to the United Nations.

Pearl Bailey is no U.N. window dressing, either! She's a contributing member of the delegation. In her first day at the U.N., in fact, a Cuban diplomat who made snide remarks about U.S. policy in Puerto Rico soon wished he had not tangled with the U.S.'s "Pearl of great price!" Despite those big brown flashing eyes that usually light up with laughter, she can flashfreeze you with a cold, corneal stare if the occasion demands.

It is difficult to define just what it is that makes Pearl Bailey special. Part of the charisma is, of course, that she is so utterly uncontrived, so totally without affectation.

A big woman who stands proud, Pearl Bailey is as unsophisticated as brown sugar. A hand on a hip that is more ample than sample, a head flung back with the force of a deep throaty laugh, an elbow jabbed into your ribs to break down reserve... it's all pure Pearl, darlin'.

But most of all, it's the love. "When faced with hate, darlin', I just love a little harder!"

Impressions enjoy Troubadour success

Cotillion recording artists, The "impressing" IMPRESSIONS recently enjoyed a fantastically successful engagement at the Troubadour in Los Angeles. The melodic sounds of the vocal group have established them as a veritable institution in the entertainment industry. Fred Cash, Sam Gooden, Reggie Torian and Nate Evans performed to a celebrity studded audience every night... proving that they are truly entertainers' entertainers! Some of the celebrities who enjoyed hearing hits of the past like "I'm So Proud" and "Your Precious Love", along with tunes from the IMPRESSIONS latest album It's About Time, were: The Pointer Sisters-Walter Jackson-Bobby Womack-Chaka Khan-Natalie Cole-The Temptations-Bloodstone-

Atlantic recording artist, Dee Dee Bridgewater of Wiz fame-Charlie Pride-Fred Williamson, movie idol-Don Cornelius, star and innovator of Soul Train, and a host of others. Opening night drew the elite of the press, radio and television industry, including: Editors of the trades, newspapers, and magazines; representatives from Sammy & Company, Midnight Special; NBC exec Stan Myles and Dick Griffey, promotor and Talent coordinator; Vice President and General Manager of Atlantic Records, Bob Greenberg and Sirmo Doe of Atlantic's Artist Relations Department, were also on hand to see The Impressions receive a salute from Los Angeles businessmen presented by the executive director of the Interacial Council For Business Opportunities, Cleveland Neil.

Henry Allen, President of Cotillion Records and Vice President, Eddie Holland, flew in from New York to support The Impressions on their west coast tour.

The group's single release, "This Time", is currently riding high on the charts and the "New Sound" of The Impressions is destined to pave the way to a gold record and more respect from the industry to which they have dedicated their talents for the past 21 years!

Entertainment News

20th Century Recording Artists, Barry White, Love Unlimited and the Love Unlimited Orchestra were at Lake Tahoe for a three-day engagement at Harrah's Tahoe. "Let The Music Play", the theme for the new Barry White show featured selections from Barry's new album, "Is This Whatcha Want" and Love Unlimited's new release on Barry White's new label, Unlimited Gold Records, is entitled, "He's All I've Got". In addition to all the glitter and dazzle that was created by this lavish opening, Mr. White performed the "Theme From King Kong, which proved a "hairy" experience.

After the Lake Tahoe opening, Barry White plans a United States Tour which will include the following cities: February 11-12, Chicago's Airy Crown Theater; February 14, Washington D. C. Constitution Hall; February 18-19, New York Felt Forum.

Roland S. Jefferson, MD, one of the few practicing psychiatrist in Los Angeles, is becoming quite the celebrity in the literary field behind the explosive sales of his novel "The School On 103rd Street" plus his forthcoming novel "A Card For The Player." Additionally Dr. Jefferson is an accredited screen writer whose talents in this area will soon be viewed with the releasing of the motion picture "Disco 9000," produced by D'Urville Martin and starring Jeannie Bell.

BOBBY MARTIN

Bobby Martin, noted producer and arranger, is in Philadelphia to produce several cuts for Lou Rawls' upcoming album. Bobby's special touch has already helped The Manhattans earn at least one platinum record. In addition, Bobby arranged Lou Rawls' gold hit, "You'll Never Find Another Love," and produced that single's "B" side and numerous other cuts from the album, All Things In Time.

Equity No. CE 6-3454

THE CENTRAL BANK FOR SAVINGS, Plaintiff,

vs.

JULIUS E. DRESCH, CINDY K. DRESCH, DES MOINES GENERAL HOSPITAL POLK COUNTY, IOWA, Defendants.

TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS(S):

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the Office of the Clerk of the above Court, a Petition in the above entitled action. The Plaintiff's attorney is Michael P. Joynt of the law firm of Wasker, Sullivan, Wheatcraft & Ward, whose address is 2100 Financial Center, Des Moines, Iowa 50309.

You are further notified that unless you appear thereto and defend in the Iowa District Court for Polk County, at the County Courthouse in Des Moines, Iowa, on or before February 25, 1977, judgment by default will be rendered against you for the relief demanded in the Petition.

You are further notified that the Petition of the Plaintiff in the above entitled action is claiming personal judgment against Julius E. Dresch and Cindy K. Dresch, and judgment in rem against the property hereinafter described in the sum off $14,908.98, with interest at the rate of nine (9%) percent, from and after June 1, 1976, on the Promissory Note of January 20, 1976, executed and delivered to the Plaintiff's assignor, that the Plaintiff is the absolute owner thereof, and said Note and Mortgage given to secure said Note are due and payable by reason of the failure of the Defendants to pay the installments of principal and interest when due. The Petition further asks for foreclosure of said Mortgage of even date and the Note of January 20, 1976, on the following described real estate, to-wit:

Lot 978 in Four Mile, an Official Plat, now included in and forming a part of the City of Des Moines, Iowa, and also asking that said Mortgage be declared a prior and paramount lien to that of each and all Defendants and further praying for the appointment of a receiver, and for the amount paid by the Plaintiff for legal attorney fees, abstract expenses and all accruing costs of this action, and for such other relief as may be just and equitable in the premises.

You are further notified that the Mortgage herein provides that in the event of foreclosure and sale of the property by Sheriff's sale, the time of one year redemption shall be reduced to six months provided that the mortgagee waives any right to take a deficiency judgment. Plaintiff reserves the right to waive all rights to a deficiency judgment prior to Sheriff's sale.

You are further notified that the Mortgage herein provides that in the event the Court finds in the Decree that the titleholders who are personally liable on the Mortgage have abandoned the premises and the mortgagee has waived any right to a deficiency judgment, the redemption period shall be reduced from one year to sixty (60) days.

The foreclosure Petition of the Plaintiff prays for a Writ of Possession in the event that any part of the mortgaged premises be sold under foreclosure decree and not redeemed from Sheriff's sale as provided by law without any other additional proceedings.

Plaintiffs,

vs.

PATRICK L. JACKSON and CHARLOTTE JACKSON, and all unknown Claimants and all persons unknown claiming any right, title or interest in the real estate described below; and all heirs, spouses, assigns, grantees, legatees, devisees, and beneficiaries of each and all of the above named defendants.

Defendants.
TO: The above-described defendants and each and all of you and to the unknown claimants of the title to the real estate described in the foregoing caption, which is by this reference made a part of this Original Notice:

You are hereby notified that the Petition of the Plaintiffs in the above entitled action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court, the State of Iowa, in and for Polk County, for the purpose of quieting, establishing and confirming the title of the Plaintiffs in the following described premises:

Lot 1 in Block 17 in Plat One of AUBURN HEIGHTS, now included in and forming a part of the City of Des Moines, Iowa.

You are further hereby notified and required to serve upon James B. Morris, Plaintiffs' attorney, whose address is 221 Locust Street, Des Moines, Iowa, 50309 a motion or pleading to the petition on or before March 4, 1977, to file a duplicate with the undersigned Clerk of Court.

If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for the relief demanded in the Petition.

You are further notified that a Petition of the above named Plaintiffs in the above entitled action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the above named Court, which said Petition asks no claim of personal judgment against you, and which Petition alleges that the Plaintiffs are the absolute owners in fee simple of the real estate described in the caption of this Notice, which description is by this reference made a part hereof.

That the said Defendants, or some of them as Plaintiffs, are credibly informed and believe, make some claim to said property or some interest therein, adverse to the title of these plaintiffs, but plaintiffs allege that any right title or interest that the said Defendants, or any of the, may ever have had in or to said real estate, or any part thereof, is junior and inferior to the little of these Plaintiffs and is now barred by the statute of limitations.

That the names and residences of the unknown Defendants and the unknown claimants, and each and all of them are unknown to these plaintiffs, and that plaintiffs have sought diligently to learn the same.

Plaintiffs pray that the title to the real estate above described be quieted in them, as against the adverse claim of each and all of the Defendants, and that all of said Defendants be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title, or interest in or to said real estate, adverse to the Plaintiffs herein and that Plaintiffs be decreed to be the absolute owners in fee simple of said real estate and for general equitable relief.

For full particulars see Petition on file.

Age no barrier for these musicians

Thursday nights the house of George Stanley of Des Moines becomes home for a lively revival of Depression-era jazz, boogie-woogie, and blues.

Ignoring the ailments of age and the power of modern "hippy" music, the members of George Stanley's Favorites play away the years in a carnival of rollicking good-times.

The tie that binds the band together is a shared musical background, most of them having been on the road in the late '20s and '30's playing wherever they could make a buck. Most had years ago laid their music aside due to the onslaught of age.

The Favorites resulted from George Stanley's battle with depression. "I had three-fourths of my stomach taken out...I couldn't lift 10 pounds and I was alone at my farm looking at the four walls when I decided to do something about it."

Dudley Black

Although false teeth prevent Stanley from playing his slide trombone with the band, he invested $45,000 in purchasing instruments, tuxedos, and a bus for the Favorites and two related groups. Stanley now handles bookings, occasionally sits in on bass, and does the clowning between numbers.

The "Satchmo" of the band, 65 year old Chuck (Goody) Watkins of 1732 Lyon St., blows a driving saxophone, bouncing his body in time to the beat. During pauses he mops his brow with a handkerchief, like the late Louis Armstrong.

Watkins who hit the road in 1927 as a banjo player, also writes and arranges music for the band and sings.

The oldest member of the Favorites, 68 year old Dudley Black of 1507 14th St., is the man on string bass. Black, a former assistant manager of two stores for the Iowa Beer and Liquor Control Department, left his music eight years ago as a personal protest against what passes for music in the modern era. "Today's music just slugs you over the head and it doesn't say anything. All they do is repeat two words over 32 bars of music. I think tunes are supposed to deliver a message."

The message of the Favorites should be clear. "I don't think people should stop living at age 65," explained Black.

"I think people with common interests — you don't have to be musicians — should get together and you'll accomplish something."

administrating board for the Community Services Administration. Councilmen approved the expansion of the present 27-membered board to 33 positions. But Councilmen Russ Lavine said he wouldn't agree with the proposal unless their was a way of checking up on the board, to prevent misappropriation of funds....

City Manager Richard Wilkey told councilmen that the board would keep financial records at all times, so there would be no misappropriation of funds by C.A.B. and C.S.A. board members.

Last night the Des Moines City Council decided to let Dennis Harney, Executive Director of CIRALG hire direction as he sees fit for the mayor's summer youth program.

NEWS BRIEFS

(Salisbury, Rhodesia) — A Black nationalist leader in Rhodesia declared today that he will continue to struggle for Black majority rule in the white-ruled nation. Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa (Moo-Zoh-Ray'-Wah) did not say whether he is committing his African National Council to violence in the struggle over Rhodesia. The remarks came after negotiations concerning eventual Black rule broke down on Monday.

Will there come a time when it's just too costly to save a life?

Health care is better than it was ten, five, or even one year ago. No question about that. The problem is that while our medical capabilities have increased, costs have also increased. In just 10 years, the Iowa average cost of a routine appendectomy has nearly doubled to $1,208. Having a baby is almost three times more expensive. If costs keep rising like that, good care could soon become unaffordable.

We have ways to help you stem rising health care costs.

Working with hospitals and doctors has developed a number of programs that can help slow down the rising costs of medical care and still maintain the quality of care.

One program allows patients to be discharged from the hospital sooner to recuperate at home at far less cost.

Another program allows some surgical patients to have laboratory and X-ray tests as outpatients instead of in general service accommodations that cost more money.

A third allows certain surgery to be done on an outpatient basis in the hospital or doctor's office to save costly hospital days.

We are also working with doctors' review committees to help make sure you are not getting more care than you need, or less.

And, we're working with planning agencies to help make sure only needed services are available because unnecessary services cost money.

What you can do to help.

We, the hospitals, and the doctors are working hard to make these programs widespread in Iowa. The more you ask for and use these cost-cutting programs, the more available they will become. Remember, the less it costs for your care, the less you'll have to pay in premiums and taxes when you're well.

We're doing our part. If you'll do yours, together we can meet the challenge. We Care.
