Burrell Asks More Government Commitment to Minority Business

(Washington, D.C., June 15, 1977) At a taping of the nationally syndicated television program, America's Black Forum, Dr. Berkeley G. Burrell, 10th President of the National Business League, called for greater commitment by the federal government in assisting the minority business community.

On the program Dr. Burrell emphasized that only through increased government assistance could minority enterprise attain economic parity for the nation's 17% minority population.

Dr. Burrell stated that the prospect of future increases in productivity throughout the total national economy depends on boosting productivity in the underutilized minority business sector. But the NBL President was quick to point out that there was more to gain than boosting production and cutting inflation. Dr. Burrell contended that strengthening the minority business community was the only way to guarantee the survival of the free enterprise system.

In answer to reporters questions, Dr. Burrell explained that minority business has a lot of catching up to do. Minority firms grossed $7 billion last year, while gross receipts for non-minority business totaled $2.4 trillion. The minority parity share should have been $900 billion in gross receipts.

According to Dr. Burrell's analysis, minority business needs capital to expand and in so doing create new jobs and lower the nation's high minority unemployment rate.

"There are 400,000 minority businesses in this country. If they could each hire just two more people, we'd have new jobs for 800,000 people in the minority community", said Dr. Burrell.

The NBL President explained that it was up to government to set the tone for the nation's reaction to the efforts of minority enterprise.

"The government provides the markets and climate for corporate business," Dr. Burrell explained. "What it has done for defense, airlines and railroads, it must do for minorities, make it possible for minorities to participate in large scale revenue industries like health maintenance, transportation and defense."

In response to questions about what the government has done so far, Dr. Burrell explained that since 1953 the Small Business Administration has provided only $17 billion in total loans and loan guarantees, to minority enterprise, adding that SBA certainly does not have the required resources as a single agency.

"In order for the minority business sector to achieve parity by the year 2000, it will be necessary to invest $440 billion in minority enterprise."

Dr. Burrell stressed the importance of government procurement policy in assisting minority business. "The Government must commit itself to spending greater procurement dollars with minority firms while providing for a full range of support services in enabling minority business to fulfill such contracts."

Dr. Burrell pointed out the minority procurement provisions in the Railroad Regulatory Act of last year which guaranteed minority participation in upgrading the nation's railroads. The NBL President restated his belief that time is running out for the government to take decisive action in assisting minority enterprise.

"Some Blacks hate the system," said Dr. Burrell "because they don't have a part in American business. And young Whites are asking me why do you support free enterprise which they feel hasn't done anything for minorities in this country. They are using us as an excuse to attack the system," Burrell emphasized.

"But we must preserve the system and the only way to do that is by minorities participation in it. For the system to survive, a number of Blacks are going to have to be highly visible so that other Blacks can see that there are opportunities."

Dr. Burrell asked for expanded government assistance in providing equity capital, debt financing and technical assistance to the minority business community, calling for the kind of program that created the Alaska pipeline and revitalization of American railroads.

In answer as to whether the Carter administration will be responsive to minority enterprise, Dr. Burrell indicated it was too early to tell, but did say that being a small business man, the President understood that you have to make an investment in order to get back a return ..."

OMBE / EDA PUBLIC WORKS LAW OF 1977 AGREEMENT — Secretary of Commerce, Juanita M. Kreps, center, chats with Dr. Randolph T. Blackwell, right, Director-designate of the Commerce Department's Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE), and Economic Development Administration (EDA) Assistant Secretary Robert T. Hall, left, prior to a joint OMBE / EDA agreement signing ceremony. The agreement was on the administration of minority assistance from the Public Works Law of 1977 program. The two Commerce Department agencies will identify, encourage and assist minority firms to participate in the public works program, which calls for 10 percent, or $400-million of a total of $4-billion, to be expended for minority business enterprise. The signing ceremony took place recently in the office of Secretary Kreps at the Commerce Department in Washington, D.C.

News Briefs

Washington, D.C. — Representative Charles Diggs of Detroit, Michigan, is being investigated charging that he received kick-backs from some of the employees on his staff. Diggs has been active in African affairs and only recently succeeded in having the house appropriations committee approve a one hundred million dollars for economic aide in South Africa.

Diggs is a prominent funeral director in Detroit and is alleged to be heavily in debt.

ATLANTA, GA. — The nation's largest group of black law enforcement executives has passed a resolution condemning attempts to discredit black leaders.

Practically every elected black official has been subject to such an attack, Hubert Williams, director of police in Newark, N.J., told the National Organization for Black Law Enforcement on Friday.

A survey of top black police executives revealed that almost every one of them serving in a major department had been the object of an attempt to discredit him or her, said Williams, who was elected president of the group.

OTTUMWA, IA. — Rosemary Weeks, 43, of Ottumwa was given an eight-year suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for five years in connection with the shooting death of her former husband, Keith Ewing, sr.,

45, on Apr. 21.

She had pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter. She originally was charged with murder.

DAR ES SALAAM, TANZANIA — An organization representing about 80 per cent of the world's 72 million Lutherans chose a Tanzanian bishop Friday as the first black president of their world assembly and adopted resolutions condemning alleged human rights violations in South Africa, Rhodesia and Uganda.

Poor preparation

It has taken several years to construct the Alaskan pipeline from which it is expected to deliver several billion barrels of oil.

The project is financed by a group of leading oil companies including Exxon, Texaco, Richland and others. It has been hailed as a partial solution to our energy crisis.

Now that the oil has begun to flow it has developed that the sponsors have not prepared to process this oil in this country or to properly remove it to areas where it is especially needed.

Maybe the problem will be solved soon and the oil delivered to the people as had been anticipated during the years the pipeline was under construction.

Roy Wilkins, stalwart, intelligent leader, leaves NAACP

Roy Wilkins, who for 22 years has led the NAACP, is retiring. He winds up in his old hometown, St. Louis, where the national convention is being held at this time.

Wilkins took over the post from Walter White who held the job during the period when civil rights and equal opportunity were far below what the situation is today. Prior to the time Wilkins took over the job and for many years thereafter conditions in the South were a little better than at the turn of the century and Negroes had little protection in maintaining such rights as they did have.

Wilkins first job was directed toward implementing the provisions of the Constitution guaranteeing American citizens equal protection of the law. Lynchings were still prevalent in some parts of the South, Negroes were not permitted to vote freely in many places and segregation in the schools and in places of public accommodation was almost strictly carried on. Then too, during the 1960's, when law and order got out of hand on the school campuses and in many other places, Wilkins held to the system which the NAACP had consistently followed that not force, but resort to the courts, was the safest and most lasting method of eliminating these injustices.

Wilkins' program aggravated many young people who insisted that his approach was too slow. In fact, he was called 'Uncle Tom' at times and there was a movement to change the name of the organization to the National Association for the Advancement of Black People. As a result, of the manner in which Wilkins conducted the affairs of the association he gained the respect of those people who believe that all men are entitled to the equal protection of the law and demonstrated that such an organization could survive by adhering to honesty, responsibility and efficiency.

Wilkins has done a fine job and no doubt will be called on consultation as the new administration takes over.

Wilkins' life has been a fine example for young people as he grew up in St. Louis under discrimination, graduated from the University of Minnesota and led the group that has almost eliminated lynching, segregation in the schools and public places; as his efforts, helped to make the right to vote work so well that thousands of Negroes have been elected to office in the South and they have elected more in the North. He deserves the highest respect among all people in America who believe that all men are entitled to the protection of the law which covers the whole area of civil rights. His successor is Benjamin L. Hooks, an able man having served as a minister, a judge and now relinquishes his unexpired term as a member of the Federal Communications Commission. We hope for the best for his administration and the continued success of the NAACP. He will need the help of those who have fulfilled their obligation in the past and also those who have benefited by the things the NAACP has done and still make no contribution to its finances.

President Amin surprises His critics

I watched Ibl Amin, president of Uganda, as he was being interviewed on NBC television, Tuesday evening. He spoke good English and expressed himself very well. His answers were conciliatory, in fact he stated that he was a Christian and hated no one.

His explanations of the assassination of innocent people were not clear, but in each instance insisted that he had no part in them.

Amin talked like one who recognizes that his conduct has alienated the friendship of many countries and people; that he must change his tactics if he expects to lead his people to become a state wherein the rights of all citizens would be regarded and that substantial effort will be made to modernize his country.

Energy Conservation Program Announced by Edison Electric

The National Energy Watch (NEW), a residential energy conservation program sponsored by the Edison Electric Institute (EEI) and its member companies, was announced at the Institute's Annual Convention.

The nationwide conservation program was developed under the direction of the Institute's Conservation and Energy Management Committee, which is chaired by Dwight H. Swanson, President and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Iowa Power. Eugene E. Young, Iowa Power Vice President, is also a member of this committee.

The goal of the program will be to motivate the builders of new homes and the owners of existing ones to build or modify their structures to meet energy efficiency guidelines.

Those who do will qualify as "official" members of the National Energy Watch, and will be recognized as such by their local utilities. NEW will offer the homeowner numerous incentives, direct and indirect, including financial, remodeling, material and labor assistance.

The program is designed to help consumers effect energy savings by: 1. Improving the thermal envelope of their homes. 2. Installing more efficient energy systems and appliances. 3. Adopting better use habits.

The program will address itself to each of these areas of potential savings — in both new and existing homes.

"I believe the investor-owned electric utility industry should take a leadership role in helping the nation conserve its dwindling supplies of fossil fuels," W. Donham Crawford, president of EEI, said.

"Selling conservation to the American people is the biggest marketing challenge our industry has ever faced. It may also be the most consequential — to the nation, the utility and the people themselves," added Paul C. Greiner, vice president, Conservation & Energy Management Division of EEI.

The three basic objectives of the "National Energy Watch" Program are to reduce the national drain on fossil fuels, help keep the utility industry's need for additional generating capacity to a minimum, and help keep the homeowner's monthly energy bills as low as possible.

NEW will be the first nationally organized energy conservation program to encourage in an organized way what President Carter has called the public's "patriotic participation" in energy conservation.

NEW is also a voluntary program, and to the extent that it is developed to its full potential it will demonstrate the clear advantages of this kind of program over one mandated by the government.

The program will be built around two sets of guidelines, one dealing with the thermal efficiency of the structure itself, and the other with the efficiency of its electric systems and appliances. The guidelines will be developed by individual participating companies, but will be patterned after examples developed by EEI.

Redlining: An attempt to intergrate?

If the financial institutions who are operated and/or controlled by persons not residing in an area bounded by the redline, make it very difficult for a low-income or minority person (oftentimes minority and low-income are synonymous) to attain finance for housing in an area that has been redlined, but on the other hand, if a financial institution states that they are not making it difficult for low-income and/or minority persons to attain finance because of their race, creed, color or national origin, then redlining must be an intergration plan!

How did I arrive at such a conclusion? Well to put it quite simply, if the financial institutions are saying that it is difficult for a low-income and/or minority person to acquire a loan for the purchase of a home in the redlined area, but are emphasizing that it is fairly easy to attain finance for a home not bounded by the redline, then it is quite obvious that the financial institutions want minority and/or low-income people to seek residence in the predominately all-white neighborhoods not bounded by the redline.

In other words the people who operate these financial lending institutions want low-income and minority people as their neighbors, right? If this is the case what we have in actuality is an intergration plan which discourages minorities and/or low-income people from buying homes in minority and/or low-income neighborhoods and at the same time this intergration plan encourages low-income and/or minorities to seek housing in those "preferred" neighborhoods that are not bounded by the redline.

I salute the financial institutions for their intergration plan! They should be commended and receive the highest award attainable for their intergration plan!

Although the financial institutions have come up with a solution to intergrated housing, I do have one question.

Once there is a good mix of low-income and/or minority residents established in the "preferred" high class neighborhoods, how are these people going to pay for their homes? Are you (the financial institutions) going to grant your new neighbors a loan every month to make their house payments?

Add Attic Vents

When you start adding insulation to the attic of an older home, you're going to have to make sure that attic is well ventilated. So many of the homes built before insulation was necessary have no attic vents.

An Iowa State University extension housing specialist says if the attic is not vented right, you'll end up with moisture problems. Dean Prestemon says any moisture that accumulates in your attic gets trapped in the insulation and has no place to evaporate to — unless you put in vents.

The vents should be installed in both the

Iowa Power anticipates no summer problems

Electric power supply heading into summer's hottest months looks very good for customers of Iowa Power.

Jack Luhring, Vice President — Power Planning and Bulk Power Marketing Services, said the Company anticipates no difficulty in meeting the demands of its more than 210,000 electric customers during July and August, traditionally the hottest months of the year.

"Currently we are operating with an electric generation capacity of just slightly over 1,200 megawatts," Luhring stated. "Of course this is somewhat higher than the actual peak load we are anticipating, but we are required to maintain a reserve capacity 15 per cent greater than our estimated peak."

The peak load — the maximum electric output for a one hour period — projected for this summer is 1,051 megawatts. Electric demand has already climbed to 80 per cent of the estimated peak, reaching approximately 840 megawatts on Friday, June 10. Des Moines recorded a temperature of 100 degrees that day.

Peak load for last summer was 944 megawatts, slightly lower than the all-time high in 1975, when customers demanded 955 megawatts during an hour-long period the afternoon of August 21. Temperature that day was 99 degrees. The 1976 peak was somewhat suppressed because of certain industry production decreases and "we judge that had those industries been operating at full capacity our peak would have been about 970 megawatts," Luhring said.

The "very good" electric supply outlook does not mean customers should be wasteful or that we don't have a continuing energy problem, said Luhring, who added that last winter's problems and the uncertain fuel supply should not be forgotten. "In fact," he said, "we're currently reviewing our emergency load overhang of the roof and at the peak of each end wall. Houses with no roof overhangs need larger vents at the end wall peaks — or power ventilators.

So, as you add insulation, add attic vents, too, if your older home doesn't have them already.

curtailment plan. Although there is no indication that such a plan will be needed this summer we need to be prepared should an unforeseen circumstance arise. While we are prepared for this summer's load, it is important to remind our customers to use energy wisely."

NAACP Deplores

Bombing

By a unanimous vote, the Executive Committee of the Chicago Southside Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has gone on record deploring the June 12th bombing of the home of Mr. Frank J. Williams, Chairman, Committee on Housing of the NAACP.

The Association has reasons to believe that white vandals perpetrated this act due to the vigorous activity being carried on by Chairman Williams in securing housing for black Americans in traditionally white neighborhoods. An organization spokesman stated that the Association is requesting additional police protection in the neighborhood where Mr. Williams and his family reside and declared that they would continue to fight for fair housing and assist black Americans to secure equal housing through the elimination of housing discrimination.

To Screen

"Disco 9000"

St. Louis — The St. Louis host chapter of the NAACP has invited producers of "Disco 9000", Demetris Johnson and Robert Paul Ross, to stage a special screening of the film for the National Convention delegates on Thursday, June 30, 1977 in Kiel Auditorium. The first disco film which stars John Poole and Jeanie Bell is scheduled to premiere July 1, 1977 in Chicago, Illinois.

The special screening of "Disco 9000" for the convention, came about on June 4, 1977 when the NAACP's Executive Committee agreed that "Disco 9000" was "good family viewing" because it contained no violence or nudity and it was financed, produced and written by blacks.

After the world wide premiere in Chicago, "Disco 9000" will open to audiences across the country.

Career-related Vacation Jobs

Secretary of Commerce Juanita M. Kreps today announced successful conclusion of the Department's 1977 drive to place college-bound students from minority backgrounds in career-related vacation jobs at business firms around the country.

This is the fifth consecutive year Commerce has operated its Business Management careers in business and industry. To be eligible for participation, students must be in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating classes, plan to attend college and major in an area useful to the employer, and have financial need.

Students can expect to earn approximately $5,500 over the course of the fellowship if they return to work each summer during college. For the 3,200 students already participating this means that private businesses will pay out some $17.6 million in salaries. It cost the Commerce Department just over $713,000 to administer the program, or about 4% of students' total earnings.

Secretary Kreps explained that the National Football League (NFL) and the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) are co-sponsors with Commerce in the Business Management Fellowship Program.

Each spring the NFL recruits 20 to 25 players to work in the program as temporary Commerce employees. Most players are based in their team cities where they solicit fellowship positions at local businesses and work with high school administrators to select qualified students for the program.

The National Alliance of Businessmen provides office space and other support services for the NFL players in the cities where they are based.

The Office of Minority Business Enterprise was created in the Department of Commerce in 1969 to serve as the Federal coordinating agency for minority business affairs and to work with the private sector in support of minority business development.

Heartland Arbitration decided

A third-party arbitrator called in to resolve a collective bargaining dispute between the Heartland Education Agency and the bargaining representative for its non-management professional employees has found in the agency's favor on three of the four issues he was asked to resolve, agency administrator K. W. Miller announced today.

The ruling, which pertains to the master contract between the agency and the Heartland Education Association, the authorized bargaining representative for the agency's non-management professionals for the 1977-78 school year, was made by Neil N. Bernstein, a law professor from St. Louis, Missouri, who was called in in May after the two sides could not reach agreement after 15 bargaining sessions.

Bernstein made the following awards in his ruling, which was date June 17:

That the agency need not increase the number of years of experience for which it would be required to pay employees who hold no more than a bachelor's degree, thus requiring those with at least ten years of experience to obtain a master's degree before earning more money;

That the agency be permitted to continue its practice of paying employees a set daily rate for summer work;

Allows the agency to keep from raising the salaries of employees who are presently paid more than their experience warrants;

And gives an average increase in pay of $1,134.50 — 8.6 per cent, by Bernstein's estimate — to an average of $14,598 for 190 days of work to the 132 members of the association.

When coupled with the increases in the costs of fringe benefits, to which the two sides had agreed in bargaining, the average raise will amount to more than ten per cent, Miller said.

Miller said the agency, which has no taxing authority and depends on the state treasury for most of its operating money, expects to receive about 7.8 per cent in new money for the coming year, the year in which the ruling will take effect.

What this means, he said, is that the agency will have to leave unfilled positions which have been approved for the special education programs it provides to the 63 local school districts and 120,000 children it serves.

A public agency, Heartland is the educational service and resource center for the school districts of area eleven. Most of the bargaining unit's members are employed in the agency's division of special education and include all of the agency's speech clinicians, hearing clinicians and audiologists, school psychologists and social workers and consultants in learning, mental, emotional and physical disabilities.

In addition to special education, the agency provides services in educational media, curriculum and staff development, educational research and program evaluation, guidance and testing, educational data processing and cooperative purchasing. Four of the association's members are employed as elementary guidance consultants.

The agency is the largest of 15 area education agencies set up in 1974 by the Iowa Legislature to replace the state's system of county and joint-county school systems. The agency began operations on July 1, 1975.

The agency had offered an average pay increase to the association of 6.3 per cent, or an additional $850 per year, which would have raised the average salary for 190 days of work to $14,341. That offer when coupled with the increased cost of fringe benefits for the employees, would have meant an average over-all increase of 7.82 per cent.

"It was an offer we felt was competitive and very comparable to the salaries paid by other public agencies, particularly schools, in this area. There is no question now that special education programs will suffer because of the ruling since we won't have the money to hire the people necessary to upgrade the programs. Upgrading special education programs is one of the primary reasons this agency was set up," Miller said.

Bernstein's ruling also set the starting salaries for employees with bachelor's degrees at $10,025 for 190 days; at $11,128 for beginners with a master's degree; at $11,930 for beginners with a master's degree plus 30 credit-hours and at $12,231 for beginners with a doctorate.

The ruling also allows employees with 18 years of experience to earn as much as $20,247 for 190 days of work.

The bargaining unit had originally demanded an average pay increase of 28 per cent.

This was the agency's second year of bargaining with its non-management

Broadcasters Form New Organization

Black station owners from all parts of the U.S. met in Atlanta this week to form the National Association of Black-owned Broadcasters.

The new organization's membership consists of broadcast facilities with 51% Black ownership.

"The Black broadcaster faces some very real problems which are not addressed within the context of the National Association of Broadcasters," said newly elected NABOB President Elliott Franks, of WOIC in Columbia, S.C. "We look to NABOB to impact on the solutions to the problems which restrict Black entry into broadcast ownership and constrain financial growth once the property has been established."

The newly formed National Association of Black-owned Broadcasters has been established, one, to serve as a line of communication between Black broadcast owners and two, to sensitize advertising agencies, and clients to the importance of the Black market. NABOB will also seek the means to increase the number of Black-owned stations in the U.S.

Co-Chairpersons for SCLC Convention

Dr. Joseph E. Lowery, Acting President and Chairman of the Board of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference announced that Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Dr. Martin Luther King, Sr. of Atlanta, and Mrs. Rosa Parks, now of Detroit, Michigan will serve as the Honorary National Co-chairpersons for the SCLC Convention to be held this August 16 through 19 in Atlanta, Georgia.

Dr. Lowery cited Senator Humphrey for his long-time commitment to equal rights for all citizens. While serving as Mayor of Minneapolis, Senator Humphrey electrified the 1948 Democratic National Convention by calling for full rights for black people in the United States. Then Mayor Humphrey's statement touched off a walkout by Southern delegates and the formation of the States Rights ticket headed by then-Governor Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. As Senator from Minnesota, Humphrey was always in the forefront of the civil rights struggle.

Dr. King is well known to Americans also. He is the father of the late Martin Luther King, Jr., the founding President of SCLC, and the greatest American of this century. Dr. King Sr.'s support of Jimmy Carter has been cited by the President as a chief contributing factor to his acceptance by black voters resulting in his election this past November. Observers will always remember Dr. King's benediction at the Democratic convention last year which signalled the end of American apartheid.

Mrs. Parks is known as the "Mother of the Civil Rights Movement". Mrs. Parks is the courageous lady who while working as a seamstress in Montgomery, Alabama in 1956 refused to give up her seat on a city bus to a white man. Her refusal to bend any longer to the brutal legalized segregation in Montgomery led to the year long bus boycott in that city, the emergence of Martin Luther King, Jr. and Ralph Abernathy as national civil rights leaders, and the formation of the Montgomery Improvement Association from which emerged the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Dr. Wise Use is stuck on energy-efficient appliances

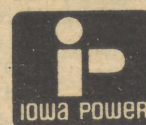

When you go shopping for a major appliance — an air conditioner, for instance — look for the new Dr. Wise Use Energy Efficient Appliance seal.

The seal tells you it's an appliance that operates efficiently. And the more efficiently the unit runs, the less it costs to operate.

If you see the seal on a room air conditioner, that means the unit has an E.E.R. — Energy Efficiency Ratio — of at least 7½. It may cost a bit more than a less efficient model, but it will save you money in the long run.

Incidentally, if you'd like to figure the E.E.R. of an appliance yourself, the formula is simple. Just divide B.T.U.'s by watts.

Next time you go shopping for a major appliance — air conditioner, refrigerator, freezer, gas dryer, range or water heater — look for the Energy Efficient Appliance seal with the picture of Dr. Wise Use. If the good doctor is stuck on an appliance, you know it's energy efficient.

Davenport

As Saturday, June 25 began, it was surely to be an exciting day for Leon and Raquel Holliverse. Rising at 5 A.M., they prepared their dog, Rufus, an 80 pounder German Shepherd for his flight to Lacland Air Force Base, Texas where he will be trained for narcotics or sentry duty.

Around 10:00 a.m., the Holliverses started their drive to Chicago to meet their son, Eduardo, age 16 and Maria Victoria age 15 who was arriving from Manila, Philippines. After a separation of 4 years, Eduardo and Victoria will join their parents.

The day ended with the Holliverses and their children happy and safely at home in Davenport, Iowa.

The Afro-American display at the 11th Annual Bettendorf International Folk Festival held the weekend of June 11-12 at Bettendorf Middle School, Bettendorf, Iowa won third prize in the Arts and Crafts category.

The display, centered on the theme of Alex Haley's extraordinary literary work, "Roots" told, through the use of posters, photographs, drawings and paintings the struggle of the black man from his ancestral beginning in Africa to his hopes and aspirations for the future.

Articrafts, sculpture, authentic African fabrics, jewelry and batiks from Ghana, Kenya and Liberia as well as from other African nations were on display. Photographic color slides of Africa were shown periodically during the two-day exhibit which attracted thousands of Quad-Citizens to Iowa's fastest growing city.

Community groups in the Quad-Cities participating in the event included the Metro-Com Branch, NAACP, Sepia Guild, The Davenport Civil Rights Commission, and the Commission on Aging for Senior Iowans (CASI).

A group of paintings executed in acrylics by Davenport artist Jesse Adams complimented the exhibit room as did the colorful native dress worn by the women attending the booth. In her native attire, Miss Michael Bogan of Davenport, chosen queen of the Afro-American display, charmed workers and visitors alike by her presence and her singing performance.

Mr. Abdul Sheiklu of Tanzania and Constance Benson, operators of the Unique Imports of Chicago had an outstanding display of original African products for sale.

General chairperson for the weekend event, which included entertainment in addition to Arts and Crafts, was Mrs. Cecile Cooper of Davenport. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Bettye Willis also of Davenport who was participating in the event for the first time, serving as Arts and Crafts chairperson. Mrs. Willis was aided by Mrs. Leonora Allen in setting up and displaying the various articles and Andrew Edelen who set up the various exhibits. It was Edelen's idea to develop the exhibit around the story of Roots. Both Mrs. Allen and Mr. Edelen resides in Davenport.

Leon Holliverse, Davenport, operated the audio-visual equipment, showing slides of Africa, part of the vast collection of Mrs. Kirsten Jensen, former Davenport and Lutheran Missionary nurse who lived in Liberia, West Africa for 33 years prior to her death earlier this year.

Other persons who devoted their time and talents to make the event a big success were Jacquelyn and Ethelda Wise of Rock Island, Mrs. Raquel Holliverse, Mr. Bob Willis, Cozie Dias, Ethel Werderman, Jackie Perazelli and Florence Eggers, all from Davenport.

Ed Conrad of Lowden recently sold his lumber yard after 59 years. There were five coal dealers in Lowden in the 1920's and 30's. In 1950 his business, Conrad and Conrad Lumber and Hardware, was one of the three remaining dealers, and he sold 1500 tons of coal that year. — Lowden Sun-News.

To get into the spirit of things, let's plan a picnic for the Fourth—at the seashore, in the park, or at home in your own backyard. And for food that's fun, what's more appropriate than good old American hot dogs—ballpark-style with relishes and mustard, or turned into Coney Islands with chili con carne. Balance the menu with deviled eggs, tossed vegetable salad, potato chips and fresh fruit. Add a Yankee Doodle Velvet Crumb Cake for dessert, a few patriotic colors—and, whee, it's a red-white-and-blue celebration. The cake is fudge in flavor and frosting, because that's the all-American favorite. The perfect choice, wouldn't you say, for Independence Day?

YANKEE DOODLE VELVET CRUMB CAKE

1½ cups Bisquick® baking mix	2 tablespoons shortening
½ cup sugar	1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg	Old Glory Chocolate Icing
½ cup water or milk	(below)
2 squares (1 ounce each) semisweet chocolate, melted and cooled

Heat oven to 350°. Grease and flour square pan, 8x8x2 inches, or round layer pan, 9x1½ inches. Blend all ingredients except icing in large mixer bowl on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, ½ minute. Beat on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally, 4 minutes. Pour into pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 30 to 35 minutes; cool. Frost with Old Glory Chocolate Icing. Decorate with tiny American flags at serving time. One jaunty flag in the center of each slice of cake.

This cake is a new variation of our old favorite, the Velvet Crumb Cake. Since the original is so popular, we turned it into a fudge cake—just as simple to do, just as fine and even in texture. And to double the fudge pleasure, here's a quick-as-a-wink chocolate icing for it.

OLD GLORY CHOCOLATE ICING

Heat 1 package (6 ounces) semisweet chocolate chips, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and 3 tablespoons milk in saucepan over low heat until chocolate is melted. Remove from heat; beat in 1 cup powdered sugar until smooth.

RED WHITE AND BLUE TABLE TRIM

Blue oilcloth as a tablecloth, white fingertip towels for napkins, bright red apples in the center. Or large white beach towels—red and blue bandanas. Happy Fourth, everybody! ©Reg. T.M. of General Mills, Inc.

ON SPORTS

A fellow walked beside me the other day and inquired when I had gotten into the Old Pals Club. This group, you will recall if you are old enough, was composed of some of the athletes of the twenties and up to the middle thirties. They included boxers, baseball players, basketballers and just any athlete in his game. You name it and they had somebody who could do it. Their softball and basketball clubs were perhaps the best known. Later they included people who had been athletes in their day, but who were past their days.

Well, I had to tell him that I was never a member of that body, and neither was any black that I could recall. There may have been some who could have made it, Bob Vandever, Curt Morton, Scotty Rowland, and James Allen of North, along with Walt Thompson, but they didn't get into it.

The guy talking to me was a little bitter that he had never been invited into the group. All the while he was talking, I kept wondering who he was, but I didn't ask because he seemed so familiar with my name and things I had done. He told me that he was at one time the featherweight boxing champ of Iowa. "Beat Frankie Smith for the title." I recalled Smith very well, and very few guys ever beat him. So who was this cookie? Must be for real.

Oh, well, I ought to have a file of athletes that I could refer to and then I would know who he was. Louie Kelly, maybe? Beats me.

A bunch of us tried to organize a black group similar to the Old Pals, but the cross town rivalry was too strong and too bitter. We had teams that if we could have put them together could have held their own with most of the semi pro clubs around town. The closest thing to that group was the Olympian club and some of our best athletes didn't belong to that. Why? I don't know.

But that group organized one of the biggest swimming meets in the city. They started as a group of swimmers from Good Park, and in two years they had swimmers from places like Cedar Rapids, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City and other places. And do you know the only way we could get any publicity for that meet was for me to write it and carry it downtown.

The thing got too big for the tiny Good Park pool, and it was suggested that it be moved out to Birdland. That cost the Olympians the meet, because it was quickly taken over and became one of the state swimming meets.

But the thing did result in opening swimming for blacks in the Des Moines schools, and Frank Robinson was recognized as one of the leading swimming officials around, and became a familiar sight at just about all of the high school meets in the city. This helped him to become one of the first black officials at the Drake Relays, and he served for at least thirty years as the long jump judge.

Walt Thompson was named with Frank, but he didn't care for it. Never did find out why, but then Walt was never one for the limelight.

The example of the Olympian swimming meet is probably the main reason why we have insisted on keeping our Hilltop Tennis meet finals at the park so we can control the meet. We have been invited to become a part of the Des Moines Tennis Association and they wanted to help with financial assistance when we were first getting started with the meet.

But we, Bill Chet Williamson and the rest, were very independent. We did everything that one could do and stay out of jail to raise money so we could be on a sound financial footing which we are now. But it seems that we have served our purpose, and now we are having our troubles to stay in there.

We have been down the road too far to turn back now, so we shall just have to weather our present troubles and maybe they will go away, or else we shall do them in.

So much for the history lesson

People have been asking when Arthur Ash is going to return to the tennis courts. I believe he has played in a couple of exhibition matches, and will be in the Longwood tennis meet in a couple of weeks.

But I think that he will have trouble. He hasn't had tournament matches for about six months, and maybe won't have that edge that one must have in order to win. That will likely take another six months to regain, so look for Arthur to take his lumps for quite a while. Then he will begin to come out if he wants to pay the price.

There are so many fine young tennis players in the country now that any one of them is apt to beat any of the top rated players at any given time. So don't be surprised if some guy named Joe scores an upset victory over Ash in maybe quite a few meets before he regains his touch.

Since our Hilltop meet is in conflict with the Iowa Closed meet at Cedar Falls, one fellow thinks we will have more black players in the thing.

What he doesn't know is that there aren't too many

Congressional Call
Safe and Sanitary Housing

For most people the decision to buy a home is one of the most important they'll ever make both in terms of the investment and responsibility. Your banker can help you with the financing of a new home but only you can decide whether to buy and what house is right for your family.

Morton A. Baruch, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Housing-Deputy Federal Housing Commissioner in the Department of Housing and Urban Development claims the Congress of the United States is committed to creating more housing for the public.

Mr. Baruch says housing is a basic commodity equal to food and clothing in the range of human needs. Congress has mandated decent, safe and sanitary housing, to quote the law. This requires workable, responsive, consistent and dependable housing for the population of the United States.

Mr. Baruch was not blaming the bankers in front of him at the American Bankers Association Real Estate Conference at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco for the sickness of the shelter industry. But rather pointing in the direction of the nearest care unit-the federal government.

Pointing out that the housing programs to emit from the Potomac from now on were going to be consistently to correct past abuses of the industry. The sharp up and down swings which account for the slumps and highs in construction activities will be confined to a steady flow policy.

There is not to be the misuse of the construction industry through the housing market to start up or down the economy depending on inflation and unemployment. Instead, Congress is calling for a slower but steady policy of continued construction of housing. This fine tuning of the system is to make it more effective for the public if not the private contractors.

Housing for Low-Income Families

The immediate implication of this type of policy is to arrest any sharp upturn in single family dwelling construction. However, it should eliminate any future droughts from the availability of housing as periodically occurs in the U.S. marketplace. Mr. Baruch's Congressional mandate means he also must take care of housing for low-income families.

He is especially well equipped to deal with this problem since he formerly served in HUD's office of Assisted Housing which is responsible for the section 8 Housing Assistance Payments Program and the traditional public housing program. His experience includes working with HUD's subsidized programs section 235, 236 and Rent Supplement Program.

Thus, the department has requested and received a supplemental appropriation which will produce over 350,000 units this fiscal year under section 8 Housing Assistance payments program. To induce more conventional financing for construction, contract terms have been increased from 20 to 30 years.

This means protection for low-income families, developers and lenders. Tenants are required to pay 15 to 25 percent of their income for rent. Section 8 funds guarantee the balance of the contract rent for each dwelling unit. Furthermore, inflation is not a problem since there is an automatic annual rent adjustment plus an additional rent adjustment for utility and property tax increase.

This assures an adequate return to the owner of the property and protects the tenants from rent increases beyond their ability to pay.

NEW FRIENDSHIP COGIC

The New Friendship Church Of God In Christ is yet on the move for God. We were blessed on Sunday to have our pastor to share with us out of the word of God. He spoke until the power fell on where do we go from here. The spirit of healing was in the room and Pastor Daye let God use him to minister in the spirit to the need of God's people. Our pastor has been heavenly anointed since his return from Seattle and Tacoma Washington. If you are sin sick or physically sick come to our little church and let the man of God pray for you, whatever your problem, God can fix it for you.

Sunday nite, June 19, Pastor Daye spoke in North Chicago, Ill. at the dedication of the New St. James Temple Cogic, where he formerly was affiliated as an associate minister. Hundreds were blessed and yet telling about the message from heaven.

Sunday afternoon, June 25, the Mothers Board of New Friendship had a lovely service with special guests, the Shiloh Baptist church with their new Pastor Rev. B. Jamison. He spoke on the hand of God. Their choir rendered beautiful selections. On Sunday afternoon the YWCC of New Friendship will fellowship with other young women at 3 PM in a Annual Baby Contest being held at East University COGIC, Baby Breon Daye and others are trying to win. MESSIAH TEMPLE

"The Gift and The Promises" was the lesson brought to us last Sunday by Evangelist Zora Reed. Is the Christ of the apostles the same Christ you serve and obey? Take time each day to re-evaluate the Christ you serve to make sure you are really serving Christ and not yourself.

There was a solo from Damon Ott that blessed those who heard it. Damon is only six years old, but already he is being trained to serve the Lord with the talents God has given him. All the children and adults at Messiah Temple are encouraged to give all their talents back to the Lord in praise of Jesus who saves us and keeps us.

All worship times have changed to a half hour earlier for the summer. Sunday school now starts at 10:00 with worship services at 11:00. The Book of Acts was finished last Sunday evening, but Evangelist Zora

PUBLIC SAFETY

On the July 4 weekend last year 16 people died in traffic accidents in Iowa, nine of those deaths were caused by a person who had been drinking.

Some were drunk, really drunk. Others had, as the law books say, "impaired driving caused by alcohol."

The Iowa Department of Public Safety warns drivers not to drive unless they are sober. This warning is not only for people taking long trips over the Fourth, but for those staying close to home. All but three of the accidents that killed people over the holidays last year happened close to home and all except one of the drivers were from 17 to 25 years of age.

Conference on Civil Rights

The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights led by Chairman Clarence Mitchell recently hosted one of the most successful affairs the nations capital has witnessed in many years. Whether measured by the number of guests who attended, (over 400) the number of honorees, (an even 100) or just the generous enthusiasm exhibited by the crowd, it all added up to a highly successful and popular evening. Army Secretary, Clifford Alexander summed it up when he said he hoped these people being honored realized that they would not be holding these jobs if it had not been for the Leadership Conference.

No one really minded the continued crowd noises as HUD Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris reflected on her attendance at the first LCCR meeting in 1949. Nor did they intend to drown out such succeeding speakers as Special Assistant to the President, Midge Constanza, Assistant Attorney General, Drew Days III, Under Secretary of State Lucy Benson, the newly appointed chairman of the EEOC, Eleanor Holmes Norton, the just sworn-in Commissioner of the Civil Service Commission, Ersu Poston and a host of other speakers. It was just, as both honorees and guests readily agreed, a very special occasion for those that have supported, worked and hoped so long to bring to reality the opportunities that the Human rights forces now seem to be on the brink of accomplishing.

Clarence Mitchell, sometimes called the 101st Senator and without a doubt the Elder Statesman of all

Civil Rights advocates, clearly was pleased when he said... "The appointment of these 100 men and women, is a significant milestone in achieving true representation of all groups in our society at the level where decisions are made and implemented."

"That progress must continue as the symbol of democracy throughout the world. We can and we must do even more — but this is indeed a great beginning."

The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, established in 1949, is a coalition of 141 national organizations — civil rights, religious, labor, civic, fraternal, women and the handicapped — working together for the enactment and enforcement of effective civil rights and social welfare legislation.

Saylorville information available to public

Colonel Daniel L. Lycan, Rock Island District Engineer, US Army Corps of Engineers, announced that a new public information service on Saylorville Lake began June 24.

By dialing Area Code 515 964-0849, callers will be informed via a three-minute prerecorded message of the current Saylorville Lake level, the water level below the dam, the inflow of water into Saylorville Lake, the amount of water being released from Saylorville Dam, precipitation during the past 24 hours, the current temperature, boating and fishing conditions on Saylorville Lake, and whether or not space is available in the campgrounds.

This tape message will be made every morning, seven days a week, and will include data as of that morning. Calls to get the tape message can be made on a 24-hour basis.

During flood periods, usually in the spring of the year, reservoir levels, National Weather Service flood forecasts, the amount of flood water being stored at the project and flood damage prevented by Saylorville Dam will also be included in the recorded message.

The purpose of the prerecorded message is to give a brief report on current Saylorville Lake conditions. The tape does not provide detailed explanations of this data. If more information is needed, people should call the Saylorville Lake Visitors Center, Area Code 515 964-5460.

Plans are being made to provide a similar service in the near future at the Rock Island District's two other reservoir projects in Iowa; Coralville Lake on the Iowa River, north of Iowa City, Iowa; and Red Rock Dam and Lake Red Rock on the Des Moines River, between Knoxville and Pella, Iowa, and southeast of Des Moines, Iowa.

A similar three-minute taped telephone message on Mississippi River conditions began March 25, at the Rock Island District headquarters at Rock Island, Illinois. Persons can call Area Code 309 788-4750 and get Mississippi River stages, flows, precipitation, and temperatures at Lock and Dam 11 at Dubuque, Locks and Dam 15 at Rock Island, Illinois, and Lock and Dam 22 at Saverton, Missouri, on a 24-hour a day basis. This Mississippi River public information service has proved to be very popular, with over 600 calls being received per month.

Appointed to Key Positions

President Carter continues to follow-up on his statement that more Blacks will be involved in appointments to key positions within the Nation's judiciary and law enforcement system.

The President recently announced two more appointments of Blacks:

—Lee A. Limbs, Jr., was nominated to be U.S. Marshal for the District of Arizona. He is currently Deputy U.S. Marshal there.

—Henry M. Michaux, Jr., of Durham, N.C., was nominated to be U.S. Attorney for the Middle District of North Carolina.

Limbs was born June 5, 1939, in Austin, Texas, and served in the U.S. Air Force in 1955 and from 1956 to 1960. From 1962 to 1964, Limbs was deputy sheriff of Maricopa County, Arizona, and served as Deputy U.S. Marshal for Arizona from 1964 to June 1967 and from December, 1967 to the present.

Michaux was born September 4, 1930, in Durham and received an LL.B from North Carolina Central University Law School in 1964. From 1965 to 1969, he practiced law in Durham and in 1969-1972 served as assistant district attorney for the Supreme Court in Durham. Since 1972, he has been a member of the North Carolina State Legislature and since 1975 a partner in the firm of Michaux, Michaux & Willis.

HUSC News Service

The HUSC Department of Journalism is establishing a campus based news service with advanced Journalism students covering various events and activities in the Howard University community and the greater Washington, D.C. area.

Since we are located in the capital of the nation, as well as the news capital of the world, we think many of the events we cover will interest your readers. The stories will be written and edited under the supervision of our faculty and a professional news staff. We are especially interested in covering and interpreting conditions in local Black and minority communities which are ignored by the established press.

These articles will include documented facts, a list of all sources and a list of specific telephone contacts and addresses. The service will be available to community media throughout the country and metropolitan and national news organizations and institutions.

Avoid Tax Withholding

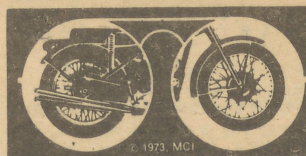

Ames, Iowa — If you're a student with a summer job, it's possible you can avoid the income tax hassle. Cindy Needles, extension consumer specialist at Iowa State University, says a single student who expects to earn less than $2950 this year should fill out a W-4E form rather than the standard W-4 form. The W-4E is a request for an exemption from federal tax withholding.

When the W-4E is used, federal taxes will not be withheld, resulting in a larger paycheck. In addition, you will not have to fill out a federal tax return or wait until next year for the refund of taxes not owed in the first place.

If you are not sure which form you filled out when beginning your job, check with your employer. If the standard W-4 was used, you can change to a W-4E. It's worth taking the time to make this change because it will increase the amount of your paycheck.

Needles does caution persons who think they will earn more than the $2950 minimum to use the standard W-4 withholding form. Otherwise, one may end up owing taxes next spring with no money to pay them.

Earns Degree From Yeshiva U

Rabbi David M. Dore, who serves as the spiritual leader of the nation's oldest Black synagogue — the Ethiopian Hebrew Congregation in Harlem — received his Bachelor of Arts degree this month from Yeshiva University, a Jewish-sponsored institution in New York City.

Rabbi Dore, the second Black to receive an undergraduate degree from Yeshiva, inherited the mantle of leadership from his grandfather, Rabbi Wentworth A. Matthew, who died in 1973. In 1923, the year the congregation was founded, Rabbi Matthew became the first ordained Black rabbi in the country.

"Acceptance of Black Jews is better today than it has been in many years," Rabbi Dore observes. "We have never really had any difficulties in Harlem. There are many religious denominations here, and this has created a deep respect for all sects, including our congregation."

ADC Grants Increase

The Iowa Department of Social Services today reminded recipients of financial assistance under the Aid to Dependent Children program that grants to two, three, and four person families will increase on July 1st. However, as a result of that increase granted by the recent session of the Iowa Legislature, recipients will have to pay more for their federal food stamps.

Howard Seeley, supervisor of the Food Stamp Unit, said that in most cases the ADC increase will be more than the increase in the cost of the food stamps. The Legislature increased the ADC basic needs grant to $257 for a family of two; $318 for a three person family; and to $369 for a family of four. Also on July 1st, Social Security benefits will increase by 5.9%, and that income must be considered when determining the ADC grant.

In a related development, Seeley said the Federal Government has also increased the monthly allotment of food stamps, effective July 1st, for all households receiving food stamps, not just those on ADC. The Federal Issuance Tables show the new increases ranging from $2 for a one person household, to $8 for households of eight persons or more.
