Third Annual NAACP Act-So Program Scheduled

With over 187 participants from 44 cities, the NAACP's 1980 Afro-Academic Cultural Technological Scientific Olympics (ACT-SO) final competition will take place in Miami Beach, Florida this year on June 28th and 29th.

The program, in its third year under the national chairmanship of Chicago Tribune syndicated columnist Vernon Jarrett, will televise this year's winners over the PBS network on Monday, June 30th at the opening of the NAACP's 71st annual convention. NAACP Executive Director Benjamin L. Hooks will keynote the session at 3 p.m. (EDT).

The National Director of the program, Marcia Sawyer, said "We are extremely proud that after three years of ACT-SO successfully promoting academic excellence and proficiency among minority youth, so many have written us to express their appreciation over the program having helped them in extracting the maximum value from their school years."

Three years ago in launching the program,

Executive Director Benjamin L. Hooks said, "Were it not for this excellent & exciting program, many of these youngsters might never receive attention. A Beethoven, a Bach or a Paul Robeson might be overlooked or lost. They might never be given their chance to excel and to ACTSO. With this program however, we will be able to further identify & glorify education excellence among the young of our race."

This year's participants from Des Moines include: Kevin Saunders — Painting;

Dee Anne Davis — Dramatics; Sonya Mae Stewart — Original

Essay; TeAndra M. Hagens — Oratory; Marcee Marie Turner —

Mathematics; Prudence McDaniel — Music; Steven Fields — Music; Vocal.

OIC Convention Highlighted By Pact With U.S.

From registration through closing night ceremonies, the 16th Annual Convocation of the Opportunities Industrialization Centers of America (OIC) was fast-paced, action-packed and highlighted by celebrities from federal and state governments, civil rights organizations, civic groups and the business and industrial world.

The celebrities and delegates joined together to share in the Convocation's theme, "OIC Mobilizing the Communities' Resources Against Unemployment."

More than 2,500 delegates attending the Convocation in Miami Beach heard President Jimmy Carter say, "... if anybody asks you what this administration thinks about the OICs, tell them about the $120 million in national and local CETA funds going to your centers this year ... You can also say that we have just agreed with the OICs to mount a common effort to place 100,000 more young people in jobs this coming year."

Founder and

Chairman of the Board of OIC, the Rev. Leon H. Sullivan responded, "... to my knowledge, this is the first time a President of the United States has ever committed so much money for a jobs 'self-help' program in this nation's history.

He added, "The President made a significant but largely overlooked statement when he said that this is the largest single job placement effort ever undertaken in the history of the nation by a community organization."

OIC is the largest, most comprehensive employment training and economic development program in this country today. It was founded by Rev. Sullivan, a Black Baptist minister in Philadelphia in 1964.

During the Convocation, Rev. Sullivan urged all delegates to press their Congressional representatives for approval of the President's 1980 Youth Initiative Bill.

His reasoning: "When I returned from a 60,000 mile journey last year visiting major cities in the nation and assisting and establishing OIC job-training centers, I realized that hundreds of thousands of youths I saw on our street corners represented a powder keg of social dynamite."

Rev. Sullivan began securing a million signatures to petition the President and Congress to initiate legislation to deal with this youth crisis before it became a national disaster.

Sullivan added, "It is my hope that such an effort will lay the groundwork for a broad effort to reach thousands and eventually millions so that the time will come when every young person in America who wants to work would be able to secure some sort of training and job placement."

He concluded, "Our OIC job-training, job creation, economic development movement, serving all races, is ready to help the President, the Congress and America with a national youth employment program."

Since its inception in 1964, OIC has trained more than 700,000 persons.

Sunday I got a chance to listen to a long tape about the Mt. St. Helen eruption. Henry Wilcots has a son working in that area and he sent Henry a recording of what he had received from a fellow who was on the scene.

Talk about graphic descriptions! The explosion was twelve miles away from the recorder, and it sounded as if it were out in the street in front of the Wilcott home. You would have to hear the thing to get the feeling that we got as we listened. When you hear of people being snuffed out before they could take one step and others who were somehow spared and rescued, you realize how puny and weak man, with all of his atomic bombs and whatnots is.

In the recording a quarter of a million acres blew up in less time that it takes you to read this. Lakes, landslides and mud slides were created so fast that there was no time to get away. If I heard the thing right, one guy thought he was recording his last words and was hoping they would be found, and he came out alive.

I can't begin to tell about the scenes of devastation that were described and about the people that surely must be dead.

But, as I listened, I thought of all of the boys of ten to twelve years old who told me all school year that they didn't believe in God. My only answer was that they would some day, and if any of them had been within miles of the mountain, that moment would have come. We build so many things that we call indestructible, and see them go in a twinkling in the face of eruptions.

And with all of our scientific equipment, man still doesn't know what the mountain will do or when. We know so much, and then suddenly find ourselves shut out of knowledge that we thought we had.

As Henry and I sat there and talked, we both were thinking that there should be some way to get a whole lot of people to listen to this recording and discuss it. Our plans on earth don't really mean so much, although they are all important to us when something like that happens.

And when you think that the mountains, seas and the earth formations were formed in just such a manner, I have to wish there could have been some way to have witnessed the things taking shape.

Imagine countless Mt. Helens blowing and making oceans, valleys and other mountains. This isn't meant to be a sermon, but just my reaction to just about the greatest and most moving recording I ever heard.

There seems to be a gathering of people, wanting to see the ideas of the late Russ Levine carried on, who are wanting to run for the council seat that is temporarily held by Willie Glanton.

She is going to face a stiff fight, and although people say it isn't there, racism will be a factor in the race. Mrs. Glanton handles herself well so it will be hard to come at her in that vein, but you can bet that people will try it. She has been elected before and so had Nolden Gentry. People didn't always like him, but could find no fault with him and couldn't say anything about him.

This will likely be the case with Mrs. Glanton. She isn't on the council to represent just black people. But I have always said that the big challenge is in defeating the elements of racism, and it can be done, and is being done lots more than we are aware of.

Thoughts and Comments

By James B. Morris III

Another possible solution involves the concept of a municipal insurance program, which was developed by the Institute for Local Self Government of Berkeley, California, in 1977. Under such a program, fire prevention, suppression and insurance activities would all be handled by a single integrated system or agency. At the current time, fire suppression and prevention are carried out by local governments while insurance is provided by private industry; in this situation, the major interest of private insurance companies is to assure that premium dollars paid in exceed losses and other costs paid out rather than loss reduction. With the three functions combined into a single system, insurance losses are greatly reduced by the fire reduction activities of the local government, and the incentive for individuals to take more precautions is increased. Losses would be further reduced by the savings in funds which private insurance companies pay out to stockholders as dividends or agents as commissions, and these funds could be utilized in further fire prevention activities. For example, money now used as corporate profit could be used to buy fire alarms for apartment buildings, increase private housing inspections, or any other purpose that the municipality deems to be appropriate, which in turn would reduce fire losses and, in time insurance costs to the consumer. Those funds collected from residents as premiums which are over and above the amount needed to pay loss claims and administration costs could also be used to reduce the individual premium amount or otherwise reduce the drain of such activities on the municipality's budget. In one form or another, this sort of public insurance program has been successfully operated in Europe and the United States, and the Institute for Local Self Government, with the aid of a grant from the United States Department of Commerce, is currently developing a set of detailed guidelines for implementing a municipal insurance program and planning to establish a demonstration project in one or more cities which have shown interest in the concept.

In some areas, another type of public insurance program is being considered. Nonprofit, community-based insurance services, which are outside of the jurisdiction of any local governmental unit has been suggested as an alternative to private insurance coverage. Some public entities and private corporations, unable or unwilling to pay rapidly increasing insurance premiums (if insurance is available at all) have found it more efficient to self-insure (carry no insurance at all and pay losses from their revenues) or establish their own non-profit insurance company. Some community leaders have viewed this process as a possible alternative to the services of the private insurance industry for property coverage. The primary difference between such a program and that of private industry is that surplus (less losses and administrative costs) revenues would be reinvested back into the community to some degree for safety and loss reduction activities, as opposed to being paid out to agents and stockholders. This alternative is perhaps the least viable for most urban neighborhoods because the degree of internal cohesion and agreement necessary to make such a plan a reality is generally lacking at this point in time. The necessary unity may exist at some time in the future and allow the establishment and operation of such an insurance program, but, at the present time, it would not seem to be a realistic option.

Perhaps the most difficult hurdle to clear in resolving the problems of insurance unavailability and redlining in the private insurance industry is the assumption, shared by private industry and its critics alike, that there must be a trade-off between the profit interests or needs of the companies and the needs of consumers. Few consumers can question the right of a commercial industry to make a reasonable profit for the services it provides, and most community organizations involved in the anti-redlining battle will acknowledge that a solution to the problem within the industry must allow for such profits. The issue thereby posed, it would seem, is how a group of individuals can pool their funds, spread out the financial burden of losses among the group, and yet provide a sense of security and peace of mind to its membership, rather than one of striking an appropriate balance between the competing profit interests of the insurance industry and the needs of individual communities and society as a whole. In doing so, we must remind ourselves that the processes of redlining and urban deterioration are unnatural in nature, not

A Black Look At Politics

William S. Morris

The Independent Presidential candidacy of Illinois Congressman John Anderson has been picking up considerable momentum of late. Anderson embodies many of the things which American voters find lacking in President Jimmy Carter and Republican Ronald Reagan, and he is also burdened with less political "baggage."

By this I mean Anderson is not weighed down by the traditional ties and debts which constrain most G.O.P. and Democratic candidates. Big labor, business, and other specialized interest groups force most politicians into an ideological corner from which they can never stray too far. John Anderson has attracted moderate Republicans, disaffected Democrats, college students, E-R-A backers and increasing numbers of blacks who have become dissatisfied with President Carters performance.

Political columnists around the country have been raving about Anderson, and the possibility that his campaign, while insufficiently strong to win the election outright, may force things into the House of Representatives by denying both Carter and Reagan an electoral majority.

The main drawback to all this political excitement is that John Anderson can't win, and may, in fact, hand the Presidency to Ronald Reagan. The primary obstacles to Anderson's Presidential campaign are threefold: for one, since the 1968 election, when George Wallace threatened to throw the election into the House, Congressional Democrats and Republicans rewrote Federal election laws so as to virtually preclude any possibility of a strong electoral showing by an Independent candidate.

Secondly, due to the complex myriad of Federal election statutes, Anderson is having great difficulty getting on the ballot in a number of crucial states, particularly those with the largest number of electoral college delegates. The Illinois Congressman faces expensive, and time-consuming court battles in several of these states, and it appears he has insufficient resources for overcoming these institutional restraints.

Thirdly, as previously mentioned, Anderson's candidacy may draw enough liberal votes away from Carter so as to swing the election to Ronald Reagan. This possibility has troubled Anderson immensely, and he has stated that, rather than aid Reagan in such a way, he would withdraw his candidacy.

Not unimportant are the recent actions by Democrats to keep Anderson off the ballot in as many states as possible, using a variety of methods. With such formidable obstacles facing him, Anderson may announce his decision to call it quits in the not - too - distant future. This would be unfortunate in one sense, for Anderson would probably make a far better President than either Carter or Reagan.

John Anderson possesses a voting record on Civil Rights issues that is virtually unparalleled. While admittedly a fire-breathing arch-conservative in his early days as a freshman Congressman from Illinois, Anderson came to embrace liberal principles and fiscal responsibility.

You cannot help but admire and respect the man. He has the guts to confront the tough issues of Energy conservation, black unemployment, and inflation with realistic approaches. He dispenses with empty ideological babble, and prefers honest realism and pragmatism to the wishy-washiness and unrealistic claims of Carter and Reagan.

At the Republican candidates debate sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune a few months

A Female Focus On The Issues

Peggy Spates Johnson

According to the National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders' report, written following the urban insurrections of the 60's, the immediate cause of most of the big city riots were police brutality, hostility and gestapo-like tactics towards blacks.

This was evidenced last month by the death and destruction in Miami. So whenever a black individual dies at the hands of a police gun, we wonder if it was warranted or a racist murder; a "halt — bang! — or I'll shoot" type legal lynching.

Last week a young black man was shot and killed by a member of the Des Moines police force. The former had attended high school with the latter and himself had a brother on the force. Supposedly, the young man was resisting arrest, had been implicated in a previous burglary and was reaching for a weapon. No weapon was found.

Almost immediately — a very speedy investigation indeed, the police officer was found to be justified in his actions. Still a grand jury will be convened to investigate the incident. Grand juries have been notoriously biased in their handling of cases involving minorities, so I wonder if any new material or indictments will come out of their sessions.

Nevertheless, a young black man is gone, in the prime of his life — another victim, of police action. Think about those who are supposed "to serve and protect," folks.

I was told last week that lawyer Shirley Steele plans a 1983 Class Action suit dealing with police abuses and unwarranted police force. Please contact her if you have any information she may find helpful.

Next, a boycott has been formed against the following products — Libbys fruits and vegetables, Stouffers frozen foods, Nestles Quik and other drink mixes, Nescafe, Nestea and Nestles Crunch candies, all products produced by the Nestle company, a giant food corporation based in Switzerland. The company in Asia, Africa and Latin American countries has caused illness and deaths among an estimated 10 million babies due to "Bottle Baby Disease".

The company hooks poor, many times illiterate women on the supposed advantages of canned infant formula. The mothers stop breast feeding, their milk dries up and they are forced to continue using the canned formulas.

Opinion

Edna Griffin

We are indebted, I understand, to Larry Carter (Dial Finance) for prompt action in seeking candidates and submitting a list of three or four candidates to Mayor Crivaro to appoint one to the unexpired term of Councilman LaVine.

Each candidate refused to promise not to run in the next city council election if appointed. Those who have watched our failures over past years in the political arena very much appreciate this good beginning. City - wide support by petition was developed for Willie Glanton.

As a member of the council, it is well to remember, Councilwoman Glanton has one vote which must reflect concern for the best interests of all the residents. All we expect is the particular concerns of the inner city be faithfully represented. Congratulations, Councilwoman.

It is encouraging to note that the second step toward inner city unity will be considered Saturday explainable in terms of cultural or psychological deficiencies or "impersonal" market forces; they cannot be resolved through more effective public relations or complaint resolution because they are reflective of a conscious process of disinvestment rather than a natural tendency to decline with age. They will not inevitably decline or cease, because this is a problem of planned and executed social and economic policy requiring conscious effort to succeed. A successful response to this industry program must emphasize more effective law enforcement, experimentation with alternative forms of service delivery programs (like insurance), and more incisive and detailed research intorrent policies and practices of the industry which should suggest the direction of future efforts in this area.

THOUGHTS AND COMMENTS

Next week, I will begin to summarize this series of articles and suggest some things to expect or look for in the redlining and disinvestment areas.

The problems resulting are monstrous: the canned formula is very expensive, many times, costing up to 60 percent of the family income — so the mothers water it down causing the babies to slowly starve. The other children in the family suffer from lack of food since so much of the income goes toward the purchase of the formula.

Secondly poor families, let me quote "... have too little fuel to sterilize baby bottles, lack refrigerators, and have to use contaminated water. The bottles and formula then become carriers of disease. Studies show death rates are 2 to 3 times higher for bottle-fed babies than for breast-fed infants."

I saw, 2 summers ago, a segment of the ABC "20-20" program documenting this gruesome situation. It tore my heart out to see brown, black and yellow babies starving and ill in hospitals while rich corporations made millions on their plight.

Independence Day? Bah! Humbug!
Independence Day for the Black man was not July 4, 1776; nor is it July 4, 1980, the black man is still waiting for Independence Day. The Declaration of Independence's equalitarian doctrines were interpreted by the South as having no application to slaves because they had no part in its framing, and were, at the time of its issuance, considered to be a "lower order of beings".
It is a long road from the Revolutionary war through the varied conflicts of the United States from 1770's when Negroes were accepted grudgingly if at all, to fight for their homeland to South East Asia where a relatively far too large number of them became casualties. The roll of the Blacks in the services has been controversial from the beginning and fraught with vexing problems.

Since (unfortunately) there has been re-nued and ominous rumblings in Korea, I'm addressing this column to the 1950 invasion of South Korea. The crossing of the 38th Parallel marked the advent of three years of hostilities. For Black Americans it constituted a continuing duality, tho' the armed forces had been formally desegregated (on paper) by executive order (Pres. Truman) in practice racial segregation continued.

Korea ("The land of the morning calm") though devastated and ravaged by war the hospitality and courtesy of the people was absolutely unbelievable. Blacks though trained in desegregated military units suffered segregation and discrimination in off base locations. But in Korea they were free to utilize public facilities giving one a sense of greater freedom in a foreign land than the land of their birth; reminding one of the prophetic admonition of W.E.B. DuBois: "The problem of the 20th century is the problem of the color-line...."

The white mythology that conveys the belief of the inherent and inferiority of Blacks is the principal support of race prejudice consequently in Korea Blacks were excluded from Personnel Services, Intelligence, Officers Corps, and service schools for advanced training. Blacks were concentrated in the front lines and service and supply functions. The risks and task were heavy but promotional opportunities miniscule. Protestations were made but conditions remained the same.

Many Blacks labored under the belief that their struggles and sacrifices for freedom in Korea would result in freedom, dignity and opportunity for loved ones back home. But unfortunately, no significant improvement occurred. Korea was a painful interlude in the lives of thousands of Blacks.

It is ironic that for most of the thousands of whites who also fought their warring days have ended. For most Blacks the struggle for freedom remains a constant struggle. Blacks still serve their country, many by choice, in spite of skepticism.

The 4th of July does lend itself to picnics and Baked Beans is a favorite.

That's Entertainment

Peggy Spates Johnson

Quiet as it's kept, people of color, i.e. minority groups, do manage to sustain a large amount of artistic endeavor: we have culture and art forms too. This week in lieu of a production or eaterie review I want to share with you some of the trials and tribulations of the two year old Langston Hughes Co. of Players' latest production JOHANNAS.

The show premiered last week and yours truly had the pleasure of performing as a member of this gifted troupe. The company was formed to insure the participation of minority talent: actors, writers, musicians, and technicians on the Iowa scene. We were recently funded by the Iowa Arts Council after a long time of petitioning for money to aid the work.

Some of these funds were recently given to the Drama Workshop as rent for a two night stand of JOHANNAS, a one act play by brilliant black playwright, Bill Gunn. The members of our troupe were of course stunned when on the night of dress rehearsal, Niambi Webster, our founder and director, heard the janitor of the Workshop moan "Those niggers can't be allowed to run free around here — they might steal something; yes those were his exact words to the minister of the First Unitarian Church where the Workshop is housed. Also there were difficulties with using their dressing room.

It is hard enough when regional theatres and community theatres continue to ignore the vast pool of talented minority composed scripts and actors. When was the last time you saw a play or musical about minority existence in America at any theatre in Des Moines — Charlies? Ingersoll Dinner Theatre? DM Community or the Drama Workshop even, which is supposed to handle avant garde or controversial items?

Then when blacks do manage to find a stage to perform our plays on, we are lambasted with prejudice and discrimination. The state of the arts is shaky, in Iowa where blacks are concerned and RACIST!!!

P.S. Only one of the Workshops' board came to see JOHANNAS. But on the other side of the coin, all members of the cast and crew of JOHANNAS were terrible disappointed in the low turnout for our 3 day production last weekend — 75 or so Friday night, 50 or so Saturday night and 30 or so Sunday afternoon at Tiny Tots.

Where were all the blacks of the community interested in supporting artistic endeavors; where were all the sympathetic whites eager to support minority art?

Also keep in mind, Fridays receipts went to support the ACTSO program of the NAACP — to send some of our most talented black kids to Miami today to compete for scholarships. The troupe felt they had been let down hard; especially since we'd worked our behinds off and concentrated heavily on publicity.

People must have known of the production, they just didn't show. My mother mentioned the distractions of summer and the flagging economy as possible reasons for the low turnout. But couldn't people forsake their outdoor summer fun to support black art for 1 1/2 hours? Also if black folks can afford movies, liquor, eating out, travel and other diversifications can not they afford $3 for a play?

Please Des Moines, the Langston Hughes Company of Players is performing for the community — give us your support and presence at our next performances "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide ..." on Aug. 2 and 3 at Hoyt Sherman Place.

This weekend the Civic Center will be showcasing AINT MISBEHAVIN' — please attend people. Shows like this one give a number of talented black actors work; also it encourages the Civic Center to bring minority based shows here.

SISTER'S CLUB

Have you ever known how many commercial soap there are on the market today? There are millions, ... yet, there is none like the soap of Jesus.

Why? His soap always in stock, removes stubborn sin, cleans all ages, cleans ears from gossip, feet soap for the running path of righteousness. Face soap enables you to put a smile on your face.

Regional rating soap. Stronger than Ajax, commercial says "Duz does everything, but not like Jesus."

We must submit ourselves to the power of Jesus cleaning. A good down to earth sermon.

ST. PAUL A.M.E. CHURCH

1201 Day Street
Rev. Lewis E. Grady, Jr., Pastor

"Let love through all my conduct shine.

An image fair, though faint, of thine;

Thus let me his disciple prove,

Who came to manifest Thy love."

Through community service and action, Brother Larry Carter knew one, Rev. Ernest Baty, Associate Minister of Corinthian Baptist Church, that could pleasingly fulfill our pulpit in an emergency.

Last Sunday, Rev. Baty beautifully and quite vividly described his message, "Ship, Shape---Shipshape". As naval architects must build ships to withstand the rigors of the North Sea, so must we, to face the problems and hardships of life, let God be our spiritual architect. And also, let Jesus Christ be the Captain of our ship (us) in aiding in the transport of His heavenly cargo.

On July 6th, the Men of St. Paul Church want to share, with everyone, Mr. Norman L. Pawlowski, Commissioner of Public Health for the State of Iowa. His experience with God makes him most worthy as a speaker. Brother William White, Chairperson, has set a goal of $4,000.00. If possible, each man is asked for a contribution of $50.00

Sister Alberta Bates needs all kinds of volunteers to have a successful Bible School, July 7-12. For information call: Church Office, 288-4419; or Sisters Alberta Bates, 288-5446 or Jeanette Spencer, 279-3344.

HEAVENLY TEMPLE CHURCH

The pastor (Bishop Carter) started preaching to the saints in the Sunday School Sunday morning: and his subject was, "EXCEPT YOU BE CONVERTED, AND BECOME AS LITTLE CHILDREN, YOU SHALL NOT ENTER INTO THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN!"

We are ALL doing judgement works saints! he cried; "Everyone of us, every day of our lives!"

You are building own house...and where will you spend eternity?

You have never read anywhere, where GOD put britches on have you? Then what makes you think you know the mind of GOD? You have never read anywhere where GOD put on a hat or combed his hair have you? But he knows the very thoughts before they are even formed in your minds. The very hair upon your head is numbered by strand.

GOD's church was in existence before any of us were ever thought of, and it will be running when all of us are dead and gone...The pastor pleaded with the saints saying "Don't sit in church and go to hell! you can have your name on the church roll and be buying a first class ticket to hell! EXCEPT YOU BECOME CONVERTED! (CHANGED!) turn from your LYING, STEALING, HIPPOCRITING, BACK-BITING, WICKED WAYS...AND become as LITTLE CHILDREN! you shall in no wise enter in!"

"The Highest desire of my career saints, is to Help you people become better acquainted with the word of GOD... Better acquainted with Christ that you may live a more peaceful and GODLY life. That you may say with me. I CAN DO ALL THINGS THROUGH CHRIST WHO STRENGTHENS ME... That you may know CHRIST, the son of the living GOD in the full pardoning of your sins..Christ, who is the head of my life, Christ, who was here before there was a where or a when, before the stars were set into their silver sockets, before the mountains were brought forth, or the seas were scooped out by the hem of his garment!

He was here, and he is coming back again JUST like he said he was, will you be ready to meet him? What will YOU do when the heavens and earth are on fire? When the day burns like an oven? (Mal. 4:1) I'd like to recommend CHRIST to you today! he said, Accept him, as the head of your life, he is the answer to all of lifes problems! He forgiveth all our sins, and healeth all our diseases...Why not look up to GOD today and say with me. I'LL GO! If the LORD Need somebody, to serve him...to witness for him! Here am I OH LORD...Send me, I'LL GO!

There is no longer any excuse for any of you, to say to yourself, or to your friends: I would but! all excuses were nailed to the cross when he shed his blood on the cross for you! When he comes back again, it will be too late to get ready, we must BE READY when he comes! When he calls your name, YOU must answer for yourself...Seek God for yourself! You! must stand before God for yourself! (Romans 14:12) YOU cannot hide behind anybody! The cover is too short, and the bed is too narrow! (Isaiah 28:20.)

It is an individual affair! and the choice is up to you! to choose THIS DAY WHO YOU WILL SERVE.....The day is far spent saints and the hour is drawing near when he will call Your name. What will

YOU say in the day of Judgement? Will your good outweigh your bad? Will YOU be weighed in balances and found wanting? will the good you have done for yourself and for your kinsfolk outweigh the good you have done for GOD and for his people?? It's time to take stock saints!.....

He closed his tremendous soul searching message with a profound thought to us...MAY GOD BLESS YOU, AND MAY HEAVEN SMILE UPON YOU. I AM TRYING TO GET YOU TO THINK! The harvest is plenteous, but the laborers are few! IT IS TIME TO BE ABOUT YOUR FATHERS business.....

We praise GOD for a HOLY GHOST filled man of GOD, teaching the word of GOD plainly so that one is able to LIVE by it DAILY... WE ARE AS A CITY, SET ON A HILL, AND WE CANNOT BE HID, LET YOUR light SO shine before men that they may see your GOOD works, and glorify the father which is in heaven.

SEE YOU IN HEAVENLY TEMPLE CHURCH SUNDAY! "where you will EXPERIENCE THE PRESENCE OF GOD!"

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

Praise the Lord!! We are yet praising God for our day services which commenced on last week. New Friendship is now having a Daily prayer and service on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday's from 10 until 11:00 a.m. All are cordially invited to attend and participate.

The Lord has been truly blessing in this service. On Sunday was Women's Day, our morning speaker was Sis. S. Rutes of Chicago, Illinois, formerly of Des Moines. Truly the Lord did come and bless thru the word of God. We also had in our services, Brother Buck of the Gideons and he did also minister to the immediate needs of the people.

We truly want to commend these men who are affiliated with the Full Gospel Business Men's Association for their work in putting bibles all over the world. On Sunday nite the Lord did come in and bless our souls in an unusual praise service, where the Holy Spirit did minister in a most powerful way. We are praising God for a renewed spirit at New Friendship.

For the Saints of God who are more encouraged as never

Kappa Honor Roll

WELCOME FROM THE DES MOINES ALUMNI CHAPTER OF KAPPA ALPHA PSI FRATERNITY

It is with a great deal of pleasure that the members of the Des Moines Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi welcome the 1980 honorees to our fifth annual Honors Program.

Because society has developed many approaches in the process of educating its students, it is important that students develop skills and attitudes that will enhance their learning. The metropolitan schools have devoted considerable amounts of time, energy, and wealth to establish efficient educational systems.

Students have invested, and will continue to invest, energy into learning those understandings, skills and attitudes deemed most appropriate by society. More importantly, parents are to be recognized for being the catalysts in making it possible for schools to continue in daily efforts.

Kappa Alpha Psi is pleased to honor 114 juniors and seniors in the greater metropolitan area. Kappa Alpha Psi historically and traditionally has recognized achievement as a must. We are grateful to students, parents, relatives, and friends who participated in the Honors Program.

LOOK ON SPORTS

hard to see how Leonard, with only 24 fights could be expected to beat a thirty year old veteran of seventy fights who is still in the prime of his career. But lots of folks including the odds makers, thought he might do it.

He can come back in a return bout, and even though he gets only (only?) a million or so, he has a chance to turn the tables this time. The next bout will likely be held in the States or in a neutral country, and that might make some difference.

And, with the first fight to study, things might be different. For Leonard will be sure to study those fight films to see where he went wrong and what could be done about it.

The fellow was a real sport in defeat, and I really liked his post fight statement. "We gave each other our best shots and hurt each other. He did his best and I did mine. The best man won."

Haven't heard that from a defeated athlete in any game for years, so many, in fact, that my memory doesn't go back that far.

An aftermath of the thing. Big John Tate, who was trying to use this preliminary battle as a stepping stone to another shot at the heavyweight crown, better hang it up. He was knocked flatter than a flitter with a one punch knockout. Remember how we used to call those fighters glass jawed? That seems to be Tate's problem. So he better quit before he ends up walking on his heels.

For that matter, Leonard could quit too. He has most of the money he will ever need, and has his senses intact. Why not get out now and pursue that college education he started out after before he became a celebrity?

There haven't been too many boxers who got that education. Bob Pastore was one and he fought Joe Louis twice, needing all his natural and acquired knowledge to keep his brains from being scrambled, because Joe was mad at him because he was hard to catch and hit. But Louis finally did catch up with him in the second fight.

I don't know of any black boxers who went through college, but you'd have thought that John Henry Lewis was a college man if you heard him talk. However, he showed his silliness by tackling Joe Louis in the latter's prime for the heavyweight crown and giving away about twenty pounds.

He lasted one punch and he was supposed to be a good friend of the Bomber. Joe said he wanted to get it over with as fast as he could. What if he had been mad at the guy?

Maybe someone else knows of some black boxers in the lighter weights who were college trained, but I don't. The most articulate fighter I ever heard was Henry Armstrong, and I would place Sugar Ray Robinson right behind him, except when Ray was excited. Then you couldn't always tell what he was saying.

A BLACK LOOK AT POLITICS

by William S. Morris

ago, Anderson won considerable support and publicity for his open, frank confrontation of the topics. Every other man present, including Baker, Dole, Connally, Bush, and Crane paled in comparison.

John Anderson would make an excellent President of the United States, but voters must accept political reality. He has no hope of victory, and thus black Americans will have to settle for Jimmy Carter, plain and simple.

The President has made some serious political blunders, at home and abroad, but I do think he is trying to do his best under difficult circumstances. Congress must share the guilt with the President for our current inflation and energy problems, since they have come out with no realistic solutions or alternative policies.

Getting back to John Anderson, it seems his campaign has committed several serious errors in judgement. While the support of E-R-A backers is not inconsiderable, the majority of the Illinois Congressmen's electoral strength rests with the college students - who don't vote, as George McGovern will tell you.

Until just recently, Anderson failed to use his exceptional record on Civil Rights issues to attract disgruntled black voters. Anderson programs for inflation, housing revitalization, minority unemployment, and Federal aid to cities are well-suited to these times of fiscal conservatism.

He strives for workable programs, not a waste of tax monies, nor suspension of social aid plans. John Anderson is definitely a man for our troubled times. If I thought he had a chance, I would be tempted to "jump ship" on Carter, and vote Anderson. But the Illinois Congressman has no real chance, so I'll stick with the President; and black Americans are advised to do the same.

For next week, I will delve into the problems of the Gateway Opportunity Center in Des Moines.

Are recent allegations of mismanagement of Federal and state funds valid, or are they aimed at closing down another facility which serves the black community, without good cause?

These questions will be examined next week, along with the problems associated with haphazard auditing of programs which may be feeling the pinch of budget cutbacks and resultant service restrictions.
