To be alive in such an age—
To live to it,
To give to it!

Rise, soul, from thy despairing knees,
What if thy lips have drunk the lees?
Fling forth thy sorrows to the wind,
And link thy hope with human kind;
The passion of a large claim
Will put thy puny grief to shame.
Breathe the world thought, do the world deed
Think hugely of thy brother's need.

Military Review

Foreword.

Born in adversity and nursed through a precarious infancy, experiencing all the hardships of the true war orphan, this the 1919 Meharry Annual and Military Review has at last become a reality. It is far from ideal, and has many faults. So, kind reader, if aught of merit you find just hold us responsible: but when some glaring fault dazzles your eye, why blame it to the war.

Should this volume prove a source of pleasure to you, fellow students, now, and in the years to come, we shall feel amply repaid. It has been a pleasure to serve you, and we wish to express our sincere gratitude for your loyal co-operation and support.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE

MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE was organized in 1876 as the Medical Department of Central Tennessee College, in 1900 the name was changed to Meharry Medical College of Walden University.

For good and sufficient reasons it was thought best to give Meharry a separate corporate existence, and on the 13th day of October, 1915, a new Charter was granted by the State of Tennessee. The following section shows the object of this incorporation:

"The particular purposes for which this charter is sought are: For the establishment, support and maintenance of a medical college for the instruction of pupils, with department of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and nurse-training, including the power to maintain a hospital or hospitals, and also to have and possess such powers and privileges as are usually possessed and exercised by Medical colleges including the right and power to confer degrees."

THE MEHARRY BROTHERS.

Meharry takes its name from five Meharry brothers: Hugh, Jesse, David, Alexander and Samuel Meharry, who in past years contributed very liberally towards its establishment and maintenance. They have all passed from their labor to their reward, but, "Their works do follow them." They were the sons of Alexander and Jane Meharry who immigrated to the United States from the Northern part of Ireland in the latter part of the eighteenth century. They landed at New York residing there for a time then went to Pennsylvania, fitted out a flat boat and floated down the Ohio river, landing at Lancaster, Adams County, Ohio.

They purchased land in the midst of a dense forest, and before it could be rendered productive hundreds of trees had to be felled, and the arduous labors of frontier life had to be performed. In 1813, while returning from a camp meeting, the father, Alexander Meharry, was killed by a falling tree. After his death the management of the farm devolved upon the mother, who was a woman of great energy and ability. She was an earnest Christian, and after the death of her husband continued family prayers night and morning. Her children reared under these circumstances became honored and useful citizens.

In early manhood the boys went to Indiana and Illinois where they purchased land at a low price and soon had comfortable fortunes. They were liberal in contributing to religious and other worthy causes.

DR. GEORGE WHIPPLE HUBBARD,

President of the Meharry Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Colleges, Nashville, Tennessee.

We present the likeness of our venerable and beloved President, Dr. George W. Hubbard, who for more than fifty years has labored among the Freedmen of the South. Beginning a Medical school with himself and one or two others, Divine Providence has spared him to see the fruits of his labor. He is now hoping to secure a suitable endowment that will make the Meharry College safe to continue her work in the years to come and may we all lend our every effort to the completion of the task, and when he throws the mantle of death about him and falls in placid sleep may it be said of him, "He finished the task."—The Editor.

MRS. GEORGE W. HUBBARD,

Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn.

Side by side with her husband, Dr. George W. Hubbard, Mrs. Hubbard has labored for these years, sharing with him his bitters and his sweets, she has never tired. Moving about the halls of Meharry in her angelic way, spreading joy and sunshine to all with whom she comes in contact, giving comfort and encouragement to her husband in his declining years as he struggles with the daily problems of the school. Long may she live, and when the end must come, may it be peaceful and quiet.—The Editor.

FACULTY.

The faculty of the Meharry Medical College is composed of thirty-four professors, each especially trained and well qualified for his particular branch. For the most part, these men are all alumni of Meharry Medical College doing special work in many of the Northern and Eastern Universities in order to keep up with the latest methods taught in the leading medical schools in the country. More than ninety-five per cent of our faculty are Negroes. This large faculty has grown from one man, Dr. G. W. Hubbard, assisted by Dr. W. J. Sneed in the early sixties. The course of study at that time consisted of two years and five months. The requirement for admission was a very ordinary English education. Nine students were enrolled during the first session, one of whom had previously studied medicine and received the degree of M. D. at the close of the session.

Dr. W. J. Sneed served as professor of Surgery from the opening of the school until a short time before his death. He was deeply interested in the work of the college and labored faithfully in promoting its success. He had previously served for four years in the Confederate army. He was a strict abstainer and refused to use stimulants even as a medicine.

The next member of the faculty was Dr. N. G. Tucker, who taught the practice of Medicine for twenty-one years, serving until a short time before his death. As an interesting and practical lecturer he had no superior and few equals.

Dr. J. Stevens served for ten years as Professor of Obstetrics.

Dr. R. F. Boyd graduated in 1882 and was chosen assistant Professor of Chemistry in 1883, and Professor of Physiology from 1883 to 1893, at which time he was appointed Professor of Gynecology and Clinical Medicine, the position he held until the time of his death.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE.

(Extracts of an Address by President George W. Hubbard at the Inauguration, October 19, 1916.)

In October, 1876, forty years ago, Meharry Medical College, then known as the Medical Department of Central Tennessee College, first opened its doors to receive colored students who wished to prepare for the practice of medicine. It was the first school of its kind established in the Southern States, and with the exception of Howard University, Washington, D. C., the only one in the United States. To Dr. John Braden, who was for over thirty years President of Central Tennessee College, belongs the credit for its first suggesting and then organizing the plan for its establishment. A small room in Tennessee Hall, afterwards destroyed by fire, was assigned for its use as a recitation room, lecture room and laboratory, and a room in the basement was allotted for practical demonstrations in Anatomy.

It takes its name from the five Meharry brothers, Hugh, Jesse, David, Alexander and Samuel Meharry, who in past years contributed so liberally towards its establishment and maintenance. They have all passed from their labor to their reward, but their works do follow them. They were the sons of Alexander and Jane Meharry, who immigrated to the United States from the north of Ireland in the latter part of the eighteenth century. They landed at New York, and after residing for a time in Pennsylvania, fitted out a flat-boat and floated down the Ohio river, landing at Lancaster, Adams County, Ohio.

They purchased land which was situated in the midst of a dense forest; and before it could be rendered productive, hundreds of heavy trees had to be felled, and the arduous labors of frontier life had to be performed. In 1813, while returning from a camp meeting, the father,

Alexander Meharry, was killed by a falling tree. After his death the management of the farm devolved upon the mother, who was a woman of great energy and ability. Only thirty acres of land had been cleared and from the products of this small farm she contrived to support her family of eight small children, and provide them with such an education as was afforded by the public schools of the neighborhood. She was an earnest Christian, and after the death of her husband continued family prayers night and morning. Her children reared under these circumstances became honored and useful citizens.

In early manhood the boys went west to Indiana and Illinois, where they purchased land at a low price and soon had comfortable fortunes, and were liberal in contributing to religious and other worthy causes.

The faculty for the first session consisted of Dr. W. J. Snead and myself. The course of study was for two years of five months each. The requirement for admission was a very ordinary English education. Nine students were enrolled during the first session, one of whom had previously studied medicine and received the degree of M. H. at the close of the session.

Dr. W. J. Snead served as Professor of Surgery from the opening of the school until a short time before his death. He was deeply interested in the work of the College and labored faithfully in promoting its success. He had previously served for four years in the Confederate Army. He was a strict abstainer and refused to use stimulants even as a medicine.

The next member of the faculty was Dr. N. G. Tucker, who taught the practice of Medicine for twenty-one years, serving until a short time before his death. As an interesting and practical lecturer he had no superior and few equals.

Dr. J. Stevens served for ten years as Professor of Obstetrics.

Dr. R. F. Boyd graduated in 1882 and was chosen Assistant Professor of Chemistry in 1882, and Professor of Physiology from 1883 to 1893, at which time he was appointed Professor of Gynecology and Clinical Medicine, the position he held until the time of his death. He was greatly interested in hospital work and was superintendent of the first small hospital that was opened on Cherry street, and then removed to the Boyd Building on Cedar street; it was later removed to the Boyd Infirmary, 811 South Cherry street, and it was known as Mercy Hospital. In his hospital the Meharry students received their instruction in Clinical Medicine. He died in July, 1912, leaving an aged mother whom he greatly loved and cared for. By his will $2,000 was left as an endowment for Meharry Medical College, and $5,000 for an endowment for Hubbard Hospital. He was a man of great energy and perseverance, and was very successful in his enterprises.

Professor West Patterson was Assistant Professor of Chemistry from 1883 until the time of his death. Few men possessed a wider and more accurate fund of scientific and general information than did Prof. Patterson. He was a friend and confidential adviser of the students, and never refused their application for aid in any and every direction whenever they applied to him. He served before coming to Nashville three years in a Pennsylvania regiment of cavalry and participated in nearly all of the battles of the Potomac. He afterwards prepared for college and completed his literary course of study at Yale College. He was an ordained minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He died November 16, 1905, and was buried among his comrades in arms in the National Cemetery, near Nashville.

Meharry Dental College.

Meharry Dental College opened in a very modest way in two small rooms in 1886. During the thirty years of its existence 325 have completed the required courses in Dentistry and received the degree of D. D. S. Dr. J. B. Singleton, a graduate of the class of 1892, has been connected with the faculty from that date, and I desire to bear testimony to his long and faithful service in successfully carrying on our work in Dentistry.

The Dental graduates have been most cordially received by the white dentists of the South, who as a rule do not desire colored patients. At the last session of the Tennessee Dental Association a resolution was unanimously adopted inviting the colored dentists to be present at the meeting of the Association.

Meharry Pharmaceutical College.

The School of Pharmacy was organized in October, 1889. Since that time we have had 233 graduates. The demand for well qualified colored Pharmacists has for some time far excelled the supply and there is a promising field now opened to graduates of Pharmacy.

Dr. William Sevier, a graduate of the class of 1892, has had charge of this department since that time. He has devoted himself unreservedly to his work, and deserves great credit for his long and arduous labors.

OUR RECORD.

From all available sources bearing upon this subject, this brief information is published for the benefit of our many friends and Alumni of the achievements and record of our dear old Alma Mater.

It is officially reported that there are about 3,000 Negro physicians and surgeons now living and actively engaged in the practice of their profession, and of this number the Meharry Medical College has contributed 1,668, nearly one-half of the Negro physicians now living.

The joy of death: To be able to go to a port where no shipwrecks occur, where peace and calm reign supreme, should cause all men to view, with pride, the hour that will take them into the realm unknown. Death brings peace to the tired soul, to the diseased ridden body of the poor sufferer it gives health, it is merciful to those who have grown old in the service of man, and lets them gently fall asleep in the arms of the Capital Pilot of Life, to awaken on the shores of a new land.

“They are not dead, they have but passed,
Beyond the mists that blind us here
Into the new and larger life
Of that serener sphere.”

TRIBUTE TO OUR FLAG.

I have seen the glories of art and architecture and of rivers and mountains. I have seen the sunset on the Jungfrau, and the moon rise over Mt. Blanc. But the fairest vision upon which these eyes have rested was the flag of my country in a foreign port. Beautiful as a flower to those who love it; terrible as a meteor to those who hate it. It is a symbol of the power, the glory and the honor of fifty million Americans.—Senator George F. Hoar.

His record as an officer soon attracted the attention of his superiors, who assigned him to command the S. A. T. C. at the Meharry College. Taking command of the school and student body about September 26, 1918, in a very short time—Meharry took on a military aspect and the boys were noticed on account of their clik and snappy salute—the sign of the soldier.

MEHARRY DAY AT FT. DES MOINES, IA.

17th Provisional Training Camp for Negro Officers M. O. T. C.

In order that the record of the Meharry graduates might become a part of the official records of the great Ft. Des Moines, M. O. T. C., in view of the fact that nearly one half of the attending physicians and dentists were graduates of Meharry, First Lieut. J. L. Leach conceived the idea of inviting Dr. George W. Hubbard, President of Meharry Medical College, to be the honored guest of the day. In response to a telegram, Dr. Hubbard visited the camp on September 20, 1917, and was received by a committee composed of Lieuts. J. L. Leach, J. A. Kennedy, and R. L. Johnson, who escorted the venerable President to the commanding officers, Col. C. C. Ballou and Major Keen, the Commandant of the M. O. T. C., who issued orders for a regimental review in honor of the distinguished guest where the usual military honors were conferred; after which he addressed the officers and enlisted men at the "Y" hut followed by a reception in the officers' barracks where short addresses were made by representatives of others schools and Dr. Hubbard in his natural and characteristic way demonstrated the efforts of Meharry Medical College to help in the present crisis.

At a late hour refreshments were served and the honored guest was returned to the station in the official car of the Commandant where he departed for his home in Nashville, Tenn.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY
FORCES. OFFICE OF CHIEF SURGEON.

November 15, 1918.

From: Chief Surgeon, 2nd Army
To: Division Surgeon, 92nd Division, A. E. F.
Subject: Field Hospital at Millery.

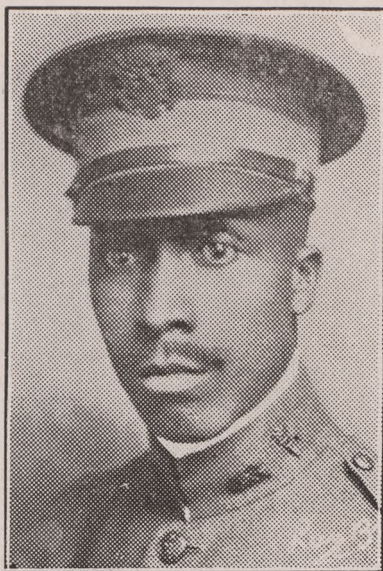

1. I desire to express my admiration and appreciation of the splendid hospital organized and administered by the Medical Department of the 92nd Division at Millery.

Your department has received most favorable comments by the Army Commander, the Sanitary Inspector, Second Army, Chief Medical Consultant, Second Army and the officers in charge of the section in Sanitation in the office of the Chief Surgeon, American Expeditionary Forces, and of all medical officers who have visited the institution.

The transportation and hospitalization of the battle casualties and respiratory diseases have been accomplished in accordance with the principles of military surgery and preventative medicine, which reflects the intelligence and training on the part of the officers, nurses and enlisted men of the Medical Department of the 92nd Division, in which pride may be justly felt.

MAJOR H. H. WALKER, M. R. C.

Major Walker entered the service as a National Guardsman and won his spurs at Ft. Des Moines, Ia., training camp. By his initiative and attention to duties, coupled with his previous military training, he was elected as a Section Chief from which he won his spurs as a Captain, Medical Corps.

At Camp Funston, Kans., he was assigned to duty as commander Ambulance Company, 368th, 317th Sanitary Train. After several months of domestic training at Camp Funston, he carried his company to France where he and his men distinguished themselves for bravery and especially 1st Lieut. Edward W. Bates, who won special citation in general orders for bravery.

Capt. Walker was promoted to Major M. R. C. as a result of previous recommendations in France. He ranks high among the officers of the A. E. F. and is a physician and surgeon of no mean ability.

Officers who served with Captain H. H. Walker, M. C.—Left to right: First Lieut. Dona O. Baldwin, M. C., First Lieut. Fenton N. Goodson, M. C., Capt. Frank A. Pearl, M. C., First Lieut. Edward W. Bates, M. C., First Lieut. Allen A. McDonald, M. C. First Lieut. Edward W. Bates was cited in orders for bravery under fire.

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

CAPT. J. ARTHUR KENNEDY.

CAPTAIN J. ARTHUR KENNEDY, M. C., U. S. A., RECEIVES AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED AND EXCEPTIONAL
VALOR FROM GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING, A. E. F.

Captain J. Arthur Kennedy, M. C., U. S. A., Surgeon of the 2nd Battalion 366th Infantry, 92nd Division, A. E. F., was recommended by Maj. A. E. Sawkins (white), commanded of 2nd Bn. 366th Infantry for the American DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS for exceptional valor and meritorious service under fire at Norray, France, November 10th and 11th, 1918, and received his citation on the 16th inst., from General John J. Pershing, A. E. F. It was during those last twenty-four hours of the great world war, within only fifteen kilometers of METZ, that impregnable German Fort, the world's strongest fortification; this mouth of hell for twenty-four long continuous hours belched forth its great clouds of deadly gas and massive shrapnel by the thousands, aiding by innumerable bombing-planes and machine guns upon these colored Americans of the 92nd Division. It was during these trying hours among the dead and dying that Captain Kennedy voluntarily moved his Aid Station from a bomb proof dugout thirty feet deep, five hundred yards behind the front line of the 366th Infantry at Heminville, France, to Norray right on the front line without dug out protection, out in the open exposed to the German's fire, there in a partially wrecked shack with the assistance of four of his well-trained hospital corps men. From 7:45 a. m., Sunday, November 10, 1918, to 11:30 a. m., Monday, November 11, 1918, he personally attended and evacuated 360 severely gassed and wounded men of his Battalion. These men were carried on litters two miles from Captain Kennedy's Aid Station under fire, over shell-torn roads and through narrow winding, muddy trenches to horse-drawn ambulances. They were then taken four miles back to the 368th Ambulance Company's Station under command of Captain H. H. Walker, of Nashville, Tennessee; here they received further attention and were transferred to motor ambulances and carried five miles further back to the Field Hospital. It was Lieut. Bates, of Louisville, Ky., with twenty of his best ambulance corps men, who carried Captain Kennedy's gassed, wounded and dying under shell fire, from the Aid Station to the Ambulance Station. For his meritorious work, Captain Kennedy the following day recommended Lieut. Bates for the D. S. C. and had his twenty men CITED IN GENERAL ORDERS long before he knew that he himself had been recommended by Major A. E. Sawkins for the AMERICAN DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS. On the 11th month, 11th day and 11th hour, the zero hour on which the world decided to at least suspend hostilities for a time; when the firing had ceased and all gassed and wounded men had been attended and evacuated, Captain Kennedy worked until late in the evening of that final day, identifying, wrapping in blankets and tagging for burial the many dead left upon the battlefield. Among the dead was found the body of Lieut. Guy Canady of Atlanta, Ga., who was killed on the 10th. Lieut. Rush, also of Atlanta, Ga., this same fatal and eventful day, had been attended and rushed to the hospital by Capt. Kennedy in the quickest possible time. Lieut. Rush lived four days. About 7:00 p. m., the Captain had finished his work and was sitting on the wreckage of his Aid Station when he was reminded by his orderly, Private Earl Pursely, whom he had also recommended for a D. S. C. and which he later received, that he had not eaten since Saturday noon, November 9th. Capt. Kennedy took the last draw from a Luck Strike cigarette which he was smoking, looked off in space, flipped away the butt and sat down to supper, having done without food 55 hours.

Captain Kennedy is a graduate of the Pharmaceutical and Medical Departments of Meharry Medical College, Physician and Surgeon of Chicago, Ill., was one of the consulting physicians in the illness of the late Madam C. J. Walker of New York. His reciprocity in medicine covers forty states and in Pharmacy, thirty-two states.

CAPT J. A. OWENS, Supply Officer Field Hospital 366.

Capt. Owens has the distinction of serving as supply officer for the Triad Hospital at Millery, France. This hospital won special mention in a letter from the Chief Surgeon which may appear later among these pages. As distributing officer, he handled thousands of dollars for the government with such exactness and efficiency that he was offered several flattering positions with the French Mission.

Capt. Owens entered the war early and was loved and respected by all who knew him. He proved an officer of rare ability.

CAPTAIN CHARLES O. HADLEY.

Beginning his military career in 1905 as a private in Company "G" unattached National Guards, State of Tennessee, having served as Sergeant and Lieutenant of the Company upon the death of Captain. H. H. Bowman, Capt. C. O. Hadley was promoted to Captain of the Company in October, 1913.

Pushing his Company with his usual pep and thoroughness, at the usual annual inspection his Company ranked among the best in the State. At the outbreak of the war, Captain Hadley's Company was soon recruited to war strength, and was Federalized July 25, 1917, at Nashville, Tenn., and was later sent to Memphis, Tenn., to do guard duty, guarding the great Mississippi River Bridge. After three months' stay in Memphis, the Company was ordered to Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C., being the only colored troop in Camp.

March 31, 1918, the Company sailed for France, arriving at St. Nazaire, April 14, 1918. The Company was brigaded with the French 157th Division and after a few weeks training was sent immediately into the Verdun sector. With a long record of active service, the entire regiment was decorated for bravery under fire by the French. Under G. O. 30 Hdqrs., A. E. F. dated Feb. 13, 1919. Capt. Hadley was permitted to attend a special four months' course at the famous Toulouse University, where he took a special course in French Literature, French Language, Practice of Medicine, Dermatology and Syphilology. The Doctor is now again at Meharry in his new Laboratory, and doing general practice.

FIRST LIEUT. H. L. ALLISON, Infantry.

Although Lt. Allison is not a Meharryite, he served with Captain C. O. Hadley of Co. K 372nd Inf., formerly "G" unattached National Guard Nashville, Tenn. Lt. Allison is a professional soldier and won his spurs from the ranks. He won many distinguished medals and citations for bravery and the flag of his entire regiment was decorated by the French, the 157th French Division with whom they served. Lt. Allison will no doubt succeed Captain C. O. Hadley as commanding officer of Co. G.

MEHARRY STUDENTS' ARMY TRAINING CORPS UNIT.

As a result of the Washington Training Camp held at Howard University, Washington, D. C., August 1st to September 16, 1918, at which 445 schoolmen representing seventy schools and colleges, were prepared as instructors in Military Science. Twelve A or collegiate S. A. T. C. units; fifteen B or vocational units, and informal military training at twenty other schools were established.

The movement for the success of the S. A. T. C. thus assured Meharry Medical College turned to the problem of inauguration of its own Student Army Training Corps.

On Saturday, September 28, 1918, Lieutenant Joseph H. Cooper arrived in Nashville to take charge of this organization. On the same day Lieutenant Lawrence E. Boyd, Personnel Adjutant, also arrived.

On October 1, 1918, the work really started and about seventy-five men with First Lieut. Joseph H. Cooper, Commanding Officer, Second Lieut. Lawrence E. Boyd, Personnel Adjutant, assembled in front of Hubbard Hospital where the American flag was raised. Applications for joining continued and by Nov. 15, 1918, the organization was 237 strong. In the meantime a band of about thirty pieces was being organized. The organization increased so rapidly that it was almost impossible for two officers to handle it; so the District Inspector assigned two more officers to the unit making a total of four officers: First Lieut. Joseph H. Cooper, commanding; First Lieut. David A. Lane, Adjutant; Second Lieut. Alfred E. Marshall, Quartermaster and Second Lieut. Lawrence E. Boyd, Personnel Adjutant.

MEDICAL STAFF.

First Lieut. William Calhoun, M. R. C.; John H. Hale and Julius A. McMillan, Contract Surgeons.

On December 18, 1918, the Battalion was 493 strong having a Military Band of thirty-five pieces. Just at the point where the Battalion was thoroughly organized, the armistice came which caused immediate demobilization, and by December 23, all men were discharged and ready to leave for a grand Christmas as civilians.

FIRST LIEUT. GEO. W. BUGG, M. R. C.

Lieut. Bugg was among the first Negro physicians in the Medical Corps in the U. S. Army in the State of Tennessee. Having volunteered his services early in the war. He attended the Training Camp at Ft. Des Moines, after which he was ordered to Camp Dodge for duty. By his request he was placed on inactive duty and ordered to his home, Nashville, Tenn., where he enjoys a lucrative practice as a physician and surgeon.

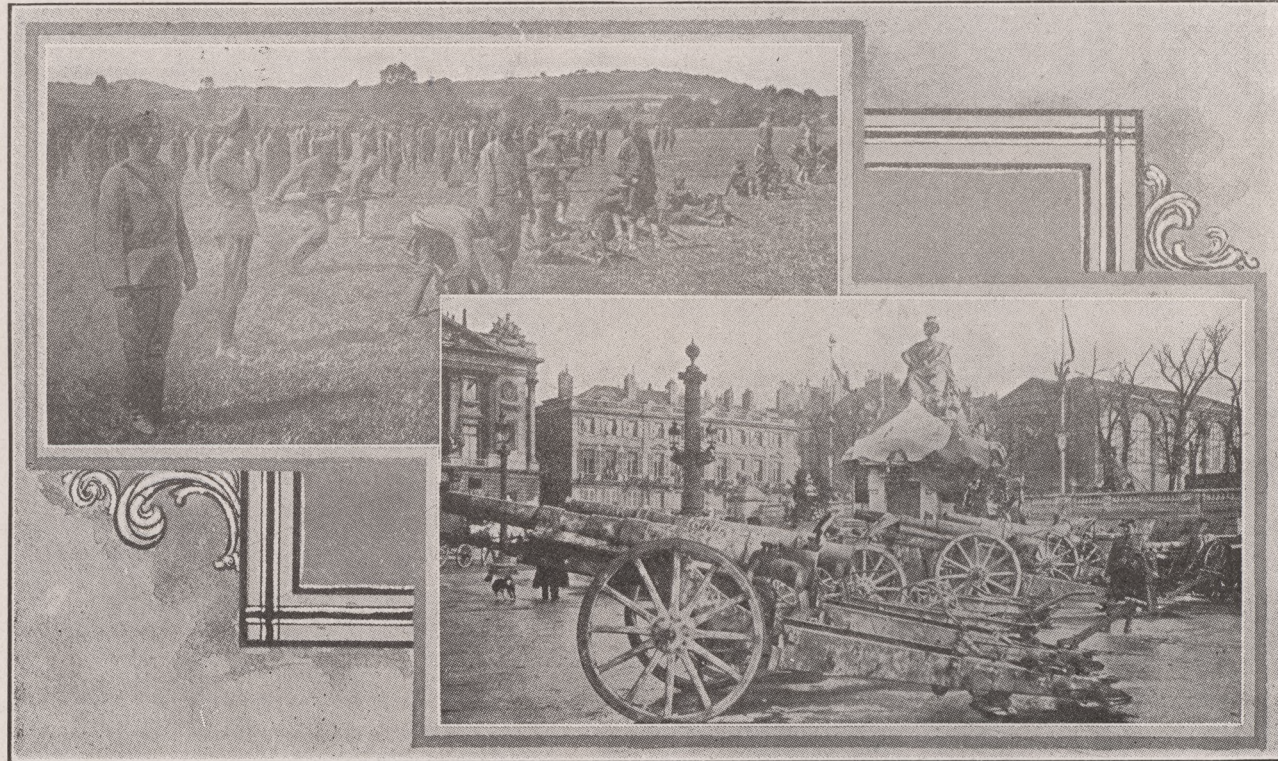

1. Dressing station in charge of Negro officers and enlisted men
2. Rolling Army kitchen in charge of Negro cooks
3. Negro troops on their way to the front lines.

Surgeon and Medical Detachment 349th Machine Gun Battalion, Camp Funston, Kans.

1. Evacuating dead and wounded Negro soldiers from front line trenches. Meharry doctors were there. 2. Animals killed on the roads to Metz. 92nd Division held this sector. 3. Throwing hand grenades into the enemies' trenches.

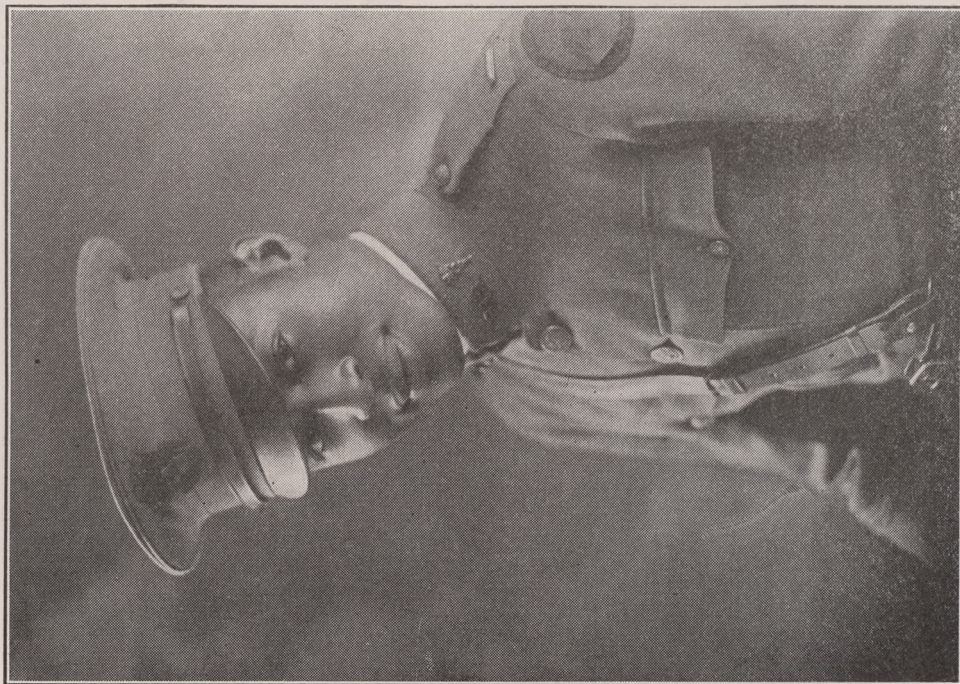

1. Negro Machine Gun Battalion, 92nd Division in France in training. 2. A few of the captured German guns on exhibition at the Place La Concord, Paris.

FIRST LIEUT. J. N. RUCKER, 317th Supply Train.

Lieut. Rucker was assigned to this battalion at Camp Funston, Kans., performed the arduous task of recruiting the same and accompanied the battalion to France. His men performed the difficult task of truck driving, delivering food, ammunition and equipment for the fighting troops, bringing the entire number back to the United States without the loss of a single man. For several months he was the only colored officer on duty with the battalion.

He was loved and esteemed for his exactness and efficiency which also won for him several recommendations for promotion which was delayed owing to the Armistice. He won special commendation from the Division Surgeon, Colonel White for the efficient manner in which he conducted the medical department.

FIRST LIEUT. L. L. ROGERS.

FIRST LIEUT. LINELL L. ROGERS, M. R. C. U. S. ARMY.

The American Red Cross, U. S. A. General Hospital No. 21. Denver, Colo.

Among the first to answer the call of Uncle Sam was Dr. L. L. Rogers, while doing post graduate work in Chicago, preparatory to entering into the practice of Medicine. Having graduated from the Meharry Medical College in Class 1915, ranking high in all of his classes, and associating himself with the local practitioners of the city he soon became a valuable man in the hospital. Owing to his high rating he was selected as one of the Meharry representatives as Intern at the Old General Hospital, Kansas City, Mo., where Dr. Unthank, the Superintendent said, his services were highly satisfactory and wanted that they all be like Dr. Rogers, the same applies to Dr. James A. Owens.

Completing training at the M. O. T. C., Des Moines, Ia., where he won signal recognition he was assigned to duty at Camp Funston with the 317th Sanitary Train, with which organization he served throughout the war as a member and supply Officer of Field Hospital 367. He won the esteem and respect of all his superior officers and the enlisted loved and trusted him in all matters pertaining to their comfort and welfare. No officer or enlisted man attempted to put anything over on Lieut. Rogers. In Battle he was as cool and composed as in his Chicago office. His promotion to captaincy was delayed owing to the rule, imitated by Gen. C. C. Ballou, "Keep down promotions in the 92nd Division."

Lieut. Rogers is now a patient in the U. S. A. General Hospital No. 21, Denver, Colo., where he is undergoing treatment caused by exposure while at the front. The Meharry Annual wishes for the Doctor a speedy recovery, and much success. The Editor.

Officers of the 317th Ammunition Train.

Officers of the 317th Ammunition Train, 92nd Division, Domfront, France.

The only organization in the 92nd Division commanded by Negroes during the war and including the last shot at Marbach, France. Major M. T. Dean commanded this organization and the record shows an organization of 1,200 men and 34 officers passed through the entire war without a single General's court martial or one serious breach of discipline. The health of the regiment was excellent. Capt. J. L. Leach was on duty as surgeon.

LIEUT. JESSE L. LEACH.

HEADQUARTERS, 317 AMMUNITION TRAIN, CAMP UPTON,
NEW YORK.

March 5, 1919.

From: Major M. T. Dean, 317th Ammunition Train.
To: 1st Lieut. Jesse L. Leach.
Subject: Recommendation.

1. Before taking leave of you by the muster out process from active service, I desire to express my appreciation of the efficient service you have rendered and to testify to the manly qualities exhibited by you during your service with and under my command in the 317th Ammunition Train.

2. Those qualities are requisite in an officer, I have found to predominate your active service career to such an extent that I am pleased as well as conscientiously required to state that I have always found you to be most efficient, dependable conscientious in the performance of your duties and exacting in recruiting those under you to zealously carry out instructions.

3. Your efficient service has contributed to dispel the assertion of many that the colored officers did not possess the qualities required in a commander of troops.

I desire to express my thanks for your thoroughly efficient and at all times loyal service, and your energy and devotion to duty.

M. T. DEAN.

LIEUT. GOODSON.

FIRST LIEUT. FENTON N. GOODSON.

Commissioned First Lieut., M. R. C., July 10, 1917, and was among the first colored officers to report from the middle west. After receiving hard training at Ft. Des Moines, Ia., he was assigned to active duty at Camp Funston, Kans. Owing to the scarcity of colored physicians at his home town, St. Joseph, Mo., he was asked to resign and return to his home to help in the threatened epidemic of the Spanish "Flu."

Returning to his home he rendered valuable service to his country and his race by battling against the spread of the Spanish Influenza. Lieut. Goodson was an efficient officer and was rated high for his efficiency by the commanding officer.

The Meharry Annual and the Military Review wish the doctor continued success.

FIRST LIEUT. THOMAS L. ZUBER, M. C.

LIEUT. ZUBER.

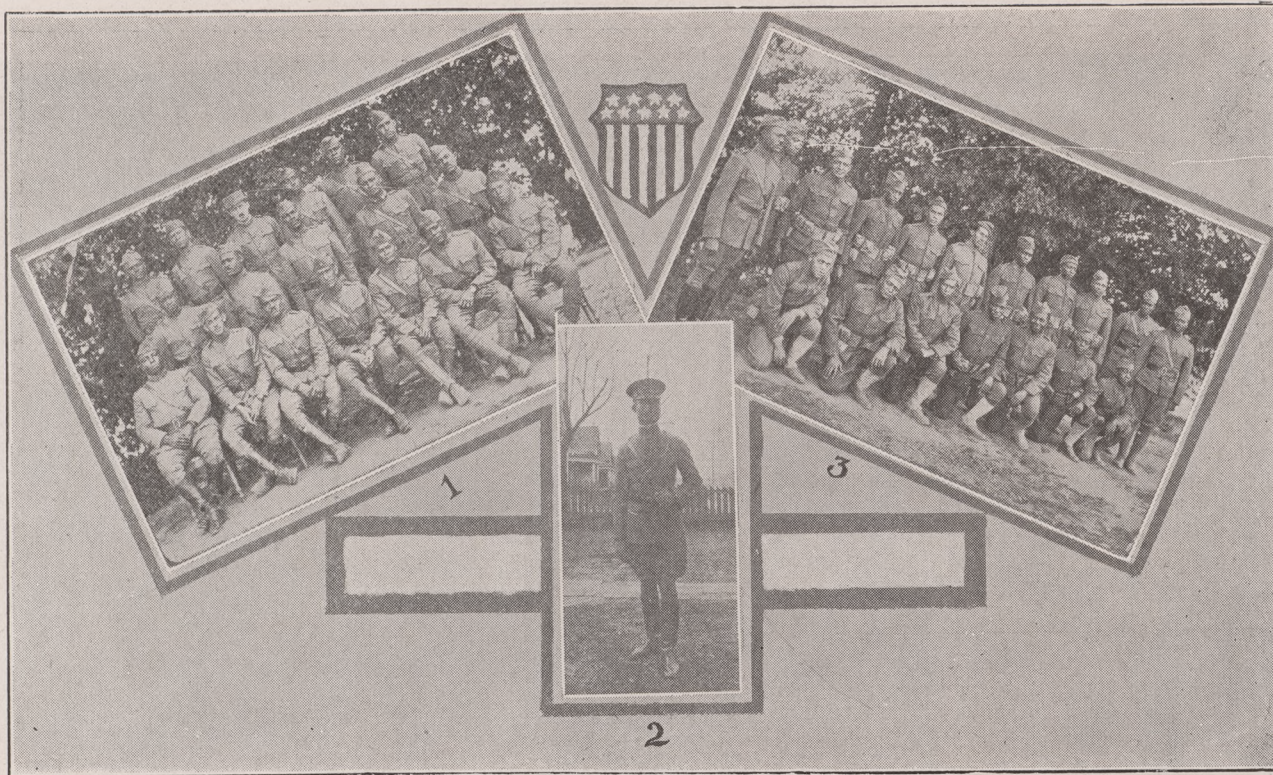

First Lieutenant Thos. L. Zuber, M. C., U. S. Army, was also among the first of the Meharry men to offer his service to his Government at the outbreak of the war, and won his commission as First Lieutenant Medical Corps, after a grilling examination in Mississippi. Leaving his family and a lucrative practice at West Point, Miss., he entered the M. O. T. C., Ft. Des Moines, Ia., where he distinguished himself for capacity and leadership.

In keeping with his qualities as a fighter and leader of men, especially under strain he was assigned to duty with the 365th Infantry, 92nd Division, Camp Grant, Ill. After filling the difficult task of assisting in recruiting this excellent regiment he remained on duty with it throughout the campaign in France. He was engaged with his regiment in what is known as some of the fiercest fighting in France, and rendered valuable service to his men while under fire. During this service Lt. Zuber was as cool in the dischargement of his duties as he is in his West Point office, where he is known as one of the leading physicians in the community.

He was recommended several times for promotion by his Commanding Officer, both in the States and in France, but owing to the policy of certain higher officials to hold down promotions in the 92nd Division, and later the Armistice in France prevented the delivery of his commission in France. These things never disturbed the Doctor, he kept up his reputation for efficiency until the day of his discharge, having fulfilled his obligation to his God, his country and his race. Lt. Zuber was offered a higher commission after his discharge, but preferred retired actual civilian life. The MEHARRY ANNUAL wishes the Doctor a continuous prosperous life.

CAPT. VANCE H. MARCHBANKS.

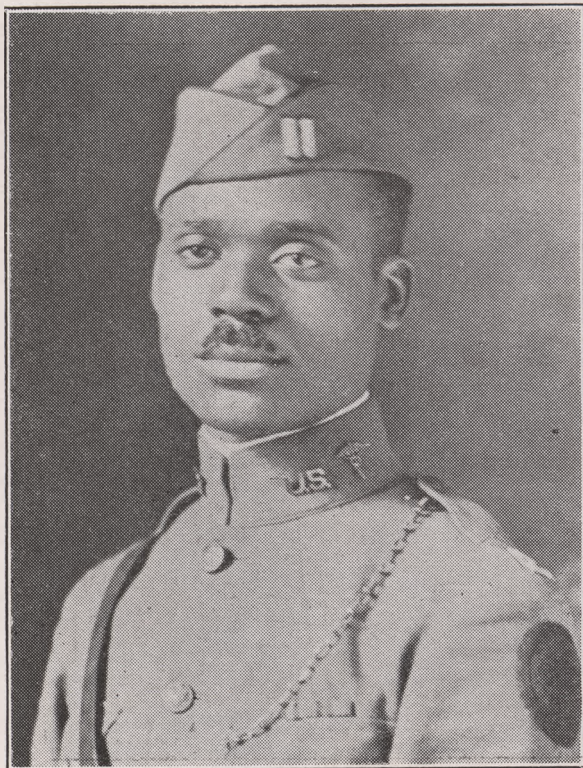

While Capt. Marchbanks is not a doctor or Meharryite we take this opportunity to present his likeness and a brief of his army career. Capt. Marchbanks is a professional soldier, and as an officer he ranked in class A. He has served in the 9th and 10th United States Cavalry for more than 16 years, and possesses many distinguished medals and citations.

In the recent war he served as Captain of Company L, 768 Infantry and he and his company engaged in some of the hardest fighting in the Argonne, Metz and Marbache sectors.

First Lieuts. T. L. Zuber and L. H. Gilmore and Capt. Taylor.

Capt. Taylor served with the 366th Infantry and with the 317th Sanitary Train as Divisional Ear, Eye, Nose and Throat specialist, the only Negro Medical Officer assigned to such a post. First Lieut. L. H. Gilmore served with the 365th Infantry and won meritorious citation for bravery while on the front.

CAPT. J. L. LEACH, M. C.

Active Service in France.

Promoted to Captain April 14, 1919, War Department Order 98, dated April 14, 1919. As a result of previous recommendations before the Armistice. Served with the 317 Sanitary Train, Commanded Field Hospital 365, 317 Sanitary Train.

FIRST LIEUT. JAS. M. WHITTICO

Battalion Surgeon, 368th Inf., 92nd Div.

Leaving his wife and family and a $5,000 practice at Williamsen, W. Va., Dr. Whittico entered the service as First Lieut., M. R. C. Called to active service August 9th, 1917, completing the full course at Ft. Des Moines, Ia., where he won special recommendation for his initiative, efficiency and tact which resulted in his assignment to one of the best regiments of the 92nd Division.

His services at Camp Meade attracted the attention of the Camp Surgeon who repeatedly recommended him for promotion to the grade of Captain. He was engaged with his regiment in some of the hardest battles fought in France, where he followed his troops into action where he rendered valuable service to his men under fire. He was easily found when a bullet or shell from the enemy's gun found its mark.

Having been honorably discharged he has returned to his native state to begin anew the practice of medicine; having covered himself with credit both for his country, his school and his race.

THE DOCTOR.

OATH OF HIPPOCRATES

I SWEAR by Appollo, the physician, by Æsculpius, by Hygeia, by Panacea, and by all the gods and goddesses, calling them to witness that according to my ability and judgment I will in every particular keep this, my oath and covenant: To regard him who teaches this art equally with my patients, to share my substance and, if he be in need, to relieve his necessities, to regard his offspring equally with my brethren; and to teach his art if they shall wish to learn it, without fee or stipulation; to impart a knowledge by precept, by lecture, and by every other mode of instruction to my sons, to the sons of my teacher, and to pupils who are bound by stipulation and oath, according to the law of medicine, but to no other.

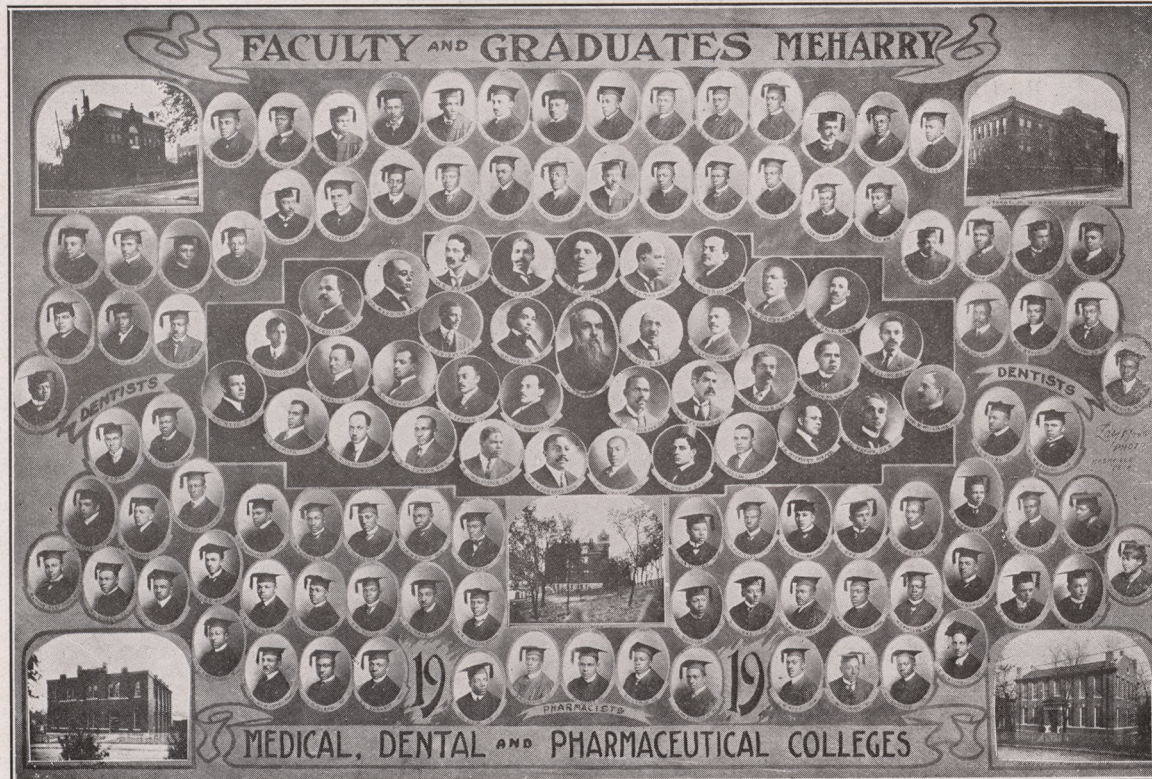

I WILL USE that regimen which, according to my ability and judgment, shall be for the welfare of the sick, and I will refrain from that which shall be baneful and injurious. If any shall ask of me a drug to produce death, I will not give it, nor will I suggest such counsel. In like manner I will not give to a woman a destructive pessary.

WITH PURITY and holiness will I watch closely my life and my art. I will not cut a person who is suffering from a stone, but will give way to those who are practitioners in this work. Into whatever houses I shall enter I will go to aid the sick, abstaining from every voluntary act of injustice and corruption, and from lasciviousness with women or men—free or slaves.

WHATEVER in the life of men I shall see or hear, in my practice or without my practice, which should not be made public, this will I hold in silence, believing that such things should not be spoken.

WHILE I keep this, my oath, inviolate and unbroken, may it be granted to me to enjoy life and my art, forever honored by all men; but should I by transgression violate it, be mine the reverse.—(Translation by Edgar A. Emens, Syracuse University.)

MEDICAL CLASS HISTORY, 1919

Master of Ceremonies, President Hubbard and Faculty, Associated Doctors, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Approximately every state in the Southland, and a number of the Islands, exemplified their willingness to be the donors of forty-three of the most highly educated men of the world, when in 1915, we being possessed of that unbridled audacity to say, "Medicine is going to be an art, where thou gleaned that untravelled world, whose margin fades forever and ever when we move."

Congratulations, fellow surgeons, upon being the first class to enter after the raise of the medical standard; largely responsible for the erection of the Anderson Anatomical Hall, caused the signing of the armistice, secured the one-half million dollar endowment, putting Meharry back where she belongs, class A; and class that said you are no longer Dean, but President, Cum lauda ad infinitum.

"Why sure brother, down in Memphis they give a dram of oleum Tiglii."

The following five ladies are receiving the degree of Registered Nurse from the George W. Hubbard Hospital:

Miss Lurline Champaigne, Kingston, Jamacia. "Me love Merican mon. Merican mon knows how to love." "It is better to love what you can't have than to have what you can't love."

Miss Willie D. Givens, Norfolk, Va., better known as hard boiled number one.

Miss Etta Belle Gordon, Texas. May be married. The lady who believes in masculine concentration.

Miss Mabel C. Northcross, Humboldt, Tenn. Speaker for the class. Assistant head nurse. Well, it's a good thing she hasn't got time to go out.

Miss Bessie C. Yerwood, Austin, Texas. It has been suggested that Bessie dear spend some time in Florida for her health—Orlando by choice.

Now for sure enough DOCTORS:

Mr. Albert Junius Bacote, South Carolina. Engaged. It is good that "Baby-Coat" heads the list, for it will take all 43 of the remainder to push him by the board.

Mr. James Asberry Bone, Married. President of the class. Jimmie is never seen in the Hospital unless it is along research work. Well, the old man has been laterally anastomated to the piney woods of Georgia all his days.

"Now class, don't run off on a tangent, don't run off on a tangent."

Mr. Chas. Homer Dixon Bowers—Alphabet Bowers. Engaged. Class prophet. Born "Turpentine" Parish, La.; President of class sophomore year. Uncle Mike must be related to Wm. Jennings Bryant demonstrated by his many aspirations for officeship.

"Fellow, do you notice that I am not saying much about this? Don't know much about it either." "Gentlemen, it's all relative."

Mr. Wm. Benjamin Brooks. Spent the first two scores of his life in the rice fields of La., next four years on State Street and now with his head as white as cotton says, "Medicine is a progressive science."

Mr. Edward Major Brown. May be married. Henderson, Ky. "Mr. Brown, what is indican?" Answer: "Why indican is nothing but a glucothide."

Mr. Paul Lawrence Bryant, Fairburn, Ga. Banquet orator. Married. Miss Kid, what time is it?" "J. H., its 9:15" "One lick and we are into the cavity. Now we'll sweep around here and palpate the ductus communis choledocus and have the foremen of Winslow. Sorry boy, it doesn't mean anything unless you have something back here. We're coming out. What time is it?" "J. H., its 9:15 1-2." Let the record show that we did a supra public pan-hysterectomy in 30 seconds."

Mr. John Oby Catlan, Maurice, La. Married in the noblest sense of the word. President of the Ind. League of Spasmodics. Here's the way he percusses (phalangeal stroke). Latest pronunciation patent, ci-ca-trix, ca-thet-e-oi-za-tion, and hy-per-tro-phies.

Mr. Horace Brantley Cochran, College Park, Ga. Republican Senator from said state. General Manager of Clay-pipe Smoking Federation.

Mr. Donnell Paul Coleman, joined us in our sophomore year after spending two years in business at 35th and State Street, Chicago. He operates thrice weekly at the McMillan Cottage Home and Jefferson Street Hospitals—7:00 to 11:00 p. m.

Mr. Sam Homer Daniels, Orlando, Fla. Supposed to be married. Sergeant-at-arms for the class and chief detective for the hospital.

"My! My! My! I believe I heard some one say, 'These ain't no duct.'"

Mr. Joseph Collington Davis, Beaufort, S. C., married. "Mr. Gray says so, and he's an authority."

Mr. Chas. Simmons Foster, Chester, S. C., married. "The divisions of electricity are magnetic, galvanic, Franklinc and frictional. I'm giving something definite and I'm expecting something definite in return."

Mr. Robert Ignace Francois, St. Martinsville, La. Married. Discovered in the cane brakes of the above mentioned state during reconstruction. President G. U. O. of the class sleepers. Chief police Hospital, last watch only.

Mr. Benj. H. Grant, Canfield, Ark. Engaged. Walking encyclopedia. God of medicine.

"Well the biggest thing to do in a case like this is to say not to become infected yourself."

Mr. Estes Jeffres Gumm, Danville, Va. Class orator. Chemist of the class. Claims to be a natural born doctor. Just here putting in time.

Mr. Sam F. Harris, Bolivar, Tenn. President of class in Junior year. Had two class meetings—first to install the officers last to say goodbye. During our pilgrimage here he has been President of the Redmen's Tobacco Chewing Alliance. He is engaged also. "Mr. Harris, what is an epiplocele?" Ans. "Prolapse of the intestine." "Goodbye Mr. Harris."

Mr. James Ottoway Henley. Engaged. Tampon king from Missouri. Class monitor. Office hours 7:30-9:30 p. m., 2nd and 4th Thursday evenings, Jubilee Hall. Other lady patients by appointment only.

Mr. Minor James Holmes. "Humble servant," from Missouri, also alias "Fatty degeneration" Engaged. "Now is atropin used for ophthalmological purposes?" "Why certainly."

Mr. Joseph Horshon. Georgetown, British Guiana, S. America. Better known as ca-pil-larics. Automatic question box. "Dr., can I ask a question." "No, you can't ask me a question."

Mr. Robert J. Howard, Virginia. Walking Gray. Treasurer Eastern Sweaters Union.

Mr. Robert B. Jackson, Jr., A. B., Atlanta, Ga., Fulton County, R. F. D. No. 13, Box 23. Son of old man Robert B. Jackson. If not able to get mail out that far, return, for a married man has such a hard time.

Mr. Rolly Jack Johnson, Jr., A. B., M. D., D. F., X. Y. Z. Panama City, Panama. If marrying doesn't anesthetize intellectual inertia, what will? Answer—shaving.

Mr. Clay H. Jones, Victoria, Texas. Man with the baby talk.

Mr. Isham Sam Lee. Due West, "So Calene." Better known as river-slap. "Now what I was about to say, however, in order that, notwithstanding, I should say, its just like this, what's your question?"

Mr. Earl Rutherford Livingstone, "Without the final e." McCrary, Ark. Better known as "Tic-Livy, the old Cadaver." Following physical signs he read in a clinic. "Simi solid, freely movable, pedunculated nodule." Mr. Livingstone, what is a molecule?" Listen at the answer from the genius. "A baseball." Has been engaged.

Mr. Lawrence Adrian Moody, Kingston, Jamaica. Engaged. Infrequently seen, less frequently heard, and never thought of. Good boy, but needs to step on the accelerator.

Mr. James Albert Northcross. 35 years on the farm, 3 years in Le Luxe, and what's left to medicine.

Mr. Tully England Owens. Matriculated in 1899. Possibly he may nose by this time, but he is certainly in "No man's land." "New theory is that if a family lives on a hill the children will be boys, and if in the valley, girls."

Mr. Van L. Polk, Ft. Worth, Texas. President of the Lone Star Syndicate. Engaged. "Bogus" man.

Mr. Wm. Sam Quinland. Better known as "Little Willie." President of the Ancient Free and Accepted Sudorifico. Regardless to whether you are green, blue or Brown, he will whip you if he can catch you.

Mr. Arthur W. Roberson, Ft. Worth, Texas. Better known as Spikes. "Now I'll tell you, a fool can ask a question, dat a wise man can't answer. Where you going wid all dat acid?"

Now for the president of the famous triumvirate. Mr. Emery Irwin Robinson, Brunswick, Ga. Recently engaged. President of class freshman year, Orator sophomore year, President Y. M. C. A., Junior year and now in his senior year has been promoted to night duty nurse Hubbard Hospital and Mess Sergeant, S. A. T. C. Attention!!! Following men are detailed for kitchen duty tomorrow at 7:15 a. m.: W. B. Brooks, P. L. Bryant, J. A. Bone and E. M. Brown. As you were.

Mr. Lonie Routlen, Earl, Ark. Has managed to successfully say the wrong thing all the time for the past four years.

"Boy. How'm I teaching? How'm I teaching? I know my junk."

Mr. Joseph C. Sheffield, Victoria, Texas. "Now you go there and you have to do a podalic version. What would you do? Doctor, does she drink coffee or eat carbonhydrates?"

Mr. James Franklin Sistrunk, Ocala, Fla. "Gentlemen, you'll be surprised to know how many are going to fail."

Mr. David C. Smith, Athens, Ga. Praying man for the class. Married

Mr. Arthur H. Stephenson, Buff Bay, Jamaica. Vice President of class. Famous speech, O Liberty! Liberty! Com-mit-tee.

Now for the chief of the class, Mr. John Henry Taylor. Earliest history cotton fields of Mississippi some twenty-five years ago. "Well now you've been reported to me as having one wife in Indianapolis, two in Chicago, three in St. Louis. Is that right, Tillie? and at least half a dozen here in Nashville. Now what have you to say for yourself?" "Doctor, whoever told——" "Shut up, shut up, not a word. Just pack your trunk and go back to the cotton fields of Mississippi."

Mr. Jesse Etta Wallace, Calvert, Texas. Post Master of the Ugly Society.

Mr. James E White. Joined us this year. Principal North Carolina Institute for dummies.

Mr. Chas. C. Wiggins, Spartanburg, S. C. Engaged. Has seen service in three wars. "What have you got to say about "reduction en blanc" "Well, doctor the author didn't lay much stress on that." "Well give some of his views." "He says that's a secret nature holds."

Mr. John Henry Williams, Norfolk, Va. "Now Mr. Williams, what connects the third and fourth ventricles?" Answer: "Corpus Spongiosum."

Finally classmates, you've been big, bold, bright, breezy, brainy. biophagus, lean, learned and literary; encouragers to underclassueen; but of medical education; beckoning light of democracy without the disjunctive conjunction; may your shadow never grow less, and may you always feel as grateful as the humble Georgian, composer of this history.

PROPHECY OF MEDICAL CLASS 1919.

Once upon a time, so all fairy tales and legends have begun through all ages, there came to a little village not far removed from this great city a band of roving Gypsies. As they pitched their camps far out in the hills which skirted the town, all was exciting for the rumor was not long spreading that they were the most wonderful Fortune Tellers in the world.

Although I had little faith in such things, out of curiosity I decided to try my luck. As I entered the tent I was directed to a bench. Since I was more solicitous for my friends of the class of '19 than for myself, I was informed that I must travel alone through a vast land of mystery. I consented to whatever was proposed, so I extended my hand to take a little stone that was handed me—immediately all was changed—

Beautiful to behold stood our nurses fair,
A band of Heavens with abilities rare,
Miss Mabel C. Northcross stood first in line
Head Nurse at Meharry so gentle and kind.

Miss Bessie L. Yerwood of the Lone Star State,
As an angel of Mercy is exceedingly great.
As stern as a rock and jammed full of Ginger,
Is Miss Willie A. Givins of Norfolk, Virginia.

Cupid so active, so anxious, so game,
Has succeeded in changing Miss Gordon's name.
The work of a nurse is a mission supreme,
But the duties of a wife was Miss Gordon's dream.

Miss Lurline Champaigne from the Isles of the sea
To Meharry came a trained nurse to be—
Her love for the calling in letters of gold
Is stamped indelibly in the depths of her soul.

Again all was changed—

This time, I found myself in a dark cave so rough, barren and desolate that save for a weird form that sat before a large frame, it seemed that human foot had never trod.

As I stood in amazement I seemed to hear a strange voice as coming from far in the distance saying: "Members of the Medical class of 1919 of Meharry Medical College, appear." Immediately I was hurled into space over land and sea, over hill and vale until at length I found myself standing on strange land. I found myself in Georgetown, British Guiana, S. A. Dr. Joseph Horshom appeared on the scene and told me of his wonderful achievements and demonstrated the fact that the Question Box of the class of 1919 is the Medical Sage of Georgetown, British Guiana, S. A.

Straightway I journeyed into Antigua, B. W. I., but was very pleasantly surprised to learn that "Little Willie" of the class of 1919, now Dr. W. S. Quinland, had gained world wide recognition as a Bacteriologist and Pathologist in his home and as a result has been called to the Carnegie Institute for Medical Research work where he is now reflecting great credit upon himself and his world famed Alma Mater.

Only a little time elapsed before I was in Kingston, Jamaica, B. W. I. Dr. L. A. Moody, prosperous, proficient and popular reigned supreme.

While in Meharry he was intoxicated with love, now he is supersaturated with success.

It was impossible for me to return to the states without visiting "Jamaica Ginger"—the boy at 45 years of age. So I landed at Buff Bay, Jamaica, B. W. I. How wonderful is success! How complete the transformation! Out of old "Jamaica Ginger" has evolved the wonderful Dr. Arthur H. Stephenson, owner of a magnificent drug store, recipient of Government compensation, possessor of a lucrative practice, a doctor of the first magnitude.

In the twinkling of an eye, on the wings of the ethereal breezes, I had reduced the intervening space to "nothingness," and was again in America; was again in the cave dark and barren. Revolve! O thou mysterious wheel, was the command this time and once more space faded imperceptibly fast before my lightning like advance.

My first stop was in Massachusetts, the city of Boston. Was Meharry represented there? Yes, most nobly so. Dr. Joseph C. Davis enjoys an obstetrical record which overshadows that of King, Edgar or De Lee. Dr. Davis is no more the camouflage but the real doctor—the true Obstetrical Genius.

Once more this strange voice was heard—once more the huge frame revolved. When this revolution ceased I was in the "Prairie State" of Illinois. My arrival was hailed by Dr. John O. Henley, no longer the Fashion Plate of the class of '19, but the House Surgeon in the Lakeside Hospital of that city.

Dr. Donnell P. Coleman is there riding in one of the most modern cars on the market and enjoying a practice second to none.

Dr. Jas. A. Northcross is the talk of State Street.

Out on Calumet Avenue is Dr. W. B. Brooks, no longer sweating over O'Riley's physical diagnosis for his doubting has given place to confidence. His sweat drops have been converted into diamonds; and his persistent efforts crowned with success a hundred fold.

No less active than before was the great frame and no time was lost in wending my way into Ohio. In Cincinnati, is Dr. Rolly Jack Johnson, A. B., M. D., the greatest Gynaecologist of the 20th century.

Once more stasis gave place to motion and as a result another state was reached and another member of the class of '19 appeared. In Indianapolis, Ind., Dr. John H. Taylor, agile, alert and aggressive is thrilling the entire city with his rare medical skill and his growing popularity.

The voice thrill and weird commanded "move," and as a bullet fired from the muzzle of a Winchester rifle, I am hurled into Missouri. Just imagine, my friends, how glad I was to see in Kansas City, Dr. Van Leon Polk, the money man of Meharry. Not only the money man of Kansas City, but is, Polk the money man, Polk the married man, Polk the gentleman and last but not least, Polk the Doctor of medicine.

Inquiry revealed the fact that Dr. Minor J. Holmes had established an eviable record at Old General Hospital, Kansas City, and had gone back to Warrenburg, Mo., his home to administer to the needs of suffering humanity. Presently I found myself in Warrenburg motoring with Dr. Holmes through its most popular boulevards. A short stay with Dr. Holmes showed that the humor, wit and aptitude he possessed at Meharry had been converted into wealth, popularity and medical efficiency beyond measure.

From a distance I heard these words, "The Sun shines bright in my old Kentucky Home, 'tis summer the whole world is gay. The corntops ripe and the meadows are in bloom, and the birds make music all the day." How sweetly were the birds singing when I lifted my eyes consciously. Really I was in Kentucky riding through and about Henderson, viewing the great estate of Dr. Edward M. Brown and listening to his praises being sung throughout the entire country.

Dr. John O. Catlan, formerly known as the paranoiac of the class of '19, now very comfortably located in Louisville, Ky., entertained me at his beautiful home and is success personified.

Again the huge frame hurled me over hill and vale; again I landed but this time in and among the coal fields of West Virginia. There I found Dr. Robert J. Howard still quiet but deep; still studious but practical; still economical but wealthy.

A short jump put me into Virginia. In Danville I found Dr. Estes J. Gunn, a silver tongued orator of the class of '19. As a result of his reservedness, his thoroughness and of his exactness, Dr. Gunn is looked upon today with great pride; he is looked upon today as a colossus of medical strength.

In Norfolk, Va., is Dr. John H. Williams still practical and as usual, reaping a bounteous harvest.

As I continued to think of the class of '19 my course was directed toward the Palmetto State. I was indeed very solicitous of my old classmate, better known as "Scales." When I found him he still scaling, but not scaling Wharf Avenue, in search of a Possom, but scaling the height of the medical profession in search of medical fame.

Dr. Chas. S. Foster is indeed a medical genius, he is indeed the medical wizard of Chester, S. C.

To my greatest joy I found that Dame Fortune had granted the judge of the Senate of the Senior Mansion his one greatest desire—that is privilege to practice medicine in the Palmetto State.

Down in Aiken, S. C., is Dr. Isham Samuel Lee, tall and stately, the Hale of the Lee and Johnson Sanitarium.

I was compelled to tarry longer in South Carolina for I wanted to see Dr. Chas. C. Wiggins, the Biglow of class '19. In Spartanburg, S. C., I found him. He is Biglow still, but instead of being Biglow of the Senior Medical class, he is Biglow of the world. Dr. Wiggins is one of the leading surgeons of his day.

Society Hill, S. C., next gained my attention for there I met Dr. Albert J. Bacote, steady, unassuming but successful.

Just as the mighty sun gradually decreases in brilliancy, before the advancing eventide, so did the mysterious frame gradually become immobile in the world—born in the state of Georgia in the New York of the South—Atlanta.

There old friends and classmates intermingled. I saw the real business side of Dr. Paul L. Bryant's life; there I saw that medical foundation which he so carefully laid at Meharry built into a medical character equal to that promised by man anywhere.

There too, is Dr. D. C. Smith, prepared, reserved, influential and prosperous, an alumnus staunch and true.

Surely my thoughts carried me back to the Senate chamber in the Hubbard dormitory and by association of ideas, the senior Senator of Georgia, appeared upon the screen of my consciousness. The Senator is now the world's reputed Dr. Horace B. Cochran of College Park, Ga.

As I continued my tour through Georgia, I met in Middleton, Dr. James Asberry Bone, formerly known as the Hospital police of the senior class of '19. He is a police still, but this time he is a police of his section of the country and is arresting the progress of all sorts of diseases among our people, thereby ridding them of those villanous criminals that are ever ready to sap the very life out of mankind. Ever ready to convert a strong vigorous and healthy ancestry into a weak, sickly and dying posterity. Dr. Bone is a tower of medical strength.

Comfortably and luxuriously established in the little village by the sea—Brunswick, Ga., is Dr. Emery I. Robinson still influential, still eloquent but married. Dr. Robinson is a power and reflects great credit upon himself and Meharry.

After practicing for some time in Marietta, Ga., Dr. Robert Benton Jackson is just opening one of the most modern Sanitariums in the state—success eventually manifests itself covetedly.

The prediction that the "Tyro" of the medical class of '19 would be a complete failure has been hurled against the mighty bulwark of success and dashed into a million pieces, for in Saundersville, Ga., I found Dr. J. J. Salters not the Tyro, but the ideal doctor—a true apostle of health.

"Big Sam" of my class now gained my attention. No sooner had I thought of him than I found myself alighting from my means of conveyance in the progressive city of Birmingham, Ala. On one of the most beautiful sites of the city stood the home of Dr. Samuel F. Harris. He is still

"Big Sam," but not big only in stature, but big politically, big religiously and big professionally.

Time was being stretched, speed was being increased and I was being wafter onward—yes onward into Florida. In Tallahassee, I found Dr. Samuel H. Daniels, head surgeon of the State College of that city. Daniels was rough and ready at Meharry—Dr. Daniels is ready now.

Dr. James F. Sistrunk of Ocala, Florida, has the leading practice of the city. Dr. Sistrunk was a brilliant student while at Meharry—he is an excellent doctor now.

Time commanded me to hurry on, and on I went, when at length I found myself in Texas. In Houston, I found Dr. C. H. Jones as progressive as any other doctor in the city. Restless I was until I was in Victoria, Texas, with my old friend, Dr. Joseph C. Sheffield. He made his way slowly but surely. He is a power down in Texas.

I was determined to see all my classmates in Texas; so I next struck out for Calvert, where Doctor J. Etta Wallace is really a medical god. Just before leaving Texas I stopped in Fort Worth, to seek "Old Spikes" of the Medical Class of '19. He is there with the goods; he is there with the money; he is there an influential physician.

Just as the noon day sun reluctantly loses itself behind the western horizon, so is my sojourn among the members of the class 1919 winding itself into finality.

Straightway did the mighty frame propel me into Arkansas.

In Little Rock, I found Dr. D. H. Grant, the greatest diagnostician in the state.

Dr. T. E. Owens is there also, thrilling the city with his brilliant success.

In Earl, Arkansas is Dr. Lonnie Routen doing a great work for himself, but more especially for humanity.

Most especially was I desirous of seeing Cadaven—the old fireman—better known as “Old Tick.”

In McCrory I was interested at the home of Dr. Earl R. Livingston. That ambition possessed while in school has been directed into the proper channels and as a result today we have in Doctor Livingston an Alumnus, who is reflecting credit upon Meharry. A doctor who is wholly efficient, a professional man of spotless character.

For the last time the huge frame shot out into space, for a last time it stopped in that section of the state so beautifully pictured in these lines from Longfellow's Evangeline: “Beautiful is that land with its forests and fruit trees. A garden of roses, the bluest of Heaven's bending above and resting its dome on the walls of the forest.” They who dwell there have named it the “Eden of Louisiana.”

In St. Martinville, La., is Dr. Robert J. Franchois, a recipient from him that performs every good and righteous act; for out of the grit of a debilitating disease, the Almighty has seen fit to take him and restore him to vigorous manhood. Thanks be Divine Providence for Franchois is rendering a noble service to humanity.

At last my dear friends I find myself face to face with my own position in life, a full account of which my modesty will not permit me to give, but desired information may be had from any other member of the class of 1919.

Straightway the mystic form arose and waved a magic wand whereupon the cave seemed to crumble and as I started at the great crash my eyes opened just in time to see the Gypsy Fortune Teller take the Magic Stone from my hand.

As fantastic as this experience might have been, as a member of the class under consideration, I entertain the greatest hope for our success, and since by acting in accordance with our motto: Esse Quam Videri" —To be rather than to seem—we have reached our present status in life, there is no doubt in the minds of all optimistic people, that this class will stand out as a beacon light serving as a mighty benefactor to humanity, serving as a human embodiment of sterling worth and efficiency of our peerless faculty, serving as a source of great pride to our world famed Alma Mater as a means by which the spotless character and great spirit of philanthropism, so characteristic of our venerable President, Dr. George Whipple Hubbard, might be scattered to the four winds of the earth.

MEHARRY Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Meharry has been in successful operation for about ten years. The work done for the past session has been of an unusually high character, and about 250 of the Meharry students have been enrolled. In addition to the usual Sunday afternoon services, at which addresses were given by prominent ministers and laymen, the Bible class was held every Sunday evening during the session with a total enrollment of about seventy.

The association has exerted a most salutary influence on the students of Meharry, and during the coming session it is hoped that every one of the freshmen classes will become a member. A reception committee has been appointed to meet all new students who will notify President Hubbard of the time and train on which they expect to reach Nashville, and will aid them in securing a boarding house, and render any other service that may be needed.

Horatio Erwin, President.
R. E. Clark, Vice President.
F. B. Williams, Secretary.
R. I. Strickland, Treasurer.

THE MEHARRY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

Among the important items transacted at the meeting of the Meharry Association last Tuesday were the arrangements for the participation in the Meharry Foundation Fund and the election of the new officers for the ensuing year. According to expectation, the meeting was largely attended. Apparently the membership, according to the best informed, seemed to be increasing at each session. The attitude of President Hubbard in building up the endowment for Meharry and pushing the extension work seems to have attracted such attention that the alumni plan to join hands and push more vigorously this particular phase. The newly elected officers are: Dr. J. R. Martin, dentist, president; Dr. Mattie E. Coleman, medical, vice president; Dr. J. A. Lester, medical, secretary; Dr. J. H. Holman, medical, assistant secretary; Dr. J. B. Singleton, dentist, treasurer; Dr. J. H. Hale, medical, chairman of the executive committee. One of the actions of the Alumni Association that is calculated to bring much prestige was the election of the graduating classes of all departments to membership with the plan on to make active the entire membership list for 1919. It was learned also according to statements given out that about nine hundred dollars in cash is at present on hand and that more than half of the ten thousand dollars pledged by the school has already been raised through the assistance and co-operation of the Association. The remaining half, it is learned, will be raised during the summer.

MEHARRY ANNUAL

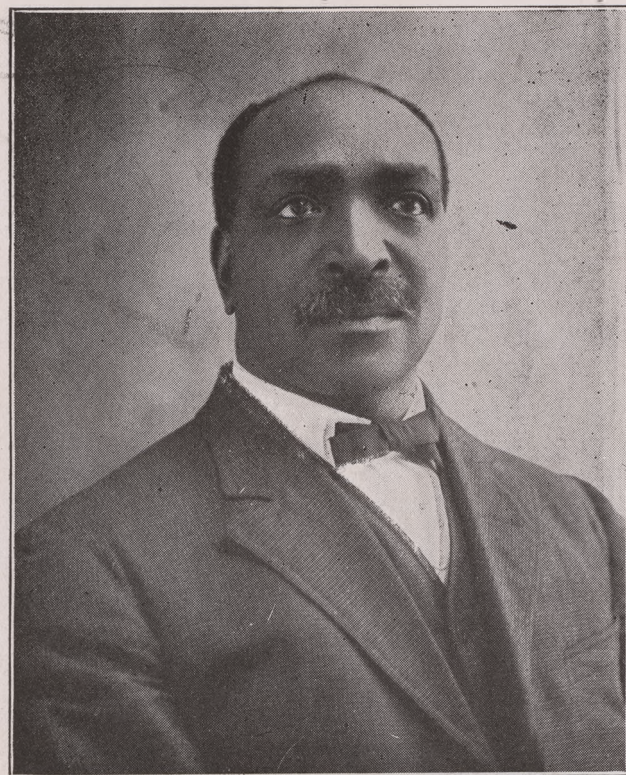

DR. J. A. FOSTER
Dean of the Medical Department

Dr. J. A. Foster, our dean in making his report states I have visited during my tour the following States: Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. I have been in contact with about eleven hundred of our graduates and have communicated with between four hundred and five hundred others making a total of about sixteen hundred graduates we have reached since our campaign commenced.

I found the general condition fine, also our graduates possess many the honor, fame and amenities which is a credit to their alma mater. The friends of their alma mater as a whole endorse the financial standing of our graduates and report their credit in Class 'A'. I found our graduates taking interest in the general uplift in their community and in every way doing what they can to better conditions.

Dr. Foster was very enthusiastic over the outlook of the field and predicted greater things in the future. The following men were helpful in helping to secure pledges for the Movement and rendered valuable service to the school: Dr. S. S. Carothers, Dr. N. A. Stewart, Dr. J. L. French, Bishop Scott and others.

DR. J. A. LESTER,
Dean of the Meharry Medical College.

Dr. J. A. Lester, our Dean in making his report states: "I have visited during my tour the following States: Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and a part of Illinois, securing in cash and subscriptions about $8,000. I came in contact with about eleven hundred of our graduates, and have communicated with between four hundred and five hundred others, making a total of about sixteen hundred graduates we have reached since our campaign commenced.

I found the general condition fine, also our graduates possess many fine homes, farms and automobiles which is a credit to their communities. The Bankers of their communities as a whole, endorse the financial standing of our graduates, and report their credit in Class "A." I found our graduates taking interest in the general uplift in their community and, in every way doing what they can to better conditions."

Dr. Lester was very enthusiastic over the outlook of the field, and predicted greater things in the future. The following men were fieldmen in helping to secure pledges for the Endowment, and rendered valuable service to the school: Dr. S. S. Caruthers, Dr. F. A. Stewart, Dr. J. L. Leach, Bishop Scott and others.

THE VOLUNTEER STATE MEDICAL, DENTAL, PHARMACEUTICAL AND NURSE TRAINING ASSOCIATION.

Realizing the importance of meeting at least once a year and discussing scientific questions pertaining to the allied profession, the men and women of the State of Tennessee have organized themselves in an Association for the purpose of keeping informed of the latest and most scientific methods in the healing art.

These meetings are held from place to place and there is no limit to the great amount of good the influence that these meetings has upon the local profession in whose community the meeting may happen to be held.

The 1919 meeting was without a doubt one of the best meetings in the history of the Association. It was well attended and everybody seemed well pleased with the program.

The following are the officers for 1920:

Dr. M. V. Humble, President; Dr. J. A. Lester, Secretary; Dr. J. H. Hale, Corresponding Secretary; Dr. T. A. Key, Treasurer.

THE TRI-STATE MEDICAL, DENTAL AND PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION, MEMPHIS, TENN.

Perhaps the largest and most well-attended Negro Medical Society in the United States is the Tri-State Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association, consisting of the professional men and women of Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi. This Association holds its annual meeting in April at Memphis, Tenn., in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple. If you desire a real treat, visit one annual session of the Tri-State Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association.

FRATERNITY.

All events in history have their causes. Likewise Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity came into existence for a reason and to fulfill a mission. Early one morning in January, 1911, a group of students at the University of Indiana, awoke to the realization that they were not getting the full rounded development that the college life should give. They finally decided after much thought and deliberation that a Greek letter fraternity was the lacking element in their collegiate activities.

Thus Kappa Alpha Psi had its beginning, and like all other social fraternities it developed from the very processes of life itself and was destined to perform a definite part in broadening the minds and awakening the souls of young Negro manhood. Today its influence and fundamental principles are not confined to Indiana alone, but are now being felt in all of the great colleges and universities of our country.

The deep underlying principles of Kappa Alpha Psi are to create within the man higher ideals and greater ambitions, aiming at all times to encourage higher education and a fraternal spirit of brotherly love. Thus with these principles ever in mind, strong Kappa men have been untiring in their efforts to be Fraternity men, not only in words, but in truth and action.

THE GEORGE W. HUBBARD HOSPITAL CLUB.

This club was organized in July, 1910, under Dr. Josie E. Wells, for the express purpose of assisting in whatever way possible the maintenance of the Hospital. Since its organization the club has raised about seven thousand dollars, and equipped a Hospital laundry located in the rear of the Hubbard Hospital. Each year the club conducts a linen shower where many useful articles are secured for the use of the Hospital. The club holds its meeting the first Monday of each month in their club room in the Hospital.

J. B. SINGLETON, D. D. S.,

With a record of twenty-seven years at the Meharry Dental College we doubt if there is any man that has done more to help build and maintain a high standard for the Meharry Dental College than Dr. Singleton. Beginning in its infancy, Dr. Singleton has been blessed to see the fruits of his labor. The present Freshman Dental Class numbers about one hundred sixty-one persons, and is without a doubt the largest single class of Dental students anywhere. Aside from his success as a Dental Surgeon, Dr. Singleton, as President of the People's Savings Bank and Trust Co., is without a peer when it comes to business.

With that characteristic smile and pleasantness that are typical of the Singletons, and that great heart that is purely public-spirited, will sustain for him a place in public life so long as memory is possible. Meharry needs more SINGLETONS.—Editor

ANDERSONS—THEIR GIFT TO MEHARRY—$10,000.

MRS. ANDERSON,
Texas.

Out of a desire to show their appreciation for what has been done for them, and to show their loyalty to their dear old Alma Mater, Dr. and Mrs. Anderson donated $10,000 to erect the Anderson Anatomical Hall. Thus fulfilling a great need at the college. Dr. and Mrs. Anderson insisted that this building be constructed of the best material available and that it be modern in every detail, believing as they do nothing is too good for Meharry. They have erected a monument for themselves that will stand for generations to come. This is just a beginning of what they are going to do. Fellow Alumni: What have you done?

DR. J. H. HOLMAN, B. S., M. D.,

Bacteriologist and Pathologist Meharry College.

Dr. J. H. Holman, with a record of more than twenty years at the Meharry Medical College, beginning at a time when the laboratories were merely paper, has struggled with his department until today his laboratory is in keeping with the best laboratories doing the same class of work. Each year from his savings Dr. Holman spends some time in one of the best Post Graduate Schools of the east, where the latest and best technique is taught.

Dr. W. S. Quinnland, who won the Rosenwald Scholarship to Harvard Medical School, to Specialize in Pathology was a student of Dr. Holman. The State Board reports show the men are well prepared when they meet the test. Yet, there is much more to be done, and if there is anyone wanting to do something for a worthy cause do something big for the Pathological and Bacteriological Laboratory at Meharry.

MRS. J. A. McMILLAN,
Assistant Manager.

The McMillan Hospital is the outgrowth of Cottage Hospital, which was opened on Cedar Street four years ago with only six beds. During these few years of existence, Cottage Hospital continued to grow until a more commodious building was needed.

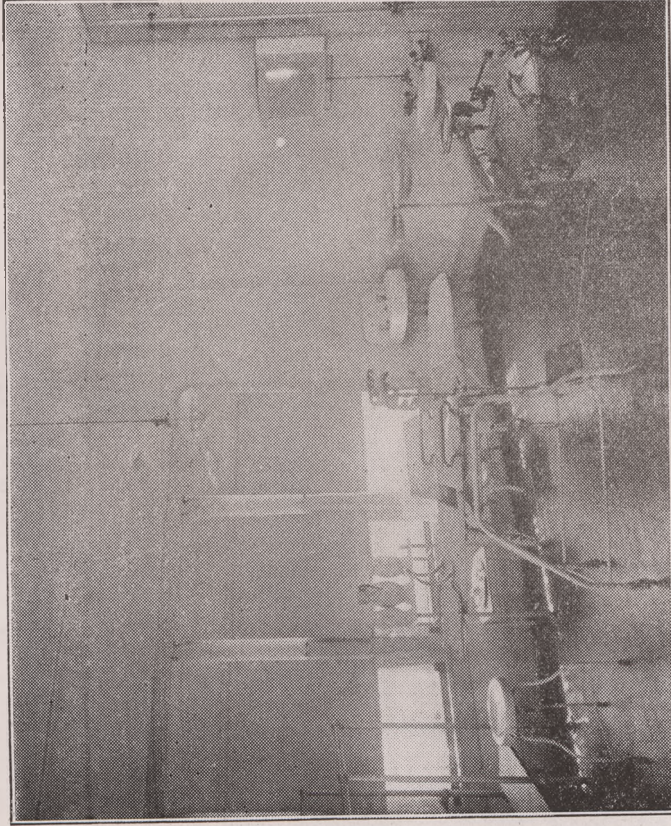

The New McMillan, 709 Cedar St.,
Tel. Main 2453.

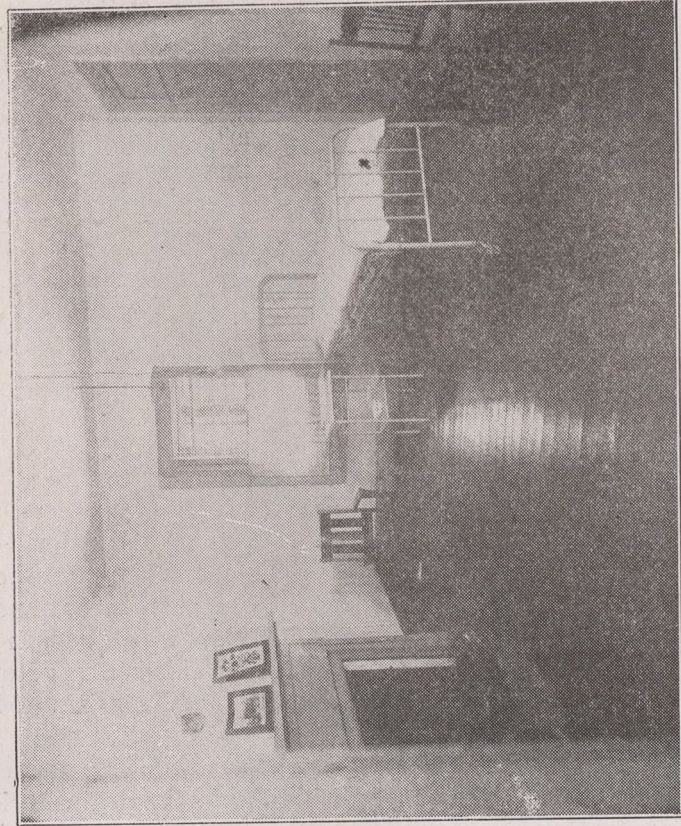

Residence of Dr. and Mrs. McMillan,
419 8th Ave., S., Tel. Main 2959
Nashville, Tennessee.

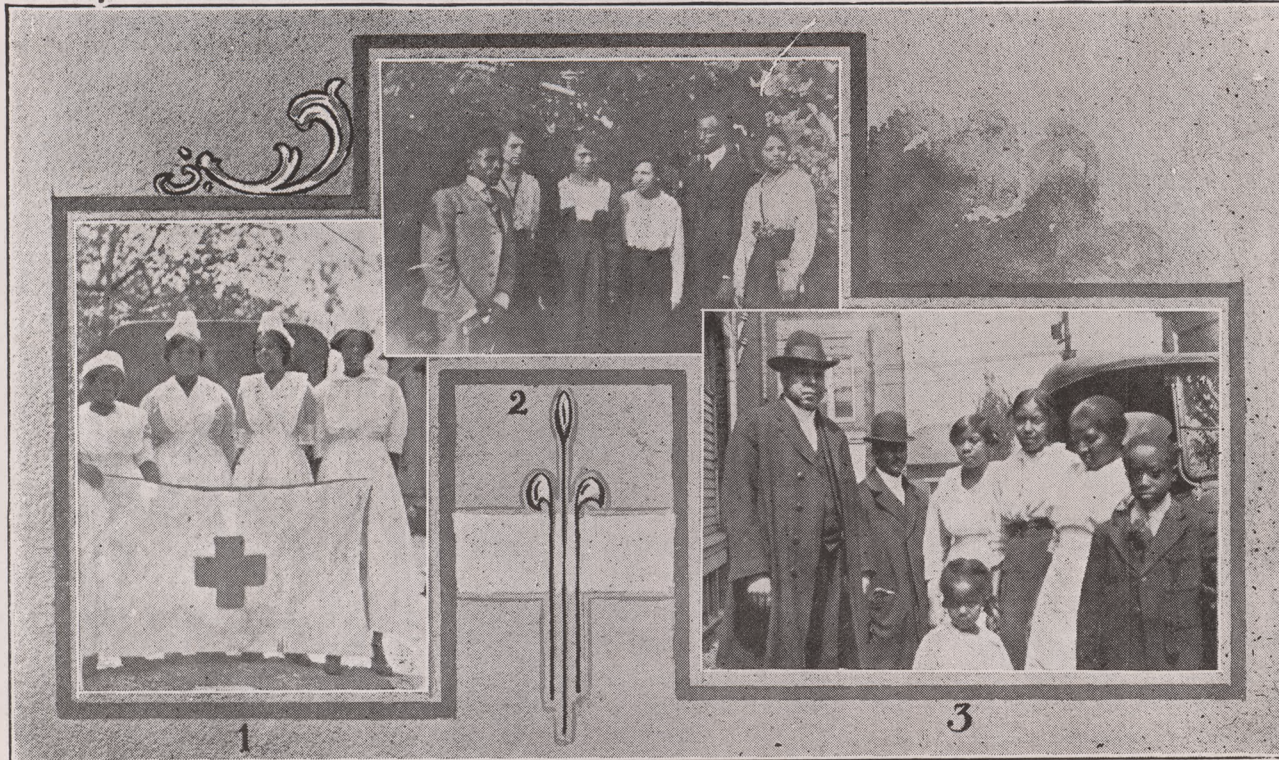

Some 700 major operations of many varieties, and some three hundred minor operations have been done at this little Cottage. To accommodate the pressing needs and demands of the citizens of Nashville, Dr. J. A. McMillan, in the month of May, purchased the "Elliott's Flat" on Cedar Street. This is a two story brick building located one block from the State Capitol, and consists of twenty-five rooms. This gives Dr. McMillan plenty of space for some forty beds, operating room, examining room, office, store room and room for nurses. The location is fine being on a hillside where the drainage is splendid. The hospital is sufficiently removed from the business part of the city to be free from its noises, and yet near enough to possess all of its advantages.

Dr. W. J. Ezell of Paris, Tenn., representing Class 1913. Dr. Ezell is among the foremost and thorough physicians of Henry County, Tenn., enjoying a large and lucrative practice. Believing as he does that the Negro doctors must become contributors to the healing art, he has for the last three years conducted a private and personal investigation along the line of impotence and it is hinted among those in position to know, when the doctor publishes his findings and investigation the writers along these lines will be glad to review the doctor's file.

Dr. Ezell hails from the state of North Carolina and in his profession has, and is, making good. At the outbreak of the world's war he was among the first to qualify as a First Lieutenant in the Medical Reserve Corps. Having fully equipped himself, he stood waiting the call of his Uncle Sam.

T. H. ELLIOTT, B. S., M. D.

Following the death of Prof. Patterson in 1906, Dr. T. H. Elliott was given charge of the Organic and Inorganic Chemistry at the Meharry Medical College. Physiological Chemistry was later added to the branch, and upon the death of Dr. W. E. Gray, that important branch—Medical Chemistry was assigned to him in connection with the other work.

The selection of Dr. Elliott to fill this important chair has been proven a wise and successful one in view of the reports from the several state boards where our students have appeared for examination, very seldom a failure is reported in Chemistry.

Each summer Dr. Elliott spends several weeks in one of the large Universities of the East in order to secure the latest and more scientific methods of instructing the student body in this important science. The doctor has recently acquired a beautiful and modern residence at 907 First Ave., S., Nashville, Tenn., where he and his family are comfortably living.

DR. A. M. TOWNSEND.

DR. A. M. TOWNSEND, A. B., M. D.,

MRS. WILLA TOWNSEND

is a graduate of Meharry Medical College of the Class of 1902. For eleven years Dr. Townsend successfully practiced medicine in Nashville and during that same time he was professor of Pathology and Materia Medica in Meharry.

In 1913 he gave up his lucrative practice of medicine, and the professorship in Meharry, and at a great sacrifice took the presidency of Roger Williams University, which was at that time in the period of her reconstruction, the buildings having been destroyed by fire in 1905.

By his untiring energy, zeal, push, mental acumen, and Christian bearing, he, as it has been said soon "put the University back into Roger," and today the rebuilt Roger Williams University stands as a monument to his constructive genius, and to the devotion of his wife Mrs. Willa A. Townsend, under whose successful management the Roger Williams University Singers toured the entire country and sang into undying fame that great institution.

To be relieved of the heavy strain upon him as president, and which overtaxed his physical constitution, Dr. Townsend resigned after five years of hard and sacrificial service, and is now the successful pastor of the largest and best organized church in the state—the Metropolitan Baptist Church of Memphis, Tenn.

Dr. Townsend owns valuable property both in Nashville and Memphis.

DR. ALONZO H. KENNIEBREW,
Founder and Surgeon-in-Chief of the New Home Sanitarium.

MAIN BUILDING—THE NEW HOME.

Sanitarium Inc. A private Surgical Hospital, Jacksonville, Illinois. Founded by Dr. A. H. Kenniebrew, April 12, 1909. - Beginning a small six room cottage, one nurse, three beds, an operating table, a few miscellaneous articles, love for hard work, a great determination and the wide future comprised the equipment. Today a large, modern, beautiful building of 33 rooms, two smaller buildings, two operating rooms, three laboratories well equipped, a staff of seven nurses, three surgeons and eight associate physicians and surgeons. The plant is representing a cash expenditure of more than $28,000.00.

SPECIALTY.

This institution is devoted entirely to Surgery and Obsteric Surgery and is unique in that it is the pioneer and only institution in the world owned and conducted by a race surgeon so devoted.

BROAD FIELD.

Patients have come so far from nineteen states and Canada, which shows the need of such institutions. Our latest report will go into details as to the work and results, which anyone may have for the asking.

DEPARTMENTS.

Laboratories—Nurse Training Schcol, Out Patients.

We speak with pardonable pride of the laboratory facilities, the X-Ray and Clinical diagnosis, afford unexcelled aid in diagnosis. The laboratory of Surgical Technique equipped with all necessary aid for surgical practice and anesthetized animals and for research work in Surgery.

Through this medium only is to be found the proper way to lay a surgical foundation.

A RESULT.

To date 2,757 operations and only 23 deaths. Races represented—Whites, 2,492; Negroes, 153; Mexicans, 1; Chinese, 4; Syrians, 2; Greeks, 5.

NURSE TRAINING SCHOOL

Is of high order and opened to graduates of high schools or equivalent. Special attention given to Surgical and Obstetrical nursing. While in the out patient's department and visiting work, the nurses receive a full general education.

DESIRED.

It is desired that only Internes and pupil nurses who wish to specialize in Surgery and Obstetrics, be given openings here from the files.

LIEUT. COL. OTIS B. DUNCAN.

My dear Dr. Kennel:-

Silence is broken, I am back in the dear old U. S. A. and I want to again thank and tell you how I appreciated what you did for me. When I was operated on at the base hospital at Fort Sam Houston during the Border Campaign by order of Col. Ireland now Surgeon Gen. U. S. A. it proved a failure. I went to the New Home Sanitarium and you operated on me.

I have never felt better in all my life. When the order came to go "over there," I was ready and went and did my part, the very best I could.

I see now why people come to you from all parts and I wish that I could tell the rest who need surgical attention, the New Home Sanitarium is the place and you and those nurses the rest. I can not say too much for you. Again I thank you, I am

Sincerely yours friend,

After four years successfully operating a drug store in East Nashville, Dr. Bright decided to enter into a larger field of service and completed a full course of medicine at Meharry Medical College in 1912. Since graduating he has been chosen Professor of Analytical Chemistry and Assistant Professor in Microscopy at the Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Bright has recently purchased a new home on Bass Street where he and his splendid wife are living happily together.

WM. SEVIER, M. D., Ph. G.

Professor of Pharmacy and Materia Medica.

We present the likeness of our own Dr. Wm. Sevier, who graduated in Pharmacy in the class of 1892 and in Medicine in the class of 1898. Immediately following his graduation in 1892, Dr. Sevier was elected a member of the Meharry faculty. Realizing the need for additional training, Dr. Sevier journeyed to Chicago and entered the Northwestern College of Pharmacy where he completed the full course of Pharmacy and he received his certificate of graduation.

Returning to Meharry Dr. Sevier was elected as Dean of the Pharmaceutical Department, which post he has held covering a period of nearly 27 years of honest and faithful service. During these 27 years, Dr. Sevier has taught the subjects of Urinalysis, Qualitative Analysis, Toxicology, Medical Chemistry and Materia Medica. Second to Dr. Hubbard no present member of the Meharry Faculty has done more for the success of the school than this true and tried son of Meharry. Now, that he is growing old in the services of the school, and having sacrificed a brilliant future for a cause he knew would succeed. It is the hope and desire of the 1917 Meharry Annual and Military Review that the new order of things will not forget Dr. Sevier and his co-workers that have labored for these years at Meharry.

CHARLES VICTOR ROMAN, A. M., M. D., LL. D.

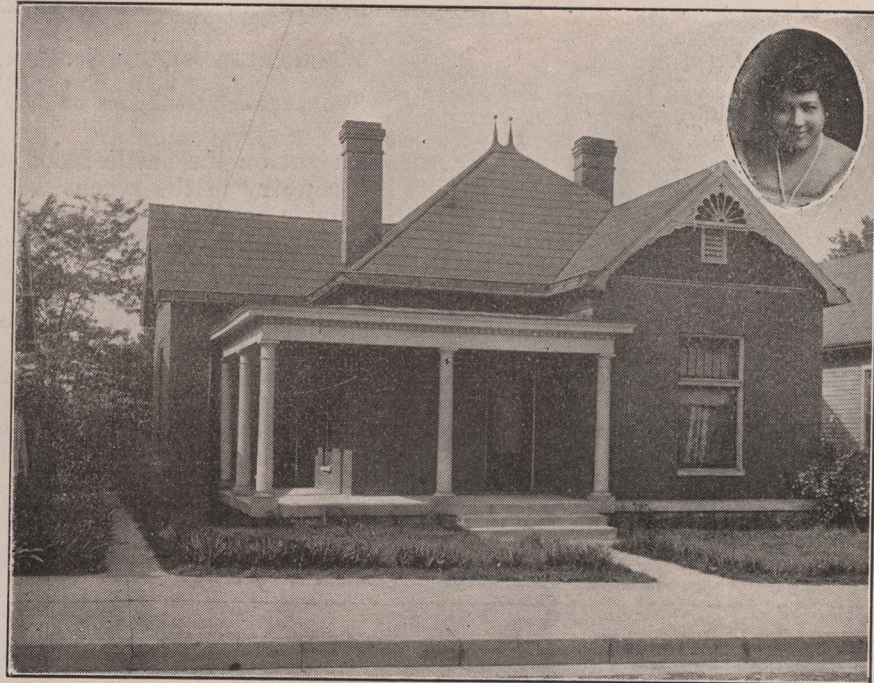

Professor of Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat.

Although not on the battle front with the host of Meharry men that served their country in the recent war with Germany, Dr. C. V. Roman rendered valuable service to his country, his race and school, by serving as Special Assistant to the Surgeon General's Office, U. S. A., delivering lectures to the soldier boys in the several camps of the United States and in most of the large cities to the civilian population. Not less than one-fourth of a million men received the benefits from Dr. Roman's service; and special letters and official papers from the Surgeon General's office testify to the fact that his services were indispensable and highly satisfactory. Anything to the contrary would not be like Dr. Roman. Meharry, if asked, like the Roman Matron to display her jewels, could point with equal maternal pride to many illustrious sons and daughters. It is not her least occasion for boasting that she gave birth to CHARLES VICTOR ROMAN.

G. M. KENDRICK, M. D.

Among the first colored Physicians appointed to examine the colored draftees of Nashville, was Dr. G. M. Kendrick, and it is reported he examined more than one thousand men most of whom were accepted and passed the final test at their receiving station, many of whom were received, re-examined by Lieut. J. L. Leach, then the examining surgeon at Camp Funston, Kansas.

Among the younger men in Nashville, Dr. Kendrick ranks high and the fact he has already successfully performed several major abdominal operations at the Hubbard Hospital during the month of November and December, and the patients all made an uneventful recovery, justifies the assertion that Dr. Kendrick is Nashville's coming surgeon. THE MEHARRY ANNUAL predicts a brilliant future for the doctor as he is a willing and tireless worker.

B. H. BALL, A. B., M. D.

After a brilliant career as a teacher of Mathematics, first in Philander Smith College, Little Rock, Ark., and next in Geo. R. Smith College, Sedalia, Mo.. Prof. Ball was elected to the chair of Mathematics in Walden University, Nashville, Tenn., in fall of 1911.

Quickly embracing the opportunity thus afforded him for further improving himself, he took up the study of Medicine, completing the course in 1915. After graduating Dr. Ball took up the practice of Medicine in Nashville, Tenn., in the fall of 1915 and during same year was appointed as special assistant in the Physiological Laboratory in Meharry Medical College. In fall of 1916, he was appointed to the chair of Pediatrics in Meharry Medical College, which position he has held with credit since. Dr. Ball has a large and growing practice in Nashville. He is regarded as an excellent teacher, keeping himself thoroughly posted. He is a careful physician and enjoys the full confidence of all his business and professional associates.

DR. MILTON V. UMBLE,
OAKLAND, TENN.

The subject of this sketch was born at Bon Aqua, Hickman County, Tennessee, and received his early education at Columbia, Dickson and Nashville, Tenn., including Walden University, the oldest of the Freedman Aid schools. Entering Meharry in 1906, he graduated with honor in 1910. Entering immediately upon the practice of Medicine at Oakland, Tenn., he has built a practice that now ranks him with the leading practitioners of the State. Since graduating the doctor has done post graduate and special work at Meharry, University of Illinois, St. Augustana Hospital, Chicago, Mayo Brothers Clinic, St. Rochester, Minn. Each year the doctor spends some time at some of the leading hospitals and clinics of the country, thus, improving his already well balanced knowledge of his profession.

The doctor was happily married to a Miss H. G. Yeizer, a teacher in the City Schools of Louisville, Ky., who enjoyed the distinction of being one of the most talented, refined and popular young women of her community. Dr. and Mrs. Umble are very comfortably located at Oakland, Tenn., where they both enjoy many true friends.

OUR CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF TENNESSEE.

GOV. A. H. ROBERTS,

CHAMPION OF LAW & ORDER

A 100% AMERICAN.

He writes the Editor:

We stand at the dawn of a new day for the south, for America, and for the world. We of the south of both races are striving to attain to that degree of liberty, justice, civilization and Christianity which was the high ideal of all the boys of both races in their heroic service in the "World War."

Justice and education are our watchwords. Justice to every man, without respect to race or creed, with security to life, liberty and property. Not only must the masses be given a practical education, but both races must have an educated leadership. The Golden Rule is finding its proper place in the lives and laws of the people of the south.

Cordially yours,

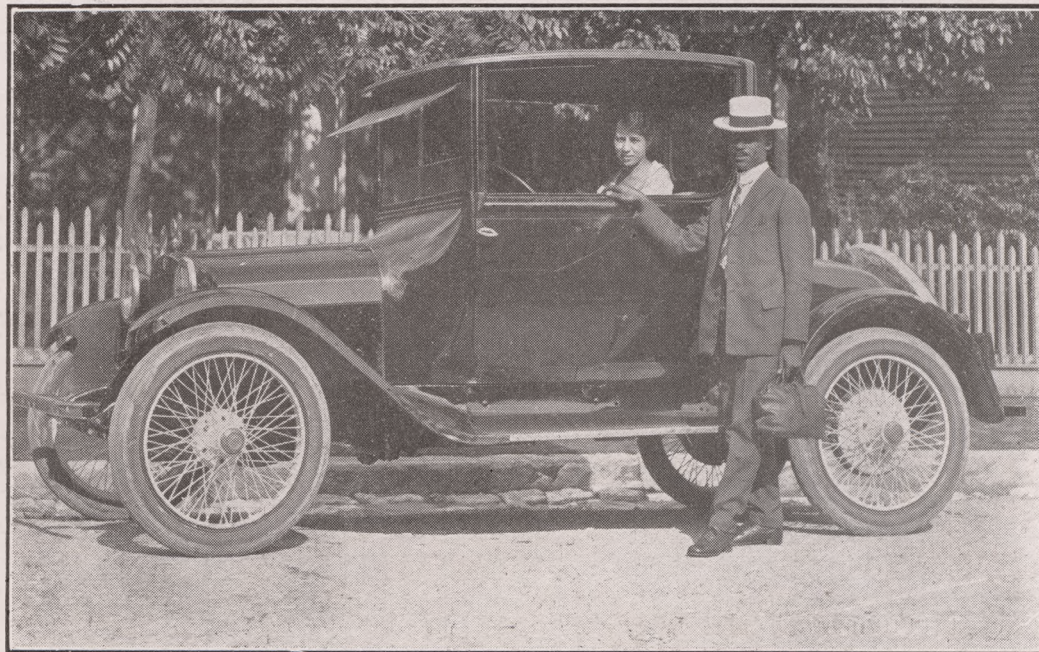

A. H. ROBERTS, GOVERNOR.

WALDEN UNIVERSITY

Walden University, the successor to Central Tennessee College, was erected and established by the Methodist Episcopal Church aided by the various Christian churches. The work was begun in 1865 in a building which formerly belonged to the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and since operated under the Methodist Episcopal Church by a congregation of colored people, as Clark Memorial.

In 1866 the Local Board of Trustees was organized with Governor G. W. Brownlow as one of the chartered members, and the Legislature of the State granted a charter for the incorporation of the school.

Dr. John Braden was appointed as the third white man to serve the colored membership of Clark Memorial and the third principal of the school. In 1867 he was appointed by the Trustees as the first President of Central Tennessee College.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church gave the money for the purchase of the site on Maple Street, and the Freedman's Bureau furnished the money to erect two large brick buildings, capable of accommodating 200 students. In 1873 a troupe of singers trained under the direction of Miss Braden, the President's daughter, and known as "The Tennesseans" raised enough money to build a four-story building for administration purposes. After thirty years of service to a grateful people this building was destroyed by fire. This fire in 1903 seems to be the beginning of many reverses in the history of the school.

Dr. Braden, the first President, served this people for more than thirty years and died and was buried among the people for whom he had given his life.

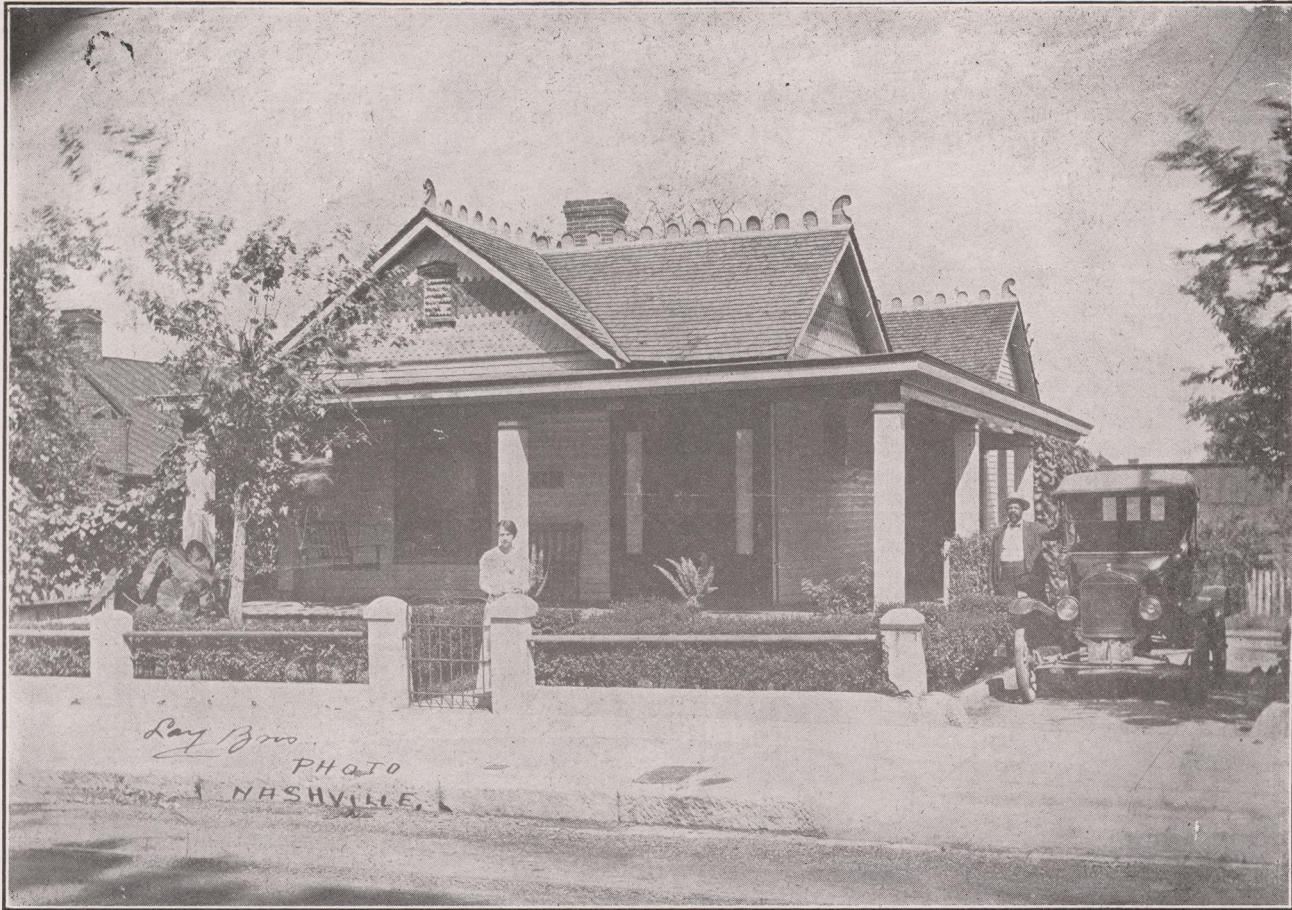

In 1918, just twenty years after the death of Dr. Braden, the Freedman's Aid Society withdrew its annual appropriation, which at the time amounted to a little over $6,000. This act, it was thought, would close the school. But the history of the colored people of Nashville and Tennessee was so much a part of the history of the school, that regardless of denominations and even races, the people of this section petitioned the Local Board of Trust to permit the colored people to carry the school on. In pursuance with this permission, the Tennessee Conference elected a Board of Managers for Walden University, and the oldest school under the direction of the Methodist Episcopal Church is now being carried on by the colored people themselves.

THE NEW WALDEN.

The accompanying picture represents the student body, faculty, and board of managers of Walden University before the close of the third month of its first year under the control of the Tennessee Conference.

This is the first instance of its kind in the history of the Methodist Episcopal Church that the colored people have had an opportunity to operate a school entirely upon their own resources. That they have made good is attested by the fact that in three months the enrollment is 182 pupils under the direction of ten prepared teachers, backed up by the sympathy and small means of its patrons.

Such heroic effort at self-help must challenge the admiration of the world.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF ROGER WILLIAMS

The Nashville Normal and Theological Institute was founded in 1866 by the late Rev. Daniel W. Phillips, D. D., a Welshman by birth and a New Englander by adoption, under the auspices of the American Baptist Home Mission Society of New York. So thoroughly and satisfactorily did it meet the rapidly increasing intellectual and spiritual needs of the freedman and their children, it became necessary to enlarge its field of activity. Accordingly, in the year 1883 the Institution was chartered under the laws of the State of Tennessee and the name changed to Roger Williams University.

The University, with its enlarged capacity, continued to render acceptable service until 1905, when disastrous fires completely destroyed its principal buildings and forced it to retire, temporarily, from the field of active operation. In the meantime the remaining buildings and campus were sold and the American Baptist Home Mission Society transferred the responsibility of its re-establishment to a directorate of the Negro Baptist Missionary and Educational Convention of the State of Tennessee. In July of 1907 a five thousand dollar campus fund was raised by the efforts of this directorate, alumni and others, together with an equal sum donated by the American Baptist Home Mission Society, constitute the initial step in the re-establishment of Roger Williams University.

From time to time buildings have been erected and improvements made, until the University is now able to fill, not simply its former place of influence and usefulness among the sisterhood of similar institutions of learning, but is able to serve all who come under its influence in a larger and fuller capacity.

DR. W. T. VERNON, D. D., Pastor of Avery Chapel

Dr. W. T. Vernon, the pastor of Avery Chapel, scholar and statesman, a leader of his race and one of Memphis' distinguished citizens. Dr. Vernon is a real missionary in character, full orbed, acquainted with every section of the country, trained and experienced. He has served as University President, Registrar of the Treasury of the United States, and now is the pastor of Avery Chapel, one of the largest churches of his denomination, Memphis, Tenn. His reputation as an orator, writer and race leader is not excelled in any part of the country.--The Memphis Times.

Group of classes four and five, all of whom have passed their respective state boards of Examiners.

J. L. Leach, A. B., M. D., President of the Nashville, College of Embalming.

Professor Post Mortem Pathology, Meharry Medical College, Secretary and Treasurer Vol. State Funeral Directors and Embalmers' Association.

The Nashville College of Embalming had its beginning as the Southern Department of the Cincinnati College of Embalming, the largest Embalming College of its kind in the world.

Since the establishment of this institution in Nashville in 1911, there have been 101 graduates all of whom have passed their respective State Boards of Embalmers, with three exceptions, and are now engaged in their profession.

As time goes on the requirement and tuition will continue to advance. Three years ago we had the three and five weeks' course for $50.00. Today we are giving only the 10 and 12 weeks' course and the tuition for these courses will be $65.00. Official Text Books will be $7.50 extra. There are no other expenses except the photograph for the class group, which under the new rule is compulsory, this is merely one dollar, $1.00.

EXPENSES

Tuition full course 12 weeks.....	$65.00
Official Text Books (two books)...	7.50
One Picture for class group .....	1.00

Total expenses for class schooling. $73.50

We have complete charge of the preservation of all of the anatomical material of the Vanderbilt and the Meharry Medical Colleges, thus giving us an abundance of material for our work.

Our courses are continuous. Come any time.

IS A PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION YOUR OBJECT? IF SO,

The selection of the institution you are to attend is a vital matter. A wrong start means failure. On the extent of your knowledge depends your success. It is, therefore, to your advantage to know that

“BUVA” SCALP SPECIALIST COLLEGE

Is the first Scalp Specialist College among the race in this country, and teaches how to treat and cure all scalp diseases. It is the strongest and most scientific institution of its kind in the world.

Its courses are outlined by “Specialists” and approved by thousands of leading physicians. This means that its rank as a scalp specialist institution is class “A”

The graduates of this college hold the best positions, make more money, and rank higher than those of any other college known to the race.

Buva preparations have been the world’s standard for almost a CENTURY.

A special preparation for each course. Made in their own laboratories.

“More than one hundred and fifty preparations now on the market,” being used by nearly one million satisfied customers. AGENTS NOW IN EVERY STATE.

Boys Remember your Promise for 1920---to Coms Back

DR. J. T. WILSON AND THE BOYS OF '14.

A pioneer in the field of Surgery. Dr. Wilson has done more to develop young race surgeons than any other man now in the field. He is now located in Memphis, Tenn., where he enjoys a large surgical practice, and as head of one of the largest surgical institutions in the south, he is rendering a service to humanity and the race that will place him safely among the ranking surgeons of his time.

The boys of the class of 1914 plan a reunion in 1920. May I greet you fellow class mates at MEHARRY in 1920?

Nine years of perfect satisfaction to the general public is what Dr. J. B. Martin has done at the South Memphis Drug Store. Dr. Martin is one of the four Martin brothers, who have made good. With an eye single to business he has made a host of friends. Eight members of our race are employed by Dr. Martin. Dr. E. J. Miller is the pharmacist; Miss Willett Downs is the cashier and has charge of the U. S. Post Office Station No. 3, assisted by Miss Sallie W. Cooke. James S. Weems is an assistant. Two automobiles are needed for delivery service.

IN MEMORIAM

THE LATE DR. HENRY MORGAN,

President of the Board of Trustees of Meharry Medical College.

Before closing our book, we have the sad intelligence of the death of Dr. Henry Morgan, the beloved President of our Trustee Board. He was faithful and true to the cause of Meharry and "Like an ear of corn fully ripe," he has been gathered to his Father with honor clustered about him. In full possession of an unclouded intellect and all the consolation of Christianity, he has met the fate which is inevitable.

BEFORE

MESS HALL GENERAL ORDERS—MEHARRY S. A. T. C.

1. To take charge of all spuds and gravy in view.
2. To watch my plate in a military manner, keeping always on the alert for any sausage that comes within my sight, smell and hearing.
3. To report to the mess-sergeant any bread sliced too thin.
4. To repeat all calls for seconds.
5. To quit the table only when satisfied there is nothing left.
6. To receive, but not pass on to the man next to me any cabbage, beans, or prunes left by non-com.
7. To talk to no one who eats onions.
8. In case of fire in mess hall to grab all catables left by others in their rush to escape.
9. To allow no one to steal anything in the line of grub.
10. In any case not covered by instructions to call the mess-sergeant.
11. To salute all chicken, pork chops, ham and eggs.
12. To be especially watchful at the table, and during the time of eating, to allow no one to get more prunes than myself.

AFTER.

MESS HALL GENERAL ORDERS—MEHARRY S. A. T. C.

1. To accept my discharge and take all Government property in view and beat it for home.
2. To accept my discharge in a military manner, keeping always on the alert and see that it is not revoked before I get out of sight and hearing.
3. To take the fastest train and not stop at any military post en route.
4. To repeat all things which I wrote but which the censor cut out of my letters to the folks at home.
5. To receive, believe and pass on to my children, all the knowledge that I have or may acquire in future years regarding statements made by General Sherman relative to his idea of war.
6. To never quit my civilian life after having been relieved from service.
7. To talk to no one about re-enlisting.
8. In case of the presence of the recruiting officer, to give the alarm.
9. When the girls are at home, to allow no military persons or soldiers on or near my premises.
10. In any case not covered by instructions to claim exemption.
11. To salute all officers who aid me in getting my discharge and to salute all Lemmon not in the hands of the mess sergeant.
12. To prepare at night and during the hours for challenging, to challenge all persons and allow no one to pass without first advancing them to recognize my service stripes.

By command of General Affidavit,
ADJUTATING DEMOBILIZER.

HE HAD MUSICAL PAINS.

A private answered sick call the other day and complained of "pains in the head."

The surgeon asked, "What kind of pains?"

"Musical pains, sir."

The surgeon asked how they sounded.

"Like 'Home Sweet Home,' sir."

THEY CERTAINLY DID!

George Washington Johnson was rather an obstreperous patient in an English Hospital.

"I don't know why it is," complained the exasperated nurse, "but you colored men give us more trouble than all the rest put together."

"Yassam," the patient agreed, "dat's jes' what de Germans is a-sayin' about us."

THE ONE HE COULD SPARE.

"Halt," said the sentry. "Who comes there?"

"An officer and his daughter."

The sentry closely scrutinized both.

"Officer, proceed. Daughter, mark time."

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON GIVES HIS VIEWS

---

HOW TO CUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

The following extracts from our President's message show the need of studied economy in the use of Foodstuffs on the part of each individual. . .

UNPARDONABLE FAULT

that everyone who creates or cultivates a garden helps, and helps greatly, to solve the problem of feeding the nations; and that every housewife who practices strict economy puts herself in the ranks of those who serve the nation. This is the time for America to correct her unpardonable fault of wastefulness and extravagance. Let every man and every woman assume the duty of careful, provident use and expenditure as a public duty as a dictate of patriotism which no one can now expect ever to be excused or forgiven for ignoring.

TO THE MIDDLEMEN

"This, let me say to the middlemen of every sort, whether they are handling our foodstuffs or our raw material of manufacture or the products of our mills and factories. The eyes of the country will be especially upon you. This is your opportunity for signal service, efficient and disinterested. The country expects you as it expects all others, to forego unusual profits, to organize and expedite shipments of every kind, but especially of food, with an eye to the service you are rendering and in the spirit of those who enlist in the ranks, for their people and not for themselves. I shall confidently expect you to deserve and win the confidence of people of every sort and nation."

In thorough accord with our President's suggestion, and knowing that the greatest good can be done our fellow countrymen by complying with same, we enter heartily into the patriotic spirit of his appeal and will conscientiously do our "bit" by procuring the highest quality foods and selling at the lowest margin of profit.

J. T. EBERHARDT.

No longer can we complain of not having a first class gent's furnishing store. Strictly modern in every capacity. Prices and articles to suit everybody. Especially stocked for those who care. Don't buy elsewhere until you have seen EBERHARDT.

Eberhardt and Co.
Haberdasher Shop, 403 Cedar St., Nashville, Tenn.

APPRECIATION.

We take this occasion to express our gratitude to Mrs. M. C. Chavis, Miss Minnie Starnes and Mrs. Frances R. Leach, my dear wife, for their excellent work, to Mr. J. J. Lay and Mr. Geo. H. Anderson, photographers, to the Capitol Engravers, to Mr. J. Blaine Boyd, of the National Baptist Publishing Board, and to the Nashville Clearing House for their gift of two hundred and fifty dollars, and to the host of other individuals without whose co-operation this volume would have been a failure. We also wish to acknowledge our indebtedness to the advertisers whose advertisements and names appear in the following pages of this book, and to Dr. George W. Hubbard, whose interest in its success has never been lacking.—The Compiler.

We also wish to express our gratitude and appreciation to the following business firms and individuals for their liberal cash donations, without whose help we could not have abridged the ever-increasing high cost of paper, material and labor.
