Nigerian Connection Announced By Minority Businesses

In a unique cooperative effort, a group of Des Moines - area black businesses and a Nigerian businessman have agreed to an international venture in which half of the financial benefits will be set aside to help businesses in West Africa and for a fund to help fight poverty in Des Moines.

Patrick E. Williams, of Ibadan, Nigeria, announced the arrangement this week with the Minority Business Association (MBA), a group of businesspersons associated with the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

Williams, a former Nigerian government official, owns or is involved in a variety of businesses around the world that created more than 2,000 jobs and are worth more than $20 million to him annually.

Williams said an industrial revolution that swept across America in the late 1800s is now occurring in Nigeria, an oil-rich west African country of 83 million people.

"We are short of food to feed our people," Williams said, so he came to Iowa to seek, primarily, grain and farm equipment and technology to take back to his country and other African nations.

The MBA will handle those transactions either through member businesses or through contacts with companies that have the goods and services Williams is seeking.

In turn, Williams will sell goods, such as oil, rubber and cocoa, to Iowa businesses, with the MBA serving as the "middleman." Muhammad Abdullah, MBA president, said the deal should do much to encourage more businesses to join the MBA.

Jim Mitchell of Mitchell & Mitchell Economists, and a MBA member, said in five to 10 years, the plan will do much to strengthen development in Nigeria and in Des Moines.

Williams agreed, saying that in time the venture should reap "substantial profits" that will be shared with west African countries and the Des Moines community. "We will make this Iowa initiative a model for the rest of the world to see."

Here's how it would work:

A company belonging to MBA or one that the MBA contacts would sell 40 million bushels of corn to Nigeria through Williams, for instance. The profits to the company would be divided four ways:

* 25% to a fund to help fight poverty in the Des Moines community.

* 25% for businesses in West Africa.

* 25% for the company providing the corn.

* 25% for the company to set aside as bonuses to the company's investors to help its business grow.

Mitchell said every three months, the MBA will determine the total profit from all transactions. For the money going to the community fund, certain social and civic organizations that come before the MBA board and demonstrate what they would do to better the community with a slice of the pie, will be eligible for grants.

Williams said his country is badly in need of corn, soybean meal and fish meal; electronic equipment such as calculators, televisions and video cassettes; and techniques in poultry and pig farming.

The businessman from Cross River state in Nigeria has amassed his wealth from vast real estate holdings, a plastics business, an ink manufacturing company, a large shoe manufacturing plant, sporting goods outlets, and shipping and other transporting ventures.

Nigeria is the second largest supplier of oil to the United States and is rapidly becoming a world power to be reckoned with. Williams stressed that his country always been involved "in the fight for equal opportunity for our black brothers all over the world."

Williams recalled that when Great Britain supported a "puppet government" in Rhodesia — now Zimbabwe — Nigeria responded by taking over British oil refineries and outlets in Nigeria and promptly suspending all British contracts for various endeavors in his country. When Britain initiated the peace talks that led to free elections, bringing Robert Mugabe to power in Zimbabwe, relations between Nigeria and Britain improved.

Williams and the MBA arranged their business deal after Williams met Bishop Aaron Carter Jr. through church contracts. Carter is head of the MBA's Minority Export-Import committee.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

by Allen Ashby

The recent week's program at the Wilkie House brings back a few memories. When I first knew it it was called the Negro Community Center back in 1921. It was located in the old Franklin School building on the corner of Thirteenth and Crocker Streets and moved up on the corner of Fifteenth and Crocker in 1934.

As I recall, it was under three different directors, the first being an attorney Herb. Wright. We were always amused at Mr. Wright's hot weather attire, a great big hat and a white suit. I heard that he had been an American official in one of the Central American countries, and we thought that this was just a reminder of those days for him.

Then there was a J. Wilder Moore who came and went just like that. He was followed by Mrs. Lillian Edmunds who had been acting as a part time secretary for Mr. Moore and was moved into the directorship.

Mrs. Edmunds was an outstanding woman. She was, I believe, the first black woman pharmacist in Iowa, a registered nurse and an accomplished secretary. Mrs. Edmunds had a good grasp of all that went on around her. She soon realized the public relations value of good athletic teams, and she sponsored the best in baseball and basketball.

Her softball teams were always one of the top four teams in Iowa and one of her basketball teams crashed the all white city league downtown and won the thing.

I would say that greatest recognition of the Wilkie House came through the softball teams. People around Iowa who didn't know where the Wilkie House was or what it was knew about the softball team, and I have to think that Mrs. Edmunds, being the intelligent woman that she was, made the most of this recognition for her ideas in other fields.

The Negro Community Center name was changed to Wilkie House at the suggestion of the late Archie Alexander, one of the board members. The building at Fifteenth and Crocker was several sizes too small and a new one was needed. When the Center was opened, it was established that it would be for the entire community and to all races.

Anybody who knew how Mrs. Edmunds hated segregation would know that she wouldn't have the program any other way. I remember her talking to me once, and she said that she was aware that blacks didn't think she had done enough for them in the programs. She said why should she.

The building was there for all to use and people of all races and colors were welcome to use it, but she wasn't giving anybody any special favors, and that was the way she conducted the programs.

I sometimes think that when blacks are in charge of a program for the general public and everybody is welcome, that the thing tends to begin to slip into an all black setup, and the whites begin to sense that and tend to shy away. I haven't been too close to the Wilkie House, but I think they went through a period like that, but they are definitely on the right track now.

If only some of the people who used to frequent the Community Center, as it was called, would begin to recall some memories.

Thoughts and Comments

By James B. Morris III

Brown vs The J. H. Bell Company and J. F. Lane

The only other question to be answered by the majority of the Court was whether or not the plaintiff had been discriminated against within the specific language of the Iowa Civil Rights Act. The Court cited a rule of statutory construction, "ejusdem generis," which means that "...where specific words of the same nature are used in a statute followed by the use of general ones, these general terms take their meaning from the specific ones and are restricted to the same genus; in other words, comprehend only those things of the same kind as the specific ones..."

This rule, it continued, in no way infringes on another statutory rule regarding court procedure which states, in effect, that all provisions and proceedings under the Code (of Iowa) shall be liberally construed with a view to promote its objects and assist the parties in obtaining justice. The statute reads:

"All persons within this State shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, restaurants, chop houses, lunch counters and all other places where refreshments are served, public conveyances, barber shops, bathhouses, theaters and all other places of amusements.

Any person who shall violate the provisions of this section by denying to any person, except for reasons by law applicable to all persons, the full enjoyment of any of the accommodations, facilities or privileges enumerated herein, or by aiding or inciting such denial shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The crucial phrase of this statute, according to the majority of the Court, revolved around its opinion of what sorts of things are included within the phrases "...and all other places where refreshments are served ... and all other places of amusements."

It discussed the existing case law in Iowa and elsewhere (based on similarly worded statutes) as to what sorts of things fall within the general meaning of these phrases. Citing a lengthy quotation from the earlier Iowa case, Bowlin v. Lyon (which I discussed several weeks ago), they continued by noting that although there was a consideration (admission fee) paid by the plaintiff to enable her to enter the "Pure Food Show", she was not by virtue thereof, promised a cup of coffee in return.

Neither the Grocer's Association nor the defendants promised her that, and if there were such a promise it was by the Grocer's Association, and by it alone.

The Court, noting in the defendants' answer to plaintiffs' petition that the defendants' agent, F. J. Lane, did offer to serve the plaintiff some of the coffee, but only if she would take a seat. It then reasoned:

"We must accept this as true, for it is specifically alleged in the answer, that the defendant Bell Company had its booth purely for advertising purposes and to enable it to secure customer's, and that it donated samples in liquid form to such person's attending the show as in its judgement would enable it to secure business.

It clearly appears that the coffee was a donation for advertising purposes and to enable it to secure future trade. This being true, it could refuse to serve any person, no matter what his color, for any reason, or for no reason, and even if it gave a poor reason this would give the appellant no rights or privilege. The donation could be withheld or granted according to the defendants' discretion. Manifestly defendant was not conducting an inn, restaurant, a chop house, an eating house, lunch counter, or anything of that kind or description, and it would be startling doctrine to announce that the civil rights act covers all gifts for advertising purposes..."

The Court went on to conclude:

"...It is true that plaintiff was invited with white people to the food show; but there was no guaranty that she would be treated alike by the concessioners who had souvenirs to give away, or who were advertising their goods for future trade purposes. It rested solely with the defendants to say who they would serve, and the courts should not undertake to control such matters.

The action is not for defamation, but is planted squarely on the civil rights act, and if there be no ground of recovery thereunder plaintiff's action must fail. There can be no doubt that plaintiff was humiliated, but it was one of those social humiliations which the law does not undertake to protect. It is such as is likely to befall any race or any kind or condition of men. Our social distinctions are arbitrary and sometimes extremely exasperating, but the law has no remedy for them.

The Court summarized by stating that after a careful consideration of the entire case, it felt that defendant's answer presents a full defense to plaintiff's petition in so far as it is based upon the civil rights act and that the demurrer (a motion noting that the defendant's answer is not a sufficient legal defense to the offense charged) was properly overruled.

Its ruling may be summarized as follows:

(1) That the defendant, a coffee merchant, was not conducting a place of amusement within the Civil Rights Act, requiring equal privileges to all persons at theaters and other places of amusement;

(2) That the phrase "other places where refreshments are served" as used in the Civil Rights Act has reference solely to places in the nature of those specified in the act, and does not include a booth in a pure food show rented and maintained by a coffee merchant simply to display his goods by serving coffee free to prospective patrons; and

(3) That the coffee merchant in question who rented floor space from an association conducting a pure food show, in which it had no interest, could rightfully refuse to serve patrons of a particular class, although they paid the admission fee to the pure food show, and was not, therefore, liable under the Civil Rights Act for refusing to serve a colored person with coffee.

Did I goof last week! I became so involved in writing about my friends in Logan Pioneer Club, I forgot to give the editor their photos.

The one occasion of having them early is probably why I forgot — a really sad excuse. Some of these senior citizens are no longer able to attend meetings of the Logan Neighborhood Pioneer Club because of infirmities. The celebrations of special occasions are taken to the shut-ins.

My husband and I attended the formal opening of the Carter G. Woodson Center on the second floor of the Irving-Nash Multi-cultural Center, 18th and Forest Sunday afternoon.

Mayor Pete Crivaro was on hand to cut the ribbon and express his approval of the services now available to the community.

Rashid Muhammad explained to the guests that the main emphasis in 1981 is Black role models in history to make clear, especially to young people, the contributions to the history and building of America by Blacks.

Carter G. Woodson Center provides a cross-section of Black newspapers, magazines, and assists in making available books of Black experience now difficult to find. There is a class in Black history presently taught by Zack Hamlett. A most important service now available to the community is free use of video tapes of programs and speeches recorded here and across the country.

Carter G. Woodson, founder of the Association For The Study of Afro-American Life and History in 1916 brought to Black people an opportunity to share in the knowledge once available only in the academic community. Parenting skills and classes in family relations to strengthen a sense of identity are offered by Dr. Etta Brown. Classes in job seeking and retention skills are available. There are no charges connected with any of these opportunities.

URBAN YMCA

The Urban YMCA starts its spring session of programs the week of March 2, 1981.

Lessons include: Tiny Tot Swim for boys and girls ages 3, 4, and 5; 6 & 7 Year Old Swim for boys and girls; Bus - In Swim for boys and girls in grades 3 - 6; Tumbling For Beginners; Judo and Karate for all ages; Saturday "Goodtimes" for boys and girls grades 3-6.

For more information please call the Youth Dept. at 288-0131 ext. 222.

Adin Davis, chairman of the Carter G. Woodson board emphasized the need for community support by pointing out the loss of Soul Village, the Black Theology Center, and the Black Federation. He urged community people to support these valuable programs funded by the city.

Present members serving on the Carter G. Woodson board are Cynthia Hackett, the Rev. Lewis Grady, Wilbert Coleman and Att'y Alfredo Parrish.

Among those present at the ribbon cutting ceremony and the reception were Councilwoman Szymoniak, Att'y Willie Glanton and Mrs. Evelyn Davis. Approximately 50-75 people were there.

Together, We Love Together, We Build Together, We Serve

The message, Sunday past, was given by Rev. Wilbert Coleman; the Children's Choir provided the music for the Worship Hour.

Bethel was very pleased, once again, to have the honor of hearing "The Voices of Soul" a Choir from the University of Iowa. The Singers splendidly combined spiritual and gospel numbers to provide the receptive audience with an evening of perfectly blended voices.

Tempos moved from a slow melodious chant to hand clapping, toe tapping beats; all expertly timed, rehearsed, and delivered. As the choir sang such songs as "I'm Determined to Walk With Jesus, Yes I Am, and Hallelujah, Glory to the King of Kings" one could appreciate the hard work of the director and understand the constant strive for perfection.

There will be a Roller Skating party at the Terrace Fun Spot on March 1st from 6-8 p.m. Encourage your children to participate.

District Conference will be March 5-7th. P.E. Richard D. Smith will officiate.

The Old Ship of Zion will be presented on March 8th. Mrs. McCell Clinton will narrate. The pageant will begin at 7 p.m. Choir chairperson for this effort is Sis. Dorothy Taylor.

Please remember to pray for the sick and shut-in.

Conference, after hearing the sermon, the title could have been, "Christian Unity3" — yes, to the third power.

Christians with opposing viewpoints, and capable mediators listening to and adhering to the message, "Do not become dogmatic that we cannot love one another... All are made by God... Build up the body of Christ (Church) financially and with love... Unity results from your love and expertise..." indicated a movement of unity at St. Paul Church.

Next Sunday, Rev. Grady's message will be, "Toward Calvary".

The Layman's Founder's Day Banquet was beautiful. Honoring Bishop Allen with historical facts, exquisite setting of lace tablecloths, scrumptious food, and fellowship with background music.

Bishop A.B. Carter Sr. pastor

Sunday Services were magnificent, with the Bishop preaching out of his heart! Then in the afternoon assistant Pastor E. White sponsoring a MEN'S DAY program which was very very successful, and we are thankful for the visiting pastors and their churches, who came to worship with us in this great service.

As many of you know, Bishop Carter visited the West Africa in 1977, during this trip he met the great industrialist and prosperous businessman Mr. Patrick E. Williams who lives in Nigeria, and invited him to the city of Des Moines. Mr. Williams was received by Honorable Mayor Crivaro, a press conference was held at the Chamber of Commerce and a luncheon conference was held on the 33rd floor of the Ruan Center, Mr. Williams maintained that this visit was one of the most enjoyable of all, he has made to the states.

Heavenly Temple is on the march!

COMMUNITY BAPTIST CHURCH

Pastor Rev. Guy Sanders

Last Sunday, devotions were led by Deacon George Hayes and Sis. Lillian Haynes. Sis. Haynes, gave a very encouraging testimony. She stressed on that we as christians, should walk by faith, and not by sight.

She also stated that unless we pray and read our Bible each and every day, that satan would surely get a toe-hold on us, and eventually work all through our minds and bodies.

A wonderful message was delivered by the Pastor. Preaching on "GOD GIVE US HIS VERY BEST". Text taken from St. John 3-16.

The Church was very glad to see Sis. Charlene Stanley and sons. Jerry and Harry Stanley. We are looking forward to seeing her eldest son, Tony, who was released from the army last week.

Visiting worshippers were Ms. Tracey Spivey and Ms. Pam Murphy. Following morning services, the mission had election of officers. Sis. Margaret Stanley, President, Sis. Zada Brown Vice-Pres., & Sec. Sis. Charlene Stanley, Treasurer.

Next Sunday at 11:00 A.M. Services. The message will be delivered by Rev. T.R. Brown. At 7:30 P.M. Community

Atlanta Children's Fund Drive

Concerned Des Moines citizens and organizations alike have been opening up their hearts — as well as wallets and purses — to donate to a fund established for the families of 20 black children found slain or missing in Atlanta, GA, since July 1979.

Called the Atlanta Children's Fund, the charity was initiated by E. Hobart DePatten Sr. It was set up in recent weeks at First Federal State Bank. From there, funds will be sent to the office of Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson.

Those who wish to contribute may send donations to: ATLANTA CHILDREN'S FUND, FIRST FEDERAL STATE BANK, 2401 UNIVERSITY AVENUE, DES MOINES, IA 50311.

DePatten, 59, said of the gestures of goodwill: "This won't bring back the children, but it will show the families that someone cares, and that someone is thinking of them. It might help ease their burden and let them know they're not alone."

Flags, handkerchiefs, headbands, pencils and buttons, some emblazoned with the words "It Could Be Your Child," are being given to contributors as a way to thank them and as a way to publicize the effort, DePatten said.

DePatten said the words, indeed, ring true. "It could happen here, anywhere. We live in a demented world, a demented society. Death is all around us."

All but two of the victims in the baffling string of slayings have been boys, all aged seven to 15. All have come from poor families. The tragic incidents have triggered the largest investigation in the nation's history, but has yet to yield any suspects.

The Reagan Administration has devoted only technical assistance of a FBI lab to the effort, with officials contending there are no funds available to aid in the probe.

However, countless fundraising efforts, like the Des Moines endeavor, have sprung up across the country demonstrating there are sources other than Washington to turn to in the face of federal reluctance to aid the tense and restless city of Atlanta in its pursuit of the elusive killer or killers.

Clarence Jackson, local director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), applauded DePatten's effort to address a tragedy far removed from the Des Moines area. He said he isn't surprised by the lack of federal assistance in the investigation.

"Reagan isn't overly concerned with the death of 20 black children and won't be overly concerned with any problem dealing with the black community," he said, "which is part of the whole conservative attitude of the government."

He said CORE will support the children's fund locally, and nationally the organization has been assisting in the effort.

Vincent Chapman, president of the Iowa-Nebraska NAACP branch chapter, said the children's fund "certainly is the kind of thing our chapter would be willing to get involved in." He said the matter would be placed on the agenda of their next meeting.

He said, "It is incumbent upon us as humans to add a sense of urgency to the matter," adding that citizens should write Congressional representatives to urge them to support legislation now in place for catastrophic funds, or make special allocations available to Atlanta for the affected families and to aid the probe.

Chapman said that emergency relief funding for the city is "certainly warranted" in the case. In writing lawmakers, Chapman said, urge them to fight for financing the Atlanta effort when the legislators come before appropriations committees "so they'll be sensitive to the need."

Several other community organizations also pledged support to the Atlanta Children's Fund.

PARLIMENTARY LAW & CULTURE CLUB

The Parliamentary Law and Culture Club held their thirty-sixth Founders Day Dinner at the Logan Center, Friday, February 13, 1981.

Before the dinner we sang our club song: "As We Fellowship Together." The song was composed and lead by Mrs. Rose Marie Webster.

Our dinner was catered by Mr. Norman Oakley. Everyone enjoyed the dinner.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Almo Hawkins from radio station KCCI. Mrs. Hawkins told us about her work as a TV Announcer. We learned the advantages and the disadvantages. She told us the news that took priority in being telecasted. We were told that TV work is like other jobs, education is vital and being in the right place at the right time was often the answer to getting a job as a reporter. There was a question and answer period. There were many questions.

Black History was emphasized by a song sung by Mrs. Donna Woods. The song, "The Black Woman" was composed and played by Mrs. Claudia Shepherd.

Many of our husbands and friends shared the dinner with us. Mrs. Minnie Jones, Iowa State President of IACWC, was presented to those present.

ALLEN ASHBY with a LOOK ON SPORTS

This is my first attempt at writing this junk since January 13 when I found myself in the intensive care unit at Broadlawn Hospital. So much has happened in sports that one scarcely knows where to begin.

But in January I was planning an answer to Pinkie George who had written a letter to the editor concerning my view of the Leonard-Duran fight in which Duran bailed out. Pinkie said there was logic in what I was saying, but he thought that Sugar Ray had the fight won from here to Boston, and would probably become one of the really great boxers of all time.

Well, Pinkie and I have never been really close friends, but nobody can argue with the man's boxing savvy. He has spent better than fifty years in the game as a fighter, manager and a promoter, so you would have to say he knows what he is talking about.

In my argument about having stomach pains in a football game, today that just wouldn't happen. They have a young hospital on each sideline now, and I am sure they would have given me something to settle my stomach so I could have played.

Then I didn't see one mention in tennis or sport magazines about Leslie Allen defeating the number eight women player in the finals of the Detroit Avon meet. There were several stories to the effect that she was the first black woman player since Althea Gibson to win a major title.

But Leslie did what most all of the players struggling to break into the mainstream hope to do. They hope to catch a ranking player off his game for whatever reason and score a victory so they maybe won't have to qualify to get into the really big meets. So now, maybe she won't. Let's hope she can keep hanging in there.

There has been so much written about Iowa and Drake's Lewis Lloyd that there really isn't much to say. The Hawks have a fine winter thing going for them. On top in Big Ten basketball as I write this, tops in the nation in wrestling and having a good chance to beat Indiana, which hasn't lost a swimming meet since water was invented. So right now, who cares about football? Drake didn't have to win very many games as long as Lloyd played. Crowds came out to see him play. A couple of fellows ask me if I thought he could make it in the NBA. Everybody seems to think he will. So I have to go with the consensus and say yes. Probably be another Larry Bird or Magic Johnson.

And while this is taking place, Iowa State is trying to come up with at least one more win. They have a good coach, and now maybe he wishes he hadn't taken the job, but the best coach in the business must have the players. Maybe next year.

I watched the Iowa-Iowa State wrestling match last Saturday and after observing how carefully the wrestlers tackled each other, I could understand why the bottom fell out of professional wrestling as we used to do it.

People thought most of the college matches were dull, but they were pretty evenly matched, and each one was trying to get an advantage over the other. While they were on their feet, one slip or wrong move meant that was all. So it was in my day.

Two good evenly matched wrestlers would often walk around the mat for from forty-five minutes to two hours before one went off his feet. And they would be working all the time trying to get one or the other in some sort of bind.

I thought if college wrestling looked that dull, what would they have thought of our pro wrestling. The longest match I ever heard of was one that kept both grapplers on their feet for three hours and the match lasted five hours. I don't remember who won, and anyhow, that is enough.

That's Entertainment

As in other aspects of American society, Blacks have had difficulties integrating the media — TV, radio, newspapers, magazines — that is in a positive light. Two talented and energetic black Des Moines who have cracked the "color bar" on the radio are Ruth Ann Gaines - Rhone and Vincent Chapman, Jr.

I wonder how many Blacks realize the presence of these two individuals' programs or listened? I urge you all to.

Mrs. Rhone is heard Sunday nights on WHO Radio - 1040 on your radio dial in "Black News Review" and the younger Chapman has his "Black Awareness" broadcast on Sunday mornings at the ungodly hours of 5 AM on KGGO FM and / or 9 AM on KSO AM. Notice the time slots of these programs — subtle racism?

Or as the younger Chapman explained to me then I was interviewed concerning the Langston Hughes Co., "public service" broadcasts are squeezed in whenever commercials won't be profitable. In other words when the least amount of people are listening. Too bad, they are both good shows.

Let's hope the black community will support them in the future.

Speaking of Langston Hughes, I wish to thank all members of the audience who attended Sunday's performance of Black History Kaleidoscope II by the company. We appreciated the warm response by those attending the show.

As Linda Walker Webster, one of the winners of our second annual Community Service Awards, "... There are cultural activities for Blacks in Des Moines — you just have to seek them out and take the time to enjoy..."

I also want to congratulate other winners — Diane Banks for Music, Penny & Lee Ferguson for dance, Leroy Mitchell for art, Marsha Collier for supporter of the arts, Ruth Ann Gaines - Rhone for drama and Mrs. Walker - Webster for communicative arts.

Again, as I stated

during the presentation, the above people we felt, have contributed so much to the cultural activities and achievements of people of color in the city.

Next, a restaurant not to spend your hard earned money in, is Judge Roy Beans Eating Emporium on 2nd and Court Avenue. Some friends and I tried lunch there some weeks back and were sorely disappointed! First, we had to wait at least 45 minutes even though we arrived at 11:30.

The clam chowder ordered by two of us was actually watery potato soup. Another friend's salad looked very skimpy and wilted. The hamburger / French fry / onion ring combo two of us ordered was a pale rip off of the tasty Maxie burgers from the S.E. 14th St. establishment.

Like most blacks, I don't like to see raw meat on my plate after I've ordered it well done. One of these days I will learn new doesn't mean better. Hope they've cleaned up their act by now.

ORDINANCE NO. 9900

AN ORDINANCE to amend the Municipal Code of Des Moines 1979, as amended by Ordinance No. 9781, passed June 23, 1980, and as further amended by Ordinance No. 9854, passed October 27, 1980, by repealing subsection (6) of Section 23-244 thereof and enacting a new subsection (6) of Section 23-244, all relating to the development of a public skywalk system in downtown Des Moines.

Be It Ordained by the City Council of the City of Des Moines, Iowa:

Section 1. That the Municipal Code of Des Moines 1979, as amended by Ordinance No. 9781, and as further amended by Ordinance No. 9854, passed October 27, 1980, be and is hereby amended by repealing subsection (6) of Section 23-244 thereof and enacting a new subsection (6) of Section 23-244, all relating to the development of a public skywalk system in downtown Des Moines, as follows:

SECTION 23-244 SKYWALK SYSTEM DEVELOPMENT CRITERIA

6. Skywalk corridors shall conform to the following minimum design standards:

(a) Width: Skywalk corridors shall have a minimum width of fourteen (14) feet free and clear of any obstructions or intrusions, except in the following circumstances, the lesser widths specified may be allowed:

(i) Where a column, pipe or other integral structural feature or member of an existing building will intrude into a skywalk corridor, then such corridor and the easement therefor shall be for that narrower width, for the minimum distance which is necessary to prevent such intrusion;

(ii) Where the easement for a skywalk corridor is in a building corridor already constructed as of July 3, 1980, then such skywalk corridor shall have a minimum width of twelve (12) feet free and clear of any obstructions or intrusions;

(iii) The city council in its discretion may accept a right to an easement for a skywalk corridor fourteen (14) feet in width, and may restrict the actual width of the easement for a skywalk corridor to no less than twelve (12) feet in those situations where on one side of the skywalk corridor, any barricade wall, or other physical barrier or obstruction (including, but not limited to, chain link mesh, clear glass or other material) which stands or is erected or placed between such corridor and the abutting private property interest, meets all of the following criteria during the regular hours the building or business in which the skywalk corridor is located is open:

(A) such physical barrier or obstruction comprises no more than forty (40) percent of the area of the vertical plane between floor and ceiling running parallel to and at the edge of such corridor through such property interest;

(B) in those open portions of such areas where such barrier does not extend from floor to ceiling, the private property interest may place or stand temporary obstructions within the fourteen (14) foot right to an easement area but without the twelve (12) foot easement on the open side, so long as no such obstruction shall be placed or stood within the fourteen (14) foot right to an easement width which exceeds thirty-six (36) inches in height measured from the floor and / or the ceiling (provided, however, that any such temporary obstruction affixed to the ceiling must not extend lower than seven feet above the floor); where such open spaces exist on both sides of such corridor, then such intrusion shall be limited to a total of two (2) feet divided between the two sides of the corridor at the private property interest's discretion, provided, however, that the amount of intrusion on each side of said corridor shall be uniform for the length of such corridor through said private property.

Doors which are normally closed but which open into a skywalk corridor shall not be deemed barriers, obstructions, or intrusions as referred to hereinabove.

(b) Height: Skywalk corridors shall have a minimum height of nine (9) feet, or the existing ceiling height of the space through which the corridor is to pass, whichever is lower, free and clear of any obstructions or intrusions except at those points of the corridor where a beam, pipe or other similar structural feature of the existing building requires a lower height for that minimum distance necessary to pass such beam, pipe or other similar structural feature.

(c) Delineation: Skywalk corridors shall be readily identifiable and distinguishable from the surrounding parts of the buildings through which they pass. The skywalk corridor may be delineated by different floor coverings, by walls or by physical barriers.

(d) Lighting: There shall be artificial lighting capable of providing a minimum intensity of 30 footcandles at every point along the skywalk corridor floor. Lighting fixtures shall be recessed in or attached in immediate proximity to the ceiling, except that hanging or pendant fixtures will be permitted which do not invade the minimum skywalk corridor height. If additional lighting fixtures must be provided they shall be supplied with electricity in such a manner that the interruption of service in any circuit inside the building will not result in total interruption of the required lighting.

(e) Heating and cooling: The skywalk corridor must be serviced by heating and cooling equipment capable of sustaining skywalk corridor temperatures between 65 degrees and 85 degrees Fahrenheit at all times.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication as provided by law.
