Operation Paint Brush Comes To Prime Service Areas

By Lynda C. Walker-Webster

"Operation Paint Brush" is a new program being sponsored by the City of Des Moines' Department of Urban Development.

"Operation Paint Brush" is a program that reimburses homeowners for paint and materials in which to paint their home, up to the maximum allowable grant of $200. Homeowners must provide, or pay for their own labor, and will only be reimbursed when the work has been completed.

Many programs administered by Urban Development's Rehabilitation Division are focused on strengthening and prolonging the life of a structure by correcting major and minor code items. Thus, the visual effect of a neighborhood where rehabilitation work has been done is not always visible on the outside. "Operation Paint Brush" is a program of cosmetic rehabilitation that will precipitate a positive visibility on the outside. Regulations pertaining to the program are:

1. The homeowner must live in one of the City's six Prime Service Areas.

2. The homeowner must have owned and occupied the property for which a paint grant is made for a period of six months.

3. All work must be certified as completed by the Department before any funds can be paid to the homeowner. All funds are paid to homeowners on a reimbursement basis.

4. Original receipts for materials must accompany all requests for reimbursement.

5. Only one paint grant may be made per structure.

6. No reimbursement may be made for materials purchased before the application is approved.

All applications must be received at City Hall by the City Clerk on Wednesday, January 30 by 5:00 p.m. A lottery will be held at 9 a.m., Friday, February 1, 1980 in City Council Chambers, and 100 applications will be drawn at that time. Applications received after the lottery will be processed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Following the lottery, ownership verification will be made and the applicant will be notified within 10 days of verification as to whether the application is to be activated or rejected.

If the application is activated, a Construction Specialist from the Rehabilitation Division will visit the dwelling to determine if the house needs painting. He will also note any additional work needed to complete exterior painting. (This might include scraping old paint, priming bare wood or filling cracks.)

The types of paint, colors, number of coats and method of application will vary from job to job and will be the responsibility of the owner.

The homeowner will then be notified in writing that the dwelling is eligible for paint and materials reimbursement and that such eligibility will be in force for a period of four (4) months.

At the end of the four month period, eligibility will automatically be revoked. However, if progress to complete the painting is being made, the owner may request (in writing) an additional 30 calendar days in order to complete the job.

Under no circumstances will eligibility exceed 5 months.

Applicants found

eligible for the program during January, February and March, the date of eligibility will be April 1, 1980. Applicants found eligible during October and November may request April 1, 1981 as their eligibility date, or they may start painting immediately, with the four month eligibility period in force.

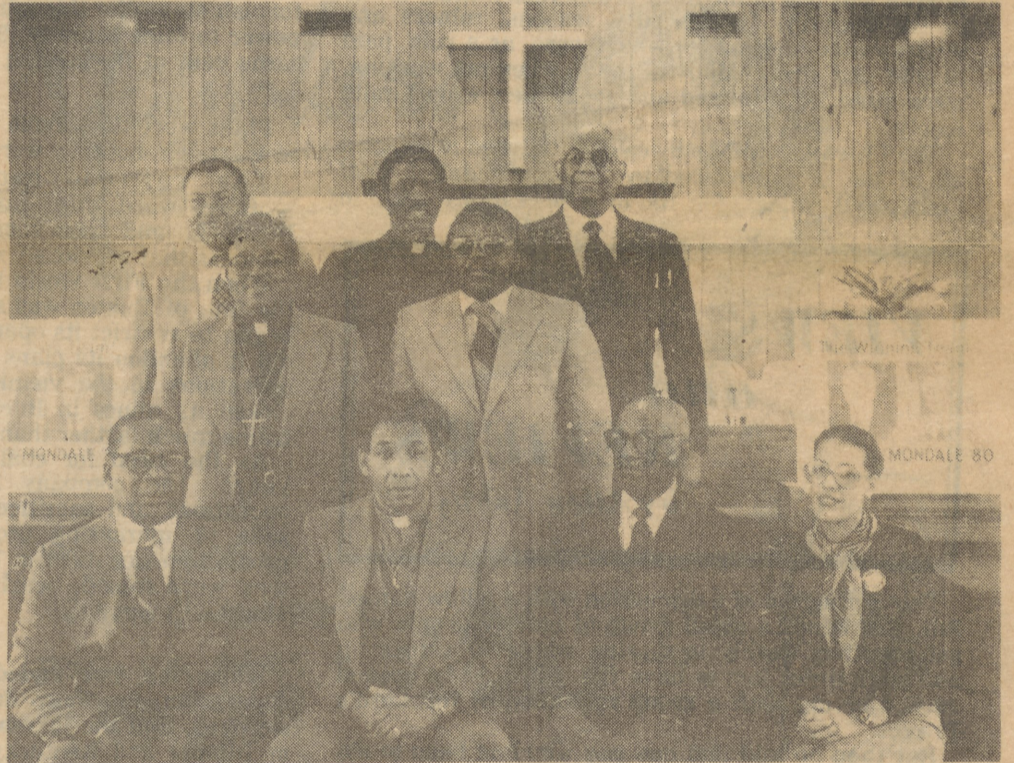

Upon completion of the painting, the homeowner will contact the Rehabilitation Division. The Construction Specialist will then make an inspection of the painted unit.

After the Construction Specialist verifies the painting work as being completed, the owner then will submit all original receipts for paint and materials and make the request for reimbursement from the Financial Advisor.

The receipts will then be inspected to be proven valid. All items on the receipts will be checked for reasonableness and a total of all eligible items

Members of the Des Moines Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance have endorsed President Jimmy Carter for re-election in 1980.

Standing, second row, are Rev. Robert R. Bowie, Kyles A.M.E. Zion Church, and Rev. Wilbert D. Coleman, Bethel A.M.E. Church; and third row, Rev. Richard Daye, New Friendship Church of God in Christ; Rev. Louis P. Grady, St. Paul A.M.E. Church; and Rev. Frederick Strickland Sr., Corinthian Baptist Church.

Black Ministers Endorse Carter

The Des Moines Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, composed of most black ministers in the Des Moines area, Tuesday announced they will encourage their congregations to support President Jimmy Carter in the Iowa precinct caucuses and the 1980 general election.

"This is the first time our organization has ever endorsed a presidential candidate," said Rev. Frederick Strickland Sr., president of the alliance. "However, we feel that President Carter — a deeply religious man — has done a good job and deserves the support of all Americans, black and white," he said.

"President Carter has appointed more black people to prominent positions in our government than any previous president," said Rev. Strickland. "Based upon the leadership and the opportunities President Carter has given black Americans, and upon his strong leadership in these times of international crises, we have decided to endorse President Carter," he said.

Rev. Strickland, who is pastor of the Corinthian Baptist Church, said the ministers in the black community should provide leadership and direction for members of their congregations.

Drake Black Students Honor Rev. Jackson

The Drake Black Student Organization (BSO) will honor Rev. Jesse Jackson with the Simon W. Scott Award at Jackson's speech at Drake University's Old Main Auditorium, Friday, January 18, at 6:30 p.m.

The Simon Scott Award, named after the first black student to attend Drake University, is an annual award by the Black Student Organization given to two people. Rev. Jackson will receive the Natinal Achievement award and the Local Achievement award will be presented at a banquet on Saturday, January 19 at 6 p.m. at Parents Hall, Olmsted Center on the Drake U. campus.

In conjunction with the banquet, there will be a series of workshops on Saturday in Parents Hall beginning at noon.

For more information about the banquet call BSO President Greg Jones 271-3235.

The Drake BSO and the National Black Christian Student Leadership Consultation are sponsoring the speech by Jackson at Drake. The students hope Rev. Jackson will address the following topics: the importance of the upcoming presidential elections to Black college students and recent conservative trends nationally and locally, in the federal government and the court system and how these trends will affect financial aid to minorities.

Rev. Jackson, president of Operation PUSH, a human rights organization based in Chicago concerned with educational and economic equality, will be in Iowa on January 17 and 18.

The purpose of the visit is to place a black, poor and dispossessed people's agenda before the U.S. Presidential candidates campaigning in the state prior to the Iowa precinct caucuses January 21. Jackson will also discuss the role of the religious community and students will have in the 1980 elections and will discuss PUSH's student and Parent motivational programs.

The visit by Jackson is sponsored by the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance.

A Black Look At Politics

William S. Morris

What are the international consequences of a "no-growth" economy here in the United States? Would sharply curtailed funds for foreign aid result in destabilizing the present system of military/economic alliances, such as NATO and others?

And what of the developing nations of the Third World; to whom would they turn for assistance?

Clearly, these questions and many others need careful study by government forecasters, especially with political instability threatening to usher in a new "World Order", where the U.S. and the Soviet Union would find their power and influence quite limited.

One potential answer to the problem of Third World economic development might be an independent fund set up by OPEC, or some other organization to provide loans at low interest rates, and with few political "strings" attached.

Such direct aid could also be provided in the form of energy credits, such as reduced oil prices specifically for Third World countries, enabling already scarce foreign exchange capital to be freed for internal development. Too, African, Asian, and Latin American "Common Markets" may become possible as the world approaches the year 2000, although xenophobia and tribal hostilities will be formidable roadblocks.

What of America during all this? With tightening Federal and state budgets, conservative politicians, fearing change, may opt for an increasingly isolationist foreign policy.

International influence often accompanies military and economic aid and trade, and with fewer foreign policy expenditures, a decline in influence would seem natural. What with the low esteem in which we are held by most Third World nations, due to decades of U.S. exploitation in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, black Americans may expect several things.

For one, more blacks will be sent to diplomatic stations in the Third World, as will black soldiers, especially in the aftermath of the Iran hostage situation.

Secondly, we will see an increase in the number of blacks elevated to positions of military leadership; if a military confrontation breaks out, it will most likely involve blacks against troops of some other "colored" nation, unless Congress reimposes the draft. And white men have no desire to leave their comfy surroundings for a dirty foxhole in East No-where — it's "nigger work". And, as most of you will remember, in the last year of American involvement in Viet Nam, 75 to 80 percent of the frontline combat troops were black.

The white soldiers had left for the "rearward" areas. In light of this, black Americans had better be skeptical when listening to various Presidential candidates hollering about a "stronger" America, where "no one would dare challenge us." If it comes to a fight, who do you think will be the first troops sent?

I'll have to cut things short this week, but in conclusion I find it interesting that a few weeks ago, I mentioned the growing number of black male teenagers who are unemployed, very bitter, and without hope in our inner-city areas.

I went on to elaborate on the possibilities of a return (albeit in a different manner) to the militant era, replete with urban destruction and violence.

The other day, I read where the Carter administration announced a multi-billion dollar job skills program for the "hard-core" unemployed, in hopes of offsetting this potential violence. I wonder if ol' Jimmy reads my column, too?

Thoughts and Comments

THE DEMISE OF BUXTON

During the first decade of the twentieth century, Buxton was one of the most prosperous mining towns in the country. In the busy seasons, miners and others made high wages which were, as a rule, paid in gold and silver. Many of them, when not working, were quite well dressed and spent their wages quite freely.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad itself used all of the coal produced by the Consolidation Coal Company's mines for its own operations and, in addition to the miners, employed hundreds of men in machine shops and on railroad crews. During World War One, when the demand for railroad services was greatest, miners were earning a somewhat remarkable sum of ten dollars a day, unheard of for coal miners before that time.

Business was flourishing, and more and more mines were opened for production. In 1913, the company opened Mine Number 18 near Consol (southwest of Buxton) which was the largest coal mine ever to operate in the state of Iowa. It had an engine room nearly a half block long, containing the steam turbines, dynamos (for generating electricity) and hoist machinery needed to operate this immense mine. Eight boilers were needed to furnish steam for this mine, and to provide electrical power to Mine Number 19 which opened up later that same year at Bucknell, a short distance away.

Plans were then made to open up Mine Number 20 at Haydock, but they were never effected.

The railroad had extended its tracks southwestward from Buxton toward Bucknell and Haydock, and soon these towns began to attract business that previously would have gone to Buxton.

When the First World War began in 1914, however, the fate of Buxton was sealed. The railroad rapidly began to restrict its operations in the area; not only did it abandon its plans for extension of the mining operations in the vicinity of Haydock, but it also closed its mines in Bucknell and no longer ran its trains much farther than Buxton on that spur.

As the need for coal increased during the war years, the company had to reopen the closed operations and sacrifice its other interests for the sake of increasing production. Iowa's peak coal production occurred in 1917 when over nine million tons were mined, nearly one - fourth of that from Monroe County.

When the war ended, the subsequent business depression, the sharp drop in the need for railroad services, and the increased competition with mines in Illinois and Kentucky, coupled with the rapidly declining productivity of the mines themselves, greatly reduced the mining operations in the area.

Because the slopes and shafts near Buxton could no longer be expected to yield the production levels of the past, for the first time in over 20 years most of the employable men and women in the vicinity of Buxton were unemployed. Families that had lived in or near Buxton for over twenty years were forced to migrate elsewhere in search of work and were never to return.

By 1925, Mines Number 18 and 19 were the only ones in the area still in operation, but they were not nearly enough to absorb all of the unemployed miners around.

The final blow to the continued existence of Buxton was the labor unrest common to all parts of the United States in the middle and late 1920's.

On March 15, 1927, the biggest mine in the area, Number 18, closed, some six years before its estimated coal reserves were depleted. Only 15 days later, a strike was declared at Number 19, so it closed, also never to reopen. Some two years later, more than a hundred mine cars of coal were still waiting at the bottom of the shaft to be hoisted to the surface.

The population of Buxton began to fade slowly away, and the banks and other businesses were quick to follow.

The Consolidation Coal Company then began to dispose of its property in the Buxton area, valued at over two million dollars. Miners homes owned by the company were sold for fifty dollars each, while salvage companies eagerly placed bids to acquire the remaining buildings and mining facilities.

By October of 1929, the "Oskaloosa Times", reporting on conditions in Buxton, wrote that "... The four winds called to the population and last year it literally melted away ... the banking and business houses began closing ... school opened in the fine high school this year with only a few pupils and one school building entirely unused ... like some ancient village in the jungle, the weeds and undergrowth are creeping in on Bucknell and Haydock ... today, they are standing in the lobby of the movie theater - six months from now, nature will reclaim its own, and only a few foundations, a ramshackle store or two, will mark the glory that was once Buxton's".

The last blow to the prosperity and vitality that was once Buxton came in June of 1944. As a safety precaution, the Hercules powder Company of Chicago used twelve pounds of dynamite, set at the base of the 155 foot smokestack which once marked the site of the biggest coal mine in Iowa, to level it. Made of concrete and steel and erected in 1918 at a cost of ten thousand dollars, it slumped gracefully to earth within inches of the mine shaft opening. The debris which remained was used to fill the once mighty shaft, and the last remnants of what was once a symbol of the greater Buxton community, settled with the dust to the earth from which its purpose arose.

What was Buxton is now little more than a ghost town, but there are indications that its spirit lives on in the minds and hearts of its surviving residents, and I will look into that in the upcoming weeks.

VIEWES and REVIEWS by Allen Ashby

This comes out of a discussion with a fellow named Bill. Bill heads a small group of elderly people who get together weekly to discuss whatever comes up and sometimes just to have fun. Bill said he opened each meeting with a group recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

But then he said that one guy who had been to not more than a couple of meetings in three months told him that what he was doing was illegal and unconstitutional and that he should stop it. Bill said he allowed that it was better than pounding on a table trying to bring the group to order, so he guessed he would continue his method as long as he was president of the group.

Well, sir, his caller told Bill that if he didn't stop he would be hauled into court and an injunction gotten against him. "Do you mean you would hire lawyers and spend money to take a little bunch like ours to court?" The guy said he wouldn't have to do any of these things because he knew people and organizations who would do all that for him.

To say the least, Bill was upset. Said that nothing was above being dragged into court if just anybody wanted to do so. We talked about how grade school classes used to have Bible readings and short morning prayers and how quickly the kids would settle down in contrast to the way they behave now. And about how many children under thirteen don't know the real meaning of Christmas, Easter Sunday, Holy Week, or anything like that because some busybody went to court.

Small wonder that our courts which are supposed to dispense justice are so loaded down with junk law suits like that that they can't get to the real issues of the day. I could add that I have heard several pre teenagers say they don't believe in God. I just tell 'em "Just keep living, and you will."

We are becoming a nation of people who believe that anything is all right as long as you can get away with it.

If I were in Bill's place, they would have to take me to court. I might lose, but at least, I would have fought for what I believe in.

Henry O. Tanner—Historical Building Rediscovered Art

By Carolyn King

Recently discovered at the Des Moines Historical Museum was a painting of Booker T. Washington by Henry O. Tanner. More interesting is the fact that the leading black painter painted the leading black leader of the time .. (1917).

Booker T. Washington was the Founder of Tuskegee Institute. In 1917, the Iowa Federation of Colored Women's Clubs presented this painting to the Historical Building.

To raise the $500 required to commission Tanner to do a portrait of the late Booker T. Washington, the Federation undertook a rally, selling contributions (with coupon-like receipts) ranging from $5.00 to 25 c.

The painting which has been on display at different times in the Museum was stumbled upon in the vault by Mr. Jack Lufkin while doing work towards his Masters Degree.

Henry Ossawa Tanner, was one of the nation's leading artists at the turn of the century and has enjoyed in recent years a marked revival of interest in his works. This revival is in part because of the great current interest in the accomplishments of Black Americans. Tanner and the subject of many of his paintings are most attractive to those who seek to know more of the aesthetic and cultural history of Black Americans.

It is also, in part, because Tanner numbered among his favorite subjects the lands and peoples of today's troubled Middle East and North Africa. Some of his most memorable achievements are his religious paintings of the Holy Land, heads of men and women in Palestine, and landscapes and other scenes of Morocco.

And it is in part due to the abiding faith of a small group of devotees who have insisted on keeping alive the memory of the man and his works.

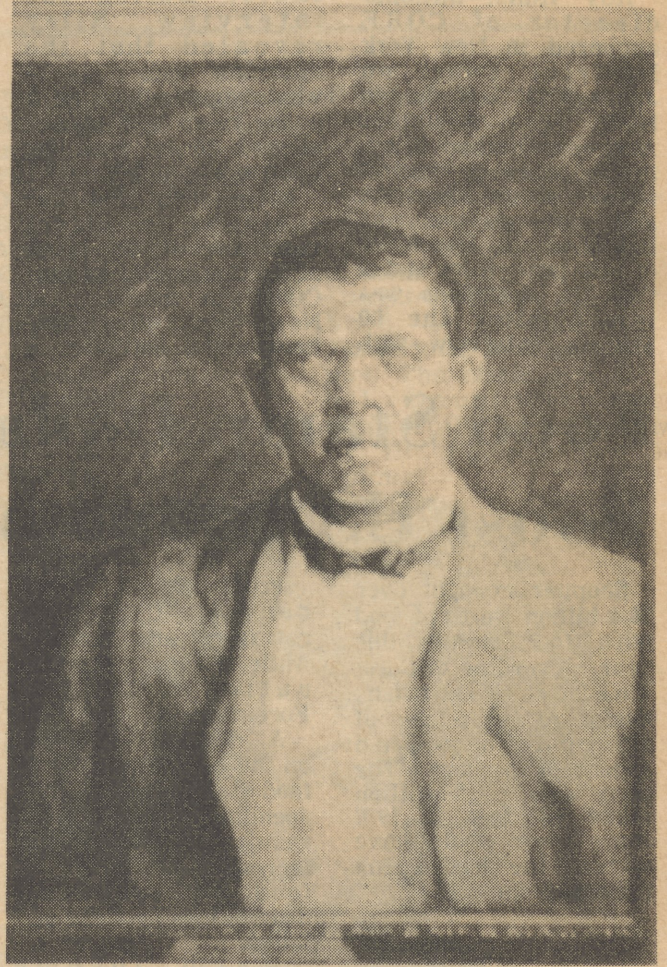

For more than half a century Tanner's friends and supporters at the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York and at several Black colleges and universities have continued to exhibit his works. To many admirers no revival was ever necessary, for they had never forgotten him.

A member of a distinguished family, Tanner had a burning desire to fulfill his ambitions as a painter. He became an expatriate, not merely because of the limited opportunities in his native America for persons of African descent, but also because Europe, and especially France, beckoned to any American whose talents and training in the New World indicated that he might more fully develop his potential in the Old World.

But even in the midst of the many honors that came to him in Europe, Tanner never completely forsook his native land and its problems. He remained closely associated with W.E.B. DuBois, was a faithful member of the NAACP and encouraged numerous young Black artists such as Edwin Harleston and Laura Wheeling.

Henry Tanner still ranks not only as the first truly distinguished Black American artist but as one of America's first outstanding successes in Europe. Besides this forgotten painting at the Historical Museum, there are five paintings by Tanner at the Des Moines Art Center (Special thanks to John Hope Franklin and Jack Lufkin for their assistance.)

Sell Trees As Fundraiser

The National Arbor Day Foundation is now making it possible for organizations to sell trees as a fund-raising project.

Clubs, churches and other organizations can sell trees in their community to raise money for their activities, and the Foundation will mail the trees directly to the customers' homes. The local sponsoring organization never has to handle the trees, according to the Foundation.

The Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life in communities throughout the country by encouraging tree planting.

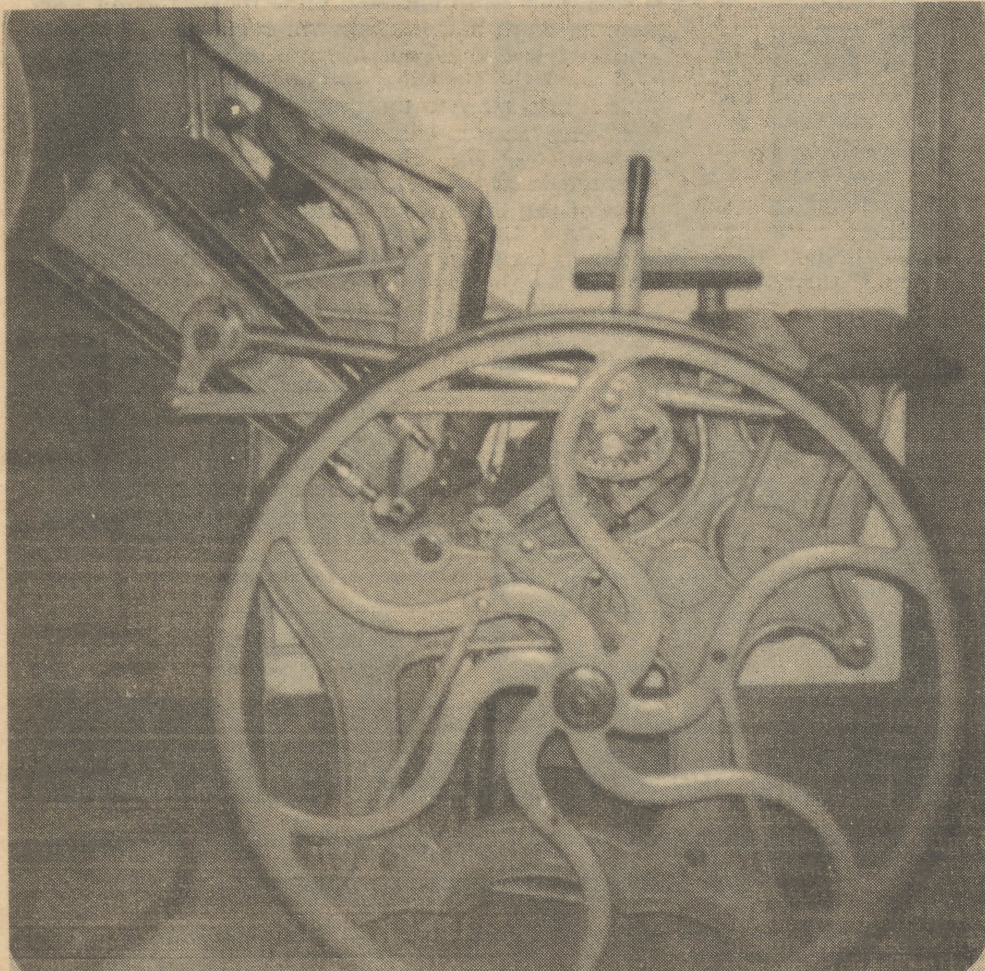

"Trees are an unusual fund-raising idea, much different from the usual candy or cookies. Trees can be a profitable fund-raiser because many people will buy several," a Foundation representative said.

Red Maple, Sugar Maple, Redbud, Weeping Willow, Tulip Tree and White Flowering Dogwood trees are sold for $3.50, including a profit of $1.25 per tree for the local sponsoring organization.

The trees are four to six feet tall and come with complete planting instructions. They are delivered at an appropriate time for planting. The Foundation says that for best results, trees should be sold from January 15 to March 15 for spring delivery.

Organizations may obtain free sales literature and order forms by calling (402) 474-5655 or writing the National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NE 68410. Organizations should indicate the number of persons who will be selling.

CORE Leader Appears In Court

By Ora McQueen

Roy Innis, national director of CORE appeared in New York District Court on January 14. According to New York Assistant Attorney, Nathan Riley, the appearance was in answer to an injunction and summons that was issued in late December of last year. Riley states that the summons was issued after the 60 Minute interview with Innis. During the interview, Riley revealed that the interview took place in what appeared to be a phone room with phones alleged to be used for fundraising activities.

Riley feels that this could be a direct violation of the first injunction issued against CORE in the state of New York preventing fundraising activities in that state. The first injunction was issued in April of last year after former and dissident CORE members called for an investigation into finances of the organization. Riley further commented that no formal charges have been brought against Innis or the organization at this time.

No action was taken in court on January 14, but a continuance was granted until sometime later this month. Riley feels that the case could be settled sometime in February of this year.

Innis stated earlier that he is most anxious to settle the case so that the organization can resume normal activities. He feels that the injunction against the organization has interrupted some of the programs that have been most beneficial to blacks.

Innis was born in the city of St. Croix, Virgin Islands. He spent two years in; the U.S. Army from 1950-52. He later enrolled in the New York City College where he graduated as a Chemist in 1958. He worked as a research assistant for cardiovascular laboratories at Montefiore Hospital, New York City and as a Chemical Research Technician for Vicks Chemical Co. He is also a research fellow for the Metropolitan Center of Applied Research.

In addition to his career in chemistry, Innis has been a member of CORE since 1963. During his membership, he served as chairman of the Harlem Chapter from 1963-67 and 2nd national vice-chairman from 1967-68. In 1968, he was elected to national director the position that he now holds. In spite of the allegations brought against him, Innis was elected to serve the organization at the National Convention in September of last year.

Since his reign as chairman, Innis has instituted several programs for the organization. He published a monthly magazine, "CORE", that has been distributed in several school, college and community libraries. The magazine covered subjects art, sports, politics, international affairs, communications, social and economic issues.

Several training programs have been setup across the nation for blacks in the areas of graphic arts, journalism, broadcasting, tutorial reading skills, occupational education, modeling, senior citizen assistance, drug task force, prison reform, day care, housing, office and clerical skills, business management and the CORE Community School that is certified by the New York State Board of education.

Innis published a 240 page text, "Profiles in Black." It is a guidance manual for junior high and high school students. The text is about 100 black Americans who have succeeded in a chosen field.

Innis introduced the Community Self-Determination Bill to the U.S. Congress. It was the first such bill to go before Congress that was introduced by a black nationalist group. The bill called for a community development corporation that would be owned and operated by blacks for blacks. This would establish community control of black institutions.

Innis is the first delegate from North America to be a representative to the OAU (Organization of African Unity) in Ethiopia in 1973 and Uganda in 1975.

Innis is a man dedicated to global liberation of black people. His philosophy hinges on liberation through self-determination. He has the belief that blacks should run their own institutions.

Food Stamp Dollars Boost US Economy

Shoppers bought over $6.4 billion worth of food with food stamps this year, according to Carol Tucker Foreman, assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services. The poor spent $3 billion more on food in 1979 than they would have without the food stamp program, she said.

Food stamp dollars benefit U.S. food retailers and farmers, while helping to feed the nation's hungry, Foreman said.

A department report on the economic effect of food stamps showed that spending for food as a result of the stamps increased the income of food processors and distributors by about $1.4 billion.

Farm income increased by nearly $1 billion because of the increased spending brought on by food stamps in 1979.

Foreman said if food stamp benefits were cut by $1 billion next year, it would cost farmers $140 million in income. Food distributors — including processors, packers, wholesalers and retailers — would lose about $210 million, and food expenditures would decrease by $350 million, despite the fact that stamp users would substitute some of their own money for the stamps cut.

MONARCH CLUB CHRISTMAS DANCE

The Monarch Club held their annual Christmas dance December 29 at the Hilton Grand Ballroom. It was well attended by members and guests, approximately 500 in all.

The dance this year seemed to have had many out-of-town acquaintances joining in the merriment by "Street - Wave" who also had the good fortune of having as a lead singer, Ms. Anita Mitchell.

With the exception of a brief intermission to allow the officers and members of the Monarch Club to be introduced, Ms. Mitchell and "Street - Wave" kept the dance floor jammed.

Rife Reflects On Pageant Experience

By Carolyn King

Miss Janice Rife was recently home for the Holidays and we had a chance to talk with her about her experience in the Miss World - Miss America pageant. For those of you who might be wondering how Miss Rife came out and what pageant this was, she explained that she and Miss California were the only blacks representing some 50 states.

This pageant, a little less well-known than the popular Miss America - Miss World, is made up of representatives from each state in the United States; the winner going on to compete in the Miss World Pageant in which some 70 countries participate and which pageant is televised nation wide. The winner was Miss Virginia with Miss California being second runner up. The tape was recently released but because it was syndicated, it was only shown in a few cities.

She was invited to participate in the pageant because of her having been selected as Gateway Queen and the first black Homecoming Queen at Roosevelt.

In sharing her experience, she mentioned the trip to the pageant was exciting and a beautiful memory. The people on St. Thomas Island were very friendly and hospitable. As you may recall, various events occurred that almost prevented Miss Rife from attending the pageant - after being stranded in Miami, her luggage was damaged by the hurricane and half of her wardrobe was ruined.

The people on the Island were very sympathetic, offering to dry clean clothing free of charge and some stores allowed her to come in and select whatever she wanted. She did get most of her things back.

Miss Rife who is attending the University of Iowa, commented that the pageant was a great experience on a beautiful island. Among the world famous judges, she had the privilege of meeting Scott Berry, the famous Black designer from Paris.

Miss Rife met representatives from Jet Magazine and Ebony Fashion Fair and was asked to pursue a modeling career; however, Miss Rife's decision at this time is to further her studies in medicine at the University

It is necessary for me to take a rest from writing for the next three or four weeks and clean up my act. It's really in bad shape! When I lighted that first cigarette after eleven months to keep from screaming in the streets because my middle child joined a cult (Scientology), I knew I would have to battle addiction all over again.

I've put off the battle for a whole year. So it's back to the YW for exercising and swimming lessons to get in shape if I mean to be around to see what's happening.

Now that I am accustomed writing, it's difficult to stop. I won't start again until I can do without cigarettes. O.K.?

Look, Therefore, To This Day

By
Lynda Walker-Webster

Do we forget others frequently and their often sad, desperate and trying circumstances? Do we walk past, away from, or around sad and unpleasant people or situations that appear to be light years away from our possible involvement or willful comprehension?

There was a time in life when I thought that the "bum" on the street was a truly funny sight. Now I look at that "bum" on the street and I realize that he is a human being, and I hurt. I can't help wonder what has gone wrong in his life, — does he have family? How did he become this way? And with a prayer, I am thankful that I realize the power of faith.

Do we tend to neglect or overlook, or even perhaps deny a friend or relative with a special handicap, because we are embarrassed, or feel that they slow us down, or that our being with them may make us appear to be "un-cool"?

When we arrive at these points, we need to ask forgiveness. We need to especially do so when we allow life's circumstances to lift us to the highest crest. For often we have temporarily forgotten just how blessed we are. With arrogance, we often blame others for our own failures and faults. Yet we so quickly credit ourselves for our achievements and successes.

We become blind and stupid when we fail to realize that we are not sufficient unto ourselves. We need God at all times in our life. We need to look for Him on the mountains as well as eagerly seeking Him in the low valleys. In our times of greatness, or moments of extreme popularity and honor, we especially need Him, — lest our heads swell.

We need to come to realize that material things and worldly accomplishments are nothing when they allow us to be swept away on a cloud. For we are needed down here on earth, with our feet planted deeply in the soil of compassion and brotherly love.

Sitting here with many positive reflections, they are chased away with remnants of less positive thoughts. Yet, I am thankful for those reflections, they bring one back to a definite realization that is not all peaches and cream. Suddenly I remember last week's very special candle-lit dinner. Yet someplace, I am certain, someone is trying to remember when it was that they last had dinner.

The other day I was reminiscent of the warm sands of Freeport/Lucaya under my feet. Yet, again, I realized that someplace, someone is feeling the wintry snow and cold sidewalk through broken shoes. I can't help but be thankful, quickly my own faith becomes reaffirmed.

All that we need every now and then is to gently be reminded that we are not one of the seven great wonders of the world. We are simply ALL children of a most Supreme Being! We are ALL great in His eyes. We too, must come to also realize that in the final hour, we will not be judged by our achievements, our good looks, our wealth, charming personalities or other favorable traits. But, rather we will be judged on the truth of our very existence, — how we have lived, — how we have loved, — how we have humbled ourselves and reached out and genuinely helped those less fortunate.

Many of us attempt to be "Amen" Christians, but there are many of us that are shouting it louder that we are living it!

Iowan Celebrates 100th Birthday

By Carolyn King

One of Des Moines oldest residents recently celebrated her 100th birthday — Mother J. L. Lucas. Mother Lucas was born in the south and has lived in Des Moines many years. Her late husband, Rev. J. L. Lucas, was the pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church for many years. I recently spoke to Mrs. Roberta Frazier who had a dinner in honor of Mother Lucas' birthday. Among Mother Lucas many friends, her special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson, a couple her husband had baptized many years ago.

Mother Lucas has been Mrs. Frazier's spiritual adviser since she was 27 years old. I asked Mrs. Frazier what Mother Lucas contributes her longevity to and the reply was "her spiritual living and trusting in the Lord". Mother Lucas has a good mind, and is being looked after well. She manages to get around in her own home and last year attended a worship service at the Shiloh Baptist Church. She is a member of the Maple Street Baptist Church.

The kindness she showed to others when she was younger now comes back to her as she has a lady who comes in regularly to clean her home and someone to manage her financial affairs. She received many cards and acknowledgments on her 100th birthday and expressed appreciation for all of the kind thoughts, and well wishes.

We salute you, Mother Lucas, on this your 100th birthday, with the words of the poet, "The life that counts must toil and fight; must hate the wrong and love the right; must stand for truth, by day, by night — this is the life that counts. The life that counts must hopeful be; in darkest night make

Many other courtesies were extended and they had a most enjoyable trip.

melody; must wait the dawn on bended knee — this is the life that counts.

The life that counts must aim to rise above the earth to sunlit skies; must fix its gaze on Paradise — this is the life that counts. The life that counts must helpful be; the cares and needs of others see; must seek the slaves of sin to free — this is the life that counts. The life that counts is linked with God; and turns not from the cross - the rod; but walks with joy where Jesus trod — this is the life that counts."

ST. PAUL A.M.E. CHURCH

1201 Day Street Rev. Lewis E. Grady, Jr., Pastor

"Appear I always what I am? And am I what I am pretending? Know I what my course is bending? And sound my word and thought the same?" Anonymous

I am very grateful to be back among my established Christian friends here at St. Paul A.M.E. Church after visiting my daughter, Evanette, and her family for the holidays in Rockville, Md. Also, I was fortunate to have the opportunity to visit with our migrant Licentiate Minister, Ms. Barbara Barbour, in Washington, C.C. She sends her blessings to all St. Paulians and misses them very much. She is in the process of establishing her ministerial residence there.

Last Sunday, Rev. Grady preached on "The Open Church". Theme was that all personalities fellowship and go out into the world with the spirit of Jesus Christ.

Please note the nice deserving happenings for St. Paul A.M.E. Church and the community: Our Rev. Grady received a personal telephone call from President Jimmy Carter thanking him for the use of the church's facilities for campaign efforts; he will be on the receiving line to greet Vice President Walter Mondale when he arrives at the Des Moines Airport, Thursday morning at 9:35 a.m.; Rev. Jesse Jackson will be in Des Moines for Mass Rallies at Corinthian Baptist Church, January 17, at 7:30 p.m., and at Drake University Old Main Auditorium, January 18, at 6:30 p.m.; our scintillating Sister Corliss Williams will be the guest speaker for The Missionary Emphasis Day this coming Sunday at the morning services; and The Rt. Rev. Hubert N. Robinson, Prelate of the Fourth Episcopal District, will grace our pulpit Sunday, February 24th, at the morning services. Everyone is invited to hear this dynamic messenger for God.

Dear St. Paulians don't forget the sick, shut-ins and convalescents in your prayers. Also, please get in your first half of the Conference Budget Claims before February 20th.

Peace Corp/Vista Recruitment January 21 & 22

By Carolyn King

On Monday and Tuesday, January 21 and 22, staff from the Peace Corps and Vista will be interviewing interested persons at the Savory Hotel, 4th and Locust, from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Please call 244-2151 for more information and to place an application.

In talking with Mr. Bill Myer, who is responsible for recruiting and initiating the processing of applications for the Four State Area — Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, he informed me that in the past about 80 - 90% of their effort to recruit takes place on the major college campuses in the four state area.

They have been attempting in the last year to reach people who are not on campus and who have other kinds of skills. While recruiting in Des Moines last spring, Mr. Myer and his staff wanted to impress upon Iowans that the Peace Corps and Vista are still alive and still functioning; still have opportunities and openings for people with certain skills.

Both are voluntary programs but travel from home to the assignment is paid for; living allowance is provided along with medical services and transportation home plus a readjustment allowance which in the Vista program amounts to approximately $900 / year and in the Peace Corps amounts to approximately $3,000 at the end of the two year period.

Vista is a one year service program, with five day orientation and some on - the - job and i n v o l v e s assignments in 50 states; Peace Corps is a two year volunteer program with assignments in some 60 countries, South America, Africa, Asia and the Pacific. The training period is about 8 weeks and includes cross - cultural studies, language skills.

There are standard on - going needs in both programs — Primary skills for Vista include architects, lawyers and para-legals; community organizers; community development workers — usually people with a degree and/or experience in working with community organization or community service work; also needs in the fields of health and business.

Peace Corps has a number one need for agriculture — degree or as little as 3 - 5 years experience; health needs — nursing, education, mathematics, science and business or engineering.

This year Vista begins a 15th Anniversary celebration. Also there is an emphasis in increasing minority participation both at staff and volunteer level. Vista — Volunteers In Service to America — When Vista volunteers get together with community people and community leaders to change the injustices brought about by poverty, exciting things start to happen.

Being poor is not just a lack of money. Being poor is frustration, loneliness, and a helpless feeling. Many Vistas serve in their own communities. Others serve many miles from home in areas where conditions are unlike anything they have ever known. People have a sense of what they want to accomplish and are becoming much more involved in their own local efforts.

Vista's role is trying to mobilize efforts, whether it's finding out what government programs are available or helping them put together a food co - op. It's important for Vista to help build efforts and systems that the community and leadership want, and that are capable of outlasting the volunteer's stay.

In order to join Vista you must be a U.S. citizen or resident. You must be at least 18 years old. There is no upper age limit and for most assignments you do not need a college degree. What you do need is a serious commitment to devote at least one year to bring about change.

The Peace Corps is the only U.S. agency which provides individual Americans to work with the people of developing nations while living as part of their communities. Volunteers go abroad for two years, after intensive training, to work with agencies of host governments or with private institutions. The mission is not to do things for people, but to show them how they can begin to improve their lives, how they can become more self - reliant.

Peace Corps Volunteers are working on such fundamental but vital programs as food productions, water supply, nutrition, health education and the development of human resources. These are the basic human needs of the people of the developing nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

"The Peace Corps recognizes that people everywhere have common aspirations: better health, adequate food, protection from the elements, economic self - sufficiency, and, finally peace."

The Peace Corps needs men and women with degrees in such fields as liberal arts, social work, or home economics. People without degrees who have experience in farming, construction, handicrafts, home management, automechanics, business and other areas.

One of the far greater benefits is likely to be to you as a person: the satisfaction of having given, the personal enrichment of two years of hard work, and sometimes hardship, in the less fortunate but fascinating part of the world.

If you haven't quite decided what to do, or which way to go, try Vista or the Peace Corps, its eye - opening, thought - opening and heart - opening.

You can contact them by calling Ann Smith or Cal Allen on Monday and Tuesday, January 21 and 22 at 244-2151.

The Action Service Center in Kansas City is located at 4th and State Streets, Gateway II Building, Room 318, Kansas City, Kansas 66101; telephone number 816-374-4556.

Why not give them a call today. The World's problems are big but the answers are small.

must be filed with the Commissioner of Elections at least 7 days prior to the caucus date.

ELIGIBILITY:

- (1) You must be a citizen of the United States and a resident of the precinct.
- (2) You are, or will be by the time of the general election, 18 years of age.
- (3) You may not be a member of any other political party.

BUSINESS OF THE CAUCUS:

- (1) To elect delegates to the County Convention.
- (2) To elect two committee persons to represent your precinct on the County Central Committee for a term of two years.
- (3) To designate certain of the delegates or alternates to serve as members of the County Platform Committee and the Committee on Committees for the County Convention.
- (4) To discuss resolutions and priorities for the Democratic Platform.

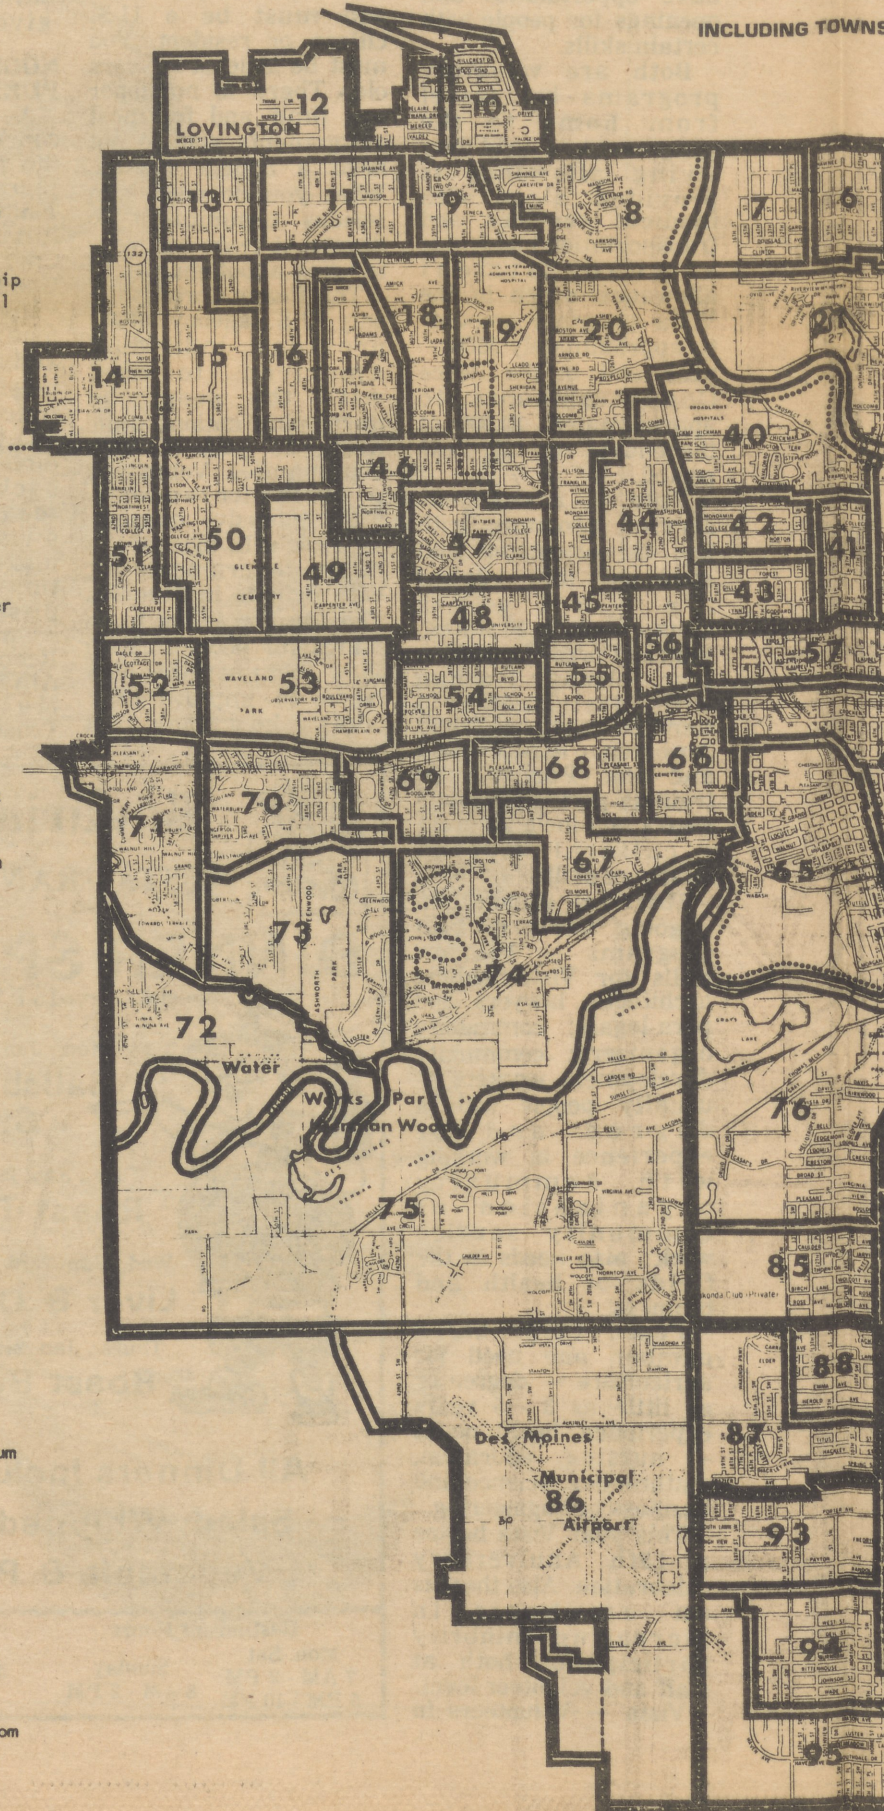

Each caucus will elect a chairperson and a secretary. No nominations or election of delegates may be made until 8:30 P.M.

STEPS IN DELEGATE SELECTION PROCESS:

- (1) The chairperson of the caucus will count the number of eligible voting members at the caucus and announce the number. The number of delegates your caucus is entitled to elect will also be announced. (Number will appear on front of caucus kit provided for precinct)

- (2) Caucus voters will be asked to divide into groups according to preference for presidential candidates. One group may be formed of uncommitted delegates. To qualify as a preference group the total number must be the required percentage of total caucus voters. Required percentage may vary from precinct to precinct. (Required percentage will be indicated in caucus kit)
- (3) After preference groups have been formed each group will count its strength and report the number to the chairperson. Any group that has less than the required percentage will be notified. They are then given the opportunity to join another group. These realigned preference group numbers will then be reported to the chairperson.
- (4) Caucus chairpersons will announce the number of delegates each preference group may elect. The number is determined by ratio of voters in that group to the total number of voters at the caucus. (A chart is provided in the caucus kit)
- (5) Each candidate preference group will elect from within its own group the number of delegates and alternates to which it is entitled.
- (6) Preference groups report the names of their delegates and alternates to the chairperson and the choices of all the groups are ratified by the full caucus. This is to certify that the process was carried out in accordance with the party constitution.

Republican Precinct Caucus

Alternates equal to the number of delegates will be elected in the same manner as the delegates.

The number of delegates your COUNTY may elect to the State Convention is determined by the State Central Committee. The number of delegates your PRECINCT may elect is determined by the County Central Committee. Both are determined in ratio to the number of votes cast at the 1978 General Election for the Republican candidate for Governor.

Each county shall elect alternate delegates to both State Conventions in a number equal to no more than 20% of its delegates. No county shall be entitled to fewer than 4 alternate delegates.

Either your county chairperson or your precinct committee person will be able to give you specific information as to the number of delegates to be elected at the precinct caucus and the County Convention. If you are in doubt as to the identity of your county chairperson, consult your local county auditor for the name and address.

NOTICE:

The call to caucus is issued at least 55 days prior to the caucus. The County Central Committee must determine and announce the number of delegates to be elected by each precinct in the county.

At least 5 days, and not more than 30 days prior to the caucus, the location of each caucus must be published in the local newspapers. Caucus locations must be placed on file in the County Auditor's office not less than 7 days prior to the caucus date.

ELIGIBILITY:

- (1) You must be a citizen of the United States and a resident of the precinct.
- (2) You must be, or will be, 18 years of age at the time of the next general election.
- (3) You must be a Republican.

If your eligibility is challenged, the challenge will be determined by a majority vote of the persons present at the caucus.

BUSINESS OF THE CAUCUS:

- (1) To elect delegates to the County Convention.
- (2) To elect two committee persons to represent your precinct on the County Central Committee for a term of two years.
- (3) To discuss issues for the Republican Platform.

Each caucus will elect a chairperson and a secretary.

DELEGATE SELECTION PROCESS:

Under the existing rules delegates are nominated either individually or in groups, and then voted on by the full caucus. In order to be elected, a group or individual need only receive a majority vote.

Rule 32 of the Republican National Committee Delegate Selection states: "Participation in a Republican primary, caucus, or any meeting or convention held for the purpose of selecting delegates and alternates to county, district, state or national convention shall in no way be abridged for reasons of sex, race, religion, color, age or national origin. . . each state shall take positive action to achieve the broadest possible participation by everyone in party affairs, including such participation by women, young people, minority and heritage groups and senior citizens in the delegate selection process."

All states shall endeavor to have equal representation of men and women in its delegation to the Republican National Convention.

The provisions of Rule 32 are not intended to be the basis of any kind of quota system.

Many counties choose to exercise the option of sending "junior delegates" to the State Convention. Individual counties may choose to begin this selection process at the caucus level. It is recommended that you check with your county chairperson for specific information as to whether "junior delegates" will be selected at the precinct caucuses in your particular county.

Direction Sports Program Receives Award

Direction Sports, the Urban YMCA's sports centered tutorial program received a $300.00 award from Northwestern Bell telephone company. The award is a charitable award for recognized program excellence.

The program has to be recommended by a Bell Telephone employee who feels a program would qualify for such an award. The program was rewarded because of the uniqueness of the mesh of sports, academic achievement and character development.

The selection of which programs receives the gift is made by the care committee at Northwestern Bell, a committee of employees who have an interest in seeking out and recognizing programs that aid in the Health and education of people young and old in the state of Iowa.

Jane Victoria, senior clerk in operator services and Curtis Willoughby, engineer in network service, presented the award to Sly Hughes, Sec. Treas. Urban Board and Walter Knox, Youth Program Director Urban Branch.

Many thanks goes out to N.W. Bell and to Jane Victoria, a volunteer coach in the Direction Sports program, who recommended the program to the Care Committee.

Community Fund Drive Begins

The Greater Des Moines, YMCA kicked off the community fund drive to raise $4 million. The money will be used for improvements to the central branch bldg., land acquisitions for the Northeast and South suburban branches, and a new facility for the west suburban branch, which will be named the Walnut Creek family YMCA.

The Urban branch has already received three 1979 Dodge Vans from the capital effort, and will move into a four hundred thousand dollar plus Gym and Youth Center April 1st. The gym and center is attached to the central branch building and will be used entirely for youth activities.

In addition to the vans and youth center, the urban board is now in the process of looking for a contact center. The center preferably will be located in the model cities area. It will probably be a large house, large enough for meetings, and some recreational activities. The main purpose of this site will be to reach out to youth and to get them better acquainted with the Y staff and programs.

This center is also part of the Urban Y's portion of the Capital fund dollar.

Dick Levitt, President of Dial Finance Corp and Bob Burnett, Chief Executive of Meredith Publishing corp. are co-chairman of the total drive. Alan Koufer, lawyer with Myers and Knox firm is chairman of the $20,000 drive for the Urban branch. Anyone wishing to take part or contribute, please call Jack Johnson at 288-0131.

Welcome, 1980

by Carolyn King

Welcome, new year! Welcome, new decade! There is so much for us to live for, so much for us to do — God's truth to know, values to uphold, human dignity and life to defend and preserve. We have resurrected life to enjoy, the holiness of God to acknowledge, the whole of our being to give in commitment. We have God's love to embrace and a needy world to love in his name.

But with all of the positives, the decade will have negatives too, and these will get most of our attention. Loud voices will decry the evils around us — and well they should. Secular humanism is attempting to place man at the center of all things and apparently succeeding. Abortion, infanticide and euthanasia are gaining acceptance. We have the collapse of home life, the degrading pit of child pornography, the ridicule of honesty. There are inflation, taxes, muggings and fear, the ever-looming prospects of nuclear war.

There will be, and properly so, concern expressed about shallow Christians, especially those who at once lament the rise of the "me" perspective while themselves adopting it. There will be debates about the letter of correct doctrines but not always about obedience to them. There will be those who sing "How Great Thou Art" while grasping to their breasts the things that moth and rust corrupt.

None of these must blind us to who we are and what we have in Christ Jesus. Satan prowls, but he does not reign. We must be alert, sensitive and concerned; but overwhelmed, never! Our God is greater than anything that happens to us and greater than our beliefs about his greatness. He is King, always.

Therefore, in awe we look forward to the decade with God. We may not all be around for the full ten years, but no matter. Though our individual times may be limited, our relationship with him is not. There is for us the pleasure of a future with him while we are here — even if only for one more day or minute — and there is the joy of having the peace — presence of Christ in the life that never stops.

For the committed believer, it will be a good year and a good decade, because no matter what comes God is good and he is in our years. He has not departed and he is not weak: "The saying is sure: If we have died with him, we shall also live with him; if we endure, we shall also reign with him; if we deny him, he also will deny us; if we are faithless, he remains

So we step into 1980 with our faces to the rising sun in spite of the current events that have left their scars — the hostages in Iran; Russia in Afganistan; grain embargos; food prices soaring; the value of the dollar decreasing; upcoming Presidential elections, the 1980 census, let each of us stand up and be counted.

Love of one's neighbor is the only door out of the dungeon of self. Man thinks his consciousness is himself, whereas his life consists in the inbreathing of God and the consciousness of the universe of truth. To have himself, to know himself, to enjoy himself, he calls life; whereas, if he would forget himself, tenfold would be his life in God and his neighbors. The region of man's life is a spiritual region. God, his friends, his neighbors, his brothers all, is the wide world in which alone his spirit can find room. Himself is his dungeon.

Model City Board Housing Complaint Investigation

The model city board is hearing more and more complaints about people in our area having difficulty getting work on their homes done or done properly.

We have also found when we check these complaints out there is no record of the work request, much less who did it. Many times the resident who had the work done doesn't know who did it, either.

The model city board is starting a campaign to determine where the problem is. If you live in the model city area, that is between the river and 24th St. East to west and Univ down 6th up Keo to Univ on the south and Hickman excluding Chautauqua Park on the north, if you have had work done on your home within the last two years by any contractor and the work has been done unsatisfactorily or has not been finished, please phone the model city site office at 1000 College (283-4104).

Please give:

1. Your Name
2. Address where the work was done.
3. Your address now if not the same.
4. The name of the contractor and the name of the program, also, if it was funded by a government agency or non-profit group.

We would like to have your complaints by February 15, 1980.

If the work was funded through the model city board using community development for community services money, we will do our best to get the problem corrected or try to put you on another program to do so.

If it was done by a private contractor or through some other agency we will keep track of the results, let the people in this area know who these contractors are and do what we can to help you.

However, our aid in these cases will be limited because we lack any authority to deal with them. However, just knowing where we're having problems in this area is itself a partial solution.

In order to avoid trouble in the future everyone having work done on their homes should keep track of the following information.

1. The name of the person doing your work.
2. Name and phone number of his company.
3. Name of the program if it's a government or non-profit organization doing the work.

4. A written contract which spells out (A) Everything that's to be done, (B) Approximately when it's to be done, (C) If dealing with private contractors how much it is to cost.

5. Do not pay the entire sum for work done until it's done according to the terms of your contract.

6. It might not hurt to have the name and phone number of a good lawyer or someone who can help you handle a case in court.

Day Care Boards Discuss Problems

A joint meeting of nine Polk County Day Care Boards was held January 15, 7 PM at Polk County Social Services Offices, West Des Moines.

Two important points were discussed; how to overcome the emergency created by the fact that Congress has not yet agreed upon how much money should be appropriated for the remainder of the fiscal year 1980 of Title XX funds and how much to appropriate for fiscal year '81. An eight county area, including Polk County is the area affected. Much dissatisfaction was expressed concerning uncertainties and complicated rules on use of Title XX funds.

The following proposals were agreed upon to meet the immediate situation; amend the current State Title XX Plan for this year to discontinue funding 7 of the 8 service areas from Title XX funds at various dates between February 1, 1980 and June 1, 1980.

Day Care, the eighth service area, will be funded with Title XX funds throughout the fiscal year ending June 30, 1980. No more children will be accepted for Day Care after February 1, 1980.

Only those already enrolled at that time will receive services paid for from Title XX funds.

These amendments do not necessarily mean the discontinuation of these services. These changes permit state supplemental funds, county funds, and other nonfederal alternatives to maintain services for which Title XX funds have been exhausted.

Polk County has indicated that it will be able to continue at the same level of services now being provided here throughout this fiscal year, 1980.

Much discussion was reported in the Greater Des Moines community regarding increased private business involvement in day care for children of their employees. Currently three employers in Des Moines operate Day Care centers for their employees: Lutheran Hospital, Methodist, and Mercy Hospitals.

The following ideas after almost a year of discussion between business - persons and the Child Care Barrier Planning Council, a proposal of a Day Care Voucher System is under consideration. Under such a system participating businesses would offer an employee benefit by providing a voucher to be used to purchase day care of the parent's choosing.

This particular idea has been presented to the Personnel Managers' Committee at the Chamber of Commerce.

A second idea is the promotion of a comprehensive day care benefit incentive for employees, to make emergency day care funding available to families, to provide day care information and referrals to parents, and to establish a network of family day care homes to participate in this program.

ACORN Questions Bankers About Lending Policies

by Jean Harkin

Ten members of Des Moines ACORN (Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now) talked with corporate officers of two financial institutions and posed questions concerning the credit and financial needs of low and moderate income people.

Members of the community organization, armed with leaflets and signs, first visited with Donald H. Jordahl, a vice-president of Bankers Trust. Next, they marched down the street to American Federal Savings and Loan Association, and met with officials of the Savings, Loans, and Marketing divisions.

The ACORN delegation posed six basic questions in their meetings with financial executives. The questions originated from the "People's Platform" drafted at ACORN'S national convention last summer. The platform outlines policy changes, advocated in the areas of energy, health care, housing, jobs, rural issues, and community development, as well as banking and credit.

Bankers Trust and American Federal were targeted for ACORN'S visit because they had both received low marks on a bank rating study, ordered by the Polk County Board of Supervisors, to measure how well banks were reinvesting in low and moderate income neighborhoods in Des Moines. Basically, it was a study to determine which institutions were practicing "redlining."

In the discussions with ACORN, Friday, both Bankers Trust and American Federal defended their records on community re-investment, and said they do not believe they are discriminating against low income neighborhoods.

Representatives of both financial institutions said they were opposed to allowing one or two low or moderate income persons to serve on their Boards of Directors.

And neither institution favored ACORN'S suggestion of establishing a "lifeline" interest rate of 7 per cent for the first $50,000 of home mortgages and improvement loans. Nolan Rumbley, in charge of Loans for American Federal, said that this suggestion "makes no economic sense."

Representatives of both finance institutions were asked, "Do banks have a social responsibility to the community?"

Jordahl of Bankers Trust responded, "Management encourages individuals to be involved with their family, church, community." And as to the bank's investment policy, he said, "Bankers Trust is not making loans outside of our area."

Rumbley responded for American Federal, on whether banks have a social role to fulfill, "Sure, No question." But when pressed about the bank's responsibility to do more for low and moderate income people, he asserted, "Business is not here to subsidize."

Officials at both locations said they would support a bank-rating system measuring how well banks reinvest in their local communities, with public funds being deposited in the banks with the highest rating.

This had been the basis for the Polk County Supervisor's "redlining" study. When asked to explain their low ratings in the study, officials at Bankers Trust and American Federal denied that they were guilty of discrimination.

Jordahl suggested that the ratings probably were based on the percentage of total home loans made by Bankers Trust, and that, since this bank made a large number of loans, the percentage of loans to a particular area would be low. The same explanation was also provided by Rumbley at American Federal.

Mark Dunlea, of ACORN, claimed this was not the method used in the rating study and challenged each institution to provide documentation to prove they are not "redlining." Officials of both establishments were reluctant to provide their records, but finally consented, with qualifications.

Rumbley told ACORN that he "does not really understand the county's rating." He alleged that it was impossible for American Federal to be discriminatory in their lending policy, because "we are under federal regulations and supervision."

When Dunlea commented that the federal government also practices "redlining," Rumbley acknowledged, "Yes, I am aware of that."

ACORN told the bankers, "Your funds come from low and moderate income people," and therefore they should be represented on the banks' Boards of Directors, to insure that everyone's legitimate credit needs are met.

Gordon Hunter, in charge of Savings for American Federal, responded that their Board of Directors already contains "a mixture," but admitted that "typically they are business people." He gave ACORN a qualified "no," to the suggestion that one or two low — moderate income persons serve on the Board, because the idea "had not been given much thought," by the institution.

Jordahl responded that, at Bankers Trust, "Ownership interests elect board membership."

The bankers were also asked if they would support the establishment of public banks to meet essential credit needs, such as low income home rehabilitation, community economic development or farm credit. Dunlea explained further that such a bank could compete with private banks. It would have all the accounts from the public sector and would serve the financial needs of low and moderate income people.

Representatives at both locations responded "yes," to the question. Rumbley, however, appeared skeptical of the idea, saying that "that bank would have to make the same kind of decisions we do."

The final question posed by ACORN was, "will you pay interest on escrow accounts holding tax payments?" The response was "no," at both institutions.

Jordahl responded that the question "is not relevant," to Bankers Trust, because they don't have such accounts.

Rumbley said, for American Federal, that it is "not our decision." He allowed that such a policy may be legally mandated in the future.

If so, "we would pass this on to our borrowers."

Jordahl, at Bankers Trust, noted that the bank's greatest need is for more depositors. He was then asked why the bank does not issue savings certificates in denominations lower than $10,000, so that people of moderate means might start to build up their capital with the interest gained. Jordahl replied that certificates in lower denominations are available now. However, these are not available in short-term certificates, but on terms of two years and longer.

LOOK ON SPORTS

The basketball season has come on in full swing. Iowa University's Hawkeyes are hanging onto their rating by the skin of their teeth. When you read this they will have been to Indiana and won or lost.

While Iowa has lost a couple of key men, the Hoosiers seem to be having their troubles too. So it looks like a battle of two crippled teams, and we wonder which will be able to get up the most.

Iowa State finally put together a good game and did in Kansas, so they face the rest of the league hoping that game wasn't a flash in the pan. But what a flash. Booked to finish way down in the league race, the Cyclones might do lots better than people think.

Drake had to run into someone who could stop Lloyd, although 18 points isn't exactly being stopped. But you say that if Lloyd had gotten his usual quota of points, the Bulldogs would have won that one from Bradley. The best shooters in the game have days when they can't get it on. Bradley simply tried to keep the ball away from the Drake man when he wasn't being shadowed by one fellow. The coach probably told his fellow on Lloyd to follow him wherever he went, if it was outside, and the guy did that.

I think you can depend on Coach Ortogel to come up with a move to get his hot shooter loose and it will be very soon because Drake wants to keep on winning.

One fellow seems to think that Lloyd will go for the money and leave Drake at the end of this year. I just don't think he is ready for the pros yet, although one Moses Malone was barely seventeen when he quit high school and is making it big in the NBA.

You read stories about how the fellow has matured in the last two years, and can handle himself in interviews as well as the next one. And with the money he is making, all he has to do is handle it right and his money worries for him and his family are over. Do you suppose Drake's hot man could duplicate that?

There isn't much to say about our high schools except that I thought Lincoln would be at the top of the heap, but it looks like Hoover. Those boys have come from behind and won two tough games, and did in their closest competition by a good margin, so you would have to look for them come tournament time. But the odds against two straight winners from around here are too great to even think about.

North might have to be content with one win this year, but they don't think so. I think the thing that keeps the Polar Bears going is the thought that every time they take the floor they think they have a chance to win.

I recall a team that was dead last in one of our basketball leagues, but they never faced anybody without thinking they might win this one, and they finally did come through.

Tech seems to have a much better ball club than they had last year, but then the rest of the league has improved also, so they will have to scuffle for their victories.

East and Roosevelt will maybe finish pretty close to each other, and one of them may knock off one of the top contenders.

Heard that the New York Boxing commission is studying ways to make boxing safer. That is the only sport in which people pay to see a guy get his brains beat out or knocked senseless. And I have often wondered what good it does except make some promoters and a very few top boxers a lot of dough. So maybe it should be outlawed.

As for self defense, wrestling, judo or maybe karate are better because they have the element of surprise, while boxing does not.

GAY COALITION

The major part of the Gay Coalition of Iowa monthly meeting, Friday evening Jan. 11th at Thoreau Center was set aside to hear spokespersons for presidential candidates in both major political parties. Rich Eychaner, chairperson of the political action committee introduced three who were present in response to Coalition invitations.

Joe Kennedy, speaking in support of his uncle, Ted Kennedy, assured the more than one hundred persons present that Kennedy was for equal protection by law of the constitutional rights of gays.

Michael J. Keefe, representing Pres. Carter's candidacy for a second term, recalled that Pres. Carter had on his desk an executive order safeguarding the right of Gays in civil service as early as 1977 and feels that the Democratic platform should address problems of all working people.

Traer Sunley, speaking in behalf of Jerry Brown, pointed to the fact that the California governor had issued an executive order banning discrimination against the basic rights of Gays as citizens, especially in employment, housing, and social clubs.

John Anderson said in a written message to the Gay Coalition of Iowa that he has supported Gay rights legislation on the floor of Congress and favors a plank in the 1980 Republican Party platform.

CENSUS BUREAU AND COMMUNITY SERVICE ADMINISTRATION ANNOUNCE JOINT EFFORT TO IMPROVE 1980 CENSUS COUNT OF NATION'S POOR AND MINORITY POPULATIONS

A joint effort to improve the count of the nation's poor and minority populations in the 1980 census was announced today by the Community Services Administration (CSA) and the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce. A Memorandum of Understanding between the two agencies has been signed by Bureau Director Vincent P. Barabba and Graciela Olivarez, Director of CSA. The agreement commits the resources of both agencies to a nationwide 1980 Census Awareness Campaign with the following goals:

- to help reduce the undercount of the poor and of minorities.
- to improve the validity of the information collected.
- to increase usefulness of 1980 census results to CSA local activities.

audience with a question concerning Ted Kennedy's joint efforts with Senator Stennis (Miss.) to fashion a legal strait-jacket for the American people with proposals for revision of the Criminal Code.

Unaware of the growing alarm about this across the country, Joe Kennedy promised to look into the issue.
