Margaret Sorrell: Caterer for Governors & Presidents

Margaret Sorrell is a familiar sight around the state capitol, bustling about the huge gold-domed building making sure it is kept neat and clean.

Although she's reluctant to discuss it, her past is as colorful as the building she helps to preserve.

Years ago, Mrs. Sorrell, 67, a Des Moines native, operated her own catering service and served hundreds of social functions given by well-known politicians, businessmen and local organizations. Her expertise in cooking took her to the governor's mansion where she prepared meals for two former governors, their families and guests.

"I have fed Rockefeller, Nixon, Van Allen, the Swedish ambassador and his party ...," Mrs. Sorrell said of her four-year stint at the mansion. "We were getting ready for Kennedy when he was killed. I was making red, white and blue ice molds. He would have been here in three or four weeks."

Mrs. Sorrell began cooking at the age of 12.

"I liked to try things different than anybody else. I liked fancy trays ... that was my specialty," she said.

At first Mrs. Sorrell helped neighbors and others prepare meals, then she began her catering service in the early 1930s.

"I owned a catering service for about 45 years. I used to do parties for (Gov. Robert D.) Ray, dinners, teas, open houses. (In the 1950s), I catered for the Des Moines Art Center, along with private work. My customers were 'big people,' she said.

The business thrived and never once did she have to advertise. Those who tasted her specially prepared shrimp dip, casseroles and baked goods developed their own "grapevine" to spread the word about her skills.

"I always enjoyed working with food. I used waitresses from a waitress club; I had about six people work with me. But mostly I did things myself because I had a funny way about doing things," she said.

Mrs. Sorrell was asked to cook at the governor's mansion in 1961, when Norman Erbe was the state's chief executive. This was an exciting period in her life.

"Mrs. Erbe was a very considerate person. She kept all the pressures away from me. We'd sit down together and plan

American Republic Donates Courts

John Estes

The American Republic Insurance Co. has announced the donation of two new basketball courts for Good Park, 17th and University. The courts, which will cost an estimated $25,000 will be named in honor of John M. Estes, Jr. prominent Des Moines businessman.

Estes, 50, was an outstanding high school athlete at North High School during the 1940's and began a promising athletic career for Iowa University which was cut short when Estes was injured in a freak accident at the Park.

Estes, who was working as a summer supervisor, was playing in a basketball game when he suffered a severe neck injury.

The asphalt basketball courts will be lighted and will be coated with a red and white all-weather red and blue playing surface. One court will be located near the site of the present court and the other will be located to the north.

American Republic Vice President Paul Burkett said construction of the courts will begin next month and will be finished this summer.

Gracie Edmonds, graduate of Tech High School was a recipient of the Nellie Frye Scholarship Award of $700.00 at Maple Street Baptist Church.

The award was given Saturday June 11, 1978 at a brunch given by the Maple Street Sunday School.

Here to present the award was the granddaughter of the late Nellie Frye, Kim Turner, from Detroit, Michigan.

Reverend Parrish gave the word of dedication for her future.

Gracie's plans are to attend Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia, and major in Journalism and Pre-law.

Other relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turner and daughter Terrie Turner, of Detroit, Michigan. Sis Sanders and Mrs. Myrtle Powell of Des Moines, Ia.

Gracie is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Edmonds of Des Moines.

This award presentation is given yearly to any youth of Maple Street Baptist Church who completes school and makes plans to attend college.

IEWS and REVIEWS

by Allen Ashby

The news in Tuesday's morning Register made history, at least for me. Watson Powell's gift of two basketball courts to Good Park in the name of John Estes Jr. was the first time as I recall that anyone ever gave anything for community betterment in that park.

I knew last fall that this was going to happen, and some people wanted to try to change the guy's mind in favor of tennis courts. But, we reasoned that if a person wants to spend his dough for anything, he should be free to name his choice.

When you look and see how many people play basketball, sometimes all day in good weather, you know the courts won't be neglected. People who have seen the non-stop game that goes on at the park remark about how well conditioned those fellows must be. And I feel the same way.

I would have to admit that more black kids use the basketball court than the tennis courts, although the tennis courts are used a lot by both races, basketball courts are used almost entirely by blacks. Now there may have been something given to the park that I don't know about, but the swimming pool and the present lineup of tennis courts were built to keep blacks away from Birdland pool.

I have always maintained that if the designers of the setup around the pool and tennis courts had known what they were doing, we never would have gotten that setup, for that is probably the best place in the state to watch tennis matches.

One can watch matches on all four courts without losing track of any one of them, and that can't be done anywhere else that I know of, unless some of the newer setups are like that.

But the people in charge of those things were so anxious to get blacks out of their hair that they had the thing in operation within a few months, really speedy for those times. The plans were drawn up and we were swimming in the pool before Labor Day.

There was another killing on "the near north side". This time the victim was more or less bought and paid for. He had killed a man in Cedar Rapids and received a thirty year sentence. He was out in about two year. That so often happens when blacks kill blacks. I can't recall but one black man who received life for killing another black person, and I think he got out in about ten years.

The usual sentence is that for manslaughter, which, I think is around eight years. Call it what you want to, but if this Martin fellow had been serving even the minimum time on his thirty year sentence, he would not have been in a position to get shot last week end.

We want people to get justice, and we want that justice to be applied in black on black crime too.

Proposition 13

The passage of "Proposition 13", a proposed amendment to the California state constitution which severely restricts the amount of revenue which local governments may acquire through the taxation of real property, represents a serious, and perhaps the most serious, threat to racial and class harmony in this country in recent years.

Although superficially, it would seem merely a not totally unreasonable response to the outlandish and perhaps unjustified increase in the property tax assessments of suburban homes in California. The clear thrust of the movement is toward the cutback or elimination of state and local programs aimed at minorities and the poor. It represents little more than the last gasp of the older, white, middle or lower middle class, conservative, blue-collar, right-wing Americans who have traditionally opposed any attempts to redistribute the wealth of this country to include minorities or the poor.

"Proposition 13" is a direct result of what these people see, read and hear about abuses by a small percentage of welfare and minority aid program recipients.

The short run effects of this amendment are quite obvious. Because of the restriction which it places on the amount of money which the state and local governments can collect through property taxes which is for the most part their primary source of revenue, all programs funded by this source of revenue will be sharply reduced, including schools and police and fire protection.

But social benefit and affirmative action programs will be the first to feel the pinch. Black schools, welfare, public aid, alcohol and drug treatment programs, school breakfast and lunch programs, among others, will be the first to be curtailed or eliminated as the affected governments look for ways to cut their monetary expenditures and somehow increase the amounts of revenue they acquire from other sources.

The inner cities, where most of these affected programs are located and operated, simply do not have the property tax base to support these programs alone, and the further isolation and embitterment of black inner city residents by their cutback or elimination is the most obvious and probably quite foreseeable result of this amendment.

The long run effects of this amendment are no less obvious. Although the immediate effects of this amendment will be felt primarily by blacks and other minorities and the poor, the predominately white society in this country will also suffer. As we all know, until the mid 1950's in this country, blacks were stereotyped by white society as being a group of lazy, dumb, shiftless, morally, socially, culturally, and politically substandard and largely worthless people who should be ignored or kept in the background when the benefits of 'democracy' are distributed, but advanced and supported when there was menial work needed to be done but no white people around who wanted to do it.

Although this image has not been significantly altered or otherwise eliminated today, the social, economic and political advances blacks have made in the last 20 or so years have gone a long way toward changing the way white society looks and reacts to them. This amendment, however, seriously damages, if not eliminates, the chances for future improvement of that image and in fact may return the black-white relationship in this country to its state prior to World War II.

As blacks become more socially, economically, and politically disadvantaged following the restriction or elimination of these government or privately funded aid programs, white society, having removed the only means by which contact and therefore, progress in race relations could be accomplished, will retreat backward into the non-contact and quite stereotype-ridden segregationist view of blacks which it had before these programs were initiated. The consequence of this situation, in terms of the future of black-white relations in the United States, or at least in California, are both obvious and potentially disastrous.

Perhaps the only 'good' (and I use this word quite loosely) thing that I can see about this amendment and the movement behind it is that it is not likely to spread far, if at all, beyond the borders of California. This movement, not unlike the movement which is currently resisting the adoption of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, is little more than a political vehicle for older right wing conservatives, traditionally opposed to changes in the social status of minorities, to advance themselves and their ideals politically, like Ronald Reagan in California, George Wallace in Alabama and Frank Rizzo in Philadelphia have done.

The complaints were numerous about the increased property tax assessments in California, but nothing of substance happened until two older conservative ex-businessmen saw a chance to advance themselves politically, socially and financially by forming a protest movement to champion a popular cause. Although it is possible that movements of this type could develop elsewhere, it is not very likely. In a vast majority of states, the tax structure is relatively equitable and so long as Americans have a relatively secure material basis of existence, it is unlikely that a movement of this type could develop elsewhere on a federal or state level.

It is possible that similar movements could develop on a much smaller scale in some of the nations larger cities, where the issues, alternatives and consequences would be quite similar, if not identical to those currently in California. But remember that this movement and the program it represents are radical from a political, social and economic viewpoint, and so long as the radical nature of this action persists and the economic situation of the majority remains relatively stable, most Americans will remain unwilling to support it. The recent farmers strike is proof positive of that.

In any case, the threat which the California movement poses to the rest of this country is currently quite minimal and localized and is likely to remain so absent any radical negative change in the economic positions of white Americans. But we must not ignore the ramifications which such movement could have if adopted on a larger, even Federal scale; black people must remain ever vigilant lest the important civil rights accomplishments of the last 20 years be chipped away constantly by an expanding, increasingly hostile white conservative society. By 1978, then it is obvious that blacks must again, "go it alone."

Among Africans themselves, there is a sharp

City Officials announced this week that Groundbreaking Ceremonies for Logan

Community Center, East 17th Street Court and Garfield Avenue, will be held at 3:00 p.m., Saturday, June 24, 1978.

The Logan building was an elementary school until it was closed in 1977 due to a lack of enrollment. The building was acquired by the City for conversion to a community center. The cost of the work under contract will be approximately $800,000 and will include a new gymnasium addition, an addition for the Polk County Office of Social Services, demolition of an old three story wing of the former school building, renovation work in existing rooms and additional parking facilities.

Funds for the renovation and construction work come jointly from Federal Block Grant and Planned Variance sources, Polk County for Social Services and City of Des Moines.

Smith - Voorhees - Jensen Associates are the project architects. Prime contractors are Vawter and Walters, Inc., general contractors from West Des Moines; Proctor Mechanical Corporation, mechanical contractor from Des Moines; and Des Moines Lighting, electrical contractor from Des Moines.

The Center will be operated by the Park and Recreation Department and will include offices for the Logan Neighborhood Priority Board. According to Park and Recreation Officials, Crowley Park which is contiguous to the Center will be retained for community recreation purposes.

Picnic facilities will be provided for those who wish to stay following the ceremonies and a disco dance will be held from 8:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. in the parking lot. All events will be held inside in case of inclement weather. The public is invited to participate in all the scheduled activities.

U.S. COLUMBUSES IN AFRICA

By Benjamin L. Hooks

difference between traditionally pro-French nations like Senegal and more independent-minded countries like Tanzania. Consequently, we find the highly respected Leopold Senghor expressing alarm over what he perceives as the spread of communism throughout Africa.

In response to France's call for an all African peace-keeping force for southern Zaire, Senegal is one of the very few countries that is providing troops — and these nations are all former French colonies.

Tanzania's Julius Nyerere, a highly respected world Statesman, on the other hand defended the Soviet Union's role in Africa which the peace-keeping force is ostensibly aimed at countering. Instead, he denounced "hysterical voices" he felt were dominating the Carter Administration.

His unprecedented summoning of the entire foreign diplomatic corps to his office in Dar Es Salaam underscored his concern for U.S. - Soviet confrontation on the continent. He declared that the West still considers Africa to be within its sphere of influence and acts accordingly. "Furthermore, current developments show that the greater immediate danger to Africa's freedom comes from nations in the Western bloc."

This too is the view of many knowledgeable Americans, Africanists, black as well as white, senators and congressmen. What seems to be most troubling is that the U. S. is once again caught in the position of responding to events outside its borders that do not immediately nor necessarily threaten its strategic interests. No doubt, the U. S. should be concerned about losing ground to the Soviets in Africa. But the problem arises on the question of how to stop the erosion of U.S. influence.

Given the history of Western colonialism in Africa and white American racism, the Carter Administration seems to be placing itself in a position of reverting to old, discredited imperialistic practices. It seems to be, furthermore, serving French interests rather than fulfilling U.S. goals.

A year ago when France rushed in to protect General Mobutu from the invading Katanga rebels in southern Zaire, President Giscard d'Estaing unabashedly declared that "it was necessary to act on our own to preserve the security and territorial integrity of a Western - oriented state which, by definition, means the protection of Western interests."

Given this reality, is President Carter seeking to support the French President's designs rather than pursuing the development of the forward - looking African policy that he initiated early in his Administration. Two over - riding concerns for Africans today are majority rule in Zimbabwe, Namibia and South Africa and desperately needed economic development. Mr. Carter has squarely voiced support for these goals, and the NAACP fully supports him.

What is now needed, therefore, is a clearly developed, comprehensive U. S. policy on Africa along the lines enunciated by U. N. Ambassador Andrew Young that fulfills long - term U. S. and African needs. Mr. Carter should draw a lesson from the cool reaction of Britain, an old hand at colonialism, to the President's call for NATO to extend its sphere of concern to Africa, thus making the continent a theatre for East - West confrontations.

Said Prime Minister James Callaghan in reaction to such a proposal: "There seems to be a number of Christopher Columbuses setting out from the United States to discover Africa for the first time. It's been there a long time." In other words, hysteria is no policy at all.

Plug energy leaks! Take the Energy Inventory!

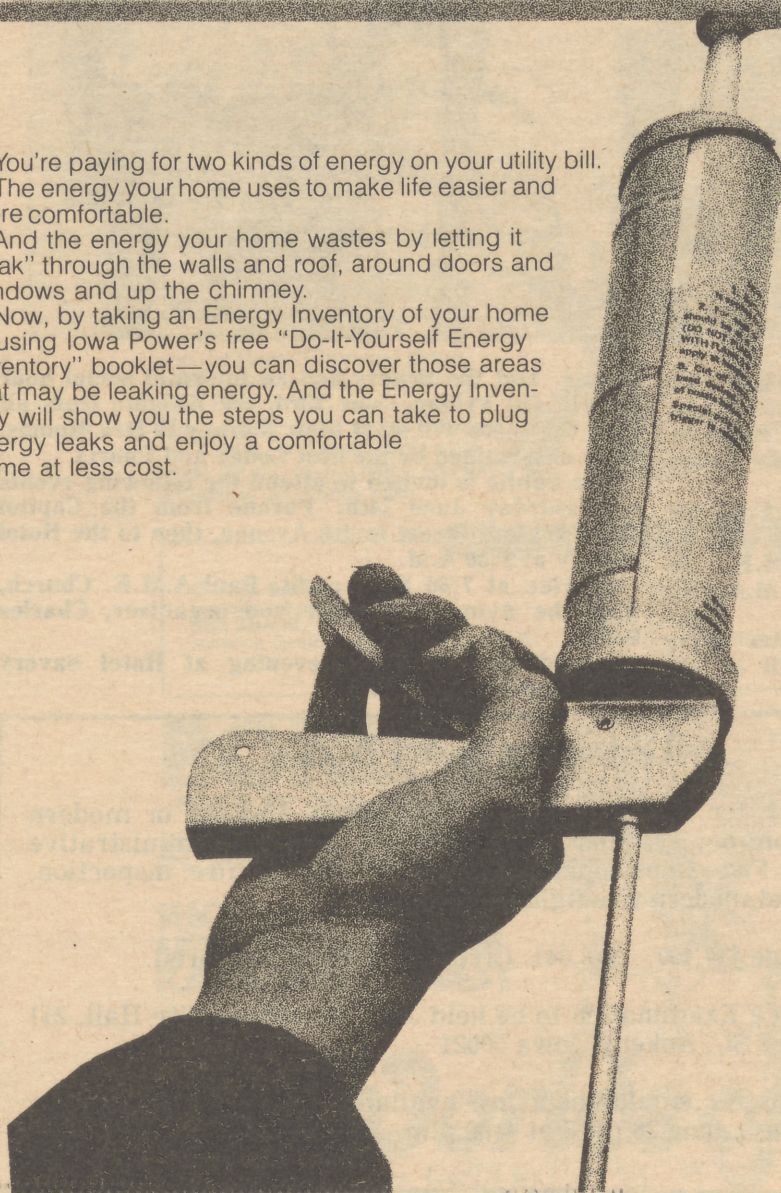

You're paying for two kinds of energy on your utility bill. The energy your home uses to make life easier and more comfortable.

And the energy your home wastes by letting it "leak" through the walls and roof, around doors and windows and up the chimney.

Now, by taking an Energy Inventory of your home — using Iowa Power's free "Do-It-Yourself Energy Inventory" booklet — you can discover those areas that may be leaking energy. And the Energy Inventory will show you the steps you can take to plug energy leaks and enjoy a comfortable home at less cost.

And if your home receives a qualifying score, it's eligible for the National Energy Watch Award, a special medallion mounted on a handsome, bronze-finish doorknocker for permanent display. If you should decide to sell your home later on, the award medallion shows prospective buyers that your home is energy efficient.

For your free copy of the Energy Inventory booklet, call or write Iowa Power. Then, start plugging the energy leaks in your home.

PRESIDENT MEETS WITH BLACK BUSINESSMEN

From the White House Press Office

Washington — President Carter says that his Administration's efforts to improve opportunities for minority business have met with great initial success and have "been accepted with enthusiasm by almost all Americans."

Meeting with some of the nation's top black businessmen in the White House, the President said "I have not had any adverse reaction accusing us of setting artificial or unwarranted quotas because I think there is a general recognition that in the past the opportunity has not been there for equal chance at government business and for a chance to compete on an equal basis in a free enterprise system."

"I think it is accurate to say that this meeting is one that could not possibly have been successful 10, 15 years ago," President Carter said.

Masons To Celebrate Festival of St. John

by Paul V. Best

This Sunday, June 25, 10:45 a.m., ALL MASONS and the public AT LARGE are cordially invited to attend MT HEBRON BAPTIST CHURCH, 1600 E Capitol in celebration of St John's Day. It is an auspicious occasion worldwide where Masons assemble enmasse to pay homage to the Patron Saint of Free Masonry, ST JOHN THE BAPTIST. The celebration of this occasion in June of each year was established many years ago by the Operative Craft and it is customary, as well as befitting, to celebrate this festival at a time near the 24th day of June.

St John the Baptist, so named because he initiated the rite of baptism, was given the name of 'John' because in Hebrew it signifies 'the gift of Jehovah.' We are told that at an early age St. John went into the desert and lived as a hermit. Very often described as 'the voice crying in the wilderness', he was truly one inspired by God, for he preached repentance and observance of the law. Living on little food, he was just a mite more than skin and bone, and carried on seemingly from pure strength of spirit.

Preaching charity, justice, mercy — the very precepts so dear and close to our beloved fraternity, he added something new: the rite of baptism to cleanse the sins of common folk scorned by others.

Masonic forefathers undoubtedly adopted St John The Baptist as the Patron Saint of Freemasonry because he was a holy and devoted man, one of spirit, one whose humanity was for ALL men and one who preached adherence to those cardinal virtues of Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth which are intricately interwoven into the very fabric of the Craft.

The public and all Masons may do well to worship at Mt Hebron this Sunday and rest assured that Rev. James Harris will deliver his usual inspiring message.

Keokuk

Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church held 11:00 a.m. service last Sunday, Rev. J. H. Mims, pastor. Visitors at the service, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooper, of Iowa City, Ia., guests of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bradley and George and Jesse Hill and Clifton Howard all of Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Beverly Dawson entered KAH West on Thursday of last week.

Keokuk Senior High School, Class of '58 held their 20th reunion at the Elks Fairview Club recently, among the members seen attending was Joe Roy Wilson.

Here in Keokuk we have a weekly paper known as the Shoppers Free Press distributed in the Tri State area and published by F. J. Helenthal. In its "Keys of Keokuk" column this week; which was a reflection of the early growth of Keokuk as a pivotal and host city to a wide variety of nationalities and races; these facts were mentioned. Along with the German, the Catholic, French or Hebrew early settlers, the following concerning the early Black population was written: Blacks numbered many more than they do today, and as early as 1864, they had their own place of worship. The African Baptist Church on the North side of Johnson between Second and Third. By the turn of the century they filled two churches, the colored Baptist at 729 Concert and the Pilgrim Rest Colored Baptist Church at 14th and Exchange. In the 1860's the colored school was located on the east side of Eighth between Main and Blodeau, and numbered 300 pupils. I will add that Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church is still located on 14th and Exchange and is the only Black Baptist Church in the city.

Keokuk has an Iowa State Golden Gloves Champion. He is Ray Bradley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bradley, Sr. He is a 165-pounder who took the crown in February. Bradley graduated from KHS in 1976, and Iowa Lakes Community College in Estherville in May. This fall he will attend the University of Iowa. Bradley started boxing a year ago, making his championship even more impressive.

Word was received here of the death on Thursday in Ft. Madison, Ia., of Mrs. Helen Beecham. She was the mother of Leslie Stewart, of this city.

At Commencement exercises held June 8, at Mankato State University, Mankato, Minn., Michael William Bates, son of Dr. and Mrs. Mel Bates, of Minneapolis, Minn., received a B.S. in Science. Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Bates of this city attended the graduation and spent several days visiting in Minneapolis. We have been privileged to see a letter from the Vice-President for Academic Affairs received by Dr. and Mrs. Bates congratulating them on the achievement of their son, Michael, who obtained a 4.0 grade point during the winter quarter. Another honor afforded Michael, an award for being the outstanding Senior, voted by members of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Each year at the World's Largest Street Fair sponsored by the Jaycees, and held on the Keokuk riverfront, scholarships are given to a number of Keokuk students. Among those so honored this year, William Fox, son of Mrs. Eva Fox, a scholarship of $400, Cindia Bunton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bunton, one for $375.

James R. Grimmet, an employee of Dryden Rubber Co., for the past 32 years has retired as of the past week. In talking with him he informs us that he plans a short rest and after that his plans are indefinite.

"Whenever someone would come to the mansion she would bring them to the kitchen to meet me."

Because of this ritual, Mrs. Sorrell was able to meet scores of well-known people.

"I liked Rockefeller, he would talk to me. He was down to earth. Nixon didn't talk much," she said chuckling. "Wallace came — but no one knew he was coming (the public). We were giving him back the confederate flag. There were some problems there...."

The job also enabled Mrs. Sorrell to meet celebrities, particularly Pearl Bailey and the Andrews Sisters.

"When Pearl Bailey was her, there were several nights I got to go backstage with her. I got to know her very well," she said smiling. "She promised to come to my house and eat pigtales and greens when she came back to town. She sent me Christmas cards for many years."

Mrs. Sorrell remained at the mansion when the governorship was turned over to Harold Hughes. However, two years after Hughes took office, she left and went to the capitol, where she continued to work for the General Services

Although Mrs. Sorrell says she enjoyed working at the mansion, her catering business suffered.

"When I went to the mansion, it was impossible to keep up with all my clients," she said, adding she quit all outside catering about three years ago. "You have to give it up sometimes."

She doesn't talk much about the experiences at the mansion anymore. But, she has few regrets.

"I met so many thousands of people. I did all the baking for the Erbes and made millions of cookies because they didn't like bakery goods. I would do it over again for the experience. You meet so many interesting people. I enjoyed all of them."

Mrs. Sorrell attributes her cooking success to her mother, a native of the West Indies who encouraged her to learn as much as possible in a variety of areas. "When catering was slow, I would paint. I also knit, crochet and sew. I love to fish and garden..." she said. "But, this (cooking) is my own bag."

ALLEN ASHBY with a LOOK ON SPORTS

The pennant races are heating up, and we are getting things set for our annual Hilltop Open tennis meet. We have our original dates, and that should make a difference in the number of entries. Last year we lost because we conflicted with the well established Northern Iowa tournament.

We put some decision making on people who had never missed our meet, and so some chose to go north, and some chose to stay here. It won't be the case this time, and we are hoping that we can regain our lost ground. From what we hear, there will possibly be a large contingent of people from Minneapolis and maybe Omaha, so we should have our usual list.

And speaking of pennant races, who would have thought that the New York Yankees would be a half dozen games behind the Boston Red Sox at this stage of the race. The Cubs in first place is not news. The big news is if they stay there, but the Chicago bears seem to be for real this time. And in the west, the Los Angeles Dodgers keep winning, and still can't seem to gain on either the Cincy Reds or the Frisco Giants.

But it is a long time from now until September, and there can be many changes in the lineup of the contenders by then. People I talk to seem to think that the Yankees will make it up there in some manner, and most of them expect the Reds to take it all in their league. But they don't know what to say about the Cubs and Red Sox. Somebody ought to tell them that they are not supposed to be in front.

And now back to tennis. In looking over the records, I learned why Juan Farrow was considered the next black tennis player to replace Arthur Ash. He won the national 14 year old title a few years back, and Bruce Foxworth made it to the quarter finals in the sixteen year olds. So he had things going for him, but evidently didn't get the necessary competition to bring out the stuff in him after he left the juniors. Maybe it was money, for tennis is an expensive game, everybody can't afford to play it, and some just aren't willing to make the sacrifices in order to make it up there.

At least two of the players at Wimbledon have spent the entire summer trying to qualify for the big meets, and sometimes they made it and sometimes they didn't. But it takes that kind of struggling to make it, and one wonders how many of the promising young players are willing to do that. Then maybe young Farrow wanted an education more than anything else, and passed up his chance to make it on the circuit.

All summer I have been thinking that maybe Lee Elder or Jim Dent would break through and win a big one on the golf circuit. But it hasn't happened yet. Dent seems to be a player who shoots consistently in the low seventies, and that won't win any big tournaments.

Elder never seems to quite get it together, but one keeps thinking that he will. He has had some hot rounds, but there are so many youngsters who are tough and tournament wise that players who were feared awhile back now find themselves struggling to stay ahead of some youngster who got on the tour yesterday.

And among the locals, I don't know who besides Noses Woods and Matt Campbell are playing in the local meets. I know that there are a number of black golf players in town, but I don't see them in the meets. And if there are any juniors, I never heard of them.

CAMP FIRE TRIP

Twenty - eight Des Moines and Ankeny Camp Fire girls, leaders, chaperones and friends left Gateway Opportunity Center in Des Moines recently for a one - week bus trip to California.

Their itinerary is taking them through Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Salt Lake City, Utah, to Anaheim, California, from which they will visit Disneyland, Universal Studios and the Pacific Ocean.

On the trip home they will camp one night on the South Rim of Grand Canyon and head back for Des Moines via Albuquerque and Kansas City.

Most of the girls earned at least part of their trip money through Camp Fire fund - raising projects during the last year.

Picture shows part of the "California Bound" Camp Fire Girls after breakfast Tuesday morning, June 13th. The place was a rest stop in California. The bus driver, Vince, is also in the picture.

The girls have visited Temple Square and Hansons
