Meeting To Discuss Media, Police Relations

About 50 community citizens met at Union Baptist Church on the city's east side last Tuesday, August 26 to address their concerns about what was termed as the rash of attacks on blacks in key positions in the city, an insensitive media, and incidents of police brutality.

Midway through the session, members of the press were asked to leave. There followed strategy - plotting sessions for action to meet the perceived problems.

The meeting, at times heated, focused on "leaks" believed to originate at Polk County Attorney Dan Johnston's office concerning the grand jury investigation into alleged thefts from Younkers warehouse by Bob King, King, and his wife, Rebecca, have been indicted and charged with first - degree theft, but citizens said at the meeting that the press has in effect tried King in the papers, hindering he and his wife's chances of a fair trial in the city.

King has denied the allegations, saying he had been given permission by the company to donate unwanted items to charities. He said he held a series of garage sales and gave the proceeds to area churches.

King, chairman of the city's community advisory board, is also on the board of United Way and the Des Moines Housing Council.

Citizens attending the meeting said the session was a first of several meetings designed to discuss problems facing the community, and to forge a united effort to solve them. All facets of the community — including attorneys, ministers and residents — were represented at the meeting.

Fundraiser For Urban Community Radio Station

The first annual "Black Tuesday" was held this week at the Gold Coast lounge, in a program that included cultural performances by community members. The affair was billed as a fundraiser for the long-awaited community radio station.

John Haskins, owner of the Gold Coast and sponsor of the event, donated all admissions to the Urban Community Broadcast Co., the controlling board for KUBC-FM, which is scheduled to go on the air, 89.3 on the dial, early next year. Haskins also prepared all the food, said Linda Hardnett, president of UCBC.

Hardnett expressed hope that Black Tuesday would be the first of similar cultural events and discussion of issues in the coming months, that serve as a sneak preview of things to come on the KUBC format — jazz, poetry readings, and drama "that accurately portray the life of Black folk," said Hardnett.

KUBC's sister station in Waterloo, KBBG-FM, is donating its equipment to the upcoming Des Moines station. KBBG recently received a grant from the U. S. Commerce Dept. that will enable it to increase its power from 10 watts to 5,000 watts, Hardnett said. KUBC initially will be 10 watts but also has visions of expanding, she said.

KUBC, four years in the making, recently received a $25,000 grant in community development funds from the city. It is launching an effort to match that total, which is part of the funding arrangement.

The station will be housed in the Irving Multicultural Center where Tiny Tot Child Care Center is also located. The antenna would be erected atop the Financial Center downtown.

Hardnett was hopeful that other community organizations would come forward to sponsor fundraisers to help KUBC reach its $25,000 goal.

Once the station is on the air, KBBG staff members will be coming to Des Moines to help train the KUBC staff. Broadcast hours would be 5 a.m. to 2 p.m., Hardnett said.

NAACP FORMS SPECIAL MARKETING COMMITTEE

The Des Moines NAACP recently announced the formation of a special committee designed to broaden community - wide support for their annual fundraiser, Freedom Fund Awards banquet, at the Hilton Inn, September 26.

Vincent Chapman, president of the NAACP, said a group of his advisors recommended the project, and Sigurd K. Jaasted, assistant to William Stauffer of Northwestern Bell, volunteered to coordinate the group.

Members of the group are Jim Ansorge, Pioneer Hi Bred International; Rebecca Banks, Charles Ransaw, Amoco Oil Company; Delores Brewer, Xerox Corporation; Paul Burkett, American Republic; Deb Ganzel, Iowa-Des Moines National Bank; Meg Halliburton, Iowa Power; Doris Meacham, Ken McDougall, Meredith Corporation; Jan Moe, Bankers Trust Company; Bob Plunk, Preferred Risk; Jan Prosperi, The Bankers Life; Jarbe Blackmun, Northwestern Bell.

Chapman said that prior banquets had been very successful, but that committee work had been handled by branch members and other volunteers, mostly on their own time. This is the first time businesses have loaned their personnel to this effort.

IEWS and REVIEWS

by Allen Ashby

There are a couple of things that I have to wonder about. First is the speed with which Bob King was indicted and arraigned and in almost every story it comes out in detail about how he was detected swiping goods, and not too much about his side of the thing.

That is one of the faults of our reporting system. The person who may be innocent, but prominent, is headlined when the least hint of anything wrong is suspected. Then, after all the smoke has cleared away, the accused gets to tell his side of the story, but in the wake of all the sensational disclosures, how many are going to believe the guy.

I have to think that a man of the intelligence of Bob King certainly wouldn't risk thirty years of employment and his community reputation in order to steal a few goods so he could resell them.

Now, it may well be that he had a genuine arrangement with his immediate superior, but the top brass downtown didn't know of it, maybe because it wasn't deemed that important. I could never qualify as a detective, but I would have to say that someone put the finger on King.

Why? Maybe for a number of reasons, the least of which could have been jealousy. The man had a responsible position, and that had to gripe some people no end, so it wouldn't have been hard to set up a trail of evidence, which the suspect helped because he didn't know he was under surveillance.

I also think he will have one hell of a time proving his innocence because if he is acquitted, there will be a whole lot of red faces around Des Moines, and nobody wants that. So the man has to go.

Now you will hear lots of people tell me that they are not the least bit prejudiced against King, and to that I will say "Oh, yea?"

Another thing that has been brought to my attention is the situation on the corner of Harding and Forest at a couple of taverns across the street from each other. I have been told that there is a bunch of young white adults who harrass and molest black people who happen to walk past that corner.

They call names and have physically assaulted some young people.

This is just hearsay, but I am told that if a black person happens to go into either of those taverns, he is promptly informed that he not welcome, and advised to get the hell out of there. The young blacks in the area are getting fed up with it and are making plans for a real showdown.

And the police? I have passed that corner during the early evening and seen two or three squad cars around there, but I guess they can't spend the entire evening there. So the hoodlums just wait until the cops go off on a round, and go back to their tricks.

I have driven past there in the afternoon and have been called Nigger, but it is hard to get a line on the caller, and if I could, what could I do?

Call the cops? It would be my word against their's, and they would deny it and maybe some day slash my tires or burn up my car. But what is going to happen is that those guys are going to attack some black who has a weapon and someone is going to get hurt of maybe killed, and then they will "investigate", but I bet the black person with the weapon goes to jail.

I don't know what can be done about it, but the situation seems to have the makings of a first class race war that Des Moines has never really had.

Thoughts and Comments

By James B. Morris III

I have decided to postpone finishing my series on the Cuban and Haitian refugees due to recent developments in the black community of Des Moines which threaten to undermine both its pride and its leadership.

Neither the source nor the motivation of those overt attempts are much of a secret, especially in view of the conservative trend of society and the deteriorating condition of the economy. Although there have always been attempts to discredit the black population in this town, attention seems to have been directed most recently at particular individuals and institutions to which this community look for direction.

The news media has played a major part in these attacks by publicizing and underlining those sorts of things which, if committed by whites, would hardly have been mentioned.

Although the media may justify this journalistic intrusion upon the "status" of the individuals involved and the fact that reporting of this sort may help sell papers or attract listeners or viewers, these are the same lame excuses that they have put forth for similar behavior in the last few years, and are no more believable now than they were when first offered. To believe that race plays no factor in these irresponsible "leaks" to the media which, in effect, try and convict an accused long before and sometimes in the absence of court proceedings and destroy the credibility and reputation of the individual or organization before a chance to present a defense is given, would be equally indicative of a belief in Santa Claus, Tinkerbell and the Tooth Fairy.

Publication of these sorts of unproven allegations not only destroy the possibility of receiving justice (whatever that means) anywhere in this state (and perhaps elsewhere), but present a picture of those blacks who have worked hard to gain what they have and done much for others in their community as being unsavory, untrustworthy, and unintelligent. Regardless of the direction from which the motivation for this irresponsibility is coming, it is quite clear that we cannot afford to sit back and do nothing.

The point is well taken that we have too long endured this sort of unequal treatment without taking it too seriously to heart, due perhaps to fears of retaliation loss of employment. Today, however, unemployment is a major fact of life in the black community to a much more serious degree than in the white community, and these blacks who are employed today are much closer to layoff or release than they perhaps have ever been, or believe that they are.

As an article in one of our local newspapers announced, Iowa is fourth in the nation in the percentage of blacks imprisoned in relation to the percentage of black population in the state, and, besides the armed forces, this is perhaps the steadiest source of black employment available.

Only there, in "government" jobs, are they not the last hired and first fired, as is the case in private industry. What I am trying to say, I guess, is that blacks should no longer attempt to justify inaction upon such threats solely on the basis of job security or retaliation as they have so little protection against these things anyway.

The community must unite to act positively against

Getting Ahead

Robert V. Morris

Busing has long been an issue arousing great conflict in this nation. Due to the coming November election, I feel it appropriate to address the issue.

Busing to achieve school desegregation, racial interaction and better education has long been an issue strongly supported by the major Civil Rights organizations in this country. The NAACP, SCLC and the Congressional Black Caucus have led intense efforts to support busing around the country in the face of strong opposition by white and black separationists. It is this same opposition to which I will devote this column.

Iowa is unfortunately the home of a major opponent of busing. Congressman Charles E. Grassley, who is now running for the U.S. Senate, has led the anti-busing movement in Congress, which can be seen by his support of last year's Mottl amendment which attempted to eliminate busing as a tactic to end school segregation. Grassley was also the only member of Iowa's Congressional delegation to vote for the bill. Fortunately the Mottl amendment failed - but it received strong support from conservatives, including Grassley.

Congressman Grassley responded to an inquiry into his position by NAACP State President Robert Wright with an August 31, 1979 letter in which Grassley supported his vote in the following manner:

- 1) Busing is costly, and there is no evidence of educational improvement in either white or black students who have been bused.
- 2) Busing is energy - inefficient.
- 3) Busing has not increased integrated housing in urban areas. The majority of whites and blacks oppose busing. They are dismayed by a break - up of the neighborhood school and family structure. They would rather see their tax dollars spent on upgrading the quality of their children's education in their own neighborhoods.

Grassley used as his statistical base for point number 1 the 1966 Coleman Report.

This report maintained that racial minorities do score significantly lower on standardized tests than whites upon entering school, and these differences increase with each grade level. By the twelfth grade, blacks, Puerto Ricans, Native Americans and Mexican Americans are, on the average, three to five levels behind whites in reading comprehension and four to six grade levels behind in mathematics.

What the Coleman Report is really saying is that blacks, Puerto Ricans, Native Americans and Mexican Americans are genetically inferior. A belief of this kind is indeed "white - supremacist" and is comparable to those held by the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party. IS THIS THE TYPE OF BELIEF WE WANT IN OUR SENATE???

The Coleman Report has been widely discredited by sociologists and psychologists for its failure to take into account a wide variety of factors including the social class segregation of urban youth, the fact that blacks remain the most highly segregated group - a pattern caused partly by economic forces and partly by discriminatory practices, among other factors.

Also, children from cultural backgrounds differ from the dominant group, and this is a contributory factor. Children in disadvantaged environments may lack the stimulation necessary for the development of basic cognitive abilities. Black children may be deficient in the basic skills and learning abilities considered important by the dominant group, so naturally they will score lower on these culturally "biased" tests. Increased sensitivity by instructors, and racial interaction, can help to overcome this condition, and this is what busing is all about.

I personally believe in busing and have seen the benefits of it. For example, of my 1976 graduating class at North High, less than 15% of the black males attended college for any significant period of time. However, 100% of the black males who had participated in the busing plan to Franklin Junior High went on to attend college. And of the total number of black males from North attending college over 50% had gone to Franklin. Busing had visibly enhanced their education and we, who attended Franklin, are still reaping the benefits.

Another threat has come out this year to busing in the form of anti-busing bill HR 1180. The intent of HR 1180 is to prevent federal courts from imposing pupil transportation as a remedy to desegregate public schools.

I strongly urge you to write, wire and/or call your Congressman urging him/her to not sign the HR 1180 discharge petition. If we don't get involved now we will all suffer the consequences later.

A Female Focus On The Issues

Peggy Spates Johnson

There appears to be great difficulty in Des Moines getting and retaining good, responsible people for animal care and maintenance. As an animal lover I've kept my eye on the problems of both the Des Moines Zoo and the Animal Rescue League the past few years.

The former has been roundly criticized over the years by various city groups in and out of government. Poor Bob Elgin, he's again embroiled in a hot dispute with the Humane Society, the city and as he put it ".....certain people who just don't like me"

Mr. Elgin seems to be a dedicated and hardworking man. I have never been a lover of zoos because I feel animals should be allowed to remain in their natural habitat, living and dying in their "real homes;" BORN FREE, as the song says. But because the great white hunter types and poachers since the early days of colonialism in Asia, Africa, South America and Australia have wiped out total populations of some animal groups, I suppose zoos are necessary just to maintain certain species.

Here are some shocking and sad statistics: 30,000 lions are killed in Africa yearly, thereby guaranteeing the deaths of countless numbers of cubs; there are only a few thousand tigers left in India, if that many; leopards and cheetahs (the fastest animal on earth) are on the endangered species list. Because ocelots are rare, ocelot coats are banned entry into the U.S., lynx, coyote and red fox furs have been the rage in fashion for the past two "seasons", millions of elephants have been slaughtered in East Africa for their tusks.

In some parts of Tanzania and Kenya where there were once thousands of roaming herds, there are now 50 or 60 pathetic creatures. The cruelty of the seal, dolphin and whale slaughters have become this continuing threat, before the possibility of doing something about it passes with time. Whatever is done must be done both quickly, publicly and with the support of the entire black community.

We must, as the old phrase goes, all hang together or, it is certain, we will all be hanged separately. Let us hope and pray that, as stated in Sir Issac Newton's Third Law of Motion, "...to every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction..."

Blacks Need Unity

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

As a newcomer to the City of Des Moines, I was surprised and disappointed at some of the things that have taken place since I've been here.

First there was the attempt of Mr. Mann to become the first black State Senator in Iowa. I was surprised to learn that the young people that I talked to knew nothing about the man.

I was really disappointed at the middle class blacks who said they wouldn't vote for him because he was not an Iowan and those who used all types of excuses and negative reasons for not voting for him.

Now the case of Willie Glanton. Here is a woman who has been visible in the City of Des Moines for many of years yet she lost a race for the Council by less than 1300 votes.

I blame every influential black in this city for her loss. Here we had a chance to get our foot in the door and we blew it.

I want to remind you that the great need for the black leaders in Iowa is to come together and put aside their personal jealousies and animosities, form a coalition with those other minorities in the city and state to create a power base (all politicians respect numbers).

The all important thing is communication in the black community from the affluent south side to 10th and University. The political process is our only salvation.

world wide crusades.

I could go on and on but I think the extremity of the situation is clear. Although we don't have any national animal protection organizations (domestic or wild) based in Des Moines we do have the Animal Rescue League and the Des Moines Zoo — both floundering.

Becky Renfro has recently left her position as head of the League after a year of controversy and disputes. She also struck me as a kind hearted woman and a tireless worker for humane animal conditions.

I hope both organizations and their controlling boards work out their financial, administration and or personality hassles and get on with the business of caring for and protecting innocent creatures. The League needs donations of time, money, and animal food.

If you've ever gone out and looked at all the cute animals at the League and then realize that most will be put to sleep soon, it is indeed heartbreaking. I know in times of inflation feeding a pet can be costly but the benefits and happiness it brings to a family or individual is so great, it's worth it. Call the League soon. Please inquire about animal adoption.

Last, the following organizations, most based in either NY, DC or Pennsylvania, have been campaigning against animal cruelties, slaughter and over population in domestic animals for years. They are worthy organizations and need your financial support.

The African Wildlife Leadership Foundation fights to prevent extermination of wild animals. The Fund for Animals and the Animal Protection Institute of America does the same but focuses on seals, whales, etc.

The American Anti Vivesection Society pushes for an end to animal experimentation (such as the spraying oven cleaner in the eyes of rabbits for weeks at a time to test the spray) which are terribly cruel and unnecessary & usually for government grants. Not one human disease has ever been cured by animal experimentation.

The World Wildlife Fund is another important tool in the fight to save animals from extinction. Please help these organizations — on the local or national level.

Fred Williams Seeks DMACC Board Seat

Fred Williams Jr.'s contributions to the community defy calculation.

Indeed, Williams' lifetime, spanning four decades, is a phenomenal statement. The activity — in quantity and quality — is reflected in his crowded resume: educator, counselor, job developer, and a host of other roles in a variety of settings.

He has been called a humanitarian, a catalyst, a workaholic. But the labels, like his work history, sterily recorded in black and white, do not come within an inkling of measuring the visible impact he has left on human lives.

And, the record, too, cannot accurately reflect the boundless energy, enthusiasm, drive and dedication of the man whose efforts have largely gone unnoticed, eluding the headlines, throughout the years.

For those unaware of Williams' presence, his trademark is his sincerity, his motto simple: Do.

Fred Williams' latest venture is running for the Des Moines Area Community College (DMACC) Board as a representative of the district making up the east side of Des Moines and beyond.

Election day is Sept. 9 for the seat on the 9-member board. Williams narrowly lost in his bid for the seat in 1977. The position is a powerful one, for the board is the policy-making arm of the college.

"It is my belief that if the present administration of DMACC is not sensitive to the needs of the inner city, then they should be replaced," noted Williams. "There is a lack of creativity, foresight and innovative programs by the board..."

"The course structure of the college," Williams continued, "cannot be what the board wants it to be. It must be what the community, the students want it to be."

Williams feels that if the institution is not responsible to the community's needs, "then alternatives need to be looked at." An option would be the creation of private schools for blacks or of a multi-cultural make-up, Williams suggested, saying the Black Theology Center might be a facility that could be developed for such purposes.

A basic reason why Williams seeks a chair on the board is to change the direction and thrust of classes scheduled for DMACC's new urban campus currently under construction south of University Avenue between Seventh and Ninth streets.

He said vocational-oriented classes are being omitted from the curriculum. Such courses, including auto mechanics, computer training, carpentry and electrician fields, are more in tune with breaking into today's air-tight job market upon graduation, as opposed to the more traditional courses.

One example of the board's insensitivity to inner city residents, Williams offered, was its not even considering naming the new facility in honor of a black figure.

Although Williams feels educating and re-educating people is the key to revitalizing a fragmented community — particularly ending the sometimes-lethal cycle of dead-end jobs, drug dependence, and break up of the family — his breadth of wisdom stretches far and wide.

To Williams, the survival of the community hinges on the development of black-owned businesses and an alternative economic system during these hard times, where hard-earned money stays in the community.

An aura of seriousness surrounds Williams, his quick and refreshing wit notwithstanding. It seems his every word is tinged with a sense of urgency, a call to arms.

"Money turns over just one time in the community," said Williams, "and we're much too dependent on the government and corporations for financial support. It's just like living on a reservation."

"Right now, we're dancing to someone else's tune. We have to start dancing to our own tune."

"Having a lack of a means of communication other than word of mouth makes it that much worse," Williams continued. "When you cross the (Des Moines) river to go from the west to the east side, it's just like going into another country."

Williams, married and father of two children, believes the myth that says black businesses are a rip-off has to be destroyed, and trust restored in its place.

"We have too many talkers and not enough doers in this city. We have to stop talking and start communicating with one another," asserted Williams. "We presuppose a lot of things, like if I'm talking to someone, the assumption is that he or she understands what I'm saying."

Williams has a few words for youth: "Get involved."

He directs the suggestion firstly, to the parents. The next step is for young people to participate in church activities, register to vote, become members of community development boards and neighborhood organizations. Also,

"read, stay in school, stay away from drugs, and respect each other" are other words of wisdom from Williams.

Early on in his own life, Williams said the strongest influence for him was his family — particularly his grandmother, who helped steer his destiny. A Des Moines native, Williams' life also was touched by Cecil Brewton, Sr., John Estes, Lacey Spriggs, Martha Wills, and Geneva Robinson.

Fred Williams

Growing up in the Sixties, a volatile decade, was a "formulative time" for Williams, and the changing social fabric was instructive as he developed his own philosophy about life.

But Williams feels it is elementary, in some aspects, why the community has little power to control its own destiny. There is a vacuum in leadership, he believes, and those that the Register and Tribune and other media project as leaders are isolated from the people and don't really know what's going on.

"We've no representation on any policy- or decision-making bodies in the city," Williams said, rattling off the white make-up of the D. M.

city council, Polk County Board of Supervisors, and the Iowa Legislature.

Ideas spring from Williams at a dizzying pace. He feels the large percentage of blacks in prison in the state should be receiving education behind bars so as to receive high school diplomas, if needed, and job training as part of rehabilitation programs.

Out-reach programs must be developed at DMACC, to reach more inner city students, and, in a similar vein, extension programs with the state universities should be pursued more aggressively, Williams said. He said Iowa State's extension program has been very receptive to establishing branch classes at the Willkie House, Model Cities office, and Logan Community Center.

Williams can't resist talking about his greatest love — education. Himself a high school drop out, he stressed that the "non-traditional" approach of vocational courses at inner city schools like Urban Campus help ease the "educational shock" experienced by some members of the community at traditional schools, where instructors are apt to label a student "a failure" if he or she does not immediately grasp writing skills, for example. He said many students, such as himself, have started out in non-traditional schools, then moved on to successfully complete their education at traditional schools.

Williams earned his B.S. in political science at Drake University after attending the Urban Campus, where he later was a counselor and coordinated a recruiting program — Operation Reach Out.

He said the outreach program is a key, for the irresponsibility of those running the learning centers is "the damnation of the education system."

"It all goes back to the adage, 'You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink it,'" noted Williams. "Well, what must be done is for administrators and teachers to get outside of the building and into the community to recruit, and sensitize themselves to multi-ethnic lifestyles."

"It's sort of like taking the water to the horse," added Williams.

Remember, east siders, Fred Williams, a man of vision, Sept. 9, for the DMACC board.

Labor Day to many housewives means the last family outing of the season, and to many harried mothers back to school! To others labor conjurs up names like John L. Lewis, Jimmy Hoffa, George Meany, A. Philip Randolph and others. Labor means unions — AFL CIO! And labor was central factor in the development of Black America.

To understand Black is to understand work — and the denial of work. It was the white demand for cheap and exploitable labor that brought black people to these shores. And it was in and through the work relationship that the fundamental structures of the black community were formed.

It was the unpaid and underpaid work of the black workers which changed and created that initial pool of capital which made possible the economic growth from which they were excluded by fraud and violence.

The history of black people is a history of work. To assess the meaning of that history it is necessary to trace the arc of black labor from legal slavery to economic slavery. White Americans have deliberately and systematically used black workers for white economic purposes.

Black workers are oppressed as a group, confined to marginal economic roles by fraud, violence and a system of institutionalized racism. The mechanisms of this system are dual labor markets — a white market of well paid jobs and a black market of hot, dirty, low - paying jobs.

White Americans have manipulated the educational system to assure a dependable supply of uneducated laborers. Since the 17th century white capital has used black labor to depress wages and divide the labor force. Black workers transported to America from Africa were a vital source of primary capital accumulation.

It was slave - grown cotton that paid for American imports. It was the black which financed the building of American railroads, factories and settlement of the West. It was slave laborers who worked on docks, blacks made an invaluable contribution of artisans who were master craftsman of the South - carpenters, masons, blacksmiths, millrights, some of their work especially the iron grills of New Orleans still bring praise.

One needs only to go down South and examine hundreds of old mansions and church edifices to realize the talent of these cabinet makers. But the contributions of black workers have never been adequately acknowledged. Because they were not paid for their skill, he was denied the right to use his skill for his advancement of his community and he was used to improvish all workers.

To make matters worse the position of the black worker in the North was being challenged by the white immigrants. Attempts were made to organize black trade unions.

The first of which was the short lived American League of Colored Laborers organized in N.Y. in 1850. Fredrick Douglas was admonishing the people to "Learn trades or starve", as wave after wave of white immigrants eroded the economic position of the blacks.

Labor is the basis of all wealth and wealth is an absolute necessity of civilized society. Emancipation failed to free the black worker and to provide for him an economic foundation.

Often times children are left out in planning picnics and outings. Why not make a batch of sloppy joes in your crock - pot and supply plenty of buns, ketchup, mustard, etc.

UNION BAPTIST CHURCH

Reverend H.I. Thomas Pastor

If you move yourself, then God can have His way.

Last Sunday morning's devotions were led by members of the Deacon Board, the Call to Worship was given by Rev. A.C. Crawford, the Angel Choir members attired in red, the New Creation members attired in white made hearts feel glad as they marched to a beautiful rendition "We're Going To See The King" led by Sister Evelyn Thomas.

Responsive litany was "The Beatitudes-Matthew 5:1-12." Rev. Larry Harris read from the Holy Book St. Mark and Pastor Thomas caught up in the spirit preached to "Come To Jesus Just As You Are". The choirs never sounded better, the preached word led souls to be baptized. It was a Holy morning. We were blessed to have the Fellowship of Reverend Jones and members of Bethel A.M.E. for a joint Baptismal.

Reverend Z.W. Williams and members of the Morning Star Baptist Church of Omaha, Nebraska rendered service at the evening service for the Trustee Board members. Reverend Williams sermon subject was "God, Jesus, the Holy Ghost, the Church and the Preacher". A large number of choir members were present and sang beautifully. Union Baptist Church anniversary services will be held Sunday Sept. 7th.

WEDNESDAY AT 7:00 p.m. is Prayer and Bible Study. 50 people were present last week. All people need Prayer. Our known hospitalized are at Methodist Sister Bessie Matthews, at Mercy Deacon Eugene Wilson, at Lutheran Bro. Linden Robinson and Brother Mack Woolery at Broadlawns.

We extend sympathy and prayers to the Woods family, the Stoval family and all others who have lost loved ones.

Think about it "It matters not how long one dwells upon this sod-Just do the best you can and leave the rest to God."

HEAVENLY TEMPLE COGIC

2110 Carpenter Avenue Des Moines, Iowa 50311 Bishop A. B. Carter (pastor)

It was downstairs in the dining room that the anointing of God fell upon the pastor as he sat at the table with his saints and visitors. "If I did what I feel like doing," he said, "you people would think I was crazy".

I feel the anointing of GOD all over me right now, He is so REAL in my soul! he said. His countenance changed as he spoke to us and later in the morning as the ushers marched down the aisle before him holding a white silken cord, he lifted up his head and cried, There is something within me that banishes pain there is something more than I can explain, all that I can say is praise God there is something within.

Saints I know that He is REAL. I have been in many places where only a God could have delivered me.....The BIBLE speaks of you that are filled with the HOLY GHOST he said. You that have that quicken power, that power that not only quickens the body, but it quickens the soul.....EDUCATION TEACHES THE MIND OF MAN BUT THE HOLY GHOST TEACHES THE SOUL! SO seek that power, seek that quickening power that feels like fire shut up in your bones, that power that you or I or no one else can explain.....

But we know that it lives within us, leads, guides and directs us, it brings to our remembrance what we have been taught.....it is able to quicken out everything that is not like GOD. It is able to quicken you. As it is written, if the spirit that dwelt in Christ dwells in you, it shall also quicken your mortal body.....

Then he turned to the audience and asked, How many of you believe that you are going to die one day? Every one of you that raised your hands know that this is one thing you are bound to do some day.....and you may be ever so cute he said, and you may be switching ever so hard, but one day honey, you are going to switch it over to the side and it is going to stay there!

You are going away from here one of these days and where are you going to spend eternity? It's going to be one place or the other.....now which is it going to be? Some of you people don't even believe there IS a GOD, but You Will! Some of you don't care about yourself, and you don't care about your souls. If you did you would be preparing to meet your God, you see the times that we are living in, you know that this system of things as we know it is coming to an end, and so are you.....

NOW WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO SPEND ETERNITY? HAVE YOU ACCEPTED CHRIST INTO YOUR LIFE, YOUR SOUL, AS YOUR PERSONAL SAVIOUR? IS HE REAL TO YOU? ARE YOU LIVING FOR HIM? DO YOU KNOW THE ANSWER? ARE YOU ON YOUR WAY? WHERE? It is written that the whores and harlots would make it in before the saints, because they hear the word of God preached and they repent of their sins and accept Christ, but you saints don't believe nothing!

But oh you who have sought God in time, you who have gotten saved in TIME you who know that you have a blessed hope of eternity, a hope of spending eternity with Christ who gave his life for you, should be thankful.....But you who think you can learn some prayers to pray to a supreme being, you who think you know how to live for God by reading books, you are most piteous.....ye are the Salt of the earth, and if you have lost your salt (love of humanity) your salt (what help can you be to anyone?) Do you know what salt is made of? It is a poisonous substance which if taken alone could prove fatal to you, so it is with your life, without Christ you are no good.....

All souls are mine said the Lord, that whore, that crap shooter, that drunkard,) God is concerned about everyone of them, are YOU? Then you can judge for yourself just about how much love of God you have in your soul. Christ makes us something, so my subject today is AM I GOOD FOR SOMETHING, OR AM I GOOD FOR NOTHING?

If you are all dressed up and you are not saved, and you are not baptised and filled with the Holy Ghost and that with fire, you are just a dressed up SCARE-CROW. All you are doing is fooling yourself. And you don't need prayer either, all you need is to be thankful for what God has already done for you, and start praising and magnifying his name.

Now may GOD Bless you, and may Heaven smile upon you...I just want you to stop...take stock of YOUR life and THINK. See you in Heavenly Temple Sunday at 11:30

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

Let everything that hath breath, praise yea the Lord! We bring you good news from New Friendship COGIC, located at 1317 Forest Avenue, where we are striving to be the friendliest church in town. On Saturday, the choir went to Ft. Dodge, Iowa to be in a musical service with the Calvary Memorial COGIC, truly we had a Holy Ghost time in the Lord.

On Sunday afternoon, the church and pastor went to the New Jerusalem COGIC in Cedar Rapids, Iowa to be in a pre - appreciation service with Bishop H. Bassett, Truly Pastor Daye did preach out his soul. On Sunday morning before going to Cedar Rapids, the Lord came into the service and two backsliders were reclaimed.

Our twice weekly morning prayer service is truly growing spiritually, the Lord is coming in and blessing our souls, even people are coming past the church and just stopping in. We will be in our State Evangelist Meeting the week of August 25 - 30 at E. 17th Bishop E.A. Tindrell and Mother Spriggs are in charge.

On this Sunday, August 31, 1980, there will be an End - Of - Summer Sunday Buffet at New Friendship COGIC L. Jenkins Fellowship Hall from 2 - 5 PM, Adults $3.50, children 11 and under are only $2.00. The menu includes: Ham, Chicken and Dressings, 3 salads, Greens, Green Beans, Rice / Gravy, Rolls, Cornbread, dessert and beverage. Sounds Delicious!

September 4 & 5 is the State Music conference at E. 17th COGIC, State Headquarters. Get ready for good singing. From the desk of Pastor R.L. Daye: "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands (Psalms 100:1) Our happy occupation is to make a joyful noise unto the Lord. We know that everyone cannot sing, but the admonition is to serve the Lord.

It may be in song, in word or in deed. We must remember that God is the paymaster and He never forgets that which we do in His honor and glory. He tells us to come before His presence with gladness and into His courts with praise. Praise ye the Lord!

Rev. Lewis E. Grady, Jr., Pastor

"Hold in thy murmurs, heaven arraigning!

The patient see God's loving face;

Who bear their burdens uncomplaining,

'Tis they that win the Father's grace."

Anon.
During the summer, in the absence of our choirs, music is furnished by spiritually inspired musicians. Last Sunday, Sister Lauretta Reeves was at the organ, and Sister Clara Fant Eaves was at the piano as accompanists. Sister Musette Perkins sang, with her resonant voice, "Nothing Between", backed up during the chorus with Sister Lauretta's alto voice. Sister Marian Carter gave us the feeling of a saint with her rendition of "Just to Behold His Name".

Our Pastor, Rev. Lewis E. Grady, Jr., returned from the Annual Illinois Conference with a heavy heart. But, he was able to tell us that Rev. Wilbert Coleman was ordained and Elder; Sister Clara Fant Eaves gave timely remarks, as our delegate; and, he was asked by Bishop Hubert N. Robinson to give the Sunday Sermon, in his stead. That was quite an honor, and the sermon was very well received.

The heaviness of Rev. Grady's heart was due to the heart attack of Sister Marcelline Stovall (She has now passed on to greener pastures.); learning upon his return to Des Moines, that his loved one, Jacqueline Taylor was called Home; and, the dilemma of his appointment.

Faithful St. Paulians, were you not touched by Rev. Grady's lack of animosity toward those that pass judgment. Does not this emphasize his goodness, and that he lets God give rewards and penalties?

"A Strange Land" was the message Rev. Grady gave us, last Sunday. We must use the church to sing, serve, and to live a Christian life in this strange land of multitudinous attitudes and dispositions.

On August 31st, all Quarterly Conference reports are to be in to be mailed to Presiding Elder Richard Smith; and, a Church Conference will be held.

High priority given to a friend, mate, or loved one, involved with you in a decisional circumstance, indicates all lines of communication, between you, were open at all times.

Little Miss Black Des Moines Contest

The Little Miss Black Des Moines Pageant Committee is still accepting 1980 applications. Students interested in participating should contact their church, community center representatives and/or parents for financial support or sponsorship in the pageant.

The Little Miss Black Des Moines Pageant was conceived and implemented by the Heavenly Meditators Gospel Choir, under the leadership of Advisor, Nellie Gater in 1976.

The members of the group wanted to provide structured activities for youth. Classes in modeling, grooming and leadership are an integral part of their mission.

-At first they attempted the idea in hopes of raising funds for the choir's expense, but the pageant met an overriding success and children gained so much from the scheduled sessions that they decided to sponsor it again in 1977.

In 1978, the God's Army of Youth and the YMCA Sister's of Unity Youth Group sponsored and coordinated, with youth group advisor Niambi D. Webster, the candidate activity sessions. Once again individual self - development and human growth skills were stressed to the candidates. They also participated in six weeks of scheduled activities. The six weeks have now grown to ten, with the addition of sessions in Black History and special field trips and outings.

Attempts were made upon acceptance to send the winner to the Little Miss Black U.S.A. Beauty Pageant held each year in New York, N.Y. but sponsors were both financially unable to send the winner and certain criteria had not been met to enter the competition in New York.

Candidates will attend ten sessions that include lessons in Black History and movement. Respect, love and community involvement are stressed to each participant and has become the pageant motto. Efforts are made to include the African roots and elements of the black experience into the program.

The pageant will be held on Sunday, November 30, 1980 at 4:00 p.m.

In order to continue the goals and efforts of the pageant, more financial and community support is needed. Also, more structured activities and educational programs are needed for the winner. Past pageant winners are Michelle Day 1976, Yolanda Thompson 1977, Kelly Bonwell 1978 and Raissa Simmons 1979.

If you are interested in becoming involved in the implementation of the pageant and assist in solicitation of sponsors contact Mrs. Gater, 282-7896.

Please send all applications to Mrs. Nellie Gater, 1311 - 14th Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50314.

Council Postpones Willkie House Vote

by Dartanyan Brown

In a 7-0 vote, the Des Moines City Council on August 18 voted to postpone action on the proposed $1-million Willkie House Expansion Project.

Councilwoman Elaine Szymoniak, proposed that a combined meeting of the Woodland - Willkie Board of Directors, The United Way, Polk County, Homes of Oakridge Board and the Willkie House staff meet to discuss all the issues delve more fully into the community involvement aspect of the plan.

"It seems that a coordinated approach needs to be taken" said Szymoniak.

Councilman Tim Urban expressed his displeasure over what he viewed as "confrontation tactics" used on him by some members of the Willkie board at the last meeting held in July.

Urban also commented that the people who were advocating the expansion plan had to convince him and other members of the city council that existing facilities in other neighborhood sites were inadequate to cover what the Willkie expansion plan sought to accomplish.

Ed Bowers, Spokesperson for the Woodland - Willkie Board of Directors apologized to Urban for any personal ill - feeling he may have felt. He said that he is acting on the direction of the committee and that they felt that the proposal did not receive due consideration from the council.

Wes Chapman, President of the Willkie House also emphasized the need for action and that enough facts were already at hand for the council to make its decision.

The overriding concern from the city council seemed to involve the source of the $1 million for the project. They all agreed that more information was needed and Councilman George Nahas was to be involved in getting the groups most affected by this action together for further meetings on the subject of funding.

Bursted Bubbles: Positive Aspects Of Loneliness

By Niambi D. Webster
 "One is the Loneliest Number"

Loneliness is the only number you can't dial when you're depressed and receive a cheery reply from the other end. You're apt to get a busy signal or the operator telling you it's the wrong number. Sounds of silence. It can become vicious if you don't observe the signs of warning; no time, no energy and no interest. The bubble you've created is slowly shrinking. You figure "...if you keep as busy as a beaver building a dam, that this would alleviate the loneliness." Even when you're surrounded by friends, loved by your spouse, needed by your children, you still feel lonely. The dam is completed, you've successfully blocked the flow of the river, the warm current of communication once received from loved ones has abruptly stopped, you sit idly behind the wall blocked off, disconnected from the other end.

"Movin' On Up"
 You sit, or lie unsure of your future. Afraid of the jokes and accusations made by friends and relatives, as they offer unsolicited prognosis — "What's wrong with her?" "I think she's just weird, gone crazy, a loner." or "I think she's gay."

 "Na, she's just gonna be an old maid, too busy for a love life." Let them talk, being alone can be good, use it to your advantage. Give yourself time to think, plan the situation out, alternate courses and learn to react calmly to situations. Alone you can sort out problems and frustrations faced daily, whether it's work, kids, or spouse.

Alone you can communicate with God, fulfilling your spiritual needs. Alone you can talk aloud to yourself and freely respond without being labeled a psychopath. Planning can be a valuable gem. A resource untouched by all but you. A few minutes alone to plan can lead to a more profitable day.

If even a small amount of time is devoted to planning the course in which you choose to fulfill your life goals and charter your list of "things to do" for the day, you'll experience less headaches, ulcer flare-ups, insomnia and when the unexpected, non-scheduled situations arise, you'll find the burden will be lighter.

Finding someone to share your feelings and frustrations with, without criticism or scorn, just understanding, a listener, a good ear, is rare. One must rely on their own instincts and inner resources to solve obstacles and pitfalls when that special someone cannot be found or is unavailable. rely on self, in order to achieve self-reliance, problems without time must be spent consultations from alone, discovering the someone who cares can reflection you see daily be detrimental. Learn to in the mirror, you.

LOOK ON SPORTS

We are in the fall mixture of sports. Pre season football, final month of baseball and our U.S. Open tennis tournament. And, to make things even more messed up, Muhamad Ali is trying to trim about fifty pounds off a thirty eight year old frame and get into some sort of shape to fight Larry Holmes for his half of the heavyweight boxing crown.

I think that Ali can work himself back into shape to put up a reasonable fight if he doesn't get hit too often. He is at the age or period in his life when cuts don't heal like they did when he was in his twenties. He hardly ever cut or bled, then, but now it will be different. Holmes isn't the greatest boxer in the world, but about all he will have to do is stay in there fifteen rounds or less and that will be the end of the dream to win the title four times.

However, we shall see. Then we have the coming fight between Ray Lenard and Duran for the welterweight honors. Lots of people thought that Lenard tossed the first fight, but I don't. Had Sugar fought his usual fight, sticking and moving and used all the ring, he might have come out on top in that one. But he wanted to prove that he could beat Duran at his own game and so finished second. It will be interesting to see this next fight.

And on the baseball side, a couple of fellows left the game and for one of them I was a bit sorry to see him go, but to the other, I said Good riddance. Bill Veeck was the first American league owner to give black players a chance. There was Larry Doby and later Hank Thompson and Monte Irwin, both going on to star in the National League with the old Giants.

Veeck learned that Satchel Paige lacked only a few days to become eligible for a pension and gave a chance to pitch. He refused to play him against certain clubs because, as he put it, "The man's legs are gone and you will bunt on him. I don't want him embarrassed".

To Veeck, everybody was equal and he treated them as such.

Now I have to go to Charley Findley, owner of the Oakland A's. I really didn't know just how to catalog Findley until Vida Blue broke in with his sensational pitching. The fellow's feats called for some sort of recognition, so what did Findley do?

First he wanted Blue to change his first name to True because it would look better in stories. Then he loaned, loaned, mind you, not gave Blue a Cadillac car that was distinguishable by its color. Then the salary increase was so tiny that baseball writers were talking about it in no uncertain terms.

And when Blue refused to play, Findley tried to make it appear as if Blue were being greedy. He was to learn just how greedy people can get. But Findley's treatment of Vida Blue, the main man on his pitching staff, made me lose all respect for the man.

Looked like the good ole boss telling his slaves he know what was good for them. Now, Findley did some positive things for baseball. He pulled the Kansas City Royals out of the status of a Yankee farm team and made it possible for more working people to see the World's Series, and gave the players freedom to dress and say what they thought.

But in human relations, especially with Blacks, he batted a zero.

Football coming around the corner? Pretty soon there will be so much gridiron news that it will monopolize the pages. But there is so much news off the gridiron that that might be worth pursuing because it may well have a hand in deciding the championships.

I looked over the schedule of some of our leading black schools and I didn't see too many teams outside of their own conferences. Well now these teams have earned national respect first by the number of players they send to the professional leagues and by the fact that they always have some really tough games with each other.

Still have to wonder what would happen if all of the black players in the south were divided up among the black schools and nowhere else.

Human Relations Director Hired In Iowa City

IOWA CITY, IA- Anne Carroll, a former Davenport city employee, has been appointed Iowa City's new human relations director by Iowa City Manager Neal Berlin.

Carroll, a white female, said she had worked a lot with women in city government, and is a University of Iowa graduate in 1977 with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Carroll fills a position vacated by former director Patricia Brown, who was fired last April by Berlin amid charges of discriminatory treatment of black city employees. Brown, a black female, was fired for what Berlin called her failure to follow instructions, and since has responded with legal action.

The city of Iowa City is soon to be under investigation from the U.S. Office of Federal Revenue Sharing for violations of federal anti-discrimination law, which has been alleged by the local NAACP and several concerned citizens.

Carroll will begin the $22,000 a year job on September 22- and will earn $4,000 a year less than did her predecessor Brown for the position which Berlin has "reorganized."
