Andrew Young: Self-Help Needed For Economic Gains

GRINNELL, IA.—Former United Nations ambassador Andrew Young asserted here last week that blacks need not rely totally on the government for jobs and economic relief, but can solve many problems by looking to themselves.

The former U.S. Congressman from Georgia said there is a new and growing breed of blacks who believe one "should not wait for the government and Xerox Corporation to create jobs for them; they go to work for themselves and create jobs."

Young, 48, was speaking at an informal gathering with students on the Grinnell College Campus here last Wednesday.

He said the pool of middle-class college-educated blacks can spearhead the self-help effort. There are currently 1.25 million blacks in U.S. universities, Young said, and if each went into business for themselves and created jobs for 10 persons "Black unemployment would be virtually wiped out."

Young explained that appeals to the government for social relief should not be abandoned, but he pointed to statistics showing blacks as a whole earned $127 billion in 1979 to prove his point: "By sharing the wealth, everybody gets more."

As an example, he cited two men in his native Atlanta who started a pharmaceutical supply business which made $50 million in sales in a year's time recently. Their business created 300 jobs, and they are planning to expand their market to Jamaica and Nigeria. And yet, Young said, they have yet to reach age 35.

The young entrepreneurs' efforts have resulted in not only getting several persons off welfare rolls, but also reap benefits for the local and regional economy, Young said. Their motivation, he added, came from first hand experience:

"Both of their mamas were on welfare," noted Young. "They didn't learn about poverty and hard-core unemployment by reading a sociology book at Grinnell College."

Young said in the 1960s, the order of the day was tending to civil rights issues; in the 1970s, blacks pushed hard for and achieved political gains; and in the 1980s, he said he sees a thrust toward economic development—"Blacks making money," and using it for the common good.

"I'd rather spend my time helping our community help themselves than argue with (President) Reagan to try to get him to do it," when he most likely won't listen, said Young.

Another example of a united effort Young cited was construction of sprawling $650 million Atlanta airport. He said that efforts were initiated to ensure that black contractors received $150 million in contract work.

In response to a question about black discontent in the country brewing to a point where widespread street rebellion could break out again, Young replied that Reagan would "do nothing about it."

"I think (Reagan) would say, 'Go ahead and riot; they're not going to do nothing but burn down their own neighborhoods.'"

Young said some people in the country feel that the strategy of nonviolence to achieve social change "produced more gains than were deserved," and if black rebellion were triggered again it would be the excuse to "put black folks back in their place again."

He added that he believes some ultra conservatives are hoping for violent confrontation because they feel blacks are but 10 percent of the population and would lose such a battle.

Concerning President Reagan's intentions of cutting back food stamps, Young predicted that students and workers on strike would be eliminated from the program, but a full-scale slash of the benefits would not occur.

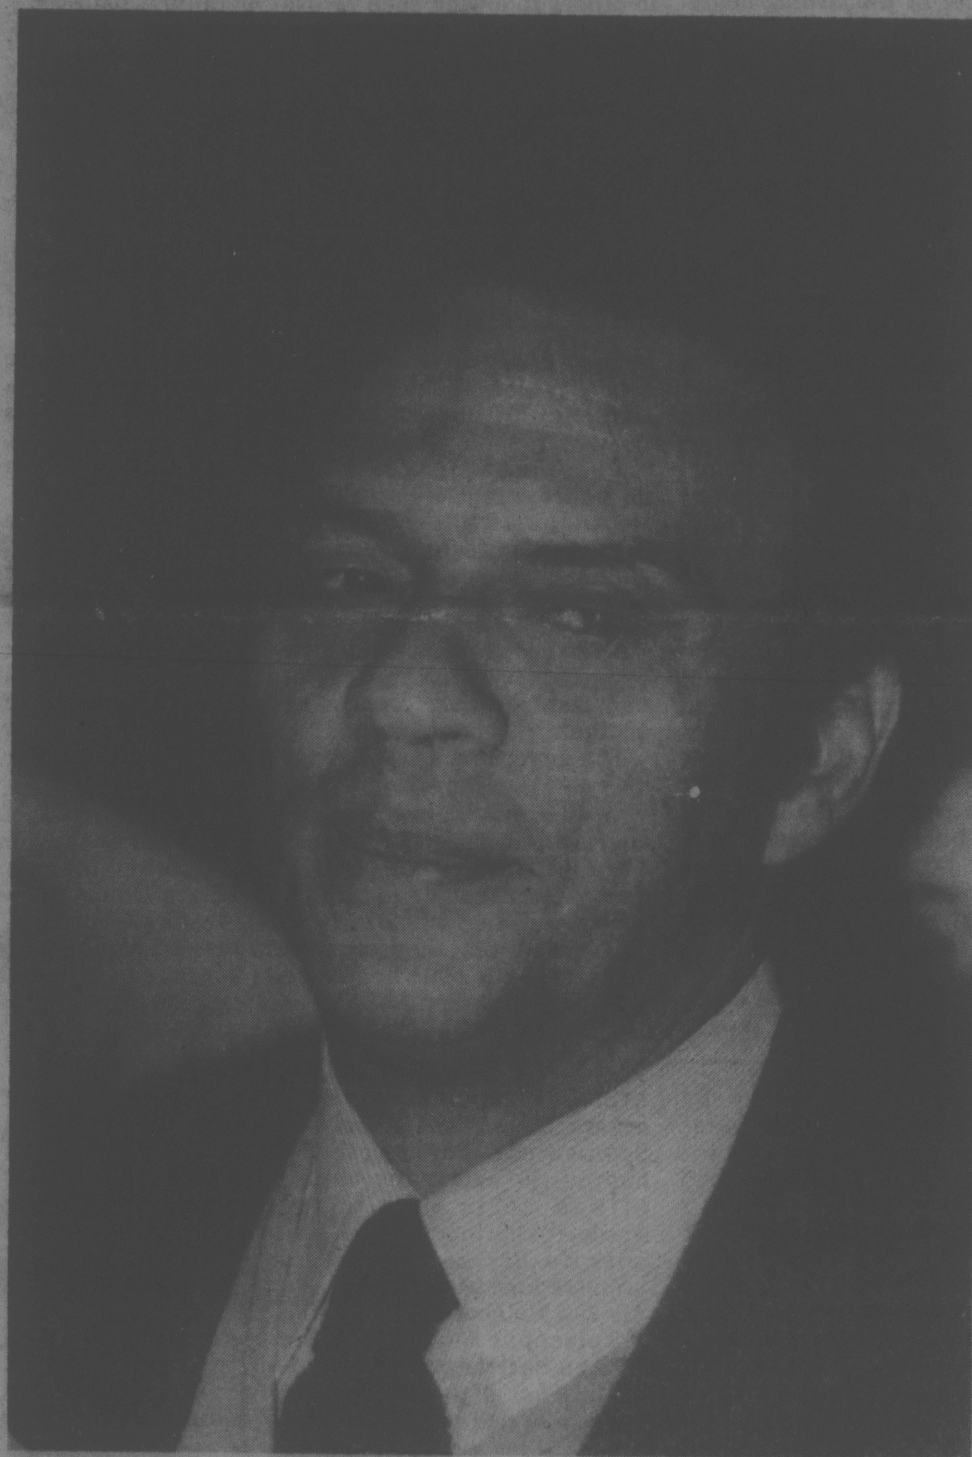

He explained that food stamps, when first conceived, were intended to benefit farmers who were paid subsidies as part of the program. They still are receiving those benefits, he said, along with the small grocery store owners who receive a large share of the stamps from recipients.

If those store owners and farmers see their livelihood suffering from meat-cleaver cuts in the food stamp program, "there will be a backlash, and the Reagan Administration will back off," said Young.

Young also scolded students during the 75-minute chat. When asked about expected cutbacks in financial aid to students, Young replied "They should be cut."

He said students were acting "downright irresponsible" by not participating in the political process and other activities. When a student gets complacent, "You're going to get

Capitalist Roundtable To Aid Minority Entrepreneurs

DES MOINES.—Local financial leaders organize to teach minority entrepreneurs "real" capitalism as a function of the Minority Business Association's (MBA) Capitalist Roundtable. John A. Jewett, Jr., an officer of the MBA, invited a select group of Des Moines financial leaders to a 7 a.m. breakfast one morning last month.

The purpose of the meeting was to make the financial community aware of the likelihood that the industry of minority businesses would fast become extinct unless something was done soon.

The group decided to organize a Capitalist Roundtable which will meet once each month in an effort to determine if a workable system can be developed to make capital more accessible to minority entrepreneurs.

Officers were elected at the Roundtable's second meeting. Dale L. Klauss of Central National Bank was selected as Chairman of the Roundtable, with Paul Burkett of American Republic Insurance Company chosen Vice Chairman.

Other officers elected at this second meeting were: Lanny Little of Iowa-Des Moines National Bank, Vice Chairman in charge of the Capital Formation Seminar Program; Larry Rooney of Midland Financial Savings & Loan, Vice Chairman in charge of the Minority Construction Bonding Program; and Vincent Ella of Davis, Hockenberg, Wine, Brown & Koehn, Vice Chairman of the Small Business Investment Corporation Program.

John A. Jewett, Jr. will serve as Executive Secretary to the Roundtable and provide linkage to the Minority Business Association as their liaison officer.

Jewett emphasized that this project is part of an ongoing five-year program initiated by the MBA to promote sound growth in the industry.

As such, industry members should not expect "overnight" success.

Looking to the immediate future, Jewett warned that there are yet "tough times ahead." However, he is confident that development of this

Thoughts and Comments

By James B. Morris III

The second case considered by the Iowa Supreme Court during the period between the passage of the Iowa Civil Rights Act in 1884 and the First World War was W. M. Humburd vs. Mrs. Edward Crawford and Leila Hunter, decided in the November term of 1905.

This was an action for damages occasioned by the refusal to allow plaintiff to eat at defendant's table. The decision in this case hinged almost totally upon the Court's distinction between that which constitutes a hotel or in as opposed to a boarding house as to whether or not a violation had occurred, and the civil rights statute was mentioned only in passing. There was, according to the opinion, no constitutional challenge to the statute itself or any of the provisions therein, so no discussion was offered on that point. It is interesting to note, however, that the Court did recognize the statutes' basic thrust, saying, "in reference to it, that" "...the evil sought to be remedied was unjust or groundless discrimination between individuals where the public generally are invited to be served or entertained".

Plaintiff was one of the jurors to whom a civil action had been submitted to the district court of Polk County during its January term of 1904. Before their deliberations began, the bailiff in charge arranged with the defendants to serve dinner to the jury, and led them to the defendants' establishment. Upon the jury's arrival, the defendants refused to allow the plaintiff to sit at their table solely on account of his color, the evidence showed; the other jurors (likely all white) were served, but plaintiff was compelled to go elsewhere to get his food.

There was no question that this was not a violation of the civil rights statute, but the issue in this appeal by the defendants was whether or not they were maintaining an eating house such as therein contemplated.

The Court began its discussion by drawing the distinction upon which the case hinges:

"...If, then, the object and practice of defendants was to serve meals to whomsoever applied, at prices charged to all, their place was an eating house within the meaning of this statute. If meals were served only in pursuance of previous arrangements, and therefore to particular individuals, rather than to any who might apply, it was a private boarding house only..."

It was noted that the trial court had specifically drawn this distinction to the jury, obviously because the private boarding house situation would not be covered by the civil rights statute. The defendants allege that the trial court's instruction was incorrect, in that the element of publicity was omitted, and in support of their contention cite decisions drawing the distinction between an inn or hotel and a boarding house. The Court, however, chose to rely on the distinction noted in the following:

"An inn is a house where a keeper holds himself out as ready to receive all who may choose to resort thither and pay an adequate price for the entertainment; while the owner of a boarding house reserves the choice of comers and the terms of accommodation, contracting specially with each customer, and most commonly arranging for long periods and a definite abode."

The Court concluded that if the distinction between an inn or hotel and a boarding house be accepted as the test to be applied in determining whether a place is an eating house or boarding house as contemplated by this statute, they felt it was applicable to this case. Not from advertisements or signs alone was the true character of the establishment to be determined, but also from the manner of conducting business; if, then, meals were served by defendants to whomsoever came and at a uniform price, as the evidence showed, this was a sufficient holding out to the world to constitute a public eating house.

Therefore, the trial court's instruction was correct, and the verdict and judgement in favor of the plaintiff affirmed. The holding of the Court (a precedent in future cases) was that:

"One who conducts a place where those who come are received as guests and served with meals without any previous arrangement as to the terms or duration of their stay, is operating an eating house within the terms of the civil rights statute (section 5008) and upon refusal to entertain a guest because of color the proprietor is guilty of a misdemeanor."

This case is the key to understanding the distinctions drawn by the Iowa Supreme Court in the previous two. In Bowlin v. Lyon, the Court made the distinction between a purely private business venture and one which is or should be regulated by the government in the public interest. The civil rights statute was not then applicable, but the distinctions and specifications in that statute, as explained in this case, indicate generally how the lines between a private and public business should be drawn.

In State v. Hall, the elements lacking from the indictment or charge, a reason for failure to serve based clearly upon color and a continuance of service to others following such refusal or failure, both were present here and a proper case thereby made out. The obvious proof problems are highlighted here, because, for example, had the individuals not specified the reason for refusing to serve Mr. Humburd, no case could or would have been made out for a violation of the statute.

In the final case, a distinctly divided Court, based its ruling upon the distinction drawn in Bowlin v. Lyon, and gives you a strong flavor of what prejudice black Iowans faced at the beginning of the First World War in 1914.

Strokes And Folks

By the time this column reaches the reader, President Reagan will have shared his plans with the people. One of the important planks, you may remember, in the Republican Party platform is putting a ceiling on the national debt.

Those responsible for the management of Uncle Sam's money have sounded the alarm that the government will run out of money by the middle of this month unless thirty billion dollars is added to the national debt.

This requires a vote to lift the ceiling on how much Uncle Sam can borrow. The original amount approved was $935 billion. It must be raised to $985 billion.

It is my understanding this extra $50 billion is for the development of the neutron bomb — the very latest idea. The Carter administration gave up the project after wide-spread protest. This is the bomb to kill people without destroying property!

Programs directly affecting American peoples' lives are to be cut beyond recognition or wiped out. Gerald R. Gill (Institute for the Study of Educational Policy) refers to this attitude toward people as "meanness mania".

The concern of this article is limited to problems of unemployed young people. Eighteen year olds are expected to register for the draft. Some have. Some have not.

The Reagan administration has announced intentions of doing away with the Department of Education. Public education would deteriorate even further, and in the process, lead back to "separate but equal" which was overruled by the U.S. Supreme Court as unequal.

The second important plank in the Republican Party is tuition tax credit. Twelve bills have already been introduced into the Congress. Charging of tuition has been introduced for the first time at City College, NYC. Enrollment dropped and an end to open admissions was announced.

The Number Two Republican plank includes tuition tax credit — a vote/getter among the middle class, conservatives, and racists, opposed, in many cases, to school desegregation. Such tax credits for private school tuition would include parochial schools with a tendency of undermining public education, it is thought by some people.

President Reagan's approach to solve youth unemployment is arousing considerable discussion. He suggests allowing employers to hire below the minimum wages and hours law.

The most serious objection to this proposal is it relieves the government of responsibility to train the youth.

A further problem is the undermining of wage scales by pitting young against old, organized against unorganized, preferences of one ethnic group over another in a work place.

The government would no longer have control over hours and working conditions.

Cuts across the board in education, chaos in the job market pitting young and old against one another in competition for an insufficient number of jobs. Insufficient funding to childcare centers means single parent families will be forced to apply for welfare.

It is clear that the Reagan administration is already tightening our belts by several notches. Can it be that this is preparation for war as a solution to problems that have no hope of solution in campaign promises?

Soul...

Food and Thought

Aldeen Davis

"A rose by any other —"

I was shocked during a recent telephone conversation, when the "gentleman" on the other end, in trying to establish my identity asked "Are you the Darky who —" I was all but speechless!

I did not realize that the word "Dark" was still in anyone's vocabulary — 1800's yes but in the 20th century? It made me realize that even tho' column's like Soul — Food and Thought has tried to educate, professors to teach, the media (TV, radio) to promote racist and racism is still with us!

So there is much to be done; we who care must work "while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work". The question is what is the proper designation for identifiable Americans of African descent, Negro, colored, Afro-American or Black?

At one time a large group campaigned for the use of the word Afro-American contending that this is the only historically accurate designation for this portion of Americas' population and that the word Negro is an epithet which perpetuates the master-slave mentality in the minds of both black and white America.

Another group, equally as large, says the word Negro is as inaccurate as the words black and Afro-American, a Negro by any other name they say would be as black and as beautiful and as segregated! Then yet a third group composed of black power advocates has adopted black for black brothers and sisters who are emancipating themselves.

And the word Negro is used contemptuously for those still in "Whiteys" bag. And so the controversy rages! The Racism in Education Conference of the American Federation of Teachers went on record asking all organizations to abandon the slavery imposed Negro for African American.

Are there substantial grounds for this violent opposition to the word Negro? Lets' go back 400 years, Africans imported by Europeans were branded negars, Negros and Moors — Moors meaning black in Spanish and Portuguese. This word not only fused humanity, nationality and place of origin but also affixed certain white judgements about the irredeemable inferiority of the persons so designated. Literate Blacks resisted the word intensely, and preferred the word African — the free African Society, African Methodist.

Episcopal Church and the preamble to the Free African Society organized in Phil. in 1787. Suddenly in the first half of the 19th century during the colonization back to Africa period, the black community began to

Spring Tour 1981 Performed By Langston Hughes COP

The Langston Hughes Company of Players (COP), a fine arts repertoire based in Des Moines / Iowa City, Iowa, will open their second season Spring tour of B L A C K KALEIDOSCOPE II, a series of dramatic, dance and musical interpretations of the black experience from slavery to the present. The production will be presented in Des Moines

Feb. 8, 1981 at the Urban Campus, 4:00 p.m. The performance is sponsored by the Student Activities Board.

This historical presentation, directed by COP Artistic Director, Niambi D. Webster, will enlighten your black history perspective as well as entertain you. It features selected works of poets Mari Evans, "Status Symbol," James

Weldon Johnson, "God's Trombones," Ntozake Shange, "Love Poem No. 4," Gwendolyn Brooks, "The Ballad of Pearl May Lee," and many more, including excerpts from black plays by Lorraine Hansberry, "To Be Young, Gifted & Black," and "A Raisin' In The Sun," and Langston Hughes "Limitations of Life." There will also be vocal / dance performances of works by several artists, including Bobby Taylor, Jelly Roll Martin, Nina Simone, and Billie Holiday, plus featured renditions of the rhythmic, syncopated, old time and contemporary gospel sounds and spirituals. In this two hour performance this dynamic and versatile group will have you laughing, crying and will instill feelings of pride and respect through a sampling of the countless number of contributions of Black Americans in the fine arts.

If all Americans, including blacks, understood the economic and historical causes of the present status of black people, the problem might not be much of a problem. Many historians, Saunders Redding, Benjamin Quarles, Leronne Bennett, Jr. and countless others have expressed the situation on paper.

Production Director, Niambi D. Webster, states that BLACK HISTORY KALEIDOSCOPE II can be viewed as an evening of entertainment, but each scene marks a period, expresses the living conditions, and relates varying conflicts and/or aspects of black life. Our main purpose is to educate, entertain and evolve the various audiences we reach into the history that is being depicted on stage, whether they be a black or white audience.

BLACK HISTORY KALEIDOSCOPE II clearly illustrates its theme, "I Am An American," through the five professional performers, Odell McGhee, Elaine Carter, Dorian Williams-Bryd, Lucia Howell, and Niambi Webster.

Through their talents they tell the story "like it is." There is no other way.

CCI Tenants To Form Association

On Wednesday, January 28, 1981, members of several Tenant Unions which have been organized by CCI, and public officials met to discuss forming a city-wide tenant association. The group agreed that although tenants are organizing themselves to deal with individual problems such as:

- 1) Sub-coded property,
- 2) Lack of proper maintenance,
- 3) Return of security deposits, and

4) The "Take it or leave it" attitude of most landlords, there remains problems such as long waiting lists for Section 8 housing, insurance availability for renters, decent housing for families with children, and the fact that landlords have formed an association to lobby against tenants rights.

These and other problems can be best addressed by a city-wide tenant association.

The group will meet again on February 26, 1981, to present their ideas to the general public. A site for this meeting has not yet been determined.

Mr. Lester Herron gave an example of how tenants are losing a proposed bill in the Iowa legislature that would give the landlord the right to give a tenant one three day notice before filing eviction proceedings for non-payment of rent, (presently the law states that two three day notices are required). Herron also stated "The only way for us to win this fight is to be organized".

If you are having a problem where you live and need more information about the upcoming meeting, call CCI at 282-9412.

favor the word colored, and free persons of color.

In 1835 at the 5th annual convention of colored people a resolution was passed recommending that the word "Colored" be abandoned when referring to themselves, and the word "Oppressed Americans" be used.

This struck fire — "Oppressed Americans," snorted Sam Cornish, "Who are they? Nonsense, you are Colored Americans, the Indians are red Americans and the Whites White Americans you are as good as they and they are no better than you".

So colored it remained until 1900 when the NAACP, Nat'l Negro Business League etc. 1930 found the N.Y. Times announcing that it would spell Negro with a capital — an act of racial self-respect for those who have been in the lower class for generations.

The word Negro means different things to different people. Some have need to reject the other terms used to achieve identity what ever one feels comfortable with should be the term he uses. The Friends were called "Quakers" in derision but instead of dodging the word they adopted it and made it a term of great respect, the same evolution of the word Negro, Black, Colored, may yet move into its rightful place in American society.

NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

Praise God from whom all blessings flow! There is peace in the midst of the storm; for all who believe on Christ Jesus. Pastor Daye expounded the word of God to us encouraging us to hold to God's unchanging hand, no matter what the price.

We praise God as the rest of the nation for the release of the American hostages from Iran. We as Saints of God are not surprised when these type of things happen; if we are not ready when judgement day comes, it will much worse for those who have not accepted Jesus as their personal savior.

On Monday nite, Feb. 2, the D.W. Smith District set-up meeting was held at New Friendship with Supt. E. Davis and Missionary D. McNear in charge. It has been settled that our District meeting for 1981 will be held in Sioux City Iowa during the month of July, 1981.

Tuesday nite is Bible Band nite, Sis. M. Moore is the president and I am sure would like to see all of the saints and well-worshippers present for this lively Bible discussion group. Friday nite is family nite, Pastor Daye is looking for all of the church family of New Friendship to please be present. We want to commend Sis. Hattie Jenkins and her helpers who served such a beautiful and delicious breakfast on last Saturday morning.

Sunday, Feb. 8, our Sunday School will be in session 9:45 A.M., morning worship is 11:30 A.M. On Sunday afternoon at 5:00 P.M., there will be afternoon service; our speaker will be Evangelist Missionary Robinson of Community No. 2.

We are also expecting Elder Crane and the members of the church to be with her. This service is in behalf of New Friendship. We are praying for our sick, Sis. Anna Williams - Broadlawn, Mo. F. Wyatt - at home, and Sis. Daye's father, H. Gipson - at home.

MT. HEBRON BAPTIST CHURCH

Although the weather outside was not desirable, "The Family Affair" program last Sunday afternoon was very good. So much so that the Pastors asked that we have programs of this sort more often.

Sunday, Feb. 8, at 4 p.m., the Gospelaire will present the Heavenly Meditators in a musical recital. Also, the J.M.H. Choir has been requested to appear on a program at the same time at Macedonia. They will do their part and keep their commitment and return to support the Gospelaire. The public is invited.

The third Sunday, Feb. 15, at 3 p.m., the Mothers' Steward and Deaconess will be at Mt. Hebron. At 3 p.m., Rev. H. I. Thomas, of Union Baptist Church, will bring the message. His choir will render the music.

The third Sunday evening at 7 p.m., the Mt. Hebron Senior Choir will be at Macedonia.

The first Sunday in March will be something to look forward to. Sis. Lurienia Jones announced that the J.M.H. Choir will present a pageant entitled "The Way It Was." If we can remember the way it was, this should create a little nostalgia.

Every Wednesday evening, 7 p.m., Prayer Service and Bible Study.

We thank God for our new members: Sis. Hazel Goldsmith, Tomika Goldsmith, Bro. Mark Jenkins, and Sis. Georgia Clardy.

Let us remember the sick and shut-ins. They are as reported: Sis. Jencie Page, Mercy Hospital; Bro. Freddie Hughes, at home; Mother Reed; Mother Love; and Sharon Kay Harris.

Thought for the week: Life is filled with many choices as to what, when, where and how; and we need to make the right ones as we face them here and now.

Jesus chose me for salvation and he's able, tried and true; but his choice is ineffective unless I will choose him, too.

Some high place I might have chosen; pleasures, wealth, society; but one day I chose the Saviour and now he lives in me.

Participants can gain hands-on experience building a solar collector at the construction workshop Feb. 14, from noon to 4 p.m.

New Solar Collector Designed

A new, low-cost solar collector design, created by a Des Moines carpenter and a staff member of a local energy education group, is breaking the high price barrier that has often deterred residential use of solar technology.

According to designers Scot Cunningham and Lindy Brady of the Iowa Center for Local Self-Reliance, materials for the new collector run about $250, but can be constructed for even less by using scrap materials. Similar commercially-built collectors cost from $500-$700.

Though the collectors are still being monitored for efficiency, Cunningham and Brady say that the 4'x8' collectors "are working beautifully."

Since installation in November, Brady says the collectors, which will work in any unshaded south-facing window, have been discharging heat between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on sunny days. "With the air going in at about 60 degrees," the ICLSR staffer says, "we've been getting heat coming out at about 90 to 100 degrees at midday."

The research and design for the collector was done as part of a project sponsored by ICLSR and the City of Des Moines, Office of Neighborhood Development. Through a City grant, ICLSR was contracted to offer free hands-on solar collector workshops in low-income areas of the city last year.

The purpose of the project was to help low-income citizens cut energy use, and therefore utility costs, by teaching them to build low-cost solar collectors. Most of these collectors were installed at no cost on the homes of low-income persons. Says Brady, "The people who have the collectors tell us that, on sunny days, they don't even need to turn on the heat because the collector keeps the room warm enough."

Plans for the collector are for sale through ICLSR, 3500 Kingman

Bld., Des Moines 50311. Free plans and a chance to win a solar collector will also be offered at a hands-on solar collector workshop sponsored by ICLSR, KSO Radio, Leachman Lumber and the Iowa Energy Extension Service.

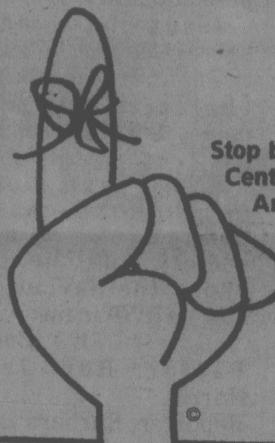

The free workshop will be held from noon to 4 p.m., Sat., Feb. 14, at the United Rubber Worker's Union Hall, 125 NW Broadway (across from the Firestone Tire plant). Those interested in participating in the building of the collectors should bring a hammer and a caulking gun. Space is limited, so interested persons should get there early.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

A program on "Care of Houseplants" will be offered by ISU Cooperative Extension Services at the Main Library at 100 Locust on two Wednesdays, Feb. 11 and 18 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Children nine years of age or older are invited to participate for a minimal fee; they will learn the basics of plant care and how to start new plants. Call 283-4101 to preregister.

Solar Collector Workshop Planned

As utility costs rise, more and more people are turning to methods such as solar heating to keep their homes warm through winter. To teach interested persons to build low-cost solar collectors, the Iowa Center for Local Self-reliance, KSO Radio, Leachman Lumber Co. and Energy for Iowans are sponsoring a free hands-on construction workshop.

Scheduled for Noon to 4 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 14, six collectors will be built at the workshop at the United Rubber Worker's Union Hall, 125 N.W. Broadway (across from the Firestone Rubber plant).

Along with step-by-step experience in building a solar collector, participants will receive a free copy of the plans for the 4'x8' collector. Participants will also get a chance to win one of five of the collectors built at the workshop. The sixth will be donated to the Iowa Center for Local Self-Reliance as a testing and demonstration model for community education.

Those wishing to participate in the building should bring a caulking gun, utility knife and a hammer. Solar information and displays will also be on view at the workshop.

The workshop will be conducted by trained staff of Energy for Iowans, a program of the Iowa Energy Extension Service at Iowa State University, under contract with the Iowa Energy Policy Council.

Representative
62nd District

Thursday, January 29, 1981—Page 15

Last week I was honored to represent District 62, in Washington, D.C. My husband, Al and I were the guests of Bill Richardson.

I met with our Iowa Senators, and the Congressmen from Iowa to discuss the concerns and ideas of my constituents.

Last fall a questionnaire was sent out to find what the concerns were of District 62. Utility rates were the number one issue of concern, while inflation, unemployment, and crime were close behind.

Successive rate increases by utility companies have been a concern to the people of district 62, especially to those on fixed incomes. I am supporting the recommendation that the Commerce Commission be given additional authority to control these rate increases.

I will look forward to hearing from you. My number at the capitol is 281-3221.

Last Thursday, Gov. Ray gave his Annual Budget Message to a Joint Session of the Legislature in which he promised no major tax increases and presented to us the most austere budget since the depression.

I have co - signed a bill to reduce the salary of legislators. I feel as legislators, we must regain the taxpayers confidence in state government. We need to set an example, that we also "must bite the bullet".

While visiting the Senior Citizens Congregate Meal Site at Nineteenth and Carpenter, last Friday, I enjoyed talking with the people and answering their questions about legislation before the 69th General Assembly.

If I can help with any problems you might have, or if you have any questions, complaints or requests regarding any aspect of state government, please don't hesitate to contact me. My phone number is 281-3221.

Senate Spotlight

By Gary Baugher

The third week of the 69th General Assembly has passed and so has the review of the current year's budget. All subcommittees have identified areas in which more extensive savings could be made and are in the process of having these proposals written into bill form.

MENTAL HEALTH / CORRECTIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

My subcommittee, Mental Health / Corrections, has identified two areas where a total of $517,000 can be used to help meet our state's general fund shortfall. Next week we will review the twenty-six options for adult corrections as provided by the Department of Social Services.

COMMERCE

As subcommittee chairman I reported out of committee to the Senate floor Senate File 1. This is the increase in garnishment bill which would raise the current $250 limit per judgment to $1,000 per judgment per year. I was assigned a bill to stiffen the bankruptcy laws of this state. I would like to see this law changed so that it is a more serious crime (bankruptcy) than present.

JUDICIARY

Not a lot of action in this committee except we refused a salary increase for judges in this state that would have amounted to more than 20%; however, I do not believe we have seen the end of this bill.

APPROPRIATIONS

This was a slow week for this committee but will increase as the subcommittees bring their ills to us for action.

I handled the bill this week on the Senate floor that changed the pay periods which overlap fiscal years. This bill was part of the Governor's legislative priorities to help meet the 1% budget cut.

If you would like to see me, write or call at the following address: Senator Gary L. Baugher, Iowa State Capitol, Des Moines, Iowa 50319. Telephone 281-3371.

RETIREMENT TEA

Washington Elementary School staff and the PTA will honor Mrs. Alma Morris, secretary, at a retirement tea on Friday, February 20, from 4 to 6 p.m. There will be a short program at 4:15 p.m. Mrs. Morris has served many of the Des Moines schools. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Ricky Baugh, son of Mrs. Mack Baugh of 821 N. Elm St., Ottumwa, graduated from Indiana State University with a Bachelor of Science degree on December 19.

H.F. 211 Relating to the salary rate to be paid to judicial magistrates in counties which appoint an additional judicial magistrate and providing an effective date.

H.F. 233 Relating to joint meetings of members of boards of an area education agency and its corresponding merged area.

H.F. 234 Relating to the fee collected for preparation, filing and issuance of certificates and copies of records by the department of health.

H.F. 235 To replace the salaries of the members of the Iowa Beer and Liquor Control Council with a per diem compensation.

H.F. 236 Providing that the state comptroller shall approve the quarterly allotment of funds appropriated subject to the governor's review or modification.

screwed, and deserve it," he said.

He said many people fought hard for four years for the right of 18-year-olds to vote, which was a success. Yet, in the 1980 election in Iowa, former U.S.

Senator Dick Clark—a man sensitive to the needs of the downtrodden and a human rights advocate—lost to conservative Republican Roger Jepsen when only 18.6 percent of the 18 to 30 age group actually cast ballots, Young said.

"That's scandalous," Young added. He said when the educational aid cuts do come, perhaps it will serve as incentive for students to get active again.

Young spent two days in Grinnell sitting in on classes, talking with students and giving two speeches on foreign policy and human rights to overflow crowds.

Young, an ordained minister, was a close associate of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and has long been active in the civil rights movement.

In 1972 he became the first black Congressman from Georgia in 101 years. He was reelected in 1974 and 1976, and served as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations during the Carter Administration until his resignation in September, 1979.

He is now an "undeclared" candidate for mayor of Atlanta and a syndicated columnist whose opinions are published in 50 newspapers across the country. Now residing in Atlanta, Young is president of Young Ideas, Inc., a non-profit organization which addresses policy questions and assists individuals and groups involved in several local, national and foreign policy concerns.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of Rochelle Raye Williams wishes to thank Dr. Jeremiah Reed, Rev. Clay Boomer, other ministers, casket bearers, Calvary Church of God, Sister Kathy Rodriguez, Sister Eula H. Boomer, Sister Elizabeth Frazier, Sister Jackie Seymour, Calvary Choir, the ladies who prepared and served dinner at the Church, and those who helped at the home, Estes & Son, for those who sent telegrams, condolences, resolutions, sympathy cards, floral selections, for your cars, food, gifts, donations, for coming to the funeral home or services, all other expressions and services rendered to our family during our deepest loss. Thank you and God bless all of you.

The family also wants to share this thought with you:
Perhaps you sang a lovely song,
Or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers,
If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all—
Just thought of us that day.
Perhaps you prepared tasty food,
Or maybe furnished a car;
Perhaps you rendered a service unseen,

Near at hand or from afar,
Whatever you did to console the heart,
We thank you so much-whatever the part.

A MOTHER'S love
A special dedication to

Leona Grant
Mother, Grandmother,
Great-grandmother.
Without reservation there shall never be
A love so strong as the love of thee.
A love as solid as the strongest metal
A love so soft as a flower's petal.
A love unsurpassed by any other
Is the special love we get from Mother.
Those times I was sure that no one cared
My heaviest burdens with love she shared.
When I was tormented and Filled with grief,
My mother's love brought
Much needed relief.
With a glance or touch
She made her love known.
It's carved in my heart
Like words cast in stone.
As massive as the ocean
With the strength of the sea,
Is my love for mother
And her love for me.
Even when delivered unto eternal peace
A mother's love will never cease.
Written by S. F. Brown.

CCI/Inner-city Businessowners Meet With SBA and IDM Bank

On Thursday, January 29, 1981, over twenty inner-city minority businessowners met to discuss problems they were experiencing in obtaining credit from conventional lending institutions as well as the small business administration. Representing the SBA were Alton Lang, of SBA Minority Affairs Division and Mr. Cobisky of the Loan Underwriters Division, and from Iowa Des Moines National Bank was Michael Carver, Vice-President. Leading the Discussion for the minority businessowners were George Brewer of Brewer Enterprises; Russell McCurn of Mac Plumbing; Marvin Jenkins of University Auto Sales and Samuel Heard of Mirror Shine Auto Cleaning.

Inner-City Businessowners gave a history of where the SBA HD lent money since October 1972 through November 1980. During this period the SBA made a total of $29,603,140 in loans in Des Moines. Of this amount minority businesses received $837,050. Only 26 of the 138 minority businesses listed in the Greater Des Moines Chamber Of Commerce and the Minority Business Association Directory received loans. Several of the businessowners present had loan applications rejected by the SBA.

One minority businessowner had been denied a loan after a consulting firm hired by SBA, (at a rate of $300 per day), had recommended approval.

When Mr. Lang was asked what steps were being taken by the SBA to encourage minority businessowners and majority businessowners in the inner-city to seek applicants, he stated "none". When asked if the SBA was developing plans which would contribute to reinvestment in the inner-city, Mr. Lang told of three projects being developed with the cooperation of the city.

Mr. Carver was asked what type of programs Iowa Des Moines National Bank had available for small businessowners. He stated that his institution had recently formed a small business department and was seeking participation of inner-city businessowners. He encouraged those at the meeting to contact him for more information or if they would like to make an application.

Both Mr. Land and Mr. Carver agreed to meet again during February to develop reinvestment plans which could meet the needs of inner-city businessowners.
