some place in the U.S. as a working employee assigned to specific tasks and solving real problems in Urban Programming.

Mrs. Williams who just returned from Washington, D.C. where she had a personal interview with the Selection Committee, is anticipating the news whether it be good or bad. "I have grown and gained a better understanding of communication and community support in my efforts. Also, the chance to meet new people and gain new friendships has been very rewarding," explains Mr. Williams.

Mrs. Williams is currently employed by the City Department of Urban Development for the Services for Homeowners and Renters Project as a Housing Counselor.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, of Des Moines.

Have you ever stepped off an airplane at the Des Moines Municipal Airport only to find that your luggage is several hundred miles away in another city?

Did you get frustrated when the cab driver who finally delivered your bags couldn't tell you what had happened or why there was a mixup?

Kevin R. Warrenton says he fully understands the problem, which is one of the main reasons he opened a business to improve the delivery of luggage at the airport and assist travelers to the capitol city.

K & G Delivery began operating on Feb. 22, although Warrenton says he's played with the idea since last July. Warrenton and his brother, George—which explains the K & G—have delivered more than 2,000 bags throughout the city, in Des Moines suburbs and Ankeny in the one-van operation. With only two persons and one vehicle involved, Warrenton says he can keep his overhead down.

"It's bad enough for people to lose their luggage, then to be treated cold by cab drivers," said Warrenton, who celebrates his 24th birthday soon. "Des Moines never had a bag delivery service at the airport that worked. A guy tried it once but he got out. Another guy at United (Airlines) proposed the idea but he got out. Another guy at United (Airlines) proposed the idea but it was not accepted."

The need for such a service has been known by Warrenton for some time. A native of Baltimore, Md., Warrenton came to Des Moines in July, 1973 as an employee of Ozark Airlines. He has worked for the airlines in various capacities for five years now.

"Since I work for Ozark, I can find out what happened to the bags and explain it to the people," he said.

Warrenton says he had few problems getting K & G started. He received a $5 truck operating permit from the Iowa Department of Transportation, then, he filed a rate tariff, which lists the amount of money that can be charged in the different zones in Des Moines. He also obtained cargo insurance, which covers the costs of damaged luggage.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was sidestepped because Warrenton said he operates only in the Des Moines commercial district. Since the business is very small, Warrenton said he did not seek help from the Small Business Administration.

Warrenton also incorporated the business for tax purposes. In this way, he says his personal income will not be pushed into a higher tax bracket. Also, he will not be personally affected if he is sued or has to file bankruptcy.

The way the business operates is each airline that supplies K & G with luggage pays the prorated fees, which range from $2 to $13. This gives Warrenton an advantage over public transportation.

"I work with a fixed cost and cab prices fluctuate, sometimes by $2 or more (depending on the route taken to the destination). It's to my advantage to take the shortest route," he said.

The biggest problem Warrenton says he encountered was with the airport management. "I had problems convincing the local management to accept the idea. When I first went to them in November, this guy said 'I don't think it will work, and you'll lose money,' he said. I said, 'why don't you let me worry about the financial part of it. It was only after I went

Ambassadors of Friendship

Marion and Corliss Williams were ambassadors of friendship in the recent exchange between Des Moines and Maracaibo, Venezuela. While there they attended a reception hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Cesar Casas Rincon, President of the Maracaibo Friendship Force Committee.

So now we have another debate on our hands. Should we or should we not sell weapons to the Arabians along with Israel? Polls show that public sentiment is overwhelmingly against the sale of arms to any Arabian nation.

And we would guess that most of those against the sale don't really know what the fuss is all about. If you are in a neutral position you wonder why it would be so wrong to sell arms to both sides, since that is our business in the deal. Both sides have come over to America to lobby for their positions. There have been millions of dollars raised for both sides, although the Arabs hardly need any fund raising.

In fact, if we make them mad, they might just buy the country, arms factories and all and have the whole thing. But, maybe I don't know enough about these things to be able to comment on them, but I can't understand why since we are selling weapons, we can't sell to both sides.

We got a promise from the Israelites that they would not use some of the stuff we send them except in self defense. So they use it in Lebanon. When we ask them about it, the reply was that it was done, and they were sorry, but the damage had been done.

So if we extract a similar pledge from the Arabs, how much weight will it have? When war comes up, I guess nations like individuals, use whatever they have to win. If somebody sold me a pistol on condition that I was not to use it aggressively, and I were that type of person, I would do just that. Then I would be properly sorry.

The other morning I heard a fellow say that if the Arabs were any other country, it wouldn't meet so much resistance here. I wonder what he was trying to tell us? Maybe you can guess it.

But if we are to be fair to both sides, we should do by them equally. If we went over to any other country and tried to sway public opinion against their leaders, there would be one hell of an uproar. So we don't need anybody trying to sway the judgement of our legislative bodies.

They are perfectly capable of fouling up themselves without any help. So I would say let the foreign emissaries stay home and let us hash it out among ourselves without outside interference.

Public sentiment is very much in favor of Israel and I am not quarrelling with that. Throughout our history Arabs have been pictured as a bunch of greasy, dark-skinned people wearing turbans and ready to slit a throat with or without cause.

Well, I think some of our other nationalities are equally ready to slit throats if it means gaining a point. It will be interesting to see how the argument comes out. In spite of what is said, if I were depending upon Saudi Arabia for oil as we do, I wouldn't believe that it wouldn't make any difference if they don't get what they want.

Who Dared Say No? Part II

I hope this week's picture of me doesn't startle you. This picture accurately indicates the way I feel towards these five members of the Area XI board that refused to support a new Urban Campus, even after listening to numerous civic leaders, city officials, students, and even some personnel from Area XI.

At last night's regular monthly board meeting it was business as usual. The Urban Campus was only casually mentioned. I was appalled at their insensitivity, and angered by their casual attitude after they realized I wasn't going to disrupt the meeting at that time.

I was so angered that when I left the board meeting I went to a club and had a drink, and everybody that knows me knows I don't drink. I was angered because something drastic needed to be done and I was not in a position to do it.

Many people are wondering why I have not turned a board meeting out. After all I publicly announced my intentions of employing the tactic of non-violent civil disobedience to disrupt the board meetings. I assure you it took every bit of self-discipline I had not to do so Monday night.

I announced my intention to become disruptive when I was released from jail the Tuesday following the Monday March 13 meeting. I was unemployed and in jail on a bum charge and was tired of being arrested when I least expected it. So I decided to embark upon a course that would let me plan when I went to jail. Disrupting official meetings when injustices were perpetrated against the people was to be my cause.

A short time following my release from jail I found employment at the Urban Community Broadcasting Company (UCBC). The staff of U.C.B.C. is in the process of establishing a radio station in the black community. The establishment of a radio station is the most important project being undertaken in the Black community. It is for this reason that I called upon all the discipline I had not to disrupt the meeting and go to jail.

It must be understood that the struggle to get a new Urban Campus on the near north side is not just a struggle to get any campus. At one time there was talk of buying the old Ruan Building. The students and community people opposed this because with a campus located downtown the educational emphasis would change. It was felt that the educational curriculum would be designed to meet the business needs of downtown and not the special needs of the non-traditional student.

The term non-traditional student has been the cause of some of the opposition. The main thrust of the students and community leaders has been to make sure the emphasis remains the same. The traditional student is one who is white and middle-class. The non-traditional student is one who is low-income or a minority. The make up of the Urban Campus is predominately non-traditional; low income whites, blacks, and Spanish. We want the special emphasis on the non-traditional student.

We must return to one question raised in Part one of this article. After exhausting all legitimate means to attain a new Urban Campus; including support from all segments of the populace, how do we deal with a board that has in effect said to hell with the City, Chamber of Commerce, people in support of a new Urban Campus, to hell with the non-traditional student and a new Urban Campus. Once again I urge you to comment on this paper.

I am appealing to all citizens that are concerned about urban education to attend the next meeting of the Area XI board which will be held at the Urban Campus 5th and College at 5:30 on June 12. The appeal is especially directed toward residents of the Model Cities area who for the most part are reflective of the Urban Campus student body and would be considered non-traditional.

We must remember that the main thrust of the struggle is to insure adequate higher educational opportunities for low-income whites (who incidentally comprise the majority of the student body) and minorities. The success or failure of our struggle can best be determined by whether or not the educational needs of the low-income and minority citizens are met.

Minorities and School Boards

Every once in a while a set of statistics appears that sheds new light on the uniqueness of racism in America and how it specifically impacts blacks and other disadvantaged minorities in their struggle toward freedom and equality.

An examination of how our local schools are governed and current proposed "reforms" falls into that category. During a meeting with Dr. Bruce E. Williams, assistant director of the Rockefeller Foundation, the following enlightening information surfaced.

The state of Illinois currently has 1,177 school districts of various types. All are governed by elected boards, except for the Chicago School District, whose board is appointed; Connecticut has 169 school districts, all with elected boards except the city of New Haven; Delaware has 26 school districts which are independent units of government, all are elected except for the city of Wilmington; while Pennsylvania has approximately 503 elected boards of education, two of which are appointed, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Additionally New York state has 749 independent school districts, of various types, which are governed by 5,097 board members, with 5,064 whom are elected.

We also observe that Mayor Edward Koch of NYC is pushing hard to dissolve the New York City Board of Education with an annual budget of $2.5 billion and replace it with a commissioner who would be responsible to the mayor.

Only a cursory knowledge of census data would cause most eyebrows to raise and recognize a familiar pattern of institutional behavior that continues to be part of the black experience in the American society.

It's no secret that blacks and Hispanics are heavily concentrated in Chicago, New Haven, Wilmington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York. It's also no secret that the 1960s produced a dramatic increase in political activity and awareness via voter registration campaigns, that resulted in the highest number of black councilmen, mayors, state representatives and congresspersons in history.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger alerted us to the importance of local citizen control over local schools in writing the majority opinion in the historic Detroit School Desegregation case on July 25, 1974.

"No single tradition in public education is more deeply rooted than local control over the operation of schools; local autonomy has long been thought essential both to the maintenance of community concern and support for public schools and to quality of the educational process."

Ask investigation of DMACC following Urban Center rejection

The Des Moines Area Community College will be investigated by federal officials at the request of Iowa State Senators Dick Clark and John Culver to discover if federal funds to the college have been improperly spent.

The senators action came at the request of students of the college's Urban Center. The student action followed a decision by the community college board to reject a proposal backed by Des Moines officials to relocate the Urban Center in an urban renewal area. The center is now housed in an old elementary school building which students claim is deteriorating and unsatisfactory for college students.

The Des Moines chapter of the NAACP also plans to investigate the college's handling of the Urban Center issue.

The announcement of the federal investigation of the college followed a statement by Des Moines Mayor Richard Olsen that the city council should take a second look at east side development projects as a reaction to college board member Theodore Nemmers' vote against the Urban Center relocation plan. Nemmers represents Des Moines' east side on the college board. Des Moines City Councilman Robert Scott also reported Nemmers told him the center would be attended mostly by blacks and that Nemmers said he was afraid the decaying neighborhood where the relocation was proposed would not improve for that reason.

Nemmers denied the remarks but students of the Urban Center have promised to demonstrate at Nemmers home, future board meetings and other DMACC campuses.

Restaurant Meals For Elderly

The Iowa Department of Social Services today announced that it will implement a new nutrition program for elderly Iowans. The program will allow food stamp recipients over the age of 60, and their spouses, to use the stamps to purchase meals in authorized restaurants. Participating restaurants must be approved by the USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, and must agree to offer at least a 10-percent discount at non-peak hours.

The Iowa Department of Social Services is now contacting all restaurants in the Waterloo and Decorah districts to encourage their participation in the discount program. The program will be implemented gradually and by December 30 should be available in all Iowa.

Vern Woodard, food stamp coordinator, says research shows elderly food stamp recipients have poorer food purchasing habits than younger recipients. "Part of this may be due to the difficulty in food preparation some of the elderly have," said Woodard.

which our schools are governed should be watched very closely. Indeed our history is crammed full of examples of changing the rules when it's our turn to step into the batter's box.

We would also like to thank the perceptive and thoughtful Dr. Bruce E. Williams, for calling our attention to another, not so subtle, form of institutional racism.

Inasmuch as public education has and continues to play such a vital role in improving the quality of our lives in our quest for true equal opportunity we had better serve notice on the movers and shakers of this country that these discriminatory practices are no longer fashionable or acceptable from this moment on.

Iowan to be on the "Gong Show"

Clyde G. Edmonds ("Bro Butch") started singing in Church at age 5. He and his sisters sang on Bill Riley's Talent Search at age 13.

They had a group called "The Extensions" and recorded the record "I Want To Know" with Columbia Records. Directed by John Pate. Butch sang with the Martinells at the Hawk in Urbandale under the management of Don White of Don White Agency. He later joined a group called the "Soul Brothers" playing in the San Francisco area.

From there it was New Jersey — where he and George Davis formed a group called "The Broadways" making appearances in Atlantic City and Asbury Park. Butch then received a call from Buck Ram and the Platters and travelled with them for two years, making appearances at "The Flamingo" in Las Vegas. While in Las Vegas, he worked with such artists as The Soul Children, Aretha Franklin, Sonny & Cher, Tom Jones, Wayne Cochran, Barbara Streisand and the Kim Sisters.

Travels also included Madison Square Garden in New York, TV special with The Soul Patrol in Fresno, California; Bro. Butch has also made appearances with the Ohio Players in Cleveland, and Archie Bell and the Drells in Florida.

In Jacksonville, Florida, he played with the O'Jays, The Blue Notes and Al Green. Butch signed a two year contract with Tone Record Company in Florida under the management of Steve Alamo, Betty Wright and Clarence Reed. He recorded a record called "My Day is Coming", Part I and II, an introductory record which sold well.

Bro Butch is also a songwriter and he has had two of his tunes copyrighted, one of them, "Get Up Get Down" is the song he will sing on THE GONG SHOW which will be aired Monday, May 15 at 11:30 a.m. on NBC (Channel 13).

Outreach Effort Informs of Food Stamp Program

The Polk County Department of Social Services, through a special outreach effort, is attempting to inform the public that FOOD STAMPS DO MAKE THE DIFFERENCE.

A free hotline will give information about program benefits, eligibility requirements and where and how to apply. That HOTLINE Number is 284-6372. Call Monday through Friday

8:00 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

Contrary to what many people think, you don't have to be unemployed or on welfare to be eligible for foodstamps. People on fixed incomes, such as social security or other retirement programs or a household where members are employed with a low income may be eligible to receive the nutritious, money-saving benefits of the program.

MESSIAH TEMPLE

The Lord met us at the door last Sunday when as we came in we all knelt in prayer and in praise. Our morning services were begun with interesting and instructive lessons from teachers truly anointed of God. Not only are the children enjoying themselves learning how to live a more Christian life, but also the adults dig deep into the Word of God and are blessed to grow in the Spirit of God.

Our worship services were begun with testimony and a poem read by Evangelist Zora Reed. The lesson came from Matthew 22:35 - 40 and was titled "What is the Eleventh Commandment?" Reverend Jacob Reed told us that the very nature of God is love. And it is this love of God in us that means we forsake ourselves and follow Christ. If we do not put God first, we are not worthy to be called His sons or to follow Him.

Sunday school begins at 10:30 with worship services at 11:30. Sister Ruby Thomas will be bringing the lesson Sunday evening at 7:00 in the training of children to join in the services. Prayer meeting is every Wednesday at 7:00 p.m.

Reverend Jacob Reed is the pastor.

REMEMBER: Don't be deceived by fake love; love never tears down.

MAPLE STREET MISSIONARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Reverend Parrish's sermon title for Morning Service on Sunday, May 14, will be "The Joys of Motherhood". The Inspirational Chorus will be singing.

At 5:00 p.m., on Sunday, May 14 (Mother's Day) the Mother's Board is indeed happy to present Mrs. Mary Lee Banks and the "Voices of Faith". We hope that you will find inspiration and courage from the messages that this choir will convey in song. Plan to attend.

The Sunday School will have a "Pancake Day" on Saturday, May 20, from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Your patronage and support would be appreciated.

On Sunday, May 21, the Gospel Choir will hold a Bake Sale following Morning Service in the lower level of the church.

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

The New Friendship COGIC greets you in the name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

God met us in a great way beginning with Sunday School at 9:30 A.M. We are especially proud of this portion of the service, for truly we have a ministry for each member of the family. We commenced noonday service beginning at 11:30 A.M. with rich testimony of the Lord, after which both choirs sang until the power of the Lord came down.

This led us to Pastor Daye's inspirational message. "And David spake to the men that stood by him saying... ? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should defy the armies of the living God." (1 Samuel 17:26)

In essence, Goliath, the uncircumcised Philistine, defied the army of the living God. David, a servant of the Lord, slew the giant. We must remember that with prayer, righteous living and the Word of God, giants will fall.

The anointing power of God was upon Pastor Daye as he began to call on those that were bound by demonic powers.

Announcements for the week include Prayer and Bible band Tuesday, 7:30 P.M. Wednesday evening at 7:30 P.M. the YWCC will meet in the home of Mother R. Robinson at 1326 W. 18th Street. Thursday evening at 6:30 P.M., the Young People's choir will meet for rehearsal. On Friday night, this is family night and Pastor Daye would like to see all families at service at 7:30 P.M. On Saturday at 11:00 A.M., there will be final practice for our Mothers' Day program which will be held on Sunday, May 14 during the morning worship. On Sunday morning Pastor Daye is looking for all members and well-worshippers of New Friendship to please be present. Let us come expecting to receive something from the Lord.

This week we will also fellowship with the O. T. Jones District Meeting which is convening at New Jerusalem COGIC located at W. 14th and University. Bishop E. Tindrell and Missionary Carter are presiding, May 8 thru 13 nightly.

Please remember that prayer is being made daily at New Friendship Church at 12:00 noon to 1:00 P.M. Come and join us. May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you always.

P.S. On Saturday night at Washington and Irving school, Elder R. L. Daye will be selling Bates and L.P.S. at a special program. So come and get your Mother's day gift.

"WITHOUT ME — NOTHING"
 Jesus Said: Without me, ye can do nothing"
 Jesus meant just that.
 When his followers heard it 1,900 years ago the Master did not say: "Without me you won't be able to do very much or without me you will accomplish only a little, he said, "Without me you can do nothing." NOTHING...
 Apart from me, you can do nothing at all. (John 15:5). God's chosen people, claim to belong to him. First we were saved from sin by His wonderful power, of Grace, and then given a staggering task to proclaim His Gospel to a dying, sin-sick world, that is filled with unlikely candidates for His Kingdom.
 Now for reason we need outside help — I know this sounds familiar to us, even in 1976, doesn't it?
 Jesus is talking to you today, for the task He has given us is too great a task without Him, we're helpless, without him, ye can do nothing."
 Give it prayerful and careful thought. I and you understand a little more today, what He desires of us to see. For we desperately need salvation, and the assignment, is most challenging task of the ages.

 These last days, we most realize our helplessness for the task. Before we can be clothed, we must realize, we're in need of clothes... Without clothes we're naked, without the clothing of His mercy we're hopelessly lost, and do nothing without Him.
 Christ is our only hope — Our only help.
 Christ alone can care for our needs, past, present, future.
 Christ alone can give us the victory over sin in our life.
 Without Him we can do nothing. With Jesus we can do all things.
 We can gain the victory over the world, and soon come into safe harbor.
 Thank God, for His Son Jesus Christ...

A Bit of Heaven...A Bit of Hell

St. Paul A.M. E. Church will definitely be the place to be on Saturday, March 20th at 6:30 p.m.!

Will you be one of those to pass through the gates of Heaven??? ...Or, will you be one to descend swiftly down the stairway into Hell?

The Women's Day Committee of St. Paul A.M.E. Church will be your hostesses for a spiritually enjoyable "good time" in Heaven, and a "tantalizing and tempting" time in Hell.

Some of Des Moines' best gospel singing will rock and soothe your soul upstairs in Heaven, while the deep and tempting blue notes will emanate from lowly Hell, teasing and beckoning you to arise from your Heavenly pew to join the gaitery down there.

...Will you be strong enough to resist? Can you possibly resist Hell's temptation, and the strong savoury and appetizing odors of "Hot" delicious food? Or, will you be satisfied with Heaven's cool and s o o t h i n g "Refresh-ments"? Or, will you weaken? Thus, willing to redeem your soul, and for such a price? Ha - Ha - Ha - Ha - Ha!

The devil lurks within, BEWARE!

And, for those of you who dare to rock and hang out in lowly Hell, be ever so careful, ... there are angels who wait to coerce you through the Pearly Gates!

It will be a night to remember! It's a family affair! It's a spiritually enjoyable, and a fun evening for adults as well as children. There will be games and novelty prizes for the children in an area of the church. And, for the teens, and those who haven't let go of their soulfulness, ...Look Out!

Good food. Good Music. Great fellowship. A little preachin', and a little teachin'.

On this evening, parallels will be gently drawn to show the contrasting elements of enjoyment that we encounter within the church, and those that we encounter outside the church.

Women's Day chairman is Sheila Stewart, Program Chairwoman is Lynda Walker-Webster. Women's Day Committee is Barbara Jane Parkey, Dorothy Bell, Geraldine Ayers, Gloria Burrell, Corliss Williams, Marian Carter, JoAnna Cheatom, Willa Mae Fowler, Mildred Graves, Mary Moore, Jennifer Epton, Patricia Miller, Lesse Williams, Pam Fant, Eleanor Archer, Bertie Hogan, Trella Perry, Gladys Brown, and Rebecca King.

Come on out and join us that night! Watch for specifics and the total Women's Day event in next week's paper.

Wilma Rudolph: A Woman of Firsts

Wilma Rudolph is a woman of firsts. In the 1960 Olympic Games, in Rome Italy, she was the first and only female athlete representing the US to win three Olympic Gold Medals - establishing three world records, 100 meters, 200 meters and 400 meters. Wilma Rudolph was named United States Woman Athlete of the Year - for two years in a row - thus creating another first in US history. She was the first woman to be named Sports Woman of the Year by European Sports Writers.

Being First means being excellent for Wilma Rudolph. Excellence for herself and for others has been her life-long goal. The goals she sets for herself she usually meets. At the young age of 15, she qualified for the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne Australia and won a Bronze Medal for the US. From that beginning, she has continued to give herself and others her best.

She was named the year's most outstanding amateur athlete in the US by the American Athletic Union - the third woman to win this award in 41 years. But outside the realm of sports she is just as excellent. The US Department of State selected her to be their Good Will Ambassador for French West Africa.

She toured world-wide for the United States in Track and Field for Women in 1970. Since then she has been a powerful presence each year as a member of the US Olympic Committee.

Wilma Rudolph's life has been one of achievement and excellence. But like everyone else, she has had to overcome many obstacles to achieve the heights she has. How much success would you have predicted for a little girl, one of 22 children, who was a polio victim.

Yet, Wilma Rudolph overcame this and went on to become an Olympic star. She has not forgotten the struggle - or the struggles of others. She has given her time and talent devotedly to the Special Olympics, set up for handicapped children. She has served on the Board of Directors of Operation Champ, a community action program designed for youths, giving sports skills demonstrations in over 10 major cities that were earmarked as troubled areas. Her motivational and ameliorating programs have continually proved to be highly successful.

Wilma Rudolph's story is so special that NBC has made a Special Movie of the Week

Part two

If Donald Adams, vice president of student life, has his way, student organizations will no longer be required to report the existence of segregation within their memberships.

Adams said he plans to ask the University Senate to discontinue membership questionnaires because he said discrimination has never been proved in any university-recognized organization.

Since 1969 all Drake recognized groups must fill out forms asking if their memberships are racially or religiously segregated. Physical absence of minorities is considered "de facto segregation" if the organization has no overtly discriminatory policies.

Adams said the segregation forms are useless because his office "spot checks" campus organizations and has never found any membership discrimination.

He and Stephen Schodde, director of development services, refused to allow a Drake Times-Delphic reporter access to the questionnaires.

Although Adams said his office has not found discrimination here, several Drake students said they feel discrimination exists in certain organizations.

A female pharmacy student, who declined to be identified, said she does not belong to Lambda Kappa Sigma, the women's professional pharmacy sorority because she perceives it as less prestigious than Kappa Psi, professional pharmacy fraternity.

She said she didn't attempt to rush Kappa Psi because "I have talked to a lot of fourth-year pharmacy students and they said a woman wanting to pledge Kappa Psi would go through hell."

Another female pharmacy student said women are free to rush Kappa Psi. But she said she thinks Kappa Psi wants to remain all-male, especially since Lambda Kappa Sigma exists for women.

Kappa Psi and Lambda Kappa Sigma exists for women.

Kappa Psi and Lambda Kappa Sigma are sex desegregated.

Yet Gloria Bernstein (P4), president of Lambda Kappa Sigma, and Randy Kramer (P3), regent of Kappa Psi, said their organizations encouraged both sexes to rush. They said no one of the opposite sex rushed their organizations this year, however.

Kramer said, "We don't discourage women from rushing, but we don't encourage them either."

He said if a woman was to pledge Kappa Psi, she would have to go through the same rigorous training requirements male pledges endure.

Kramer would not comment on what the "rigorous" requirements are, except to say they weren't hazing.

He said he personally could accept women in the fraternity and other Kappa Psi chapters have female members.

Bernstein said the national constitution of Lambda Kappa Sigma states a man cannot become a member.

"I don't know what would have happened if a man had wanted to pledge our sorority," she said.

Bernstein said a future national convention of Lambda Kappa Sigma will discuss the issue of male integration.

Although the two pharmacy organizations are sex-exclusive, the two business fraternities, Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi, have female members.

Business sorority Phi Gamme Nu has not pledged men because none have rushed, said president Kathy Justis (BA4). She said men are free to rush and will be asked to pledge if they are qualified.

Alpha Kappa Psi has a membership of 26 men and 14 women. President Eric Peterson (GS) said the fraternity has been rushing women since fall 1977.

"Most chapters still have only men as active, and we felt it was time for a change," he said.

A woman, who preferred to remain anonymous, said she pledged Alpha Kappa Psi because she said, "I thought that the Delta Sigs were less receptive to women than K Psi was."

A Delta Sigma Pi active, who declined to be identified said, "I voted against all the girls on principle. I don't feel they should be in Delta Sigs."

Doug Hillman, associate professor of accounting and adviser to Delta Sigma Pi, said it has 65 male and eight female members. He said any "qualified" women would be allowed to pledge.

He said some men in the fraternity remain uneasy about accepting women.

Does the acceptance of women in Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi signal the end for Phi Gamma Nu? No, Justis said, adding membership has increased from 20 to 60 this year.

But Marjorie Cunningham, assistant to the vice president of student life, said she has "mixed emotions" about sex integration of campus groups.

I see women losing as much as they may gain in groups that have always been women's groups," she said.

"As you have two similar groups in one profession and they both become coed I see in the long run ... the women's sorority ending and then women would be losing one whole set of officers. Both men and women will lose leadership opportunities and, the way life has been, women lose more than men."

Cunningham said she believes students consider professional fraternities more prestigious than professional sororities because people in the business world were usually associated with professional fraternities in college.

She said attitudes are changing concerning women joining professional fraternities and men joining professional sororities.

Yet the national affiliate of Sigma Alpha Iota music sorority, attempted to get recognition as a social sorority so it would not be forced to accept men.

Social fraternities and sororities need not be sex integrated, according to Title IV of the 1972 Educational Amendments Act.

Although social fraternities and sororities are considered "recognized living units" rather than "recognized student organizations," the social groups must nevertheless fill out segregation questionnaires.

Even though Cunningham said organizations and their constitutions are reviewed to ensure that discrimination does not exist, she said, "It is difficult to see (whether) somebody did not get in (a fraternity or sorority because of) any particular reason or to prove that person was discriminated against."

A social sorority member, who preferred to remain anonymous.

said that although a few "token" blacks exist in predominantly white fraternities and sororities, blacks are not encouraged to rush.

"The blacks that do pledge a white house are usually richer, better looking and less involved with other blacks as a whole," she said.

A white fraternity member, who preferred to remain anonymous, said blacks don't want to join predominantly white fraternities and sororities because "they have their own."

"Why would a black want to join a white frat?" he asked.

But, he said he believes all Drake students have equal chances to pledge white fraternities and sororities.

While recognized student organizations cannot discriminate in their membership policies, the university allows groups to exclude non-members from meetings and events. Cunningham, however, said she believes exclusion is "unwise."

She said she could see some justification for certain exclusive events, such as the lesbianism discussion sponsored by the Drake Community Women's Center in 1976. Men were barred from the event at the request of the lesbian speakers.

"They (the women's center), I think, had some cause for excluding those men who wanted to attend the program because prior to that program no men had shown an interest in attending women's center events," Cunningham said.

"I think if a man had been coming to the meetings and then was excluded from the event, he would have had a point."

Energy Assistance Program Revised

Many low income residents of Des Moines who applied this year for a federal utility program found they couldn't get help in paying overdue gas and electric bills because they didn't qualify. They may now be eligible under new guidelines issued for the federally funded Emergency Energy Assistance Program (EEAP).

Under the new guidelines a non-farm family of one is now eligible if its income did not exceed $3,925. Income limits for larger families are:

FAMILY SIZE	INCOME
2	$5,200
3	6,475
4	7,750
5	9,025
6	10,300

Households meeting these income levels may qualify for up to $250 toward the amount of a fuel bill that is more than 30 days past due.

Also affected by the revised statewide rules are those Des Moines residents who meet the new income guidelines but managed to keep up with their utility payments. If their gas, oil, or electric payments for the month of February were at least 20% of their monthly income, they may now be eligible to receive up to $250 toward food purchases at participating grocery stores. The total food purchase will depend on family size and will be paid by a food voucher issued to applicants by the city's Office of Neighborhood Development. Vouchers will be good only toward the purchase of food stuffs, paper products, soaps, and detergents, and must be used in one shopping trip before midnight May 20, 1978.

Some applicants may qualify for both past due utility payment and food vouchers, but the combined benefit to a single household is limited by the rule changes to $100 for a family of one to $250 for a family of four or more. The revised guidelines are expected to help especially elderly residents and those who are on fixed income.

Roosevelt High School held its annual arts fair and included in the many art exhibits and festivities was the Afro Club Modern Dance Ensemble, choreography Becky Caldwell.

ALLEN ASHBY with a LOOK ON SPORTS

The spring football practices are over and all three of our schools, Drake, Iowa State and Iowa U think they will have good ball clubs come next fall. Drake seems especially pleased because they will have a veteran club bolstered by newcomers who should make the Bulldogs tough.

Iowa State is still looking to shore up their defense, but they think they can make it. The Cyclones should score on just about anybody they play if they can keep healthy.

Iowa U is the possible question mark. The Hawks lost several of the people they depend on for the fall campaign. So they never really got a chance to see just what they might have. Possibly Coach Bob Commings was talking for publicity when he said he had fine prospects, because he didn't get a very good chance to test everybody. But the team will certainly be not a bit worse than last year, and they were in most of their games, barring the Michigan game and maybe one or two others. But we shall see.

While all of this was getting out of the way, the schools are going about their ways in other sports. Track, tennis, baseball and such. Iowa has a fair chance to finish in the first division in the Big Team meet. They have a good dual meet record, and could wind up in third or fourth place. Mark Morrow didn't appear in the first couple of meets, but he is playing in every one now, and seems to be holding his own. Drake and Iowa State are having their troubles at the nets, and won't make many waves in their conference meets.

The track teams of the three schools probably won't cut any wide swaths in their meets. Iowa State would have to be given the best chance to finish very high in the Big Eight meet, and Drake might make it in the first half of the Missouri Valley meet. The Cyclones have one of the best women track teams in the country. They run away from just about all of their competition, and ought to get more notice than they do, although I guess that some writers would say they get all they deserve.

Drake has probably the best tennis team in the women's division in the state. They have a fine shot at the Valley crown, and Iowa has a good team, but the other conference teams also have good women's tennis teams, too, so the Hawkeyes will have problems.

In fact, they did, finishing in the lower half of the bunch in the women's Big Ten meet. While the Drake Relays were being run off, the Relay tennis meet took place also. A guy we saw here as a junior played in the thing, representing Southern Illinois. Juan Farrow. Some writers have been calling him the next top flight black player, and they may be right. But I still like Bruce Foxworth. By the way, whatever became of the guy for the spring matches?

Here at home I haven't had time to get around and see who is playing on the local high school teams. However, I did see the name of Reggis Morrow in the doubles lineup for Hoover. I wonder if Reggis feels any pressure on him because of Mark. Big brothers are hard to follow. Sometimes the older brother will teach the younger, but that is pretty tough when they are miles apart during the tennis season. There are some people on some of the other teams, but I don't know who they are. Maybe somebody will tell me.

And next week we will be in our part of the Younker's Kodel tournament. Have to get some more entrants, but I am sure we will during this week. Also have inquiries about our Hilltop meet. Since our entry blanks won't be out for a while, I have to answer the inquiries and let them know that we will be sending them some blanks. In all, it shapes up like a great summer.

Another note: I ran into Luther Witt, a former Valley High athlete several years back. Luther told me that he had done quite a bit of officiating during the past year. Had several high school games around the state, and could have had more if he wanted to travel more than fifty miles away from home. I remember when such a thing was unheard of.

I managed to qualify for high school football and basketball games, but one had to get his own games, and nobody would hire you if you were black. I did call one game between two towns whose total population wouldn't make a good neighborhood. They got me because they figured that being black, I couldn't care who won. And do you know what? They were right, and it wasn't because I was black.

DSS Names Field Chief

A ten-year veteran of the Iowa Department of Social Services has been named to a top management position with statewide responsibility. Larry Jackson, 40, of Ankeny, has been appointed to the position of director of the Division of Field Operations, effective May 12th by Commissioner Victor Preisser.

Jackson, who had been chief of the Department's Bureau of Child Advocacy since 1974, now assumes responsibility for all field operations of the 16 district offices serving 160,000 clients and 150 local offices across the state. Before the new division was created, the district offices were among the many units in the Community Services Division.

Jackson began with the Department in August, 1969, as director of education at the former Iowa Annie Wittenmyer Home in Davenport. Prior to that time, he had earned a BA degree in Social Science from the University of Northern Iowa in 1964, and in 1970 was awarded an MA degree in Counseling and Administration, from the University of Iowa. He since has done further postgraduate work at the University of Iowa and Western Illinois University.

From June, 1964 to August, 1969, Jackson taught in the Davenport Community Schools. Following his work at the Wittenmyer Home, he was transferred to Des Moines as education coordinator and program supervisor in the Division of Community Services, then to the Child Advocacy post in 1974.

Jackson served with the U.S. Air Force, from 1957 to 1961, as an instructor in Rescue and Survival. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Pi Gamma Mu national honorary societies for persons in Education and the Social Sciences; is a member and past local education chairman for the Davenport branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; and is a member of the Iowa Council for Children.

dialog between the NAACP, the Keokuk City Council, and the Community Development Agency, as they try to finalize the projects to submit to HUD for funding. May 15 is the deadline for applications to be submitted. The NAACP has asked for funds for a youth center, citing the fact that services offered at the Y often require additional fees. Mrs. Jacqueline Scott, a teacher in the public school system, pointed out that programs offered at a Youth Center would not overlap those available at the YMCA, but would be an extension of Y programs. The Director of the YMCA stated that a Youth Center would address a present unmet need, but, he was concerned and felt that it would be unfortunate for the Y and a Youth Center to become competitive in providing the same services. No concrete decision was reached on the issue. The foregoing from the Monday evening meeting.

Two Keokukians were named among those receiving degrees at the Spring Commencement held Saturday, May 13, in the Field House at the University of Iowa. Ms. Gwenith Holton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holton, and Ms. Wanda Jean Williams, a B.A. in Social Work, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams Sr. We have learned that 92-year old, Mrs. Georgia Tucker, who suffered a fractured hip several months ago is doing very well. She is able to be up and around the house and except for arthritis is in very good health. She receives and enjoys her Iowa Bystander each week and looks forward to reading all the news and articles it contains. She informs us that many years ago she was a correspondent for the Bystander.

The Saturday evening Gate City featured a striking photograph of Ms. Pamela Conn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Conn. Ms. Conn, a '72 graduate of KHS has become an attractive fashion model. Making her home in Moline, Ill., she was a successful assistant manager in a woman's fashion store. This laid the ground work for her modeling profession. Her plans are to move to Las Vegas, Nev., this summer to continue her education in fashion merchandising. Ms. Conn is a graduate of Touch of Class Modeling School and Agency in Bettendorf, Ia. She has performed in several TV and radio commercials and fashion shows in the Quad-City area. She says of one assignment, speaking of manikin modeling, "It was pretty strenuous work, standing or sitting motionless for an hour. "One other quote attributed to Ms. Conn, "It's not all glamour and excitement.

It's a lot of hard work!" Ms. Conn has also done runway and photographic modeling.

The Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church held a May breakfast Sunday morning May 7, under the guidance of Mrs. John Parsons and other helpers. It was termed quite a success.

THANK YOU (For Mrs. E. A. Gaiters)

Dear lady ... for being my mother
For giving me birth
For raising me thru infancy until now,
For being my pillar of strength,
When all other outlets failed me,
For being a true friend ... not a make believe,
For standing up to your convictions although a lot of times I disagreed at that moment;
For being able to accept me as I am, for what I am, altho thru life I might have been less tolerant of others.
For giving me the courage to fight
this rat race of living.
For helping me with my children,
When other resource and persons denied that help .. I CAN'T FORGET THIS For walking beside me with dignity and Preservance, wearing proudly the sign "Rose Marie" is my daughter Thank you & God Bless you "Mom"
Happy Mother's Day

Note: I wish each lady that carries the title Mother, the very happiest day on Sunday, May 14, ever.

A THOUGHT OF DEATH Melle R. Butts

It comes upon you like a rustling of leaves,

All that's left behind is love ones bereaved,

It pounds upon you like a cat to its prey,

There is nothing you can do to get out of its way,

It doesn't have color nor cares who you are,

No exception to age
it's the saddest by far,

Death leaves no friends behind it only sorrow and despair,

No music or laughter
can be found anywhere,

One day we'll tread the path of Deaths indefinite hall,

And maybe life itself won't seem so bad at all.

TRIBUTE TO: THE BLACK WOMAN

The black woman is strong, loving, intelligent, and above all beautiful.

She is the queen of all queens. She is the black Egyptian goddess. She's a woman, she is a black woman, full of pride and respect—

Respect for herself because she is a woman, respect for her man because she loves him. And she gives respect to her children for they are a part of both of them.

She is the queen of queens. She is the black Egyptian goddess. She is a woman; she's a black woman, full of pride, respect And above all, she's black and beautiful.

BUSINESS IN THE BLACK By Charles E. Belle

Looking For A Job

The U. S. Department of Labor's new Occupational Outlook Handbook for job seekers is like spring to a young lover. The employment prospects through 1985 are excellent for those who would be educated now or later.

While such lesser skilled jobs as waiter and waitress should be plentiful, enrolling in nursing school will be an even faster way to become employed over the next few years.

Professions such as physicians and police officers offer an exciting and challenging careers for anyone interested in a quick pay off. The opportunity for fast salary increases is greatest with these two due to the emphasis in society on health and law enforcement.

Unfortunately, the press is not going to be area to put forward your greatest effort for employment.
Newspaper reporter positions are projected for slow growth as are school teachers of kindergarten, elementary, secondary, college and university.
Truck drivers for long hauls are not much better off than their classroom instructors, but truck drivers for short hauls are great job opportunities for those individuals with good driving records. Retail store clerks jobs are likely to be stable in numbers, but available because of constant turnovers.

The one constantly coming area to watch is computers. The need for programmers will be the greatest demand in the field, while the key punch operator will be fading out of style.

Speaking of style, because our society is changing its eating habits, cooks and chefs are also much more in demand. America is eating out.

To get there they will need an auto and a mechanic to keep it going. Job opportunities for automobile mechanics are projected to be plentiful.

However, the profit oriented people will get educated in engineering or administration. America has become a more service oriented society. The country is seeking operating engineers for construction, mass transit and other projects.

Administrators will advise America in such areas as health service and energy. Emergency medical technician positions which takes only high school and some special preparatory college courses is one of the job opportunities anyone can jump on.

Although Warrenton works for Ozark, he says
when he drives the K & G van, he is working for himself — dispelling contentions that the business may be a conflict of interest because he delivers luggage from all airlines.

"When I'm out there delivering bags, I'm not working for Ozark. I'm working for me. I'm not out there soliciting business because it won't help me."

A person does not have to be a financial genius or have a large amount of capital to operate a business like K & G, Warrenton said. His operating expenses includes between $250 to $300 a month for gasoline for the van, and about $180 a month for the bank loan he obtained to purchase the van, and the cost of a pager he uses to keep contact with the airlines. Warrenton pays his brother a salary and since the business is incorporated, he must pay himself a salary too.

Warrenton says the business has been fairly successful, "As far as finances I'm not losing money to operate.

He says he delivered about 850 bags in March and between 1,100 - 1,200 in April. He hopes to expand the business, getting more airlines to use his services and purchasing another van.

"I figure this is a small operation so the company can grow from the ground up. Des growing in size, and obviously the business is growing," he said.

"I also would like to go to other cities that don't have it and to cities that have only one and need help to absorb the extra load," he said.

Warrenton admits he's younger than most people who start their own business.

"I plan to retire when I'm 45, so I figure I'd better get started now when I'm young.

Pictured are the winners from the West Des Moines Community Schools of the Area Education Agency 11 sponsored Problem Solving Bowl.

The first place team, from Fairmeadows School, won the problem solving competition held April 13 and competed against other Area 11 competition on May 6. The team finished in second place in the state competition.

The second and third place teams will also participate in the area competition. The teams, both from Crossroads Elementary School, are: Julie Sabin, Dennis Ryan, Tima Dahl, Al Marasco; and Jacqueline Yate, Theresa Michal, Julie Potter, Heidi Ritzman.

The third runner-up team from Clive School was Cindy Yelik, Steve Walsh, David Silverman, Mike Hurwitz and Todd Schaefer.

According to John Edwards, gifted and talented consultant for the Area Education Agency No. 11, the Future Problem Solving Bowl allows students to learn the skills of creative problem solving and exposes them to real life problems they will be facing as adults, such as water pollution, vitamin deficiency, energy shortage and limited food supplies.

Mrs. Shirley Johnson, graduated from Drake University, holding a Bachelor of Science Degree.

She is a 6th grade teacher at Fairmeadows School. She teaches mathematics, social studies and reading.

Mrs. Johnson has been meeting with her students on the problem solving team after school, in order to prepare them for competition with other West Des Moines schools.

When asked, "What techniques were implemented in order to win first place?" she said, "For promotion and power comes from no where on earth, but only from God, He promotes one and deposes another."

Mrs. Johnson is a member of Shiloh Baptist Church, and she states, "Without God, I would be nothing."

Drake Course on Job Skills For The Unemployed

DES MOINES, Iowa—A Drake University graduate student will offer a course this summer to help Des Moines area unemployed residents find work.

Thomas G. Brown of Stockton, Calif., has designed a nine-week course to train employed people in job finding skills. The class, which begins at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 30, in the basement of Howard Hall on the Drake campus, will train participants in resume writing and job interview skills and give moral support during the job hunt.

"We will try to find jobs for everyone," Brown said. "We believe that finding a job is a fulltime job. Our programs are similar to ones that have been run in Illinois. People who participated there found jobs that paid $2 to $3 more an hour and in less time than people who found jobs without the course."

Brown's course is self-paced in that students will not move on to the next segment in job hunting skills until they master the first ones. Videotapes will be used to film students during "job interview" situations so they can study themselves. Each student also must prepare a job resume as part of the coursework. Students will be required to attend class every Tuesday and Saturday during the nine weeks or until they find a job.

Brown, a part-time employee of Woodward State Hospital, is working on his masters in Drake's psychology department. Information gathered in the course will be used for his masters thesis.

"The problem with most job seekers is that they don't tap all the resources they have, resulting in an inefficient search for a job," Brown said. "This course teaches the unemployed what those resources are and how to tap them."

Brown sets no limit on the age, educational background or job experience of his students.

"If they're willing to work, we can help them find the job they want," he added.

Pre-registration is encouraged by calling Brown between 5 and 8 p.m. at 278-5696.

SINGLE-DOSE CANCER CURES REPORTED IN TESTS ON MICE: With the aid of a nationwide computer system, California researchers have produced a new drug they say is more potent than any other drug known in fighting two types of cancer in laboratory mice.

In tests on mice, the drug, Azetomicin, routinely cured animals with malignant bone cancers as large as 15 percent of their body weight with a single dose, according to a recent statement by Dr. Martin A. Apple, head of the research team that synthesized the drug.

Dr. Apple said that, while the drug cured bone cancers and lymphocytic leukemia in mice, it did not cure another form of cancer melanoma. He said he does not know how many types of cancer it could cure or whether it would be effective in treating human beings.

However, he said, "It is probably better than many drugs used clinically now, at least according to our computer projections." And the computer model he uses "almost never misses" in judging whether a new drug will work in people, he added.

Dr. Apple and his colleagues at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco drew on PROPHET, the extensive computer network established by the National Institutes of Health, for chemical and biological data and to test hypothetical drugs.

Dr. Apple said the reason for the new drug's potency is that it stays bound to the cancer cells longer than other drugs, thus intensifying its effects. A common cancer drug such as adriamycin binds for about a second, but Azetomicin stays stuck for 1,500 to 1,700 seconds, he said.

Drugs that kill up to 100,000 cancer cells per dose are rare, and only a few kill as many as 10 million, Dr. Apple said. Azetomicin, he said, kills several hundred million cancer cells in one dose.

Azetomicin has not yet been tested on human beings. Before it could go on the market, the drug would have to undergo further animal tests and then be approved by HEW's Food and Drug Administration for human testing.
