Lincoln University Choirs Coming to Des Moines

The Willkie House Board cordially invites the public to attend the presentation of the "Lincoln University Choir" of Jefferson City, Missouri in an evening of songs April 14, 1978, 7:30 p.m., at St. Paul A.M.E. Church, 1201 Day Street.

For more than three decades the choir has been performing with the music unit of the Fine Arts Department. Their selections of choral literature ranges from sacred to secular, which attributes to the great demand of their services on college campuses, local churches, television, etc. They have performed for Scott Joplin's Opera "Treemonish" and the Christian Oratoria by J. S. Bach.

The attendance of the Des Moines Community will certainly express a warm welcome to the choir and help support the aspirations of these fine young people who are performing a community service. In turn, it offers the community people an evening of pleasure listening to the fantastic voices of the "Lincoln University Choir."

Jim Cooper: Community Organizer

by Niambi Webster

"Cooper" as he is more casually called, deep down is a very modest person and he has a very sincere desire to see educational and recreational programs not only created for one season, but if they are successful and the participants like them, he pushes to have them continued.

For the past three years Jim Cooper has been working in conjunction with the YMCA and YWCA, Greater Opportunities, Model Cities, and the Salvation Army. During these past three years while working with these various agencies, Cooper has received experience in program planning and implementation. He has also worked throughout the years with the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls, organizing and supervising recreational activities.

Cooper feels that the only way to help solve some of the problems of today's youth, is to pitch in and help through the planning and implementation of programs. "People can talk until their blue in the face about what they plan to do, or what they would like to see done. I go to the Model City community and find out what the people want, need and would like to be continued, then I go back to the office and try to plan according to their wishes," explains Cooper.

"A lot of folks think that you can sit behind a desk and delegate authority, it can't be done that way, even Al Collier who was the Executive Director of the Urban YMCA came out and helped us with programs and got his feet wet. I'm not trying to glorify any one person only to express that the youth today are in their own way pleading for some leadership, if all the leaders are sitting behind their desks playing God, they're not serving a very good example and kids are kids and they will maintain the old stereotypes that the head man is either a pimp — pimping off of all the little people — or a snoby bourgeoisie," continues Cooper.

Cooper is a community organizer and a whale of pride and respect emerges as he talks about his participation and responsibilities at the YMCA. He openly admits that a lot of his training and expertise could not have been possible without the continued guidance and assistance of Al Collier — past Urban Executive Director. Al wasn't like a typical boss, he not only helped his staff in the designing and funding of programs, but he was always there to see the programs through. Also, Wayne Fieldhouse has been an instrument in helping him develop programs and assisting him in writing budgets.

He is a Model City Community Organizer and the majority of his programs are sponsored by United Way.

Cooper is involved with the YWCA in his capacity as Community Organizer. He and Pat Miller direct Campfire Girls, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts in recreational programs, in the winter they supervise a Girls Basketball league at "Old" Dowling, organize jr. and sr. high girls soft ball teams at "old" Irving and the Model City YMCA Superstar

IEWS and REVIEWS by Allen Ashby

I was somewhat amused by the story in the morning paper about race relations in Fort Dodge. Seems that the Blacks are having it rough, and are trying to call national attention to it. The cry from the Dodge officials is the same one we used to hear in the South during the fifties and sixties.

Our local Blacks are not trouble makers. The trouble is these outsiders and those bums who don't want to work and get drunk. I suppose the local people who have been in town a long time do get along, probably because they took the blows and rolled with them.

But, if you will recall we heard the same stories and arguments. "Some of my best friends are Black. I have been to their houses and had coffee with them. But, have they had coffee in your house, Mr. Official?"

You used to hear from some people about what a good friend so and so is of mine. "Why, he would do anything for me." But what would you do for him?

Well, we covered a lot of ground in the last twenty years, but there is still a long way to go. Witness the cries of reverse discrimination that are being heard all over the country. Mayor Rizzo of Philadelphia, who was elected on an anti-Black platform, says when his term is up, he is going to speak for the white people around the country. "The Blacks are getting everything." Then, how do you account for the fact that we are way back in the scale economically and in housing. You can't afford to buy the house the law says you can buy, because you don't have the job that pays the money that will let you get it.

I always thought that the people in power were the ones who did the discrimination, and everybody knows blacks never have been in power in America and never will be. So how can they discriminate against white people? How many Blacks can tell white people where they can work or buy a house or go to school. So much for reverse discrimination.

We were discussing our program that we were putting on for young Blacks. A white boy wanted in, and we told him that this was for Blacks. That's discrimination" he said. Came the reply, "Where do you think I learned it."

All this started out to be about Ft. Dodge. There have been some ugly incidents in that town that involved police and Blacks. And in every deal we got just the official side of the story, and they looked good.

We don't know how this fuss up there will come out, but if I were a Black person looking for a place to settle, it wouldn't be in Ft. Dodge.

Al Parrish

Dear Reverend King:

You probably don't remember me but I worked for SCLC in Alabama one summer setting up health clinics. You sent a note by one of the directors of the program telling me to keep up the good work and that you hoped to meet me one day. We never got the opportunity because shortly after my summer with that program, you were assassinated.

A lot has happened since that period. Shortly after you were assassinated, Robert Kennedy, who decided to seek the Democratic nomination for president, was assassinated.

One of your top aides, Andrew Young, became actively involved in politics, was elected to the House of Representatives, the first southern black since reconstruction. He later resigned from a safe seat in the House of Representatives from the Atlanta district and became the United States Ambassador to the United Nations. He has been actively involved with the Third World. He has been actively involved in the situation in South Africa and Rhodesia. Ambassador Young was persuaded to resign his safe seat by president Jimmy Carter. I am sure that you recall Jimmy Carter when he was running for Governor of Georgia after serving on the school board in a tiny Georgia town called Plains. He is now the president of the United States. He is the first southern president since reconstruction. He won with a substantial number of black votes.

Letter To Rev. King.. Ten Years Later

The actual health program which was one of your issues when you were involved in the poor people's campaign is to be presented in the Congress by October of this year.

The war in Viet Nam has ended and the famed domino theory has not come to pass. As a matter of fact, Cambodia has just finished a mini-war with Viet Nam.

The Middle East situation is still brewing. However, you should be aware that Sadat made a historic mission to Israel in attempts to start peace negotiations. They have been stalled due to the fact that the Palestinian Liberation Organization made a suicidal raid killing 30 innocent Israelis causing the Israelis to invade Palestine and occupy the southern half. At the present time, troops from the United Nations are beginning to move in to occupy the positions presently held by the Israeli troops.

One of your allies against the Viet Nam war, Jane Fonda, was renominated for her second Oscar. She did not win but her costar, Vanessa Redgrave, won for best supporting actress. She created a stir when she spoke out against the Jewish Defense League.

Another of your top aides, Jesse Jackson, has now started an organization called "PUSH" standing for People United to Save Humanity. It is based in Chicago. His most recent public appearance was before the Republican Party committee in Washington, D.C. He was invited as a keynote speaker and clearly pointed out the options available both to the Republican party and black people in this country. He was eloquent when he discussed the fact that the hands that picked cotton in 1966 picked the president in 1976. His actions are a clear sign to many of us that the time has come to recognize that we must have allies in all walks of life.

There are not too many marches taking place anymore. The most significant protest being made now are in the Halls of Congress. Vernon Jordan is now head of the Urban League and has an ongoing battle with president Carter. Benjamin Hooks, who I am sure you knew from Memphis prior to his serving on the FCC is now head of the NAACP. He is doing an excellent job with revitalizing this organization. John Lewis, who you remember from the Voter's Education project is now a top aide with Action which aids all of the volunteer services in this country.

The FBI is now under new leadership by a federal judge from St. Louis by the name of Webster. All of the allegations which your organization made against J. Edgar Hoover with regards to problems with the Civil Rights organization has proven to be true.

This letter is too short to have to explain about the Watergate situation. It would probably take me a four-part series. However, much of the confidence in the American government was lost when it was discovered that the president had knowledge of many of the breakins and enterings by the CIA, the White House Staff and other persons high in the government. For the first time in the history of this country, a president had to resign. Gerald Ford, the former Congressman from Michigan, who led the fight against the Civil Rights bill of 1964 served as president for about two and a half years.

The greatest wave of world activity is taking place now in the Middle East and Africa. Ian Smith who took power in Rhodesia in 1965 has now agreed to serve until a coalition government with blacks is firmly established in power. Ambassador Young has rejected his plan and wants full participation of guerillas now fighting in Rhodesia. A young man by the name of Steven Biko adopted your philosophy of non-violence and began to lead the black south

Black Unity

Dear Sir:

This month is the tenth anniversary of the death of Martin Luther King Jr., and within the last ten years unemployment for black youth has gone from twenty five percent to forty one percent, and that is not counting youth whom have stopped looking for work. Blacks here in America after 400 years of brutality, have failed to learn the lesson of unity. As the late Malcom X said in 1965, "What effect does the struggle over Africa have on us, why should the black man in America concern himself since he's been away from the continent for three or four hundred years."

Let me tell you why you should become involved, Blacks here in America are not much better off than the South African because we are refused the right to make a decent living, therefore are common goals, aspirations and struggles should bind us with blacks in Africa, the Caribbean, and Latin America. Imagine the force that could be created as brother Malcolm told us if we thought on an international level. This can be difficult when blacks in Des Moines seem not to be aware of Africa's struggle, failing to realize that our Mother county's success would be the best thing that happened to us. America has continued to trade with the Rhodesian government after the United Nations voted to discontinue trade as long as apartheid remained. It is strange that the United States government demonstrates Russia's denial of human rights, but is milder when it comes to the rights of Afro-Americans. The answer is simple, the people that are denied human rights in the Soviet Union are white, and we in America are black. Also in Africa are the American businesses that are exploiting. Therefore every black American has the responsibility to pressure the representatives like Senator Clark to discontinue aid and trade with South Africa, and to encourage passage of the Humphrey, Hawkins bill.

Africans in a serious challenge to the Vorster government oppression. He was arrested and held in house detention. He died of severe blows to the head. Black South Africans erupted in anger over his death. Steven Biko is perhaps one of the greatest leaders that black South Africa has ever had.

This letter in bringing you up to date could go on and on but time does not allow it. There have been many changes, some for the better. The economic situation which is our final battleground which you brought us to is now our next challenge. The great call for economic parity to be able to go to the places of public accommodations that were long denied to us prior to your battle is now at issue. The employment rate among blacks doubles that of the white population. The housing situation is pitiful. Youth unemployment is rampant. The cities are continuing to decay due to lack of competent leadership in many areas of government. The so-called liberal has all but abandoned the civil rights cause. The anti-war movement which had long been group, that prior to that time supported the civil rights organization, have never returned. For about the first time in the history of the civil rights struggles there are no whites playing the predominant leadership roles in the struggle for the equality of blacks.

You have left a tremendous legacy for us. The leadership you provided us gave us a framework to continue the struggle. We are learning now to diversify our interests. We are learning to corral new allies. We are now embarking upon the last final battleground of equality, that is the battleground of economics. It will be a tough battle and it is believed it will cause many trench warfares. But it is believed that this battle just like all of the others in the past will be won.

I would like to close with paraphrasing some of the words of Steven Biko, the South African leader when he stated in a memorandum to Senator Dick Clark from Iowa, "it has become pretty obvious to us that these are crucial years in the history of the world. The winds of liberation which have been sweeping down the face of the world are reaching our very borders. There is no more doubt about the inevitability of change - the only questions now remaining are how and when."

Cigars, Cigarettes, Chewing Tobacco!

My column has been missing for almost two months while I learned to live without benefit of a cigarette. To be exact three and a half packs a day.

I stopped smoking for the entire year of 1958. No one could have told me that I'd be dumb enough to put myself through that ordeal again. Gordon Gammack had warned that quitting the second time was harder than the first. I was sure he didn't know what he was talking about. I'm prepared to admit that he did know.

I think I discovered why the second time around is harder than the first. It goes something like this. Remembering the pain of the first hassle, you unconsciously put off kicking the habit a second time. In response to my husband's expressions of concern, I invited him to "Be glad I don't dip snuff!"

In response to my doctor's stern warnings of lung cancer, I informed him, "There are other causes of pain and sudden death." Even I came to realize I wasn't making a bit of sense. These confessions of an addict hopefully will be a clue for non-smokers who really want to influence family and friends against smoking.

After you have made clear you care, you are to acknowledge that no one can do a thing about the problem but the addict in question. I have known wives who threatened to smoke if their husbands didn't stop. Most often that pressure causes smoking in secret.

How do I know? I furnished the cigarette. I have heard those same wives or husbands acknowledge knowing their partner was sneaking cigarettes. That's game playing!

The moment of truth for an addict is direct confrontation with oneself. For me, it was the number of burned tableclothes I own. No one was pointing a finger at the holes or at me. I was folding laundry.

The first time I stopped smoking in 1958 I realized I had a burning cigarette in each hand! That was a shock without anyone there to see. That did for me what pictures in color of lung destruction couldn't do. All of my friends who have died of cancer were non-smokers. That fact became an excuse for continuing to smoke. It doesn't make a bit of sense either, does it?

About a month and a half ago, I made up my mind to devote full time to watching that I didn't smoke. On the advice of a friend, I have been hypnotized. The importance of hypnosis for me is I discovered what it feels like to be completely relaxed in contrast to tension and anxiety of daily living. I am discovering it is possible to get things accomplished at a more leisurely and organized pace.

Hypnosis, let me say, is not magic. I am just beginning to pass the cigarette counter without thinking about the possibility of one cigarette. The real test is writing again without one cigarette. I've made it this far.

Before finishing this column let me share a few discoveries of no smoking. I can fly from Des Moines to Boston without a cigarette. I can trust myself not to cheat while there. My voice is almost an octave higher. My energy level is higher. When I start exercising again, I'm going to feel and look like a million dollars without one cigarette.

My new non-smoker image makes me feel like a hypocrite when I am asked at the lunch counter for permission to smoke. It is then I discovered I can trust myself not to need one cigarette even in the presence of others smoking.

Center, 16th and and Forest.

Parents and friends in the community organized and prepared the delicious meal. Tiny Tot graduates were on hand to welcome each guest, check coats and escort each guest to their table. Sandy Miles, Mary Hall, Diane Smith, Camille Edwards, Mary Cason, Ann Downey, Freda Simmons, Florstine Rumley, and Darlene Avant were present to receive their engraved plaques from Parent Co-ordinator, Deborah L. Green.

Keith Brown, school psychologist was introduced by Tiny Tot Director Evelyn Davis.

Ms. Brown emphasized the importance of parenting in spite of the fact there are no courses available from kindergarten through college to teach people how to be parents. Ms. Brown pointed to the rising rate of suicides among teen-agers as an indication that they do not feel worthwhile. "Children tend to feel about themselves as we feel about them."

The guest speaker closed her speech with an offer to assist in conducting classes of sharing and discussing parenting experiences. A recommended text Parent Effectiveness Training — Thomas Gordon (paperback) was suggested as a starting point.

Plaques were also presented to Doris Tucker, Edna Griffin, Helen McDonald, and Tom Carpenter, President of the Advisory Board who received a standing ovation.

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

The New Friendship Church of God in Christ is yet on the move for the Lord. Souls are being saved and added to the church. We are more than conquered through Christ which gives us power to stand against the devil. On last week God met us at New Friendship in a great way. Souls were crying all over the place because the power of God fell. The Holy Ghost is with us and the spirit of healing is in the church. The Lord fixed broken hearts, lifted up hung down heads and bless all that stand in need of a blessing. Each Sunday God stroll down blessed boulevard and touch his people in a way he has never done before. Each Sunday morning God do something different. Why don't you come out and see God work, that is at 1711 West 16th Street here in Des Moines.

This Sunday our church will be going to Fort Dodge to pastor Leroy Johnson church. We will be leaving Des Moines about 2:30 p.m. So why don't you come and go with us. The name of the church is Fort Dodge Mission.

Pastor R. L. Daye is looking for all to meet him at church on Friday night, business is very important.

See you at 1711 West 16th Street on Sunday at 11:00 a.m. We will be praying for you.

A New Sound in the Church

This new sound is as old as the church that was born on the day of pentecost, recorded in Acts 2; 4 when 120 were filled and baptized with the holy ghost.

Over 70 years ago a Baptist preacher named C.H. Mason was in college in Little Rock Arkansas studying to be a better preacher. He heard that a group of people were tarrying for the holy ghost and God was pouring out his spirit upon them who would seek him with a clean heart.

He left Little Rock and went to California to see for himself. The preacher would lay hands on the folk and some would begin to speak in tongue, and fall to the floor as though they were drunk and started prophesying and dancing before the lord. They called it the holy dance.

Their faces would shine and they looked brand new. The preacher would read from the Bible where they acted like this in the old days.

Rev. C.H. Mason went to the altar and said I want this Jesus that gives you a new heavenly language and a clean heart. He stayed on the altar until he was filled and baptized with the holy ghost.

It was then that God anointed his preaching. He then left California and preached his way back to his home church, telling about his new life he had founded in Christ. As he began to share his new faith about how he received the Holy Ghost and power and fire they told him that he was mixed up, had wrong spirit, was demon possessed.

He showed them from the Bible where they needed the Holy Ghost and fire. They proceeded to put Elder Mason out of the Baptist movement. He prayed for them and went on his way singing and praying in the spirit.

God gave him the name CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST. As he continued to preach, souls were saved from sin, heal and filled with the holy ghost. Signs and wonders followed his preaching.

Now nearly 70 years later some of the outstanding churches are coming together and saying God is doing a new thing. All churches can praise him under the same roof. We will call this new experience the Charasmatic People or new sound.

They have found out that in order to have this new sound you have to give up the world and follow the Lord. That means giving up gambling, stealing, joking, lusting, adultery, smoking, drinking strong drinks, beer, liquor and accepting the Lord in your heart and be saved.

All these things one must lay aside if he wants to walk with the Lord. They have found out that hell not dwell in a unclean temple. Nearly all churches talk about the Holy Ghost but do little about members seeking a deeper experience and receiving the nine gifts the church once had.

As I view the white churches, the members are reaching up for God to fill them again. They want a fulfillment of God so they seek him the more. They just learned that the holy ghost is real. And will speak.

I wonder where were these folk when God was blessing us? The things we would do in the church was out of place. They were too intelligent to lift their hands and praise the Lord. But now you can't be

Pastor R.L. Daye

them lifting up holy hands and just praising the lord.

To them it is new but to the old Holy Rollers it is common. To speak in tongue and dance before the Lord. So charsmatic is no new thing and don't let no one fool you that it is new. It is new to all who just got saved. But to those that are sanctified and filled with the Holy Ghost it is no new thing.

So when people come to you and say they have the Holy Ghost and still sinning you tell them that the Bible said they are a big story.

Can't you remember when music that we played was to heavy drums, strings, horns. Some churches wouldn't be caught with music in it but now look at them, even blessed Mother Mary's Church.

So this new sound that you hear has been in the holiness church since Elder Mason began to preach it 70 years ago.

MESSIAH TEMPLE

"Paul declared that he had the marks of Jesus on him while he was in prison." Reverend Jacob Reed spoke last Sunday on "Courage Is the Mark of the Christian." When we allow the love, spirit and courage of Jesus Christ to dictate our lives just as Paul allowed in his life, then we too will have the marks of Jesus. His Paul's life is a true example of discipleship of Christ to everyone today. Paul turned the punishment and judgment of others to opportunities to witness of Jesus, the risen Son of God. It took courage for him to live the way that he did. Reverend Reed also told us of the courage of John the Baptist and Caleb and Joshua. But most of all, Reverend Reed spoke of the courage of Jesus Christ as He stood and took our punishment in our place.

Sunday School is at 10:30 with worship services at 11:30. Bible study is every Sunday evening at 7:00. Prayer meeting is every Wednesday evening at 7:00. REMEMBER: Christ's courage will shine from us only when we allow Him to rule our lives.

Reverend Jacob Reed is the pastor.

ALLEN ASHBY with a LOOK ON SPORTS

It was a wild weekend for sports. So many events were held around here that they couldn't get space in the daily paper. The first outdoor track meet here was held at Dowling and it was no surprise that Tech won it, but it was a surprise that Newton was right behind them.

East came in third, and Coach Don Graves said he was pleased with his showing. He had some fellows out with injuries, and then he said he wanted to peak his team for the Metro meet later. Before the thing he had said they would be there and would win some races, and they did.

So now all of the local schools will clear the decks for the Valley and Drake Relays.

The main event of the spring was the state wide AAU boxing meet held at the Red Horse Armory. It was sponsored by Gateway and Director Zook Williams says he likes to have blacks take responsible positions in what ever he puts on, "and this is my meet." So he had Don Avant chief judge, his job was to see that the judges were in the right places at the right times.

Morton Graves was chief timekeeper, and his job was similar to Avant's. Then there was a Bill Knox from Cedar Rapids who was one of the referees.

At least two blacks won titles, and most of the spectators thought one was robbed of one.

Another Bill Brown, might have won one, but he suffered a severe nose injury and had to default his final bout.

One thing in these bouts stood out. Most of the black fighters were in much better shape than they used to be a few years ago. And these small town boys as usual come to fight three rounds, and they would do just that unless they got knocked cold.

I couldn't understand why there wasn't one line in the daily papers about the meet. Here was a state wide boxing event involving around a hundred fifty boxers, and not one line in the press. Not even a summary.

Williams said that he didn't think the Register and Tribune cared one iota about boxing, because he didn't think they ever gave much coverage even to national events.

I thought about it awhile, and then when I didn't see a story about the two track meets, just the line summaries, I concluded that there just wasn't enough room to put the thing in. But, still if I could have gotten downtown with the results, they just may have been printed.

But it was a well run meet and I was glad to have seen it. Maybe I should take on the publicity job for Gateway. Would that help, do you think?

Unless our dates are voided, we plan to hold the Hilltop section of the Younker's Kodel tennis meet the weekend of May 13 and 14. We would like to see more black tennis players in the thing, although I don't hold it for them exclusively.

Last year Tony Stingley and his partner won our section of the thing, and that was a first.

This is the fourth year of the meet. It is a lot of fun. Entry costs nothing, but in our meet contestants must furnish their own tennis balls. The thing is that you can enter in one meet, lose and enter another, lose in that one and enter in still another, until you win or time runs out.

Our deadline for entries will be May 10.

We looked over the Good Park courts the other day. There is still that big crack running down the middle of the center court, except that it is bigger now.

Wonder if the parks department plan to do anything about it this year. This was to be the year they were supposed to resurface those courts, and I realize they claim that the severe winter took all of the money, or did I just give the people some ammunition.

No, they had it all along. But we hope they are ready by the time we have our Hilltop meet.

Along with the Drake Relays comes the spring football drills. Iowa, Iowa State and Drake all have hopes of winning seasons. Drake has to improve on their mark of last year, and Iowa U should have a year in which the losses will be less than the wins. Maybe if this doesn't come off, there might be a new coach at the old school.

Iowa State actually thinks they can win the Big Eight crown, and with a break here and there just may make it.

Would like to cover all three schools in their spring practices, but may settle for Iowa U April 22, maybe.

After 18 customer calls, 3 staff meetings, a pile of paper work, and 12 hours without hot food, savings officer Clarence Dickson
finally went home.

Food Stamp Usage Upswing

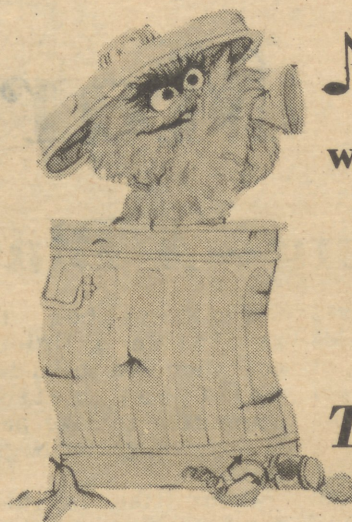

The food stamp program in Iowa provided nutritional support to more Iowa families in February than at any time in the previous eight months, according to the Iowa Department of Social Services.

Food Stamp Officer Vern Woodard said 105,908 people used the federal-state program to assist their dwindling food dollars. Woodard said there has been a steady increase in participation since October of last year, due to seasonal unemployment and layoffs. Most of the increase is in people not on welfare ... an indication that more people are seeing the food stamp program as a logical source of help when malnutrition is the alternative.

Woodard said the Department of Social Services is increasing its information efforts to reach thousands of persons who are eligible and needy, but unaware. Radio, television, and newspaper advertisements are being planned, as are posters and grocery bag stuffers. The information project will be in full implementation in about 30 days.

Work, work, work, work. His savings customers depend on him to be more than friendly and courteous — also responsible.

It's a big job. Each customer is different, with varying family size, assets, and goals.

And, if it means working late into the night to fulfill each individual's needs, then that's what it takes.

It may mean directing some money into a short-term savings account for ready access, with the remainder going toward a Certificate of Deposit, to expand at a greater interest rate for the future.

Martin Luther King

Martin Luther King—A Black Preacher

by Myra Butts

Black preaching is an old tradition that has continued throughout the years. The style of preaching is nothing certain or fixed. The Intonation of Black preaching stems from African customs of singing almost everything. For many preachers it indicates inspirational climax or the end of a message.

The Black preacher has to let himself go, he feels that he is preaching about and relays this through being linguistically flexible. In the sermon, the climax is a sort of celebration of the goodness of God, consisting of a positive reinforcement. It is emotional and by being emotional, it helps bring the moral of the sermon across.

Black preaching deals with problems that confront people daily. These problems pose a real challenge to people and a need that must be solved. The Black preacher uses the scripture from the Bible more for the interpretation of present experiences. He uses illustrations to make his congregation feel at home as the gospel comes alive in terms meaningful to them.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was a prime example of a black preacher. Rev. King was one out of the many black preachers who followed the old tradition. He was born in 1929 in Atlanta, Georgia. He was the son of a Baptist preacher. He graduated from Morehouse College, and completed advanced studies at Crozer Theological Seminary and Boston University.

He was ordained a minister in 1947, at which time he was co-pastor with his father at Ebenezer Baptist church in Atlanta. In 1954 he became pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Alabama. At Dexter, there was only the Sunday School Baptist Training Unit and the Missionary Society. While there, Dr. King worked out new programs for the church. He started the:

Committee to revitalize religious education - (a social and political action committee to take part in the struggle for Negro rights.)

Committee to raise and administer scholarship funds for high school graduates.

A cultural committee to give encouragement to promising young black artists.

He also proposed to reorganize the church finances, which caused an increase in the church income. He wanted to try to broaden the church membership to include less affluent blacks who had been frightened off in past years, by the high-toned reputation of Dexter.

Dr. King (in his first years at Dexter) spent 15 hours a week preparing his sermons, first writing the sermon, then memorizing it. Then on Sundays, he would speak without a manuscript. After becoming involved in the bus boycott, he had little time to write out his sermons and they were extemporaneous sermons. He would outline points of 3-4 main topics and would preach from that.

Dr. King had to communicate with the people and to do this he dramatized the sermon, since the effectiveness lies in his tone of voice rather than his vocabulary. His sermons were enlightened by the interpretation of the gospel message as he heard it during his childhood. This experience fired the response of many black people who heard him preach.

Dr. King knew what his congregation would like to hear, but he still used the text as a guide and outline delineating certain details of the moral and religious lesson. His learned academic rhetorical style was like that of the poetic style of the southern preacher. His oratory carried the emotion while his analysis carried the moral message. The adjectives and nouns combine together to create the poetic quality of his message.

Dr. King had an ear for rhythm that was unerring. He brought together words that ended in the same sound to create a sort of rhythm and cadence. For instance, "humiliating oppression the ungodly exploitation, the crushing domination." The combination of words that have an equal number of syllables which rhyme, create rhythm. He does not intend to make meters, but the effect lends itself to memory.

Dr. King's sermons had an emotional appeal. Some of his more inspiring sermons had a social message, as well as a religious one. This was mainly due to Dr. King's belief that a minister should also be a leader in social progress.

One of his better known sermons was "Antidotes for Fear." He took as his text I John 4:18 "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment." "He that feareth is not made perfect in love." He went on to say that man feared illness, or economic disaster, and fear of personal inadequacy in our highly competitive society.

He said to overcome fear you must face it. Fear can be mastered through courage and by love and faith. This sermon was an expression of Dr. King's courage, love, and faith that he needed to continue his work as he saw best.

To illustrate Dr. King's interpretation of

As We Saw Him

He's traveled a many high-way
Seeing things that most have not;

He emerged into a battle, for mankind
A bullet was how he stopped;

Jails, abusive language, bomb threats
He had them all,
wearily

He kept on trugging, his head battered against the wall.

Many a sleepless night
he had spent;

Trying to find the right way,
He knew his battle plan
would pay off someday

For all; No guns, no knives, no cussin
just standin' for whats right;

A leader, a shining light. Stoned drugged, degraded
as a man;

Even that fateful April eve,
He continued to take his stand.

Martin Luther King has made a mark
in history,

Never to be forgotten,
by you
or by me...

We salute you Martin — in April especially as you rest in eternity among God's heavenly flowers

(exactly as it should be).

the gospel message was in May of 1956, when he preached a sermon titled the Death of Evil Upon the Shore. Evil here, represents the death of the spirit as well as war and destruction. Dr. King saw a division of people representing conflicting destinies and motives, one oppressing, the other resisting.

Rev. King said, "History records Israel's struggle with every Egypt," meaning that Israel must keep on until victory was theirs. Dr. King saw this struggle as a symbol of the struggle of our people.

In August, Dr. King delivered a sermon in Washington, D.C. at the Lincoln Memorial. His sermon was "I Have a Dream." I will quote the last part of the sermon to demonstrate the imaginative use of metaphors, its repetitive devices and the way that it builds toward an emotional climax.

"I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self evident...'

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave-owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream that even the state of Mississippi, a desert state sweltering with the heat of injustice and oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream today that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by color of their skin but by a dream today...

that one day every valley shall be exalted, every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plains, and the crooked places will be made straight, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together...

So let freedom ring from the prodigious hilltops of New Hampshire, let freedom ring. Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York....

From every mountainside, let freedom ring...."

The patterns of imagery is brought out in a full circle, beginning in reference to the Emancipation Proclamation and ending with the former slave's psalm of emancipation, "Free at last!" "Free at Last!" "Thank God almighty, we are free at last!"

In summation, Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was a great speaker, both religiously and socially. His sermons were inspiring and uplifting. He will never be forgotten as an outstanding black preacher.

Martin Luther King— A Personal Perspective

by Gerthleen Mapp

"And when the shot came some one said, The King had died. Yet others said "no", The King still lives! But what say I, "A King is born!"

On that tragic evening April 4, 1968 a king died and yet in all of it's essence of sadness a new life was lurking in the stillness of a new day. I guess like millions of other people over the world. I just couldn't grasp the realism of his death.

I remember when I first heard the startling news, how I intensely said, he'll get better, God won't let anything happen to him." I also remembered repeating over and over again. He's got to Live! Little did I know in those terror-stricken moments that though I had spoken with much passion and little hope he would live even though he would die.

After the initial shock had worn off, I began to feel restless, empty and afraid not only for myself but for all of mankind. If a man, I pondered, so full of life and love could be silenced that what was life really all about? Sure, I knew that I lived in a nation sick with violence, prejudices, and hatred but, somehow I wanted to believe that I lived in a nation with compassion and love for mankind.

A nation that not only talked of God's love but, showed it too! And now I find myself feeling so helpless and very much alone and living, living in a world of fantasies which I had woven with my own rules, playing the game.

Then, with out warning a burning desire stabbed my heart. For once in my life I wanted to strike out, to hit, to hurt, just as I felt then. Anything that would relieve this burning pit of hatred seething in my soul. But, suddenly a burst of sunshine on a cloudy day, I smiled and as the heat streamed down my face I felt much more relieved and alive.

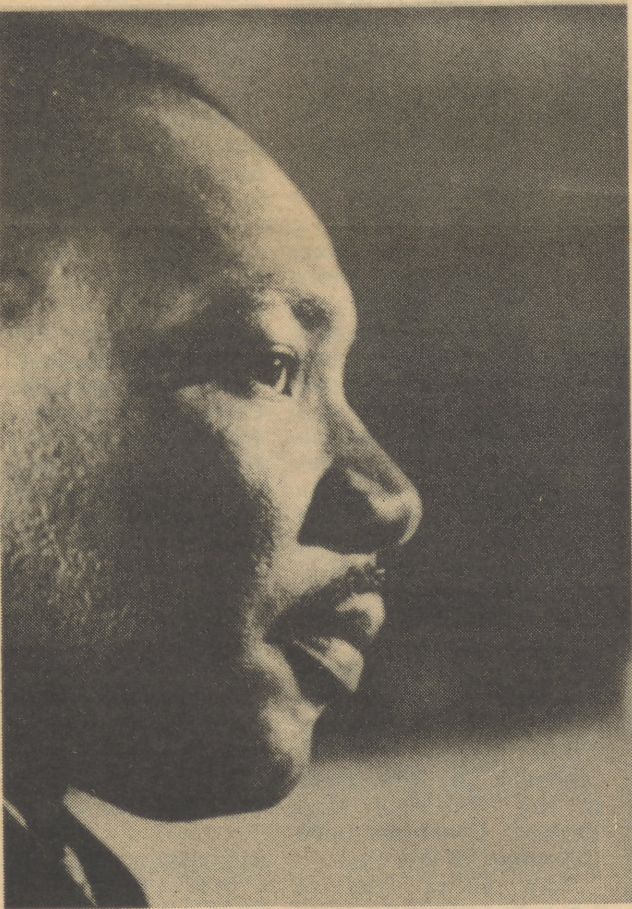

True, Martin Luther had died but, in his death he left his ultimate goodness and I knew he would live on. What he was and what he did shouldn't promote hatred, if that was all his death was worth, then was his worth in vain?

He was not a dreamer even though he had a dream, and in all the luminescent glare of his life he gave a lesson to the world, a lesson that some reviled and spate upon while others prayed and hoped for that lesson was walking together, living together and loving together. He fought for this and died and really the only thing he wanted was to be heard.

His voice yes, had been stilled, but his message will ring clamorously around this globe. He was a man in all essence of the meaning of man.

Then like a raging sea subsiding after a storm, as was the serenely of peace enfolding my soul, I slept and with my drowsiness came understanding, understanding that though a King had been stilled by a bullet he still lived, he was alive, in my soul and the resurrection of my heart, he was just being born.

Martin Luther King, Jr.

"A long time ago,

An enslaved people heading toward freedom
Made up a song:

Keep Your Hand On The Plow! Hold On!

That plow plowed a new furrow

Across the field of history.

Into that furrow the freedom seed was dropped.

From that seed a tree grew, is growing, will ever grow.

That tree is for everybody,

For all America, for all the world.

May its branches spread and its shelter grow

Until all races and all peoples know its shade.

KEEP YOUR HAND ON THE PLOW!

HOLD ON!"

Motley Seeks House Seat

Burtine W. Motley, 41, homemaker, volunteer activist and Cedar Rapids resident for the past 11 years, today (Tuesday, April 4) announced her candidacy for the Iowa House of Representatives.

She is seeking the Democratic nomination for House District 26, which includes nine precincts on the east side of Cedar Rapids.

The Linn County Democrat ran for State Representative in 1976, defeating two opponents in the primary but losing to incumbent Rep. Joan Lipsky in the general election. Lipsky has announced that she will not seek re-election for the seat this year.

In her announcement Motley said "Results of a very recent poll, commissioned by my campaign organization, indicate that the registered voters of this district share many of the same concerns that I have about issues of importance to all of us."

"Citizens in my district, and I suspect the entire state of Iowa, are worried about property taxes and spiraling inflation; they are concerned about their environment and favor land-use legislation. Many are interested in equitable utility rates for the elderly; those with children are supportive of educational tax credits and it appears that most are in favor of a state equal rights amendment," she reported.

"The poll also showed that I have very high name recognition in my area, compared with other well-known Democrats, as well as Republicans," Motley said.

She also noted that current voter registration figures from the district were encouraging for her campaign. There are 5,164 registered Democrats in the district, 4,705 Republicans and 6,227 with no party affiliation.

Motley said, "Despite the fact that this house seat has been held for 12 years by a well-known Republican, I think it is winnable by a Democrat who understands the area, the people in it and their concerns and I consider myself that kind of person."

"It also will require a well-organized and aggressive campaign and I intend to make that kind of effort," Motley stated.

The candidate, a native of Uniontown, Ala., is married to Dr. Reid Motley, an ophthalmologist. They have three children, Reid, Jr., and Kathy, 22, and Edward, 21.

She attended Wayne State University in Detroit and has a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Michigan. She has been employed as a social worker and an educator.

A member of a wide variety of local, state and national organizations, she has worked as a volunteer for many community and statewide groups. (See attached biography for details.)

She is currently president of the Alexander Clark Historical Society, Inc., a member of the Iowa 2000 Committee and Iowa advisory committee for services to deaf/blind and multi-handicapped, and served on the Cedar Rapids Cable TV Ordinance Committee, and is a member of the Multi-Cultural, Non-Sexist Educational Committee. She has been active in Democratic politics since 1968.

track Club which runs from April thru Mid August.

The track club generally attracts at least 56 participants. The participants work out four nights a week at North High field and they average one track meet per week. The track club was originated three years ago by Cooper and Al Collier. The team has been to Denver, Minnesota, Omaha, Wisconsin and Illinois and have been invited to invitational meets throughout the country. They have also been to several meets in Iowa.

Last year seven students were regional winners in Wisconsin and one went to the Nationals in Lincoln, Nebraska. "This year," states Cooper, "We hope that we can take the team to more meets out of state, this gives the youth a chance to travel outside of Iowa. The only thing that we are lacking is the funds."

Cooper is also involved in the Olympic Development Program as Chairperson, the program involves nine different agencies. Their central activities throughout the year are Broomhockey which is Cooper also assists where needed in the Direction Sports Program at Perkins and Finley Elementary Schools. The programs begin in November of each year and end in May of the following year. Super Sports is an Academic and Sports Program combined. Volunteer coaches from different Companies spend two days in the schools and Saturdays at the YMCA, teaching game fundamentals, and sportsmanship.

The participants take test on the material given, thus enhancing their reading and writing skills. There are a total of six schools involved in the program, about 15-20 students from each school. The varying sports begin with basketball, move to volleyball, then soccer, softball and finally track.

Cooper is also the coordinator of Y.B.A., where 4th, 5th and 6th grade boys at Edmunds Elementary school and three teams from Model Cities, learn all the basketball rules, and basics. However, the major thrust of the program is for all the participants to get a equal chance to play on the court, this will aid them greatly in the years to come, they aren't just bench warmers they get a chance to play, therefore, they have a chance to build their skills on the floor, states Cooper. "My greatest assistance to Y.B.A. is raising money for their uniforms and getting the coaches to help."

Cooper is also a member of Inner Agency Coordinated Planning Council, where the various agencies funded by United Way get together and share program ideas and Besides Williams and Gary (Ind.) Mayor Richard Hatcher, more than a dozen top Black local elected officials participated in the meeting during NBC/LEO's annual convention in San Francisco. Environmental Protection Agency Officials from Washington, D.C. and San Francisco also attended the meeting.

Olympian Wilma Rudolph Drake Relays Parade Marshall

Olympic gold medalist Wilma Rudolph will be Drake Relays parade marshal Saturday, April 29.

Rudolph also will give a public lecture at 9 p.m. Friday, April 28, in Old Main Auditorium on the Drake University campus. Her appearance is co-sponsored by the Drake Relays Committee and Drake's National/International Awareness Committee.

Rudolph, who set three world records in the 1960 Olympics in Rome, was born in Tennessee as the 20th in a family of 22 children. A victim of polio, she didn't walk without braces until age nine, but earned a bronze medal in the 1956 Olympics at age 15.

Rudolph was named U.S. Woman Athlete of the Year for two consecutive years and Sports Woman of the Year by European Sports Writers. She received the James E. Sullivan Award as outstanding amateur athlete and was the U.S.

Good Will Ambassador to French West Africa.

In 1961, Rudolph ran in the first Drake Relays event for women. She won the 100-yard dash in 11.1 seconds, finishing nine yards ahead of her five Iowa competitors.

She served on the U.S. Olympic Committee for the 1976 games; has been involved with the Special Olympics for handicapped children; was on the Board of Directors for Operation Champ, a community action program giving sports skills demonstrations to troubled youths; taught physical education at all levels; and was a curriculum consultant for the California State Department of Education.

Her autobiography, "Wilma," was turned into a television movie, and she is writing a second book.

Rudolph's appearance during the Drake Relays is only one activity scheduled on campus and in the community April 23 to 29. In addition to street painting and sandwich eating contests on campus, art and music events are planned throughout the week.

NEW DAY BEGUN

Racism, New York Style

The well orchestrated attacks upon affirmative action programs took a new twist in New York recently when a local school board in a predominantly white middle class area rejected federal funds that would have provided part-time and summer jobs for about 50 disadvantaged youngsters bussed in from neighboring communities.

In voting five to four against the funds, Community School Board 26 claimed that the jobs program "bypassed" middle-income children. The board said it wanted "a broader participation of youths" than that which was prescribed for eligibility.

The school board next joined seven other decentralized units in refusing to submit ethnic data required for the city to benefit from the Emergency School Assistance Act program.

Faced with the possible loss of $200 million in federal funds, School Chancellor Irving Anker suspended the board. He appointed a trustee to collect the data and apply for the jobs funds under the Youth Employment Demonstration Act.

The refusal by the local board to apply for the $40,000 needed for the program was denounced by the central Board of Education President Stephen R. Aiello as a "totally misguided act of irresponsibility which can be viewed as being racist in nature."

The NAACP, which has for several years been fighting in court to desegregate a number of New York City school districts, also moved immediately into action, filing a petition with the school chancellor asking him to supersede the board.

On the ethnic census, we are also supporting the Board of Education and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in the U. S. District Court, where the order is being challenged. The NAACP joined the Coalition of Concerned Black Educators in initiating the protest that led to the New York School Board — HEW agreement.

The issues involved in the School District 26 case are crucial. They represent another aspect of the stepped up campaign by northern whites to reverse civil rights gains that so many dedicated Americans struggled, and died for.

Unquestionably, many affirmative action opponents would bitterly deny that they are racists or have any intent to discriminate. But the end result of their opposition is discrimination — as surely as the interposition and nullification strategies that southern die-hard segregationists used to make civil rights laws ineffective.

Ostensibly, District 26 opposes the ethnic census because it is "devisive and leads to racial quotas." But what is the alternative, if not the continued segregation of black school children and teachers.

Even more troubling is the opposition to the jobs program. Throughout Queens, as well as other metropolitan areas, youth unemployment is at record high levels — as much as 50 percent in some cities.

But, as we so well know, it is not the intent of the jobs program or the ethnic census that matters; it is the skin color of the target population.

TERMINAL CANCER PATIENTS IMPROVE WITH VITAMIN C: Nobel prize winner Dr. Linus Pauling says a five-year study of 1,100 terminal cancer patients "clearly demonstrates" that high doses of Vitamin C significantly increased their survival spans and improved the quality of their lives.

On the average, he says, "100 hopelessly terminal patients given Vitamin C lived more than four times longer than 1,000 equally terminal patients who were not given the vitamin."

Dr. Pauling stated further, "Most of those who got Vitamin C felt better, their appetites returned and they were taken off of morphine and heroin, many of them went back to work."

Despite "the fact of those benefits," organized medicine in general has chosen to ignore the study, Pauling stated.

Dr. Pauling, winner of the nobel prize for chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace Prize in 1962, is the author of the best-selling book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold. In it, he maintains that the vitamin can prevent colds and influenza if taken in large enough amounts.

The cancer study was conducted at Vale of Leven District General Hospital at Loch Lomondside, Scotland. Doctors there began the study in November, 1971, and continued it through August 10, 1976, Pauling reported.

He and one of the physicians there, Dr. Ewan Cameron, carefully assembled the results and co-authored a scientific paper on it.

Specifically, the study demonstrated that terminal cancer patients who were given 10 or more grams — up to 60 grams — a day survived for an average of 210 days after the treatment started.

The control group, the 1,000 patients who were not given the vitamin, survived on the average "only 50 days," Pauling said. Patients who got Vitamin C not only lived longer, the quality of life in their last months was greatly improved, he said.

"Most no longer needed pain-killing drugs," he added. "They were able to eat and sleep well once again. And many went back to work."

"You must remember that each one of these patients had been declared totally hopeless by two or more physicians, independently, after they received conventional cancer therapies," he emphasized.

"Ten percent of the patients who were given Vitamin C seem to be 'cured' he added. "They no longer show symptoms of cancer." Similar studies are continuing in both Scotland and Japan on some 500 cancer patients," Pauling said.
