“We Are Somebody” — Jesse Jackson Visits Iowa

By Carolyn King

Of late, Iowa is becoming the place to be. President Jimmy Carter putting Iowa on the map for the 1976 elections. Pope John Paul found his way here; all the Presidential candidates have come. Last week, the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, the dynamic young leader behind the movement P.U.S.H. (People United to Save Humanity) arrived. Rev. Jackson, National President of Operation P.U.S.H., visited Des Moines, Ames and Waterloo, last Thursday and Friday.

His purpose for coming was clear — to get the people involved in the political process. Reminding and calling for us to be sane, sensitive and sober. We must register and vote; we must be visibly present and accounted for. Presidential candidates must, in addition to the issues being addressed, address our Agenda. They should have an intelligent answer as to what their Middle East policy is and what is their position on South Africa.

On Thursday, January 17, the Inter-Denominational Ministerial Alliance, Rev. Frederick W. Strickland, President and Elder Richard Daye, Secretary, presented a political awareness community rally with Rev. Jackson guest speaker. He was presented by Elder Leslie Carter, Coordinator and State P.U.S.H. Coordinator. Rev. Jackson spoke to a crowd that filled to capacity the Corinthian Baptist Church.

Friday afternoon he attended an impromptu meeting at the Heavenly Temple COGIC to meet with high school seniors and encouraged them to become involved in the political process. Speaking at Drake University on Friday evening, Jesse Jackson stated among his reasons for coming to Iowa, he wanted to “give our people some basic direction as to what our objectives are ... what our challenges will be in the months to come.”

“When we first arrived the media began to ask questions about what are we doing in Iowa and I think in a real sense saying ... there are no black people here — you need to go some place where your people are. The problem being they define my people in a fashion too limited;

Correll Resigns Human Rights Post

Allen J. Correll, Executive Director of the Des Moines Human Rights Commission for the past 10 years has resigned his position, effective February 8, 1980. Mr. Correll, a native of Philadelphia, PA., was formerly director of the Topeka Kansas Human Relations Commission and will assume his duties as Executive Director of the Tacoma Human Rights Department, Washington, on February 18, 1980.

During his tenure Mr. Correll has served on many national and local boards, including, Blacks In Management, Urban YMCA, State Advisory Board to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Region VII Executive Council on Civil Rights, President of the International Association of Official Human Rights Agencies and others.

Correll stated that it was time to move on, since he felt a lessening of certain challenges brought about by the continuity of ten years.

Correll said, “being a human rights director is a never ending and generally thankless job. No matter what you do it's either too much or too little, according to the parties involved.”

Correll added, “I will never forget the many friends I have made, both personally and professionally while living in Des Moines. My friends have transcended social, economic and educational classes and I hope that similar experiences will be had in the Seattle area.”

Correll cited the professionalism of his staff and operation as one of the highest of his tenure. “One of the major problems, pursuant to the Commission's activities, is the requirement that our case activity remain confidential,” Correll stated. There are many who have directly benefitted from the Commission's activities in terms of job entry level, promotions, salary changes, etc., in employment. Many persons don't even realize that they got their job due to activities of the Commission, behind the scenes.

Correll stated that one of the most frustrating aspects of his job was knowing that a discriminatory action has taken place but not being able to find probable cause, due to a lack of legal substantiation.

Correll added, “One of the most discouraging aspects of the job is to hear negative responses about the Commission by persons who have never spoken to me about such concerns and have very little, if any knowledge about what has or is being accomplished.”

“All in All,” Correll stated, I leave Des Moines with some sorrow but look forward to new challenges in the Northwest.

“Human Rights” On Television

“Fifty percent of the public twenty years ago thought government was too wasteful, now 80% hold that opinion,” said Dr. Richard Pattenau, Associate Dean of Drake University's College of Liberal Arts.

The statement was made during the taping of the WHO-TV show “Human Rights” which will be aired Sunday morning at 9:00 a.m., February 24. Allen J. Correll, Exec. Director of the Des Moines Human Rights Commission, moderated.

Also on the show will be Mr. Marvin Pomerantz, President of Mid America Group and Chairman of the Governor's Economy Committee, Dick Davis, Research Director for the Polk-Des Moines Taxpayers Association, and Steven Gold, Professor of Economics at Drake University.

The thrust of the show will be a discussion about what steps are being taken to make government more efficient and what more can be done.

Mr. Pomerantz defended the Governor's Committee recommendation to consolidate school districts saying that too much money is being spent on administration that could be spent on direct educational services to students.

Dr. Pattenau added that the school consolidation proposal was a classic example of the difference in the decision making processes between the public and private sector. In the private sector, he said, the decision would be simple, what is most efficient is what would be done. In the public sector other factors such local autonomy and the health and spirit of communities must also be considered. The decision becomes one of politics besides efficiency, he said.

Members of the panel agreed that Iowa could be proud of the overall efficiency of its agencies. One reason for dissatisfaction on the part of the public, said Dr. Gold, is that “the government doesn't explain itself very well.” He said government needs to do a better job of telling the public what services are available and what has been done to cut the costs of those services.

Dr. Gold also praised the work of the association Mr. Davis represented saying that there should be more citizen groups like the Polk-Des Moines Taxpayers Association to collect information and make cost cutting suggestions.

A Black Look At Politics

William S. Morris

I suppose this admonition is rather late, but I trust as many of my readers as possible turned out last Monday for their local precinct caucus meetings. While the results were favorable, with some 59.1 per cent of Iowa Democrats backing President Jimmy Carter, several other pertinent developments require further analysis.

On the Republican side, former CIA Director George Bush staged a surprising victory over the favored Ronald Reagan, which is just as well because had Reagan, with his "states rights" platform, been President during the 1950's and 60's, black Americans would not have made nearly the progress that they did.

It was only by action from the Federal government that civil rights for minorities were defended. The individual states have, for almost two hundred years, traditionally been the most flagrant violators of civil rights for black Americans. As far as Republicans in general are concerned, black Americans had best avoid their outdated babble about racial harmony.

Phillip Crane is as deaf to minority needs as Reagan, Howard Baker thinks busing to achieve desegregation has been "more trouble than it was worth", and Robert Dole doesn't give much thought at all to black Americans (i.e. "are there really niggers in Iowa?"). Harold Stassen might as well give up altogether.

The only Republican blacks should pay any attention to is John Anderson from Illinois. While a self-admitted fiscal conservative (a political necessity these days, and for good reason), Anderson has a solid pro-civil rights voting record, and "talks straight" on the issues of the day (quite a rarity). He recognizes the concrete issues facing the nation, and speaks realistically and knowledgeably on them, avoiding ideological claptrap about "free enterprise for all", and the like.

Which brings us to "Mister Fat Cat", John Connally of Texas. Connally acts like this is 1950, not 1980, espousing the benefits of free enterprise and corporate profit (as long as they go to white people). Hell, this country hasn't had a "free enterprise" system since the 1920's, and under Connally's plans, the rich would get richer, and the poor would get poorer; it's as simple as that.

As far as George Bush is concerned, if his record as CIA Director is any indication, blacks had best have nothing to do with him either (ever wonder why the Third World hates America so much? The CIA is part of the reason.)

On the Democratic side, "Space Cadet" Jerry Brown made a dismal showing, trying to hide it by telling his supporters to vote "uncommitted" — and even the uncommitted got only nine per cent. Brown is little better off than Republican Harold Stassen, from a political standpoint. Poor Jerry's got two chances at the Democratic Presidential nomination: slim and none. He'd make a good armchair quarterback, though. Maybe he and Linda Rondstadt will beam back up to the Enterprise after the upcoming New Hampshire Primaries.

Ted Kennedy also took it on the chin, getting only 31.2 per cent of the Democratic caucus attendees. One problem with Kennedy is his campaign approach: all he does is criticize the Presidents policies, without offering any workable alternative solutions. Secondly, Teddy is benefiting from the memories of his martyred brothers, John F., and Robert.

Actually, I don't know where the notion got started that John Kennedy was some great friend to black Americans. Even if he had wanted to push for civil rights legislation for minorities, he was too scared of then FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, to do so. And Hoover was the embodiment of racism, probably having a hand in Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassination, despite what the Warren Commission said. Bobby Kennedy did try to help the poor and the disadvantaged as Attorney General, but he was killed before he could accomplish anything concrete.

The real gains made by blacks came under Lyndon Johnson, who had the Congressional clout to do some good.

Black Americans paid the price however, sending black youths to die in the jungles of Viet Nam, while white boys were running off to Canada.

Ted Kennedy keeps talking about the "real issues" of the day, and yet supports Carters actions in Iran and Afghanistan. Black Americans had better stick with President Carter in these turbulent times, lest, in trying to "change horses in the middle of the stream", we upset the wagon and all go down.

BUXTON: ITS SPIRIT LIVES

Is Buxton really dead? Perhaps so in the physical and geographical sense of the word, but certainly not so in the hearts and minds of its surviving former residents. For the most part, the area that was once Buxton today is little more than agricultural land. Some cement foundations of houses and businesses remain in place, and an eroding embankment marks what once was one of the busiest railroad lines in the state of Iowa.

There are few other landmarks of the glory days left, perhaps the most prominent of which is not constructed from the stone, steel or brick which one might normally associate with permanence. It is not a symbol of the violence which was accepted in most mining towns as a fact of life, but of the religion which was a cornerstone of the community. The Swedish Lutheran Church, which stood (and, as far as I know, still stands) upon the highlands which once marked East Swede Town, is the last standing major structure that I am aware of.

Now it is little more than a typical rural church, with little about it externally that would attract the attention of passersby. Inside the church, however, hanging over the altar and facing the wooden pews for the congregation, is that symbol. Measuring some eleven feet by seven feet and having a rich blue background, it is a painting of Christ in Gethsemane. It was painted in 1904 by Birger Sandzen, at a time when Buxton was a vibrant and flourishing community. It is but a small representation of the immortality of the place which a large number of Black Iowans look to as home.

Many people, Black and white, throughout Iowa and many neighboring states can recall with pride the days of adversity and prosperity in Buxton. Former residents of Buxton and the surrounding mining communities, who now reside in all parts of the country, used to gather annually upon the site to recall those events. These annual festivities began in 1930 and have been held since then on the first Sunday in September of each succeeding year.

In 1932, for example, several thousand former residents of Buxton and their families descended upon the site where markers reminded them of what once were their stores and houses. It began with a camp meeting in the morning, and continued in the afternoon with a baseball game, music by the remaining members of the Buxton Negro Concert Band, an autogiro exhibition and a speech by the Honorable Dan W. Turner, then Governor of Iowa.

These annual reunions have continued to the present day, as I understand it, but, as time passes, fewer and fewer of the former residents are able to return annually to revive the memories of the happy years they lived in the valley. Soon there will be no one who will be able to speak first-hand about this important phase in the Black history of Iowa. There is now an attempt by many of the surviving former residents to leave something behind for the Black Iowans of the future.

I have recently been in contact with several members of an organization which has been formed in the Des Moines area to further that purpose. Its membership at the present time is around fifty, and plans have been formulated, I understand, to do several things to preserve the memories of Buxton:

- (1) write a history of Buxton from a Black perspective, for which research is already underway;
- (2) place markers, with the consent of the landowner, in various places in what was Buxton to commemorate Black achievements; and,
- (3) purchase land, if possible, and erect more permanent facilities, with the aid of similar groups in other parts of the state and nation.

The most important thing to remember in this regard is that members of Iowa's Black population have not forgotten the places and events of their past in looking toward and planning for the future. If there are any among you who are interested in participating in or otherwise supporting the efforts of this group of dedicated Iowans, do not hesitate to contact me, and I will endeavor to put you into contact with a member thereof who may provide you with more detailed information.

IEWS and REVIEWS by Allen Ashby

I was attracted to a couple of items in the news this week. Of course there was the political show called the caucus that we had last Monday. I hope your man or men won because, no matter what happened, there will be political writers and analysts mulling over the results for the next three weeks.

I thought the things were not much more than a gigantic straw vote, but somebody explained to me that this was the process by which the delegates to the various county conventions are picked and then the delegates to the state convention which picks the ones to the big one. I hope I got that straight.

So I guess it was important to get your men in the right spots, and the more of them the better. So you can have the delegates where it counts in the main event.

I can't see Kennedy upsetting the incumbent president, especially when he has been helped along by events beyond his control. Even so, he couldn't have planned things better.

Unless the Republican candidate has some magic up his sleeve, he will find tough going when the guys square off this fall. In my maybe faulty judgment, Reagan has been mouthing the same line for too long, and if he had a new record, one would have to give him a chance.

But, as the Kennedy folks say, we'll see what happens the next time out.

The other thing that caught my eye was the lady who serves meals to elderly people and who sometimes has special fare for her guests who happen to be policemen.

Now I don't know of a better way to develop good public relations with police than to feed them, and goodness knows we need that, since so many old people are either afraid of police or just don't believe it does any good to report whatever happens to them. A project like this will do wonders to erase a lot of that image.

It seems that Ms. Johnson's big mistake was in not clearing with her superior before she started her plan. Nothing makes a superior madder than a program started without their knowledge or consent, especially if it goes over well.

To all we cautious folk who love French food but graduated from college with only 3 years of Espanol (the easy foreign language) a visit to a French restaurant can be a traumatizing event what with trying to pronounce the dishes to the waiter and still maintain a symbulance of 'cool'.

This was not the case at La Vieille Varsovie (the Old Warsaw) one of Dallas, Texas' finest eateries. Not only was the food magnificent but the numerous waiters, chefs and the maitre'd seemed very understanding of any faulty French accents.

When I first learned of our trip to the Cotton Bowl, I immediately looked up good restaurants in the latest edition of Travel/Holiday magazine. Old Warsaw along with the Pyramid Room had received the T H award. Because of the $180 per couple price tag on a New Years eve dinner at the Fairmont Hotel spot (Pyramid) I made reservations for four at the Warsaw.

Our companions for the evening, Ben and Yvonne Gates were equally impressed with the cuisine. Fine, old expensive restaurants seem to have help all over the place whereas lesser establishments seem to scrimp on waitresses / waiters and cooks. Having to scour an establishment for help, certainly detracts from a meal when you want more butter, coffee, ice tea or another margarita.

I began the meal with a salmon appetizer, which was delectable. If you've only had Salmon croquets made from canned Hinky Dinky salmon, you must have a slice of fresh salmon garnished with diced onion, lemon, capers and cream cheese rolled in chives. My husband was not quite as taken with his crab meat cocktail, although it looked good.

Next our Caesar salad, although a bit on the spicy and hot side, was very tasty — an authentic Caesar salad prepared at your table by a knowledgeable waiter is another delight.

Chateaubriand is a scrumptious if expensive, cut of meat. We had not eaten it before but thoroughly enjoyed the dish at the old Warsaw — it did indeed melt in your mouth. We were so stuffed after our main course I had to settle for a grasshopper instead of the Bananas flambeau I had planned on.

There was a birthday party in front of us which finished up with baked Alaska for 25 — if it tasted as good and fattening as it looked it must have been a treat. The Gates enjoyed Duck a la Orange and Scallops. Their dishes looked equally enjoyable.

The Old Warsaw — any visitor to Dallas should not miss an opportunity to dine there — an excellent restaurant.

Before seeing THE ROSE, a thinly guised film bio. of the late Janis Joplin, I urge you to read BURIED ALIVE by Myra Friedman — a confidante of Ms. Joplin and Columbia record publicist.

The downward slide of the Joplin-like character portrayed vigorously and with gusto by Bette Midler is detailed in this agony-filled film. The movie itself is not a memorable one. It has been made or written in book form on numerous occasions with the same plot but different stars — Judy Garland, Jimi Hendrix, Monty Clift, Billie Holliday, Lillian Roth — the tear jerker story of the unhappy, unfulfilled, doomed tormented alcoholic, heroin or pill addicted super stars who slowly destroy their talent and themselves.

As you've probably heard, Bette Midler acts her heart out as the former junkie who has become a huge rock star and a slave to her public, her image and her cruel, over-seer type manager.

If you've ever seen Bette Midler perform on stage, you know she's awe inspiring. For two hours at a clip, she belts out her songs, she struts, she jokes, she cusses, she dances and prances like a dirvish. Her blue monologue — sometimes subtle, sometimes profane lambasts social conventions, her audiences and her self. She is a truly remarkable and talented performer. She duplicates this in the film.

As with Janis Joplin, Bonnie Bramlett, Tina

Turner and Millie Jackson, Midler's ROSE character "talks" out her blues to her audiences in at least one sizzling number — a showstopper in which she tells us she ... "started singing the blues when I was born a woman;" and describes women as the "waitresses at the banquet of life".

Her (the Rose) life of sexual and family rejection cause her to indiscriminately sleep with legends of fans (usually male) and a battle with pills, booze and heroin the killer triad which finally takes her life. Alan Bates plays the thankless and stereotyped role of the inhumane, greedy manager who contributes to her death in a type of bored stupor.

It seems neither her nor the director knew how to jazz up his part into some sort of human portrayal with a sense of reality. Frederic Forrest, a good actor who always gets stuck in country bumpkin roles, again plays the hayseed but this time with somewhat more "hipness" who truly loves the Rose and wants to take her away from the killing, numbing world of rock.

But like Joplin, Modler in THE ROSE can't settle for the love of one good man but destroys herself for the adulation of strangers.

See this film — Midler looking freaked out in a blond Afro- and Joplin-like thrift shop costumes, will probably garner an oscar nod for this, her admirable film debut.

Black Vote And Visibility Vital For The Eighties

Rev. Jesse Jackson at the community rally.

By Bobbretta Elliston Williams
 Recently, Iowans have been immersed with agendas and recipes for the eighties, due to the upcoming primary caucuses. According to the presidential hopefuls who have been swelling both the town halls and media, the eighties call for such intangibles as compassion, clear vision, commitment, and restoration of old fashioned American Pride.

Jesse Jackson, in his address to nearly one thousand people, attending the lecture sponsored by Drake's Black Student Organization on January 18, 1980, warned the audience to not be swayed by this sudden romance with Iowa. Jackson expressed his disgust with the presidential contenders because each and every one of them failed to address issues that are relevant to the concerns of Blacks in Iowa.

According to Jackson, the campaigners increased the stereotype of Iowa — all farmers and no Blacks. After exhausting farm and grain market issues, the hopefuls digressed to such trivia as "does one nomination seeker still have vigor at age 65+, can scandals be clarified, and who has charisma? In one word, "Hogwash!"

Jackson felt that the presidential hopefuls, should have addressed the critical concerns facing Blacks. He outlined:

1. South Africa. Any presidential candidate should have a clear position on South African Issues.

2. Economic Plan. When U.S. trade is imbalanced, Blacks are the first to be out of jobs. A hopeful seeking the Black vote, should have a plan for balancing imports and exports.

3. Foreign Affairs. Blacks were brought here under a foreign policy, so why put our heads in the sands now. Politicians are going to have to quit trapping people in verbal mystique and begin talking about foreign policy in a way that the most common people can comprehend.

4. Middle - East Plan. Peace in the Middle - East is dependent upon whether or not the U.S. will continue with its superior attitude toward the Palestinians.

5. Jobs. There is great need for creative leadership to generate jobs and be courageous enough to protect them.

6. Affirmative Action. Blacks should not be afraid to fight for quotas in the schools or job markets. Whites have made blacks suffer under "zero" quotas far too long.

Jackson strongly urged Blacks to vote and be visible, if any gains are to be made during the eighties. Using a very basic analogy, Jackson clarified that Blacks need to do more than show up at the game; Blacks must jump, shoot, and handle the ball with all of the wit and skill that can be mustered.

Visibility means hardwork. But, Jackson reminded that Blacks did not get off the ships asking for welfare checks! "Blacks made cotton king; Blacks built Tobacco Road and Blacks made the Detroit Industrial Belt what it is today," declared Jackson.

Concluding his high energy address, Jackson encouraged Blacks to draw upon their hard-work instinct. "Although we live in the slum, the slum does not live in us ... because We Are Somebody!" shouted Jackson, as the audience roared in agreement and rose to a standing ovation.

Community Rally On Political Awareness

by Edna Griffin
 A Political Awareness Community Rally, sponsored by the Inter-denominational Ministerial Alliance attracted a standing-room-only audience Thursday evening, January 17th at Corinthian Baptist Church.

Following introduction of members of the Alliance by the Rev. Frederick Strickland, President, the meeting began with the singing of the Negro National Anthem. The Union Baptist Church choir sang two numbers followed by Scripture, and a prayer by Rev. Lewis Grady. NAACP President Vincent Chapman briefly greeted the audience. Elder Leslie Carter, Coordinator and Consultant for P.U.S.H., introduced its national president, Jesse Jackson, Chicago, Illinois.

Rev. Jackson opened his remarks after the applause subsided, "Not everybody in Iowa is a rich farmer or white. Who could have imagined there are this many Black people in all of Iowa. There are students, unemployed, and senior citizens. We are here because we are Black. Jesse Jackson invited the audience to join him in his now famous litany, "I Am Somebody!"

A THIRD POLITICAL FORCE

Black people in America constitute a balance of political power, Rev. Jackson explained. Ten million of sixteen million Blacks eligible to vote made possible the Kennedy victory in 1960 ... Pres. Carter defeated Ford by one million seven thousand votes. "If at half-speed we are that effective, there is the possibility in 1980 of determining some crucial issues.

Hands that picked cotton in 1920 may well succeed in picking a president in 1980.

The guest speaker urged the audience to interview candidates locally and nationally on the specifics of their agendas and to let them know the requirements for receiving the Black vote. Rev. Jackson pointed out that all the candidates, in and out of Iowa, talked to each other and about each other without discussion of the needs of their constituents. Let no candidate take you for granted. Hold them accountable and signed on the dotted line, the speaker emphasized.

Jesse Jackson turned to the issue of foreign policy and asked the meaning of the attitude that foreign policy is no business of Black Americans. He reminded the audience that foreign policy brought us to these shores. Foreign policy stated in the U.S. Constitution that we were 3/5 of a person. We surely are foreign policy.

Jackson's joke about the secrecy of the State Department requiring that its members speak in 'unknown tongues' without the presence of the Holy Ghost bears watching, brought the house down. The conclusion of his references to the U.S.

State Department was, "I don't want my tax dollar going anywhere I can't go."

Turning to the subject of our young people, Jesse Jackson had this to say, "Don't pickle your brains in alcohol or with dope. Remember that the worst education is better than confinement in the best prison."

Education in the best state college costs less than $20,000. The cost of locking up one person costs from sixty to one hundred thousand dollars per year, it is estimated. Jackson declared that it costs far more to lock us up than to educate us. 3.1 million graduating seniors must demand schools, not jails.

The Black agenda must include jobs — not welfare. Any candidate without jobs on his agenda, we cannot promise any votes.

somehow, some of us must be defined in terms that will allow us to participate in the human spirit; we must not be defined by our color, but by our character; defined by our sensitivity, our willingness to sacrifice and to serve and share.

There are poor people here, urban people here, young people here. Human misery here and for the media to re-enforce the fact that nothing is out here but corn represents an unreality — untrue. We are present and accounted for.

It is important that you know that you are somebody — that you are God's child. One ought to feel good about themselves."

Those of us who would be sober — sane — sensitive and make a difference in the lives of our friends, the lives of our neighbors, our nation and our world — participate in the community; after all our real mission is to try to make the union more perfect and human beings more humane.

"Our challenge is not to be bound in the position being thrust upon us by the candidates. You have allowed yourselves to become invisible — some are invisible because you are not even registered; others invisible because you have not asserted yourself. We must not only show up for the basketball game, we must run, shoot and jump. We must not merely show up for the political game with a registration card in one hand, we must demand accountability of the candidates. We must do something other than I showed up and they passed me by.

"We must come together and express our concerns. We need not fret based upon our political numbers because might is not right, right is might. We need not be in the majority of voters to be on the proper side of history and when you identify the right side of history, God is on your side. God is your co-partner, God is undefeated — doesn't know how to lose; if we are right, God will fight our battles. We must face the right issue and be visible and unafraid — we will prevail. We must believe that.

"Any one running for President needs to answer with clarity what

Jesse Jackson Meets Black Journalists

Taking time from his busy schedule, Rev. Jackson attended a luncheon last Friday with some of the black journalists working in Des Moines. Those attending were: Cornell Fowler, Des Moines Tribune; Roxanne Evans, Tribune; Vance Hawthorne, Des Moines Register; Ruth Ann Gaines - Rhone, WHO; Donald Paul Rhone, WHO; Carolyn King, Iowa Bystander; Beverly Allen, Iowa Development Commission; David Lewis, Register, WHO Radio; Sylvester Sly Hughes, Register; Dolph Pulliam, Almo Hawkins and Michelle Parkey, KCCI.

Elder Les Carter and his wife, Brenda Carter, the Rev. Jesse Jackson and two members of his National PUSH staff, Jack Odell, Director of International Affairs and Frank Watkins, Director of Communications.

Rev. Jackson reminded us of the importance of the media and the challenge to our people is to assert themselves and get involved in the political process. He spoke briefly and responded to questions about why he went to South Africa, the image the media projects of Iowa, and why he wanted to get the black media together to talk with them. "The real challenge to you today as young journalists is to deal with the daily struggle of definitions because if they can define, they can confine and we must define the relative worth of things and be able to not only tell, but to write our story."

Rev. Jesse Jackson and Carolyn King.

There is an old saying, Every shut eye ain't sleep and every goodbye ain't gone.

I ain't gone because I want to say how very much I enjoyed the meeting at Corinthian last Thursday evening. It was a real pleasure to attend a smoothly run meeting organized by ministers working together.

Congratulations, especially to Elder Leslie Carter from one who tends to be critical of 'the Cloth'. I know how much it took for such a magnificent occasion.

Thank you and deep appreciation to Director Diedra Hoffman and the Union Baptist Choir which includes organist Terry Shane, Lucien Wyant, Anthony Hoffman, trumpets, Steve Forrester, bassist and pianists Evelyn Thomas and Andrea Sanders. I apologize for failing to get the names of singers. Please excuse it this time.

About our guest speaker, Rev. Jesse Jackson, is an excellent speaker — a spellbinder. I enjoyed his speech as much as anyone present. A vision of education, jobs for all and political clout gets the attention of everybody. Now that I've had time to think about the speech and to listen to a tape, it occurs to me that there was no mention of the threat of war and its affects upon our agenda for jobs, education and political clout.

I am not at all sure but I felt side-swiped by Elder Carter in his introduction. He seemed to feel that Jackson should not be criticized. I recall writing a column critical of the guest speaker's trip to South Africa.

I have no idea if there have been other criticisms. I do not recall seeing any in our daily press. I may have heard about it on TV. I, as well as others, want Jesse Jackson to be available and at his best for a long time.

It was good to visit with many friends whom I haven't seen since our days together in the Crocker PTA. All our children are grown and gone. I'm a wee bit jealous. Some of my friends are grandparents.

Before saying goodbye again, I must write a column about one of my favorite young men — Stevie Fields. I promised before Christmas.

My daughter, Diane, and I went by chartered bus to the windy city of Chicago on a holiday shopping spree. If you haven't been on a chartered bus of women you haven't lived — gossiping, chatting, laughing, sleeping, some juggling thermos of hot coffee, blankets, knitting, I'm sure the drivers of these buses must be of a special breed, and probably wear ear plugs.

It is an educational experience for first timers and a happy reliving of experiences for old-timers — renewing acquaintances of last year-3 yrs. ago etc.

As one dashes around the loop, hailing cabs, grabbing buses to venture out from downtown Chicago, you become swept up in a feeling of adventure and excitement of the close proximity of the BIG city and Big city ways. There are those who are fascinated with big buildings and height — Sears Tower, Prudential Building, John Hancock and Big Stan, others, like Diane and I, are more interested in the shopping plaza's Century, Watertower, etc. Of course, just as it has been for years Marshal Fields was front and center with the great tree and clever innovated and mechanised decorations.

As weary, tired shoppers, some laden down with packages others with none, piled back on the bus for the grand finale — a tour of the loop and ride down the magnificent mile, the cities lights came on giving it a dazzling, fairyland look. — Each store seemingly has tried to out do the other.

As we swung onto Lakeshore Drive and looked back one realizes beyond a shadow of a doubt that there is nothing quite like Chicago's skyline. The marina towers, Wrigley Bldg., IBM and Tribune tower all nestling along the Chicago River. As I glanced up at the Tribune building I could but wonder what the thoughts of one Jean Baptiste DeSable would be if he could see the metropolis that his humble settlement has become.

For it was on the spot where the Tribune now sets that DeSable in 1772 on the North bank of the Chicago River, set up camp and founded what is now known as Chicago.

Jean Baptiste DeSable was born in Haiti about 1745. His mother an emancipated slave, married a prosperous French merchant. Educated in France DeSable was sent to New Orleans to seek new business for their thriving company "DeSables and Son". When the war shifted New Orleans from French control to Spanish DeSable left for French controlled St. Louis to develop a bustling business with the Indians, but with Britain taking over the city, DeSable decided to move North.

1772 found him erecting a large house, opposed to a cabin, on the North bank of the Chicago River. His daughter, Suzanne, was Chicago's first born child. The hospitality of the DeSables became famous among traders passing through to Canada etc. Their dwelling and possessions were elegant for that period. The home measured 22' by 40'. He also built a bake shop, a dairy for 30 head of cows, a poultry house for 40 hens, a smoke house since he kept about 40 head of hogs, a stable for a horse and a mule, a workshop in which he kept up to date tools.

Their life-style was one of luxury — a cabinet with glass doors, a bureau, 4 tables, 7 chairs, a large feather bed, a couch, a stove, kettles, basins, coffee mill, churn etc.

Dissatisfied with land policies followed by the United States in disposing of the Northwest territory, and after the death of his wife in 1809 DeSable moved to St. Charles, Mo. Tho' affluent himself, DeSable was always interested in the plight of the slave; and often bought them in order to set them free. DeSable died in 1818.

In Oct. of 1968 the state of Illinois and city of Chicago placed a plaque near the Tribune Tower reading: "Site of the first house in Chicago. Erected in 1779 by Jean Baptiste DeSable a Negro from Santo Domingo."

While in Chicago large snow-flakes began to drift down giving the atmosphere a Christmas and holiday feel and as if the snow, and carols wasn't enough the Chestnut man could be seen dispensing his wares of warm roasted chestnuts. The slave mother used to roast chestnuts on an "open fire" and give them to the children as treats before bedtime. Try it sometime, they are good!

Look, Therefore, To This Day

By
Lynda Walker-Webster

There are often times when we feel that life has dealt us a terrible hand. There are some who feel that the cards were stacked against them from their beginning. Others may have initially had a good hand, — didn't realize just how good, — reached out to select other cards, — and threw away that which they really could have used, — perhaps even that which could have made them the ultimate winner. And then we hear of those who are so eager to "throw in the cards", not wanting to even try.

Sometimes it is not the manner in which the cards are dealt to us, but rather how we ourselves choose to deal with what we have been given.

As we look around us, it is often interesting to observe the strength and weaknesses of mankind. How individuals cope with day-to-day situations, and how we deal with crises that may arise.

We may observe the problems of another and measure them in the process, — concluding, of course, that our own problems are far worse than any other persons. There may be instances where the severity of the problem of one may indeed be greater than another. However, what we often fail to realize is that each person carries his own load in his own way.

Some can withstand the pressure of trials, and the pain of tribulations in a manner that mystifies and eludes the masses. Yet, if we would look closer at such persons, we would see in actuality, that while the silhouette of pain may remain, that the load itself had been lifted.

But, let us delve into the self. The self who bears the load in which we ourselves must come face-to-face. How well do we cope with the problems of life that we encounter? How easy do we weaken under pressure? How do we ford the streams of crises? How well do we conquer the pain of the death of a loved one?

Years ago, I personally felt that God had singled me out for a sort of endurance-type test. That is until one day I came to realize that the hurdles and obstacles that I had championed had served to make a stronger person. I realized how blessed I was, and how situations could well have been worse.

It is amazing, how at various times we conquer pain and suffering and arise victoriously from the ashes of depression and desperation. Then at other times, it is not so easy. And, we do not always arise from those ashes. At least not always victoriously!

Perhaps the victor was a problem of not being able to cope with not having enough money. Or, no money at all. Maybe you've been waiting to be called back from that lay-off. You say that your car is broken down, — or maybe just recently repossessed? Expired insurance? Overdue taxes! Utilities about to be turned off? Your son, you found out is a junkie, and your daughter is expecting any day now. Your husband has dusted you, your mother passed recently, someone you love is in prison, and a spot has been detected on your lung.

—yet, clocks keep on ticking, and — roosters keep on crowing, — and the whole world keeps right on revolving, irrespective of your every problem.

Suffering never leaves us where it finds us. We are either drawn closer toward the presence of God, or else we are driven into despair and bitterness.

We do not always understand why situations happen as they do, and so we are told that we are not to put a question mark where God has placed a period. Yet sometimes He lays the answers out right before us, and we do not recognize them for what they are.

A story that I heard several years ago gave me a very lovely perspective on the pattern of life that is to be:

When a Persian rug is being woven, the rug is stretched on a large vertical rack. The master weaver stands on one side and those who assist him, stand on the other side, and they do all of the actual weaving.

All day they stand in those same positions. The master weaver, the artist, gives the directions for the weaving, and his assistants pull the yarn. If a mistake is made, the master weaver does not undo the error, he uses his skill to create a new pattern around it. Sometimes the new pattern is more beautiful than the original.

At the close of the day, the master weaver's assistants come around to his side for the first time, to see the beautiful pattern that they wove, instead of the strands of yarn which they saw all day.

Life is much like that rug. God is our Master Weaver, and we assist Him in the pattern of our life. Yet we could not begin to understand the pattern He has created for us. Unless, of course, we could view it from over on His side.

So, when troubles get you down, — don't give up! There are brighter days ahead.

"The pattern of life to be, we weave with colors all our own.

—And in the destiny of time,
—we reap what we have sown."

your sins, confess them and forsake them.

4. Acceptance or refusal determines your destiny.

Voices Of Soul Concert

The Bethel A.M.E. Church Steward Board will feature the University of Iowa, Voices of Soul, Sunday, February 10, 1980, 5:00 p.m. at the Church.

The Voices of Soul will earmark their tenth anniversary this year. During their ten years of ministry, they have performed throughout the United States, spreading the gospel by singing spirituals and contemporary gospel sounds.

The Voices of Soul was created on the University of Iowa campus to fill the void of gospel music and the absence of the roots of the black church. Together with the Inner-Denominational Christian Connection, a mid-afternoon church service that is held every Sunday at the Wesley House, The Voices of Soul emerged as an outlet for the spirituality of the black students and community residents in Iowa City.

Director Raleigh C. Williams a candidate in the School of Music, has combined the old hymns and the contemporary gospel sound, as well as Negro Spirituals to create a moving syncopated gospel beat, often imitated by non-blacks, but very difficult to compare. Quality, performance and rhythm multiplied by character, soul and originality, characterize this 25 member choir.

The public is cordially invited to attend the spiritual performance of the Voices of Soul at Bethel A.M.E. Church.

"How oft a gleam of glory sent Straight through the deepest, darkest night, Has filled the soul with heavenly light, With holy peace and content."

Anonymous Last Sunday, the Missionary Society was fortunate to have Sister Corliss Williams as their guest speaker. She truly sparkled with wisdom on her topic, "Think On These Things". Giving a judicial perspective of the bad and the good of the seventies. Why her insight? Because, as she says, "Even tho' my parents were poor, they gave me richness in the knowledge of Jesus Christ."

For this coming Youth Sunday, Rev. Grady's sermon will be, "Caring Time". Our Minister of Music, Sister Lauretta Reeves, asks for an ALL-CHOIR REHEARSAL to render music for the 1st Sunday and 24th of February, and for Easter.

Sister Alberta Bates will be mailing out the 3rd Quarterly Conference Report Blanks to all church organizations this week.

Please have them properly processed before Quarterly Conference, February 2nd. Our Presiding Elder, Richard Smith will be very appreciative of your cooperation.

Look forward with anticipation the joyous occasions of the Laymen's Founders' Day Celebration, February 17th, and our Bishop Hubert Robinson, Prelate of the Fourth Episcopal District, visit February 24th.

It is urgent that all St. Paulians pay on their Budget Conference Claims. Please have them paid by February 24th. Important, all Stewards please be present at the Steward Board Meeting, Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Ali Holds Fundraiser For CORE

By Ora McQueen
 Muhammad Ali who is now in retirement from the boxing ring, held a fundraising event on behalf of CORE January 21. The proceeds from the event will go toward the CORE Defense Fund. Ali spoke before a large crowd at the United Nations Church Hall New York. According to the national director of CORE, Roy Innis, who was reached by phone in New York; the event was quite successful and very well attended. Innis stated "that I am quite well pleased with the outcome. It was a nice affair."

The Defense Fund will be used for the pending injunction against CORE in the state of New York. Innis made an appearance in court on January 21. Again the case was continued at the request of the Attorney General in that state. Innis is pleading for the case to be settled as soon as possible.

He is asking that the court go ahead and make formal charges against the organization or withdraw the injunction. The Attorney General is not amendable to his proposal and continues to prolong the case. As long as the case is in a pending status, it prevents the organization from raising funds in the state of New York except for defense in the pending case.

The Des Moines Chapter of CORE has established a CORE Defense Fund. A banquet is being planned for later this year to commence the event. Several well known celebrities and dignitaries have pledged money or fundraising events for the organization over the next year.

Many feel that CORE is still a viable black organization of the 1960's that is still alive and functioning in 1980. However, the pending court case has cost the organization and some of its important programs.

CORE took a "watchdog" position during the recent Precinct Caucus meetings held in Des Moines. The position was taken to insure black voters that promises made to them by either political party be kept.

CORE encouraged voters to take a close look at both parties and all candidates. Special attention was given to those candidates whose past voting record has been supportive of legislation and issues affecting the nations black citizens in a positive way.

The turnout in predominately black precincts was far greater in this year's caucus than in 1976. Greater efforts were made by several organizations in the community to involve more grassroots input. Teams from the national staff of candidates were on hand to help organize and answer questions on behalf of those soliciting the black vote.

A close look was taken at the Carter Administration for his appointments of more blacks to cabinet level positions, federal judgeships and regulatory boards and commissions than any other administration in the history of the nation.

A closer look was taken at Kennedy. There were no blacks on his campaign staff. He was criticized for voting in favor of the Death Penalty. Those that are victimized by the Death Penalty are for the most part black or poor.

The U.S. Justice Department released figures in 1978 that blacks made up 55% of those on deathrow awaiting the Death Penalty. It appears that a level of discrimination exist and uneven sentencing methods are applied to blacks. Based on a total population figure of 14% of the nations population, blacks are over represented in deathrow statistics when compared with the majority white population. With Kennedy's stand in regard to the Death Penalty and the amount of black involvement on his staff, there is a question of whether he could be sensitive to the needs of the nation's black citizens. CORE will continue to monitor the actions of all candidates until the November election. After November, CORE will serve as a pressure group to insure that promises made will be kept.

Presbyterian Self-Development Fund

The United Presbyterian Church in the USA has an on-going Mission Program to help poor and underprivileged groups of people gain some control over their destiny through a "Self-Development of People" program.

The concept of self-development of people has a profound Biblical mandate. For definition purposes, our church has determined that self-development is:

People who for the first time gain responsibility over their own lives.

People who become subjects who act, rather than objects to be acted on.

Providing resources to enable people to choose their own path.

A form of Mission where dependency upon the giver is transferred to dependency upon oneself.

The empowerment of the poor.

The growth of the whole person economically, socially, politically and spiritually.

In this context of self-development, the church has developed criteria and guidelines for requesting and granting funds.

Additional information and details will be supplied if requested. Also, members of the local committee are available for personal counseling for developing specific projects. Call 515-276-4991 or mail your request to: Iowa Area Office, United Presbyterian Church, 7020 Douglas, Suite M, Des Moines, Iowa 50322.

This program has funding limitations. Approximately $7,500 is earmarked in 1980 for Des Moines and South Central Iowa. Projects requiring more funds will be forwarded to the National Office for consideration. Projects (written proposals) must be received by Feb. 15, 1980 at the Presbyterian Headquarters in Des Moines. If counseling is needed or sought, the proposal must be received by January 15, 1980

Black Kaleidoscope: A Celebration Of Black History

The Langston Hughes Company of Players will perform a series of dramatic and musical interpretations of the black experience in honor of Black history month, "We're Strivin'".

"We're Strivin'", a gospel rendition of the struggle for inner peace and communion with God, is written and arranged by jazz and gospel singer Rose Marie Webster, who is the musical director of the production.

Works of Langston Hughes, Countee Cullen, Don L. Lee, Robert

Hayden, Martin Luther King, Jr., Gwendolyn Brooks, Margaret Walker, Jean Toomer, Fenton Johnson, Naomi Long Madgett, Voices, Inc., and several other black American writers will be featured during the performance, by players Beverly Lowery, Lucia Howell, Odell McGhee, Donna Graves, Deborah Titus, Toni Jones and Dee Anne Davis.

Technical Director, Lucia Howell will narrate the history of our beginnings as well as perform. Pam Nickerson will present a graphic presentation of slides depicting past and present leaders in our society.

An excerpt from the musical "Don't Bother Me I Can't Cope," will be performed. The song "It Takes A Whole Lot of Human Feeling," says that in the 1980's the success of black achievers is yet a growing phenomenon. Also, that the efforts made by civil rights activists and the N.A.A.C.P. for justice and equality in the 60's is still sought in the 80's.

"It takes a whole lot of human feeling to be a human being ..." let alone a black American still struggling to be free of hatred, injustice, discrimination and misunderstandings.

The performance will first be presented at the Des Moines Area XI Community College, Friday, Feb. 8, 1980 in Building 6, Auditorium, from noon til 1:00 p.m.

The Urban Campus will also feature the production, along with 1979, Little Black Des Moines and the Miss Gateway Queen, and other guests, at the Willkie House, Inc., 900 17th Street, Sunday, February 10, 1980 at 3:30 p.m. The productions are open to the public.

Census Effort To Count Blacks

Journalist and lecturer Ethel L. Payne has joined the Bureau of the Census as a writer - consultant for its racial minority programs.

The Bureau is using Payne's experience in minority affairs to enhance current programs designed to produce a complete count of the Nation's minority population in the 1980 Census of Population and Housing which begins April 1.

Winner of several national awards as a columnist, news writer, and former associate of the Chicago Daily Defender, Payne also delivered weekly commentaries for the CBS Television network opinion program, "Spectrum," from 1972 to 1978. She recently served as writer - in - residence at George Washington University.

Ms. Payne, who attended Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism, becomes the latest nationally recognized mass communications expert to join the Bureau's Census Promotion Office, created to develop broad public awareness of the 1980 census.

Doris E. Saunders, chairman of the Census Advisory Committee on the Black Population, said Payne should bring "added focus, direction, and understanding" to the Census Bureau's effort to reduce the minority undercount in 1980.

"We're delighted to see Ethel Payne come aboard," Saunders said, "It's another indication the Bureau is serious about reducing the minority undercount. It's terribly important that every minority person understand the importance of being counted in 1980."

Statistics that result from the 1980 census will be the basis for political reapportionment and redistricting, and are used to guide the distribution of an estimated $50 billion annually for more than 100 Federal programs that bring better schools, better roads, more jobs, and other benefits to communities.

To the extent that Blacks are not counted in the 1980 census, their communities may be shortchanged.

Every household in the Nation will receive a census questionnaire in the mail on March 28. People are urged to fill it out at their convenience and mail it back in the enclosed, postage - free envelope, except in some rural areas, where the instructions ask people to keep the questionnaire until a census taker arrives to pick it up.

Individual answers to the 1980 census are confidential, by law. Census workers are subject to five years in jail and/or a fine for violating that law.

CARTER ANNOUNCES YOUTH EDUCATION AND EMPLOYMENT INITIATIVE

President Jimmy Carter, citing the slogan, "a mind is a terrible thing to waste," last week announced a major new education and employment initiative designed to prepare the nation's youth for the labor market in the 1980's.

When fully implemented (it must be approved by Congress) in 1982, the initiative, plus current programs, would provide almost $6 billion for basic education, work experience and training for an estimated three million young people, most of them black and Hispanic. About half of those helped will be junior and senior high school students; the rest will be young people who are out of school, including dropouts and others who experience serious difficulty in finding and keeping jobs.

"We have seen the television portrayal of a young man sitting alone in an empty room listening helplessly to the sounds of the city outside, a world in which he cannot hope to compete," the President said to an East Room-filled audience. "We see him paralyzed, not in a physical sense, but by a lack of skill, a lack of hope.

"Too many young Americans are today afflicted by this exact kind of man-made paralysis," the President said. "Some have already left school but they lack the skills and experience to join a productive workforce. Others are still in school but lack the training and employment opportunities that will ever lead them to hopeful careers when they finish their education."

Carter said he is proposing to help these Americans through increasing the resources devoted to youth education, training and employment by $2 billion — "One point two billion dollars in our new budget (fiscal 1981) and $800 million dollars in fiscal year 1982, as the new programs take hold," he said.

Of the $6 billion program, $4 billion is in existing resources.

CARTER MARKS KING'S BIRTHDAY WITH WORDS OF PRAISE

The following is a statement by President Jimmy Carter on the January 15 birthday of Martin Luther King Jr.:

"As we celebrate the fifty - first anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther King Jr., the principles and causes for which he gave his life are being challenged at home and abroad. There have always been voices that urged violent repression. There have always been people who were willing to sacrifice others to further their own causes. Martin Luther King Jr. taught us a different lesson. He taught us to live up to our highest principles of freedom and equal justice, to love and respect the tiniest spark of humanity in the most unlovable and find ways to fan that tiny spark into a lasting flame that would light the way to a better day.

CIRALG Receives Special Job Training Grants

Gary Evans, executive director of the Central Iowa Regional Association of Local Governments (CIRALG) announced that three grants have been awarded to CIRALG for expanding and improving employment and training programs in central Iowa.

According to Evans, a $175,000 grant from the State of Iowa will be used to establish a "Job Finders Club" to help low-income, long-term unemployed and handicapped people who are receiving training in Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) programs find and keep jobs. Evans said CIRALG's application was one of nine selected from a field of twenty-five.

Evans said the project, scheduled to begin in March, is a cooperative effort by Job Service of Iowa, the Work Incentive Program (WIN), Vocational Rehabilitation of Iowa and CIRALG, and marks the first time such a coalition has been formed to provide this kind of service.

"Depending on individual need, each person in the Job Finders Club will receive from two to six weeks of training in writing resumes and applications, preparing for interviews, and keeping a job once it has been found," said Evans. He added, "Contact will be maintained between the employee and the Job Finders Club to help insure a successful adjustment to the job."

Evans also said CIRALG has received notice from the office of Congressman Neal Smith (Dem.) that the association will receive two grants from the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).

A $75,000 Displaced Homemaker Grant will be used to help homemakers who have depended upon the income of another family member and now, due to divorce, separation, death or disability, need to become self-supporting, Evans said.

This Displaced

Homemaker Grant will be directed into expanding Drake University's Project Second Start which trains displaced homemakers to find their place in the working world. Evans expects that an additional 50 to 75 persons will be served as a result.

Evans said the other DOL grant is for $85,000 and is earmarked for Public Service Employment training in weatherization skills to help meet the backlog of eligible low-income and elderly homes needing weatherization.

CIRALG is the prime sponsor of CETA programs in Boone, Dallas, Jasper, Madison, Marion, Polk, Story and Warren Counties. It is CIRALG's responsibility to apply for the disburse funds for employment and training projects in central Iowa.

CIRALG Chairman Archie Brooks said, "These three grants are representative of CIRALG's continuing effort to attract needed funds to our area and to coordinate activities with federal, state, and local agencies and institutions."

December 21, 1979: The New Chrysler Corporation is in business to stay.

On December 21, 1979, the Congress of the United States passed the Chrysler Loan Guarantee Bill.

The New Chrysler Corporation is in business to stay.

The jobs of 600 thousand workers have been saved. And so has the vitality of countless towns and cities across the country, and the existence of thousands of small businesses.

And with that act a special bond has been created between the American people and one of its major corporations. A bond that puts an obligation on The New Chrysler Corporation to turn itself around. For the sake of all those people with a direct stake in Chrysler.

And for the benefit of all Americans.

The New Chrysler Corporation

The New Chrysler Corporation is a fifty-four year old company with a new lease on life. With the best of its traditions, its accomplishments, its capacities, and its engineering intact.

It is a new management.

It is a dedicated work force.

It is a new product plan designed to provide more and more fuel efficient cars for an energy short America.

It is a new company determined to beat the competition on the basics. Better cars. Better backed. Better serviced. As a matter of fact, we have improved the quality of our delivered products by 32 percent in just the last twelve months.

You can stop worrying about Chrysler parts and service right now. The New Chrysler Corporation is in business to stay.

Chrysler has the most complete parts order system in the industry. And Chrysler backs that with the best automotive parts delivery system. With the best record for on-time deliveries.

Relative to our size, Chrysler operates the most extensive technical training program in the industry.

Chrysler is the only car company in America that offers a 5-year 50-thousand-mile extended service plan. Right now.

The New Chrysler Corporation is offering America's gas engine mileage leaders. Right now.

Plymouth Champ and Dodge Colt hatchbacks with standard 4-speed stick and front-wheel drive are America's gas engine mileage leaders.

The Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon are America's first front-wheel drive small family cars.

The Plymouth TC3 and Dodge 024 are America's first front-wheel drive sport coupes.

Chrysler has four of the top ten mileage cars. GM and Ford have none.

The New Chrysler Corporation is working day and night so America can stop waiting for high mileage cars. And start driving.

Right now.

The New Chrysler Corporation is offering America more value right now. The only 6 passenger cars for under $5000.

Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare are the only 6 passenger cars in America for under $5000. That's more than $800 less than the nearest competitive 6 passenger car. That's more value for your money than you can get from anybody else. More than GM. More than Ford. More than anybody.

And we're not talking about stripped down cars. But Aspens and Volare's with automatic transmissions, power steering, white side-wall radials and a lot more.

What we're talking about is more value for your money. From The New Chrysler Corporation. Right now.

The New Chrysler Corporation has more new cars than anyone else. Right now.

The New Chrysler Corporation introduced not one, not two, not three, but four new car lines in October, 1979.

An all new, smaller, but still luxuriously styled Cordoba. A new line of Chrysler LeBarons and Dodge Diplomats for those of you who want a smaller car that still has the feel and ride of your old big car.

And an all-new personal car, Dodge Mirada. More new cars. Right now.

Chrysler has sold more front-wheel drive cars than GM. More than Ford. Even Datsun and Toyota.

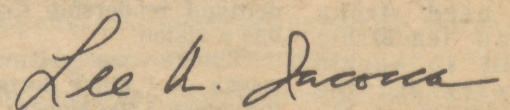

Chrysler introduced front-wheel drive to American small cars two model years ahead of the GM X cars.

And Chrysler is planning to be America's first all front-wheel drive automobile company.

The New Chrysler Corporation must make it in the marketplace. And we must make it against whatever odds.

America has given The New Chrysler Corporation breathing space.

Now watch us go.

Lee A. Iacocca
Chairman, The New Chrysler Corporation
