Works In Progress Tour Of Alexander Clark Home

by Aldeen Davis

Some 200 people recently enjoyed a unique open house in the Mississippi River town of Muscatine, Iowa — a "Works in Progress" open house at the Alexander Clark house.

Many readers may remember the 1975 controversial issues concerning the big double house of the late Alexander Clark, local Black pioneer churchman, statesman, and Liberian consulate. Should it or should it not be saved?

The Cedar Rapids chapter of LINKS (a national organization of Black women concerned with Black historical preservation) headed by Mrs. Reid Motely, felt it should. Necessary steps were taken in 1976 to get the home placed on the National Registry of Historic Places. It was then moved from its original site at third and Chestnut to its present site, 204 W. Third.

It soon became apparent that this undertaking was going to be a more momentous struggle than anticipated; a fact that necessitated the LINKS abandonment of the idea and the end of a dream to have a Black studies center, a Black history museum, a dormitory for foreign and minority students or some similar use.

Although the Links were forced to sell the property, all was not lost, because Kent Sissel a Muscatine architectural consultant, was interested in preserving the house, for a number of reasons, but primarily because he felt Muscatine had lost too many buildings with architectural beauty, to the wrecking ball and he could not bear to see another destroyed.

So in 1979 Mr. Sissel purchased the house and began restoring it. From the beginning there were many mixed feelings through out the community including some city officials about the feasibility of such an undertaking. But, nevertheless, Mr. Sissel proceeded with the project — not an easy job ... Over the past year many "side walk superintendents" have stopped by to watch the progress being made on the restoration and rehabilitation of the home making positive and supportive remarks.

"The project has been time-consuming but especially rewarding, and the house is almost to the point where we no longer remember the mess that we started with." Said Mr. Sissel, "So before we all forget I thought it appropriate to have the house open

Debate Sexual Freedom And The Black Woman

Is the new movement toward sexual freedom creating a sexually irresponsible black woman?

That question was the topic of a lively debate at the Willkie House, Wednesday June 4. It featured Ora McQueen, chair of the Des Moines Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and Cecilia Johnson, executive director of the Des Moines Human Rights Commission as panelists arguing the negative.

Affirmative panelists were Khadija Hanif and Cynthia Jabbar, both members of the World Community of Al-Islam with the local masjid. Kelly Evans, former Assistant Director of the Willkie House, was coordinator and moderator of the debate.

The McQueen - Johnson panel argued that the sexual liberation movement was creating a more responsible woman rather than an irresponsible woman. They held that today's black woman has a freedom of choice and consent and must have a multi-facted role in combating racism and sexism in America.

Johnson said there was a difference between sexual "freedom" and sexual "openness."

The Hanif - Jabbar team argued that by virtue of living in a society that condones loose morals and with the media constantly bombarding the mind with sexually seductive messages, black women were becoming more sexually irresponsible. They contended the family was suffering, along with black unity, as a consequence.

McQueen noted that there are pressures on black women to uphold the image of being a "pillar of strength," when society's deck is stacked against her.

She added that statistics show that women make half the wages of men and is viewed as "an actress on stage, observed by everyone" with expectations to perform sexually, support a family, and other

I ran into this fellow who thinks of himself as a student of politics. He wanted to know where black folks were going to go now that they had a choice between Reagan and Carter. He said that one was a carbon copy of the other.

You try to think back to the days when "Dutch Reagan was a sportscaster for WHO. I recall he got very upset when he heard the rumor, true or not, that the Minnesota fans were putting up a prize to the player who knocked Ozzie Simmons out of the Iowa-Minnesota football game. And they were favored to win the game if Iowa had played three Ozzie Simmons.

He got angry when he thought the Gophers were unnecessarily rough on Simmons so at that time he came across as a fellow who thought about people instead of race or color.

But then he went out to Hollywood and I would guess became insulated against blacks or just about any other people who were minorities. So he became governor, and got reelected. I am told that blacks supported him, but I have yet to hear it from anybody from out in California. We know that he launched his campaign for President in California by running against welfare, a theme that was very popular among working people of all races, but which may suddenly hit home now as job layoffs increase.

He went around the country talking about a "welfare queen" who bilked the system out of hundreds of thousands of dollars. People who were about seventy percent against any form of welfare because they thought most welfare recipients were black, ate it up. but now, in spite of the talking about welfare cheaters among the recipients, we are beginning to see white collar welfare cheaters. Doctors, dentists, and other merchants and professional people have made the money chiseled off by cheating cases seem like peanuts.

And, so far, not too much has been done about it except to expose them to the public, but they seem to go right on with their ways.

But, still we will have to think that will be a popular theme in the coming election campaign. And this time it will be interesting to see how the Democrats handle the thing they have hammered on for so long, unemployment, broken promises by the administration and such. The issues are likely to get a good airing by the Republicans, John Anderson and anybody else who thinks he is running against Carter, which most of the people running for Congress will be doing.

Carter will be dodging among the issues like a rabbit in a cornfield trying to outrun a fox. Don't know where he will wind up, but you had a sample of the powers of an incumbent president when he got the Mayors convention to set back the speech of Ted Kennedy because they need money and they knew they would get none from Carter if they didn't grant this wish.

These are all the ideas of my friend, but I happen to be in sympathy with most of them, so much in fact, that I just might sit out the presidential campaign and vote on the state and county elections.

I wonder how many black people feel like this? And if we don't vote, will Reagan win? probably yes, and then let's see what we have up in Washington for four years.

REDLINING AND URBAN REVITALIZATION: PROPOSALS FOR CHANGE BUILDERS, REALTORS AND THE NEIGHBORHOODS THEMSELVES

FOR THE NEIGHBORHOODS:

(1) Lenders and savings associations involved in the efforts of urban revitalization should encourage the development of neighborhood organizations and should work with them in finding and implementing solutions to local urban problems; Each individual neighborhoods' problems may be similar in causation, but not necessarily in practice, effect and extent, so that lenders and savings associations should work actively on the local level to tailor the resources available for revitalization to the specific needs of the community and promote these neighborhood organizations in the process towards solutions.

(2) Cities should also encourage the growth of neighborhood organizations, not only through the application of available federal or other funding to their efforts, but also through the utilization of its existing facilities and resources to supplement their activities.

(3) All participants in the rehabilitation process should support the National Neighborhood Policy Act, which was designed to stimulate the organization and growth of community-based organizations.

(4) Much effort must be expended in selecting the particular neighborhoods in which to work, because not all urban areas are in such a condition as to be amenable to rehabilitation, and that money and energy expended in such an area would be wasted;

This is not to say that all central-city neighborhoods are not in desperate need of help in revitalizing, but that housing and commercial property in some areas may be so far gone that it would be more economical to remove it and construct new housing units with the available financing that to attempt to rehabilitate that existing. Money and energy toward the rehabilitation of existing housing and commercial property should be concentrated in areas with older but essentially sound structures which are most in need of such efforts. In areas with totally delapidated and structurally unsound buildings, new housing, as opposed to rehabilitated existing properties, should be worked upon.

Des Moines, in this regard, has gone relatively far in this selection process. The City has designated six "Prime Service Areas" for such rehabilitation and new construction, applied for available federal funding, encouraged and supported community groups within each of these neighborhoods and developed a schedule for the revitalization of each of them, based upon estimates of the CDBG funding available. It has also taken steps to stimulate residents' interest in the rehabilitation process and provided a variety of needed services to them which, without the federal funding, would not likely be possible. The planning schedule, which also includes the commercial properties in many areas, will first focus attention on the Logan area, one off the "Prime Service Areas" so designated, and contracts for that work are just beginning to be offered for bids. This work should make great strides in the redevelopment of these older neighborhoods, in which a majority of the city's minority, poor and handicapped residents are located, but only time will show the success or failure of the efforts made. Other cities have progressed quite far in this regard, so it is time for Des Moines to show the world what it can do.

(5) Great care must be taken to encourage and facilitate the involvement of all interested parties, whether neighborhood residents or not, in the rehabilitation process, because planning from the "top" down is clearly the wrong way to do it; The basic impetus in the process must originate in the areas themselves and continue to give it the vitality it needs to have to succeed, and all participants must be kept aware of how they can be most effective. Without organization, coordination and cooperation between and among all involved, nothing can really succeed.

Next week, I will look to recommendations aimed at eliminating the practice and lasting effects of redlining in the insurance industry, whose support in the revitalization process is crucial.

A Black Look At Politics

William S. Morris

With election time rolling around in the coming months, black Americans must again evaluate the potential role they can play in close campaigns. Republican candidate Ronald Reagan and President Carter are preparing for a tough, drawn-out, fight to the death.

With the economy in a tailspin, and U.S. foreign policy being assailed worldwide, the race between Reagan and Carter is sure to be neck-and-neck. The choices this election year may not seem very good, but at least they are ideologically clear, for blacks in particular.

On the one hand there is the 69-year-old Reagan, who, despite his efforts to change his image, remains a dyed-in-the-wool arch conservative who borders reactionism. The former California Governor wants to return this country to the days when our misguided "gun boat diplomacy" went unchallenged, and damn what the rest of the world thinks of us.

Aside from being totally absurd, this strategy could easily embroil the U.S. in another Vietnam-style military conflict. What many political observers fail to recognize is that Ronald Reagan has absolutely no experience in foreign policy, nor in dealing with Congress and the Federal bureaucracy.

In these respects, he closely parallels Jimmy Carter during his bid for the Presidency in 1976. Like Carter, Reagan is a former state governor, and will likely come under attack for being "another President we will have to train", which was, a few months ago, one of the main Republican criticisms of the current Chief Executive.

In a recent address to the National Conference of Mayors in Seattle, Reagan stated that, (if elected,) he would like to terminate all Federal aid to cities. Instead, Reagan would simply turn over some as yet unspecified source of tax revenue directly to the cities, to spend as they saw fit.

One problem with this approach is the likelihood of fraud and mismanagement of funds by local officials. Remember, Reagan is an old "states rights" advocate, and, as we all know, the fifty states have traditionally been the most flagrant violators of minority civil rights throughout American history.

Without some Federal guidelines and direction, state and city officials could take these funds and use them for partisan purposes, to the detriment of blacks and the poor. True, many of the nations largest cities have black mayors, but they are all pro-Carter Democrats (as opposed to the Republican Reagan).

Corruption also does not respect racial distinctions, as former Congressman Charles Diggs can attest to.

Ronald Reagan has never been known as a great supporter of black civil rights nor of affirmative action. He came out in support of the Supreme Courts "Bakke" decision, opposes busing for purposes of school desegregation, wants to curtail the food stamp program and jobless benefits, and wants to eliminate Federally-sponsored job training programs for the terminally unemployed.

Reagan advocates a balanced Federal budget, and is generally seen as anti-minority, by and large. Even his wife Nancy would go along with this, her "look at all the nice white people" comment notwithstanding.

Similarly, one of Reagan's foreign policy advisors, a member of an Eastern research institute, is recommending that the U.S. lift its arms embargo on South Africa. The rationale behind this obviously racist move is that this country should be more concerned with South Africa's economic and military security. Most of the world's diamond and gold supplies are found in South Africa, thus the last

A Female Focus On The Issues

Peggy Spates Johnson

The past few weeks have been extremely eventful ones for blacks on numerous fronts and I'd like to comment on some of these. Well, Jimmy Carter finally ambled down to Miami to offer trite, "chump change" programs to the blacks suffering from "The sweltering heat of oppression" as Dr. King once categorized it.

Naturally, he was booed and picketed by irate people of color—and I say it is about time. I truly think Iran, Afthanistan and the Cuban refugee crisis has loosened a few screws in our presidents head. Does he not remember that he would not even be in the White House were it not for the black vote?

How could he possibly ignore the plight and issues involving minorities? — unemployment, lack of decent housing and good schools, the decaying inner cities and shut down of federal programs geared to help rebuild the former — for so long? How could Carter fly to Washington to survey a volcano while black human beings are being raped, shot and beaten to death by the gestapo-like police force of Miami? While Miami burned, Carter fiddled.

Unfortunately, at the same time, Senator Kennedy's campaign has floundered even though he has continually addressed those issues important to blacks. As one of his backers lamented, "It's just not popular to be liberal these days." Regardless of his personal crises, Senator Kennedy is indeed an old school liberal and with the majority of white voters taking a turn to the political right he seems to be out in the cold; while President Carter chooses political expediency rather than human needs.

I just hope more cities and more black lives won't have to be sacrificed to show America that things haven't changed much since Watts, Detroit and Newark.

The FBI has finally forced Margaret Coleman out into the open and recorded her version of Vernon Jordan's near assassination without much success to the investigation. Mrs. Coleman, the white woman companion of Jordans the night of his shooting, is bemoaning the innuendoes and numerous hate letters coming her way—too bad.

If she was as concerned with tracking down the racist who shot Jordan as much as her supposed reputation besmeaching she would have spoken to federal officials sooner.

It is indeed unfortunate that sexual stereotypes concerning black men and white women held over from the southern days of the civil rights movement continue to split the solidarity of the struggle for justice for our people. I found it highly ironic that police officials immediately denied racial overtones when the news of Jordans shooting hit the air waves.

Just as soon as the news did come out, Blacks in Fort Wayne bemoaned the racism in their city. I'm surprised rioting did not break out—Indiana is still Klan country to me.

Last, it seems when people die, their sins no matter what are forgiven. Racism is unforgivable to me. So when Russ LaVine died last week it annoyed me to hear DM leaders lauding his years in city government. Am I the only person who remembers his race baiting and sickeningly facisi radio programs or his turning his back on his Jewish heritage? — I hope not.

Named Honorary Chairman of NAACP Freedom Fund Banquet

Robert E. Lee, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Iowa-Des Moines National Bank has been named Honorary Chairman of the National Association for the Advancement of of the Des Moines Branch of the NAACP.

This year, the Freedom Fund Banquet will be held on Friday, September 26 at the Des Moines Hilton Inn, Fleur Drive in conjunction with the 65th anniversary of the Des Moines Branch.

Robert Lee, a native of Great Falls, Montana, joined the Iowa-Des Moines, Iowa's largest bank, as President and Chief Operating Officer in May, 1979. He was named President and Chief Executive Officer in February, 1980. Previously, he served as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Old National Bank in Spokane, Washington.

Active in community affairs, Mr. Lee serves as a Director of the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, the Iowa Methodist Medical Center, YMCA, Mid-Iowa Council of Boy Scouts, and Des Moines Development Corporation; and he is a member of the Greater Des Moines Committee. Saadq Seeks Congressional Seat

Kalonji Saadiq announced his candidacy for the U.S. House of Representatives from District 4 on the Socialist Party ticket at the Saturday press conference June 7th at the Justice and Peace Center, 8th & Indiana, Des Moines. Saadiq was introduced to TV and news reporters by Chairperson Frank Cordaro as a well known community activist.

Saadq explained that his primary purpose for running is to acquaint people with the Socialist Party platform and to press incumbent Neal Smith to let all the people in the 4th district know his position on major issues. "Neither Republicans nor Democrats are addressing the issues of unemployment, human needs and a balanced budget or the Ku Klux Klan. Saadiq believes once the people are acquainted with the platform of the Socialist Party, "it will become acceptable to be a "pinko." Socialism, USA Saadiq continued, is uniquely American rather than patterned after Maoist, Russian or Cuban view. I am seeking a majority of votes in the inner city and a substantial increase throughout the 4th Iowa district."

After the applause died down, Socialist Vice Presidential candidate Sister Diane Drufenbrock welcomed and congratulated Saadiq before turning to a definition of socialism as democracy in what we do and say.

Heads Of Black Organizations Meet On Council Vacancy

By C. King

The Coalition of Minority Organizations in Des Moines recently met and selected four minority candidates to be considered for the vacancy on the City Council created by the death of Councilman Russ LaVine. Larry Carter, Chairman, did not confirm the names of the persons.

Representatives from the coalition met with Mayor Pete Crivaro and expressed interest that he might consider someone from the minority community to fill the vacant position and presented to him the names of the individuals.

The four individuals believed to be selected were: Robert King, Chairman of the Central Advisory Board, Wes Chapman, Director Office Intercultural Affairs for the Des Moines Public Schools System, Catherine Williams, Deputy Commissioner, Iowa Dept. of Social Services and Willie Glanton, Attorney for the Small Business Administration.

Other names have been submitted by the overall community and attempts at press time were being made to submit a petition to the City Council at their June 16 meeting.

If this referendum is put together, the council still has the right and authority to go ahead and select an individual to serve until such time as the special election could be held; probably in September or at the general election in November.

thing white people want is for blacks to regain control of the area.

For the next two weeks I will be examining the three major candidates for the Presidency. Since Republican Ronald Reagan has taken up most of this weeks column. I shall devote next week to the many shortcomings of President Carter, both in foreign and domestic policy.

Then, I may opt for an associate of mine to write a guest column on the independent candidacy of Illinois Congressman John Anderson, who is perhaps the only real alternative to President Carter for blacks this year.

Getting back to former Governor Reagan, while it may be that his conservative bark is worse than his bite, blacks had better have nothing to do with him. With the race between he and President Carter likely to be a close one, the black vote could, if sufficiently strong, swing the election one way or the other. With political forecasters predicting a snarpy curtailed voter turnout this fall, due to widespread political apathy, and with white voters sharply divided, if black Americans mobilize for a maximum turnout, we could prove the decisive element, just as we were in 1976.

Blacks gave Jimmy Carter the edge he needed to narrowly defeat Gerald Ford four years ago, and we could do so again. Registration is one prerequisite, and transportation for the elderly and disabled is another.

While elected decision-makers no longer have the control over policy formulation and implementation that they used to, it is still important for blacks to flex political muscle whenever and wherever they can, especially in an age of increasing political conservatism.

It was the turning point — the light at the end of the tunnel — It was D-Day History was made that day 35 years ago June 6, on Normandy Beach. War was being waged some 20 years after the "biggie" of 1918 — the war that was to end all wars!

Black and white blood spilled, flowed and darkened the battlefields, an equalizer that recognized no skin superiority. Welcome or unwelcome blacks have served in all the wars, in all branches of the service.

Segregation was the rule rather than the exception. World war 2 found a lessening of this injustice under Pres. Truman who, only because of pressure brought to bare by such black leaders as the late A. Philip Randolph, Walter White and Roy Wilken along with Justice Thurgood Marshal etc. issued an Executive Order (rather belatedly, 1948) directing equality of treatment and opportunity in the armed forces.

The Navy was by and large the most discriminatory. Ironically it was a Negro seaman, Dorie Miller, who was trained to serve white officers as a steward, who siezed an anti - aircraft gun from a dying gunner and shot down 4 Japanese bombers on that day of infamy — Dec. 7!

The Air Force, despite people like Sec. of War Henry Stinson and Frank Knox Sec. of the Navy who did not believe black Americans were capable of using sophisticated warfare equipment or, unless they had "blue eyes" could fly a plane, showed the least amount of prejudice. But along with the announcement that blacks would be trained as pilots came the news that it would be a segregated training at Tuskegee Army Air Field.

Appointments and commissions are slow in coming to blacks in all branches of service. It took 30 years for Benjamin O. Davis to make brigadier general of the army. There has been several black West Point graduates but with such leave rage of grandeur it did not always open doors Charles Young was a classic example of black supression.

Henry O. Flipper was the first West Point graduate, graduating in 1877. 1889 found Charles Young graduating as second lieutenant with a bachelor of science. He served as a cavalry officer in Cuba, Mexico, Haiti and Liberia...28 years later Young was made a colonel, and it was here in 1917 at the brink of world war one that the war dept. found Col. Young suffering from "high blood pressure" and MUST be retired.

Young contested the army's decision with the help of many protest from the Negro populus. In spite of all the evidence to the contrary he was retired. But the fight continued and Young was recalled to active duty and given token assignments; including one to Liberia, where he died.

The impersonal treatment of Young impelled Negro leaders to press the government for officer - training programs for Negro candidates. As a result an all - Negro officers training school was established at Fort Des Moines, Iowa — with the commandants position given to a WHITE colonel!!!!

There have been many jokes about army chow and the mess hall but U.S. military don't fare too badly. Ginger bread and applesauce is probably one of the popular desserts.

Here's a Ginger Bread recipe.

3 C. flour, 1/2 C. sugar, 2 t. baking soda, 1/2 t. salt, 2 t. ginger, 1 1/2 t. cinn., mace, and nutmeg, 2 eggs, 1 C. sour milk, 1 C. molasses, 1/2 C. melted shortening, 1 C. raisins. Sift together all dry ingredients and raisins added. In a separate bowl beat eggs until light, add sour milk, molasses, and melted shortening. Combine mixtures. Beat until smooth and light. Pour into 9x12 pan bake in 350 oven until center springs back when pressed with finger.

Annual Evans Family Reunion

May 26, 1980 marked the 50 year anniversary of the annual Evans Family memorial day reunion at Union Park.

This yearly tradition was born out of a philosophy that stressed the values of family strength and unity.

The first reunion was prompted by an unfortunate event — the death of Nellie Evans, daughter of Jennie Roman Evans and sister of Roberta Evans Frazier, Everdell Evans McGregor, Elmer, Harold and Frank Evans by drowning. But the spirit of the Evans family took that misfortune and used it to create a beautiful family tradition.

In Nellie's memory, mother Jennie decided that the family should meet every year at Memorial Day — as a celebration of life. The meeting was to include decorating the graves of loved ones and to give the Evans family time to reflect on its past.

And the past of the Evans family is well-worth reflecting on.

Nancy Coleman White was born in Kentucky in slavery. At age 5, she was put on the block to be sold into slavery. Her master spared her that cruel fate when he said to the auctioneers "Nancy's not for sale."

Nancy grew up, married and moved to Buxton where her and other family members operated a restaurant for many years. After the Evans' left Buxton and moved to Des Moines, they became known for their generosity. Hobos who frequented the railroads near Astor Avenue where the Evans' lived were always guaranteed a meal there during their travels.

The spirit of the togetherness of the Evans' family was very much in evidence Sunday. Family members enjoyed each others company and spent the day playing horseshoes, baseball, having a tug of war, playing volleyball, and in general having a good time and enjoying good company and food.

Branches of the Evans family, which now includes Hunts, Fraziers, McGregors, Williams, Baileys and countelss others, came from near and far to the annual event.

In 1980 the Evans clan is over 200 strong. There have been some changes, but one thing remains unchanged — the desire to get together with one's loved ones and enjoy good food and good company.

Strokes And Folks

Edna Griffin

It's 'cloud nine' time for me, I'm so pleased about two or three things. I no longer have to spend time in the dentist's chair I feel like I'm somebody. A holiday in my honor should be declared at least in the city!

You would have been proud last Saturday of our young rebel, Kalonji Saadiq at the press conference where he formally announced his candidacy for fourth district candidate on the Socialist ticket for U.S. House of Representatives. Dignity itself, charming without any need for playing the clown.

I must say that because I have been "on his case" a time or two. Everytime I hear him speak in the future I want to learn something about the Socialist Party, its platform and how it can be achieved. Not political hot air!

In the midst of a steady stream of bad news, I appreciate every bit of good news as worthy of celebration. I came away from the first meeting in preparation for a multicultural event this summer that I found inspiring in spite of the hard work involved to bring it to life. There are a number of positive things happening all around us if we pay attention.

The Langston Hughes Company of Players are appearing at the First Unitarian Church June 21st and 22nd. They will also perform at Tiny Tot Irving Center June 23rd. The play is "Johannas." I plan to attend.

Just to be sure I don't get carried too far from reality on 'cloud nine.' I heard about Ye Olde Shell Game concerning appointment to the City Council to fill the vacancy created by the late Russ Lavine. The response to a list of proposed Black candidates is we probably can appoint someone from the list to complete the unfinished term of two months providing the person chosen agrees not to run at the next election!

We can be very proud of the Black Coalition. They turned down the offer which violates past procedures! It may happen that a search with a magnifying glass throughout the city for one Black to accept the condition will be made. Whatever takes place, it would make history if we prepare for the next election of an agreed upon candidate. I think it can be done.

This is the month of weddings and graduations. A niece from law school in Atlanta, Ga. We didn't get our invitation in time to plan to go. June is also the month of babies it seems! I haven't bought presents for the weddings yet, but I did buy a new dress for the occasions.

I cannot get by another season without buying shoes. My very best one are holding together with single threads. Not even I dare to wear tennis shoes with an elegant dress. How about laid back bare foot. Now that would really be more of a sensation than matching tennis shoes, wouldn't it?

HEAVENLY TEMPLE CHURCH

Heavenly Temple aints are enjoying the presence of GOD more and more. And on Sunday morning after the pastor (Bishop Carter) came forth and testified, the church "Went up in a great shower of praise to GOD" Visitors came saying, "We are looking for a church!"

Bishop Carter lifted his hands toward heaven and cried, "LOOK NO FARTHER!" Again the house went up in thunderous applause! After the two visitors came forth and joined the church (both in the "shout" and in m.a.e the pastor began to teach under the anointing of GOD.

HOLLINESS: is something you have to be Taught! for said many ministers have a zeal, but have not been taught . . . After being in Holiness about TWENTY years you then begin to know what it's all about . . . The disciples were there when Jesus gave a woman back her son, they were there when Jesus called forth Lazerus from the grave . . . They were three when the man lame from birth was healed, and the woman with the issue of blood touched him . . . THEY WERE THERE! RIGHT THERE! But still did not know who Jesus was.

It was not until he was hanging on the cross of Calvary, not until the sun went out! and the moon dripped down in blood . . . then SOMEWHERE WITHIN THE darkness of the hills, men cried out SURELY! his deciples whispered SURELY HE MUST BE THE SON OF GOD! Then he announced his text: Acts 16:30 WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED! His subject was: TAKE MY CLOTHES OFF. BEAT ME SO I CAN WORK FOR YOU! YOU saints need to pray to GOD to "TAKE MY CLOTHES OFF, BEAT ME THE DEVIL OUT OF ME, SO I CAN WORK! SO I can work for your LORD.

We enjoyed the presence of elder Leslie Carter from Washington D.C. on Sunday, and a lovely childrens day program under the leadership of sister Linda Carter. Mother Lillian Watson (church mother) prepared a lovely repass for the children at "coffee-break" time.

We thank GOD for mother Ruby Evans beautiful recuperation, after a short stay in the hospital . . . We know that GOD is with her for we remember the preparation that Bishop

Carter had the saints to make, for times like these . . . WE ARE SAYING STILL, WHEN YOU THINK OF HEAVEN, THINK OF HEAVENLY TEMPLE CHURCH, AND IF YOU ARE WANTING TO KNOW HOW TO MAKE READY, THEN STOP BY HERE. IF YOUR SOUL NEED A BLESSING CHILD, STOP BY HERE . . . MAY GOD BLESS YOU AND MAY ALL YOUR TROUBLES BE CAST UPON HIM, BECAUSE HE CARES FOR YOU . . . SEE YOU IN CHURCY SUNDAY . . .

"Was I not girded for the battle'field?
Bore I not helm of pride and glittering sword?
Behold the fragments of my broken sheild,
And lend to me Thy heavenly armor, Lord."

The Womens' Day Program was magnificent at St. Paul Church, last Sunday. We were treated with a rendition of a reading, "Spectrum Of Love", by Marion and Corliss Williams. Dr. C.T. Vivian, Acting director of SCLC, supported the theme: "Androgyny: Women & Men Working Together." He was dynamic in relating the need of developing one's mind toward the thinking of Jesus which transcends the value and usefulness of woman in this cultural and political world.

We hope that many of you will have attended the Appreciation Program for Rev. Grady Friday evening. This Sunday, on Father's Day, will be another Appreciation Program for our Pastor. Mrs. Ora McQueen will be the Guest Speaker. She is qualified and familiar with his interests.

She has worked in the Department of Corrections Services as a Corrections Case Worker at the Women's Residential Facilities and as a Pre-sentence Investigator. At present, she is a Resident Counsellor for the YMCA Boys Home in Johnston. She is chapter Chairperson of C.O.R.E. Ms. Diane Banks will be showing her musical artistry with song and at the organ.

An Appreciation Dinner will follow the Morning Worship Services. At this time, a Money Tree will be exhibited under the auspices of sisters ildred Graves and Lavenia Henderson.

To be true friends between one another, you double and redouble the cord of attachment to make a closer and stronger bond, and then tie the ends with affection, so the relationship won't slip or fade away.

MT. HEBRON BAPTIST CHURCH

God made man in his own image; therefore, man is very special. God gave us Men for a special purpose, men to be the breadwinners of the world, men to be fathers of the human race, to fight dangers, and to uphold truths. On Father's Day, we like to think of our own fathers and the happiness, they have brought to our lives.

Jesus taught us to look upon God as our Heavenly Father, ever ready to hear our Prayers and petitions. If we have been blessed with a wonderful Christian father, then we have a little taste of what our Heavenly Father is like. Sunday June 15th is Father's Day. In commemoration of our earthly fathers, the Mt. Hebron Men's Chorus, will present our annual Father's Day Program, at 4 p.m.

The J.M.H. Choir, proudly presents Mr. Gregory Richardson, talented musician and songwriter, from Chattanooga Tenn., in a musical recital, Sunday June 22nd at 3:30 P.M. We anxiously invite you to attend this Spiritual event. sis. Luvenia Jones, Choirmother, Bro. Larry Estill, Musician.

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

The New Friendship COGIC is yet praising God from whom all blessings flow. We were in fellowship on last week at our State Headquarters in our State Sunday School Convention, where we enjoyed Jesus and one another.

On Sunday morning a beautiful Adult Sunday School lesson was taught by Evangelist D. Reasby on Manessas and Josiah Truly Elder Reasby taught the lesson under the anointing of the Holy Spirit. The Sanctuary Choir under the direction of Sis. C. Daye sung two beautiful songs, entitled God So Loved the World and Jesus Christ is the Way.

Sis. D. Banks rendred beautiful music on the organ. Our morning speaker was our own Evangelist Missionary Mo. E. Alexander. On Sunday afternoon, Sis. Daye and Banks were special guests at the second Anniversary musicale of the Corinthianes at Corinthian Baptist Church.

Pastor Daye is encouraging the Saints to Pray without ceasing because Time is winding up. If we want to be ready to meet the Master, we must prepare our hearts and minds thru prayer and fasting.

On Tuesday evening our Bible study group will be in session at 7:30 p.m., please come and enjoy Jesus with us. On Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. the Mothers

Appreciation Services For Rev. Grady

The members of St. Paul AME Church are sponsoring Appreciation Services for their pastor Rev. Lewis E. Grady; beginning Friday, June 13 and culminating Sunday, June 15th. Under the direction of Rev. Grady, St. Paul Church has emerged victoriously from serious crisis as a result of a fire which nearly destroyed the structure.

In his efforts to maintain the spiritual morale and togetherness of the congregation, he held steadfast against the struggles and criticism that an individual becomes vulnerable to in the time's of upheaval. In spite of insurmountable odds, St. Paul AME Church overcame one of the most traumatic incidents of its time with the demonstrated tenacious leadership of

Rev. Grady.

When Rev. Grady joined St. Paul he was well known to the members. From 1970-72, he served as the assistant Pastor. Other pastoral experiences were: Assistant Pastor, Asbury AME Church Louisville, Kentucky; Assistant Pastor, Shaffer Chapel, AME Church, Chicago, Illinois; Pastor Wayman AME Church, Wheeling, West Virginia; Pastor, St. James AME Church, Troy, Ohio; Assistant Pastor, St. Stephen AME Church, Detroit, Michigan; Pastor, Lewis Chapel, AME Church, Albion, Michigan.

His work experience indicates that he has taught school for the Chicago Public School System; and taught Afro - American Religion at both Drake University, Des Moines and Central College, Pella, Iowa. Presently, he is the Chaplain consultant at the mens reformatory, Anamosa, Iowa. He has also been a guest lecturer at the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Rev. Grady received his B.S. degree from North Carolina A and T State University, Greensboro, North Carolina. He also attended Payne Theological Seminary, Wiberforce, Ohio. He is presently working toward a Doctor of Ministry Degree from San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, California.

Being of civic and fraternal mind he holds membership in the Mason's and Omega Psi Phi Fraternal organizations. He served the country in the U.S.

Rev. Lewis Grady

Air Force, Airman First Class and was a 1/ Lt. in the U.S. Army.

Rev. Grady is also a family man. He is married to the former Laura Smith and is the father of five children.

Sunday, May 11, Mother's Day, was May Crowning at St. Peter's Catholic Church, E. 18th and Des Moines Streets. This is an annual event in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The Queen of May crowning is selected from eighth - grade girls.

Peggy Spates Johnson

As I begin this article, Richard Pryor lies critically injured in a Sherman Oaks Calif. hospital. It seems fate has been particularly cruel to our most gifted black stars — Billie Holliday, Dinah Washington, Paul Robeson, Bessie Smith, Bill Bojangles Robinson, Jimi Hendrix and others.

Pryor supposedly told his doctors that the 3rd degree burns he suffered were caused by his "free basing" habit—mixing cocaine and ether, when the combination exploded.

I realize being in the fast paced and frantic world of show business has its pit falls and harsh rejections—coupled with the discrimination all blacks suffer in America, the combination can be mind boggling. But I wish black people who use drugs would realize that dope is another means by which the racist power structure in our land keeps blacks "in their places" and under the formers' thumb.

Dope cripples minds, destroys lives and keeps blacks weak economically. I also wish Richard Pryor would realize his own brilliance, how much we, his fans, love and admire his talent and channel his anger and pain into helping black kids fight poverty and "ghetto" conditions.

Besides being a fantastic performer, Pryor is a truly kind man who has given considerable time and energy to various causes and charities. I know all our prayers are with him: that he will finally be able to kick his habit; that he will survive and bounce back to make us all laugh again.

On a much brighter and lighter note last Saturday evening my daughter and I enjoyed one of three performances by students of the Betty Hill Studio. Surprising to me, the Civic Center was packed—with supportive associates, friends and relatives of the young performers ranging in age from 3 to senior high graduates.

Unfortunately, 95% of the dancers were females. It seems the old stereotype about boys as dancers still prevails. (Note: Len Swanns' mother made him take dancing for 14 years and he's no "Sissy.")

At any rate, the 60 or so dance numbers ranged from "Spring Bunnies" with the little ones spritely hopping around the stage stealing everyone's hearts to bouncy tap routines to the more classic toe dancing attempts of the older students. The costumes for such a large aggregation of youngsters (a couple hundred?) were darling and looked flawless from where I sat.

Danielle and I particularly enjoyed spotting friends and acquaintances doing their 'things' in the numbers—Makeeda and Mali Reed, Ayana Williams, Kish Harris, Kristin Boggs and others. All very cute little girls.

Betty Hill doesn't produce the Barishnikovs or Alvin Aileys of the dance world but she does seem to instill spirit, confidence, a healthy love of the arts and dance and a lot of fun for her students. After sitting through an agonizing hour of singing along with records and "stomping" by black kids at my school's final talent show I longed for more minority parents to give their kids lessons - drama, ballet, tap and toe, acrobatics and gymnastics and musical instruments.

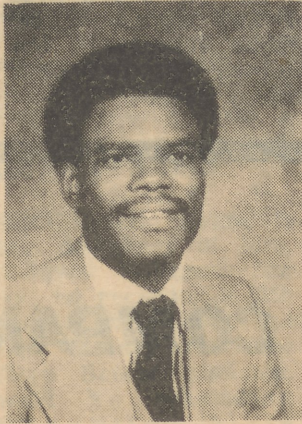

Even if they don't become professionals, this type of instruction will enrich their lives through practice, recitals and self discipline and mold their creativity into many more channels. Black kids have so much untapped talent — don't let it go to waste parents!!!

responsibilities. Jabbar said she interpreted McQueen's comments as black women having "too many responsibilities" and asked if that could be an excuse to step down from those responsibilities. Hanif asked: "What bigger contribution to society can a woman make than to raise her children, who will inherit society?" It was her view that today's woman is thinking too much of herself and the here and now, instead of the future. She added that "there are few mothers out there and mostly childbearers." When the women's liberation movement came into fore, she said it was white women rebelling against white men, and that blacks shouldn't get involved in that fracas. Johnson rebutted that black women, historically shut out of participation in society outside of the kitchen, must have every opportunity to deal freely in all sectors of society — to make a contribution and wield power and influence. One theme echoed by panelists and members of the audience alike is that black women can deal with black men — cited as one cause for the perceived crisis in the family — by "putting him out" and telling him to stand up and be a man, not a child. At one point McQueen said that no one blames the black man, but all blame is heaped on the black woman for her deficiencies. She said there was some jealousy of black women who are about something worthwhile, and that men should not view the assertive woman as a threat. Evans, saying he was abandoning his neutral stance as moderator at the start of the audience participation portion of the forum in order to speak for the men, took issue with McQueen's assertion that men were immune to criticism. He said that he's personally heard many grievances in the community in which women believe "black men are no good, running around with curlers in their heads and out polishing their cars instead of taking care of business." He said some black women have low expectations of their men, which could be a reason why black men spend so much time in a Cadillac. That could be part of the mentality bred because that is what a black man perceives as what his woman wants him to be about. Community resident Etta Brown said from the audience that the automobile is a symbol, an extension, of the male ego that gives him a sense of macho. She said that some of the factors brought out in the discussion as the source of black male / female antagonisms — racism, the economy, slavery — were not root causes. She said the cause has "a great deal to do with how we feel about ourselves." "If we don't first feel good about ourselves, and know who we are, then it is impossible to love or care about someone else," said Brown. Discussion later centered around what specifically can women expect from men — a standard of behavior — so the problem can be alleviated and the new value system can be passed on to children. Ako Diallobe, Imam with the local Al-Islam masjid, said that the women's liberation movement may have been another ploy to divide black people, and then conquer them. "We as a people have a problem, not black men and women individually. Black men and women both have egos..."

"We live in a decadent society and must remember that we must support each other," continued Diallobe. "It is necessary to re-educate ourselves culturally and through communication skills to obtain the moral freedom to survive." Community resident Wayne Ford said that much of the discussion was from the standpoint of ideal, which isn't an accurate reflection of the real world. He said one should concentrate on individual character development in which black men and women won't necessarily have to rely on each other so much. Another question from the audience dealt with how can black women have freedom of choice when there are so many pressures to put out sexually in a time when black men-white women couples are on the increase and homosexuality is prevalent. Johnson replied that the choice is there because a woman has to be a consenting partner in the sexual act. It is her choice to say yes or no, she said. The debate was the second half of a two-part series dealing with black male / female relations sponsored by the Willkie House in conjunction with the Institute of Cultural Education (ICE).

LOOK ON SPORTS

Wonder how the Good Park swimming pool will look when it is finished this time. It was put up rather hastily the first time because we think the main purpose was to keep us away from Birdland pool.

So in the scuffle we got what turned out to be the best place maybe in the state for viewing tennis matches. There are four tennis courts at the park and one can sit on the deck of the swimming pool and watch all four matches at once and know what is happening without moving. I don't know of any place in Iowa where this can be done.

We would like to see this maintained in the construction of the new pool along with facilities for changing clothes by tennis players. When the old pool was open we changed clothes in the area provided for the swimmers to change. Maybe we could do this again.

I don't know how many times I have said that if the planners of the first setup had known what they were doing, we would never have gotten it. Maybe we will get it this time because some one knows what is being done and means it.

Sunday's play in the Atlanta Classic golf tournament showed up one player who should be featured in a sports article in a magazine or in a good sports article. Calvin finished fourth in the thing with a score that would have won lots of meets. Peet is the one black player on the tour who is playing with the big boys.

Don't know what happened to Lee Elder. Maybe illness or some other pressure did him in, but he hasn't finished among the high money winners for some time. Jim Dent always seems to start out well, but seems to fade in the stretch.

Peet has won one meet and has finished well up in the money in just about every meet he has entered. I believe he has qualified to play in the Masters of 1981 by finishing in the first twenty five in this year's meet. I would guess he has won about fifty thousand bucks. This doesn't make him one of the big money winners, but it rates ahead of lots of others. As I watched him Sunday, he didn't seem to show the tension that was in the faces of some of the other golfers. And it is rough out there.

Playing any game for money isn't one bit like playing for fun as an amateur. Everything goes, and one has to keep his cool and not let things get to him.

The black pioneers on the tour, Charlie Sifford and Ted Rhodes, could tell tales about this if they wanted to. The main reason why there won't be a rush of black golfers to the tour are like the reasons why we don't have too many black pro tennis players. Lack of money to get started real young, and lack of opportunity to belong to the prestigious clubs where they can meet the best golfers. In this game, like tennis, our best players are fellows who have good jobs and who play it for fun and depend on their jobs to make a living.

Peet is an exception in that he didn't start the game until he was well past the age when most players are getting out of school and he had no special teaching. Just a natural. You get the feeling that Calvin Peet could play just about any game for dough and be tough. He would have made a hell of a pool hustler.

CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION BACKLOG REDUCED

The backlog of cases being studied and investigated by the Iowa Civil Rights Commission was significantly reduced during the three - month period from the beginning of March to the end of May.

The reduction of 12% in the backlog was reported in a letter to Governor Robert Ray by Civil Rights Commission executive Director Artis Reis, who was appointed by the Governor to the post February 4. In her letter, Ms. Reis states, "When I accepted your appointment ... we agreed that the agency's top priority was to reduce the backlog of pending cases before the Commission."

The update on the caseload from Ms. Reis notes that the backlog is now at its lowest point in nearly two years. She cited several reasons for improved processing of the cases, including staff reorganization and other approaches to make "Further progress in processing cases effectively."

Black Folk In American Civilization

THE EVOLUTION AND MEANING OF THE KU KLUX CLAN

(part V)

As the Civil Rights movement grew during the 50s, so did the almost frantic activities of the Kleagles (organizers of KKK groups). The activities of these Klansmen sometime made the six o'clock news.

Because of the type of climate of opinion the Klan helped to create, if they did not do the dirty work, other members of the white community felt compelled to give them assistance. Therefore, a Medgar Evers could be gunned down in Mississippi; a James Chaney, Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner could be viciously murdered in Philadelphia, Mississippi; four innocent children might be slaughtered in the 1963 bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham; and a Viola Liuzzo might be gunned down on an Alabama Highway.

But others of the Klan's doings did not make the news, and quite often these were vicious and openly coward activities. One such incident took place in September, 1957 near Birmingham, when the Klan was testing one of its members to see if he was worthy to be raised to a captaincy. The victim was a black man, Judge Aaron.

His only crime was he was black. Six Klansmen snatched him off the streets (keeping alive a tradition of not taking on black people on a one-to-one basis) and into the car of Klansmen captaincy candidate Bart Floyd. Aaron was taken to "the slaughter pen."

Here, according to James Graham Cook, in sort of a homosexual act, Aaron "was forced to get out of his clothes and kneel before the six Klansmen. After beating him and kicking him for a time — and asking him more "race-problem" questions which the uneducated Negro did not understand — the Klansmen knocked him unconscious.

Thereupon Exalted Cyclops Joe Pritchett turned to Captain-candidate Bart Floyd and commanded:

"Do your duty."

"And then Bart Floyd did a most extraordinary thing.

"With one of the razor blades he castrated 'the Negro.'"

To make Aaron suffer the more-so, turpentine was then poured over his wound. Such acts are very reminiscent of the horse-whipping given the slave and then rubbing salt into the welts which would sometime swell to more than an inch.

That was then, and this is now.

Vol. II, No. 29
Howard James Jones

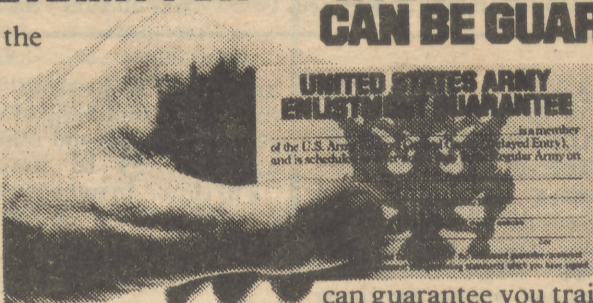

SERVE YOUR COUNTRY AS YOU SERVE YOURSELF.

1. NOW YOU CAN JOIN THE ARMY FOR ONLY 2 YEARS.

If 3 or 4 years in the Army always seemed too long, now you can choose a two-year enlistment.

Which means you can earn good Army pay ($448.80 to start, before deductions), get to see some of the world (possibly Europe), learn a valuable Army skill, and be home in two years with educational benefits to use for college.

Plus, you can do a whole lot of maturing in two years in the Army. When you think of all you can get, two years is not a lot to give.

4. YOUR CHOICE OF SKILL TRAINING CAN BE GUARANTEED IN WRITING.

You're an individual. And the Army appreciates that. That is why, of the hundreds of skills you can learn in the Army, there may be one that especially excites your interests and complements your qualifications. If there is, we can guarantee you training in that skill. It's part of the Delayed Entry Program, in which we match your desires with our future needs. So if you're a high school graduate, or about to become one, you can choose your training, get it guaranteed, then take up to a year to report for duty.

2. NOW YOU CAN GET AN ENLISTMENT BONUS OF UP TO $3,000.

The Army needs certain types of soldiers more than it needs others. So we're willing to pay you a bonus to be what we need you most to be.

It's very simple. If you enlist for 4 years to be a Radio Operator, an Infantryman, an Armor Crewman, an Interrogator, or one of the 28 other specialties we need, we'll give you a lump sum bonus between $1,000 and $3,000.

Yes, it means doing some of the most challenging work in the Army.

But it's also some of the most rewarding.

5. WE'LL HELP YOU SAVE UP TO $14,100 FOR COLLEGE.

You can now accumulate money for college while you're still in the Army. This special program is called VEAP, which stands for Veterans' Educational Assistance Program.

If you contribute a certain amount of your Army pay each month toward your education, the government will match your savings two for one. In addition, the Army is currently offering an educational bonus to VEAP participants who qualify and enlist for certain skills.

You could accumulate up to $14,100 for a four-year enlistment. Up to $12,100 for a three-year enlistment. And up to $7,400 for a two-year enlistment. Not a bad way to start college.

3. NOW 18 MONTHS IN EUROPE IS YOURS FOR THE ASKING.

A tour of duty in Europe could be the experience of a lifetime.

You could work in the shadow of a 900-year old castle, experience the excitement of Oktoberfest, or even ski the Alps on a weekend.

In exchange, you have some of the toughest and most important duty in the Army.

And so you spend a lot of time training, keeping ready.

But when you come back to the States after 18 months, you'll be glad you had the experience.

You'll be better for it, too.

6. HAVE YOU EVER FELT REALLY NEEDED? YOU ARE.

As corny as it may sound, Uncle Sam needs you. More than the loading dock needs you, more than the assembly line needs you. Certainly more than the crowd on the corner needs you.

So besides all the reasons for joining the Army listed above — the pay, the bonuses, the travel, the training — maybe you'd just like to experience the pride that comes from being needed, really needed.

Because the Army really needs you. So if you want to serve your country as you serve yourself, see your local Army Representative listed in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting." Or call the toll-free number below.
