Clark: Gives Strength Through Music

by Niambi Webster

There is an old saying stemming from the church, "Women are the backbone of the church!" During the course of our lives we get caught up in political struggles, economic and social struggles of the day, often do we take time to praise God for just being alive. Mrs. Mary Clark, daughter of a very strong religious mother, the sixth of nine children, raised in Lexington, Mo. and one who recalls vividly the calm respect of the "old" days, has become "Through It All" one to be respected and admired for her participation in senior citizen programs, artistic endeavors, inspirational singing, choir direction, Mary Kay beauty consultant, exercise routines and her work with preschool children.

As a member of Union Baptist Church, Mrs. Clark was the original organizer and director of the Teen & Queen Contest and the Angel Choir. She has also sung in the Senior Choir and directed one of the youth choirs. She has been very significant in raising money for choirs to tour out-of-state. She recalls one year going to Hampton, Virginia with a choir.

"I've been singing since I was old enough to talk, my mother was at that time the soul of my inspiration. Singing is a talent from God that I feel I should use to glorify Him. I've had offers to sing blues, but I've been compelled to sing the gospel because of the beauty it brings to my life.

"Even the tiniest bird that sings in the morning, that gives joy to my heart and this reason along with many others keeps me singing for Jesus. Through my music I give strength to the elderly, children and people who are incarcerated in prisons," explains Mrs. Clark.

"Some youth of today haven't had enough education of Christ, not enough experience in life to realize what God has brought us through. When I was a child growing up in Missouri we weren't that far removed from slavery, and the old hymns "the old time religion" helped us through a lot of strife and disappointments.

"Today too many people take life for granted.

"Singing 'that old time religion' made one feel that they were blessed, just to be brought through trials and tribulations, makes tears taste sweet. Songs like 'He'll Understand and Say Well Done', and 'I've Come To the Garden Alone' tell stories. They have a message that relates to people's lives if they would only listen," continues Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Clark uses the gift that God gave her to the fullest by singing in numerous churches throughout the state of Iowa. She has given many recitals, sung in a lot of "Old Ship of Zions" — originally an Old Ship of Zion represented a sinner person, who accepted Christ as their Savior (the ship represents Christ and the winds and waves represent the World). Once you get on board the ship, it means you accept Christ as your personal Savior and you may stumble and fall in life, but there's no getting off.

Mrs. Clark also co-chaired the First African Style Show, held within her church. She and Mrs. Delores Clayvon featured soul music, African styles, and food. Mrs. Clark was the fashion commentator. She has commented for many style shows for various organizations, recently she narrated and modeled at a style show for Eastern Star.

She was asked to direct the East Side Gospel Choir and she also helped raise money for uniforms and out-of-state trips. "I saw a lot of young people come and go in that choir. I was able to communicate with the youth, because I was willing to accept or prepare myself for change," states Mrs. Clark.

"I enjoy doing a number of things, especially sharing the gift that God has given me. I like to share with others... I just enjoy people and keeping up with new trends and fads!" exclaims Mrs. Clark.

Among her many volunteer services to the east and west side communities Mrs. Clark accompanies the Logan Opportunity Center staff on varying Senior Citizen trips. She has also taught craft and crochet classes at the Center. She used to teach classes in her home, but hasn't for quite some time. She has also taught crafts through the Adult Education program at Amos Hiatt Junior High School.

Mrs. Clark was born in 1929 and lived in Lexington until age 18. After moving to Des Moines, she found a job working at Katz, where at that time prejudice and racism were more prevalent.

Rosa Parks At Simpson

Rosa Parks, the southern black woman who became the symbolic center of the 1955 Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott, will speak at 8 p.m. Friday, April 14, in the Brenton Student Center at Simpson College, Indianola.

Parks is speaking in conjunction with Black History Week April 10-16 sponsored by Simpson's Concerned Black Students organization.

Parks became the rallying center for the bus boycott when she was arrested Dec. 1, 1955, for her refusal to obey "Jim Crow" laws and move to the back of the bus she was riding home from work. Convicted of violating segregation statutes, the department store seamstress sparked the boycott which began Dec. 5, 1955, and included such black leaders as Martin Luther King Jr. and Ralph D. Abernathy.

The boycott eventually led to the downfall of the South's "Jim Crow" laws.

IEWS and REVIEWS by Allen Ashby

There is a group of fellows around town who grew up in the thirties and went to World War II. They made up the gang of guys who hung around the old Crocker YMCA. This was a segregated branch of the Des Moines Y.

It looked to me that the strategy was to give us what we needed for our programs and let us go our way. Everything was segregated then.

The YMCA camp set aside eight days for our group to go to camp, and we usually furnished our own leadership. We were lucky to have at the head of the Crocker Y a fellow who later became nationally prominent in Y and other phases of civic work.

Quinten Mease was an organizer who knew how to get things done, and he had a group of dedicated young men who were willing to see that his programs were put over.

Of the fellows who hung around the Crocker Y located at what is now 1101 Crocker, most of them would swear by Quinten. They were formed into clubs. Some of them were the Y Stars, Cavaliers, Panthers, HIB's and a group from the East side, the Hawkeyes.

All we had in material things was a building that had been an old Camp Dodge army hut during WWI and enough ground to put up a basketball court and replace it with a ring at times.

But the thing that that bunch of fellows provided was leadership that must have developed those kids into men. It wasn't the building or anything fancy, just the presence of men like Mease and George Robinson.

Those boys grew into young men and they were caught up in World War II. Off they went to war, and this is when the role of their early training showed up. Almost to a man they made fine war records and just about all of them made some sort of rank in the service, from corporals to majors. I can't recall more than one of them getting into serious trouble.

Now these kids, in their fifties and sixties are citizens who are raising families, paying taxes and they are still an outstanding group. Some of them have gone on to become prominent around the city in various roles.

For instance, you knew that fellows like Jimmy Bowman had it as kids. As did Bobby Hyde and John Skipper to mention a few.

Some are in supervisory jobs in the postal service such as Chet Simms. Others have retired but left their jobs with good work records. And today, although Quinten Mease has been gone for years, the fellows still talk about him when they get together, and none with disrespect towards him.

Some of them have moved to other cities, but they are still fine citizens. And when two or more of them get together, they are sure to talk about the old Y camp days. The program was segregated, but developed men who are living proof that it was done under difficult circumstances.

When I look at the kids of today and see the opportunities that we didn't have, I wonder if we would have pushed so hard if it had been like that then. Maybe some of us might have, for there were a few who swam upstream and made it, regardless.

We pushed and fought for desegregation, but we took what we had and did what we could with it. I wonder if we couldn't do that today. Battle for things we believe in and want, but meanwhile work with what we have.

Maybe I am out of touch with the world, and that is what is happening now. You see evidence of it in the notices about individuals who have taken groups and put them over, molding them into citizens.

Big Daddy Amin: Who Are You Really?

There are statements that make front page around the world when spoken by you. It is stated that you hold men to public ridicule lest they forget the horrors of the past. It is said that you are feared by fellow Ugandans as well as persons that have to deal with your country. It is stated that you rule your country by terror. You state that you want to build a statue of Hitler. It is said you have tasted the flesh of humans.

Whenever there is a discussion of the situation in Africa, Uganda and South Africa is generally in the forefront of the discussion. The issues are always whether or not economic sanctions should be imposed to stop the brutality and terror that runs rampant. The interesting thing about the discussion is that few black leaders have spoken out against President Idi Amin Dada. It might be caused by the reluctance of black leaders to believe the world press that it is white dominated. A well known civil rights activist, Florence Kennedy, has even gone to the extent of praising Amin.

Amin's health minister has stated that his estimates indicate that Amin and his soldiers have killed at least 300,000 Ugandans in the seven years that Amin has held power. The victims it is said have done no more than catch the eye of the killer, have some special type of goods, being a Christian in a Muslim village or a civil servant who questions an order.

It is also interesting that few African leaders have spoken out against Amin while strongly attacking South Africa. Many privately have made statements but only Tanzania's Julius Nyerere and Zambia's Kenneth Kaunda, have stated opposition publicly. Few African leaders feel the well-documented acts of atrocities by Amin are fabrication but would not like to see interference in Uganda's internal affairs due to a rebounding effect in its own country.

The United States purchases nearly one-third of Uganda's only exported product of any significance. That is coffee. President Carter has taken the position that the United States will not take a position of boycotting coffee from Uganda. Even though the disappearance of Ugandan coffee from the U. S. would not be a significant factor, the fear remains that an action against Uganda without action against South Africa and John Vorster would set a dangerous precedent.

It is without question that President Amin is erratic and rules his country by terror tactics.

Uganda must be included with the other countries such as South Korea, Argentina, South Africa and Indonesia who consistently have failed to grant basic human rights to its own citizens. Uganda, even though ruled by a black man and is part of an emerging African nation should get no special refrain from condemnation. This is not to say that one man -one vote is the answer to emerging African nations but neither is a reign of terror to control defenseless people.

President Carter's state visit to Nigeria has set the pace. African nations long emerging have arrived. The continent of Africa is a sphere of influence to be reckoned with by the superpowers. The simplistic foreign policy previously required to deal with colonialism is outdated. The sophistication of high level diplomacy coupled with consistency and fairness will be a key factor in the African countries acceptance of the United States as an ally.

The United States dealings with Amin should be watched closely because it may set a significant pattern in our relation with other African countries. The immediate past has shown immense frustrations in dealing with Amin because what the powers that be really don't know or recognize is whether or not they are dealing with a victim of past atrocities, a wild man, a leader with a knack for brutality or a lost cause.

Uganda's United Nations Mission in the United States is just about completed. It is said to cost 9 million dollars and is taller than any other mission. A suite has been constructed on the top floor. Maybe, just maybe, President Amin will fly in one day and we'll see him for what he really is.

Urban Campus Struggle Intensifies

Students from both the Ankeny and Urban Campuses, and community activists from the near-north side have vowed to intensify the struggle for a new Urban Campus. Plans include student boycotts of classes, sit-ins, and disruptions of Area XI board meetings.

The resurgence of activism came after the Area XI board, at its March 13, 1978 meeting, killed plans to work with the city of Des Moines to build the much needed new Urban Campus on urban renewal land.

The struggle for a new Urban Campus began in November, 1976, after students became aware that a large sum of money was being allocated to Area XI specifically for the purpose of building physical structures. It has been an up and down struggle ever since.

The March meeting came as a devastating blow to students that thought as a result of the September, 1977 meeting that a new Urban Campus was going to be built. It was in September, 1977 that students and community people took over the Ruan Center and demanded that John Ruan not sell his building downtown for the purpose of becoming a "temporary" Urban Campus. That same night students attending the board meeting cried, pleaded, and collectively prayed that the board would make a positive decision. The students thought they had won when the board agreed to work with the city.

The idea for an Urban Campus originated in 1972, when the Area XI board discovered it would be eligible for Federal money if they showed some commitment to urban education for low-income people. In other words, Area XI committed itself to urban education not out of genuine concern for poor

Citizens For Community Improvement Redlining Meeting With Gov. Ray

Governor Robert Ray and Federal Home Loan Bank Board Chairman, Robert McKinney will meet with Citizens for Community Improvement (CCI) organizations on Friday April 14, 1978, 1:15 p.m. at Cottage Grove Avenue Presbyterian Church, 24th and Cottage Grove, Des Moines. Ray and McKinney will receive awards from CCI for their recent statements and actions opposing redlining.

CCI was the first group in the state to fight against the practice of redlining. Waterloo and Des Moines CCI groups have since 1976 held several public meetings with bank and savings and loan officials concerning this practice. Waterloo CCI leader, Beatrice Allen, says "Redlining has been a serious cause of decay of the older part of our cities but people input is beginning to make the larger public aware of what is going on and is beginning to change the attitude of some lenders."

Redlining is the practice of banks and savings and loans refusing or making less favorable loans to homes located in specific neighborhoods (generally older neighborhoods) because lending institutions look unfavorably upon those neighborhoods.

Spring Clean-up

The Des Moines-Polk County Health Department is urging everyone to "clean-up" around their yards and homes this spring.

Now that winter is over we are all noticing many things that need attention around our property.

Trash and rubbish on the ground are not only an eyesore, but it can be dangerous. Someone may stumble over it or run over the trash with the lawnmower. Trash and rubbish provide a breeding place for flies, rats and snakes.

Spring is the best time to check the foundations of our homes. Keeping them in good repair will keep out insects, mice and rats. Even a rat can go through a hole that is extremely small.

As you pick up papers that have blown into your yard and other trash and rubbish, be sure to thoroughly check the steps, floor and boards of your house. If not protected by paint they rot very fast and become unsafe.

Clean-up, fix-up and paint-up, not only to protect your investment, but to have a cleaner, safer place to live. Your home will be an asset to the neighborhood and you will be proud of your home.

Public Hearing

The Des Moines District XI of the Iowa Department of Social Services will hold a public hearing on the Governor's Proposed Plan for Social Services for the People of Iowa.

This will be the final opportunity for public comment on the proposed plan for expenditure of federal funds allocated to the state of Iowa for social services for the fiscal year 1978-1979 under Title XX of the Social Securities Act. The hearing will be held April 19, 1978 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of North High School, 501 Holcomb, Des Moines, Iowa.

Copies of the proposed plan are available for examination in local offices of the Iowa Department of Social Services, or in the district office at 1900 Carpenter, Des Moines.

For further information contact your local office of Social Services or the District Office, Box 1556 (1900 Carpenter), Des Moines, Iowa 50306 or call 515-281-5281.

folks, but because it was financially advantageous.

The major thrust of the struggle is to insure that the original emphasis and purpose of the Urban Campus remain the same; to insure quality education for low-income and minority students. Those fighting for a new Urban Campus want the campus located on the near-north side, an area of Des Moines that has the highest number of low-income people. It is felt that if the campus goes elsewhere such as the Ruan building that the educational emphasis will change.

Some board members, and administrative officials blame the community activists for the lack of progress, saying that the aggressive tactics employed, such as the Ruan Center episode have been counter productive. Nothing could be further from the truth! If it were not for the aggressive tactics, the need for a new Urban Campus, and the deteriorating state of the present campus would not be known.

This is a community issue! The addition of a new Urban Campus in our community would do much to give this area an uplift. Victor Hugo said "He that builds a school closes a prison", so conversly that means that he that closes a school opens a prison!

MARSHA COLLIER

Marsha Collier is a lady that has a most dynamic way of doing what she has been talented to do, with the blessings of God.

Marsha has spent many hours with the children of our community, not only because this is her job as the Director of the Willkie House but, my friends, she has been a full-time mother for the mother-less.

The children are the eyes of tomorrow and you are one of their lights for today. I would like to say, Marsha, we love you very much for the wonderful mind that you have. Also, for the understanding and compassion that you express daily.

Our community would be lost without you and others like yourself.

Marsha, you are one of the foundations of time that will last for as long as the mind of humanity is with us.

I think of you as a song that one of our most idealistic ministers of music has sung to the world community.

Professor Marvin Gaye said in song, "save the children," and also,

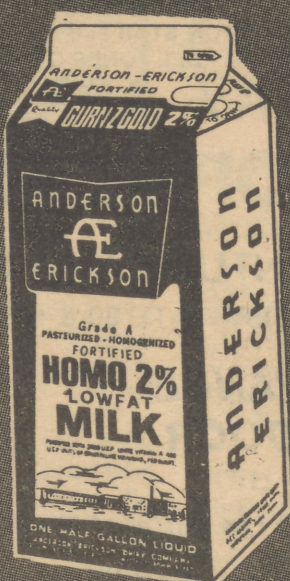

he asked the world in song, "who really cares?"

Marsha, you have shown that you want to save the children. Also, that you care what happens to them later in life and what happens to them now.

Love is the greatest energy of your mind, and I thank you for the community.

A Tribute to Mothers Program

"Most of all the other beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds. Plenty of roses, stars, sunsets, rainbows, brothers and sisters, aunts and cousins, but only one mother in the whole world."

by Kate Douglas Wiggin

There is no better gift afforded to man, the world and little children, than a Mother. She is someone a child cannot do without, for they could not have been born without her. She is the backbone of most churches and the noblest of all creatures. For these reasons and many others the entire nation has taken out one day to glorify and show appreciation for Mothers.

It's not that they're not important the other 364 days, but often times we don't take time to show we care for our Mothers. So right here in Des Moines on a day that we traditionally spend with our Mothers, Doris Tucker is planning a special program at Kyles A.M.E. Zion Church for Mothers.

"Letters have been sent out to all of the predominately black churches in Des Moines, requesting that each church select a Mother to represent their church during the program, which will be held at 4:00 p.m. Sunday, May 14, 1978," explains Mrs. Tucker.

"I hope that the churches respond as soon as possible, so that everything will be together and won't be done at the last minute," continued Mrs. Tucker. "A lot of people will be visiting their mothers either spiritually — because they have either gone on before them or live out-of-state — or they will dine with their Mothers.

I hope that people will attend the program which is scheduled to last for one hour, with a light refreshment afterwards, and take time and reminisce and enjoy their mother, whose days may be short, we don't know when we will be called Home!" exclaims. Tucker.

The program will consist of a variety of spiritual offerings, i.e., music, dramatic interpretations, words of wisdom, etc.,

A current slogan in today's family is "Have you hugged your child today?" During our daily hum drum in life, we, as parents move into our day thinking of work, dress, clothes, money, school, dinner and cars — the list is obviously endless — but, how many times do we include in our materialistic thinking, of love?

We provide all of these things for our children, but have we showed them or told them why? If you're a typical parent, you love your children and you accept the responsibility of providing for them. The same expressions goes equally if you drop the children and insert Mother.

HAVE YOU HUGGED YOUR MOTHER TODAY?

THE LOVE OF A MOTHER

The love of a mother is never exhausted, It never changes, It never tires. It endures through all; In good repute, in bad repute, A mother's love still lives on.

by Washington Irving

Rev. Jesse Williams, Pastor of Kyles A.M.E. Zion accepts the letter of confirmation from Mrs. Doris Tucker, for The Tribute To Mothers Program co-ordinated by Mrs. Tucker that will be held, Sunday, May 14, 1978.

Black Business Open

A new business has been opened in the Model Cities community. The C & E Cosmetic and Beauty Aids shop has become a unique and profiting addition to the community. What makes it so different from any other shop is that it has joined the small ranks of businesses that are owned, operated and managed by blacks.

C & E not only has cosmetic and beauty aids, but Mrs. Hazel Cowan and her husband, A. C. Cowan, the owners and managers specialize in hair products. Also included in the shop are jewelry, scarfs, hats, Naomi Sims wigs and style blow dryers and afro combs.

C & E is a retail supply store and they are encouraging beauticians to buy supplies there. Mrs. Cowan stated, "that if there is anything that the store doesn't have and someone needs, they will be glad to order it, not all stores offer this service."

C & E is located at 1753 University and is open from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday thru Saturday.

Sweet Plea

Come, let us forget the follies of former times
Forgive each other for those petty crimes
Love knows not who was right, who was more wrong
So, transform our differences into the melody of sweet song.

For if we know not how to forgive,
Our lives will never prove positive
No matter how disheartening things may be Within our hearts there lies a magic key.

Capable of unlocking any door
Which blocks the passage to a problems core,
To end ... To conclude ... To part
Each will have to contend with a torn heart.

I see no reason why we should persist
Your love for me will always exist
Come let me escort you to ecstasy
Never apart ... continually ... joyously.

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

We are yet praising the Lord for His mighty works and His great power He is blessing us with. The saints are yet on the move for Jesus with a mind to do the will of Him that sent them to the highways to the lost who have become blind to the things that is real. We praise God for saving us to serve and to be a witness for Him, no goodness of our own but made up mind to go always for Jesus.

On last Sunday, God met us at New Friendship Church in a great way. The Spirit was there, the power and the anointing of the Holy Ghost. Elder R. L. Daye preached as if it was the end time. After Pentecost what? What are you doing after Pentecost? Are you still at home? Are you doing His will? Oh praise God, I am saved and washed in the blood of the Lamb.

Then on Sunday afternoon, the church went to Fort Dodge to the Fort Dodge Mission Church, Pastor Le roy Johnsons. The Saints put out the welcome mat for us. God did the rest. The Saint's hearts were blessed. Pastor Daye want to thank all of the Saints that went with the church to Fort Dodge. The choir is getting better and better as they sing the songs of Zion.

This Sunday we are looking forward to have another great time at 1711 West 16th Street here in Des Moines. Pastor Daye will be bringing the Word. Will you meet us there? If you have a problem, bring it to Jesus so He can fix it for you. I will be praying for the sick and anointing them with oil. Come and be blessed of the Lord while the healing waters flows. Time 11:30 A.M. Sunday and at 7:30 on Sunday night. May God bless you real good.

This Sunday at 4:00 P.M. the New Friendship choir will be at Bethel A.M.E. Church. Come and let us have Church.

EACH DAY AT 12:00 N O O N N E W FRIENDSHIP WILL BE IN PRAYER. COME ON BY AND PRAY WITH US IN THE HOLY GHOST. 1711 West 16th Street.

Human Equality

By Rev. H. R. Fields
Mt. Olive Baptist Church

"The rich and poor meet together; the Lord is the maker of them all." Prov. 22:2.

By the rich and poor, the wise man doubtless includes all ranks and degrees of men. And by meeting together, he evidently means, that they meet on common or equal ground; that, however unequal they may be in many of the distinctions of life, yet, in great and important matters, they are placed on the same level. "They meet together, for the Lord is the maker of them all."

"The rich and poor meet together."

1. In the sameness of their origin.

For all men are equally the descendants of the first pair. God hath made of "one blood all nations of men." How foolish and contemptible is pride of antiquity and superiority of descent. How silly the terms noble and ignoble blood!

2. In the construction and modification of their persons.

As all have one origin, so, likewise, all possess the same common nature. There may be considerable diversity of stature, color, and feature; but all are essentially alike.

Anatomists cannot discern the least difference in the construction of human beings, of whatever country or color. Heart, nerves, muscles, all the same. Union of body and soul the same; the same faculties, they meet together.

3. In the calamitous consequences of the fall.

By one man's disobedience all men are made sinners; all are involved in the same common depravity, guilt, and condemnation. The rich and poor meet together.

4. In the gracious arrangements of redeeming mercy.

Christ the Messiah is the kindred brother of every child of man; and his blood possesses unbounded, universal, and eternal merit and efficacy.

He came expressly "that the world through him might be saved." And "by the grace of God he tasted death for every man." Yes, his sacrifice availeth to all colors, ranks, and degrees of men. And there is no exclusion, but the self-exclusion of unbelief. They meet together.

5. In the field of mutual dependence and usefulness.

No created being is, or can be independent. Not only do all men depend upon God, but all are so closely united to one another, that none can say to his fellow, I have no need of thee.

The rich depend upon the poor, for their labor; and the poor upon the rich for a portion of their abundance. God hath linked the whole human family together in the bonds of mutual dependence. The rich and poor meet together.

6. In the infirmities and miseries to which humanity is liable.

No station in society is exempted from disease of body or mind. Man, that is born of a woman, whether rich or poor, is exposed to trouble. Disappointment and sorrow are ingredients which are mixed in the cup of all men, from monarch on the throne to the child born for adversity. The rich and poor meet together.

7. Within the precincts of the dark and silent tomb.

All are alike exposed and subjected to the same harbingers, agonies, of death. Effects the same upon all; putrefaction and worms. The grave is the house appointed for all living. And there is no discharge in the war of mortality. The rich and poor shall meet together.

8. Around the judgment-seat of Christ.

Judgment is as certain as death; and as certain to all. Every man's bonds shall be loosened in the morning of the resurrection blast; and all shall stand to hear their sentence, and receive their doom.

If the rich and poor meet together, then:

1. Let each labor to fill up his station to the glory of God and the good of mankind.

Let the poor cultivate a spirit of contentment; for "godliness with contentment a great gain. Besides, poverty has been sanctified by the life of Jesus, "who, though he was rich, yet for our sakes became poor." Let the rich be fruitful in good works, and so expend their possessions, that they may give an account of their stewardship with joy, and not with grief.

2. Let there be a mutual bearing of each other's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.

3. Let the rich and poor meet together with kindly remembrance before the throne of grace.

How desirable that, with fervent love and compassion, we solicit heaven's blessings to descend upon our fellowmen.

4. May all be solicitous to meet together in the heavenly world.

Of all the disciples Christ had, only three were ready for the transfiguration on the mountain top. That is because they had completely denied self,

City of Des Moines Announces...

During the two-week period, April 17 through 28, the City of Des Moines is allowing residents to increase the number of trash containers that will be picked up by the Solid Waste Department from twelve (12) to eighteen (18). On street pickup, fourteen (14) of the eighteen (18) containers must be placed at the curb. On alley pickup all eighteen (18) must be placed adjacent to the alley.

CONTAINERS

The additional six (6) containers will provide people with a means of disposing of yard debris and small waste household items. All containers must meet the Solid Waste Ordinance and be less than 65 pounds each. No bulk waste household items such as furniture or large appliances will be picked up.

For more information call the City of Des Moines, Public Works Department at 283-4276.

Ebony Fashion Fair Here April 22

The 20th annual EBONY Fashion Fair will appear in Des Moines at Hoyt Sherman Place, 15th and Woodland, on April 22, 1978 at 8:00 p.m. This famed traveling fashion show is produced by EBONY magazine in Chicago and is sponsored here by Phi Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, Inc. The show here will benefit the Helen Lemme Scholarship Fund.

Delta Sigma Theta, Inc. is a public service sorority founded at Howard University in 1913. There are now over 90,000 women in the sorority with 603 chapters in the United States, the Republics of Haiti and Liberia and in the Virgin Islands. Phi Chapter was founded in Des Moines in 1923.

One of the purposes is scholarship and educational development. With the proceeds from the two previous fashion fairs, several scholarships were given to minority high school and college students. Recipients of $5,500 in financial aid have been: Yolaine

Archer, Pamela Bruce, Jonetta Cameron, Tri Minh Dang, Vien Dao Doan, Lafe Fowler, David Jones, Emmet Johnson, Marie Moody, Karen Rollison, Melvina Thompson, Richard Townsell, Jr., and Brett Wilcots.

The array of spectacular garments were personally selected by Mrs. Eunice W. Johnson, producer and director of the show, during her visits to the fashion centers of the world — Rome, Naples, Paris and London as well as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Some of the famous designers whose garments will be featured in the show are Marc Bohan for Christian Dior, Balestra, St. Laurent, Ungaro, Guy Laroche, Karl Lagerfeld for Chloe and Calvin Klein. Mrs. Johnson has also selected outstanding creations from Black designers, Stephen Burrows, Jack Fuller for Nuance, James Daugherty, Scott Barrie for Barrie Sport and Jay Jaxon for Muney.

The traveling show consists of some 200 fashions complete with accessories, 10 female and 2 male models, a commentator, music director, stage and business managers and wardrobe staff. Because of the unprecedented demand for sponsorship of the show from organizations in many, many cities throughout the United States, EBONY Fashion Fair will tour two seasons — the East from September 7th through December 10th, and the Southwest from January 12th through April 25, 1978 — a total of 161 cities.

Mrs. Venita Wells, chairperson of the benefit performance indicates ticket sales are going exceptionally well and expects an even larger attendance than last year. Tickets may be purchased by calling 285 - 4131 or 244 - 6614. Tickets are $10.00 with a limited supply of student tickets available at $5.00. A subscription for one year of Ebony or six months of Jet Magazine is included in the price of the ticket.

NO JIG SAW PUZZLE

A jig saw can be the most handy tool in your workshop. It can crosscut 2-by-4's, miter and bevel cut, rip plywood paneling, cut light and some heavy gauge metal, and cut curves and intricate scroll work, when the proper blade and blade speed are used.

But there's no sense in getting one unless it does everything a jig saw can do—and safely. Here are some things to look for—so that buying a jig saw will be no puzzle:

- Multi blade speeds—to increase the number of kinds of material it can be used to cut.

- Universal blade holder—an excellent feature because it provides access to a wide variety of blades.

A GOOD JIG SAW is compact and lightweight to prevent fatigue when working on walls and ceilings.

- Good balance, compactness and light weight—to prevent fatigue, since it is frequently used for cutout work in walls and ceilings.

- Tilting base—handy for bevel cuts.

Why would a sweet talking dude mess with a six-time mama? Love...can you dig it?

Kalonji Lumumba Saadiq — Prophet or Profiteer?

Once known as Clive DePatton, Kalonji is a community activist; he is the supporter of a vast number of causes, involving the Evelyn Davis Health Clinic, community improvement, community police relations, and the struggle for a new Urban Campus.

During an interview in his home on 16th Street in Des Moines, Kalonji said, "Fighting for causes has gotten me beaten, bombed, shot at, and jailed." Yet he continues.

Kalonji is considered impulsive, selfish and fool-hearty by those who dislike his trait of "speaking out;" supporters say he is brilliant and wise.

One of the reasons Kalonji gave for taking on the Urban Center cause was "to fight injustice anywhere is to fight it everywhere."

This seems to be his life's motto.

Kalonji, 27, Black Panther since 1969, a former Urban Center student, and candidate for Des Moines City Council last year, says he plans to embark on "an individual campaign of civil disobedience" and will spend the next few years in and out of jail for various causes in order for "the plight of the poor and minorities to be heard in no uncertain terms."

Kalonji may soon have the opportunity to "test" his affectiveness at "civil disobedience" — a form of protest he plans to employ at future DMACC Board of Directors meetings.

Unless future Board meetings are aimed "toward a positive commitment to a new Urban Center on the near north side," Kalonji hopes to prevent any other business from being discussed.

"That Board has seen every human emotion but rage ... I disassociate myself from this cause in what I plan to do personally ... There aren't going to be no more peaceful Board meetings as long as I'm free ... If you support me, don't follow me, just bail me out before the next board meeting," said Kalonji at a planning meeting held March 21 at the Urban Center.

The Board defeated plans to build a new Urban Center on urban renewal land, proposed by the City of Des Moines, March 13. This action leaves the college undecided on a future Urban Center site and has prompted Kalonji to consider "verbal disruption of the April 10 meeting as a political tactic."

For a while I feel I can be as disruptive as any 15-20 people," said Kalonji. "I've always felt there should be an extreme alternative (in the Urban Center cause) such as Martin Luther King vs. Malcom X. Either you deal with the students and community people who are willing to work within the established system, or you deal with me, and I'm not willing to recognize any rules," said Kalonji.

Kalonji, who's father has a degree in Political Science, admits this plan goes against everything he's ever studied about community organization. "I don't want to turn anybody who's in favor of the proposal away." But said Kalonji, "Nothing we could do right now would be counterproductive. We have nothing to lose and an Urban Center to gain."

Don Rowen, president of the board, said he is hopeful the vote will be reconsidered. Rowen said although he and those who voted for the city proposal could not condone Kalonji's action of disruption, they share the same feelings and would not be offended by such action. Rowen could not say the same for Board members who voted 'no'.

"Knowing the make-up of this Board," said Rowan, Kalonji's disruptive efforts "will give those folks who voted against the proposal further reason to maintain that position."

Linda Dean, an Urban Center student, active in the efforts to obtain a new campus for the Urban Center, said she and Kalonji meet while taking a "Children's Creative Activities" class at the Urban Center. She has known him for three years and said, "He's got very good judgement. He's a brilliant person. I don't think he'd do anything to hurt our cause."

Dean said, "Kalonji is coming from a moral

Who Is Imani?

Most Americans are familiar with Gary Gilmore, the first man to be executed after a virtual ten year moratorium on the death penalty. Gary Gilmore wanted to die to repent for the killing of two innocent people. His case received national publicity and consequently he became a folk hero. But who is Imani?

Imani (Johnny Harris) is one of five prisoners known as the Atmore - Holman Brothers who were indicted for the alleged killing of a guard during an inmate uprising protesting inhumane prison conditions.

Brother Imani was convicted by an all white, all male jury in Alabama, a state which has almost a million Blacks. Imani was sentenced to die under an antiquated statute enacted during the Civil War era.

On Marh 7, 1978, federal district judge Virgil Pittman, after receiving hundreds of telegrams from around the world, granted Imani a 60 - day stay of execution.

The national media and its attempts to ignore those fighting for justice is trying to create the illusion among the victims of injustice that the struggle is dead.

How can the nation's media justify making a hero out of a man who admittedly took two innocent lives, and at the same time totally ignore a Black man that allegedly killed a guard in a struggle to end inhumane conditions in a prison, and was convicted of a Civil War era statute, and sentenced to die by an all white jury?

Imani's case along with the case of the Wilmington 10, and numerous others, clearly demonstrate the hypocrisy of Jimmy Carter's so - called Human Rights Campaign.

The importance of making people aware of Brother Imani's case and mobilizing to save him from execution cannot be overstated.

I strongly urge all those truly interested in Human Rights and justice to write a letter to the Supreme Court of Alabama, Montgomery, Alabama, demanding that the prosecution of the Atmore - Holman Brothers be reversed. Remember: Imani has less than six weeks to live!

"Year Against South African Apartheid" Launched by Students

By Angie Dickerson and Joe Walker

NEW YORK CITY — "A Year Against Apartheid" has been launched here by more than 700 trade unionists, students and activists. They attended an historic rally in solidarity with South African Freedom Fighters at the Great Hall of Cooper Union in March.

The United Nations General Assembly, by unanimous decree, proclaimed the year beginning on March 21, as the International Anti - Apartheid Year "in order to step up international action against apartheid — by governments, organizations and the public — in this crucial period of the struggle of the oppressed people of South Africa for their freedom and human rights."

The guest of honor was John Gaetsewe, General Secretary of the South African Congress of Trade Unions (SACTU), who was making his first appearance in the United States.

"Make no mistake about it, apartheid is not changing its face," Gaetsewe told the Cooper Union gathering. "The oppressed people in South Africa have written the answer in their own blood in the last 10 years," he said, citing the hundreds who have suffered death, the countless who have been maimed.

After recollecting Sharpsville and Soweto, Gaetsewe discussed the road ahead. He said that foreign investors, which include most of the top U. S. corporations and banks, shore up the racist and fascist minority government and economy and "ensures the virtual slavery of Blacks" there.

"South Africa is not as remote from the United States as some would like to have us think," reminded Leslie O. Harriman, the Nigerian Ambassador to the United Nations. "The vaults of Fort Knox are filled with South African gold dug by the slave labor of Africans, the uranium in the nuclear bombs comes from South Africa, and so do the diamonds that glitter in the high societies of the Western world."

Today direct U. S. investments in South Africa total a "book value" of two billion dollars plus untold, indirect investments through British and West German firms. Also, billions of dollars in loans and credits have been channeled to South Africa by U. S. banks and financial institutions.

Other speakers in Great Hall of Cooper Union included Charlene Mitchell, executive secretary of the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression; Terry Spector of the Young Workers Liberation League; Zehdi Labib Terzi, UN representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization; and Jarvis Tyner, chairman of the New York State Communist Party.

standpoint. He's looking at it objectively in saying 'How can you do this — these are people's lives!' I can sympathize with him ... He's speaking the emotions of the community."

Russ LaVine, Des Moines city councilman, who says he has always been against proposals for a new Urban Center because it asks Des Moines to sponsor a multi-county center, described Kalonji as "a professional trouble maker."

"If you don't think he's got some marbles missing, take a look at his police record. If I belonged to that organization (DMACC Board) I'd have a police officer there to arrest him for disrupting the meeting as soon as he opened his mouth," said LaVine.

Both Kalonji and LaVine ran in last year's city elections. Some people felt Kalonji used the Urban Center issue for political purposes. Kalonji said this was "absurd", that he was involved long before the election campaign.

Board President Rowen said he has worked with Kalonji on a number of community projects over the years and has never doubted his sincerity. Rowen said they have disagreed on how to get things done — but never sincerity.

And Rowen said, "certainly, there will not be any police present at the next Board meeting." Rowen said he doubts Kalonji would ever purposely do anything to jeopardize a new Urban Center. If there is disruption, "I'll cover that when it happens," said Rowen.

Frank Cordaro, Catholic worker at the Catholic Workers House, 718 Indiana, is often an activist himself, and is presently involved with the Urban Center. He described Kalonji as "gut truth."

More important than what Kalonji says, Cordaro feels, is what he represents. "He's a poor, black, Black Panther, ex-con, with a broken marriage and dubious background — all the things that are, but shouldn't be — that's what makes Kalonji effective."

Cordaro said many people are living testimony to the suffering of being poor, but unlike many, Kalonji can speak, which is what makes him so dangerous in the eyes of the Des Moines police.

Kalonji estimates that he has been arrested some 50 times, but with the exception of one Assault and Battery charge, all crimes have been 'movement related,' such as Obstruction of Justice and Interfering with Official Acts. Kalonji said that as a result of the Assault and Battery charge against him, he received chipped teeth, sprained wrists and 14 stitches.

Cordaro, who worked on Kalonji's political campaign, said, "With Kalonji the question is always whether he is a prophet or a profiteer." Cordaro feels Kalonji is a prophet and explained, "The poor tell us who we are; the prophets tell us who we should be. People don't want to know that, so they reject him."

Kalonji has not had trouble finding work, but has had trouble finding a job in the field of Human Relations, the area he most wants to work in. Both lack of an extensive education and involvement in community organizing, Kalonji feels, have been barriers.

While attending Grove Street, a community college in Oakland, California, Kalonji was the editor of their campus newspaper — he was also active in a struggle "so identical to the Urban Center" at that campus. Since returning from California in 1974, Kalonji has worked for United Metal Plating, been unemployed, and was recently hired as an Administrative Assistant at Urban Community Broadcast.

Mary Theam, of UCB, said she hired Kalonji because he is sincere, is tuned into the beat of the community, and has a long history of extensive involvement in community problems.

The Urban Community Broadcast Company, located on Eleventh and Forest in Des Moines, was founded with CIRALG funds, and hopes to be approved by the FCC as a non-profit, educational, FM station.

The station's goal is to better serve the needs of black people — present a more positive image — than present media does.

Rheam said Kalonji's job will not be affected by his determination to disrupt the DMACC Board meetings.

If the Board discusses the Urban Center and plans to take a vote, Kalonji says he will sit peacefully and wait. But if the Board vote against the Urban Center or refuses to discuss it, Kalonji plans to "exercise my first amendment rights strenuously" until he is arrested.

Kalonji said his parents are usually responsible for bailing him out of jail. His father, Edward DePatton, works in real estate. His mother, Evelyn, 52, works at Bankers Life and attends a class at the Urban Center. Kalonji says his parents are proud of what he's doing, but they don't like the risks.

Civil disobedience, in the words of Martin Luther King, Jr., "seeks to dramatize the issue so that it cannot be ignored."

Black Medical Students Support Anti-Bakke Demonstrations

a n t i - B a k k e demonstration.

"Mass demonstrations can have impact on the Supreme Court ruling," said Adewale Troutman, newly elected President of the Association and a third-year medical student at New Jersey Medical College. "If we allow the Supreme Court to rule on Bakke's side, it would be devastating, not only to minority admissions to learning institutions, but to all affirmative action programs."

According to Lawrence Brown, the new Board Chairman and a medical student at New York University, the entire Black community has to take this case upon their shoulders because the rights struggle are at many gains of the civil stake.

ALLEN ASHBY with a LOOK ON SPORTS

There was plenty of news around to make headlines. First there were a couple of track meets that were worth watching, and then there was the story about an all state basketball player being left off the all star squad for the all star game. One would think that being chosen an all state selection would automatically make a player a member of any all star squad. But it didn't in the case of Webster of Ft. Dodge.

I could maybe accept the fact that the fellow wasn't picked if the group that did the picking had come up with one specific reason why. But when they come up with those round the mulberry bush answers, you know immediately what goes through the minds of lots of people.

The news story cited the fact that Webster had problems as a junior. He admitted it, but said he was wrong for thinking the coach was on him because he was black.

Sometimes a coach or teacher will recognize possibilities in a player or pupil and will really get after the person to make him or her realize those possibilities. This was probably Webster's case because he came up with a fine year this past season. And then not to be picked for the all star game possibly because of his junior year would make one somewhat bitter.

The guy in charge of the group, or at least the one who spoke for them, didn't even have the guts to say what the vote was in the boy's case. Just said that some voted for him and more against him. That was a brilliant statement.

I would have to agree with the school officials that if the group had any doubts about Webster's behavior problems, they should have talked to the Ft. Dodge school officials. Then if they wanted to exclude him, they could give some concrete reason.

No one wants to say that Webster didn't get a fair shake, but what the hell else would you call it? I hope the fellow gets into some school this fall and by his play and behavior makes fools of that august body.

Sometime next fall Leon Spinks and Muhammad Ali will square off in a bout that will make Spinks more money than he thought there was. They will be fighting for the half of the worlds heavyweight boxing crown that the people who make champions with strokes of pens left him, the other half belonging to Ken Norton.

The boxing associations came into being mainly because there is a lot of dough in boxing and they wanted to get some of it. You will recall that they dethroned Ali during his dragft troubles before he had ever gone to court or been indicted because they panicked at the thought of no heavyweight champion to make them some dough.

If you will look at the history of heavyweight champions you will see that they fought whom and when they pleased. Before Joe Louis, champions usually fought once a year, and picked their opponents.

Under the setup as it is now Joe Louis' Bum of the month parade could not have come off. These turkeys would have told Joe to fight Bill So and So or lose his crown. They were maybe around then, but they didn't dare mess with the goose that was laying golden eggs. If they had realized how important to boxing Ali was to become, they might have left him alone, but now they are out there in that water, and can't turn back.

Most of us old timers believe that championships are won or lost in completion, so until someone beats Leon Spinks, he is our champion.

In a little more than two weeks the Drake Relays will be on. This year's grand marshal for the Relay parade will be Wilma Rudolph. That was the name she went under in her last appearance here. Now she will head that parade that winds down Walnut Street regardless of the weather.

I have seen bronzed athletes shivering in their make up as the parade passed by. They were supposed to be still, but try doing that in really cold weather.

Gov. Robert D. Ray was recently presented a Quest for Freedom plaque for his efforts to appoint blacks to Iowa state boards and commissions. Some of those at the presentation ceremony are Ben Grayson, Debbie Carter, Wes Chapman, Willie Glanton, Al Parrish, Monroe Colston, Lucia Howell, Ruth Anderson, Kathryn Williams, Yvonne Gates, Connie Foster and Tom Mann.

Blacks See Gap In Race Relations

Reprinted with permission from the Drake Times-Delphic

By JOHN BERKS
Part One

A gap apparently exists between black and white students at Drake — gap larger for some than for others.

And black students say advances which have been made here are not enough.

More blacks are playing more important roles in student government than in recent years, as illustrated by Keith Brown's (LA4) election to president of the student body last spring.

In addition, seven blacks serve on senate committees this year — the first time this number of blacks have been involved in Drake student government at one time.

One reason for this greater black involvement is there are more black students now — the black population at Drake nearly tripled from 1970 to 1977 and is about 300 students, according to the registrar's office.

ALTHOUGH playing a greater role in campus activities, Drake's black students say they find the university's policy of non-discrimination not effective in knocking down old barriers and solving problems.

The racial atmosphere throughout the country apparently has changed markedly from the race riots and civil rights demonstrations that took place in some big cities and in the south during the 1960's.

A commentary appearing in the Feb. 5 issue of the Des Moines Sunday Register read, "Today the campuses are 'quiet.' At least the loud, overt racial hostility of the 1960s had faded ... But it has been replaced by a strained and a separate peace."

This "strained and separate peace," though not pronounced, can be seen at Drake. One example is the self-segregation in Hubbell Dining Hall where many black students eat in one section.

Another example is some all-black and all-white fraternities at Drake.

Although blacks are legally allowed into all Drake organizations, the Black Student Organization and the all-black fraternity Kappa Alpha Psi exist, and they and other all-black organizations are growing in size.

SUSAN WRIGHT, associate sociology professor who teaches a class on minority relations here, said the reasons such organizations are aligned on a black/white basis are "partly cultural and partly discriminatory."

"For years and years," she said, "the U.S. attitude or expectation was that of assimilation. All minorities were expected to drop their own culture and to take up the white American culture."

But, she said, blacks were never totally accepted and in the latter half of the 1960s the civil rights movement began to rise along with black self-pride.

"In part," said Wright, "what we're seeing today is a part of that black identity movement." All-black groups are more comfortable for blacks and help support black pride, she said.

Discrimination has also played a part in the formation of separate groups for blacks, said Wright.

"A lot of blacks feel rejected on campus," she said, adding that blacks generally feel separated here.

Phil Furgeson (FA4), president of Drake's chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, said his fraternity is not closed to white students but only a few have even considered joining.

"When they see all those blacks, that kind of turns them off, and they say 'let's get out of here,'" he said.

SOCIAL separation in the form of peer pressure within both black and white groups, prevents such activities as interracial dating.

Speaking about a black friend who was dating a white female, Furgeson said, "We used to kid the guy and tell him 'stick to your own kind, stick to your own kind.' He said these were attempts to embarrass that person."

Patty Avery (LA3), head cheerleader and a black, said such peer pressure stopped her from going with white males when she was a freshman.

"If you've got to be here for four years," she said, "that (peer) pressure can be something else ... Everybody wants to be liked, especially by people like themselves."

THERE ARE other gaps as well. Black students claim university parties and other social activities don't cater to their culture.

Dave Milliner (J3), black chairperson of the National - International Awareness Committee, said blacks are too often "left out" when all-university functions are planned.

Milliner, a resident at Goodwin-Kirk Residence Hall, said he thought the residence halls fail to meet the needs of black students on campus.

"Residence halls are not conducive to black students' social environment," Milliner said.

Tom Tronick, associate director of student residences, said the problem lies not only with whites not responding but with the failure of blacks to make their needs known.

"If they (blacks) don't come forward and let you know what they want, it's pretty difficult to give them what they want," Tronick said.

BLACK STUDENT government involvement in the residence halls appears to be low. As of February Goodwin-Kirk had four blacks involved in its hall government; Morehouse, three; and Stalnaker, two. No blacks are involved in the hall governments at the other three residence halls.

Another gap cited by black students is the lack of black leaders representing the university. Keith Brown said Drake has a "responsibility" to get more black professors and advisers.

Milliner echoed this, saying black advisers were needed so black students would have someone to relate to who has a "black on black understanding."

There are currently two full-time black professors on Drake's campus, with a third on leave and three more with part-time positions.

According to the personnel office, there are seven full-time blacks employed in administrative positions; six employed full-time in clerical positions with one part-time; and 19 employed in service positions with two part-time.

Director of personnel Betty Durden said although Drake makes efforts to reach qualified blacks to inform them of opening positions, race is not the determining factor in filling positions.

BUT DURDEN agreed that the lack of black professors is a problem.

As I analyze our workforce," she said, "I don't think we have enough minorities employed at certain levels."

Elaine Burgess, a white counseling psychologist and BSO adviser, is a member of the Race Resource Committee, a mixed organization of both blacks and whites established last fall to work on issues of race. She said racism is not easily defined but summed it up as a "general lack of understanding."

"Most of it (racism) is unintentional," she said, "or a lack of familiarity with the subculture, which makes it no less aggravating."

John Large (LA1) from the south side of Chicago, helped form a group called Force Faze I last with the goal to "bring whites and blacks together for parties."

What the future holds for race relations at Drake is open to speculation, Wright said there has been a "lull" in race relations in the last five or six years, but added there were "not enough signs to say which way it will develop."

My Father's Hand
While through this changing world below
I would not choose my path to go;
'Tis Father's hand that Leadeth me,
Then O how safe his child must be.

Sometimes we walk in sunshine bright,
Sometimes in darkness of the night;
Sometimes the way I cannot see
But Fathers hand still leadeth me

Sometimes there seems no way to take
But Father's hand a way doth make.
Sometimes I hear Him gently say,
"Come follow Me, this is the way."

Why should I mind the way I go?
His way is best for me, I know.
He is my strength, my truth, my way.
He is my comfort, rod, and stay.

So one we travel hand in hand,
Bound for the heavenly promised land

Tips For The Green Thumb

April does not only bring showers but numerous outdoor activities, including some left over from last fall. Yard clean-up is probably the biggest task. Rake the lawn with a yard broom instead of a garden rake to avoid injury, unless it is used gently. Also apply fertilizer to the lawn if you missed doing it last fall. If you did fertilize last fall then wait until May and apply a light amount.

If you have not already done so, prune the fruit trees including the grapes. It is also a good time to prune many evergreens since early pruning encourages quick regrowth. For instance, arborvitae, juniper and yew tips can be pruned back to a satisfactory side branch. Use a pruning shears and not a hedge trimmer to selectively remove unwanted shoots. When pruning established hedges, remove all old and dead wood at ground level. Trim all the new, healthy wood to desired height. To avoid holes and open spaces, prune back newly established and young hedges to about 6-12 inches high. For example, if you are putting in a new privet hedge this spring, plant them about 1-2 feet apart and cut them back to about 6 inches above ground. This will enable the plants to spread out from the bottom and fill out evenly.

Seedlings that have been started indoors should be gradually exposed to the outdoors for hardening process. But most of all, watering should be reduced in order to make the plants sturdy. An increase of

Always through all Eternity,
I'll praise His name for leading me.

Mt. Zion Baptist Church had their regular Sunday morning services with Rev. J. Laster in charge. He delivered the morning message "A Great Promise," Matthew 25:20 which was enjoyed by all.

Energy Assistance Program Available through Red Rock

Red Rock Area Community Action Programs, Inc. is participating in the Emergency Energy Assistance Program. Guidelines for the program are:

1. Energy/fuel bills must be 30 days or more overdue. Notice of disconnect or overdue bill must be presented.
2. Annual income of applicants must be within 125% of CSA poverty guidelines.

3. Any applicant who has more than $1500 in convertible cash assets is ineligible for the program.

Red Rock serves the six county area of Boone, Jasper, Marion, Story, Polk (outside the City of Des Moines), and Warren counties. If you live in this area call the following county offices for information.

And The City of Des Moines

Low income residents of Des Moines will again be able to receive assistance in paying gas, oil and electric bills that have been building up from the past winter. Up to $250 may be available to residents of the City who meet special income guidelines for this federally funded Emergency Energy Assistance Program (EEAP).

Under current guidelines, a non-farm family of one is eligible if its income did not exceed $3,713. Guidelines for larger family units are:

Family Size	Income
2	$4,913
3	6,113
4	6,313
5	8,513
6	9,713

In addition to meeting income guidelines, applicants for EEAP funds must be able to show unpaid fuel bills more than 30 days in arrears. Unlike a similar program last year, EEAP does not provide for cash payments and is available only to those with bills more than 30 days past due. Also this year's regulations restrict convertible assets of applicants to $1,500.

According to the City's Office of Neighborhood Development (the local Community Action Agency) applicants are urged to bring with them a fuel/utility bill more than 30 days past due, a disconnect notice from the fuel or utility company, or a notice of refusal to deliver fuel. In addition, applications can be more quickly processed if the applicant has documentation of his income.

The EEAP Program is funded through the State Office of Planning and Programming by the Federal Community Services Administration. All applications in Des Moines are being taken by the following offices of Neighborhood Development: Four-Mile, 3711 Easton; Logan, E. 17th Ct. and Garfield; Model City, 1000 College; Pioneer - Columbus, 2100 S.E. 5th Street; Southeast, S.E. 25th and Maury; Woodland Willkie, 939 Harding Road and Central Office, 505 E. 1st.

Application deadline is April 28, 1989 but may be earlier if funds are rapidly expended.

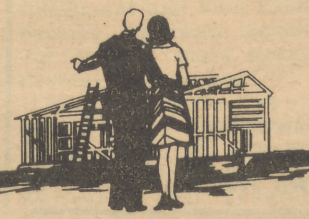

Further information can be obtained by calling 283-4107.

Executive Director, NAACP
NEW DAY BEGUN

Break In Harry T. Moore Case

The reopening of the Harry T. Moore murder case by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Brevard County Sheriff's office in Florida hopefully will at long last lead to the conviction of the people responsible for that dreadful act. Harry Moore and his wife Harriet were blown out of their beds on Christmas night in 1951 by a dynamite bomb.

In the annals of NAACP history, their deaths represent the start of that brutal sequence of civil rights slayings that ended with the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in 1968.

The Moore murders were especially significant for the NAACP. From 1934 to 1939 he was president of the Brevard County NAACP branch. He next served from 1941 to 1946 as president of the Florida NAACP State Conference, then as executive secretary until the month before his death. He himself organized both the Brevard branch and the State Conference.

The move to reopen the murder case was begun by local NAACP leaders following a memorial service for Mr. Moore last December. As the featured speaker, Gloster B. Current, who was director of branches when the Moores were killed, called for the FBI to reopen the case. But the big break did not come until a 52-year-old victim of terminal cancer, contacted Fort Pierce NAACP branch president Charles F. Matthews in early March to confess to the alleged murders.

The man explained that his wife had just died from cancer and, sensing his own imminent end, wanted to clear his conscience. The recent news about the memorial service and the announced call for the FBI to reopen the case had bothered him.

Mr. Matthews immediately contacted State Conference President Charles Cherry in Daytona Beach. He in turn called in the FBI. For three days, the FBI interrogated the man and reportedly found reason to believe there were grounds for reopening the case.

But the statutes of limitation had run out for the FBI's involvement, so it turned the case over to Capt. W. J. Patterson in the County Sheriff's office. Capt. Patterson spent three days in Washington reviewing FBI files and reportedly plans to pursue the investigation when time permits. Possible problems, however, could be the widespread political alliances that cut across county lines and friendship cliques.

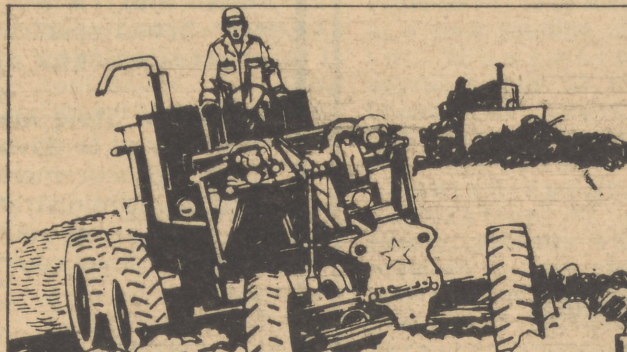

Furthermore, staff and budget limitations could hamper Capt. Patterson's effectiveness. So the state might just have to step in through the Florida Department of Law Enforcement Officers.

The self-confessed killer reportedly has named three other men living in the area as alleged participants in the murders, all of whom have responsible positions in neighboring counties. A fifth member, who is dead, reportedly was black.

To ensure that their only contrite witness will not be killed to prevent him from testifying against others implicated in the bombing, the FBI is protecting the informant. The final conviction of Robert E. Chambliss 14 years after the 1963 murder of four small girls in a Birmingham, Ala., church gives the NAACP hope that the Harry and Harriet Moore bombings will some day be repaid with the conviction of the killers.

ORIGINAL NOTICE IN THE IOWA DISTRICT COURT FOR POLK COUNTY EQUITY NO. CE9-4743

HOME FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION,
SPRING VALLEY,
MINNESOTA

Plaintiff,

vs.

CHARLES V. REESE,
SHIRLEY A. REESE,
ANKENY NATIONAL BANK,
RENA REESE,
POLK COUNTY, IOWA,

Defendants.

TO THE ABOVE-NAMED
DEFENDANT(S):

You are hereby notified and required to serve upon Wasker, Sullivan & Ward, Plaintiff's attorneys, whose address is 2100 Financial Center, Des Moines, Iowa 50309, an appearance, motion or pleading to the Petition which is now on file, on or before the 4th day of May, 1978, and within a reasonable time thereafter to file a duplicate with the undersigned Clerk of the Court.

If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for the relief demanded in the Petition.

You are further notified that the Petition of the Plaintiff in the above-entitled action is claiming personal judgment against Charles V. Reese and Shirley A. Reese, and judgment in rem against the property hereinafter described in the sum of $32,259.91, with interest at the rate of 8 1/2% percent, from and after June 1, 1977, on the Promissory Note of Charles V. Reese and Shirley A. Reese, executed and delivered to the Plaintiff's Assignor, and thereafter assigned to the Plaintiff, who is the absolute owner thereof, and said Note and Mortgage given to secure said Note are due and payable by reason of the failure of the Defendants to pay the installments of principal and interest when due. The Petition further asks for foreclosure of said Mortgage of even date and the Note of May 28, 1976, on the following described real estate, to-wit:

Lot 5 in Block 5 in Thomas 2nd Addition, an Official Plat, now included in and forming a part of the City of Ankeny, Iowa, and also asking that said Mortgage be declared a prior and paramount lien to that of each and all Defendants and further praying for the appointment of a receiver, and for the amount paid by the Plaintiff for legal attorney fees, abstract expenses and all accruing costs of this action, and for such other relief as may be just and equitable in the premises.

You are further notified that the Mortgage herein provides that in the event of foreclosure and sale of the property by Sheriff's sale, the time of one year redemption shall be reduced to six months provided that the mortgagee waives any right to take a deficiency judgment. Plaintiff reserves the right to waive all rights to a deficiency judgment prior to Sheriff's sale.

You are further notified that the Mortgage herein provides that in the event the Court finds in the Decree that the titleholders who are personally liable on the mortgage have abandoned the premises and the mortgagee has waived any right to a deficiency judgment, the redemption period shall be reduced from one year to sixty (60) days.

The foreclosure Petition of the Plaintiff prays for a writ of possession in the event that any part of the mortgaged premises be sold under foreclosure decree and not redeemed from Sheriff's sale as provided by law without any other additional proceedings.

Enjoys Youth Work

Spotlight

She recalls being fired because she refused to work on Easter Sunday. "I normally worked Monday thru Saturday and the boss told me to come in on Easter and I told him that I go to church on Sunday and couldn't. I appealed the firing with the Employment Commission and received the wages coming to me. During those days there was no affirmative action, civil rights commission or human rights commission to assist Negroes," explains Mrs. Clark.

She married Luther Clark in July of 1950. In 1972 she began working for the Iowa Children and Family Services until very recently. The program was first funded by Drake University, Teacher Corps, then it moved into the community and was funded by United Way.

"As a Parent-aid, I went into the homes of the children and worked with both mother and child. I've helped with their early childhood education and discipline.

"I took the children on field trips, i.e., parks, dairy, fire station and grocery stores. These trips gave them an awareness of what makes up a community. The program sponsored annual family picnics, a Christmas social and varying other activities. There are a total of ten Parent-Aids and each aid was responsible for five children from low-income families."

Mrs. Clark feels that one must move with the changes and this thought alone brings us to one of her reasons for becoming a Mary Kay Beauty Consultant. She has been a beauty consultant for four years, and she feels that she is able to share her gift for loving others. She believes in Mary Kay because she puts God first, family second and Mary Kay work last. Mary Kay doesn't single out the color of one's skin. She proclaims that God made us all and that women want beautiful skin.

Mrs. Clark enjoys exercise. She feels that people take their body and health for granted. She works out at the European Health Spa, rides her bicycle and jogs. "We, as women, owe it to ourselves to exercise. It helps to keep a healthy heart and mind. All of these things revert back to the Creator. He wants us to take care of ourselves, especially by keeping clean." She hopes to teach slimnastics at Logan Opportunity Center.

With all the activities she indulges in, Mrs. Clark still has time for hobbies — fishing and playing tennis. Also, she adores spoiling her two grandchildren — a famous trait of all grandmothers — Jerry Clark, Jr. (Angel) and Anthony Clark (Star), both sons of her son, Jerry Clark.

Mrs. Clark is pictured here working with children from Iowa children and Family Services and Teacher Corp worker, when she first began working in the program.

Black Newsmen Question President On Africa Policy, Job and Urban Programs

American citizens — black and white — have shown a "tremendous new interest" in Black Africa and support an end to discrimination and apartheid on that developing continent, says President Carter.

"I think this is a new thrust that is not just initiated by me as a lonely public official, but which mirrors accurately what the American people have long wanted to do," the President said in an interview with a panel from the television program, "Black Perspective on the News."

In an optimistic interview, the President predicted continued support from American citizens for resolving the problem of apartheid and majority rule in the southern part of Africa, and in furthering equality and fairness in the United States.

President Carter said he considered his recent unprecedented trip to Nigeria and Liberia very successful and said the United States needs to establish good communications with developing nations.

"By the end of this century," the President said, "80% of all the people who live on earth will live in Africa, Latin America and Asia. That is less than 20 years. And we want to be sure that our friendships are solid, that the policies that I put forward representing the American people are good ones, that they are based on close consultation and advice from the African people and that we espouse policies that accurately reflect the policies on which our Nation was founded."

In response to other questions, the President said that he feels he continues to have the support of Blacks in the United States, but "I don't take anything for granted and I wouldn't take the Black vote for granted." He also said he considered critical statements from Black leaders to be constructive.

"There is never a public statement made by anyone of those leaders that I described, and others, that doesn't get instant attention in the White House," President Carter said.

The President said that the Administration has made considerable progress in trying to alleviate the problems of black unemployment and discrimination against blacks, however, he added:

"I think we have a long way to go to repair the damage that has been done in the past by discrimination."

President Carter said

the Administration has accomplished much of direct concern to blacks, including:

Employment programs that have contributed to a 1.5% drop in black unemployment; support of the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill; targeting the Comprehensive Employment Training Act to black unemployment problems; proposing a comprehensive urban policy program; increasing federal government deposits in black banks and government contracts and government purchases with black businesses; and opening up new job opportunities through the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.
